the creator of Israel, your king.

Miracles of the new Exodus

16 Thus says Yahweh,
who made a way through the sea,
a path in the great waters;
17 who put chariots and horse in the field
and a powerful army,
which lay there never to rise again,
snuffed out, put out like a wick:
18 No need to recall the past,
no need to think about what was done before.
19 See, I am doing a new deed,
even now it comes to light; can you not see it?
Yes, I am making a road in the wilderness,
paths in the wilds.
20 The wild beasts will honour me,
jackals and ostriches,
because I am putting water in the wilderness (rivers in the wild)

to give my chosen people drink.
 The people I have formed for myself
 will sing my praises. 21

The ingratitude of Israel

Jacob, you have not invoked me, 22
 you have not troubled yourself, Israel, on my behalf.
 You have not brought me your sheep for holocausts, 23
 nor honoured me with sacrifices.
 I have never burdened you with oblations,
 nor troubled you for incense.
 You have spent no money on fragrant cane for me, 24
 you have not filled me with the fat of your sacrifices.
 Instead you have burdened me with your sins, troubled me with your iniquities.
 I it is, I it is, who must blot out everything 25
 and not remember your sins.

 Cast your mind back, let us judge this together; 26
 state your own case and prove your innocence.
 Your first father<sup>a</sup> sinned, 27
 your mediators have rebelled against me.
 Your princes have profaned my sanctuary. 28
 So I have handed Jacob over to the ban,
 and Israel to insults.

The blessing for Israel

But now listen, Jacob my servant, 1
 Israel whom I have chosen. 2
 Thus says Yahweh who made you,
 who formed you from the womb, who is your help:
 Do not be afraid, Jacob my servant,
 Jeshurun whom I have chosen.

 For I will pour out water on the thirsty soil, 3 streams on the dry ground.
 I will pour my spirit on your descendants,
 my blessing on your children.
 They shall grow like grass where there is plenty of water, 4 like poplars by running streams.

 One man will say, 'I belong to Yahweh', 5
 another will call himself by Jacob's name.
 On his hand another will write 'Yahweh'
 and be surnamed 'Israel'.

Monotheism without compromise

Thus says Israel's king 6
 and his redeemer, Yahweh Sabaoth:
 I am the first and the last;
 there is no other God besides me.
 Who is like me? Let him stand up and speak, 7
 let him show himself and argue it out before me.
 Who from the very beginning foretold the future?
 Let them tell us what is yet to come.
 Have no fear, do not be afraid: 8
 have I not told you and revealed it long ago?

You are my witnesses, is there any other God besides me?
There is no Rock; I know of none.

A satire on idolatry

- 9 They are all makers of idols; they are nothing and the works they prize are useless. Their servants see nothing, they understand nothing, and so they will 10 be put to shame. •Who ever fashioned a god or cast an image without hope of 11 gain? •Watch how its devotees will be put to shame, how its sculptors will blush. Let them all come together, let them appear in court. They will be both terrified and ashamed.
- 12 The blacksmith works on it over the fire and beats it into shape with a hammer.
He works on it with his strong arm till he is hungry and tired; drinking no water,
he is exhausted.
- 13 The wood carver takes his measurements, outlines the image with chalk, carves it with chisels, following the outline with dividers. He shapes it to human 14 proportions, and gives it a human face, for it to live in a temple. •He cut down a cedar, or else took a cypress or an oak which he selected from the trees in the 15 forest, or maybe he planted a cedar and the rain made it grow. •For the common man it is so much fuel; he uses it to warm himself, he also burns it to bake his bread. But this fellow makes a god of it and worships it; he makes an idol of it 16 and bows down before it. •Half of it he burns in the fire, on the live embers he roasts meat, eats it and is replete. He warms himself too. 'Ah!' says he 'I am 17 warm; I have a fire here!' •With the rest he makes his god, his idol; he bows down before it and worships it and prays to it. 'Save me,' he says 'because you are my god.'
- 18 They know nothing, understand nothing. Their eyes are shut to all seeing, 19 their heart to all reason. •They never think, they lack the knowledge and wit to say, 'I burned half of it on the fire, I baked bread on the live embers, I roasted meat and ate it, and am I to make some abomination of what remains? Am I to bow down before a block of wood?'
- 20 A man who hankers after ashes has a deluded heart and is led astray. He will never free his soul, or say, 'What I have in my hand is nothing but a lie!'

Oracle

- 21 Remember these things, Jacob,
and that you are my servant, Israel.
I have formed you, you are my servant;
Israel, I will not forget you.
- 22 I have dispelled your faults like a cloud,
your sins like a mist.
Come back to me, for I have redeemed you.

Song of joy

- 23 Shout for joy, you heavens, for Yahweh has been at work!
Shout aloud, you earth below!
Shout for joy, you mountains,
and you, forest and all your trees!
For Yahweh has redeemed Jacob and displayed his glory in Israel.

The might of Yahweh

- 24 Thus says Yahweh, your redeemer,
he who formed you in the womb:
I, myself, Yahweh, made all things,

I alone spread out the heavens.
When I gave the earth shape, did anyone help me?

I am he who foils the omens of wizards 25
and makes fools of diviners, who makes sages recant
and shows the nonsense of their knowledge, who confirms the word of my servant 26
and makes the plans of my envoys succeed.

I am he who says of Jerusalem, 'Let her be inhabited',
of the towns of Judah, 'Let them be rebuilt',
and I will raise their ruins once more.
I am he who says to the ocean, 'Be dry. 27
I will dry up your rivers.'

I am he who says of Cyrus, 'My shepherd— 28
he will fulfil my whole purpose, saying of Jerusalem, "Let her be rebuilt",
and of the Temple, "Let your foundation be laid" '.

Oracle in favour of Cyrus

Thus says Yahweh to his anointed, to Cyrus, 1
whom he has taken by his right hand to subdue nations before him and strip the loins of kings,<sup>a</sup>
to force gateways before him that their gates be closed no more:

I will go before you 2
levelling the heights.

I will shatter the bronze gateways,
smash the iron bars.

I will give you the hidden treasures, 3
the secret hoards,
that you may know that I am Yahweh,
the God of Israel, who calls you by your name.

It is for the sake of my servant Jacob, 4
of Israel my chosen one,
that I have called you by your name,
conferring a title though you do not know me.

I am Yahweh, unrivalled; 5
there is no other God besides me.

Though you do not know me, I am you 6 that men may know from the rising to the setting of the sun that, apart from me, all is nothing.

Oracle of salvation

I am Yahweh, unrivalled,
I form the light and create the dark. 7
I make good fortune and create calamity,
it is I, Yahweh, who do all this.

Send victory like a dew, you heavens, 8
and let the clouds rain it down.

Let the earth open
for salvation to spring up.
Let deliverance, too, bud forth which I, Yahweh, shall create.

The supreme power of Yahweh

- 9 Can it argue with the man who fashioned it,
 one vessel among earthen vessels?
 Does the clay say to its fashioner, 'What are you making?',
 does the thing he shaped say, 'You have no skill'?
- 10 Woe to him who says to a father, 'What have you begotten?'
 or to a woman, 'To what have you given birth?'
- 11 Thus says Yahweh,
 the Holy One, he who fashions Israel:
 Is it for you to question me about my children
 and to dictate to me what my hands should do?
- 12 I it was who made the earth,
 and created man who is on it.
 I it was who spread out the heavens with my hands
 and now give orders to their whole array.
- 13 I it was who roused him to victory,
 I levelled the way for him.
 He will rebuild my city,
 will bring my exiles back without ransom or indemnity,
 so says Yahweh Sabaoth.

The heathen will rally to Yahweh

- 14 Thus says Yahweh:
 The peasants of Egypt and the traders of Cush,
 and the tall men of Seba,
 will submit to you and be yours;
 they will follow you in chains.
 They will bow down before you,
 they will pray to you:
 'With you alone is God, and he has no rival;
 there is no other god'.
- 15 Truly, God is hidden with you,
 the God of Israel, the saviour.
- 16 Those who opposed you will be disgraced and humiliated;
 the makers of idols will go away confounded.
- 17 Israel will be saved by Yahweh, saved everlastingly.
 You will never be disgraced or humiliated
 for ever and ever.

Evidence of the work of Yahweh

- 18 Yes, thus says Yahweh,
 creator of the heavens,
 who is God,
 who formed the earth and made it,
 who set it firm,
 created it no chaos,
 but a place to be lived in:
- 19 'I am Yahweh, unrivalled,
 I have not spoken in secret
 in some corner of a darkened land.
 I have not said to Jacob's descendants,

45 a. i.e. leaving them no weapons in their belts.

"Seek me in chaos".
I, Yahweh, speak with directness
I express myself with clarity.'

Yahweh is the God of all

Assemble, come, gather together, 20
survivors of the nations.
They are ignorant, those who carry about their idol of wood,
those who pray to a god
that cannot save.
Speak up, present your case, 21
consult with each other.
'Who foretold this
and revealed it in the past?
Am I not Yahweh?
There is no other god besides me,
a God of integrity and a saviour;
there is none apart from me.
Turn to me and be saved, 22
all the ends of the earth,
for I am God unrivalled.

'By my own self I swear it; 23
what comes from my mouth is truth,
a word irrevocable:
before me every knee shall bend,
by me every tongue shall swear,
saying, "From Yahweh alone 24
come victory and strength".
To him shall come, ashamed,
all who raged against him.
Victorious and glorious through Yahweh shall be 25
all the descendants of Israel.'

The fall of Bel

Bel is crouching. Nebo cringing.<sup>4</sup> 1
Their idols are being loaded on animals, on beasts of burden, carried off like bundles on weary beasts.
They are cringing and crouching together, 2
powerless to save the ones who carry them,
as they themselves go off into captivity.

'Listen to me, House of Jacob, 3
all you who remain of the House of Israel,
you who have been carried since birth,
whom I have carried since the time you were born.

'In your old age I shall be still the same, 4
when your hair is grey I shall still support you.
I have already done so, I have carried you,
I shall still support and deliver you.'

Yahweh is without equal

To whom can you compare me, equate me, 5
to whom claim I am similar, or comparable?
These prodigals weigh out gold from their purses 6
and silver on the scales.

They engage a goldsmith to make a god
 then worship and prostrate themselves before it.
 7 They lift it on their shoulders and carry it,
 and put it where it is meant to stand.
 It never moves from the spot.
 You may invoke it, it never replies,
 It never saves anyone in trouble.

Yahweh is lord of the future

8 Remember this and be dismayed,
 stir your memories again, you sinners,
 9 remember things long past.
 I am God unrivalled
 God who has no like.
 10 From the beginning I foretold the future,
 and predicted beforehand what is to be.
 I say: My purpose shall last;
 I will do whatever I choose.
 11 I call a bird of prey from the east,
 my man of destiny from a far country.
 No sooner is it said than done,
 no sooner planned than performed.
 12 Listen to me, faint hearts,
 who feel far from victory.
 13 I bring my victory near, already it is close,
 my salvation will not be late.
 I will give salvation to Zion,
 my glory shall be for Israel.

Lament for Babylon

1 47 Down with you! Sit in the dust, virgin, daughter of Babylon.
 Sit on the ground, dethroned,
 daughter of the Chaldaeans.
 Never again will you be called tender and delicate.
 2 Take the millstones, grind the meal.
 Remove your veil,
 tie up your skirt, uncover your legs.
 Wade through rivers.
 3 Let your nakedness be seen,
 and your shame exposed.
 I am going to take vengeance
 and no one can stop me.
 4 Our redeemer, Yahweh Sabaoth his name,
 the Holy One of Israel, says:
 5 Sit in silence and creep into shadows,
 daughter of the Chaldaeans,
 for you will no longer be called sovereign lady of the kingdoms.
 6 I was angry with my people,
 I had profaned my heritage.
 I had surrendered it into your hands,

46 a. Gods of the Babylonians, defeated by Cyrus.

- but you showed them no mercy.
 On the aged you laid
 your crushing yoke.
 You said, 'For ever
 I shall be sovereign lady'.
 You never took these things to heart or pondered on their outcome. 7
- So listen now, voluptuous woman,
 lolling at ease
 and saying to yourself,
 'I, and none besides me.
 I shall never be widowed,
 never know loss of children.'
 Yet both these things shall happen to you both suddenly and on the same day. 9
 Loss of children, widowhood, at once
 will come to you;
 in spite of all your witchcraft
 and the power of all your spells.
- You were bold in your wickedness and said,
 'There is no one to see me'.
 That wisdom and knowledge of yours led you astray.
 You said to yourself,
 'I, and none besides me'.
 A calamity shall fall on you
 which you will not be able to charm away,
 a disaster shall overtake you
 which you will not be able to avert, unforeseen ruin
 will suddenly descend on you. 10
- Keep to your spells then,
 and all your sorceries,
 for which you have worn yourself out since your youth.
 Do you think they will help you?
 Do you think they will make anyone nervous?
 You have spent weary hours with your many advisers. 13
 Let them come forward now
 and save you, these who analyse the heavens, who study the stars
 and announce month by month
 what will happen to you next.
- Oh, they will be like wisps of straw and the fire will burn them. 14
 They will not save their lives
 from the power of the flame.
 No embers these, for baking,
 no fireside to sit by.
 This is what your wizards will be for you,
 those men for whom you have worn yourself out since your youth. 15
 They will all go off, each his own way, powerless to save you.

Yahweh acts alone and is sole master of the future

- 1 48 Listen to this, House of Jacob,
 you who bear the name of Israel,
 and have sprung from the seed of Judah;
 you who swear by the name of Yahweh
 and invoke the God of Israel
 though not in good faith or uprightness—2 calling yourselves after the holy city and bolstering yourselves on the God of Israel, whose name is Yahweh Sabaoth.
- 3 Things now past I once revealed long ago,
 they went out from my mouth and I proclaimed them;
 then suddenly I acted and they happened.
 4 For I knew you to be obstinate,
 your neck an iron bar,
 your forehead bronze.
 5 And so I revealed things beforehand,
 before they happened I announced them to you,
 so that you could not say, 'My idol was the one that performed them, it was my carved image, my image of cast metal, that decreed them'.
 6 You have heard and seen all this,
 will you not admit it?
- Now I am revealing new things to you,
 things hidden and unknown to you,
 7 created just now, this very moment,
 of these things you have heard nothing until now,
 so that you cannot say, 'Oh yes, I knew all this'.
- 8 You had never heard,
 you did not know,
 I had not opened your ear beforehand;
 for I knew how treacherous you were,
 and that you have deserved the name of rebel from your birth.
- 9 For the sake of my name I deferred my anger,
 for the sake of my honour I curbed it; I did not destroy you.
 10 And now I have put you in the fire like silver,
 I have tested you in the furnace of distress.
 11 For my sake and my sake only have I acted—
 is my name to be profaned?
 Never will I yield my glory to another.

Cyrus is the beloved of Yahweh

- 12 Listen to me, Jacob,
 Israel whom I have called:
 I am the first,
 I am also the last.
 13 My hand laid the foundations of earth
 and my right hand spread out the heavens.
 I summon them
 and they all come forward together.
 14 Assemble, all of you, and listen;
 which of them has foretold this?
 'My beloved will perform my pleasure with Babylon and the offspring of the Chaldeans.' 15 I, yes I myself, have spoken and summoned him,

brought him and prospered his plans.
 Come near and listen to this: 16
 from the beginning I have never spoken to you obscurely, and all the time these things have been happening, I have been present.
 —And now the Lord Yahweh, with his spirit,
 sends me.

What Yahweh had intended for Israel

Thus says Yahweh, your redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: 17
 I, Yahweh, your God, teach you what is good for you,
 I lead you in the way that you must go.
 If only you had been alert to my commandments, 18
 your happiness would have been like a river,
 your integrity like the waves of the sea.
 Your children would have been numbered like the sand, 19
 your descendants as many as its grains.
 Never would your name have been cut off or blotted out before me.

A song of departure from Babylon

Go away from Babylon! Flee from the Chaldaeans! 20 Declare this with cries of joy and proclaim it,
 send it out to the ends of the earth.
 Say, 'Yahweh has redeemed his servant Jacob'.
 Those he led through the deserts never went thirsty; 21
 he made water spring for them from the rock,
 he split the rock and water flowed.
 There is no happiness, says Yahweh, for the wicked. 22

Second song of the servant of Yahweh

49 Islands, listen to me, 1
 pay attention, remotest peoples.
 Yahweh called me before I was born,
 from my mother's womb he pronounced my name.
 He made my mouth a sharp sword, 2
 and hid me in the shadow of his hand.
 He made me into a sharpened arrow,
 and concealed me in his quiver.
 He said to me, 'You are my servant (Israel) 3
 in whom I shall be glorified';
 while I was thinking, 'I have toiled in vain, 4
 I have exhausted myself for nothing';
 and all the while my cause was with Yahweh,
 my reward with my God.
 I was honoured in the eyes of Yahweh, 5b
 my God was my strength.
 And now Yahweh has spoken, 5a
 he who formed me in the womb to be his servant,
 to bring Jacob back to him,
 to gather Israel to him:
 'It is not enough for you to be my servant, 6
 to restore the tribes of Jacob and bring back the survivors of Israel;
 I will make you the light of the nations
 so that my salvation may reach to the ends of the earth'.

The marvellous epic of the return

- 7 Thus says Yahweh,
the redeemer of Israel and his Holy One,
to him whose life is despised, whom the nations loathe,
to the slave of despots:
Kings will stand up when they see you,
and princes will bow,
for the sake of Yahweh who has been faithful,
the Holy One of Israel who has chosen you.
- 8 Thus says Yahweh:
At the favourable time I will answer you,
on the day of salvation I will help you.
(I have formed you and have appointed you as covenant of the people.)
I will restore the land
and assign you the estates that lie waste.
- 9 I will say to the prisoners, 'Come out',
to those who are in darkness, 'Show yourselves'.

On every roadway they will graze,
and each bare height shall be their pasture.
- 10 They will never hunger or thirst, scorching wind and sun shall never plague them;
for he who pities them will lead them
and guide them to springs of water.
- 11 I will make a highway of all the mountains,
and the high roads shall be banked up.
- 12 Some are on their way from afar,
others from the north and the west,
others from the land of Sinim.<sup>a</sup>
- 13 Shout for joy, you heavens; exult, you earth!
You mountains, break into happy cries!
For Yahweh consoles his people and takes pity on those who are afflicted.
- 14 For Zion was saying, 'Yahweh has abandoned me,
the Lord has forgotten me'.
15 Does a woman forget her baby at the breast,
or fail to cherish the son of her womb?
Yet even if these forget,
I will never forget you.
- 16 See, I have branded you on the palms of my hands,
Your ramparts are always under my eye.
- 17 Your rebuilders make haste,
and your destroyers and despoilers depart.
- 18 Look round about you, look,
all are assembling, coming to you.
By my life—it is Yahweh who speaks—
you will wear these as your jewels,
they will adorn you as brides are adorned;
- 19 for your desolate places and your ruins
and your devastated country will now be too small for all your inhabitants,

49 a. Assuan in S. Egypt.

now that your devourers are far away.
 Once more they will speak in your hearing, 20
 those sons you thought were lost,
 'This place is too small for me,
 give me more space to live in'.
 You will then say in your heart, 21
 'Who has borne me these?
 I was childless and barren,
 who has brought these up?

 I was left all alone,
 and now, where do these come from?'
 Thus speaks the Lord Yahweh: 22
 I beckon to the nations
 and hoist my signal for the peoples.
 They will bring back your sons in the cloak,
 they will take your daughters on their shoulders.
 Kings will be your fosterfathers, 23
 their queens your nursing mothers.
 They will fall prostrate before you, faces to the ground,
 and lick the dust at your feet.
 You shall then know that I am Yahweh;
 and that those who hope in me will not be put to shame.

 Can spoil be snatched from heroes, 24
 or captives escape from a soldier?
 Yes, thus says Yahweh: 25
 The hero's captive will be snatched away,
 the soldier's spoil escape.
 I myself will fight with those who fight you,
 and I myself will save your children.
 I will make your oppressors eat their own flesh, 26
 they shall get as drunk on their own blood as on new wine.
 Then all mankind shall know that I, Yahweh, am your saviour
 and that your redeemer is the Mighty One of Jacob.

The offer of salvation remains open

50 Thus says Yahweh: 1
 Where is your mother's writ of divorce
 by which I dismissed her?
 Or to which of my creditors
 have I sold you?
 You were sold for your own crimes,
 for your own faults your mother was dismissed.

 Why did I find no one when I came? 2
 Why did no one answer when I called?
 Is my hand too short to redeem?
 Have I not strength to save?
 With one threat I can dry the sea,
 and turn rivers to desert;
 so that their fish shrivel up for want of water
 and die of thirst.
 I dress the heavens in black, 3
 make sackcloth their covering.

Third song of the servant of Yahweh*a. The servant speaks

- 4           The Lord Yahweh has given me
a disciple's tongue.
So that I may know how to reply to the wearied
he provides me with speech.
Each morning he wakes me to hear,
to listen like a disciple.
- 5           The Lord Yahweh has opened my ear.
- For my part, I made no resistance,
neither did I turn away.
- 6           I offered my back to those who struck me,
my cheeks to those who tore at my beard;
I did not cover my face
against insult and spittle.
- 7           The Lord Yahweh comes to my help,
so that I am untouched by the insults.
So, too, I set my face like flint;
I know I shall not be shamed.
- 8           My vindicator is here at hand. Does anyone start proceedings against me?
Then let us go to court together.
Who thinks he has a case against me?
Let him approach me.
- 9           The Lord Yahweh is coming to my help,
who dare condemn me?
They shall all go to pieces like a garment
devoured by moths.

b. Exhortation to follow the servant

- 10          Let anyone who fears Yahweh among you listen to the voice of his servant!
Whoever walks in darkness,
and has no light shining for him,
let him trust in the name of Yahweh,
let him lean on his God.
- 11          But you, you are all setting light to a fire,
and fanning embers.
Then in with you to the flames of your fire,
to the embers that you are lighting.
So will my hand deal with you and you shall lie down in torments.

The salvation of the sons of Abraham

- 1    51    Listen to me, you who pursue integrity, who seek Yahweh.
Consider the rock you were hewn from,
the quarry from which you were cut.
- 2    Consider Abraham your father and Sarah who gave you birth.
For he was all alone when I called him,
but I blessed and increased him.

Yes, Yahweh has pity on Zion,
 has pity on all her ruins;
 turns her desolation into an Eden,
 her wasteland into the garden of Yahweh.
 Joy and gladness shall be found in her,
 thanksgiving and the sound of music.

Yahweh will soon judge the world

Pay attention to me, you peoples, listen to me, you nations.

For from me comes the Law
 and my justice shall be the light of the peoples,
 I will establish my integrity speedily,
 my salvation shall come like the light,
 my arm shall judge the peoples.

The islands put their hope in me,
 put their trust in my strength.

Lift up your eyes to the heavens,
 look down at the earth.

The heavens will vanish like smoke,
 the earth wear out like a garment,
 and its inhabitants die like vermin,
 but my salvation shall last for ever
 and my justice have no end.

Listen to me, you who know what integrity means,
 people who take my laws to heart:

do not fear the taunts of men,
 nor be dismayed by their insults,
 for the moth shall eat them like garments,
 the grub devour them like wool,
 but my integrity will remain for ever,
 and my salvation for all generations.

The awakening of Yahweh

Awake, awake! Clothe yourself in strength, arm of Yahweh.

Awake, as in the past,
 in times of generations long ago.

Did you not split Rahab in two,
 and pierce the Dragon through?

Did you not dry up the sea,
 the waters of the great Abyss,
 to make the seabed a road
 for the redeemed to cross?

Those whom Yahweh has ransomed return,
 they come to Zion shouting for joy,

everlasting joy in their faces;
 joy and gladness go with them,
 sorrow and lament are ended.

Yahweh is the all-powerful consoler

I, I am your consoler.

How then can you be afraid of mortal man, of son of man, whose fate is the fate of grass?

- 13 You have forgotten Yahweh who made you,
 who spread out the heavens and laid the earth's foundations,
 why still go in daily dread
 of the oppressor's fury,
 when he sets out to destroy you?
 What has happened to the fury of oppressors?

Salvation

- 14 The captive is soon to be set free; he will not die in a deep dungeon nor will 15 his bread run out. -I am Yahweh your God who stirs the sea, making its waves 16 roar, my name is Yahweh Sabaoth. -I put my words into your mouth, I hid you in the shadow of my hand, when I spread out the heavens and laid the earth's foundations and said to Zion, 'You are my people'.

The awakening of Jerusalem

- 17 Awake, awake!
 To your feet, Jerusalem!
 You who from Yahweh's hand have drunk
 the cup of his wrath.
 The chalice of stupor
 you have drained to the dregs.
- 18 She has not one to guide her
 of all the sons she has borne,
 not one to take her by the hand
 of all the sons she has reared.
- 19 These two calamities have befallen you
 —who is there to mourn for you?
 Devastation and ruin, famine and sword
 —who is there to console you?
- 20 Your sons lie helpless (at every street corner)
 like an antelope trapped in a net,
 sodden with the wrath of Yahweh,
 with the threats of your God.
- 21 Listen then to this, prostrated one,
 drunk, though not with wine.
- 22 Thus says your Lord Yahweh,
 your God, defender of your people.
- See, I take out of your hand
 the cup of stupor,
 the chalice of my wrath;
 you shall drink it no longer.
- 23 I will put it into the hand of your tormentors,
 of those who said to you,
 'Bow down that we may walk over you';
 while of your back you made a pavement,
 a street for them to walk on.
- 1 52 Awake, awake!
 Clothe yourself in strength, Zion.
 Put on your richest clothes,
 Jerusalem, holy city;
 since no longer shall there enter you either the uncircumcised or the unclean.

Shake off your dust; to your feet,
 captive Jerusalem! 2
 Free your neck from its fetters, captive daughter of Zion.

The nation in captivity

Yes, Yahweh says this: You were sold for nothing and you will be redeemed 3 without money. •Yes, Yahweh says this: Once my people went to Egypt to 4 settle there, then Assyria bitterly oppressed them. •But now what is there for 5 me here?—it is Yahweh who speaks—now that my people have been carried off for nothing, and their masters shout their triumph—it is Yahweh who speaks—all day long my name is constantly blasphemed. •My people will therefore know 6
 my name; that day they will understand that it is I who say, 'I am here'.

The awakening of Yahweh and of Jerusalem

How beautiful on the mountains, 7
 are the feet of one who brings good news,
 who heralds peace, brings happiness,
 proclaims salvation,
 and tells Zion,
 'Your God is king!'

Listen! Your watchmen raise their voices, 8
 they shout for joy together,
 for they see Yahweh face to face,
 as he returns to Zion.

Break into shouts of joy together, 9
 you ruins of Jerusalem;
 for Yahweh is consoling his people,
 redeeming Jerusalem.

Yahweh bares his holy arm 10
 in the sight of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth shall see
 the salvation of our God.

'Go away, go away, leave that place, 11
 touch nothing unclean.
 Get out of her,<sup>a</sup> purify yourselves,
 you who carry the vessels of Yahweh.

'But you are not to hurry away, 12
 you are not to leave like fugitives.
 No, Yahweh will go in front of you,
 and the God of Israel will be your rearguard.'

Fourth song of the servant of Yahweh

See, my servant will prosper, 13
 he shall be lifted up, exalted, rise to great heights.

As the crowds were appalled on seeing him 14
 —so disfigured did he look that he seemed no longer human—so will the crowds be astonished at him, 15
 and kings stand speechless before him;
 for they shall see something never told
 and witness something never heard before:

'Who could believe what we have heard, 1
 and to whom has the power of Yahweh been revealed?'

- 2 Like a sapling he grew up in front of us,
like a root in arid ground.
Without beauty, without majesty (we saw him),
no looks to attract our eyes;
- 3 a thing despised and rejected by men,
a man of sorrows and familiar with suffering,
a man to make people screen their faces;
he was despised and we took no account of him.
- 4 And yet ours were the sufferings he bore,
ours the sorrows he carried.
But we, we thought of him as someone punished,
struck by God, and brought low.
- 5 Yet he was pierced through for our faults,
crushed for our sins.
On him lies a punishment that brings us peace,
and through his wounds we are healed.
- 6 We had all gone astray like sheep,
each taking his own way,
and Yahweh burdened him
with the sins of all of us.
- 7 Harshly dealt with, he bore it humbly,
he never opened his mouth,
like a lamb that is led to the slaughter-house,
like a sheep that is dumb before its shearers
never opening its mouth.
- 8 By force and by law he was taken;
would anyone plead his cause?
Yes, he was torn away from the land of the living;
for our faults struck down in death.
- 9 They gave him a grave with the wicked,
a tomb with the rich,
though he had done no wrong
and there had been no perjury in his mouth.
- 10 Yahweh has been pleased to crush him with suffering.
If he offers his life in atonement,
he shall see his heirs, he shall have a long life
and through him what Yahweh wishes will be done.
- 11 His soul's anguish over
he shall see the light and be content.
By his sufferings shall my servant justify many,
taking their faults on himself.
- 12 Hence I will grant whole hordes for his tribute,
he shall divide the spoil with the mighty,
for surrendering himself to death
and letting himself be taken for a sinner, while he was bearing the faults of many
and praying all the time for sinners.

The fertility of Jerusalem

- 1 54 Shout for joy, you barren women who bore no children!
Break into cries of joy and gladness, you who were never in labour!

52 a. Babylon; the returning exiles are to be ritually purified because they will carry with them the sacred vessels of the Temple, restored to them by Cyrus, Ezr 1:7f.

For the sons of the forsaken one are more in number than the sons of the wedded wife, says Yahweh.

Widen the space of your tent, 2
stretch out your hangings freely,
lengthen your ropes, make your pegs firm;
for you will burst out to right and to left. 3
Your race will take possession of the nations, and people the abandoned cities.

The love of Yahweh

Do not be afraid, you will not be put to shame, 4
do not be dismayed, you will not be disgraced;
for you will forget the shame of your youth
and no longer remember the curse of your widowhood.
For now your creator will be your husband, 5
his name, Yahweh Sabaoth;
your redeemer will be the Holy One of Israel,
he is called the God of the whole earth.
Yes, like a forsaken wife, distressed in spirit, 6
Yahweh calls you back.
Does a man cast off the wife of his youth?
says your God.

I did forsake you for a brief moment, 7
but with great love will I take you back.
In excess of anger, for a moment 8
I hid my face from you.
But with everlasting love I have taken pity on you,
says Yahweh, your redeemer.

I am now as I was in the days of Noah 9
when I swore that Noah's waters should never flood the world again.
So now I swear concerning my anger with you and the threats I made against you;
for the mountains may depart, 10
the hills be shaken,
but my love for you will never leave you
and my covenant of peace with you will never be shaken, says Yahweh who takes pity on you.

The new Jerusalem

Unhappy creature, storm-tossed, disconsolate, 11
see, I will set your stones on carbuncles
and your foundations on sapphires.
I will make rubies your battlements, 12
your gates crystal,
and your entire wall precious stones.
Your sons will all be taught by Yahweh. 13
The prosperity of your sons will be great.
You will be founded on integrity; 14
remote from oppression, you will have nothing to fear;
remote from terror, it will not approach you.
Should anyone attack you, that will not be my doing, 15
and whoever attacks you, for your sake will fall.
I it was created the smith 16
who blows on the coal fire

and from it takes the weapons to work on.
 But I also created the destroyer who renders them useless.
 17 Not a weapon forged against you will succeed.
 Every tongue that accuses you in judgement will be refuted.
 Such will be the lot of the servants of Yahweh,
 the triumphs I award them—it is Yahweh who speaks.

The food of the poor

1 55 Oh, come to the water all you who are thirsty;
 though you have no money, come!
 Buy corn without money, and eat,
 and, at no cost, wine and milk.
 2 Why spend money on what is not bread,
 your wages on what fails to satisfy?
 Listen, listen to me, and you will have good things to eat and rich food to enjoy.
 3 Pay attention, come to me;
 listen, and your soul will live.

The covenant

With you I will make an everlasting covenant out of the favours promised to David.
 4 See, I have made of you a witness to the peoples,
 a leader and a master of the nations.
 5 See, you will summon a nation you never knew,
 those unknown will come hurrying to you,
 for the sake of Yahweh your God,
 of the Holy One of Israel who will glorify you.

The nearness and remoteness of Yahweh

6 Seek Yahweh while he is still to be found,
 call to him while he is still near.
 7 Let the wicked man abandon his way,
 the evil man his thoughts.
 Let him turn back to Yahweh who will take pity on him,
 to our God who is rich in forgiving;
 8 for my thoughts are not your thoughts,
 my ways not your ways—it is Yahweh who speaks.
 9 Yes, the heavens are as high above earth
 as my ways are above your ways,
 my thoughts above your thoughts.

The word of Yahweh cannot fail

10 Yes, as the rain and the snow come down from the heavens and do not return without watering the earth, making it yield and giving growth to provide seed 11 for the sower and bread for the eating, so the word that goes from my mouth does not return to me empty, without carrying out my will and succeeding in what it was sent to do.

Conclusion of the Book of Consolation

12 Yes, you will leave with joy and be led away in safety.
 Mountains and hills will break into joyful cries before you and all the trees of the countryside clap their hands.
 13 Cypress will grow instead of thorns,
 myrtle instead of briars.
 And this will make Yahweh famous,
 a sign for ever, ineffaceable.

THE PRIESTLY TEACHING

The writings which emerged in the course of the Exile and immediately afterwards are very difficult to arrange. The groups overlap and it becomes impossible to preserve a clear historical sequence. The sections which have been grouped here under the heading of 'The Priestly Teaching' have been selected for the similarities they share with the final chapters of Ezekiel, but two very important qualifications must be kept in mind. The first is the close connection, both in style and content, between the opening chapter of Genesis and the writings of the 'Second Isaiah', Isaiah 40-55, which are printed at the end of the previous section, J. They are clearly the products of the same school of thought. The second important point is the omission here of the sections of Genesis 11-50 and Exodus 1-24 which were contributed by the 'Priestly' school of authors or editors. This 'Priestly Source' material has been retained in section A, together with the other source material which has been used in the narrative portions of the Pentateuch, because it would destroy the narrative too frequently if this material was separated. Nevertheless, the work of the 'Priestly' historians, in compiling the Pentateuch and giving it the shape which it now bears, is a very important part of their contribution to the theological development of the Bible.

During the Exile in Babylonia a generation of priests emerged who had no experience of taking part in the cult of the Temple in Jerusalem. The Temple traditions were largely oral, but it now became important to commit them to writing before they were lost or became distorted through their separation from the active sacrificial liturgy. Since the Deuteronomic reform of 621 B.C. sacrifice had been permitted only at the Temple in Jerusalem, so with the destruction of the Temple by the Babylonians in 587 B.C. all Hebrew sacrifice had ceased.

But this was only one influence which contributed to the writing of the final chapters of Ezekiel and the recording of the ceremonial law. The rebuilding of the Temple would be an important symbol of the restoration of the people to God's favour when the Exile ended, and it was also an obvious and powerful element in the expression of the messianic hope with which the people looked forward to a future when they would be vindicated by God in the face of their enemies.

The climax of Ezekiel's description of the ideal Temple is reached when the glory of Yahweh returns to the Temple, never again to leave it. This symbolises God's presence in the midst of his purified people, and the assurance that he will never desert them.

Within this context, the opening account of the creation in the book of Genesis should be seen primarily as a statement about God's continuing relationship with his world, and the salvation towards which he is leading it, rather than a description of how the world began. The absolute power of God and the completeness of his plan for his world are expressed by the method of creation—by word of command—and by the regular progression of creation as it develops in the sequence of days.

Man is presented as the climax of the creation and as the centre of order through which the rest of creation receives its place and purpose. He is the image of God, the symbol of God's providence, and able as such to enter into conscious communication with God and find his fulfilment in this relationship.

The genealogies which are characteristic of this school of thought connect the subsequent development with its beginnings, and so relate all events to the saving purpose in which they originated. The same effect is achieved by successive covenants which initiate each new stage in the development of the saving history. The creation of Adam is itself the archetypal covenant and this is developed in the covenants with Noah, Abraham, and finally with the whole of Israel during the journey in the wilderness after the Exodus from Egypt. The point is emphasised by the progressive revelation of the divine name, first as Elohim, the common divine plural of majesty; then as Shaddai, which is usually translated as 'Almighty', and finally as Yahweh.

The school of thought which produced the opening chapters of Genesis arranged the rest of the information about the events leading up to the Exodus from Egypt and the Covenant at Sinai so that the same theological lessons would be learnt from it. These lessons are the irresistible omnipotence of God, his steadfast faithfulness to his promises, the realisation that he is the only God, and the utter dependence of all mankind on this God who has revealed himself in the world he creates and in the escape of the Hebrew people from Egypt.

The intricate detail of the ceremonial law in Exodus, Leviticus and Numbers emphasises that the Hebrew people are a holy community with God living in their midst. God is the direct source of all their life and they must show that all their activities are directed towards him. The experience of the destruction of Jerusalem and of separation from the land which God had given them produced plans for the new community which would be formed by those who finally returned from Exile. The plans tried to ensure that the new community would never again make the mistakes which had led to the destruction of the old one.

In Genesis 1-11, with which this section opens, the Priestly material is printed in italics.

THE ORIGIN OF THE WORLD AND OF MANKIND

GENESIS 1—11

THE CREATION AND THE FALL

The later account of the creation<sup>a</sup>

1 In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. •Now the earth was <sup>1</sup> a formless void, there was darkness over the deep, and God's spirit hovered over <sup>2</sup>
the water.

God said, 'Let there be light', and there was light. •God saw that light was good, <sup>3</sup> and God divided light from darkness. •God called light 'day', and darkness he <sup>4</sup> called 'night'. Evening came and morning came: the first day. <sup>5</sup>

God said, 'Let there be a vault<sup>b</sup> in the waters to divide the waters in two'. And <sup>6</sup> so it was. •God made the vault, and it divided the waters above the vault from the <sup>7</sup> waters under the vault. •God called the vault 'heaven'. Evening came and morning <sup>8</sup> came: the second day.

God said, 'Let the waters under heaven come together into a single mass, and let <sup>9</sup> dry land appear'. And so it was. •God called the dry land 'earth' and the mass of <sup>10</sup> waters 'seas', and God saw that it was good.

God said, 'Let the earth produce vegetation: seed-bearing plants, and fruit trees <sup>11</sup> bearing fruit with their seed inside, on the earth'. And so it was. •The earth produced <sup>12</sup> vegetation: plants bearing seed in their several kinds, and trees bearing fruit with <sup>13</sup> their seed inside in their several kinds. God saw that it was good. •Evening came <sup>13</sup> and morning came: the third day.

God said, 'Let there be lights in the vault of heaven to divide day from night, <sup>14</sup> and let them indicate festivals, days and years. •Let them be lights in the vault <sup>15</sup> of heaven to shine on the earth.' And so it was. •God made the two great lights:<sup>c</sup> the <sup>16</sup> greater light to govern the day, the smaller light to govern the night, and the stars. <sup>17</sup>
God set them in the vault of heaven to shine on the earth, •to govern the day and the <sup>18</sup> night and to divide light from darkness. God saw that it was good. •Evening came <sup>19</sup> and morning came the fourth day.

God said, 'Let the waters teem with living creatures, and let birds fly above the <sup>20</sup> earth within the vault of heaven'. And so it was. •God created great sea-serpents <sup>21</sup> and every kind of living creature with which the waters teem, and every kind of <sup>22</sup> winged creature. God saw that it was good. •God blessed them, saying, 'Be fruitful, <sup>22</sup> multiply, and fill the waters of the seas; and let the birds multiply upon the earth'. <sup>23</sup> Evening came and morning came: the fifth day.

God said, 'Let the earth produce every kind of living creature: cattle, reptiles,<sup>d</sup> <sup>24</sup> and every kind of wild beast'. And so it was. •God made every kind of wild beast, <sup>25</sup> every kind of cattle, and every kind of land reptile. God saw that it was good.

God said, 'Let us<sup>e</sup> make man<sup>f</sup> in our own image, in the likeness of ourselves, and <sup>26</sup>
let them be masters of the fish of the sea, the birds of heaven, the cattle, all the wild <sup>26</sup> beasts and all the reptiles that crawl upon the earth'.

God created man in the image of himself, <sup>27</sup>
in the image of God he created him, male and female he created them.

28 God blessed them, saying to them, 'Be fruitful, multiply, fill the earth and conquer
 29 it. Be masters of the fish of the sea, the birds of heaven and all living animals on the 30 earth.' •God said, 'See, I give you all the seed-bearing plants that are upon the whole
 31 earth, and all the trees with seed-bearing fruit; this shall be your food. •To all wild 32 beasts, all birds of heaven and all living reptiles on the earth I give all the foliage of 33 plants for food.' And so it was. •God saw all he had made, and indeed it was very 34 good. Evening came and morning came: the sixth day.

1 Thus heaven and earth were completed with all their array. •On the seventh
 2 day God completed the work he had been doing. He rested on the seventh day
 3 after all the work he had been doing. •God blessed the seventh day and made it 4 holy, because on that day he had rested after all his work of creating.

4 Such were the origins of heaven and earth when they were created.

The earlier account of the creation.<sup>a</sup> Paradise

5 At the time when Yahweh God made earth and heaven •there was as yet no
 6 wild bush on the earth nor had any wild plant yet sprung up, for Yahweh God
 7 had not sent rain on the earth, nor was there any man to till the soil. •However,
 8 a flood was rising from the earth and watering all the surface of the soil. •Yahweh
 9 God fashioned man of dust from the soil. Then he breathed into his nostrils a 10 breath of life, and thus man became a living being.

11 Yahweh God planted a garden in Eden which is in the east, and there he put 12 the man he had fashioned. •Yahweh God caused to spring up from the soil every 13 kind of tree, enticing to look at and good to eat, with the tree of life and the tree
 14 of the knowledge of good and evil in the middle of the garden. •A river flowed 15 from Eden to water the garden, and from there it divided to make four streams.<sup>b</sup> 16 The first is named the Pishon, and this encircles the whole land of Havilah where 17 there is gold. •The gold of this land is pure; bdellium<sup>c</sup> and onyx stone are found
 18 there. •The second river is named the Gihon, and this encircles the whole land
 19 of Cush. •The third river is named the Tigris, and this flows to the east of Ashur.
 20 The fourth river is the Euphrates. •Yahweh God took the man and settled him 21 in the garden of Eden to cultivate and take care of it. •Then Yahweh God gave 22 the man this admonition, 'You may eat indeed of all the trees in the garden.
 23 Nevertheless of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil you are not to eat, 24 for on the day you eat of it you shall most surely die.'

25 Yahweh God said, 'It is not good that the man should be alone. I will make 26 him a helpmate.' •So from the soil Yahweh God fashioned all the wild beasts 27 and all the birds of heaven. These he brought to the man to see what he would 28 call them; each one was to bear the name the man would give it. •The man gave 29 names to all the cattle, all the birds of heaven and all the wild beasts. But no
 30 helpmate suitable for man was found for him. •So Yahweh God made the man
 31 fall into a deep sleep. And while he slept, he took one of his ribs and enclosed 32 it in flesh. •Yahweh God built the rib he had taken from the man into a woman, 33 and brought her to the man. •The man exclaimed:

'This at last is bone from my bones,
 and flesh from my flesh!

1 a. Ascribed to the 'priestly' source (see Introduction). b. For the ancient Semites, the 'arch' or 'vault' of the sky was a solid dome holding the upper waters in check. c. Their names are omitted deliberately: the sun and the moon were worshipped by neighbouring peoples, and here they are treated as no more than lamps to light the earth and regulate the calendar. d. 'Things which crawl', a general term for small mammals, reptiles, amphibians and insects. e. Perhaps the plural of majesty: the common name for God was Elohim, a plural form. But possibly the plural form implies a discussion between God and his heavenly court. f. Man, adam, is a collective noun ('mankind'); hence the plural in 'Let them be masters of. . .'

2 a. From the 'Yahwistic' source (see Introduction). b. Verses 10-14 are intended to fix the locality of Eden. However, the rivers Pishon and Gihon are unknown, and the two 'lands' named are probably not the regions designated elsewhere by the same names. c. An aromatic resin.

This is to be called woman,<sup>4</sup>
for this was taken from man.'

This is why a man leaves his father and mother and joins himself to his wife, 24 and they become one body.

Now both of them were naked, the man and his wife, but they felt no 25 shame in front of each other.

The Fall

3 The serpent was the most subtle of all the wild beasts that Yahweh God 1 had made. It asked the woman, 'Did God really say you were not to eat from any of the trees in the garden?' •The woman answered the serpent, 'We may eat 2 the fruit of the trees in the garden. •But of the fruit of the tree in the middle of the 3 garden God said, "You must not eat it, nor touch it, under pain of death".'
Then the serpent said to the woman, 'No! You will not die! •God knows in fact 4 that on the day you eat it your eyes will be opened and you will be like gods, 5 knowing good and evil.' •The woman saw that the tree was good to eat and 6 pleasing to the eye, and that it was desirable for the knowledge that it could give.
So she took some of its fruit and ate it. She gave some also to her husband who was with her, and he ate it. •Then the eyes of both of them were opened and they 7 realised that they were naked. So they sewed fig-leaves together to make themselves loin-cloths.

The man and his wife heard the sound of Yahweh God walking in the 8 garden in the cool of the day, and they hid from Yahweh God among the trees of the garden. •But Yahweh God called to the man. 'Where are you?' he asked. 9
'I heard the sound of you in the garden;' he replied 'I was afraid because I was naked, so I hid.' •'Who told you that you were naked?' he asked 'Have you been 10 eating of the tree I forbade you to eat?' •The man replied, 'It was the woman you 11 put with me; she gave me the fruit, and I ate it'. •Then Yahweh God asked the 12 woman, 'What is this you have done?' The woman replied, 'The serpent tempted 13 me and I ate'.

Then Yahweh God said to the serpent, 'Because you have done this, 14

'Be accursed beyond all cattle,
all wild beasts.
You shall crawl on your belly and eat dust
every day of your life.
I will make you enemies of each other: 15
you and the woman,
your offspring and her offspring.
It will crush your head
and you will strike its heel.'

To the woman he said: 16

'I will multiply your pains in childbearing,
you shall give birth to your children in pain.
Your yearning shall be for your husband,
yet he will lord it over you.'

To the man he said, 'Because you listened to the voice of your wife and ate 17 from the tree of which I had forbidden you to eat,

'Accursed be the soil because of you.
With suffering shall you get your food from it
every day of your life.
It shall yield you brambles and thistles, 18
and you shall eat wild plants.
With sweat on your brow 19'

shall you eat your bread,
 until you return to the soil,
 as you were taken from it.
 For dust you are
 and to dust you shall return.'

20 The man named his wife 'Eve' because she was the mother of all those who 21 live.<sup>a</sup> •Yahweh God made clothes out of skins for the man and his wife, and 22 they put them on. •Then Yahweh God said, 'See, the man has become like one of us, with his knowledge of good and evil. He must not be allowed to stretch his hand out next and pick from the tree of life also, and eat some 23 and live for ever.' •So Yahweh God expelled him from the garden of Eden, 24 to till the soil from which he had been taken. •He banished the man, and in front of the garden of Eden he posted the cherubs, and the flame of a flashing sword, to guard the way to the tree of life.

Cain and Abel

1 4 The man had intercourse with his wife Eve, and she conceived and gave birth
 2 to Cain. 'I have acquired a man with the help of Yahweh'<sup>b</sup> she said. •She gave birth to a second child, Abel, the brother of Cain. Now Abel became a shepherd 3 and kept flocks, while Cain tilled the soil. •Time passed and Cain brought some 4 of the produce of the soil as an offering for Yahweh, •while Abel for his part brought the first-born of his flock and some of their fat as well. Yahweh looked 5 with favour on Abel and his offering. •But he did not look with favour on Cain
 6 and his offering, and Cain was very angry and downcast. •Yahweh asked 7 Cain, 'Why are you angry and downcast? •If you are well disposed, ought you not to lift up your head? But if you are ill disposed, is not sin at the door like 8 a crouching beast hungering for you, which you must master?' •Cain said to his brother Abel, 'Let us go out'; and while they were in the open country, Cain set on his brother Abel and killed him.

9 Yahweh asked Cain, 'Where is your brother Abel?' 'I do not know' he 10 replied. 'Am I my brother's guardian?' •'What have you done?' Yahweh asked. 'Listen to the sound of your brother's blood, crying out to me from the 11 ground. •Now be accursed and driven from the ground that has opened its 12 mouth to receive your brother's blood at your hands. •When you till the ground it shall no longer yield you any of its produce. You shall be a fugitive and a 13 wanderer over the earth.' •Then Cain said to Yahweh, 'My punishment is 14 greater than I can bear. •See! Today you drive me from this ground. I must hide from you, and be a fugitive and a wanderer over the earth. Why, whoever 15 comes across me will kill me!' •'Very well, then,' Yahweh replied 'if anyone kills Cain, sevenfold vengeance shall be taken for him.' So Yahweh put a mark on Cain, to prevent whoever might come across him from striking him down.
 16 Cain left the presence of Yahweh and settled in the land of Nod, east of Eden.

The descendants of Cain

17 Cain had intercourse with his wife, and she conceived and gave birth to Enoch.
 He became builder of a town, and he gave the town the name of his son 18 Enoch. •Enoch had a son, Irad, and Irad became the father of Methujael;
 Methujael became the father of Methushael, and Methushael became the father
 19 of Lamech. •Lamech married two women: the name of the first was Adah
 20 and the name of the second was Zillah. •Adah gave birth to Jabal: he was the 21 ancestor of the tent-dwellers and owners of livestock. •His brother's name was 22 Jubal: he was the ancestor of all who play the lyre and the flute. •As for Zillah, she gave birth to Tubal-cain: he was the ancestor of all metalworkers, in bronze or iron. Tubal-cain's sister was Naamah.

Lamech said to his wives:

'Adah and Zillah, hear my voice,
Lamech's wives, listen to what I say:
I killed a man for wounding me,
a boy for striking me.

Sevenfold vengeance is taken for Cain,
but seventy-sevenfold for Lamech.'

Seth and his descendants

Adam had intercourse with his wife, and she gave birth to a son whom she named Seth, 'because God has granted<sup>b</sup> me other offspring' she said 'in place of Abel, since Cain has killed him'. •A son was also born to Seth, and he named him Enosh. This man was the first to invoke the name of Yahweh.<sup>c</sup>

The patriarchs before the flood

5 This is the roll of Adam's descendants:

On the day God created Adam he made him in the likeness of God. •Male and female he created them. He blessed them and gave them the name 'Man' on the day they were created.

When Adam was a hundred and thirty years old he became the father of a son, in his likeness, as his image, and he called him Seth. •Adam lived for eight hundred years after the birth of Seth and he became the father of sons and daughters. •In all, Adam lived for nine hundred and thirty years; then he died.

After the birth of Methuselah he lived for three hundred years and he became the father of sons and daughters. •In all, Enoch lived for three hundred and sixty-five years. •Enoch walked with God. Then he vanished because God took him.*

When Methuselah was a hundred and eighty-seven years old he became the father of Lamech. •After the birth of Lamech, Methuselah lived for seven hundred and eighty-two years and he became the father of sons and daughters. •In all, Methuselah lived for nine hundred and sixty-nine years; then he died.

When Lamech was a hundred and eighty-two years old he became the father of a son. •He gave him the name Noah because, he said, 'Here is one who will give us, in the midst of our toil and the labouring of our hands, a consolation derived from the ground that Yahweh cursed'. •After the birth of Noah, Lamech lived for five hundred and ninety-five years and became the father of sons and daughters. •In all, Lamech lived for seven hundred and seventy-seven years; then he died.

When Noah was five hundred years old he became the father of Shem, Ham and Japheth.

Sons of God and daughters of men

When men had begun to be plentiful on the earth, and daughters had been born to them, •the sons of God, looking at the daughters of men, saw they were pleasing, so they married as many as they chose. •Yahweh said, 'My spirit must not for ever be disgraced in man, for he is but flesh; his life shall last no more than a hundred and twenty years'. •The Nephilim were on the earth at that time (and even afterwards) when the sons of God resorted to the daughters of man, and had children by them. These are the heroes of days gone by, the famous men.

THE FLOOD

The corruption of mankind

Yahweh saw that the wickedness of man was great on the earth, and that the thoughts in his heart fashioned nothing but wickedness all day long. •Yahweh regretted having made man on the earth, and his heart grieved. •'I will rid the earth's face of man, my own creation,' Yahweh said 'and of animals also, reptiles too, and the birds of heaven; for I regret having made them.' •But Noah had found favour with Yahweh.

This is the story of Noah:

Noah was a good man, a man of integrity among his contemporaries, and he walked with God. •Noah became the father of three sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth. The earth grew corrupt in God's sight, and filled with violence. •God contemplated the earth: it was corrupt, for corrupt were the ways of all flesh on the earth.

Preparations for the flood

God said to Noah, 'The end has come for all things of flesh; I have decided this, because the earth is full of violence of man's making, and I will efface them from the earth. •Make yourself an ark out of resinous wood. Make it with reeds and line it with pitch inside and out. •This is how to make it: the length of the ark is to be three hundred cubits, its breadth fifty cubits, and its height thirty cubits. •Make a roof for the ark... put the door of the ark high up in the side, and make a first, second and third deck.

'For my part I mean to bring a flood, and send the waters over the earth, to destroy all flesh on it, every living creature under heaven; everything on earth shall perish. •But I will establish my Covenant with you, and you must go on board the ark, yourself, your sons, your wife, and your sons' wives along with you. •From all living creatures, from all flesh, you must take two of each kind aboard the ark, to save their lives with yours; they must be a male and a female. •Of every kind of bird, of every kind of animal and of every kind of reptile on the ground, two must go with you so that their lives may be saved. •For your part provide yourself with eatables of all kinds, and lay in a store of them, to serve as food for yourself and them.' •Noah did this; he did all that God had ordered him.

Yahweh said to Noah, 'Go aboard the ark, you and all your household, for you alone among this generation do I see as a good man in my judgement. Of all the clean animals you must take seven of each kind, both male and female; of the unclean animals you must take two, a male and its female •(and of the birds of heaven also, seven of each kind, both male and female), to propagate their kind over the whole earth. •For in seven days' time I mean to make it rain on the earth for forty days and nights, and I will rid the earth of every living thing that I made.' •Noah did all that Yahweh ordered.

4 b. Folk-derivation of the name Seth (Sheth) from shath, he has granted. c. Other traditions put the revelation of the divine name later, in the time of Moses, Ex 3:14.

Noah was six hundred years old when the flood of waters appeared on the earth.

Noah with his sons, his wife, and his sons' wives boarded the ark to escape the waters of the flood. •(Of the clean animals and the animals that are not clean, of the birds and all that crawls on the ground, •two of each kind boarded the ark with Noah, a male and a female, according to the order God gave Noah.) Seven days later the waters of the flood appeared on the earth.

In the six hundredth year of Noah's life, in the second month, and on the seventeenth day of that month, that very day all the springs of the great deep broke through, and the sluices of heaven opened. •It rained on the earth for forty days and forty nights.

That very day Noah and his sons Shem, Ham and Japheth boarded the ark, with Noah's wife and the three wives of his sons, •and with them wild beasts of every kind, cattle of every kind, reptiles of every kind that crawls on the earth, birds of every kind, all that flies, everything with wings. •One pair of all that is flesh and has the breath of life boarded the ark with Noah; •and so there went in a male and a female of every creature that is flesh, just as God had ordered him.

And Yahweh closed the door behind Noah.

The flood

The flood lasted forty days on the earth. The waters swelled, lifting the ark until it was raised above the earth. •The waters rose and swelled greatly on the earth, and the ark sailed on the waters. •The waters rose more and more on the earth so that all the highest mountains under the whole of heaven were submerged. The waters rose fifteen cubits higher, submerging the mountains. •And so all things of flesh perished that moved on the earth, birds, cattle, wild beasts, everything that swarms on the earth, and every man. •Everything with the breath of life in its nostrils died, everything on dry land. •Yahweh destroyed every living thing on the face of the earth, man and animals, reptiles, and the birds of heaven. He rid the earth of them, so that only Noah was left, and those with him in the ark. •The waters rose on the earth for a hundred and fifty days.

The flood subsides

But God had Noah in mind, and all the wild beasts and all the cattle that were with him in the ark. God sent a wind across the earth and the waters subsided. The springs of the deep and the sluices of heaven were stopped. Rain ceased to fall from heaven; •the waters gradually ebbed from the earth. After a hundred and fifty days the waters fell, •and in the seventh month, on the seventeenth day of that month, the ark came to rest on the mountains of Ararat. •The waters gradually fell until the tenth month when, on the first day of the tenth month, the mountain peaks appeared.

At the end of forty days Noah opened the porthole he had made in the ark and he sent out the raven. This went off, and flew back and forth until the waters dried up from the earth. •Then he sent out the dove, to see whether the waters were receding from the surface of the earth. •The dove, finding nowhere to perch, returned to him in the ark, for there was water over the whole surface of the earth; putting out his hand he took hold of it and brought it back into the ark with him. •After waiting seven more days, again he sent out the dove from the ark. •In the evening, the dove came back to him and there it was with a new olive-branch in its beak. So Noah realised that the waters were receding from the earth. •After waiting seven more days he sent out the dove, and now it returned to him no more.

- 13 It was in the six hundred and first year of Noah's life, in the first month and on the first of the month, that the water dried up from the earth. Noah lifted back the hatch of the ark and looked out. The surface of the ground was dry!
- 14 In the second month and on the twenty-seventh day of the month the earth was dry.

They disembark

- 15 Then God said to Noah, 'Come out of the ark, you yourself, your wife, your sons, 16 and your sons' wives with you. As for all the animals with you, all things of flesh,
 17 whether birds or animals or reptiles that crawl on the earth, bring them out with you.
 18 Let them swarm on the earth; let them be fruitful and multiply on the earth.' •So 19 Noah went out with his sons, his wife, and his sons' wives. And all the wild beasts, 20 all the cattle, all the birds and all the reptiles that crawl on the earth went out from 21 the ark, one kind after another.
- 20 Noah built an altar for Yahweh, and choosing from all the clean animals 21 and all the clean birds he offered burnt offerings on the altar. Yahweh smelt
 22 the appeasing fragrance and said to himself, 'Never again will I curse the earth
 23 because of man, because his heart contrives evil from his infancy. Never again
 24 will I strike down every living thing as I have done.
- 22 'As long as earth lasts,
 23 sowing and reaping,
 24 cold and heat,
 25 summer and winter,
 26 day and night
 27 shall cease no more.'

The new world order

- 1 God blessed Noah and his sons, saying to them, 'Be fruitful, multiply and fill 2 the earth. Be the terror and the dread of all the wild beasts and all the birds of 3 heaven, of everything that crawls on the ground and all the fish of the sea; they are 4 handed over to you. Every living and crawling thing shall provide food for you, no
 5 less than the foliage of plants. I give you everything, with this exception: you must 6 not eat flesh with life, that is to say blood, in it. I will demand an account of your 7 life-blood. I will demand an account from every beast and from man. I will demand 8 an account of every man's life from his fellow men.
- 6 'He who sheds man's blood,
 7 shall have his blood shed by man,
 8 for in the image of God
 9 man was made.
- 7 'As for you, be fruitful, multiply, teem over the earth and be lord of it.'
- 8 God spoke to Noah and his sons, 'See, I establish my Covenant with you, and 10 with your descendants after you; also with every living creature to be found with 11 you, birds, cattle and every wild beast with you: everything that came out of the ark,
 12 everything that lives on the earth. I establish my Covenant with you: no thing of flesh
 13 shall be swept away again by the waters of the flood. There shall be no flood to destroy 14 the earth again.'
- 12 God said, 'Here is the sign of the Covenant I make between myself and you
 13 and every living creature with you for all generations: I set my bow in the clouds 14 and it shall be a sign of the Covenant between me and the earth. When I gather the 15 clouds over the earth and the bow appears in the clouds, I will recall the Covenant
 16 between myself and you and every living creature of every kind. And so the waters 17 shall never again become a flood to destroy all things of flesh. When the bow is in 18 the clouds I shall see it and call to mind the lasting Covenant between God and every 19 living creature of every kind that is found on the earth.'

God said to Noah, 'This is the sign of the Covenant I have established between 17 myself and every living thing that is found on the earth'.

FROM THE FLOOD TO ABRAHAM

Noah and his sons

The sons of Noah who went out from the ark were Shem, Ham and 18
Japheth; Ham is the ancestor of the Canaanites. •These three were Noah's 19 sons, and from these the whole earth was peopled.

Noah, a tiller of the soil, was the first to plant the vine. •He drank some 20 of the wine, and while he was drunk he uncovered himself inside his tent. 21
Ham, Canaan's ancestor, saw his father's nakedness, and told his two brothers 22 outside. •Shem and Japheth took a cloak and they both put it over their 23 shoulders, and walking backwards, covered their father's nakedness; they kept their faces turned away, and did not see their father's nakedness. •When Noah 24 awoke from his stupor he learned what his youngest son had done to him.
And he said: 25

'Accursed be Canaan.
He shall be his brothers'
meanest slave.'

He added: 26

'Blessed be Yahweh, God of Shem,
let Canaan be his slave!
May God extend Japheth,
may he live in the tents of Shem,
and may Canaan be his slave!' 27

After the flood Noah lived three hundred and fifty years. •In all, Noah's life 28 lasted nine hundred and fifty years; then he died. 29

The peopling of the earth<sup>a</sup>

10 These are the descendants of Noah's sons, Shem, Ham and Japheth, to whom 1 sons were born after the flood:

Japheth's sons: Gomer, Magog, the Medes, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, Tiras. 2 Gomer's sons: Ashkenaz, Riphath, Togarmah. •Javan's sons: Elishah, Tarshish, 3 the Kittim, the Dananites. •From these came the dispersal to the islands of the 4 nations.<sup>b</sup> 5

These were Japheth's sons, according to their countries and each of their languages according to their tribes and their nations.

Ham's sons: Cush, Misraim, Put, Canaan. •Cush's sons: Seba, Havilah, Sabtah, 6 Raamah, Sabteca. Raamah's sons: Sheba, Dedan. 7

Cush became the father of Nimrod who was the first potentate on earth. 8
He was a mighty hunter in the eyes of Yahweh, hence the saying, 'Like Nimrod, 9 a mighty hunter in the eyes of Yahweh'. •First to be included in his empire 10 were Babel, Erech and Accad, all of them in the land of Shinar. •From this 11 country came Ashur, the builder of Nineveh, Rehoboth-ir, Calah, •and Resen 12 between Nineveh and Calah (this is the great city).

Misraim became the father of the people of Lud, of Anam, Lehab, Naphtuh, 13
Pathros, Cusluh and Caphtor, from which the Philistines came. 14

Canaan became the father of Sidon, his first-born, then Heth, •and the 15
Jebusites, the Amorites, Girgashites, •Hivites, Arkites, Sinites, •Arvadites, 16
Zemarites, Hamathites; later the Canaanite tribes scattered. •The Canaanite 17 frontier stretched from Sidon in the direction of Gerar and as far as Gaza, 18 then in the direction of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboim, and as far 19 as Lesha.

- 20 These were Ham's sons, according to their tribes and languages, according to their countries and nations.
- 21 Shem also was the father of children, the ancestor of all the sons of Eber and the elder brother of Japheth.
- 22 Shem's sons: Elam, Asshur, Arpachshad, Lud, Aram. •Aram's sons: Uz, Hul, 23 Gether and Mash.
- 24 Arpachshad became the father of Shelah, and Shelah became the father 25 of Eber. •To Eber were born two sons: the first was called Peleg, because it was 26 in his time that the earth was divided, and his brother was called Joktan. •Joktan
27 became the father of Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah, •Hadoram, 28 Uzal, Diklah, •Obal, Abima-el, Sheba, •Ophir, Havilah, Jobab; all these are 29 sons of Joktan. •They occupied a stretch of country from Mesha in the direction
30 of Sephar, the eastern mountain range.
- 31 These were Shem's sons, according to their tribes and languages, and according to their countries and nations.
- 32 These were the tribes of Noah's sons, according to their descendants and their nations. From these came the dispersal of the nations over the earth, after the flood.

The tower of Babel<sup>a</sup>

- 1 11 Throughout the earth men spoke the same language, with the same voca-
2 11 bulary. •Now as they moved eastwards they found a plain in the land of 3 Shinar<sup>b</sup> where they settled. •They said to one another, 'Come, let us make 4 bricks and bake them in the fire'. — For stone they used bricks, and for mortar
5 they used bitumen. — •'Come,' they said 'let us build ourselves a town and a 6 tower with its top reaching heaven. Let us make a name for ourselves, so that 7 we may not be scattered about the whole earth.'
- 8 Now Yahweh came down to see the town and the tower that the sons of 9 man had built. •'So they are all a single people with a single language!' said
10 Yahweh. 'This is but the start of their undertakings! There will be nothing
11 too hard for them to do. •Come, let us go down and confuse their language
12 on the spot so that they can no longer understand one another.' •Yahweh
13 scattered them thence over the whole face of the earth, and they stopped
14 building the town. •It was named Babel therefore, because there Yahweh 15 confused<sup>c</sup> the language of the whole earth. It was from there that Yahweh 16 scattered them over the whole face of the earth.

The patriarchs after the flood

- 10 These are Shem's descendants:
- 11 When Shem was a hundred years old he became the father of Arpachshad, two 12 years after the flood. •After the birth of Arpachshad, Shem lived five hundred years
13 and became the father of sons and daughters.
- 14 When Arpachshad was thirty-five years old he became the father of Shelah.
15 After the birth of Shelah, Arpachshad lived four hundred and three years and became 16 the father of sons and daughters.
- 17 When Shelah was thirty years old he became the father of Eber. •After the 18 birth of Eber, Shelah lived four hundred and three years and became the father of 19 sons and daughters.
- 20 When Eber was thirty-four years old he became the father of Peleg. •After 21 the birth of Peleg, Eber lived four hundred and thirty years and became the father of

When Terah was seventy years old he became the father of Abram, Nahor and Haran. 26

The descendants of Terah

These are Terah's descendants: 27

Terah became the father of Abram, Nahor and Haran. Haran became the father of Lot. •Haran died in the presence of his father Terah in his native land, Ur of the Chaldaeans. •Abram and Nahor both married: Abram's wife was called Sarai, Nahor's wife was called Milcah, the daughter of Haran, father of Milcah and Iscah. •Sarai was barren, having no child. 28
30

Terah took his son Abram, his grandson Lot the son of Haran, and his daughter-in-law the wife of Abram, and made them leave Ur of the Chaldaeans to go to the land of Canaan. But on arrival in Haran they settled there. 31

Terah's life lasted two hundred and five years; then he died at Haran. 32

EZEKIEL'S PLANS FOR THE NEW JERUSALEM

EZEKIEL 40—48

The future Temple

40 In the twenty-fifth year of our captivity, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month, fourteen years after the destruction of the city,<sup>a</sup> the hand of Yahweh came on me. •In a divine vision he took me away to the land of Israel and put me down on a very high mountain, on the south of which there seemed to be built a city. •He took me to it, and there I saw a man who seemed to be made of bronze. He had a flax cord and a measuring rod in his hand and was standing in the gateway. •The man said to me, 'Son of man, look carefully, listen closely and pay attention to everything I show you, since you have only been brought here for me to show it to you. Tell the House of Israel everything that you see.' 1

The outer wall

The Temple was surrounded with a wall, and the man was holding a measuring rod that was six cubits long, each cubit a forearm and a handbreadth. He measured the thickness of this construction—one rod; and its height—one rod. 5

The east gate

He went to the east gate, climbed the steps and measured its threshold: one rod deep. •Each guardroom one rod by one rod; and the walls between the guardrooms five cubits thick; and the threshold of the gate inwards from the porch of the gate: one rod. •He measured the porch of the gate: eight cubits; •its jambs: two cubits; the porch of the gate was at the inner end. •There were three guardrooms on each side of the east gate, all three the same size; the walls between them all the same thickness each side. •He measured the width of the 6 entrance: ten cubits; and the width all down the gateway: thirteen cubits.

 12 There was a rail in front of the guardrooms; each rail on either side was one 13 cubit. And the guardrooms on either side were six cubits square. •He measured 14 the width of the gate from the back wall of one guardroom to the back wall of 15 the other; it was twenty-five cubits across from window to window. •He measured 16 the porch: twenty cubits; after the porch of the gate came the outer court. •From the entrance end of the gate to the porch opposite: fifty cubits. •On each side of the gate there were played openings both in the guardrooms and in the spaces between, and there were openings all round inside the porch as well, and palm trees decorating the jambs.

The outer court

17 He took me through to the outer court that had rooms and a paved terrace 18 going all the way round; there were thirty rooms on this terrace. •This terrace, which came right up to the sides of the gates and matched their depth, is the 19 Lower Terrace. •He measured across the outer court from the lower gate to the outside of the inner court: a hundred cubits on the eastern and northern sides.

The north gate

20 He measured the length and breadth of the north gate of the outer court. •It 21 had three guardrooms on each side; the thickness of the walls between them, and its porch too, all measured the same as those of the first gate: fifty cubits by 22 twenty-five cubits. •Its windows, its porch and its palm-tree decoration all measured the same as those of the east gate. There were seven steps up to it, 23 and its porch was at the inner end. •In the inner court there was, opposite the north gate, a gate like the one opposite the east gate. He measured the distance from one gate to the other: a hundred cubits.

The south gate

24 He took me to the south side where there was a south gate; he measured its guardrooms, wall-thicknesses and porch; they were of the same dimensions as 25 the others. •All round it and its porch were windows, like the other windows; it 26 measured fifty cubits by twenty-five cubits, •and it had seven steps up to it; its porch was at the inner end and had palm-tree decoration on its jambs, one on 27 each side. •The inner court had a south gate; he measured the distance southwards from one gate to the other: a hundred cubits.

The inner court. The south gate

28 He then took me into the inner court by the south gate; he measured the south
 29 gate which was the same size as the others. •Its guardrooms, wall-thicknesses and porch all measured the same as the others. It and its porch had windows 30 all round. It measured fifty cubits by twenty-five cubits. •Its porch, measured, 31 in all, all round, was twenty-five cubits by five cubits. •The porch gave on to the outer court. It had palm trees on its jambs, each side, and eight steps leading up to it.

The east gate

32 He took me to the east gate and measured it. It was the same size as the 33 others. •Its guardrooms, the thickness of its walls, its porch all measured the same as the others. It and its porch had windows all round. Its area was fifty 34 cubits by twenty-five cubits. •Its porch gave on to the outer court. There were palm trees on its jambs on either side, and eight steps leading up to it.

The north gate

35 He took me to the north gate and measured it. •Its guardrooms, the thickness
 36 of its walls and its porch all measured the same as the others. It had windows all round. Its area was fifty cubits by twenty-five cubits. •Its porch gave on to the outer court. There were palm trees on its jambs on either side, and eight steps leading up to it. 37

Subsidiary buildings at the gate

There was a room entered from the porch of the gates. It was here that they washed the holocaust. •And on either side of the porch of the gate there were two tables for slaughtering the holocaust, the sacrifice for sin and the sacrifice of reparation. •Going northward up to the gate, there were two tables outside and two more tables at the porch end of the gate. •Four tables on the inside and four tables on the outside of the porch; in all, eight tables on which the sacrifices were offered. •There were also four tables of dressed stone for holocausts, a cubit and a half long, a cubit and a half wide and a cubit high, on which all the things necessary for killing the holocaust and the sacrifices were put. •Rims, a handbreadth broad, went all round the top, and on these tables was put the sacrificial flesh. 38 39 40 41 42 43

He took me into the inner court; there were two lodges in the inner court, one at the side of the north gate, facing south, the other at the side of the south gate, facing north. •He told me, 'The lodge looking south is for the priests in charge of the Temple, •and the lodge looking north is for the priests who serve the altar. These are the sons of Zadok, those of the sons of Levi who approach Yahweh to serve him.' 44 45 46

The inner court

He measured the inner court. It was a quadrangle, a hundred cubits by a hundred cubits, with the altar in front of the Temple. 47

The Temple.<sup>b</sup> The Ulam

He took me to the Ulam of the Temple and measured its door jambs—five cubits each side; and the width of the entrance was fourteen cubits with a three-cubit wall each side. •The Ulam was twenty cubits by twelve cubits. There were ten steps leading up to it, and there were columns by the door jambs, one on each side. 48 49

The Hekal

41 He took me into the Hekal and measured its door jambs: six cubits deep on the one side, six cubits deep on the other. •The width of the entrance was ten cubits. The walls each side of the entrance were five cubits on the one side and five cubits on the other. He measured its length: forty cubits; and its width: twenty cubits. 1 2

The Debir

He went in and measured the door jambs at the entrance: two cubits; then the entrance: six cubits; and the walls each side of the entrance: seven cubits. •He measured its length: twenty cubits; and its width measured across the end wall of the Hekal: twenty cubits. He then said to me, 'This is the most holy place'. 3 4

The side cells

He measured the wall of the Temple: six cubits. The width of the side cells was four cubits, all round the Temple. •The cells were one above the other, thirty of them in three stories. The supports for the surrounding cells were fixed into the Temple wall, so that the cells were not recessed into the wall of the Temple. •The width of the cells increased, story by story, for they surrounded the Temple in the stories that went right round it, and hence . . . •Then I saw that there was a paved terrace all round the Temple. The height of this, which formed the base of the side cells, was a full rod of six cubits. •The outer wall of 5 6 7 8 9

the side cells was five cubits thick and the pavement formed a verandah outside 10 the cells of the Temple. •Beyond the rooms came an area twenty cubits wide 11 right round the Temple. •And for getting from the side cells on to the verandah there was one entrance on the north side and one entrance on the south side.
 The width of the verandah was five cubits right round.

The building on the west side

12 The building to the west of this surrounding area was seventy cubits by ninety 13 cubits, and the wall of the building was five cubits thick, all round. •He measured the length of the Temple: a hundred cubits. The length of the court plus the 14 building and its walls: a hundred cubits. •The breadth of the facade of the 15 Temple with the quadrangle: a hundred cubits. •He measured the length of the building plus the surrounding area at the back, plus the side depth of its door:
 a hundred cubits.

Particulars of the Temple itself

17 The inside of the Hekal and the porches of the court, •their thresholds, the window screens, the three sets of doors, one at each threshold, were all panelled with wood, from floor to windows, and the windows were screened with lattice-17 work. •From the door to the inner part of the Temple, and right round the 18 whole wall of the inner room, outside and inside, were carved •cherubs and 19 palm trees, palm trees and cherubs alternating; each cherub had two faces—•the face of a man turned towards the palm tree one side and the face of a lion towards 20 the palm tree the other side, all round the Temple. •The cherubs and palm trees were carved from the floor to above the entrance, as also on the wall of the hall.
 21 The pillars of the Temple were square.

The wooden altar

22 In front of the Debir, there appeared to be •a wooden altar, three cubits high and two cubits square. Its corners, base and sides were of wood. He said to me,
 'This is the table in front of Yahweh'.

The doors

23 There was a double door for the Hekal, and a double door for the Debir.
 24 These doors had two hinged leaves, two leaves for the one door, two leaves for 25 the other. •On them, on the doors of the Hekal, were carved cherubs and palm trees like those carved on the walls. A wooden screen outside went across the 26 front of the Ulam. •There were screened windows with flanking palm trees on the walls of the Ulam, and of the cells to the side of the Temple and on the screens.

Outbuildings of the Temple

1 42 He took me northward into the court and led me to the rooms facing the 2 outer court, those to the north of the building. •They were one hundred 3 cubits long on the north side and fifty cubits wide. •On the sides facing the porches of the inner court and the paving of the outer court was a gallery in front of 4 the triple gallery. •and in front of the rooms was a walk, ten cubits broad measured
 5 inwards and a hundred cubits long; their doors looked north. •The top floor rooms were narrow because the galleries took up part of the width, being narrower than those on the ground floor or those on the middle floor of the building, 6 since these were divided into three stories and had no columns such as the court had. Hence they were narrower than the ground floor ones or the middle floor 7 ones below them. •The outer wall parallel to the rooms, facing them and giving 8 on to the outer court, was fifty cubits long. •the length of the rooms facing the outer court being fifty cubits, while on the side facing the Temple it was a hundred cubits. •Beneath the rooms there was an entrance from the east, leading in from 9

the outer court.

In the thickness of the wall of the court, on the south side fronting the court 10 and the building, were rooms. •A walk ran in front of them, as with the rooms 11 built on the north side; they were of the same length and breadth, and had similar design and doors in and out. •They were like the entrances of the southern 12 rooms; one entrance at the end of each walk, fronting the eastern wall, being the way in. •He said to me, 'The northern and southern rooms giving on to the court 13 are the rooms of the Debir, in which the priests who approach Yahweh will eat the most holy things. In them will be placed the most holy things: the oblation, the sacrifice for sin and the sacrifice of reparation, since this is a holy place. •Once 14 the priests have entered, they will not go out of the holy place into the outer court without leaving their liturgical vestments there, since these vestments are holy; they will put on other clothes before going near places assigned to the people.'

Measurements of the court

When he had finished measuring the inside of the Temple, he took me out to 15
the east gate and measured the whole area of the court. •He measured the east 16 side with his measuring rod: a total of five hundred cubits by the measuring rod.
He then measured the north side: a total of five hundred cubits by the measuring 17
rod. •He then measured the south side: five hundred cubits by the measuring rod •was the total. On the west side he measured five hundred cubits by the 18 measuring rod. •He measured the entire enclosing wall on all four sides: length 20 five hundred, breadth five hundred, separating the sacred from the profane.

The return of Yahweh

43 He took me to the gate, the one facing east. •I saw the glory of the God of  $\frac{1}{2}$ Israel approaching from the east. A sound came with it, like the sound of the ocean, and the earth shone with his glory. •This vision was like the one I had 3 seen when I had come for the destruction of the city, and like the one I had seen on the bank of the river Chebar. Then I prostrated myself.

The glory of Yahweh arrived at the Temple by the east gate. •The spirit  $\frac{1}{3}$ lifted me up and brought me into the inner court; I saw the glory of Yahweh fill the Temple. •And I heard someone speaking to me from the Temple while the 6 man stood beside me. •The voice said, 'Son of man, this is the dais of my throne, the step on which I rest my feet. I shall live here among the sons of Israel for 7 ever; and the House of Israel, they and their kings, will no longer defile my holy name with their whorings and the corpses of their kings, •setting their 8 threshold beside my threshold and their pillars beside my pillars, with a party wall shared by them and me. They used to defile my holy name by their filthy practices, and this is why I destroyed them in my anger. •From now on they 9 will banish their whorings and the corpses of their kings from my presence and I shall live among them for ever.

'Son of man, describe this Temple to the House of Israel, to shame them out 10 of their filthy practices. Let them draw up the plan, •and, if they are ashamed of 11 their behaviour, show them the design and plan of the Temple, its exits and entrances, its shape, how all of it is arranged, the entire design and all its principles. Give them all this in writing so that they can see and take note of its 12 design and the way it is all arranged and carry it out. •This is the charter of the Temple: all the surrounding area on top of the mountain is a most holy area.
Such is the charter of the Temple.'

The altar

Here are the dimensions of the altar, in cubits each of a cubit plus a  $\frac{1}{3}$ handbreadth. The base: one cubit high and one cubit wide. The ledge all round it: one span. This is the height of the altar: •from the ground level of the base 14 up to the lower plinth, two cubits high and one cubit wide; from the lesser plinth 15 to the greater plinth, four cubits high and one cubit wide. •The altar hearth: four 16 cubits high, with four horns projecting from the hearth, •the hearth being square:

 17 twelve cubits by twelve cubits; •and the square plinth: fourteen cubits by fourteen cubits; and the ledge all round: half a cubit; and the base: one cubit all round.
 The steps were on the east side.

The consecration of the altar

18 He said to me, 'Son of man, the Lord Yahweh says this: As regards the altar, this is how things are to be done when it has been built for the offering of 19 the holocaust and for the pouring of blood. •To those levitical priests of the race of Zadok who approach me to serve me—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks—you 20 must give a young bull as a sacrifice for sin. •You are to take some of its blood and put it on the four horns and the four corners of the plinth and the surrounding 21 ledge. In this way you will purify it and make atonement on it. •Then take the bull of the sacrifice for sin and burn it in that part of the Temple which is cut off 22 from the sanctuary. •On the second day, you must offer an unblemished he-goat 23 as the sacrifice for sin, and the altar is to be purified again as with the bull. •When you have finished the purification you must offer a young bull without blemish 24 and an unblemished ram chosen from the flock. •You are to present them before Yahweh, and the priests will sprinkle salt on them and offer them as a holocaust
 25 to Yahweh. •As a sacrifice for sin, every day for seven days you must offer a 26 he-goat, a bull and an unblemished ram from the flock, •for a week. In this way 27 the altar will be atoned for and will be purified and inaugurated. •At the end of that time, on the eighth day and afterwards, the priest is to offer your holocausts and your communion sacrifices on the altar, and I will look kindly on you—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks.'

The use of the east gate

1 44 He brought me back to the outer east gate of the sanctuary. It was shut.
 2 Yahweh said to me, 'This gate will be kept shut. No one will open it or go through it, since Yahweh the God of Israel has been through it. And so it must 3 be kept shut. •The prince himself, however, may sit there to take his meal in the presence of Yahweh. He is to enter and leave through the porch of the gate.'

Rules of admission to the Temple

4 He led me through the north gate to the front of the Temple. I looked; I saw the glory of Yahweh filling the Temple of Yahweh, and I prostrated myself.
 5 Yahweh said to me, 'Son of man, pay attention, look carefully and listen closely to everything I explain: these are all the arrangements of the Temple of Yahweh and all its laws. Be careful about which men are admitted to the Temple and 6 which are excluded from the sanctuary. •And say to the rebels of the House of Israel, "The Lord Yahweh says this: You have gone beyond all bounds with 7 all your filthy practices, House of Israel, •by admitting aliens, uncircumcised in heart and body, to frequent my sanctuary and profane my Temple, while you offer my bread, the fat and the blood, and break my covenant with all your 8 filthy practices. •Instead of performing your duties to me in the Holy Place, 9 you have deputed someone else to perform your duties in my sanctuary. •The Lord Yahweh says this: No alien, uncircumcised in heart and body, is to enter my sanctuary, none of those aliens living among the Israelites.'

The Levites

10 'As regards the Levites who abandoned me when Israel strayed far from me 11 to follow its idols, they must bear the weight of their own sin. •They are to be servants in my sanctuary, responsible for guarding the Temple gates and serving the Temple. They will kill the holocaust and the sacrifice for the people, and hold 12 themselves at the service of the people. •Since they used to be at their service in front of their idols and were an occasion of sin to the House of Israel, very well, I raise my hand against them—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks; they must bear the weight of their sin. •They are never to approach me again to perform the priestly office in my presence, or to touch my holy things and my most holy things; they must bear the disgrace of their filthy practices. •I shall give them the responsibility of working in the Temple; I shall make them responsible for serving it and for everything to be done in it.

The priests

•As regards the levitical priests, the sons of Zadok, who did their duty to me in the sanctuary when the Israelites strayed far from me, they may still approach me to serve me; they may stand in my presence to offer me the fat and blood—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks. •They may enter my sanctuary and approach my table to serve me; they may perform my liturgy. •Once they enter the gates of the inner court, they are to wear linen vestments; they are to wear no wool when they serve inside the gates of the inner court and in the Temple. •They are to wear linen caps on their heads, and linen breeches about their loins; they are not to wear belts of . . . •When they go out to the people in the outer court, they are to remove the vestments in which they have performed the liturgy and leave them in the rooms of the Holy Place, and put on other clothes, so as not to hallow the people with their vestments. •They are neither to shave their heads nor to let their hair grow long, but must cut their hair to a reasonable length. •No priest is to drink wine on the day he enters the inner court. •They are not to marry widows or divorced women, but only virgins of the race of Israel; they may, however, marry widows, if the widow of a priest. •They are to teach my people the difference between what is sacred and what is profane and make them understand the difference between what is clean and what is unclean. •They are to be judges in disputes; they must judge in the spirit of my statutes; they must follow my laws and ordinances at all my feasts and keep my sabbaths holy. •They are not to go near a dead man, in case they become unclean, except in these permissible cases, that is, for father, mother, daughter, son, brother or unmarried sister. •After one of them has been purified, seven days must elapse; •then, on the day when he enters the Holy Place—enters the inner court to minister in the Holy Place—he is to offer his sacrifice for sin—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks. •They are to have no inheritance; I myself will be their inheritance. You are to give them no patrimony in Israel; I myself will be their patrimony. •Their food is to be the oblation, the sacrifice for sin and the sacrifice of reparation. Everything in Israel put under the ban shall be for them. The best of all your first-fruits, of every sort of due and of all that you offer, is to go to the priests; and the best of your dough you are also to give to the priests, so that a blessing may rest on your house. •Priests are not to eat the flesh of anything that has died a natural death or been savaged, neither of a bird nor of any other creature.

The division of the country. The portion for Yahweh

45 •When you divide the country into portions by lot, you are to allocate the sacred portion of the country to Yahweh: twenty-five thousand cubits long and twenty thousand wide. The whole of this land is to be sacred, •and of this an area five hundred by five hundred cubits square is to be for the sanctuary, with a boundary fifty cubits wide right round. •Out of this area you are also to measure a section twenty-five thousand by ten thousand cubits, in which there shall stand the sanctuary, the Holy of Holies. •This is to be the sacred portion of the country; it shall belong to the priests who officiate in the sanctuary and approach Yahweh to serve him. There they are to have their houses and also a district set apart for the sanctuary. •An area twenty-five thousand by ten thousand cubits is to be kept for the Levites serving the Temple to own,

- 6 with towns to live in. •You are to give the city possession of an area five thousand by twenty-five thousand cubits, near the land belonging to the sanctuary; this is to be for the whole House of Israel.

The portion for the prince

- 7 'The prince is to have a domain either side of the land belonging to the Holy Place and of the land belonging to the city, and adjacent to the land belonging to the Holy Place and the land belonging to the city, stretching westwards from the west and eastwards from the east, its size equal to one of the portions 8 between the west and the east frontiers<sup>a</sup> of the country. This is to be his possession in Israel. Then my princes will no longer oppress my people; they must leave the rest of the country for the House of Israel, for its tribes.
- 9 'The Lord Yahweh says this: Let this be enough for you, princes of Israel! Give up your violence and plundering, practise justice and integrity, crush my 10 people no more with taxation—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks. •Have scales that are fair, a fair ephah, a fair bath. •Let the ephah and bath be equal, let 11 the bath hold one tenth of a homer and the ephah one tenth of a homer. Let 12 the measures be based on the homer. •The shekel is to be twenty gerahs. Twenty shekels, twenty-five shekels and fifteen shekels are to make one mina.

Offerings for worship

- 13 'This is the offering that you are to levy: the sixth of an ephah for every 14 homer of wheat, and the sixth of an ephah for every homer of barley. •The dues on oil: one bath of oil out of every ten baths or out of every cor (which is equal 15 to ten baths or one homer, since ten baths equal one homer). •You are to levy one sheep on every flock of two hundred from the patrimony of Israel for the 16 oblation, the holocaust and the communion sacrifice. This is to form your atonement—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks. •Let all the people of the 17 country be subject to this due for the prince of Israel. •The prince is to make himself responsible for providing the holocausts, oblation and libation for 18 feasts, New Moons and sabbaths, for all the solemn festivals of the House of Israel. He is to provide the sacrifice for sin, oblation, holocaust and communion
19 sacrifices atoning for the House of Israel.

The feast of the Passover

- 18 'The Lord Yahweh says this: On the first day of the first month, you must 19 take a young bull without blemish, to purify the sanctuary. •The priest is to take blood from the sacrifice for sin and put it on the doorposts of the Temple,
20 on the four corners of the altar plinth and on the doorposts of the gates of the inner court. •You must do the same on the seventh of the month, on behalf of 21 anyone who has sinned through inadvertence or ignorance. This is how you are to make atonement for the Temple. •On the fourteenth day of the first month, 22 you must celebrate the feast of the Passover. For seven days everyone is to eat unleavened loaves. •On that day, the prince must offer a bull as a sacrifice for 23 sin, for himself and all the people in the country. •For the seven days of the feast, he must offer Yahweh a holocaust of seven bulls and seven rams without 24 blemish, daily for a week, and one he-goat daily as a sacrifice for sin, •offering one ephah for each bull and one ephah for each ram, and a hin of oil for every 25 ephah for the oblation.

The feast of Tabernacles

- 25 'For the feast that falls on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, he must do the same for seven days, offering the sacrifice for sin, the holocaust, oblation and the oil.

45 a. This plan provides an area about seven miles square at Jerusalem for the Temple, its precincts and towns for the priests and Levites; and on each side of it, a strip of the same width for the prince, to the Jordan on the E. and to the Mediterranean on the W.

The sabbath and the New Moon

46 'Thus speaks the Lord Yahweh: The east gate of the inner court must 1 be kept shut for the six working days. On the sabbath day it is to be 2 opened, as also on the day of the New Moon; •and the prince is to go in through 3
 the porch of the outer gate and take his position by the doorposts of the gate. 4
 The priests must then offer his holocaust and his communion sacrifice. He must 5 prostrate himself on the threshold of the gate and go out, and the gate is 6 not to be shut again until the evening. •The people of the country are to prostrate 7 themselves in the presence of Yahweh at the entrance to the gate on sabbaths 8 and days of the New Moon. •The holocaust offered to Yahweh by the prince 9 on the sabbath day is to consist of six unblemished lambs and one unblemished 10
 ram, •and an oblation of one ephah for the ram, and such oblation as he pleases 11 for the lambs, and a hin of oil for every ephah. •On the day of the New Moon 12
 it is to consist of a young bull without blemish, six unblemished lambs and one 13 unblemished ram, •when he must make an oblation of one ephah for the bull 14 and one ephah for the ram, and what he pleases for the lambs, and a hin of oil 15 for every ephah.

Miscellaneous regulations

'When the prince goes in, he is to enter by the porch of the gate, and he must 8 leave by the same way. •When the people of the country come into the presence 9 of Yahweh at the solemn festivals, those who have come in by the north gate to 10 prostrate themselves are to go out by the south gate, and those who have come 11 in by the south gate are to go out by the north gate; no one is to turn back to 12 leave through the gate by which he entered but is to go out on the opposite side. 13
 The prince is to come with them, coming in like them and going out like them. •On 14 feast days and solemn festivals the oblation must be one ephah for every bull, 15
 one ephah for every ram, what he pleases for the lambs, and a hin of oil for 16
 every ephah. •When the prince offers Yahweh a voluntary holocaust or a 17 voluntary communion sacrifice, the east gate is to be opened for him, and he 18 is to offer his holocaust and his communion sacrifice as he does on the sabbath 19 day; when he has gone out, the gate is to be shut after him. •Every day he must 20 offer an unblemished lamb one year old as a holocaust to Yahweh; he must 21 offer this every morning. •Every morning in addition he is to offer an oblation 22 of one sixth of an ephah and one third of a hin of oil, for mixing with the flour. 23
 This is the oblation to Yahweh, an eternal law fixed in perpetuity. •The lamb, 24
 the oblation and the oil are to be offered morning after morning for ever.

'The Lord Yahweh says this. If the prince presents his sons with part 16 of his hereditary portion, the gift is to pass into the ownership of his sons, and 17 become their hereditary property. •If, however, he presents part of his hereditary 18 portion to one of his servants, it shall only belong to the man until the year of 19 liberation<sup>a</sup> and is then to revert to the prince. Only his sons may retain his hereditary 20 portion. •The prince may not take any part of the people's hereditary portion 21 and thus rob them of their rightful possessions; he must provide the patrimony 22 of his sons out of his own property, so that no member of my people is robbed 23 of his rightful possessions."'

'He took me through the entrance at the side of the north gate that leads 19 to the rooms of the Holy Place set apart for the priests. And there before us, 20 to the west, was a space at the end. •He said to me, 'This is where the priests 21 are to boil the slaughtered animals for the sacrifice for sin and the sacrifice of 22
 reparation, and where they are to bake the oblation, without having to carry 23 them into the outer court and so run the risk of hallowing the people'. •He took 24 me into the outer court and led me to each of its four corners; in each corner 25 of the outer court was a compound; •in other words, the four corners of the 26 court contained four small compounds, forty cubits by thirty, all four being

- 23 the same size. •Each of the four was enclosed by a wall, with hearths all round 24 the bottom of the wall. •He said, 'These are the kitchens where the Temple servants are to boil the sacrifices offered by the people'.

The spring in the Temple

- 1 47 He brought me back to the entrance of the Temple, where a stream came out from under the Temple threshold and flowed eastwards, since the Temple faced east. The water flowed from under the right side of the Temple, 2 south of the altar. •He took me out by the north gate and led me right round outside as far as the outer east gate where the water flowed out on the right-hand 3 side. •The man went to the east holding his measuring line and measured off a thousand cubits; he then made me wade across the stream; the water reached 4 my ankles. •He measured off another thousand and made me wade across the stream again; the water reached my knees. He measured off another thousand 5 and made me wade across again; the water reached my waist. •He measured off another thousand; it was now a river which I could not cross; the stream 6 had swollen and was now deep water, a river impossible to cross. •He then said, 'Do you see, son of man?' He took me further, then brought me back to 7 the bank of the river. •When I got back, there were many trees on each bank 8 of the river. •He said, 'This water flows east down to the Arabah and to the 9 sea; and flowing into the sea it makes its waters wholesome. •Wherever the river flows, all living creatures teeming in it will live. Fish will be very plentiful, for wherever the water goes it brings health, and life teems wherever 10 the river flows. •There will be fishermen on its banks. Fishing nets will be spread from En-gedi to En-eglaim. The fish will be as varied and as 11 plentiful as the fish of the Great Sea.' •The marshes and lagoons, however, will 12 not become wholesome, but will remain salt. •Along the river, on either bank, will grow every kind of fruit tree with leaves that never wither and fruit that never fails; they will bear new fruit every month, because this water comes from the sanctuary. And their fruit will be good to eat and the leaves medicinal.

The frontiers of the land

- 13 'The Lord Yahweh says this: Here are the frontiers of the territories to be allotted between the twelve tribes of Israel, with two portions for Joseph.
 14 You must share it out equally between you, since I swore to your fathers that I 15 would give them this land which now falls to you as your inheritance. •Here are the frontiers of the land. On the north, from the Great Sea by way of Hethlon to 16 the Pass of Hamath and on to Zedad, •Berothah, Sibraim lying between the territories of Damascus and Hamath—and to Hazer-hat-ticon on the 17 borders of Hauran. •The frontier will extend from the sea to Hazer-enon, marching with the frontier of Damascus to the north of it and the frontier of 18 Hamath also on the north; so much for the northern frontier. •On the east the Jordan will serve as frontier between Hauran and Damascus, between Gilead and the land of Israel, down to the Eastern Sea<sup>b</sup> as far as Tamar; so much for 19 the eastern frontier. •On the south, from Tamar southward to the waters of Meribah in Kadesh, to the Wadi and the Great Sea; so much for the southern 20 frontier. •On the west the Great Sea will serve as frontier up to the point 21 opposite the Pass of Hamath; so much for the western frontier. •You are to 22 share out this land among yourselves, between the tribes of Israel. •You are to divide it into inheritances for yourselves and the aliens settled among you who have begotten children with you, since you are to treat them as citizens of Israel.
 They are to draw lots with you for their inheritance, with the tribes of Israel.
 23 You must give the alien his inheritance in the tribe in which he is living—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks.

The division of the land

48 'This is the list of the tribes. In the far north by way of Hethlon to the 1 Pass of Hamath, to Hazer-enon, with the frontier of Damascus lying 2 to the north, and marching with Hamath—the land from the eastern frontier 3 to the western frontier: Dan, one portion. •Bordering Dan, from the eastern 4 frontier to the western frontier: Asher, one portion. •Bordering Asher, from 5
 the eastern frontier to the western frontier: Naphtali, one portion. •Bordering 6 Naphtali, from the eastern frontier to the western frontier: Manasseh, one 7 portion. •Bordering Manasseh, from the eastern frontier to the western frontier: 8 Ephraim, one portion. •Bordering Ephraim, from the eastern frontier to the 9 western frontier: Reuben, one portion. •Bordering Reuben, from the eastern 10 frontier to the western frontier: Judah, one portion. •Bordering Judah, from 11
 the eastern frontier to the western frontier, is the part you are to set aside, 12 twenty-five thousand cubits wide, and as long as each of the other portions 13 from the eastern frontier to the western frontier. The sanctuary will be in the 14 centre of it.

'The part you must set aside for Yahweh is to be twenty-five thousand cubits 9 long and ten thousand cubits wide. •This consecrated portion is to belong to 10
 the priests, being, on the north side, twenty-five thousand cubits; on the west 11 side ten thousand cubits wide, on the east side ten thousand cubits wide and 12 on the south side twenty-five thousand cubits long, and the sanctuary of Yahweh 13 will be in the centre of it. •This is to belong to the consecrated priests, to those of 14
 the sons of Zadok who maintained my liturgy and did not go astray with the 15 straying Israelites, as the Levites went astray. •And so their portion is to be taken 16 out of the most holy portion of the land, near the territory of the Levites. •The 17 territory of the Levites, like the territory of the priests, is to be twenty-five 18 thousand cubits long and ten thousand wide—the whole length being twenty-five 19 thousand and the width ten thousand. •It will be illegal for them to sell or 20 exchange any part of it, and the domain can never be alienated, since it is 21 consecrated to Yahweh. •As regards the remainder, an area of five thousand 22 cubits by twenty-five thousand, this is to be for the common use of the city, for 23 houses and pastures. The city is to stand in the centre. •Here are its 24 measurements: on the north side, four thousand five hundred cubits; on the 25 south side, four thousand five hundred cubits; on the east side, four thousand 26 five hundred cubits; on the west side, four thousand five hundred cubits. •And 17
 the city pastures are to extend two hundred and fifty cubits to the north, two 18 hundred and fifty to the south, two hundred and fifty to the east, two hundred 19 and fifty to the west. •One strip, contiguous to the consecrated portion, must 20 be left over, consisting of ten thousand cubits to eastward and ten thousand to 21 westward, marching with the consecrated portion; this will bring in a revenue 22 for feeding the municipal workmen. •These municipal workpeople are to be drawn 23 from all the tribes of Israel. •The portion is to have a total area of twenty-five 24 thousand cubits by twenty-five thousand. You are to allocate a quarter of the 25 sacred portion to form the city. •What is left over shall be for the prince, on 26 either side of the sacred portion and of the common land belonging to the city, 27 marching with the twenty-five thousand cubits to eastward to the eastern 28 frontier, and marching with the twenty-five thousand cubits to westward to 29
 the western frontier—running parallel with the other portions and belonging to 30 the prince. In the centre will be the consecrated portion and the sanctuary of 31 the Temple. •Thus, apart from the property of the Levites and the property 32 of the city which lie inside the prince's portion, everything between the borders 33 of Judah and the borders of Benjamin is to belong to the prince.

'Here are the rest of the tribes: from the eastern frontier to the western 23 frontier: Benjamin, one portion. •Bordering Benjamin, from the eastern frontier 24 to the western frontier: Simeon, one portion. •Bordering Simeon, from the 25 eastern frontier to the western frontier: Issachar, one portion. •Bordering 26

- Issachar, from the eastern frontier to the western frontier: Zebulun, one portion.
27 Bordering Zebulun, from the eastern frontier to the western frontier: Gad, one 28 portion. •The southern border of Gad will be formed by the southern frontier running through Tamar to the waters of Meribah in Kadesh, to the Wadi and 29 the Great Sea. •This is how you are to divide the land into patrimonies for the tribes of Israel; and these are to be their portions—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks.

The gates of Jerusalem

- 30 'Here are the ways out of the city. On the north side, being four thousand 31 five hundred cubits long, •three gates: the gate of Reuben, the gate of Judah, the gate of Levi; the gates of the city are to be named after the tribes of Israel.
32 On the east side, being four thousand five hundred cubits long, three gates:
33 the gate of Joseph, the gate of Benjamin, the gate of Dan. •On the south side, being four thousand five hundred cubits long, three gates: the gate of Simeon, 34 the gate of Issachar, the gate of Zebulun. •On the west side, being four thousand five hundred cubits long, three gates: the gate of Gad, the gate of Asher, the 35 gate of Naphtali. •Total perimeter: eighteen thousand cubits.
'The name of the city in future is to be: Yahweh-is-there.'

LEGAL MATERIAL FROM PRIESTLY SOURCES

This is generally accepted to be an early collection of Priestly material, possibly from the period before the destruction of the Jerusalem Temple in 587 B.C., which the Priestly editors later incorporated into their collection of legal material.

THE LAW OF HOLINESS

LEVITICUS 17—26

Immolation and sacrifice

17 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 1
'Speak to Aaron and his sons and all the sons of Israel and say to them: 2
"This is the word of Yahweh, his command:

Any man of the House of Israel who immolates an ox, lamb or goat, whether 3 inside the camp or outside it, •must first bring it to the entrance to the Tent 4 of Meeting to make an offering of it to Yahweh before his tabernacle; and anyone who fails to do this must answer for the blood that is spilt; he shall be 5 outlawed from his people. •Thus, the sacrifices that the sons of Israel wish to make

- in the open country will be brought to the priest, for Yahweh, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and with them they will make communion sacrifices for
- 6 Yahweh. •The priest shall sprinkle the blood on the altar of Yahweh that stands at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and he shall burn the fat, and its fragrance
- 7 will appease Yahweh. •They must no longer offer their sacrifices to the satyrs<sup>a</sup> in whose service they once prostituted themselves.<sup>b</sup> This is a perpetual law for them and for their descendants.”
- 8 “You will also say to them, “Any man of the House of Israel or stranger living
- 9 among you who offers a holocaust or sacrifice •without bringing it to the entrance to the Tent of Meeting to offer it to Yahweh shall be outlawed from his people.
- 10 “If any man of the House of Israel or stranger living among you eats blood of any kind, I will set my face against the man who has eaten the blood and
- 11 will outlaw him from his people. •The life of the flesh is in the blood. This blood I myself have given you to perform the rite of atonement for your lives
- 12 at the altar; for it is blood that atones for a life. •That is why I have said to the sons of Israel: None of you nor any stranger living among you shall eat blood.
- 13 “If any son of Israel or any stranger living among you catches game or bird that it is lawful to eat, he must pour out its blood and cover it with earth.
- 14 For the life of all flesh is its blood, and I have said to the sons of Israel: You must not eat the blood of any flesh, for the life of all flesh is in its blood, and anyone who eats it shall be outlawed from his people.
- 15 “Anyone, native or stranger, who eats an animal that has died a natural death or been savaged by beasts must wash his clothing and wash himself; he
- 16 shall be unclean until evening, then he will be clean. •But if he does not wash his clothing and wash his body, he must bear the consequences of his fault.”

Rules for conjugal relationships

- 1 18 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:
- 2 “Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them:
- 3 “I am Yahweh your God. •You must not behave as they do in Egypt where once you lived; you must not behave as they do in Canaan where I am taking
- 4 you. You must not follow their laws. •You must follow my customs and keep my laws; by them you must lead your life.
- 5 “I am Yahweh your God. •You must keep my laws and my customs. Whoever complies with them will find life in them.
- 6 “I am Yahweh.
- 7 “None of you may approach a woman who is closely related to him, to uncover her nakedness. I am Yahweh.
- 8 “You must not uncover the nakedness of your father or mother. She is your mother—you must not uncover her nakedness.
- 9 “You must not uncover the nakedness of your father’s wife; it is your father’s nakedness.
- 10 “You must not uncover the nakedness of your sister, whether she is your father’s or your mother’s daughter. Whether she is born in the same house or elsewhere, you must not uncover her nakedness.
- 11 “You must not uncover the nakedness of the daughter of your son or daughter; for their nakedness is your own.
- 12 “You must not uncover the nakedness of the daughter of your father’s wife, born of your father. She is your sister; you must not uncover her nakedness.
- 13 “You must not uncover the nakedness of your father’s sister; for it is your father’s flesh.

17 a. ‘Goats’, contemptuously used of the demons in animal-form thought to live in deserts and ruins, e.g. Azazel. b. The common phrase for religious unfaithfulness.

"You must not uncover the nakedness of your mother's sister; for it is your mother's flesh. 13

"You must not uncover the nakedness of your father's brother; you must therefore not approach his wife, for she is your aunt. 14

"You must not uncover the nakedness of your daughter-in-law. She is your son's wife; you must not uncover her nakedness. 15

"You must not uncover the nakedness of your brother's wife; for it is your brother's nakedness. 16

"You must not uncover the nakedness of a woman and of her daughter too; you must not take the daughter of her son or of her daughter to uncover their nakedness. They are your own flesh; it would be incest. 17

"You must not take into your harem a woman and her sister at the same time, uncovering the latter's nakedness while the former is still alive. 18

"You must not approach and uncover the nakedness of a woman who is unclean by reason of her monthly periods. 19

"You must not give your marriage bed to your neighbour's wife; you would thereby become unclean. 20

"You must not hand over any of your children to have them passed to Molech,<sup>4</sup> nor must you profane the name of your God in this way. I am Yahweh. 21

"You must not lie with a man as with a woman. This is a hateful thing. 22

"You must not lie with any animal; you would thereby become unclean. A woman must not offer herself to an animal, to have intercourse with it. This would be a foul thing. 23

"Do not make yourselves unclean by any of these practices, for it was by such things that the nations that I have expelled to make way for you made themselves unclean. 24

"The land became unclean; I exacted the penalty for its fault and the land had to vomit out its inhabitants. 25

"But you must keep my laws and customs, you must not do any of these hateful things, neither native nor stranger living among you. •For all these hateful things were done by the people who inhabited this land before you, and the land became unclean. •If you make it unclean, will it not vomit you out as it vomited the nation that was here before you? •Yes, anyone who does one of these hateful things, whatever it may be, any person doing so must be cut off from his people. •Keep to my rules; do not observe the hateful practices that were observed before you came, then you will not be made unclean by them. I am Yahweh your God." 26
29

Worship

19 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 1
'Speak to the whole community of the sons of Israel and say to them: 2

"Be holy, for I, Yahweh your God, am holy.

"Each of you must respect his father and mother. 3

"And you must keep my sabbaths; I am Yahweh your God.

"Do not turn to idols, and cast no gods of metal. I am Yahweh your God. 4

"If you offer a communion sacrifice to Yahweh, make yourselves acceptable and so offer it. •It must be eaten the same day or the day after; whatever is left the day after must be burnt. •If eaten on the third day it would be a corrupt offering, it would not be acceptable. •Anyone who eats it must bear the consequences of his fault, for he will have profaned the holiness of Yahweh; this person shall be outlawed from his people. 5
8

"When you gather the harvest of your land, you are not to harvest to the very end of the field. You are not to gather the gleanings of the harvest. •You are neither to strip your vine bare nor to collect the fruit that has fallen in your 9 10

vineyard. You must leave them for the poor and the stranger. I am Yahweh your God.

11 "You must not steal nor deal deceitfully or fraudulently with your neighbour.
12 You must not swear falsely by my name, profaning the name of your God. I am 13 Yahweh. •You must not exploit or rob your neighbour. You must not keep back 14 the labourer's wage until next morning. •You must not curse the dumb, nor put an obstacle in the blind man's way, but you must fear your God. I am Yahweh.

15 "You must not be guilty of unjust verdicts. You must neither be partial to the little man nor overawed by the great; you must pass judgement on your neighbour 16 according to justice. •You must not slander your own people, and you must not 17 jeopardise your neighbour's life. I am Yahweh. •You must not bear hatred for your brother in your heart. You must openly tell him, your neighbour, of his 18 offence; this way you will not take a sin upon yourself. •You must not exact vengeance, nor must you bear a grudge against the children of your people. You must love your neighbour as yourself. I am Yahweh.

19 "You must keep my laws.

"You are not to mate your cattle with those of another kind; you are not to sow two kinds of grain in your field; you are not to wear a garment made from two kinds of fabric.

20 "If a man sleeps with a woman as though married to her, she being another's concubine slave not yet purchased or given her freedom, then the man is to be answerable for infringement of rights, but he shall not be put to death, since 21 she was not a free woman. •He must bring a sacrifice of reparation for Yahweh 22 to the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. This is to be a ram of reparation. •With this ram of reparation the priest must perform the rite of atonement over the man before Yahweh for the sin committed; and the sin he has committed will be forgiven.

23 "Once you have entered this land and planted a fruit tree of any sort, you are to regard its fruits as its foreskin.<sup>a</sup> For three years it shall be a thing uncircum-24 cised, and you must not eat it. •In the fourth year, all the fruit shall be consecrated 25 to Yahweh in a feast of praise. •In the fifth year you may eat the fruit and gather the produce for yourselves. I am Yahweh your God.

26 "You must eat nothing with blood in it. You must not practise divination or magic.

27 <sup>b</sup> "You are not to round off your hair at the edges nor trim the edges of your 28 beard. •You are not to gash your bodies when someone dies, and you are not to tattoo yourselves. I am Yahweh.

29 "Do not profane your daughter by making her a prostitute; thus the land will not be prostituted and filled with incest.

30 "You must keep my sabbaths and reverence my sanctuary. I am Yahweh.

31 "Do not have recourse to the spirits of the dead or to magicians; they will defile you. I am Yahweh your God.

32 "You are to rise up before grey hairs, you are to honour old age and fear your God. I am Yahweh.

33 "If a stranger lives with you in your land, do not molest him. •You must 34 count him as one of your own countrymen and love him as yourself—for you were once strangers yourselves in Egypt. I am Yahweh your God.

15 "Your legal verdicts, your measures—length, weight and capacity—must all be 36 just. •Your scales and weights must be just, a just ephah and a just hin. I am Yahweh who brought you out of the land of Egypt.

17 "Keep all my laws and customs, put them into practice. I am Yahweh."'

18 a. This is generally understood as forbidding the Canaanite practice of sacrificing children by making them 'pass through' fire as an offering to the god Molech (or Melech, 'king').

19 a. I.e., as the sign that it is adult and no longer 'unclean' (uncircumcised). b. Prohibition of pagan customs.

Penalties*a. Offences against true worship

20 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 1
 ‘Tell the sons of Israel: 2

“Any son of Israel or any stranger living in Israel must die if he hands over any of his children to Molech. The people of the country must stone him, and I shall set my face against that man and outlaw him from his people; for in handing over his children to Molech he has defiled my sanctuary and profaned my holy name. •If the people of the country choose to close their eyes to the man’s action in handing over his children to Molech, and they do not put him to death, •I myself shall turn my face against him and his clan. I shall outlaw them from their people, him and all those after him who prostitute themselves by following Molech. 3 4 5

“If a man has recourse to the spirits of the dead or to magicians, to prostitute himself by following them, I shall set my face against that man and outlaw him from his people. 6

“You must make yourselves holy, for I am Yahweh your God. 7

b. Offences against the family

“You must keep my laws and put them into practice, for it is I, Yahweh, who make you holy. •Hence: 8 9

“Anyone who curses father or mother must die. Since he has cursed his father or mother, his blood shall be on his own head.

“The man who commits adultery with a married woman: 10

“The man who commits adultery with his neighbour’s wife must die, he and his accomplice.

“The man who lies with his father’s wife has uncovered his father’s nakedness. Both of them must die, their blood shall be on their own heads. 11

“The man who lies with his daughter-in-law: both of them must die; they have defiled each other, their blood shall be on their own heads. 12

“The man who lies with a man in the same way as with a woman: they have done a hateful thing together; they must die, their blood shall be on their own heads. 13

“The man who takes a woman and her mother to wife: that is incest. They must be burnt to death—he and they: there must be no incest among you. 14

“The man who lies with an animal: he must die and the animal must be killed. 15

“The woman who approaches any animal to have intercourse with it: you shall kill the woman and the animal. They must die, their blood shall be on their own heads. 16

“The man who takes the daughter of his father or mother to wife: if he sees her nakedness and she sees his, it is a disgrace. They must be executed in public, for the man has uncovered the nakedness of his sister and he must bear the consequences of his fault. 17

“The man who lies with a woman during her monthly periods and uncovers her nakedness: he has laid bare the source of her blood, and she has uncovered the source of her blood: both of them must be outlawed from their people. 18

“You must not uncover the nakedness of your mother’s sister or of your father’s sister, a man has thus uncovered his own flesh, and they must bear the consequences of their fault. 19

“The man who lies with the wife of his paternal uncle: he has uncovered his uncle’s nakedness, they must bear the consequences of their fault and die childless. 20

“The man who takes to wife the wife of his brother: that is impurity; he has uncovered his brother’s nakedness, and they shall die childless. 21

c. Appendix: the clean and the unclean

“You must keep all my laws, all my customs, and put them into practice: thus you will not be vomited out by the land where I am taking you to live. •You 22 23

- 24 must not follow the laws of the nations that I expel to make way for you; they practised all these things and for this I have come to detest them. •I have told you already: You shall take possession of their soil, I myself will give you possession of it, a land where milk and honey flow.
- 25 "I, Yahweh your God, have set you apart from these peoples. •Therefore you must set the clean animal apart from the unclean, the unclean bird apart from the clean. Do not defile yourselves with these animals or birds, or things that creep on the ground: I have made you set them apart as unclean.

Conclusion

- 26 "Be consecrated to me, because I, Yahweh, am holy, and I will set you apart from all these peoples so that you may be mine.
- 27 "Any man or woman who is a necromancer or magician must be put to death by stoning; their blood shall be on their own heads."

The holiness of the priesthood

a. The priests

- 1 21 Yahweh said to Moses:

'Speak to the priests, the sons of Aaron, and say to them:

- 2 "None of them is to make himself unclean by going near the corpse of one of his family, •unless it be of his closest relations—father, mother, son, daughter, 3 brother. •He may also make himself unclean for his virgin sister: if she is still 4 a close relation since she has not belonged to a man. •If a husband, he must not make himself unclean for his family; in doing so he would profane himself.

- 5 "They must not wear tonsures, shave the edges of their beards, or gash their 6 bodies. •They shall be consecrated to their God and must not profane the name of their God. For it is they who bring the burnt offerings to Yahweh, the food of their God; and they must be in a holy condition.

- 7 "They must not marry a woman profaned by prostitution, or one divorced by her husband; for the priest is consecrated to his God.

- 8 "You shall treat him as holy, for he offers up the food of your God. He shall be a holy person to you, because I, Yahweh, am holy, who sanctify you.

- 9 "If the daughter of a man who is a priest profanes herself by prostitution, she profanes her father and must be burnt to death.

b. The high priest

- 10 "The priest who is pre-eminent over his brother, on whose head the chrism is poured, and who, clothed with the sacred robes, receives investiture, is not to 11 disorder his hair or tear his garments; •he must not go near a dead man's corpse, 12 he must not make himself unclean even for his father or mother. •He must not leave the holy place, so that he may not profane the sanctuary of his God; for he bears on himself the consecration of his God, given by the oil of anointing. I am Yahweh.

- 13 "He must take to wife a woman who is still a virgin. •He must not marry a 14 woman who is a widow or divorced, or profaned by prostitution: only a virgin 15 from his own family may he take to wife. •He must not profane his levitical descendants, for it is I, Yahweh, who have sanctified him."

c. Impediments to the priesthood

- 16 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

- 17 'Speak to Aaron and say:

- "None of your descendants, in any generation, must come forward to offer 18 the food of his God if he has any infirmity—•no man must come near if he has an infirmity such as blindness or lameness, if he is disfigured or deformed, 19 if he has an injured foot or arm, •if he is a hunchback or a dwarf, if he has a 20

disease of the eyes or of the skin, if he has a running sore, or if he is a eunuch. No descendant of Aaron the priest must come forward to offer the burnt offerings of Yahweh if he has any infirmity; if he has an infirmity, he must not come forward to offer the food of his God. 21

"He may eat the food of his God, things most holy and things holy; •but he must not go near the veil or approach the altar, because he has an infirmity, and must not profane my holy things; for it is I, Yahweh, who have sanctified them." 22 23

And Moses told this to Aaron, to his sons, and to all the sons of Israel. 24

Holiness in consuming the sacred meal

a. The priests

22 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 1
 'Speak to Aaron and his sons: let them be consecrated through the holy offerings of the sons of Israel, and not profane my holy name; for my sake they are to sanctify it; I am Yahweh. •Tell them this: 2 3

"Any one of your descendants, in any generation, who in a state of uncleanness approaches the holy offerings consecrated to Yahweh by the sons of Israel, shall be outlawed from my presence. I am Yahweh.

"Anyone of Aaron's line who is afflicted with leprosy or with a discharge must not eat holy things until he is clean. Anyone who touches something made unclean by a dead body, or has a seminal discharge, •or is made unclean by touching either some creeping thing or some man who has communicated to him his own uncleanness of whatever kind, •in short, anyone who has had any such contact shall be unclean until evening, and must not eat holy things until he has washed his body. •At sunset he will be clean and may then eat holy things, for these are his food. 4 5 6 7

"He must not eat an animal that has died a natural death or been savaged by beasts; he would contract uncleanness from it. I am Yahweh. 8

"Let them keep my rules and not burden themselves with sin. If they profane them, they shall die: it is I, Yahweh, who have sanctified them. 9

b. Lay people

"No lay person may eat holy things: neither the guest of a priest, nor his hired servant. •But if the priest has acquired a slave by purchase, the slave may eat them like anyone born in the house; for they eat his own food. 10 11

"If a priest's daughter marries a layman, she must not eat the holy portion set aside; •but if she is widowed or divorced and, being childless, has had to return to her father's house as when she was young, she may eat her father's food. No lay person may eat of it; •if someone does eat a holy thing by inadvertence, he shall restore it to the priest with one-fifth added. 12 13 14

"They must not profane the holy offerings which the sons of Israel have set aside for Yahweh. •To eat these would lay on them a fault demanding a sacrifice of reparation; for it is I, Yahweh, who have sanctified these offerings." 15 16

c. Animals sacrificed

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 17

'Tell this to Aaron, to his sons, and to all the sons of Israel: 18

"Any man of the House of Israel or any stranger living in Israel who brings an offering either in payment of a vow or as a voluntary gift, and makes a holocaust with it for Yahweh, •must, if he is to be acceptable, offer a male without blemish, ox, sheep or goat. •You must not offer one that is blemished; for it would not make you acceptable. 19 20

"If anyone offers to Yahweh a communion sacrifice, either to fulfil a vow or as a voluntary offering, the animal—from the herd or from the flock—must be without blemish if it is to be acceptable; no defect must be found in it. •You must not offer to Yahweh an animal that is blind, lame, mutilated, ulcerous, or 21 22 suffering from skin disease or sore. No part of such an animal shall be laid on the altar as a burnt offering for Yahweh. •As a voluntary offering, you may offer 23 a bull or a lamb that is underdeveloped or deformed; but such will not be 24 acceptable in payment of a vow. •An animal must not be offered to Yahweh if its testicles have been bruised, crushed, removed or cut. You are not to do that 25 in your country, •and you are not to accept any such from the hands of a stranger, to be offered as food for your God. Their deformity is a blemish, and they would not make you acceptable.”

26 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

27 ‘A calf, lamb, or kid shall stay with its dam seven days after birth. From the 28 eighth day it will be acceptable as a burnt offering to Yahweh. •But no animal, whether cow or ewe, shall be immolated on the same day as its young.

29 ‘If you offer Yahweh a sacrifice with praise, do it in the acceptable manner;
 30 it must be eaten the same day, with nothing left till the morning. I am Yahweh.

d. Final exhortation

31 ‘You must keep my commands and put them into practice. I am Yahweh.
 32 You must not profane my holy name, so that I may be proclaimed holy among 33 the sons of Israel, I, Yahweh who sanctify you. •I who brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God, I am Yahweh.’

The ritual for the annual feasts

1 23 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

2 ‘Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them:

(the solemn festivals of Yahweh to which you summon them are sacred assemblies)

“These are my solemn festivals.

a. Sabbath

3 “You may work for six days, but the seventh must be a day of complete rest, a day for the sacred assembly on which you do no work at all. Wherever you live, this is a sabbath for Yahweh.

4 “These are Yahweh’s solemn festivals, the sacred assemblies to which you are to summon the sons of Israel on the appointed day.

b. The Passover and the feast of Unleavened Bread

5 “The fourteenth day of the first month, between the two evenings, is the 6 Passover of Yahweh; •and the fifteenth day of the same month is the feast of Unleavened Bread for Yahweh. For seven days you shall eat bread without 7 leaven. •On the first day you are to hold a sacred assembly; you must do no heavy 8 work. •For seven days you shall offer a burnt offering to Yahweh. The seventh day is to be a day of sacred assembly; you must do no work.”

c. The first sheaf

9 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

10 ‘Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them:

“When you enter the land that I give you, and gather in the harvest there, 11 you must bring the first sheaf of your harvest to the priest, •and he is to present it to Yahweh with the gesture of offering, so that you may be acceptable. The 12 priest shall make this offering on the day after the sabbath, •and on the same day as you make this offering, you are to offer Yahweh the holocaust of an unblemished 13 lamb one year old. •The oblation for that day shall be two-tenths of wheaten flour mixed with oil, a burnt offering whose fragrance will appease Yahweh. The 14 libation is to be one quarter of a hin of wine. •You are to eat no bread, roasted corn or baked bread, before this day, before making the offering to your God.
 This is a perpetual law for all your descendants, wherever you live.

d. The feast of Weeks

“From the day after the sabbath, the day on which you bring the sheaf of offering, you are to count seven full weeks. • You are to count fifty days, to the day after the seventh sabbath, and then you are to offer Yahweh a new oblation. • You must bring bread from your houses to present with the gesture of offering—two loaves, made of two-tenths of wheaten flour baked with leaven; these are first-fruits for Yahweh. • In addition to the bread you must offer seven unblemished lambs one year old, a young bull and two rams, as a holocaust to Yahweh, together with an oblation and a libation, a burnt offering whose fragrance will appease Yahweh. • You are also to offer a goat as a sacrifice for sin, and two lambs one year old as a communion sacrifice. • The priest shall present them before Yahweh with the gesture of offering, in addition to the bread of the first-fruits. These, and the two lambs, are holy things for Yahweh, and will revert to the priest.

“This same day you are to hold an assembly; this shall be a sacred assembly for you; you will do no heavy work. This is a perpetual law for your descendants, wherever you live.

“When you gather the harvest in your country, you are not to harvest to the very end of your field, and you are not to gather the gleanings of the harvest. You are to leave them for the poor and the stranger. I am Yahweh your God.”

e. The First Day of the Seventh Month

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 23

‘Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: 24

“The first day of the seventh month<sup>a</sup> shall be a day of rest for you, a sacred assembly proclaimed with trumpet call. • You must not do any heavy work and you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh.”

f. The Day of Atonement

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 26

‘But the tenth day of this seventh month shall be the Day of Atonement. You are to hold a sacred assembly. You must fast, and you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh. • You are not to do any work that day, for it is the Day of Atonement, on which the rite of atonement will be performed over you before Yahweh your God. • Indeed, anyone who fails to fast that day shall be outlawed from his people; anyone who works that day I will remove from his people. • No work must be done—this is a perpetual law for your descendants wherever you live. • This is to be a day of sabbath rest for you. You must fast; on the evening of the ninth day of the month, from this to the following evening, you must cease to work.’

g. The feast of Tabernacles

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 33

‘Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: 34

“The fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the feast of Tabernacles for Yahweh, lasting seven days. • The first day is a day of sacred assembly; you must do no heavy work. • For seven days you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh. On the eighth day you are to hold a sacred assembly, you must offer a burnt offering to Yahweh. It is a day of solemn meeting; you must do no heavy work.

Conclusion

“These are the solemn festivals of Yahweh to which you are to summon the children of Israel, sacred assemblies for the purpose of offering burnt offerings, holocausts, oblations, sacrifices and libations to Yahweh, according to the ritual of each day, • besides the sabbaths of Yahweh and the presents, and the votive and voluntary gifts that you make to Yahweh. 38

Recapitulation on the feast of Tabernacles

39 "But on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you have harvested the 40 produce of the land, you are to celebrate the feast of Yahweh for seven days. On the first and eighth days there shall be a complete rest. •On the first day you shall take choice fruits, palm branches, boughs of leafy trees and willows from the river bank, and for seven days you shall rejoice in the presence of Yahweh your 41 God. •You are to celebrate a feast for Yahweh in this way for seven days every year. This is a perpetual law for your descendants.

42 "You are to keep this feast in the seventh month. •For seven days you are 43 to live in shelters: all natives of Israel must live in shelters, •so that your descendants may know that I made the sons of Israel live in shelters when I brought them out of the land of Egypt. I am Yahweh your God."

44 And Moses described the solemn festivals of Yahweh to the sons of Israel. .

Complementary ritual prescriptions*a. The perpetual flame

1 24 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

2 'Order the sons of Israel to bring you pure olive oil for the lamp-stand, and 3 keep a flame burning there continually. •Outside the veil of Testimony, in the Tent of Meeting, Aaron is to see to this flame. It shall burn there before Yahweh from evening to morning continually. This is a perpetual law for your descendants:
 4 Aaron is to see to the lamps on the pure lamp-stand before Yahweh, continually.

b. The bread on the Golden Table

5 'You are to take wheaten flour and with it bake twelve cobs, each of two-tenths
 6 of an ephah. •Then you must set them in two rows of six on the pure table that 7 stands before Yahweh. •On each row you shall place pure incense. This will be 8 the food offered as a memorial, a burnt offering for Yahweh. •Continually, every sabbath they shall be set before Yahweh. The sons of Israel are to provide 9 them by unending covenant. •They will belong to Aaron and his sons, who shall eat them in a holy place, for they are a most holy portion for him of Yahweh's burnt offerings. This is a perpetual law.'

A case of blasphemy. The law of retaliation

10 There was a man whose mother was an Israelite woman and whose father was an Egyptian. He came out of his house and in the camp, surrounded by the 11 sons of Israel, he began to quarrel with a man who was an Israelite. •Now this son of the Israelite woman blasphemed the name and cursed it. So they brought him to Moses (his mother's name was Shelomith daughter of Dibri, of the tribe 12 of Dan). •He was put under guard until the will of Yahweh should be made clear to them.

13 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

14 'Take the man who pronounced the curse outside the camp. Let all who have heard him lay their hands on his head, and let the whole community stone 15 him. •Then say to the sons of Israel:

16 "Any man who curses his God shall bear the burden of his fault. •The one who blasphemes the name of Yahweh must die; the whole community must stone him. Stranger or native, if he blasphemes the name, he dies.

17 "If a man strikes down any human being, he must die.

18 "If a man strikes an animal down he must make restitution for it: a life for a life.

19 "If a man injures his neighbour, what he has done must be done to him:
 20 broken limb for broken limb, eye for eye, tooth for tooth. As the injury inflicted,

23 a. The first day of each month (New Moon) was observed as a feast. The first day of the seventh month was a Greater Feast, and for a long time was the beginning of the new year.

so must be the injury suffered. •The one who strikes an animal down must 21 make restitution for it, and the one who strikes down a man must die. •The 22 sentence you pass shall be the same whether it be on native or on stranger; for I am Yahweh your God.”

When Moses had said this to the sons of Israel, they took the man who had 23 pronounced the curse out of the camp and stoned him. In this way the sons of Israel carried out the order of Yahweh to Moses.

The Holy Years

a. The Sabbatical Year

25 Yahweh spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai; he said: 1
‘Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: 2

“When you enter the land that I am giving you, the land is to keep a sabbath’s 3 rest for Yahweh. •For six years you shall sow your field, for six years you shall 4 prune your vine and gather its produce. •But in the seventh year the land is to 5 have its rest, a sabbath for Yahweh. You must not sow your field or prune your 6 vine, •or harvest your ungathered corn or gather grapes from your untrimmed 7 vine. It is to be a year of rest for the land. •The sabbath of the land will itself feed you and your servants, men and women, your hired labourer, your guest, and all who live with you. •For your cattle too, and the animals on your land,
all its produce will serve as food.

b. The Year of Jubilee

“You are to count seven weeks of years—seven times seven years, that is to say 8 a period of seven weeks of years, forty-nine years. •And on the tenth day of the 9 seventh month you shall sound the trumpet; on the Day of Atonement you shall sound the trumpet throughout the land. •You will declare this fiftieth year sacred 10 and proclaim the liberation of all the inhabitants of the land. This is to be a jubilee for you; each of you will return to his ancestral home, each to his own clan. •This fiftieth year is to be a jubilee year for you: you will not sow, you will 11 not harvest the ungathered corn, you will not gather from the untrimmed vine.
The jubilee is to be a holy thing to you, you will eat what comes from the fields. 12

“In this year of jubilee each of you is to return to his ancestral home. •If you 13 buy or sell with your neighbour, let no one wrong his brother. •If you buy from 14 your neighbour, this must take into account the number of years since the 15 jubilee: according to the number of productive years he will fix the price. •The 16 greater the number of years, the higher shall be the price demanded; the less the number of years, the greater the reduction; for what he is selling you is a certain number of harvests. •Let none of you wrong his neighbour, but fear 17 your God; I am Yahweh your God.

“You must put my laws and customs into practice; you must keep them, 18 practise them; and so you shall be secure in your possession of the land. •The 19 land will give its fruit, you will eat your fill and live in security.

The divine guarantee

“In case you should ask: What shall we eat in this seventh year if we do not 20 sow or harvest the produce? •I have ordered my blessing to be on you every 21 sixth year, which will therefore provide for you for three years.” •You will have 22
the old produce to eat while you are sowing in the eighth year and even as late as the ninth year; you will eat the old produce, while waiting for the harvest of that year.

Consequences of the holiness of land and people

a. The land: redemption of landed property

“Land must not be sold in perpetuity, for the land belongs to me, and to me 21
you are only strangers and guests. •You will allow a right of redemption on all 24

25 your landed property. •If your brother falls on evil days and has to sell his 26 patrimony, his nearest relation shall come to him and exercise his right of redemption on what his brother has sold. •The man who has no one to exercise this right can regain his property in this way: when he has found the means to effect 27 the redemption, •he is to calculate the number of years that the alienation would have lasted, repay to the purchaser the sum due for the time still to run, and so 28 return to his property. •If he cannot find the sum for paying the compensation, the property sold shall remain in the possession of the purchaser until the jubilee year. In the jubilee year, the latter must relinquish it and return to his own property.

29 “If anyone sells a dwelling house that is in a walled town, he shall have the right of redemption until the expiry of the year following the sale. His right of redem-30 ption is limited to the year; •and if the redemption has not been effected by the end of the year, this house in the town shall be the property of the purchaser 31 and his descendants in perpetuity; he need not relinquish it at the jubilee. •But houses in villages not enclosed by walls will be considered as situated in the open country; they carry the right of redemption, and the purchaser must relinquish them at the jubilee.

32 “As regards the towns of the Levites, any property in the towns possessed by 33 them shall carry a perpetual right of redemption in their favour. •If it is a Levite who is affected by the right of redemption, at the jubilee he must come out of the property that was sold and return to his house, to the town in which he has a title to property. For the houses in the towns of the Levites are their property 34 in the midst of the sons of Israel, •and the arable land depending on these towns cannot be sold, for it is their property for ever.

b. The people: loans and enfranchisement

35 “If your brother who is living with you falls on evil days and is unable to support himself with you, you must support him as you would a stranger or a guest, 36 and he must continue to live with you. •Do not make him work for you, do not 37 take interest from him; fear your God, and let your brother live with you. •You are not to lend him money at interest, or give him food to make a profit out of it.
 38 I am Yahweh your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt to give you the land of Canaan and to be your God.

39 “If your brother falls on evil days when he is with you and sells himself to 40 you, you must not impose a slave’s work on him; •he shall be like a hired man or 41 a guest, and shall work with you until the jubilee year. •Then he shall leave you, he and his children; he shall return to his clan and regain possession of his ancestral 42 property. •For they are my servants, these whom I have brought out of 43 Egypt, and they must not be sold like slaves. •You must not be a hard master to him, but you must fear your God.

44 “The servants you have, men and women, shall come from the nations round 45 you; from these you may purchase servants, men and women. •You may also purchase them from the children of the strangers who live among you, and from their families living with you who have been born on your soil. They shall be 46 your property •and you may leave them as an inheritance to your sons after you, to hold in perpetual possession. These you may have for slaves; but to your brothers, the sons of Israel, you must not be hard masters.

47 “If some stranger or settler among you grows rich, and your brother falls on evil days and is in difficulties with him and sells himself to him, to this stranger 48 or settler among you or to one of his descendants, •he shall enjoy the right of 49 redemption after sale, and one of his brothers may redeem him. •His paternal uncle, his uncle’s son, or a member of his own family may redeem him; if he has 50 the means, he may redeem himself. •By agreement with his purchaser, he must

25 a. I.e., enough for the sabbatical year and a jubilee year which might follow it, and the next year as well, since there would be no autumn sowing in jubilee year.

count the number of years between the year of sale and the jubilee year; the sum of the price of sale must be calculated at the annual rate for these years, his time being valued as that of a hired man. •If there are still many years to run, in proportion to their number he must refund part of his sale price as payment for his redemption. •And if there are only a few years still to run before the jubilee year, he must calculate in proportion to the number of these years what shall be refunded for his redemption, •the calculation being made as if he were hired by the year. You must see that the man is not hardly dealt with.

“If he has not been redeemed in any of these ways, he shall go free in the jubilee year, he and his children with him. •For they are my servants, these sons of Israel; they are my servants whom I have brought out of the land of Egypt. I am Yahweh your God.

Summary: conclusion

26 “You must make no idols; you must set up neither carved image nor standing-stone, set up no sculptured stone in your land, to prostrate yourselves in front of it; for it is I, Yahweh, who am your God. •You must keep your sabbaths and reverence my sanctuary. I am Yahweh.

Blessings

“If you live according to my laws, if you keep my commandments and put them into practice, •I will give you the rain you need at the right time; the earth shall give its produce and the trees of the countryside their fruits; •you shall thresh until vintage time and gather grapes until sowing time. You shall eat your fill of bread and live secure in your land.

“I will give peace to the land, and you shall sleep with none to frighten you. I will rid the land of beasts of prey. The sword shall not pass through your land. You shall pursue your enemies and they shall fall before your sword; •five of you pursuing a hundred of them, one hundred pursuing ten thousand; and your enemies shall fall before your sword.

“I will turn towards you, I will make you be fruitful and multiply, and I will uphold my Covenant with you.

“You shall eat your fill of last year’s harvest, and still throw out the old to make room for the new.

“I will set up my dwelling among you, and I will not cast you off. •I will live in your midst; I will be your God and you shall be my people. •It is I, Yahweh your God, who have brought you out of the land of Egypt so that you should be their servants no longer. I have broken the yoke that bound you and have made you walk with head held high.

Curses

“But if you do not listen to me, and do not observe each one of these commandments, •if you refuse my laws and disregard my customs, and break my Covenant by not observing each one of my commandments, •then I will deal in like manner with you.

“I will inflict terror on you, consumption and fever that waste the eyes away and exhaust the breath of life. You shall sow your seed in vain—your enemies shall feed on it. •I will turn against you and you shall be defeated by your enemies. Your foes shall have the mastery over you, and you shall take flight when there is no one pursuing you.

“And if, in spite of this, you do not listen to me, I will still punish you sevenfold for your sins. •I will break your proud strength. I will give you a sky of iron, an earth of bronze. •You shall wear out your strength in vain, your land shall not yield its produce any longer nor the trees their fruit.

“If you set yourselves against me and will not listen to me, I will heap these plagues on you in sevenfold punishment for your sins. •I will let wild beasts loose against you to make away with your children, destroy your cattle, and reduce you in number until your roads are deserted.

23 "And if that does not reform you, and you still set yourselves against me,
24 I too will set myself against you and I will strike you with sevenfold punishment
25 for your sins. •I will send out the sword against you, to avenge the Covenant.
You may huddle inside your towns: I will send pestilence among you, and you 26 shall be delivered into the hands of the enemy. •I will take away from you your bread, which is your staff, and one oven shall suffice for ten women to bake your bread; they shall dole this bread out by weight, and you shall eat and not be filled.

27 "And if, in spite of this, you do not listen to me but set yourselves against me, 28 I will set myself against you in fury and punish you sevenfold for your sins.
29 You shall eat the flesh of your own sons, and you shall eat the flesh of your 30 own daughters. •I will destroy your high places and smash your altars of incense; I will pile your corpses on the corpses of your idols, and I will cast 31 you off. •I will reduce your cities to ruins; I will lay your sanctuaries waste; 32 I will no longer breathe the fragrance that would appease me. •I, yes I, will make such a desolation of the land that your enemies who come to live there 33 will be appalled by it. •And I will scatter you among the nations. I will unsheathe 34 the sword against you to make your land a waste and your towns a ruin. •Then the land will observe its sabbaths indeed, lying desolate there, while you are in the land of your enemies. Then indeed the land will rest and observe its sabbaths.
35 And as it lies desolate it will rest, as it never did on your sabbaths when you 36 lived in it. •I will strike fear into the hearts of those of you that are left; in the land of their enemies the sound of a falling leaf shall send them fleeing as men flee from the sword, and they shall fall though there is no one pursuing them.
37 They shall stumble over one another as if the sword were upon them even when there is no one pursuing them. You shall be powerless to stand before your enemies;
38 you shall perish among the nations, and the land of your enemies shall swallow 39 you up. •For their sins, those of you who are left shall perish in the lands of their enemies; they shall perish too for the sins of their fathers added to their own.
40 Then they shall confess their sins and the sins of their fathers, sins by which they betrayed me—worse, by which they set themselves against me.

41 "I in my turn will set myself against them and take them to the land of their enemies. Then their uncircumcised heart will be humbled, then they will atone 42 for their sins. •I shall remember my Covenant with Jacob, and my Covenant with Isaac and my Covenant with Abraham; and I shall remember the land.

43 "Abandoned by them, the land will keep its sabbaths, as it lies desolate when they are gone. But they must atone for their sin, for they have spurned my customs and abhorred my laws.

44 "Yet this is not the end. When they are in the land of their enemies, I will not so spurn them or abhor them as to destroy them altogether and break my 45 Covenant with them; for I am Yahweh their God. •For their sake I will remember the Covenant I made with those first generations that I brought out of the land of Egypt in the sight of the nations, that I would be their God, I, Yahweh."

46 These are the laws, customs and rules which Yahweh laid down between himself and the sons of Israel on Mount Sinai through the mediation of Moses.

INSTRUCTIONS ON THE BUILDING OF THE SANCTUARY AND ON ITS MINISTERS<sup>a</sup>

EXODUS 25—31; 34:29—35

Contributions for the sanctuary

25 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •“Tell the sons of Israel to set aside <sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> a contribution for me; you shall accept this contribution from every man whose heart prompts him to give it. •You shall accept from them the following <sup>3</sup> contributions: gold, silver and bronze; •purple stuffs, of violet shade and red, <sup>4</sup> crimson stuffs, fine linen, goats’ hair; •rams’ skins dyed red, fine leather, acacia wood; •oil for the lamps, spices for the chrisim and for the fragrant incense; <sup>6</sup> onyx stones and gems to be set in ephod and pectoral. •Build me a sanctuary <sup>7</sup>/<sub>8</sub> so that I may dwell among them. •In making the tabernacle and its furnishings <sup>9</sup> you must follow exactly the pattern I shall show you.

The tabernacle and its furnishings. The ark

•Further, you are to make a throne of mercy, of pure gold, two and a half <sup>17</sup> cubits long, and one and a half cubits wide. •For the two ends of this throne <sup>18</sup> of mercy you are to make two golden cherubs;<sup>c</sup> you are to make them of beaten gold. •Make the first cherub for one end and the second for the other, and <sup>19</sup> fasten them to the two ends of the throne of mercy so that they make one piece with it. •The cherubs are to have their wings spread upwards so that they <sup>20</sup> overshadow the throne of mercy. They must face one another, their faces towards the throne of mercy. •You must place the throne of mercy on the top of the ark. <sup>21</sup> Inside the ark you must place the Testimony that I shall give you. •There I shall <sup>22</sup> come to meet you; there, from above the throne of mercy, from between the two cherubs that are on the ark of the Testimony, I shall give you all my commands for the sons of Israel.

•You are to make a table of acacia wood, two cubits long, one cubit wide, <sup>23</sup> and one and a half cubits high. •You are to plate it with pure gold, and decorate <sup>24</sup> it all round with a gold moulding. •You are to fit it with struts, one hand’s <sup>25</sup> breadth wide, and decorate these with a golden moulding. •You are to make for it four gold rings and fix these at the four corners where the four legs are. •The <sup>27</sup> rings must lie close to the struts to hold the shafts for carrying the table. •You <sup>28</sup> are to make the shafts of acacia wood and plate them with gold. The table is to be carried by these. •You are to make dishes, cups, jars and libation bowls for it; <sup>29</sup> you are to make these of pure gold. •On the table, before me, you must place the <sup>30</sup> bread of continual offering.

•You are to make a lamp-stand of pure gold; the lamp-stand must be of <sup>31</sup> beaten gold, base and stem. Its cups —calyx and petals— must be of one piece with it. •Six branches must extend from the sides of it, three from one side, three <sup>32</sup>

33 from the other. •The first branch is to carry three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with its calyx and petals; the second branch, too, is to carry three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with its calyx and petals, and
 34 similarly for all six branches extending from the lamp-stand. •The lamp-stand itself is to carry four cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with its calyx
 35 and petals, •thus: one calyx under the first two branches extending from the lamp-stand, one under the next pair, one under the last pair: corresponding to 36 the six branches extending from the lamp-stand. •The calyxes and the branches must be of one piece with the lamp-stand, and the whole made from a single 37 piece of pure gold, beaten out. •Then you are to make lamps for it, seven of them,
 38 and set them so that they throw their light towards the front of it. •The snuffers
 39 and trays must be of pure gold. •You are to use a talent of pure gold for making 40 the lamp-stand and all its accessories. •See that you make them according to the pattern shown you on the mountain.

The tabernacle. Fabrics and hangings

1 26 •The tabernacle itself you are to make with ten sheets of fine twined linen,
 2 of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, and of crimson stuffs; you are to have 3 these sheets finely brocaded with cherubs. •The length of a single sheet is to 4 be twenty-eight cubits, its width four cubits, all the sheets to be of the same size.
 5 Five of the sheets must be joined to each other, and the other five similarly.
 6 You must attach loops of violet stuff to the border of the last sheet in one set,
 7 and do the same for the border of the last sheet in the other set. •You are to 8 put fifty loops on the first sheet and, matching them one by one, fifty loops on 9 the border of the last sheet in the second set. •And you are to make fifty gold
 10 clasps to draw the sheets together. In this way the tabernacle will be a unified 11 whole.
 12 •You are to make sheets of goats' hair to form a tent over the tabernacle;
 13 you will make eleven of these. •The length of a single sheet is to be thirty cubits, 14 its width four cubits, the eleven sheets to be all of the same size. •You must join 15 five of these sheets together into one set, the remaining six into another; the 16 sixth you will fold double over the front of the tent. •You must attach fifty loops
 17 to the border of the last sheet in one set, and do the same for the border 18 of the last sheet in the second set. •You must make fifty bronze clasps and 19 put them into the loops, so as to draw the tent together and make it a unified 20 whole.
 21 •As one sheet of the tent will be left over, half of this extra sheet is to hang 22 over the back of the tabernacle. •The extra cubit on either side along the 23 length of the tent sheets is to hang over the sides of the tabernacle as a covering 24 for it.
 25 •For the tent you will further make a covering of rams' skins dyed red, and a covering of fine leather to spread over that.

The framework

15 •You are to make frames of acacia wood for the tabernacle, these to stand
 16 upright. •Each frame is to be ten cubits long and one and a half cubits wide.
 17 Each frame must be fitted with twin tenons; for all the frames of the tabernacle
 18 you must do this. •You are to make the frames for the tabernacle: twenty frames
 19 for the southern side, facing the south country. •You are to make forty silver 20 sockets for putting under the twenty frames thus: two sockets under the first
 21 frame to receive its two tenons, and so on for the other frames. •The other side of the tabernacle, on the north, is to have twenty frames •supported by forty 21 silver sockets, two sockets under each frame. •For the back of the tabernacle, on 22

25 a. Ch. 25-31 define the system of worship which goes back to Moses and contain elements of great antiquity, but with these are mixed others which reflect the development of worship in the course of the history of Israel. The formula, 'Yahweh said to Moses' asserts the equal authority of all the religious institutions. b. A rectangular chest (3½ ft × 2¼ ft · 2¼ ft). c. Half-human, half-animal figures, corresponding to the tutelary deities guarding Babylonian shrines.

the west, you must make six frames. •You are to make two frames for the corners 23 at the back of the tabernacle. •These frames must be coupled at their lower 24 end and so to the top, up to the level of the first ring; this for the two frames that are to form the two corners. •Thus there will be eight frames with their 25 sixteen silver sockets: two sockets under the first frame and so on.

•You are to make crossbars of acacia wood: five to hold together the frames 26 for one side of the tabernacle, •five to hold the frames for the other side of the 27 tabernacle, and five to hold the frames that form the west end of the tabernacle.
The middle bar, fixed half-way up, is to run from one end to the other. •The 28 frames are to be plated with gold, and with gold rings on them to take the cross- 29 bars which you are to plate with gold. •This is how you are to erect the tabernacle 30 according to the model shown to you on the mountain.

The veil

•You are to make a veil of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, of crimson 31 stuffs, and of fine twined linen; you are to have it finely embroidered with cherubs. 32
You are to hang it on four posts of acacia wood plated with gold and furnished 32 with golden hooks and set in four silver sockets. •You must hang the veil from 33
the clasps and there behind the veil you must place the ark of the Testimony, and the veil will serve you to separate the Holy Place from the Holy of Holies. 34
The throne of mercy you must place on top of the ark inside the Holy of Holies. 34
The table you must set outside the veil, and the lamp-stand on the south side 35 of the tabernacle, opposite the table. You must put the table on the north side.
For the entrance to the tent you are to make a screen of purple stuffs, violet shade 36 and red, and of crimson stuffs and fine twined linen, the work of a skilled embroiderer. •For this screen you are to make five posts of acacia wood plated 37 with gold, with golden hooks; for these you are to cast five bronze sockets.

The altar of holocaust

27 •You are to make the altar out of acacia wood, a square five cubits long 1 and five cubits wide, its height to be three cubits. •At its four corners you 2 are to put horns, the horns to be of one piece with it, plating it with bronze.
For the altar you are to make pans for the ashes from the fat, shovels, sprinkling 3 basins, hooks, fire pans; you must make all the vessels for the altar out of bronze. •You are also to make a grating for it of bronze network, and on the 4 four corners of this fix four bronze rings. •This grating you must set under the 5 altar's ledge, below, so that it reaches half-way up the altar. •And for the altar 6
you are to make shafts of acacia wood and plate them with bronze. •These are 7 to be passed through the rings, so that they are on either side of the altar when it is carried. •You are to make the altar hollow, of boards; you will make it in 8
the way that was shown to you on the mountain.

The court

•You are to make the court of the tabernacle. Facing the south country, on the 9 southern side, the hangings of the court are to be of fine twined linen, one hundred cubits long for one side. •Their twenty bronze posts are to be set in 10 twenty bronze sockets and to have their hooks and rods of silver. •So too for 11
the northern side there are to be hangings one hundred cubits long, and twenty posts set in twenty bronze sockets, with their hooks and rods of silver. •Across 12 the width of the court, on the western side, there are to be fifty cubits of hangings, carried on ten posts set in ten sockets. •The width of the court on the 13 eastern side facing the sunrise is to be fifty cubits. •On one side of the gateway 14 there are to be fifteen cubits of hangings, carried on three posts set in three sockets. •On the other side of the gateway there are also to be fifteen cubits 15 of hangings, carried on three posts set in three sockets. •The gateway to the 16 court is to consist of a screen twenty cubits wide made of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, of crimson stuffs and fine twined linen, the work of a skilled 17 embroiderer, carried on four posts set in their four sockets. •All the posts enclosing the court are to be connected by silver rods; their hooks are to be of 18 silver, their sockets of bronze. •The length of the court is to be one hundred cubits, its width fifty cubits, its height five cubits. All the hangings are to be 19 made of fine twined linen, and their sockets of bronze. •All the furnishings for whatever use in the tabernacle, all the pegs of it and of the court, must be of bronze.

The oil for the lamps

20 •You are to order the sons of Israel to bring you pure olive oil for the light, 21 and to keep a flame burning there perpetually. •Aaron and his sons are to set this flame in the Tent of Meeting, outside the veil that is before the Testimony.
 It must burn there before Yahweh from evening to morning perpetually. This is an irrevocable ordinance for their descendants, to be kept by the sons of Israel.

The priestly vestments

1 28 •From among the sons of Israel summon your brother Aaron and his sons to be priests in my service: Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar, 2 sons of Aaron. •For Aaron your brother you are to make sacred vestments
 3 to give dignity and magnificence. •You are to instruct all the ablest craftsmen, whose ability I have given them, to make Aaron's vestments for his consecration 4 to my priesthood. •These are the vestments they must make: pectoral, ephod, robe, embroidered tunic, turban and girdle. They are to make sacred vestments 5 for your brother Aaron and his sons to be priests in my service. •They must use gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen.

The ephod

6 •They are to make the ephod of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red,
 7 crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen, the work of a skilled embroiderer. •It must 8 have two shoulder-straps fitted to it to join its two ends together. •The woven band on it to hold it is to be of similar workmanship and form one piece with it:
 this must be of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson stuffs, and fine 9 twined linen. •You will then take two onyx stones and engrave them with the 10 names of the sons of Israel, •six of their names on one stone, the remaining 11 six on the other, in the order of their birth. •With the art of a jeweller, of an engraver of seals, you are to engrave the two stones with the names of the sons 12 of Israel, and mount them in settings of gold mesh. •You are to fasten the two stones commemorating the sons of Israel to the shoulder-straps of the ephod.
 In this way Aaron will bear their names on his shoulders in the presence of 13 Yahweh, so as to commemorate them. •You must also make golden rosettes, •and 14 two chains of pure gold twisted like cord; you are to attach these cord-like chains to the rosettes.

The pectoral of judgement

15 •You are to make the pectoral of judgement, finely brocaded, of the same workmanship as the ephod. You are to make it of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade 16 and red, crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen. •It is to be square and doubled 17 over, a span in length and a span in width. •In this you are to set four rows of 18 stones. Sard, topaz, carbuncle, for the first row; •emerald, sapphire, diamond 19 the second row; •the third row, hyacinth, ruby, amethyst; •the fourth row, 20 beryl, onyx, jasper. These are to be mounted in gold settings. •They are to bear the names of the sons of Israel and, like the names on them, are to be twelve in number. They are to be engraved like seals, each with the name of one of 22 the twelve tribes. •For the pectoral you will make chains of pure gold twisted 23 like cords. •For the pectoral you must make two gold rings and fix them to its two upper corners. •You must fasten the two gold cords to the two rings fixed 24 on the corners of the pectoral. •The other two ends of the cords you must fasten 25 to the two rosettes, so that they will be attached to the shoulder-straps of the ephod, on the front. •You are to make two gold rings and fix them to the two 26 lower corners of the pectoral, on the inner hem, next to the ephod. •You are to 27 make two more gold rings and fix them low down on the front of the two shoulder-pieces of the ephod, close to the join, above the woven band of the ephod. •You must secure the pectoral by passing a ribbon of violet-purple through 28 its rings and those of the ephod, so that the pectoral will sit above the woven band and not come apart from the ephod. •Thus by means of the pectoral of 29 judgement, when Aaron enters the sanctuary, he will bear the names of the sons of Israel on his breast to call them to mind continually in the presence of Yahweh. •To the pectoral of judgement you will add the Urim and the 30 Thummim so that Aaron may have them on his breast when he goes into Yahweh's presence. Thus in the presence of Yahweh Aaron will continually bear on his breast the oracle of the sons of Israel.

The robe

•You are to make the robe of the ephod entirely of violet-purple. •In the centre 31
 it must have an opening for the head, the opening to have round it a border 32 woven like the neck of a coat of mail to keep the robe from being torn. •The 33 lower hem you are to decorate with pomegranates of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen, with golden bells between: •gold bells 34 and pomegranates alternately all round the lower hem of the robe. •Aaron is 35 to wear it when he officiates, so that the tinkling of the bells will be heard whenever he enters the sanctuary into Yahweh's presence, or leaves it; thus he will not die.

The diadem

•You are to make a plate of pure gold and engrave on it "Consecrated to 36
 Yahweh" as a man engraves a seal. •You will secure this to the turban with a 37 ribbon of violet-purple; it is to be placed on the front of the turban. •Aaron is to 38 wear it on his brow, and so take on himself any shortcomings there may be in what the sons of Israel consecrate in any of their sacred offerings. Aaron must always wear it on his brow, to draw down on them the goodwill of Yahweh.
 The tunic you must weave of fine linen, and make a turban of fine linen, and a 39 girdle, the work of a skilled embroiderer.

The vestments of the priests

•For the sons of Aaron you are to make tunic and girdle and head-dress to give 40 dignity and magnificence. •You will put these on your brother Aaron and his 41 sons. You will then anoint and invest and consecrate them to serve me in the priesthood. •You are to make them linen breeches to cover their nakedness from 42 loin to thigh. •Aaron and his sons must wear these when they go into the Tent 43 of Meeting and when they approach the altar to serve in the sanctuary, as a precaution against incurring some fault that would mean death. This is an irrevocable ordinance for Aaron and for his descendants after him.

The consecration of Aaron and his sons. Preparations

29 'This is the ritual you must use for them when you consecrate them to 1 serve me in the priesthood. Take one young bull and two rams without 2 blemish, •unleavened bread, unleavened cakes mixed with oil, and unleavened 3 wafers spread with oil, made from fine wheat flour. •You must put these into a basket and present them in the basket, at the same time as the young bull and the two rams.

Their purification, clothing, and anointing

- 4 'You are to bring Aaron and his sons to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting
 5 and they are to be bathed. •Take the vestments and dress Aaron in the tunic, the robe of the ephod, the ephod, and the pectoral, and gird him with the woven 6 band of the ephod. •Put the turban on his head, and on the turban fix the sacred 7 diadem. •Then take the chrism and pour it on his head, and so anoint him.
 8 9 'Next, bring his sons and clothe them with tunics. •Pass the girdles round their waists and put the head-dresses on their heads. And by irrevocable ordinance the priesthood will be theirs. This is how you are to invest Aaron and his sons.

The offerings

- 10 'You are to bring the bull in front of the Tent of Meeting. Aaron and his sons 11 are to lay their hands on its head. •Immolate the bull there before Yahweh 12 at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. •Then take some of its blood and with your finger put it on the horns of the altar. Next, pour out the rest of the blood 13 at the foot of the altar. •And then take all the fat that covers the entrails, the latty mass which is over the liver, the two kidneys with their covering fat, and 14 burn them on the altar. •As for the bull's flesh, its skin and its dung, you must burn them outside the camp, for it is a sin-offering.
 15 'Next you are to take one of the rams. Aaron and his sons are to lay their 16 hands on its head. •You are to immolate the ram, take up its blood and pour it
 17 out on the surrounds of the altar. •Next, divide the ram in pieces and wash 18 the entrails and legs and put them on top of the pieces and the head. •Then burn the whole ram on the altar. This will be a burnt offering whose fragrance will appease Yahweh; it will be a holocaust in honour of Yahweh.
 19 'Next you are to take the other ram. Aaron and his sons are to lay their hands 20 on its head. •You are to immolate the ram, take some of its blood and put it on the lobe of Aaron's right ear, on the lobes of his sons' right ears, the thumbs of their right hands, and the big toes of their right feet, and pour out the rest 21 of the blood on the surrounds of the altar. •Then take some of the blood that remains on the altar, together with the chrism, and sprinkle it on Aaron and his vestments and on his sons and their vestments: so that he and his vestments will be consecrated and his sons too, and their vestments.

The investiture of the priests

- 22 'You are to take the fatty parts of the ram: the tail, the fat that covers the entrails, the fatty mass which is over the liver, the two kidneys with their covering 23 fat and also the right thigh, for this is a ram of investiture. •You are to take a loaf of bread, a cake of bread made with oil, and a wafer, from the basket of 24 unleavened bread placed before Yahweh, •and put it all into Aaron's hands and 25 those of his sons and make the gesture of offering before Yahweh. •Then you are to take them back and burn them on the altar, on top of the holocaust, an appeasing fragrance before Yahweh. This will be a holocaust in honour of Yahweh.
 26 'You are to take the breast of the ram of Aaron's investiture and make the 27 gesture of offering before Yahweh; this is to be your portion. •You are to consecrate the breast that has been thus offered, as also the thigh that is set aside
 —the breast, that is, which has been offered and the thigh that has been set 28 aside from the ram of investiture of Aaron and his sons. •This, by perpetual law, will be the portion that Aaron and his sons are to receive from the sons of Israel, since it is the portion set aside, a portion the sons of Israel are to set aside from their communion sacrifices, the portion they owe to Yahweh.
 29 'Aaron's sacred vestments are to pass to his sons after him, and they will 30 wear them for their anointing and investiture. •The son of Aaron who succeeds him in the priesthood and enters the Tent of Meeting to serve in the sanctuary must wear them for seven days.

The sacred meal

'You are to take the ram of investiture and cook its meat in a holy place. 31
 Aaron and his sons will eat the meat of the ram, and also the bread that is in 32
 the basket, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. •They are to eat what was 33 used in making atonement for them at their investiture, their consecration.
 No layman may eat these; they are holy things. •If any of the meat from the 34 investiture sacrifice, or the bread, should be left till morning, you must put what is left in the fire. It is not to be eaten; it is a holy thing. •For Aaron and 35 his sons you are to do exactly as I have commanded you: you are to take seven days over their investiture.

The consecration of the altar of holocaust

'On each of the days you are also to offer a bull as a sacrifice for sin, 36 in atonement; by offering an atonement sacrifice for sin you will take away sin 37 from the altar; then you must anoint it, and so consecrate it. •For seven days you are to repeat the atonement sacrifice for the altar and consecrate it. So it will excel in holiness, and whatever touches it will be holy.

The daily holocaust

'This is what you are to offer on the altar: two yearling lambs each day in 38 perpetuity. •The first lamb you must offer in the morning, the second between 39
 the two evenings. •With the first lamb you must offer one-tenth of a measure 40 of fine flour mixed with one quarter of a hin of purest oil and, for a libation, one quarter of a hin of wine. •The second lamb you must offer between the two 41 evenings; do this with the same oblation and the same libation as in the morning, as an appeasing fragrance, an offering burnt in honour of Yahweh. •This is to 42 be a perpetual holocaust from generation to generation, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting in the presence of Yahweh; that is where I shall meet you and speak to you.

'I will meet the sons of Israel in the place consecrated by my glory. •I will 43 consecrate the Tent of Meeting and the altar. I will consecrate Aaron too, and 44 his sons, to be priests in my service. •I will remain with the sons of Israel, and 45
 I will be their God. •And so they will know that it is I, Yahweh their God, 46 who brought them out of the land of Egypt to live among them: I, Yahweh their God.

The altar of incense

30 'You must make an altar on which to burn incense;<sup>4</sup> you are to make it out 1 of acacia wood. •It is to be one cubit long, and one cubit wide—that is 2 to say, square—and to stand two cubits high; its horns are to be of one piece 3 with it. •The top of it, its surrounding sides, and its horns, are to be plated with 4 pure gold, and decorated with a gold moulding all round. •You are to fix two gold 5 rings to it below the moulding on its two opposite sides: these are to take the 6 shafts used for carrying it. •These shafts you must make of acacia wood and plate 7 with gold. •You are to set up the altar before the veil that is in front of the ark 8 of Testimony, opposite the throne of mercy that covers the Testimony, the place appointed for my meeting with you. •There Aaron must burn fragrant 9 incense each morning when he trims the lamps, •and between the two evenings, 10 when Aaron puts the lamps back, he must burn it again. You must make these offerings of incense before Yahweh unfailingly from generation to generation.
 You must not offer profane incense on it,—no holocaust, no oblation; and you must pour no libation on it. •Once a year Aaron is to perform the rite of atonement on the horns of the altar; with the blood of the sacrifice offered for sin he is to perform the rite of atonement once a year. And you shall do the same in the generations to come. This altar of supreme holiness is to be consecrated to Yahweh.'

The poll tax

<sup>11</sup> Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •‘When you take a census and make a
<sup>12</sup> register of the sons of Israel, each is to pay Yahweh a ransom for his life, so <sup>13</sup> that no plague comes on them when the census is being made. •Everyone subject to the census must pay half a shekel, reckoning by the sanctuary shekel which <sup>14</sup> is twenty gerahs, and this half-shekel shall be set aside for Yahweh. •Everyone subject to the census, that is to say of twenty years and over, must pay the sum <sup>15</sup> set aside for Yahweh. •The rich man is not to give more, nor the poor man less, than half a shekel as payment of the sum set aside for Yahweh, the ransom for <sup>16</sup> your lives. •You will devote this ransom<sup>a</sup> money given to you by the sons of Israel to the service of the Tent of Meeting. It will remind Yahweh of the sons of Israel and will be the ransom for your lives.’

The bronze basin

<sup>17</sup> Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •‘You must also make a bronze basin on a <sup>18</sup> stand, for washing. You must place it between the Tent of Meeting and the <sup>19</sup> altar and put water in it. •In this Aaron and his sons must wash their hands and <sup>20</sup> feet. •When they are to enter the Tent of Meeting they must wash in water for fear they die, and when they have to approach the altar for their service, to burn <sup>21</sup> the offering burnt in honour of Yahweh. •They must wash their hands and feet for fear they die. This is a lasting ordinance for them, for Aaron and his descendants from generation to generation.’

The chrism<sup>b</sup>

<sup>23</sup> five hundred shekels, half this weight of fragrant cinnamon ---that is, two hundred <sup>24</sup> and fifty shekels— and of scented cane two hundred and fifty shekels; •of cassia five hundred shekels (reckoning by the sanctuary shekel) and one hin of olive oil.
<sup>25</sup> These you are to compound into a holy chrism, such a blend as the perfumer
<sup>26</sup> might make; it is to be a holy chrism. •With it you are to anoint the Tent of <sup>27</sup> Meeting and the ark of the Testimony, •the table and all its furnishings, the <sup>28</sup> lamp-stand and all its accessories, the altar of incense, •the altar of holocaust
<sup>29</sup> with all its furnishings, and the basin with its stand. •These you are to consecrate.
<sup>30</sup> Thus they will excel in holiness, and whatever touches them will be holy. •You must also anoint Aaron and his sons and consecrate them, so that they may be <sup>31</sup> priests in my service. •Then you are to say this to the sons of Israel, ‘‘You must <sup>32</sup> hold this chrism holy from generation to generation. •It is not to be poured on the bodies of common men, nor are you to make any other of the same <sup>33</sup> mixture. It is a holy thing; you must consider it holy. •Whoever copies the composition of it or uses it on a layman shall be outlawed from his people.’’

The incense

<sup>35</sup> spices and pure frankincense in equal parts, •and compound an incense, such <sup>36</sup> a blend as the perfumer might make, salted, pure, and holy. •Crush a part of it into a fine powder, and put some of this in front of the Testimony in the Tent <sup>37</sup> of Meeting, the place appointed for my meetings with you. You must regard it as most holy. •You are not to make any incense of similar composition for your own use. You must hold it to be a holy thing, reserved for Yahweh.
<sup>38</sup> Whoever copies it for use as perfume shall be outlawed from his people.’

<sup>1</sup>
<sup>2</sup> 31 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •‘See, I have singled out Bezalel son
<sup>3</sup> of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. •I have filled him with the spirit of God and endowed him with skill and perception and knowledge for every kind of craft: •for the art of designing and working in gold and silver and bronze; 4 for cutting stones to be set, for carving in wood, for every kind of craft. •Here 5 and now I give him a partner, Oholiab son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan; 6 and to all the men that have skill I have given more, for them to carry out all 7 that I have commanded you: •the Tent of Meeting; the ark of the Testimony; 7

30 a. A separate altar from the ‘high altar’ or supreme altar of 27:1. b. Ointment.

the throne of mercy that covers it, and all the furniture of the tent; •the table 8 and all its furnishings; the pure lamp-stand and all its accessories; the altar of 9 incense; •the altar of holocaust with all its furnishings; the basin with its stand; 9
the sumptuous vestments—sacred vestments for Aaron the priest, and vestments 10 for his sons—for the priestly functions; •the chrism and the fragrant incense 11 for the sanctuary. In this they are to do exactly as I have directed you.’

The sabbath rest

Yahweh said this to Moses, •‘Speak to the sons of Israel and say, “You must 12 keep my sabbaths carefully, because the sabbath is a sign between myself and 13
you from generation to generation to show that it is I, Yahweh, who sanctify 14
you. •You must keep the sabbath, then; it is to be held sacred by you. The 14 man who profanes it must be put to death; whoever does any work on that day 15 shall be outlawed from his people. •Work is to be done for six days, but the 15 seventh day must be a day of complete rest, consecrated to Yahweh. Whoever 16 does any work on the sabbath day must be put to death. •The sons of Israel are 16 to keep the sabbath, observing it from generation to generation: this is a lasting 17 covenant. •Between myself and the sons of Israel the sabbath is a sign for ever, 17
since in six days Yahweh made the heavens and the earth, but on the seventh 18 day he rested and drew breath.”’

The tablets of the Law committed to Moses

When he had finished speaking with Moses on the mountain of Sinai, he gave 18 him the two tablets of the Testimony, tablets of stone inscribed by the finger 19 of God.

Moses comes down from the mountain

EXODUS 34:29–35

When Moses came down from the mountain of Sinai—as he came down 29 from the mountain, Moses had the two tablets of the Testimony in his hands—he 30 did not know that the skin on his face was radiant after speaking with Yahweh. 31
And when Aaron and all the sons of Israel saw Moses, the skin on his face 32 shone so much that they would not venture near him. •But Moses called to them, 33 and Aaron with all the leaders of the community came back to him; and he 34 spoke to them. •Then all the sons of Israel came closer, and he passed on to 35 them all the orders that Yahweh had given him on the mountain of Sinai. •And 36
when Moses had finished speaking to them, he put a veil over his face. •When- 37 ever he went into Yahweh’s presence to speak with him, Moses would remove the 38 veil until he came out again. And when he came out, he would tell the sons of 39 Israel what he had been ordered to pass on to them, •and the sons of Israel 40 would see the face of Moses radiant. Then Moses would put the veil back over 41 his face until he returned to speak with Yahweh.

THE FURNISHING AND BUILDING OF THE SANCTUARY

EXODUS 35—40

The sabbath rest

35 Moses assembled the whole community of the sons of Israel and said to 1 them, ‘These are the things Yahweh has ordered to be done: •Work is 2 to be done for six days, but the seventh is to be a holy day for you, a day of complete rest, consecrated to Yahweh. Whoever does any work on that day shall be put to death. •You must not light a fire on the sabbath day in any of your homes.'

The materials are collected

4 Moses spoke to the whole community of the sons of Israel. 'This' he said 'is 5 what Yahweh has commanded: •Set aside a contribution for Yahweh out of 6 your possessions. Let all give willingly and bring this contribution for Yahweh:
7 gold, silver and bronze; •purple stuffs, of violet shade and red, crimson stuffs,
8 fine linen, goats' hair, •rams' skins dyed red and fine leather, acacia wood, •oil
9 for the light, spices for the chrism and for the fragrant incense; •onyx stones
10 and gems to be set in ephod and pectoral. •Let all the most skilled craftsmen 11 among you come and make all that Yahweh has commanded: •the tabernacle, its tent and its covering, its hooks and its frames, its crossbars, its posts, and its 12 sockets; •the ark with its shafts, the throne of mercy and the veil that screens it;
13 the table with its shafts and all the furnishings for it, and the loaves of offering;
14 the lamp-stand for the light, with its accessories, its lamps, and the oil for the 15 light; •the altar of incense with its shafts, the chrism, the fragrant incense, and 16 the screen for the entrance to the tent; •the altar of holocaust with its bronze 17 grating, its shafts, and all the furnishings for it, the basin and its stand; •the hangings of the court, its posts, its sockets, and the screer: for the gateway to 18 the court; •the pegs of the tabernacle and of the court, together with their cords; 19 the sumptuous vestments for service in the sanctuary—sacred vestments for Aaron the priest, and his sons' vestments—for the priestly functions.'

20 Then the whole community of Israel's sons withdrew from Moses' presence.
21 And all those whose heart prompted them to give came, bringing their contribution for Yahweh for making the Tent of Meeting, for all its functions and for 22 the sacred vestments. •They came, men and women, all giving willingly, bringing brooches, rings, bracelets, necklaces, gold things of every kind, all those who 23 had vowed to Yahweh some article of gold. •All those who happened to own purple stuffs, of violet shade or red, crimson stuffs, fine linen, goats' hair, rams' 24 skins dyed red, or fine leather, brought them. •All who could contribute to the collection of silver and bronze brought their contribution for Yahweh. And all who happened to own acacia wood, suitable for any of the work to be done, 25 brought it. •All the skilled women set their hands to spinning, and brought purple stuffs, of violet shade and red, crimson stuffs and fine linen, from what 26 they had spun. •All the women willingly used their special skill and spun the goats' hair. •The leaders brought onyx stones and gems to be set in ephod and 27 pectoral, •and the spices and oil for the light, for the chrism and for the fragrant 28 incense. •All the men and women whose heart prompted them to contribute to 29 all the work that Yahweh had ordered through Moses to be done—the sons of Israel brought their free offering to Yahweh.

The craftsmen for the sanctuary

30 Moses said to the sons of Israel, 'See, Yahweh has singled out Bezalel son of 31 Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah. •He has filled him with the spirit of God and endowed him with skill and perception and knowledge for every kind of 32 craft: •for the art of designing and working in gold and silver and bronze; •for 33 cutting stones to be set, for carving in wood, for every kind of craft. •And on him and Oholiab son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, he has bestowed the 34 gift of teaching. •He has filled them with skill to carry out all the crafts of engraver, damask weaver, embroiderer in purple stuffs, of violet shade and red, 35 in crimson stuffs and fine linen, or of the common weaver; they are able to do work of all kinds, and to do it with originality.'

1 36 Bezalel and Oholiab and all the skilled craftsmen whom Yahweh had endowed with the skill and perception to carry out all that was required for the building of the sanctuary, did their work exactly as Yahweh had directed.

A halt is called to the collection

Moses then summoned Bezalel and Oholiab and all the skilled craftsmen 2 whose hearts Yahweh had endowed with skill, all whose heart prompted them to offer to do the work. •From Moses they received all that the sons of Israel 3 had brought as contributions for the work of building the sanctuary. As these continued each morning to bring their offerings, •the skilled craftsmen, busy 4 with the various works on the sanctuary, all left their work •and went to tell Moses, 'The people are bringing more than is needed for the work Yahweh has 5 directed us to do'. •At Moses' command, therefore, this proclamation was made 6 throughout the camp: 'Let no one, man or woman, do anything more towards the collection for the sanctuary.' So the people were stopped from bringing any more; •the material they had was enough, and more than enough, to complete 7 all the work.

The tabernacle

All the most skilled craftsmen among the workers made the tabernacle. He 8 made it with ten sheets of fine twined linen, of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, and of crimson stuffs, finely brocaded with cherubs. •The length of a single sheet 9 was twenty-eight cubits, its width four cubits, all the sheets being of the same size. •He joined five of the sheets together, and the other five similarly. •He 10 attached loops of violet stuff to the border of the last sheet in one set, and did 11 the same for the border of the last sheet in the other set. •He put fifty loops on 12 the first sheet and, matching them one by one, fifty loops on the border of the last sheet in the second set. •He made fifty gold clasps and with them drew the 13 sheets together. In this way the tabernacle was a unified whole.

Next he made sheets of goats' hair to form a tent over the tabernacle; he made 14 eleven of these. •The length of a single sheet was thirty cubits, its width four 15 cubits; the eleven sheets were all of the same size. •He joined five of these sheets 16 together into one set, the remaining six into another. •He attached fifty loops to 17 the border of the last sheet in one set, and fifty loops to the border of the last sheet in the second set. •And he made fifty bronze clasps, so as to draw the tent 18 together and make it a unified whole. •For the tent he made a covering of rams' 19 skins dyed red, and a covering of fine leather to spread over it.

The framework

For the tabernacle he made frames of acacia wood, these to stand upright. 20 Each frame was ten cubits long and one and a half cubits wide. •Each frame 21 was fitted with twin tenons; this he did for all the frames of the tabernacle. •He 22 made the frames for the tabernacle: twenty frames for the southern side, facing 23 the south country. •He made forty silver sockets for putting under the twenty 24 frames: two sockets under the first frame to receive its two tenons, and so on for the other frames. •For the other side of the tabernacle, on the north, he made 25 twenty frames •and forty silver sockets, two sockets under each frame. •For the 26 back of the tabernacle, on the west, he made six frames. •And he made two frames 27 for the corners at the back of the tabernacle. •These frames were coupled at their 28 lower end and so to the top, up to the level of the first ring; this he did with the 29 two frames that were to form the two corners. •Thus there were eight frames 30 with their sixteen silver sockets; two sockets under each frame. •He made 31 crossbars of acacia wood: five to hold the frames together that were to form one side of the tabernacle, •five on the other side to hold the frames that were to 32 form the end of the tabernacle on the west. •He made the middle bar, fixed 33 half-way up, to run from one end to the other. •He plated the frames with gold, 34 and put gold rings on them to take the crossbars which he plated with gold.

The veil

He made the veil of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, of crimson stuffs, and 35

36 of fine twined linen, skilfully embroidered with cherubs. •For hanging this veil
 he made four posts of acacia wood and plated them with gold, with golden hooks, 37 and he cast four silver sockets for them. •For the entrance to the tent he made a screen of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, and of crimson stuffs and fine 38 twined linen, the work of a skilled embroiderer. •For the hanging of this he made five posts, and their hooks; their capitals and rods he plated with gold;
 their five sockets were of bronze.

The ark

1 37 Bezalel made the ark of acacia wood, two and a half cubits long, one and 2 a half cubits wide, one and a half cubits high. •He plated it, inside and 3 out, with pure gold, and decorated it all round with a gold moulding. •He cast four gold rings for the ark, attaching them to its four feet: two rings on one side
 4 and two rings on the other. •He also made shafts of acacia wood plating them
 5 with gold; •and he passed the shafts through the rings on the sides of the ark,
 6 for carrying it. •Also he made of pure gold a throne of mercy, two and a half
 7 cubits long, and one and a half cubits wide. •For the two ends of this throne 8 of mercy he made two golden cherubs; he made them of beaten gold, •the first cherub for one end and the second for the other, and fastened them to the two 9 ends of the throne of mercy so that they made one piece with it. •The cherubs had their wings spread upwards so that they overshadowed the throne of mercy.
 They faced one another, their faces towards the throne of mercy.

The table for the offertory bread

10 He made the table of acacia wood, two cubits long, one cubit wide, and one
 11 and a half cubits high. •He plated it with pure gold, and decorated it all round 12 with a gold moulding. •He fitted it with struts, one hand's breadth wide, and 13 decorated these with a golden moulding. •He cast four gold rings for it and 14 fixed these at the four corners where the four legs were. •The rings lay close 15 to the struts to hold the shafts for carrying the table. •He made the shafts of 16 acacia wood and plated them with gold; these were for carrying the table. •He made the furnishings of pure gold for the table: dishes, cups, jars and libation bowls.

The lamp-stand

17 He made the lamp-stand of pure gold, and made the lamp-stand, base and 18 stem, of beaten gold. Its cups—calyx and petals—were of one piece with it. •Six branches extended from the sides of it, three from one side, three from the other.
 19 The first branch carried three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with its calyx and petals; the second branch, too, carried three cups shaped like almond blossoms, each with its calyx and petals, and similarly all six branches extending 20 from the lamp-stand. •The lamp-stand itself carried four cups shaped like almond 21 blossoms, each with its calyx and petals, •thus: one calyx under the first two branches extending from the lamp-stand, one under the next pair, one under the last pair: corresponding to the six branches extending from the lamp-stand.
 22 The calyxes and the branches were of one piece with the lamp-stand, and the 23 whole was made from a single piece of pure gold, beaten out. •Then he made 24 the lamps for it, seven of them, and its snuffers and trays of pure gold. •He used a talent of pure gold for making the lamp-stand and all its accessories.

The altar of incense. Chrism and incense

25 He made the altar of incense out of acacia wood. It was one cubit long, and one cubit wide—that is to say, square—and two cubits high; its horns were of 26 one piece with it. •The top of it, its surrounding sides, and its horns, he plated 27 with pure gold, and decorated it all round with a gold moulding. •He fixed two gold rings to it below the moulding on its two opposite sides, to take the shafts 28 used for carrying it. •These shafts he made of acacia wood and plated with gold.

He also made the sacred chrism and the pure, fragrant incense, blending it as perfumers do.

The altar of holocaust

38 He made the altar of holocaust out of acacia wood, a square five cubits 1 long and five cubits wide, its height three cubits. •At its four corners he put 2 horns, the horns being of one piece with it, and plated it with bronze. •He made 3 all the altar vessels: pans for the ashes, shovels, sprinkling basins, hooks, fire pans;
he made all the vessels for the altar out of bronze. •He made a grating for it of 4 bronze network which he set under the ledge, below, so that it reached half-way up the altar. •He cast four rings and fixed them on the four corners of the bronze 5 grating to take the shafts. •He made the shafts of acacia wood and plated them 6 with bronze. •He placed these through the rings fixed to the sides of the altar for 7 carrying it, and he made the altar hollow, of boards.

The bronze basin

He made the bronze basin and its bronze support from the mirrors of the 8 women who served at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

The court

He made the court. For the southern side of the court, facing the south country, 9 there were one hundred cubits of hangings of fine twined linen. •Their twenty 10 posts with their twenty sockets were of bronze, their hooks and rods of silver.
For the northern side there were one hundred cubits of hangings; their twenty 11 posts with their twenty sockets were of bronze, their hooks and rods of silver.
For the western side, fifty cubits of hangings, carried on ten posts set in ten 12 sockets, with their hooks and rods of silver. •Fifty cubits, too, for the eastern side 13 facing the sunrise. •On one side of the gateway there were fifteen cubits of 14 hangings, carried on three posts set in three sockets. •On the other side—either 15 side of the entrance to the court—there were fifteen cubits of hangings with their 16 three posts and three sockets. •All the hangings enclosing the court were of fine 17 twined linen. •The sockets for the posts were of bronze and their hooks of silver, 18 like the plating on their capitals. The posts for the court all had their rods of 19 silver. •The screen for the gateway of the court, the work of a skilled embroiderer, 20 was made of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, of crimson stuffs, and fine 21 twined linen. It was twenty cubits long and, along the width of it, five cubits high, 22 like the hangings of the court. •Its four posts with their four sockets were of 23 bronze. The hooks for the posts were of silver, like the plating on their capitals 24 and like their rods. •The pegs for the tabernacle and for the court enclosure were 25
all of bronze. 26

The amount of metal used

Here is the account of metals used for the tabernacle—the tabernacle of the 21
Testimony—the account drawn up by order of Moses, the work of the Levites<sup>d</sup> under the direction of Ithamar son of Aaron, the priest.

Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that Yahweh 22 had directed Moses to have made. •His partner was Oholiab son of Ahisamach, 23 of the tribe of Dan, engraver, damask weaver, embroiderer in purple stuffs, of 24 violet shade and red, in crimson stuffs and fine linen.

The amount of gold used in the work—the entire work for the sanctuary—(this 24 was gold consecrated by offering) was twenty-nine talents and seven hundred 25 and thirty shekels (reckoning by the sanctuary shekel). •The silver collected when 26
the census of the community was taken weighed one hundred talents and one 27 thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels (reckoning by the sanctuary 28 shekel), •one beqa per head, or half a shekel (reckoning by the sanctuary shekel) 29 for everyone of twenty years and over included in the census. These numbered 30

27 six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty. •The hundred talents of 28 silver were used for casting the sockets for the sanctuary and for the veil: one hundred sockets out of the hundred talents, or one talent per socket. •With the one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels he made the hooks for the 29 posts, the plating for their capitals, and their rods. •The bronze consecrated by offering amounted to seventy talents and two thousand four hundred shekels, 30 and with this he made the sockets for the entrance of the Tent of Meeting, the bronze altar with its grating of bronze and all the furnishings for it, •the sockets 31 for the enclosure of the court, those for the gateway to the court, all the pegs for the tabernacle, and all the pegs for the court enclosure.

The vestments of the high priest

1 39 From the purple stuffs, violet shade and red, the crimson stuffs, and the fine linen he made sumptuous vestments for service in the sanctuary. They made the sacred vestments for Aaron, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

The ephod

2 They made the ephod of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson 3 stuffs, and fine twined linen. •They beat gold into thin plates, and cut these into fine strips to weave into the purple stuffs, violet shade and red, into the crimson 4 stuffs and the fine linen, as does the weaver of damask. •For the ephod they made 5 two shoulder-straps, joined to it at its two ends. •The woven band on it to hold it formed one piece with it and was of similar workmanship: this was of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen, 6 as Yahweh had directed Moses. •They fashioned the onyx stones, mounted in settings of gold mesh and engraved, as a seal is engraved, with the names of 7 the sons of Israel. •They fastened the stones to the shoulder-straps of the ephod, stones commemorating the sons of Israel, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

The pectoral of judgement

8 They made the pectoral, finely brocaded, of the same workmanship as the 9 ephod, of gold, purple stuffs, violet shade and red, and fine twined linen. •It was 10 square and they doubled it over, a span in length and a span in width. •In this 11 they set four rows of stones. Sard, topaz, carbuncle, for the first row; •emerald, 12 sapphire, diamond, the second row; •the third row, hyacinth, ruby, amethyst;
 13 the fourth row, beryl, onyx, jasper. These were mounted in settings of gold mesh.
 14 They bore the names of the sons of Israel and, like their names, were twelve in number. They were engraved as seals are, each with the name of one of the 15 twelve tribes. •For the pectoral they made chains of pure gold twisted like cords.
 16 They made two gold rosettes and two gold rings, •and they fastened the 17 two gold cords to the two rings fixed on the corners of the pectoral. •The other 18 two ends of the cords they fastened to the two rosettes; they were thus attached
 19 to the shoulder-straps of the ephod, on the front. •They made two gold rings and fixed them to the two lower corners of the pectoral, on the inner hem, next 20 to the ephod. •And they made two more gold rings and fixed them low down on the front of the two shoulder-straps of the ephod, close to the join, above the 21 woven band of the ephod. •They secured the pectoral by passing a ribbon of violet-purple through its rings and those of the ephod, so that the pectoral would sit above the woven band and not come apart from the ephod, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

The robe

22 Then they made the robe of the ephod woven entirely of violet-purple. •The 23 opening in the centre of it was like the neck of a coat of mail; round the opening

38 a. A late addition: the Levites were not yet established. Later in the same section are references to a tax which had not yet been imposed, and a distinction between two shekels which had not been made.

was a border to keep the robe from tearing. •The lower hem of the robe they 24 decorated with pomegranates of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, crimson stuffs, and fine twined linen. •They also made bells of pure gold and placed 25 them all round the lower hem of the robe between the pomegranates, •bells and 26 pomegranates alternately all round the lower hem of the robe of office, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

The vestments of the priests

Then they made the tunics of finely woven linen for Aaron and his sons, •the 27
turban of fine linen, the head-dresses of fine linen, the breeches of fine twined 28 linen, •the girdles of fine twined linen, of purple stuffs, violet shade and red, 29 and of crimson stuffs, finely embroidered, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

They also made the plate, the holy diadem, of pure gold, and engraved on 30
it 'Consecrated to Yahweh', as a man engraves a seal. •They attached to this 31
a ribbon of violet-purple to secure it to the top of the turban, as Yahweh had directed Moses.

So all the work of the tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting, was completed. In 32 carrying it out the sons of Israel had done exactly as Yahweh had directed Moses.

The finished work presented to Moses

They brought to Moses the tabernacle, the Tent and all its furnishings: its 33 hooks, frames, crossbars, posts, sockets; •the covering of rams' skins dyed red, 34
the covering of fine leather, and the screening veil; •the ark of the testimony with 35 its shafts and the throne of mercy; •the table with all its furnishings, and the 36 loaves of offering; •the lamp-stand of pure gold with its lamps—the lamps that 37 were to be set on it—and all its accessories; the oil, too, for the light; •the golden 38 altar, the chrism, the fragrant incense, the screen for the entrance to the tent;
the bronze altar with its grating of bronze, its shafts and all its furnishings; 39
the basin and its stand; •the hangings of the court, its posts, its sockets, and the 40 screen for the gateway to the court, its cords, its pegs, and all the furniture for the service in the tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting; •the sumptuous vestments for 41 service in the sanctuary—sacred vestments for Aaron the priest, and vestments for his sons—for the priestly functions. •The sons of Israel had done all the work 42 exactly as Yahweh had directed Moses.

Moses examined the whole work, and he could see they had done it as Yahweh 43 had directed him. And Moses blessed them.

The sanctuary erected and consecrated

40 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'On the first day of the first month you 1 are to erect the tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting, •and place the ark of the 2 Testimony in it, screening it with the veil. •Bring in the table, arranging what 3 is to be set in order on it. Bring in the lamp-stand, too, and set up its lamps. 4 Place the golden altar of incense in front of the ark of the Testimony, and set 5 up the screen at the entrance to the tabernacle. •Place the altar of holocaust 6 in front of the entrance to the tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting. •Place the basin 7 between the Tent of Meeting and the altar, and fill it with water. •Set up the 8 enclosure of the court and hang the screen at the gateway of the court. •Then, 9 taking the chrism, anoint the tabernacle and everything in it, consecrating it with its furniture, to make it a holy place. •Anoint the altar of holocaust with 10 all its furnishings; and consecrate the altar which henceforth will be a most holy thing. •Anoint the basin with its stand, and consecrate it. •Bring Aaron and his 11 sons to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting and see that they bathe. •Then 12 clothe Aaron with the sacred vestments, and anoint and consecrate him, to serve 13 me in the priesthood. •Next, bring his sons and clothe them with tunics. •Anoint 14 them as you have anointed their father, to serve me in the priesthood. This 15 anointing of them is to confer the priesthood on them in perpetuity from generation to generation.'

The divine commands are carried out

16 Moses did this; he did exactly as Yahweh had directed him. •The tabernacle
17 was set up on the first day of the first month in the second year. •Moses erected 18 the tabernacle. He fixed the sockets for it, put up its frames, put its crossbars 19 in position, set up its posts. •He spread the tent over the tabernacle and on 20 top of this the covering for the tent, as Yahweh had directed Moses. •He took 21 the Testimony and placed it inside the ark. He set the shafts to the ark and 22 placed the throne of mercy on it. •He brought the ark into the tabernacle and 23 put the screening veil in place; thus he screened the ark of Yahweh, as Yahweh
24 had directed Moses. •He placed the table in the Tent of Meeting, on the north 25 side of the tabernacle, outside the veil, •and on it arranged the loaves before
26 Yahweh, as Yahweh had directed Moses. •He put the lamp-stand in the Tent
27 of Meeting, opposite the table, on the south side of the tabernacle; •and he set 28 up the lamps before Yahweh, as Yahweh had directed Moses. •He put the 29 golden altar in the Tent of Meeting in front of the veil, •and on it burnt fragrant
30 incense, as Yahweh had directed Moses. •Then he put the screen at the entrance
31 to the tabernacle. •He put the altar of holocaust at the entrance to the tabernacle, 32 the Tent of Meeting, and on it offered the holocaust and the oblation, as Yahweh 33 had directed Moses. •He put the basin between the Tent of Meeting and the 34 altar, and filled it with water for the ablutions; •this was for Aaron and his 35 sons to wash their hands and feet: •whenever they entered the Tent of Meeting
36 or approached the altar they washed, as Yahweh had directed Moses. •Moses 37 then set up the court round the tabernacle and the altar and placed the screen
38 at the gateway to the court. Thus Moses completed the work.

Yahweh takes possession of the sanctuary

34 The cloud covered the Tent of Meeting and the glory of Yahweh filled the 35 tabernacle. •Moses could not enter the Tent of Meeting because of the cloud that rested on it and because of the glory of Yahweh that filled the tabernacle.

The cloud guides the Israelites

36 At every stage of their journey, whenever the cloud rose from the tabernacle 37 the sons of Israel would resume their march. •If the cloud did not rise, they 38 waited and would not march until it did. •For the cloud of Yahweh rested on the tabernacle by day, and a fire shone within the cloud by night, for all the House of Israel to see. And so it was for every stage of their journey.

THE RITUAL OF SACRIFICE

LEVITICUS 1—7

Holocaust"

1 1 Yahweh called Moses, and from the Tent of Meeting addressed him, saying,
2 'Speak to the sons of Israel; say to them, "When any of you brings an offering to Yahweh, he can offer an animal from either herd or flock.
3 "If his offering is a holocaust of an animal out of the herd, he is to offer a male without blemish; it is to be offered at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, so 4 that it may be accepted before Yahweh. •He is to lay his hand on the victim's 5 head, and it shall be accepted as effectual for his atonement. •Then he must immolate the bull before Yahweh, and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall offer the 6 blood. They will pour it out on the borders of the altar which stands at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. •Then he must skin the victim and quarter it.
7 The sons of Aaron, the priests, must put fire on the altar and arrange wood on

1 a. The term means 'wholly burned' (offering).

this fire. •Then the sons of Aaron, the priests, are to put the pieces, the head and the fat on the wood on the altar fire. •He is to wash the entrails and legs in water, and the priest is to burn all of it on the altar. This holocaust will be a burnt offering<sup>b</sup> and the fragrance of it will appease Yahweh.

“If his offering is an animal out of the flock, a lamb or a goat offered as a holocaust, he is to offer a male without blemish. •He must immolate it on the north side of the altar, before Yahweh, and the sons of Aaron, the priests, shall pour out the blood on the borders of the altar. •Then he is to quarter it, and the priest is to arrange the quarters, as well as the head and the fat, on the wood on the altar fire. •He is to wash the entrails and legs in water, and the priest shall burn all of it on the altar. This holocaust will be a burnt offering and the fragrance of it will appease Yahweh.

“If his offering to Yahweh is a holocaust of a bird, he is to offer a turtledove or a young pigeon. •The priest shall offer it at the altar and wring off its head, which he is to burn on the altar; then its blood is to be drained out on the side of the altar. •Then he shall remove the crop and the feathers; these he is to throw on the eastern side of the altar, where the ashes from the fat are placed. •He is to divide it in two halves with a wing on each side, but without separating the two parts. Then the priest shall burn it on the altar, on the wood that is on the fire. This holocaust will be a burnt offering and its fragrance will appease Yahweh.

The Oblation<sup>a</sup>

2 “If anyone offers Yahweh an oblation, his offering is to consist of wheaten flour on which he is to pour wine and put incense. •He shall bring it to the sons of Aaron, the priests; he is to take a handful of the wheaten flour and oil and all the incense, and the priest shall burn it on the altar as a memorial, a burnt offering whose fragrance will appease Yahweh. •The remainder of the oblation is to revert to Aaron and his sons; a most holy portion of the burnt offerings of Yahweh.

“When you are going to offer an oblation of dough baked in the oven, the wheaten flour is to be prepared either in the form of unleavened cakes mixed with oil, or in the form of unleavened wafers spread with oil.

“If your offering is an oblation cooked on the griddle, the wheaten flour mixed with oil is to contain no leavening. •You must break it in pieces and pour oil over it. It is an oblation.

“If your offering is an oblation cooked in the pan, the wheaten flour is to be prepared in oil.

“You must bring to Yahweh the oblation that has been thus prepared, presenting it to the priest, who is to bring it to the altar. •The priest shall take the memorial from the oblation and burn it on the altar, as a burnt offering whose fragrance will appease Yahweh. •The remainder of the oblation will revert to Aaron and his sons, a most holy portion of Yahweh's burnt offering.

“None of the oblations that you offer to Yahweh is to be prepared with leaven, for you must never burn leaven or honey as a burnt offering for Yahweh. •You may offer them up to Yahweh as an offering of first-fruits, but they must not go up as an appeasing fragrance at the altar. •You must salt every oblation that you offer, and you must never fail to put on your oblation the salt of the Covenant with your God: to every offering you are to join an offering of salt to Yahweh your God. •If you offer Yahweh an oblation of first-fruits, you must offer roasted corn or bread made from ground corn. •You are to add oil to it and put incense on it; it is an oblation; •and the priest is to burn the memorial from part of the bread and oil (together with all the incense) as a burnt offering for Yahweh.

The Communion Sacrifice<sup>a</sup>

3 “If a man's sacrifice is a communion sacrifice, and if he offers an animal from the herd, male or female, whatever he offers before Yahweh must be without

2 blemish. •He is to lay his hand on the victim's head and immolate it at the 3 entrance to the Tent of Meeting. Then the sons of Aaron, the priests, must pour
 4 out the blood on the borders of the altar. •He is to offer part of the sacrifice
 5 as a burnt offering for Yahweh: the fat that covers the entrails, all the fat that 6 is on the entrails, •the two kidneys, the fat on them and on the loins, the fatty
 7 mass which he is to remove from the liver and kidneys. •The sons of Aaron must 8 burn this part on the altar, in addition to the holocaust, on the wood of the fire.
 9 It will be a burnt offering and its fragrance will appease Yahweh.

10 "If it is an animal from the flock that he offers as a communion sacrifice for 11 Yahweh, he is to offer a male or female without blemish.

12 "If he offers a sheep, he is to offer it before Yahweh; •he is to lay his hand on 13 the victim's head and immolate it in front of the Tent of Meeting; then the sons
 14 of Aaron shall pour out its blood on the borders of the altar. •Of this communion
 15 sacrifice he is to offer the following as a burnt offering for Yahweh: the fat, all 16 the tail taken off near the sacrum, the fat that covers the entrails, all the fat that 17 is on the entrails, •the two kidneys, the fat that is on them and on the loins, 18 the fatty mass which he will remove from the liver and kidneys. •The priest must 19 burn this part on the altar as food, as a burnt offering for Yahweh.

20 "If his offering is a goat, he is to offer it before Yahweh: •he is to lay his hand
 21 on the victim's head and immolate it in front of the Tent of Meeting, and the 22 sons of Aaron shall pour out its blood on the borders of the altar. •Then this is 23 what he is to offer as a burnt offering for Yahweh: the fat that covers the entrails, 24 all the fat that is on the entrails, •the two kidneys, the fat that is on them and 25 on the loins, the fatty mass which he will remove from the liver and kidneys.
 26 The priest must burn these pieces on the altar as food, as a burnt offering for 27 Yahweh.

28 "All the fat belongs to Yahweh. •This is a perpetual law for all your descendants, 29 wherever you may live: never eat either fat or blood."

The Sacrifice for Sin<sup>a</sup>

1 4 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

2 4 'Speak to the sons of Israel and say:

"A man may sin inadvertently against any one of the commandments of Yahweh and do one of the forbidden things; in such a case:

a. Sins of the high priest

3 "If the one who sins is the anointed priest, thus making the people guilty,
 4 then for the sin which he has committed he is to offer to Yahweh a young bull,
 5 an animal from the herd without blemish, as a sacrifice for sin. •He is to bring 6 the bull before Yahweh at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, he is to lay his 7 hand on its head and immolate it before Yahweh. •Then the anointed priest
 8 must take a little of the blood of the bull and take it into the Tent of Meeting.
 9 He shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle it over the veil of the sanctuary
 10 seven times, before Yahweh. •Then the priest must put a little of the blood of 11 the bull on the horns of the altar of incense that smokes before Yahweh in the 12 Tent of Meeting, and he is to pour all the rest of the bull's blood at the foot of 13 the altar of holocaust at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting.

14 "Of all the fat of this bull offered as a sacrifice for sin, this is what he will 15 remove: the fat that covers the entrails, all the fat that is on the entrails, •the two 16 kidneys, the fat that is on them and on the loins, the fatty mass which he will 17 remove from the liver and kidneys—exactly as was done with the portion set

1 b. I.e., no part of it is to be eaten in a communion-meal or set aside for the priests.

2 a. An offering of crops, cereal or vegetable produce.

3 a. A ritual meal (often called the 'peace-offering') at which part of the victim was eaten by the worshippers and part offered to God, so that the meal was 'shared' with God.

4 a. The sacrifice for sin expiates ritual faults against Yahweh.

apart in the communion sacrifice—and the priest must burn these on the altar of holocaust.

“The bull’s skin, all its flesh, its head, legs, entrails and dung, •the whole of the bull, must be carried outside the camp to a place that is clean, the place where the ashes from the fat are thrown away, and the bull must be burnt there. <sup>11</sup><sub>12</sub>

b. Sins of the community of Israel

“If the whole community of Israel has sinned inadvertently, and without being aware of it has done something that is forbidden by the commandments of Yahweh, •the community is to offer a young bull as a sacrifice for sin, an animal of the herd without blemish, when the sin of which they have been guilty is discovered. The animal must be brought before the Tent of Meeting; •before Yahweh the elders of the community shall lay their hands on the bull’s head, and it must be immolated before Yahweh. <sup>13</sup><sub>14</sub><sup>15</sup>

“Then the anointed priest is to carry a little of the blood of the bull into the Tent of Meeting. •He is to dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle the veil before Yahweh seven times. •Then he must put a little of the blood on the horns of the altar that stands before Yahweh inside the Tent of Meeting, and then pour out all the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar of holocaust at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. <sup>16</sup><sub>17</sub><sup>18</sup>

“Then he is to remove all the fat from the animal and burn it on the altar. He must treat this bull as he did the other for the sacrifice of sin. It is to be treated in the same way; and when the priest has performed the rite of atonement over the people, they will be forgiven. <sup>19</sup><sub>20</sub>

“He must have the bull taken out of the camp and burn it as he burned the first one. This is the sacrifice for the sin of the community. <sup>21</sup>

c. Sins of leaders in the community

“When a leader sins and inadvertently does one of the things forbidden by the commandments of Yahweh his God, thus rendering himself guilty •(or if anyone draws his attention to the sin thus committed), he is to bring a goat as an offering, a male without blemish. •He is to lay his hand on the goat’s head and immolate it in the place where the holocausts are immolated before Yahweh. This is a sacrifice for sin: •the priest is to take a little of the victim’s blood on his finger and put it on the horns of the altar of holocaust. Then he must pour out its blood at the foot of the altar of holocaust •and burn all the fat on the altar, as with the fat in the communion sacrifice. This is how the priest is to perform the rite of atonement over this leader to free him from his sin, and he will be forgiven. <sup>22</sup><sub>23</sub><sup>24</sup><sup>25</sup><sup>26</sup>

d. Sins of private individuals

“If one of the people sins inadvertently and makes himself guilty by doing something forbidden by the commandments of Yahweh •(or if anyone draws his attention to the sin he has committed), he is to bring a she-goat as an offering for the sin he has committed, a female without blemish. •He is to lay his hand on the victim’s head and immolate it in the place where the holocausts are immolated. •The priest is to take a little of its blood on his finger and put it on the horns of the altar of holocaust. Then he must pour out all the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. •Then he is to remove all the fat, as the fat was removed for the communion sacrifice, and the priest shall burn it on the altar as an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh. This is how the priest is to perform the rite of atonement over the man, and he will be forgiven. <sup>27</sup><sub>28</sub><sup>29</sup><sup>30</sup><sup>31</sup>

“If he wishes to bring a lamb as an offering for this kind of sacrifice, he is to bring a female without blemish. •He is to lay his hand on the victim’s head and immolate it as a sacrifice for sin in the place where the holocausts are immolated. The priest is to take a little of the blood of this sacrifice on his finger and put it <sup>32</sup><sub>33</sub><sup>34</sup>

on the horns of the altar of holocaust. Then he must pour out all the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. •He is to remove its fat as was done for the sheep in the communion sacrifice, and the priest shall burn it all on the altar, in addition to the burnt offering for Yahweh. This is how the priest is to perform the rite of atonement over the man, and he will be forgiven.

Some cases of Sacrifice for Sin

- 1 5 "If anyone sins in any of these following cases:
 2 "A man should have come forward to give evidence when he heard the formal adjuration, having seen the incident or known the facts; but he has not spoken out, and so bears the consequences of his fault;
 3 "or else he touches something unclean, whatever it may be—the dead body of an unclean animal, wild or tame, or of one of the unclean things that swarm—and without realising it becomes unclean, he becomes answerable for it;
 4 "or else he touches some human uncleanness, whatever it may be, and contact with it makes him unclean; he does not notice it, then, realising it later, he becomes answerable for it;
 5 "or else a man lets slip some oath to do either evil or good, in any of those matters on which a man may swear unthinkingly; he does not notice it, then, realising it later, he becomes answerable for it;
 6 "if he is answerable in any of those cases, he will have to confess the sin committed, and he must bring to Yahweh as a sacrifice of reparation for the sin committed a female of the flock (sheep or goat) as a sacrifice for sin; and the priest shall perform the rite of atonement over him to free him from his sin.

- 7 "If he cannot afford an animal of the flock, he is to bring to Yahweh, as a sacrifice of reparation for the sin he has committed, two turtledoves or two young pigeons—one for a sacrifice for sin and the other for a holocaust. •He will bring them to the priest who is to offer first the one intended for the sacrifice for sin. The priest is to wring its neck, but not remove the head. •He must sprinkle the side of the altar with the victim's blood, and then drain out the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. This is a sacrifice for sin. •Of the other bird he is to make a holocaust according to the ritual. This is how the priest is to perform the rite of atonement over the man for the sin he has committed, and he will be forgiven.
 11 "If he cannot afford two turtledoves or two young pigeons, he is to bring a tenth of an ephah of wheaten flour as an offering for the sin committed; he must not mix oil with it or put incense on it, for it is a sacrifice for sin. •He is to bring it to the priest, who is to take a handful of it as a memorial, and burn this in addition to the burnt offering for Yahweh. This is a sacrifice for sin. •This is how the priest is to perform the rite of atonement over the man for the sin he has committed in any of those cases, and he will be forgiven. In this case, the priest has the same rights as in the oblation."

The Sacrifice of Reparation"

- 14 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:
 15 "If anyone is guilty of fraud and sins inadvertently by not observing Yahweh's sacred rights, he is to bring to Yahweh as a sacrifice of reparation an unblemished ram from his flock. This ram is to be valued in silver shekels according to the rate of the shekel of the sanctuary. This is a sacrifice of reparation. •He must restore what his sin subtracted from the sacred rights, adding one-fifth to the value, and give it to the priest. The priest shall perform the rite of atonement over him with the ram for the sacrifice of reparation and he will be forgiven.

5 a. The sacrifice of reparation (or 'guilt-offering') was offered whenever the rights of God or of neighbour had been violated.

'If anyone sins and without realising it does one of the things forbidden by the commandments of Yahweh, he must answer for it and must bear the consequences of his fault. •As a sacrifice of reparation he is to bring to the priest an unblemished ram of his flock, subject to valuation. The priest shall perform the rite of atonement over him for the oversight he has committed without realising it and he will be forgiven. •This is a sacrifice of reparation; the man was certainly answerable to Yahweh.'

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

'If anyone sins and is guilty of fraud against Yahweh by deceiving his neighbour over a deposit or a security, or by withholding something due to him or exploiting him;

'or if he finds lost property and denies it;

'or if he perjures himself about any sin that a man may commit;

'if he sins and so becomes answerable, he is to restore what he has taken or demanded in excess: the deposit confided to him, the lost property that he found, or any object about which he has perjured himself. He must add one-fifth to the principal and pay the whole to whoever held the property rights on the day when he became answerable. •Then he is to bring an unblemished ram of his flock to Yahweh as a sacrifice of reparation: it must be valued according to the rate paid to the priest for a sacrifice of reparation. •The priest shall perform the rite of atonement over him before Yahweh and he will be forgiven, whatever the act for which he became answerable.'

Priesthood and sacrifice

a. Holocaust

6 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

'Give these orders to Aaron and his sons:

'This is the ritual for holocaust (that is, the holocaust that stays on the altar brazier all night until morning and is consumed by the altar fire).

'The priest is to put on his linen tunic and cover his body with linen. Then he must remove the ashes of the fat of the sacrifice consumed by the altar fire and place them at the side of the altar. •Then he is to take off his clothes and put on others and carry the ashes to some place that is clean, outside the camp.

'The fire that consumes the holocaust on the altar must not be allowed to go out. Every morning the priest must make it up with wood. He is to arrange the holocaust on it and burn the fat from the communion sacrifices. •An undying fire is always to burn on the altar; it must not go out.

b. The Oblation

'This is the ritual for the oblation:

'One of the sons of Aaron is to bring it into the presence of Yahweh in front of the altar; •he is to take a handful of the wheaten flour (with the oil and incense which have been added to it); he must burn the memorial on the altar so that its fragrance will appease Yahweh; •and after all this has been done Aaron and his sons shall eat the remainder in the form of unleavened loaves. They are to eat it in a sacred place within the precincts of the Tent of Meeting. •The portion I give them of my burnt offering must not be baked with leaven. It is a most holy portion, like the sacrifice for sin and the sacrifice of reparation. •All the males of Aaron's family may eat this portion of Yahweh's burnt offering (this is a perpetual law for all your descendants; and everyone who touches it will be consecrated).''

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:

'This is the offering that Aaron and his sons are to make to Yahweh on the day of their anointing: one-tenth of an ephah of wheaten flour as a perpetual oblation, half in the morning and half in the evening. •It must be prepared on the griddle and mixed with oil; you must bring the paste as an oblation in several pieces, offering them as a fragrance that will appease Yahweh. •The priest among the sons of Aaron who is to be anointed in his place shall do the same. This is a perpetual law.

16 19 "This entire oblation must be burnt for Yahweh. •Every oblation made by a priest must be a total sacrifice; none of it is to be eaten."

c. The Sacrifice for Sin

1,18 7,23 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said, •"Say to Aaron and his sons:

"This is the ritual for the sacrifice for sin:

"The victim for the sacrifice is to be immolated before Yahweh in the place where the holocausts are immolated. It is a most holy thing. •The priest who offers this sacrifice is to eat it. It must be eaten in a holy place within the precincts of the Tent of Meeting. •Everything that touches the flesh of this victim will become consecrated; if any of the blood splashes on clothing, the stain must be cleaned in some holy place. •The earthenware vessel in which the meat is cooked must be broken; if a bronze vessel has been used for the cooking, it must be scrubbed and thoroughly rinsed with water. •Any male who is a priest may eat it. It is a most holy thing. •But no one may eat any of the victims offered for sin, the blood of which has been taken into the Tent of Meeting to make atonement inside the sanctuary. These must be thrown on the fire.

d. The Sacrifice of Reparation

1 7 "This is the ritual for the sacrifice of reparation:

2 "It is a most holy thing. •The victim is to be immolated in the place where the holocausts are immolated, and the priest must pour out the blood on the borders of the altar. •Then he is to offer all the fat: the tail, the fat that covers the entrails, the two kidneys, the fat that is on them and on the loins, the fatty mass which he will remove from the liver and kidneys. •The priest must burn these pieces on the altar as a burnt offering for Yahweh. This is a sacrifice of reparation. 6 Every male who is a priest may eat it. It must be eaten in a holy place; it is a most holy thing.

The rights of the priests

7 "As with the sacrifice for sin, so with the sacrifice of reparation—the ritual is the same for both. The offering with which he has performed the rite of atonement is to revert to the priest. •The skin of the victim presented by a man to the priest is to be offered as a holocaust shall revert to the priest. •Every oblation baked in the oven, every oblation cooked in the pan or on the griddle shall revert to the priest who offered it. •Every oblation, mixed with oil or dry, is to revert to all the sons of Aaron without distinction.

e. The Communion Sacrifice

(i) Sacrifice with Praise

11 "This is the ritual for the communion sacrifice offered to Yahweh:

12 "If it is offered with a sacrifice with praise, there must be added to it an offering of unleavened cakes mixed with oil, unleavened wafers spread with oil, and wheaten flour in the form of cakes mixed with oil. •This offering, then, must be added to the cakes of leavened bread and to the communion sacrifice with praise. •One of the cakes of this offering is to be presented as an offering to Yahweh; it shall revert to the priest who pours out the blood of the communion sacrifice. •The flesh of the victim must be eaten on the day when the offering is made; nothing must remain until the next morning.

(ii) Votive or Voluntary Sacrifices

16 "If the victim is offered as a votive or a voluntary sacrifice, it is to be eaten on the day it is offered and also on the following day; •but on the third day whatever 17 remains of the victim's flesh must be thrown on the fire.

General rules

"If the flesh offered as a communion sacrifice is eaten on the third day, the 18 man who has offered it will not be accepted. He is to receive no credit for it, it is defiled flesh, and the man who eats it shall bear the consequences of his fault.

"Flesh that has touched anything unclean cannot be eaten; it must be thrown 19 on the fire.

"Anyone who is clean may eat flesh, •but anyone unclean who eats the flesh 20 of a communion sacrifice offered to Yahweh shall be outlawed from his people.
If anyone touches anything unclean, human or animal, or any foul thing, and 21 then eats the flesh of a communion sacrifice offered to Yahweh, this man shall be outlawed from his people."

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said, •"Speak to the sons of Israel, say to them: 22

"You must not eat the fat of ox, sheep or goat. •The fat of an animal that 23 has died a natural death or been savaged by beasts may be used for any other 24 purpose, but you must not eat it. •Anyone who eats the fat of an animal offered 25 as a burnt offering to Yahweh shall be outlawed from his people.

"Wherever you live, you must not eat blood, whether it be of bird or of beast. 26
Anyone who eats blood, whoever he may be, shall be outlawed from his people." 27

The priest's portion

Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said, •"Speak to the sons of Israel, say to them: 28

"Anyone who offers a communion sacrifice to Yahweh is to bring him part 29 of his sacrifice as an offering. •He is to bring Yahweh's burnt offering—that is, 30 the fat that adheres to the breast—with his own hands. He is to bring it, and also the breast, with which he must make the gesture of offering before Yahweh.
The priest must burn the fat on the altar, and the breast shall revert to Aaron and 31 his sons. •You must set aside the right thigh from your communion sacrifices and 32 give it to the priest. •This right thigh shall be the portion of the son of Aaron 33 who offers the blood and fat of the communion sacrifice. •Thus, I keep back 34 this breast and thigh out of the communion sacrifices offered by the sons of Israel, and give these to Aaron the priest and to his sons: this is a perpetual law binding the sons of Israel."

Conclusion

This, then, was the portion of Aaron and of his sons in Yahweh's burnt 35 offerings on the day he presented them to Yahweh to be his priests. •This is 36 what the orders of Yahweh bind the sons of Israel to give them on the day they are anointed: this is a perpetual law for all their descendants.

Such then is the ritual for holocaust, oblation, sacrifice for sin, sacrifices of 37
reparation, investiture and communion. •This is what Yahweh commanded 38
Moses on Mount Sinai when he ordered the sons of Israel to make their offerings to Yahweh in the wilderness of Sinai.

Ordination rites<sup>a</sup>

Q Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 1

Q "Take Aaron, his sons with him, and the vestments, and the chrism, the bull 2 for the sacrifice for sin, the two rams and the basket of unleavened bread.
Then call the whole community together at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting." 3

Moses followed the orders of Yahweh; the community gathered at the entrance 4

- 5 to the Tent of Meeting, and Moses said to them, 'This is what Yahweh has ordered to be done'.
- 6 He made Aaron and his sons come forward, and washed them with water.
- 7 He put the tunic on him, passed the girdle round his waist, dressed him in the robe and put the ephod on him. Then he put round his waist the woven band
- 8 of the ephod with which he clothed him. He put the pectoral on him, and
- 9 placed the Urim and Thummim in it. He put the turban on his head, with the golden plate on the front; this is the sacred diadem as Yahweh prescribed it to Moses.
- 10 Then Moses took the chrism and anointed the tabernacle and everything in it,
- 11 to consecrate them. He sprinkled the altar seven times, and anointed the altar
- 12 and its furnishing, the basin and its stand, to consecrate them. Then he poured the chrism on Aaron's head, consecrating him by unction.
- 13 Then Moses made Aaron's sons come forward; he put the tunics on them, passed the girdles round their waists and put on their head-dress, as Yahweh had ordered Moses.
- 14 Then he had the bull for the sacrifice for sin brought forward. Aaron and his
- 15 sons laid their hands on the victim's head and Moses immolated it. Then he took the blood and with his finger put some of it on the horns round the altar, to take away its sin. Then he poured out the rest of the blood at the foot of the
- 16 altar, which he consecrated by performing the rite of atonement over it. Then he took all the fat that covers the entrails, the fatty mass which is over the liver,
- 17 the two kidneys and their fat; and he burnt them all on the altar. The bull's skin, its flesh and its dung he burnt outside the camp, as Yahweh had ordered Moses.
- 18 Then he had the ram for holocaust brought forward. Aaron and his sons laid
- 19 their hands on its head and Moses immolated it. He poured its blood out on the borders of the altar. Then he quartered the ram and burned the head, the
- 20 pieces and the fat. He washed the entrails and legs, and burnt the whole ram on the altar. This was a holocaust whose fragrance would appease Yahweh; a burnt offering for Yahweh, as Yahweh had ordered Moses.
- 22 Then he had the other ram brought forward, for the sacrifice of investiture.
- 23 Aaron and his sons laid their hands on its head and Moses immolated it. He took some of its blood and put it on the lobe of Aaron's right ear, the thumb
- 24 of his right hand, and the big toe of his right foot. Then he made the sons of Aaron come forward and he put some of the blood on the lobes of their right ears, the thumbs of their right hands and the big toes of their right feet. Next
- 25 Moses poured the rest of the blood on the borders of the altar. Then he took the fat: the tail, all the fat that is on the entrails, the fatty mass which is over the
- 26 liver, the two kidneys and their fat, and the right thigh. From the basket of unleavened bread placed before Yahweh, he took an unleavened cake, a cake of bread made with oil, and a wafer; he placed these on the fat and the right thigh,
- 27 and put it all into Aaron's hands and those of his sons, and made the gesture of offering before Yahweh. Then Moses took them back and burned them on the altar in addition to the holocaust. This was the sacrifice of investiture
- 28 whose fragrance would appease Yahweh, a burnt offering to Yahweh. Then Moses took the breast and made the gesture of offering before Yahweh. This was the portion of the ram of investiture that reverted to Moses, as Yahweh had ordered Moses.
- 30 Then Moses took the chrism and the blood that was on the altar and sprinkled Aaron and his vestments with it, and his sons and their vestments. In this way he consecrated Aaron and his vestments, and his sons and their vestments.

8 a. The ritual for high-priestly investiture appears here as an account of the investiture of Aaron and his sons.

Then Moses said to Aaron and his sons, 'Cook the meat at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and eat it there, as also the bread for the sacrifice of investiture that is in the basket, as I ordered, when I said: Aaron and his sons are to eat it. •What remains of the meat and bread you will burn. •For seven days you must not leave the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, until the time of your investiture is complete; for your investiture will require seven days. •Yahweh has ordered us to do as we have done today to perform the rite of atonement over you; •and for seven days, day and night, you must remain at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting observing Yahweh's ritual; do this, and you will not die.<sup>b</sup> For this is the order I received.' •And Aaron and his sons did everything that Yahweh had ordered through Moses.

The priests assume their functions

9 On the eighth day Moses summoned Aaron and his sons and the elders of Israel; •he said to Aaron, "Take a calf to offer a sacrifice for sin, and a ram for a holocaust, both without blemish, and bring them before Yahweh. •Then say to the sons of Israel, "Take a goat to be offered as a sacrifice for sin, and as a holocaust a calf and a lamb both one year old and without blemish, •and for communion sacrifices an ox and a ram to be immolated before Yahweh; and finally an oblation mixed with oil. For Yahweh will appear to you today."

They brought what Moses had commanded in front of the Tent of Meeting; then the whole community came and stood before Yahweh. •Moses said, 'This is what Yahweh has ordered to be done, so that his glory may be visible to you'. Moses then addressed Aaron, 'Go to the altar and offer your sacrifice for sin and your holocaust, and so perform the rite of atonement for yourself and your family. Then present the people's offering and perform the rite of atonement for them, as Yahweh has ordered.'

Aaron went to the altar and immolated the calf as a sacrifice for his own sin. Then the sons of Aaron presented the blood to him; he dipped his finger in it and put some on the horns of the altar, and then poured out the rest of the blood at the foot of the altar. •The fat of the sacrifice for sin and the kidneys and the fatty mass which is over the liver, he burned on the altar, as Yahweh had commanded Moses; •the flesh and the skin he burned outside the camp.

Next Aaron immolated the holocaust; his sons handed him the blood and he poured it on the borders of the altar. •Then they handed him the quartered victim, and its head too, and he burned these on the altar. •He washed the entrails and legs and burned them on the altar in addition to the holocaust.

He then presented the people's offering. He took the goat for the people's sacrifice for sin, immolated it, and made a sacrifice for sin with it in the same way as with the first. •Then he had the holocaust brought forward and proceeded according to the ritual. •Next he had the oblation brought forward, took a handful of it and burned it on the altar in addition to the morning holocaust.

Finally, he immolated the ox and the ram as a communion sacrifice for the people. Aaron's sons handed him the blood and he poured it out on the borders of the altar. •The fat of the ox and of the ram—the tail, the fatty covering, the kidneys, the fatty mass over the liver—all of this he laid on the breasts and burned it all on the altar. •With the breasts and the right thigh Aaron made the gesture of offering as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

Then Aaron raised his hands towards the people and blessed them. Having thus performed the sacrifice for sin, the holocaust and the communion sacrifice, he came down •and entered the Tent of Meeting with Moses. Then they came out together to bless the people and the glory of Yahweh appeared to the whole people—•a flame leaped forth from before Yahweh and consumed the holocaust and the fat that was on the altar. At this sight the people shouted for joy and fell on their faces.

Complementary legislation<sup>a</sup>*a. A lesson in exact observance

1 10 Nadab and Abihu, sons of Aaron, each took his censer, put fire in it and 2 incense on the fire, and presented unlawful fire before Yahweh, fire which 3 he had not prescribed for them. •Then from Yahweh's presence a flame leaped 4 out and consumed them, and they perished in the presence of Yahweh. •And 5 Moses said to Aaron, 'That is what Yahweh meant when he said:

'In those who are close to me I show my holiness, and before all the people I show my glory'''.<sup>b</sup>

Aaron remained silent.

b. Removal of bodies

4 Moses summoned Mishael and Elzaphan, sons of Aaron's uncle Uzziel, and 5 said to them, 'Come and take your brothers far away from the sanctuary, out 6 of the camp'. •They came and carried them away, still in their tunics, out of 7 the camp, as Moses had ordered.

c. Rules for priestly mourning

6 Moses said to Aaron and his sons Eleazar and Ithamar, 'Do not disorder your 7 hair nor tear your garments; you are not going to die. It is with the whole
 8 community that he is angry; it is the whole House of Israel that must lament 9 your brothers, the victims of Yahweh's fire. •Do not leave the entrance to the 10 Tent of Meeting, lest you die; for the chrism of Yahweh is on you.' And they 11 obeyed the words of Moses.

d. Wine forbidden

8 Yahweh spoke to Aaron; he said:

9 'When you come to the Tent of Meeting, you and your sons with you, do not 10 take wine or strong drink; then you will not die. This is a perpetual law for all 11 your descendants. •And so be it too when you separate the sacred from the 12 profane, the unclean from the clean, •and when you teach the sons of Israel 13 any of the laws that Yahweh has pronounced for them through Moses.'

e. The priests' portion in offerings

12 Moses said to Aaron and his surviving sons, Eleazar and Ithamar, 'Take the 13 oblation that is left over from Yahweh's burnt offering. Eat the unleavened part 14 of it beside the altar, because it is a most holy thing. •Eat it in a holy place;
 15 it is the portion of Yahweh's burnt offering prescribed for you and your sons;
 16 this is the order I have received.

17 'The breast that was offered up and the thigh that was set aside you will eat 18 in some place that is clean, you, your sons and your daughters with you; this is 19 the portion of the communion sacrifices of the sons of Israel that is prescribed 20 for you and your sons. •The thigh that was set aside and the breast that was 21 offered up, when the fat was burnt, revert to you, to you and your sons with 22 you, after they have been presented before Yahweh by the gesture of offering, 23 in virtue of a perpetual law as Yahweh has ordered.'

f. A special regulation concerning Sacrifice for Sin

16 Then Moses enquired about the goat offered as a sacrifice for sin, and found 17 that they had burnt it. He was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, Aaron's surviving 18 sons: •'Why' he asked 'did you not eat this victim in the holy place? For it is a most holy thing given to you to take away the fault of the community, by performing the rite of atonement over it before Yahweh. •Since its blood was not taken inside the sanctuary, you should have eaten its flesh there, as I ordered you.’ •Aaron said to Moses, ‘Today they have offered their sacrifice for sin and their holocaust before Yahweh. If I had been concerned, if I had eaten the victim for sin today, would that have seemed good to Yahweh?’ •And when Moses heard this, he was satisfied.

RULES CONCERNING THE CLEAN AND UNCLEAN

LEVITICUS 11—16; 27

Clean and unclean beasts

a. On land

11 Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron and said to them, •‘Speak to the sons 1 of Israel and say: 2

‘Of all the beasts on the earth these are the animals you may eat:

‘You may eat any animal that has a cloven hoof, divided into two parts, 3 and that is a ruminant. •The following, which either chew the cud or have a 4 cloven hoof, are the ones that you may not eat: the camel must be held unclean, because though it is ruminant, it has not a cloven hoof; •the hyrax must be held 5 unclean, because though it is ruminant, it has not a cloven hoof; •the hare must 6 be held unclean, because though it is ruminant, it has not a cloven hoof; •the 7 pig must be held unclean, because though it has a cloven hoof, divided into two parts, it is not ruminant. •You must not eat the meat of such animals nor 8 touch their dead bodies; you must hold them unclean.

b. In water

‘Of all that lives in water, these you may eat: 9

‘Anything that has fins and scales, and lives in the water, whether in sea or 10 river, you may eat. •But anything in sea or river that has not fins or scales, of all the small water-creatures and all the living things found there, must be 11 held detestable. •You must hold them detestable; you are not to eat their flesh and you must avoid their carcasses. •Anything that lives in water, but 12 has no fins or scales, is to be held detestable.

c. Birds

‘Among the birds here are those you must hold detestable; they may not be 13 eaten, they are detestable:

‘The tawny vulture, the griffon, the osprey, •the kite, the several kinds of 14 buzzard, •all kinds of raven, •the ostrich, the screech owl, the seagull, the several 15 kinds of hawk, •horned owl, night owl, cormorant, barn owl, •ibis, pelican, 16 white vulture, •stork, the several kinds of heron, hoopoe and bat. 17 18 19

d. Winged insects

‘All winged insects that move on four feet<sup>a</sup> you must hold detestable. •Of all 20
these winged insects you may eat only the following: those that have legs above 21 their feet so that they can leap over the ground. •These are the ones you may 22 eat: the several kinds of migratory locust, solham, hargol and hagab locusts in their several kinds. •But all winged insects on four feet you are to hold detestable. 23

Contact with unclean animals

‘By these you will be made unclean. Anyone who touches the carcass of one 24 will be unclean until evening. •Anyone who picks up their carcasses must wash 25 his clothing and will be unclean until evening. •Animals that have hoofs, but 26 not cloven, and that are not ruminant, you are to hold unclean; anyone

27 who touches them will be unclean. •Those four-footed animals which walk on the flat of their foot<sup>b</sup> must be held unclean; anyone who touches their carcasses 28 will be unclean until evening. •and anyone who picks up their carcasses must wash his clothing and will be unclean until evening. You are to hold them unclean.

e. Small ground beasts

29 “These are the small beasts crawling on the ground that you are to hold 30 unclean: the mole, the rat, the several kinds of lizard: •gecko, koah, letaah, chameleon and tinshameth.

Further rules on contact with things unclean

31 “Of all the small beasts, these are the creatures that you are to hold unclean.
Anyone who touches them when they are dead will be unclean until evening.

32 “Any object on which one of these creatures falls when it is dead becomes unclean: wooden utensil, clothing, skin, sackcloth—any utensil at all. It must be dipped in water and will remain unclean until evening; then it will be clean.

33 If the creature falls into an earthenware vessel, the vessel must be broken;
34 whatever the vessel contains is unclean. •Any food that is eaten will be unclean, even if it is steeped in water; any liquid that is drunk will be unclean, no matter 35 what its container. •Anything on which a carcass of such a creature may fall will be unclean: oven or stove must be destroyed, for unclean they are and 36 unclean they must be for you •(although springs, wells and stretches of water will remain clean); anyone who touches a carcass of theirs will be unclean.
37 If one of their carcasses falls on any seed whatever, the seed will remain clean; 38 but if the seed has been wet, and a carcass of theirs falls on it, then you must hold it unclean.

39 “If one of the animals that you use as food dies, then anyone who touches the 40 carcass will be unclean until evening; •anyone who eats the dead meat must wash his clothing and will remain unclean until evening; anyone who picks up the carcass must wash his clothing and will remain unclean until evening.

The religious aspect

41 “Any small beast that crawls on the ground is detestable; you must not 42 eat it. •Anything that moves on its belly, anything that moves on four legs or more—in short all the small beasts that crawl on the ground—you must not eat 43 these because they are detestable. •Do not make yourself detestable with all these crawling beasts; do not defile yourself with them, do not be defiled 44 by them. •For it is I, Yahweh, who am your God. You have been sanctified and have become holy because I am holy: do not defile yourself with all these 45 beasts that crawl on the ground. •Yes, it is I, Yahweh, who brought you out of Egypt to be your God: you therefore must be holy because I am holy.”

Conclusion

46 Such is the law concerning animals, birds, all living creatures that move in 47 water and every creature that crawls on the ground. •Its purpose is to separate the clean from the unclean; creatures that may be eaten from those that must not be eaten.

Purification of a woman after childbirth

<sup>1</sup>
<sup>2</sup> 12 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said, •“Speak to the sons of Israel and say:
“If a woman conceives and gives birth to a boy, she is to be unclean for 3 seven days, just as she is unclean during her monthly periods. •On the eighth day
4 the child’s foreskin must be circumcised, •and she must wait another thirty-three days for her blood to be purified. She must not touch anything consecrated nor go to the sanctuary until the time of her purification is over.

11 a. There are certain insects which use only four feet for walking, but the intention is probably to distinguish between birds and insects. b. I.e., without hooves.

"If she gives birth to a girl, she is to be unclean for two weeks, as during her monthly periods; and she must wait another sixty-six days for her blood to be purified. 5

"When the period of her purification is over, for either boy or girl, she is to bring to the priest at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting a lamb one year old for a holocaust, and a young pigeon or turtledove as a sacrifice for sin. •The priest is to offer this before Yahweh, perform the rite of atonement over her, and she will be purified from her flow of blood. 6 7

"Such is the law concerning a woman who gives birth to either a boy or a girl. If she cannot afford a lamb, she is to take two turtledoves or two young pigeons, one for the holocaust and the other for the sacrifice for sin. The priest is to perform the rite of atonement over her and she will be purified." 8

Human leprosy

a. Swellings, scabs, discolorations

13 Yahweh said to Moses and Aaron, •'If a swelling or scab or shiny spot appears on a man's skin, a case of leprosy of the skin is to be suspected. The man must be taken to Aaron, the priest, or to one of the priests who are his sons. •The priest must examine the disease on the skin. If the hair on the diseased part has turned white, or if the disease bites into the skin, then it is indeed a case of leprosy, and after examination the priest must declare the man unclean. •But if there is a shiny spot on the skin without any visible depression of the skin and without whitening of the hair, the priest is to isolate the sick person for seven days. •On the seventh day he must examine him, and if he sees with his own eyes that the disease persists though without spreading over the skin, he is to isolate him for a further seven days •and examine him again on the seventh. If he finds that the diseased part is no longer shiny and has not spread over the skin, then the priest is to declare the man clean. It is a scab merely. Having washed his clothing he will be clean. 1 2 3 4 5 6

•But if the scab spreads over the skin after the sick person has been examined by the priest and declared clean, then he must present himself again to the priest. After examining him and certifying the spread of the scab over the skin, the priest must declare him unclean: it is leprosy. 7 8

b. Chronic leprosy

•When a leprous disease strikes a man, he must be taken to the priest, •who must examine him, and if he finds on the skin a whitish swelling with whitening of the hair and an ulcer forming, •then it is chronic leprosy in the skin and the priest must declare him unclean. He is not to isolate him; he is unclean beyond doubt. 9 10 11

•But if the leprosy spreads all through the skin, if it covers him entirely from head to foot so far as the priest can see, •then the priest must examine the sick person and, if he finds that the leprosy covers his whole body, declare the sick person<sup>a</sup> clean. Since it has all become white, he is clean. • But as soon as an ulcer appears on him, he will be unclean. •After examining the ulcer, the priest is to declare him unclean: the ulcer is unclean, it is leprous. •But if the ulcer becomes white again, the man must go to the priest; •the priest must examine him and if he finds that the disease has turned white, he is to declare the sick person clean: he is clean. 12 13 14 15 16 17

c. Boils

•When a boil appears on a man's skin, which, after healing, •leaves in its place a whitish swelling or a shiny spot of reddish white, the man must show himself to the priest. •The priest must examine him, and if he finds a visible depression in the skin and a whitening of the hair, he is to declare him unclean: it is a case of leprosy that has broken out in a boil. •But if on examination the priest finds neither white hair nor depression of the skin, but a fading of the affected part, he is to isolate the sick person for seven days. •If the disease has 18 19 20 21 22

indeed spread over the skin, he must declare him unclean: it is a case of leprosy.

- 23 But if the shiny spot is still restricted and has not spread, then it is the scar of a boil and the priest is to declare the man clean.

d. Burns

- 24 'If someone has had a burn, and on the burn an ulcer forms, a shiny spot 25 reddish-white or whitish in colour, •then the priest must examine it. If he finds a whitening of the hair or a visible depression of the mark on the skin, this means that leprosy has broken out in the burn. The priest is to declare the man 26 unclean: it is a case of leprosy. •If on the other hand the priest on examination does not find white hair on the mark or depression of the skin, but a fading of 27 the mark, then the priest is to isolate him for seven days. •On the seventh day he must examine him, and if the disease has spread on the skin, he must declare 28 him unclean: it is a case of leprosy. •If the mark is still restricted and has not spread over the skin, but has faded instead, this means that it is only a swelling due to the burn. The priest is to declare the man clean: it is merely a burn scar.

e. Diseases of the scalp and chin

- 29 'If a man or a woman has a sore on the head or chin, •the priest must examine 30 this sore; and if he finds a depression visible in the skin, with the hair on it yellow and thin, he must declare the sick person unclean. It is tinea, that is to 31 say, leprosy of the head or chin. •If on examining this case of tinea the priest finds no visible depression in the skin nor yellow hair, he is to isolate the person 32 so affected for seven days. •He must examine the infected part on the seventh day, and if he finds that the tinea has not spread, that the hair on it is not yellow, 33 and that there is no visible depression in the skin, • the sick person will shave his hair, all except the part affected with tinea, and the priest is to isolate him 34 again for seven days. •He must examine the infected part on the seventh day, and if he finds that it has not spread over the skin, and that there is no visible depression of the skin, the priest is to declare the sick person clean. After washing 35 his clothes he will be clean. •But if after this purification the tinea does spread 36 over the skin, •the priest must examine him; if he finds that the tinea has indeed spread over the skin, this means that the sick person is unclean, and there is no 37 need to verify whether the hair is yellow. •Whereas if, so far as he can see, the tinea is arrested and dark hair is beginning to grow on it, this means that the sick person is cured. He is clean, and the priest is to declare him clean.

f. Rash

- 38 'If shiny spots break out on the skin of a man or woman, and if these spots 39 are white, •the priest must examine them. If he finds that these patches are of a dull white, it is a rash that has broken out on the skin: the sick person is clean.

g. Loss of hair

- 40 'If a man loses the hair of his scalp, this is baldness of the scalp but the man 41 is clean. •If he loses his hair off the front of the head, this is baldness of the 42 forehead but the man is clean. •If, however, a reddish-white sore appears on scalp or forehead, this means that leprosy has broken out on the man's scalp or 43 forehead. •The priest must examine it, and if he finds a reddish-white swelling 44 on the scalp or forehead, of the same appearance as leprosy of the skin, •this means that the man is leprous: he is unclean. The priest must declare him unclean; he is suffering from leprosy of the head.

A regulation for lepers

- 45 'A man infected with leprosy must wear his clothing torn and his hair disor-46 dered; he must shield his upper lip and cry, "Unclean, unclean". •As long as the 13 a. When the symptoms spread over the surface it is a sign of recovery.

disease lasts he must be unclean; and therefore he must live apart: he must live outside the camp.

Leprosy of clothes

'When a piece of clothing is infected with leprosy—woollen or linen clothing, 47
linen or woollen fabric or covering, leather or leatherwork—and if this clothing, 48 fabric, covering, leather or leatherwork appears greenish or reddish, it is a case 49 of leprosy to be shown to the priest. •The priest must examine the infection 50 and isolate the object for seven days. •If on the seventh day he observes that the 51 infection has spread on the garment, fabric, covering, leather or leatherwork, whatever it may be, it is a case of contagious leprosy and the object is unclean.
He will burn this clothing, fabric, linen or woollen covering, leather article of any 52 kind, on which the infection has appeared; for it is a contagious leprosy which must be destroyed by fire.

'But if on examination the priest finds that the infection has not spread on 53
the clothing, fabric, covering, or leather object whatever it may be, •he is to order 54
the infected article to be washed and is to isolate it again for a period of seven days. •After the cleansing he must examine the infection and if he finds that there 55 is no change in its appearance, even though it has not spread, the article is unclean. It must be destroyed by fire; it is infected through and through.

'But if on examination the priest finds that the infection has diminished after 56 washing, he is to cut it out of the clothing, leather, fabric or covering. •But if the 57 infection reappears on the same clothing, fabric, covering or leather article whatever it may be, this means that the infection is active and you must destroy 58 by fire whatever is infected. •The clothing, fabric, covering or leather article whatever it may be, from which the infection disappears after washing, is to be clean after it has been washed a second time.

'Such is the law for a case of leprosy in a linen or woollen garment, a fabric 59 or covering or leather article whatever it may be, when it is a question of declaring them clean or unclean.'

Purification of lepers

14 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said: 1
'This is the law to be applied to a leper on the day he is purified. He must 2 be taken to the priest, •and the priest must go outside the camp. If he finds on 3 examination that the leper is cured of his leprosy, •he shall order the following 4 to be brought for the man's purification: two live birds that are clean, cedar wood, scarlet and hyssop. •Then he is to give orders for one of the birds to be 5 immolated in an earthenware pot over running water. •Then he is to take the live 6 bird, the cedar wood, the scarlet and the hyssop and he must dip all of this (including the live bird) into the blood of the bird immolated over running water.
Then he must sprinkle the man who is to be purified of leprosy seven times, and 7 having declared him clean, must set the live bird free to fly off into the open country. •The man who is undergoing purification is to wash his clothing, shave 8 all his hair, and wash himself; then he will be clean. After this he may return to the camp, although he must remain seven days outside his tent. •On the 9 seventh day he must shave off all his hair—head, beard and eyebrows; he must shave off all his hair. After washing his clothing and his body he will be clean.

'On the eighth day, he is to take two lambs without blemish, an unblemished 10 ewe one year old, three-tenths<sup>a</sup> of wheaten flour mixed with oil for the oblation, and one log of oil. •The priest who is performing the purification is to station 11
the man who is being purified, with all his offerings, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, before Yahweh. •Then he must take one of the lambs and offer it as 12 a sacrifice of reparation, as also the log of oil. With these he is to make the gesture of offering before Yahweh. •Then he must immolate the lamb on that spot inside 13
the sacred precincts where the victims of the sacrifice for sin and of the holocaust

- are immolated. This offering of reparation, like the sacrifice for sin, reverts to 14 the priest: it is a most holy thing. •The priest must take the blood of this sacrifice and put some of it on the lobe of the right ear, the thumb of the right hand, and 15 the big toe of the right foot of the man who is being purified. •Then he is to take 16 the log of oil and pour a little into the hollow of his left hand. •He must dip a finger of his right hand into the oil in the hollow of his left hand, and with this 17 oil make seven sprinklings with his finger before Yahweh. •Then he is to take a little of the oil that remains in the hollow of his hand and put it on the lobe of the right ear of the man who is being purified, and on the thumb of his right hand and on the big toe of his right foot (this in addition to the blood of the 18 sacrifice of reparation). •The rest of the oil in the hollow of his hand he is to put on the head of the man who is being purified. In this way he will have performed over him the rite of atonement before Yahweh.
- 19 'Then the priest must offer the sacrifice for sin, and perform the rite of atonement for uncleanness over the man who is being purified. After this he must 20 immolate the holocaust, •and send up holocaust and oblation on the altar.
 When the priest has performed the rite of atonement over him in this way,
 the man will be clean.
- 21 'If he is poor and cannot afford all this, he need take only one lamb, the one for the sacrifice of reparation, and it is to be presented with the gesture of offering to perform the rite of atonement over the man. And he is to take for the oblation 22 only one-tenth of wheaten flour mixed with oil, and the log of oil, •and finally two turtledoves or two young pigeons—if he can afford them—one to be used 23 as a sacrifice for sin and the other for the holocaust. •On the eighth day he must bring them to the priest at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting before Yahweh, 24 for his purification. •The priest is to take the lamb for the sacrifice of reparation and the log of oil, and present them before Yahweh with the gesture of offering.
- 25 Then he must immolate the lamb for the sacrifice of reparation, take some of its blood and put it on the lobe of the right ear of the man who is being purified, 26 on the thumb of his right hand and on the big toe of his right foot. •He is to pour the oil into the hollow of his left hand, •and with this oil in the hollow of 27 his left hand he must make seven sprinklings with his finger before Yahweh.
- 28 He is to put some of it on the lobe of the right ear of the man who is being purified, on the thumb of his right hand and on the big toe of his right foot, 29 as he did with the blood of the sacrifice of reparation. •The remainder of the oil in the hollow of his hand he must put on the head of the man who is being 30 purified, performing the rite of atonement over him before Yahweh. •Of the two turtledoves or two young pigeons—if he can afford them—he is to offer 31 a sacrifice for sin with one, and with the other a holocaust together with an oblation—if he can afford them. In this way the priest will have performed before Yahweh the rite of atonement over the person who is being purified.
- 32 'Such is the law concerning a person afflicted by leprosy who cannot afford the means for his purification.'

Leprosy of houses

- 33 Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron; he said:
 34 'When you reach the land of Canaan, which I am giving you as an 35 inheritance, if I strike a house with leprosy in the land you are to possess, •the owner must come and warn the priest; he must say, "I have seen something like 36 leprosy in the house". •The priest is to give orders for the house to be emptied before he goes to examine the infection; thus nothing in the house will become 37 unclean. Then the priest must go and look at the house; •and if on examination he finds the walls of the house pitted with reddish or greenish depressions, 38 the priest is to go out of the house, to the door, and shut it up for seven days.
- 39 On the seventh day he must go back again, and if on examination he finds that 14 a. I.e., of an ephah.

the infection has spread over the walls of the house, •he must give orders for 40
the infected stones to be removed and thrown into some unclean place outside the town. •Then he must have all the inside of the house scraped, and the plaster 41 that comes off must be emptied out into an unclean place outside the town. •The 42 stones must be replaced by new ones and the house given a new coat of plaster.

‘If the infection spreads again after the stones have been removed and the 43 house scraped and replastered, •the priest is to come and examine it. If he finds 44 that the infection has spread, this means that there is a contagious leprosy in the house: it is unclean. •It must be pulled down and the stones, woodwork and 45 all the plaster be taken to an unclean place outside the town.

‘Anyone who enters the house while it is closed will be unclean until evening. 46
Anyone who sleeps there must wash his clothing. Anyone who eats there must 47 wash his clothing. •But if the priest finds, when he comes to examine the 48 infection, that it has not spread in the house since it was plastered, he is to declare the house clean, for the infection is cured.

‘As a sacrifice for the sin of the house, he is to take two birds, cedar wood, 49 scarlet and hyssop. •He must immolate one of the birds in an earthenware pot 50 over running water. •Then he is to take the cedar wood, the hyssop, the scarlet 51 and the live bird, and must dip them into the blood of the bird that was immolated and into the running water. He is to sprinkle the house seven times; •and after 52 having offered a sacrifice for the sin of the house with the blood of the bird, the running water, the live bird, the cedar wood, the hyssop and the scarlet, 53 he must set the live bird free to fly out of the town into the open country. When the rite of atonement has been performed over the house in this way it will be clean.

‘Such is the law for all cases of leprosy and tinea, •leprosy of clothing and 54 houses, •swellings, scabs and shiny spots. •It defines the occasions when things 55 are unclean and when clean. Such is the law on leprosy.’ 56

Sexual impurities

a. Of men

15 Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron; he said: 1
‘Speak to the sons of Israel and say to them: 2

“When a man has a discharge from his body, that discharge is unclean. •While 3 the discharge continues, the nature of his uncleanness is as follows:

“Whether his body allows the discharge to flow or whether it retains it, he is unclean.

“Any bed the man lies on and any seat he sits on shall be unclean. 4

“Anyone who touches his bed must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening. 5

“Anyone who sits on a seat where the man has sat must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening. 6

“Anyone who touches the body of a man so affected must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening. 7

“If the sick man spits on someone who is clean, that person must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening. 8

“Any saddle the sick man travels on will be unclean. 9

“All those who touch any object that may be under him will be unclean until evening. 10

“Anyone who picks up such an object must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening.

“All those whom the sick man touches without washing his hands must wash their clothing and wash themselves and will be unclean until evening. 11

“Any earthenware vessel the sick man touches must be broken and any wooden utensil must be rinsed. 12

“When the man suffering from a discharge is cured, he must allow seven days 13

for his purification. He must wash his clothing and wash his body in running water and he will be clean. •On the eighth day he must take two turtledoves or two young pigeons and come before Yahweh at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and give them to the priest. •The priest is to offer a sacrifice for sin with one of them, and with the other a holocaust. So the priest will perform the rite of atonement over him before Yahweh for his discharge.

16 "When a man has a seminal discharge, he must wash his whole body with water and he shall be unclean until evening. •Any clothing or leather touched by the seminal discharge must be washed and it will be unclean until evening.
18 When a woman has slept with a man, both of them must wash and they will be unclean until evening.

b. Of women

19 "When a woman has a discharge of blood, and blood flows from her body, this uncleanness of her monthly periods shall last for seven days.

"Anyone who touches her will be unclean until evening.

20 "Any bed she lies on in this state will be unclean; any seat she sits on will be unclean.

21 "Anyone who touches her bed must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening.

22 "Anyone who touches any seat she has sat on must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening. •If there is anything on the bed or on the chair on which she sat, anyone who touches it will be unclean until evening.

24 "If a man sleeps with her, he will be affected by the uncleanness of her monthly periods. He shall be unclean for seven days. Any bed he lies on will be unclean.

25 "If a woman has a flow of blood for several days outside the period, or if the period is prolonged, during the time this flow lasts she shall be in the same state of uncleanness as during her monthly periods. •Any bed she lies on during the time this flow lasts will be in the same condition as the bed she lies on during her monthly periods. Any seat she sits on will be unclean as it would be during her monthly periods. •Anyone who touches them will be unclean; he must wash his clothing and wash himself and will be unclean until evening.

28 "When she is cured of her flow, she will let seven days pass; then she will be clean. •On the eighth day she is to take two turtledoves or two young pigeons and bring them to the priest at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. •With one of them the priest is to offer a sacrifice for sin and with the other a holocaust. This is the way in which the priest will perform the rite of atonement over her before Yahweh for the flow that caused her uncleanness."

Conclusion

31 'You must warn the sons of Israel of their uncleanness lest they should die because of it, by being a defilement to my tabernacle which is set amongst them.

32 'Such is the law concerning a man with a discharge, anyone made unclean by a seminal discharge, •a woman in the uncleanness of her monthly periods, a man or a woman with a discharge, a man who sleeps with an unclean woman.'

The great Day of Atonement

1 16 After the death of the two sons of Aaron who died through offering unlawful fire before Yahweh, •Yahweh spoke to Moses. He said:

'Tell Aaron your brother that he must not enter the sanctuary beyond the veil, in front of the throne of mercy that is over the ark, whenever he chooses. He may die; for I appear in a cloud on the throne of mercy.

3 'This is how he is to enter the sanctuary: with a young bull for a sacrifice for sin and a ram for a holocaust. •He is to put on a tunic of consecrated linen, wear linen on his body, a linen girdle round his waist, and a linen turban on his head. These are the sacred vestments he must put on after washing himself with water.

•He is to receive two goats for a sacrifice for sin and a ram for a holocaust from the community of the sons of Israel. •After offering the bull as a sacrifice for his own sin and performing the rite of atonement for himself and his family, Aaron must take the two goats and set them before Yahweh at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. •He is to draw lots for the two goats and allot one to Yahweh and the other to Azazel.<sup>a</sup> •Aaron is to offer up the goat whose lot was marked "For Yahweh", and offer it as a sacrifice for sin. •The goat whose lot was marked "For Azazel" shall be set before Yahweh, still alive, to perform the rite of atonement over it, sending it out into the desert to Azazel.

•Aaron must offer the bull which is to be a sacrifice for his own sin, then he must perform the rite of atonement for himself and for his family, and immolate the bull. •Then he is to fill a censer with live coals from the altar that stands before Yahweh; and to take two handfuls of finely ground aromatic incense. He is to take these through the veil •and then to put the incense on the fire before Yahweh, and with a cloud of incense he must cover the throne of mercy that is on the Testimony; if he does this, he shall not die. •Then he must take some of the blood of the bull and sprinkle it with his finger on the eastern side of the throne of mercy; in front of the throne of mercy he must sprinkle this blood seven times with his finger.

•He must then immolate the goat for the sacrifice for the sin of the people, and take its blood through the veil. With this blood he is to do as with the blood of the bull, sprinkling it on the throne of mercy and in front of it. •This is how he is to perform the rite of atonement over the sanctuary for the uncleanness of the sons of Israel, for their transgressions and for all their sins.

•This also is how he must deal with the Tent of Meeting which remains with them, surrounded by their uncleanness. •Let no one stay in the Tent of Meeting, from the moment he enters to make atonement in the sanctuary until the time he comes out.

•When he has made atonement for himself, for his family, and for the whole community of Israel, •he is to come out and go to the altar which is before Yahweh, and perform over it the rite of atonement. He must take some of the blood of the bull and of the goat, and put it on the horns around the altar. With this blood he must sprinkle the altar seven times with his finger. This is how he will render it clean and sacred, purified and separated from the uncleannesses of the sons of Israel.

•When the atonement of the sanctuary, the Tent of Meeting and the altar is complete, he is to bring the other goat that is still alive. •Aaron must lay his hands on its head and confess all the faults of the sons of Israel, all their transgressions and all their sins, and lay them to its charge. Having thus laid them on the goat's head, he shall send it out into the desert led by a man waiting ready, •and the goat will bear all their faults away with it into a desert place.

•When he has sent the goat out into the wilderness, •Aaron is to return to the Tent of Meeting and remove the linen vestments he wore to enter the sanctuary. He must leave them there •and wash his body in a consecrated place. Then he is to put the vestments on again and go out to offer his own and the people's holocaust. He must perform the rite of atonement for himself and for the people; he must burn up the fat of the sacrifice for sin on the altar.

•The man who leads out the goat to Azazel must wash his clothing and his body, and then he can return to the camp. •The bull and the goat offered as a sacrifice for sin, whose blood has been taken into the sanctuary for the rite of atonement, are to be taken out of the camp where their skin, flesh and dung are to be burnt. •The man who burns them must wash his clothing and his body, and then he can return to the camp.

- 29 'This shall be a perpetual law for you.
 'On the tenth day of the seventh month you must fast and refrain from work, 30 the native and the stranger who lives among you. •For this is the day on which the rite of atonement shall be performed over you, to purify you. Before Yahweh 31 you will be clean of all your sins. •It shall be a sabbath rest for you and you are to fast. This is a perpetual law.
 32 'The rite of atonement must be performed by the priest who has been anointed and installed to officiate in place of his father. He is to put on the linen, the 33 sacred vestments, •and to perform the atonement of the sacred sanctuary, the Tent of Meeting and the altar. Then he must perform the rite of atonement over 34 the priests and all the people of the community. •This shall be a perpetual law for you; once a year the rite of atonement must be made over the sons of Israel for all their sins.'

And it was done as Yahweh commanded Moses.

Tariffs and estimates

a. Persons

- 1 27 Yahweh spoke to Moses; he said:
 2 'Speak to the sons of Israel and tell them:
 "If anyone vows the value of a person to Yahweh and wishes to discharge the vow:
 3 "a man between twenty and sixty years of age shall be valued at fifty silver
 4 shekels—the sanctuary shekel; •a woman shall be valued at thirty shekels;
 5 "between five and twenty years, a boy shall be valued at twenty shekels, a girl
 at ten shekels;
 6 "between one month and five years, a boy shall be valued at five silver shekels,
 a girl at three silver shekels;
 7 "at sixty years and over, a man shall be valued at fifteen shekels and a woman
 at ten shekels.
 8 "If the person who made the vow cannot meet this valuation, he must present the person concerned to the priest, and the priest shall set a value proportionate to the resources of the person who made the vow.

b. Animals

- 9 "If it is a question of an animal suitable for offering to Yahweh, any such 10 animal given to Yahweh shall be a consecrated thing. •It cannot be exchanged or a substitute offered—good for bad, bad for good. If one animal is substituted 11 for another, both of them shall be consecrated. •If it is a question of an unclean animal, and not suitable for offering to Yahweh, whatever it may be it must be 12 presented to the priest •and he shall set a value on it, judging it good or bad.
 13 You must abide by his valuation; •but if the person wishes to redeem it, he must add one-fifth to the valuation.

c. Houses

- 14 "If a man consecrates his house to Yahweh, the priest shall set a value on it, judging whether its value is great or little. You must abide by the priest's valuation, 15 but if the man who has vowed his house wishes to redeem it, he must add one-fifth to the valuation, and it shall revert to him.

d. Fields

- 16 "If a man consecrates one of the fields of his patrimony to Yahweh, its value shall be calculated according to its productivity, at the rate of fifty silver shekels to one omer of barley.
 17 "If he consecrates the field during the jubilee year, he must stand by this 18 valuation. •But if he consecrates it after the jubilee, the priest shall calculate the price on the basis of the number of years still to run until the next jubilee and the valuation shall be reduced accordingly.

"If he wishes to redeem the field, he shall add one-fifth to the valuation, and the field shall revert to him. •If he does not redeem it but sells it to another, the right of redemption ceases; •when the buyer has to relinquish it at the jubilee year, it becomes a thing consecrated to Yahweh, the same as a field laid under ban: the man's property passes to the priest.

"If he consecrates to Yahweh a field which he has bought, but which is not part of his patrimony, •the priest shall assess the valuation on the basis of the number of years still to run before the jubilee year; and the man shall pay this sum the same day, as for a thing consecrated to Yahweh. •In the jubilee year, the field shall return to the seller, to the man to whose patrimony the land belongs. All valuation must be made in sanctuary shekels, at the rate of twenty gerahs to the shekel.

Particular rules for the redemption

a. of first-born

"No one, however, may consecrate the first-born of his cattle, for it belongs to Yahweh by right: whether ox or sheep, it belongs to Yahweh. •But if it is an unclean animal it may be repurchased at the valuation price with one-fifth added; if it is not redeemed, the animal shall be sold at the valuation price.

b. of things under the ban

"Nothing, however, that a man lays under ban for Yahweh may be redeemed; nothing he possesses, whether man, beasts, or fields of his patrimony. What is laid under ban is always a most holy thing and belongs to Yahweh. •A human being laid under ban cannot be redeemed, he must be put to death.

c. of tithes

"All tithes of the land, levied on the produce of the earth or the fruits of trees, belong to Yahweh; they are consecrated to Yahweh. •If a man wishes to redeem part of his tithe, he must add one-fifth to its value.

"In all tithes of flock or herd, the tenth animal of all that pass under the herdsman's staff shall be a thing consecrated to Yahweh; •there must be no picking out of good and bad, no substitution. If substitution takes place, both the animal and its substitute shall be things consecrated without possibility of redemption."

These are the commandments that Yahweh laid down for Moses on Mount Sinai, for the sons of Israel.

THE CENSUS

NUMBERS 1—4

1 Yahweh spoke to Moses, in the wilderness of Sinai, in the Tent of Meeting, on the first day of the second month, in the second year after the exodus from the land of Egypt. He said:

"Take a census of the whole community of Israel's sons, by clans and families, taking a count of the names of all the males, head by head. •Every man of Israel, twenty years of age and over, fit to bear arms, must be registered by you and Aaron and assigned to his fighting station. •You are to take a man from each tribe, the head of his family, to help you in this.

The census officials

'These are the names of those who are to be your helpers:
For Reuben, Elizur son of Shedeur.

- 6 For Simeon, Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai.
 7 For Judah, Nahshon son of Amminadab.
 8 For Issachar, Nethanel son of Zuar.
 9 For Zebulun, Eliab son of Helon.

 ancestral clans, chiefs of Israel's hosts.
 17 Moses and Aaron took these men who have been named, and on the first 18 day of the second month they mustered the whole community. The sons of Israel established their kinship by clans and families, and one by one the names 19 of all men of twenty years and over were singled out. As Yahweh had commanded, Moses took a census of them in the wilderness of Sinai.

The census

- 20 When the kinship of the sons of Reuben, Israel's first-born, had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and 21 over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. The total of these for the tribe of Reuben was forty-six thousand five hundred.

 fifty-seven thousand four hundred.
 32 The sons of Joseph: when the kinship of the sons of Ephraim had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and thirty-five thousand four hundred.

 38 When the kinship of the sons of Dan had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Dan was sixty-two thousand seven hundred. 39

When the kinship of the sons of Asher had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Asher was forty-one thousand five hundred. 41

When the kinship of the sons of Naphtali had been established by clans and families, the names of all the males of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, were singled out one by one. •The total of these for the tribe of Naphtali was fifty-three thousand four hundred. 42

Such were the men registered by Moses, Aaron and the leaders of Israel, of whom there were twelve, each representing his patriarchal House. •Every man of Israel of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms, was counted according to his patriarchal House. •Altogether the full total was six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty.<sup>a</sup> 44

But the Levites and their patriarchal tribe were not included in the count. 47

Statute for the Levites

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: 48

‘Do not, however, take any census of the Levites, or register them among the sons of Israel. •You yourself must enrol the Levites to serve the tabernacle of the Testimony and to look after its furnishings and its belongings. They are to carry the tabernacle, and all its furnishings, and they are to take care of it and pitch their camp around it. •Whenever the tabernacle is moved the Levites are to be the people to dismantle it; whenever the tabernacle is set up again, they are to do this. Any layman coming near it must be put to death. •The sons of Israel are to pitch their tents in formation each in their own encampment, every man by his standard. •But the Levites are to pitch their tents round the tabernacle of the Testimony. In this way the wrath will be kept from falling on the whole community of the sons of Israel. The Levites are to be in charge of the tabernacle of the Testimony.’ 51

The sons of Israel did exactly as Yahweh had ordered Moses. They did as he said. 54

Order of the tribes

2 Yahweh spoke to Moses and to Aaron. 1
He said:

‘The sons of Israel are to pitch their tents, every man by his own standard, under the banner of his patriarchal House. They are to pitch their tents all round the tabernacle of the Testimony, at a measured distance. 2

‘Those who are to pitch their tents on the east side: 3

‘Towards the sunrise, the standard of the camp of Judah, in battle array. Leader of the sons of Judah: Nahshon son of Amminadab. •His command: seventy-four thousand six hundred men. 4

‘Encamped next to him: 5

‘The tribe of Issachar. Leader of the sons of Issachar: Nethanel son of Zuar. His command: fifty-four thousand four hundred men. 6

‘The tribe of Zebulun. Leader of the sons of Zebulun: Eliab son of Helon. His command: fifty-seven thousand four hundred men. 7

‘The assembled strength of the camp of Judah numbers in all a hundred and eighty-six thousand four hundred. These are to be first in order of breaking camp. 8

‘On the south side, the standard of the camp of Reuben, in battle array. Leader of the sons of Reuben: Elizur son of Shedeur. •His command: forty-six thousand five hundred men. 9

‘Encamped next to him: 12

- 13 'The tribe of Simeon. Leader of the sons of Simeon: Shelumiel son of Zurishad-14 dai. •His command: fifty-nine thousand three hundred men.
 15 'The tribe of Gad. Leader of the sons of Gad: Eliasaph son of Reuel. •His command: forty-five thousand six hundred and fifty men.
- 16 'The assembled strength of the camp of Reuben numbers in all a hundred and fifty-one thousand four hundred and fifty. They are to be second in order of breaking camp.
- 17 'Next the Tent of Meeting will move, since the camp of the Levites is situated in the middle of the other camps. The order of movement is to be the order of encampment, every man under his own standard.
- 18 'On the west side, the standard of the camp of Ephraim, in battle array. Leader 19 of the sons of Ephraim: Elishama son of Ammihud. •His command: forty thousand five hundred men.
- 20 'Next to him:
 21 'The tribe of Manasseh. Leader of the tribe of Manasseh: Gamaliel son of Pedahzur. •His command: thirty-two thousand two hundred men.
- 22 'The tribe of Benjamin. Leader of the sons of Benjamin: Abidan son of 23 Gideon. •His command: thirty-five thousand four hundred men.
- 24 'The assembled strength of the camp of Ephraim numbers in all a hundred and eight thousand one hundred. They are to be third in order of breaking camp.
- 25 'On the north side, the standard of the camp of Dan, in battle array. Leader 26 of the sons of Dan: Ahiezer son of Amnishaddai. •His command: sixty-two thousand seven hundred men.
- 27 'Encamped next to him:
 28 'The tribe of Asher. Leader of the sons of Asher: Pagiel son of Ochran. •His command: forty-one thousand five hundred men.
- 29 'The tribe of Naphtali. Leader of the sons of Naphtali: Ahira son of Enan.
 30 His command: fifty-three thousand four hundred men.
- 31 'The assembled strength of the camp of Dan numbers in all a hundred and fifty-seven thousand six hundred. They are to be last in order of breaking camp.'
 (This concerns their stationing by standards.)
- 32 Such was the tally of the sons of Israel when the census was made according to patriarchal Houses. The full count of the entire camp, grouped under the various 33 commands, is six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty. •The Levites, as Yahweh had commanded Moses, were not included in this census of the sons of Israel.
- 34 The sons of Israel did exactly as Yahweh had ordered Moses. This was how they pitched camp, grouped by standards. This was how they broke camp, each in his own clan, every man with his own family.

The tribe of Levi

a. The priests

- 1 3 These are the descendants of Aaron and Moses, at the time when Yahweh spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai.
- 2 These are the names of the sons of Aaron: Nadab the eldest, then Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.
- 3 These are the names of Aaron's sons, priests anointed and invested with the 4 powers of the priesthood. •Nadab and Abihu died in the presence of Yahweh, in the wilderness of Sinai, when they offered fire that was unlawful. They left no children and so it fell to Eleazar and Ithamar to exercise the priesthood under their father Aaron.

b. The Levites: their duties

- 5 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:
 6 'Muster the tribe of Levi and put it at the disposal of Aaron the priest: they are to be at his service. •They are to undertake the duties that are laid on him and on the entire community before the Tent of Meeting, in their service of the tabernacle. •The furnishings for the Tent of Meeting are to be in their charge, and they are to undertake the duties that are laid on the sons of Israel in their service of the tabernacle. •You are to give the Levites to Aaron and his sons as 'oblates';<sup>8</sup> they are to be given to him by the sons of Israel.

I a. Not historically accurate: this figure implies that Israel's total population was 2,500,000.

'You are to enrol Aaron and his sons, and they are to carry out their priestly duty. But any layman who comes near is to be put to death.'

c. Their divine election

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:

'I myself have chosen the Levites from among the sons of Israel, in place of the first-born, those who open the mother's womb among the sons of Israel; these Levites therefore belong to me. •For every first-born belongs to me. On the day when I struck all the first-born in the land of Egypt, I consecrated for my own all the first-born of Israel, of both man and beast. They are mine; I am Yahweh.'

d. Census of the Levites

Yahweh spoke to Moses in the wilderness of Sinai. He said:

'You are to take a census of the sons of Levi by families and clans; all the males of the age of one month and over must be counted'.

At Yahweh's word, Moses took his census, as Yahweh had ordered. •These are the names of the sons of Levi: Gershon, Kohath and Merari.

These are the names of Gershon's sons by their clans: Libni and Shimei; Kohath's sons by their clans: Amram, Izhar, Hebron and Uzziel; •Merari's sons by their clans: Mahli and Mushi. These are the clans of Levi, grouped according to their patriarchal families.

From Gershon are descended the Libnite and the Shimeite clans; these are the Gershonite clans. •Their full number, counting the males of one month and over, came to seven thousand five hundred. •The Gershonite clans pitched their camp behind the tabernacle, on the west side. •The leader of the House of Gershon was Eliasaph son of Lael. •In the Tent of Meeting the sons of Gershon had charge of the tabernacle, the Tent and its covering, the screen for the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, •the hangings in the court, the screen for the entrance to the court surrounding the tabernacle and the altar, and the cords needed for all this work.

From Kohath are descended the Amramite, the Izharite, the Hebronite and the Uzzielite clans; these are the Kohathite clans. •Their full number, counting the males of one month and over, came to eight thousand three hundred. They were in charge of the sanctuary. •The Kohathite clans pitched their camp on the south side of the tabernacle. •The leader of the house of the Kohathite clans was Elizaphan son of Uzziel. •They were in charge of the ark, the table, the lamp-stand, the altars, the sacred vessels used in the liturgy, and the screen with all its fittings.

The chief of the Levite leaders was Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest. He was the head of all those who were in charge of the sanctuary.

From Merari are descended the Mahlite and the Mushite clans; these are the Merarite clans. •Their full number, counting the males of one month and over, came to six thousand two hundred. •The leader of the house of the Merarite clans was Zurriel, son of Abihail. They pitched their camp on the north side of the tabernacle. •The sons of Merari were in charge of the framework of the tabernacle, with its crossbars, posts and sockets, all its accessories and fittings, and also the posts round the court, with their sockets, pegs and cords.

Finally, on the east side, facing the tabernacle and the Tent of Meeting, towards the sunrise, was the camp of Moses and Aaron and his sons, who had charge of the sanctuary on behalf of the sons of Israel. Any layman coming near was to be put to death.

Altogether, the total count of Levites of the age of one month and over, whom Moses numbered by clans as Yahweh had ordered, came to twenty-two thousand.

e. The Levites and the ransoming of the first-born

40 Yahweh said to Moses:

41 'Take a census of all the first-born among the sons of Israel, all the males
42 from the age of one month and over; take a census of them by name. •Then you 43 will present the Levites to me, Yahweh, in place of the first-born of Israel;
44 in the same way you will give me their cattle in place of the first-born cattle of 45 the sons of Israel.'

46 As Yahweh ordered, Moses took a census of all the first-born of the sons 47 of Israel. •The total count, by name, of the first-born from the age of one month 48 and over came to twenty-two thousand two hundred and seventy-three.

49 Then Yahweh spoke to Moses and said,

50 'Take the Levites in the place of all the first-born of Israel's sons, and the 51 cattle of the Levites in place of their cattle; the Levites shall be my own, Yahweh's 52 own. •For the ransom of the two hundred and seventy-three of the first-born of 53 the sons of Israel in excess of the number of Levites, •you are to take five shekels
54 for each, reckoning by the sanctuary shekel, twenty gerahs to the shekel; •you
55 must then give this money to Aaron and his sons as the ransom price for this extra 56 number.'

57 Moses received this money as the ransom for this extra number unransomed
58 by the Levites. •He received the money for the first-born of the sons of Israel, 59 one thousand three hundred and sixty-five shekels, sanctuary shekels. •Moses 60 handed over this ransom money to Aaron and his sons, at the bidding of Yahweh, 61 as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

The Levite clans

a. The Kohathites

1 4 Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron. He said:

2 'Take a census of those Levites who are sons of Kohath, by clans and families:
3 count all the men between thirty and fifty years of age, those fit to bear arms,
4 who are liable for service in the Tent of Meeting.

5 'These are the duties of the sons of Kohath in the Tent of Meeting: they are 6 to have charge of the most holy things.

7 'When camp is broken, Aaron and his sons are to come and take down the veil
8 of the screen. With it they must cover up the ark of the Testimony. •On top of 9 this they must put a covering of fine leather, and spread over the whole a cloth
10 all of violet. Then they are to fix the poles to the ark.

11 'Over the offertory table they are to spread a violet cloth, and put on it the 12 dishes, cups, bowls and libation jars; the bread of perpetual offering is also to 13 be on it. •Over these they must spread a cloth of scarlet and cover the whole with 14 a covering of fine leather. Then they are to fix the poles to the table.

15 'They are then to take a cloth of violet and cover the light-bearing lamp-stand, 16 together with the lamps, snuffers, trays and all the oil jars that belong to it.
17 They are to put it, with all its accessories, on a covering of fine leather and place 18 it on the litter.

19 'Over the golden altar they must spread a violet cloth, and cover that with 20 a covering of fine leather. Then they are to fix the poles to it.

21 'They are also to take all the other objects used in the service of the sanctuary.
22 They must put them all on a violet cloth, cover them with a covering of fine leather, 23 and place them together on the litter.

24 'When they have removed the ashes from the altar,<sup>a</sup> they must spread a scarlet 25 cloth over it, •and place on this all the objects used in the liturgical service, 26 the fire pans, hooks, scoops, sprinkling basins and all the altar vessels. Over the 27 whole they must spread a covering of fine leather. Then they are to fix the poles 28 to it.

3 a. 'dedicated ones'.

4 a. 'The altar' is the altar of holocaust; 'the golden altar' of v. 11 is the altar of incense.

'When Aaron and his sons have finished covering all the sacred objects and all their accessories at the breaking of camp, the sons of Kohath are to come to take up the burden, but without touching any of the sacred things; otherwise they would die. This is the charge entrusted to the sons of Kohath in the Tent of Meeting. •It is to fall to Eleazar, son of Aaron the priest, to watch over the oil for the light, the fragrant incense, the perpetual oblation and the chrism; he must watch over the whole tabernacle and everything in it: the sacred objects and their accessories.'

Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron. He said:

'Do not cut off the tribe of the clans of Kohath from the number of the Levites. But deal with them in this way, so that they may live on and not incur death when they approach the most holy things: Aaron and his sons must go in and assign to each of them his task and his burden. •In this way they can go in and yet cast not their eyes, even for a moment, on any of the holy things; if they did, they would die.'

b. The Gershonites

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said to him:

'Take a census also of the sons of Gershon, by families and clans: •count all the men between thirty and fifty years of age, those fit to bear arms, who are liable for service in the Tent of Meeting.

'These are the duties of the Gershonite clans, their functions and their burdens. They are to carry the curtains of the tabernacle, the Tent of Meeting with its covering and the covering of fine leather that goes over it, the screen for the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, •the hangings of the court, the screen for the entrance to the court that surrounds the tabernacle and the altar, the cords and all the accessories, and all the necessary equipment.

'They are to be responsible for these things. •All the duties of the sons of Gershon—their functions and their tasks—are to be carried out under the direction of Aaron and his sons: you must see that they fulfil their charge. •Such shall be the duties of the Gershonite clans in the Tent of Meeting. Their work will be supervised by Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.

c. The Merarites

'You are to count the sons of Merari, by clans and families. •Count all the men between thirty and fifty years of age, those fit to bear arms, who are liable for service in the Tent of Meeting.

'The burden they are to carry and the duties that are to fall to them in the Tent of Meeting shall be as follows: the framework of the tabernacle, its crossbars, its posts and sockets, •the posts around the court with their sockets, pegs, cords and all their tackle. You are to draw up a list of their names with the burden that each man must carry.

'These are the duties of the Merarite clans. All their duties in the Tent of Meeting will be supervised by Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest.'

Census of the Levites

Moses, Aaron and the leaders of the community took a census of the sons of Kohath, by clans and families: •of every man between thirty and fifty years of age, fit to bear arms and liable for service in the Tent of Meeting. •The total of their clans was two thousand seven hundred and fifty men. •This was the number of the Kohathite clans, of all those who were liable for service in the Tent of Meeting, whom Moses and Aaron counted at the bidding of Yahweh given through Moses.

A census was taken of the sons of Gershon, by clans and families: •of every man between thirty and fifty years of age, fit to bear arms and liable for service in the Tent of Meeting. •By clans and families the total was two thousand six hundred and thirty men. •This was the number of the Gershonite clans, of all those who were liable for service in the Tent of Meeting, whom Moses and Aaron counted at the bidding of Yahweh.

42 A census was taken of the clans of the sons of Merari, by clans and families:
43 of every man between thirty and fifty years of age, fit to bear arms and liable for 44 service in the Tent of Meeting. •The total of their clans was three thousand 45 two hundred men. •This was the number of the Merarite clans, whom Moses and Aaron counted at the bidding of Yahweh through Moses.

46 The total number of Levites, counted according to clans and families by 47 Moses and Aaron and the leaders of Israel—all the men between thirty and fifty years of age, fit to bear arms and liable for serving or carrying in the Tent 48 of Meeting—amounted to eight thousand five hundred and eighty. •At the 49 bidding of Yahweh through Moses, the census was taken to assign to every man his duty and his task; they were numbered as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

VARIOUS LAWS

NUMBERS 5—6

Expulsion of the unclean

1 5 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:
2 "Order the sons of Israel to put out of the camp all lepers, and all who suffer
3 from a discharge, or who have become unclean by touching a corpse. •Man or woman, you must put them out and forbid them the camp. The sons of Israel must not defile in this way the camp where I dwell among them."
4 The sons of Israel did so: they put them out of the camp. The sons of Israel did as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

Restitution

5 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •"Tell the sons of Israel:
6 "If a man or woman commits any of the sins by which men break faith with Yahweh, that person incurs guilt.
7 "He must confess the sin he has committed and restore in full the amount for which he is liable, with one-fifth added. Payment is to be made to the person whom he has wronged.
8 "If, however, the latter has no kinsman to whom this restitution can be made, the restitution due to Yahweh reverts to the priest, over and above the ram of 9 atonement with which the priest makes atonement for the guilty man. •For of everything consecrated by the sons of Israel and brought to the priest he has 10 a right to the portion set aside. •Whatever a man consecrates is his own;
whatever is given to the priest belongs to the priest."

Oblation in cases of jealousy

11 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •"Say this to the sons of Israel:
12 "If anyone has a wife who goes astray and is unfaithful to him, •if some other man sleeps with the woman without the husband's knowledge, if she disgraces herself in secret in this way, without any witness against her, and without anyone 13 catching her in the act; •then, if a spirit of jealousy comes over the husband and makes him jealous for the wife who has disgraced herself, or again if this spirit of jealousy comes upon him and makes him jealous for his wife even when she 14 is innocent: •the man must bring his wife before the priest, and on her behalf make an offering of one-tenth of an ephah of barley meal. He is not to pour oil on it or put incense on it, because this is an 'oblation for jealousy', a memorial offering to record a fault.
15 "The priest is then to bring the woman forward and stand her before Yahweh.
16 Then he shall take living water in an earthen jar, and on the water throw dust 17 that he has taken from the floor of the tabernacle. •After he has placed the woman before Yahweh, he shall unbind her hair and put in her hands the commemorative oblation (that is, the oblation for jealousy). In his own hands the priest will hold the water of bitterness and of cursing.

“He is then to put the woman on oath. He shall say to her: ‘If it is not true that a man has slept with you, that you have gone astray and disgraced yourself while under your husband’s authority, then may this water of bitterness and cursing do you no harm. •But if it is true that you have gone astray, while under your husband’s authority, that you have disgraced yourself by sharing your bed with a man other than your husband . . .’ •Here the priest shall impose an imprecatory oath on the woman. He shall say to her: . . . ‘May Yahweh make of you an execration and a curse among your people, making your thigh shrivel and your belly swell! •May this water of cursing enter your bowels to swell your belly and shrivel your organs!’ The woman must answer: Amen! Amen!

“Then the priest shall commit these curses to writing and wash them off in the water of bitterness. •He must make the woman drink this water of bitterness and of cursing, and this water of cursing shall go into her and be bitter inside her.

“The priest shall then take the oblation for jealousy from the woman’s hands, and hold it up before Yahweh with a gesture of offering, and so carry it up to the altar. •He shall take a handful as a memorial, and burn it on the altar.

“He shall then make the woman drink the water. •After he has made her drink it, if it is true that she has disgraced herself, deceiving her husband, then the water of cursing that goes into her shall indeed be bitter: her belly will swell and her thigh shrivel, and she will be an execration among her people. •But if she has not disgraced herself and is clean, then she will go unscathed and will bear children.

“This is the ritual in cases of jealousy, when a woman has gone astray and disgraced herself while under her husband’s authority, •or when a spirit of jealousy has come over a man and made him jealous for his wife. When a husband brings such a woman before Yahweh, the priest must apply this ritual to her in full. •The husband shall be guiltless, but the woman must bear the punishment for her sin.”

The nazirite

6 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •‘Say this to the sons of Israel: 1/2
 “If a man or a woman wishes to make a vow, the vow of the nazirite by which he is pledged to Yahweh, •he shall abstain from wine and strong drink, 3 and neither drink the juice of grapes, nor eat grapes, fresh or dried. •For the 4 duration of his vow he shall touch nothing that comes from the vine, not even 5 verjuice or lees. •As long as he is bound by his vow, no razor shall touch his 6 head; until the time of his consecration to Yahweh is completed, he remains 7 under vow and shall let his hair grow free. •For the entire period of his conse- 8
 cration to Yahweh he must not go near a corpse, •he must not make himself 9 unclean for either father or mother, for either brother or sister, should they die; 10 on his head he carries his consecration to his God. •Throughout the whole of 11
 his nazirate he is a person consecrated to Yahweh. 12

“If anyone dies suddenly in his presence, and so makes his consecrated hair unclean, he must shave his head on the day of his cleansing, he must shave his head on the seventh day. •On the eighth day, he is to bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons to the priest, at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. The priest must offer one as a sacrifice for sin, and the other as a holocaust; he must then perform over this man the rite of atonement for the defilement that he has contracted from the corpse. The man must consecrate his head that same day; •he must consecrate himself to Yahweh for the period of his nazirate, and he must bring a male yearling lamb as a sacrifice of reparation. The time already spent shall not count, since his hair has become unclean.

“This is the ritual to be followed by the nazirite on the day when his period of 13

- consecration is completed. He is to be led to the entrance of the Tent of Meeting, and must make his offering to Yahweh: for holocaust, a male yearling lamb without blemish; for sacrifice for sin, a yearling ewe lamb without blemish; for communion sacrifice, a ram without blemish, and a basket of unleavened loaves made of fine flour mixed with oil, and of unleavened wafers spread with oil, with the oblations and libations appropriate to them. When he has brought all this before Yahweh, the priest must offer the sacrifice for sin and the holocaust for the nazirite. The nazirite must offer up the communion sacrifice with the ram and the unleavened bread in the basket, and the priest must offer the accompanying oblation and libation. Then the nazirite shall shave off his consecrated hair at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and taking the locks of his consecrated head, he shall put them in the fire of the communion sacrifice. The priest is to take the shoulder of the ram, as soon as it is cooked, with an unleavened cake from the basket, and an unleavened wafer. He is to put them into the hands of the nazirite when the nazirite has shaved off his hair. With them he must make the gesture of offering before Yahweh; as it is a holy thing, it reverts to the priest, in addition to the breast that has been presented and the thigh that has been set aside. After this the nazirite may once more drink wine.
- Such is the ritual for the nazirite. If, besides the hair, he has also vowed a personal offering to Yahweh, he must (apart from anything else that his means allow) fulfil the vow that he has made, in addition to what the ritual prescribes for his hair."

The form of blessing

- Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, "Say this to Aaron and his sons: "This is how you are to bless the sons of Israel. You shall say to them: May Yahweh bless you and keep you. May Yahweh let his face shine on you and be gracious to you. May Yahweh uncover his face to you and bring you peace." This is how they are to call down my name on the sons of Israel, and I will bless them."

OFFERINGS OF THE LEADERS AND CONSECRATION OF THE LEVITES

NUMBERS 7—8

Offering of wagons

- On the day Moses finished setting up the tabernacle, he anointed and consecrated it with all its furniture, as well as the altar and all its accessories. When he had anointed and consecrated it all, the leaders of Israel made an offering; these were the heads of the patriarchal Houses, who were leaders of tribes and had presided over the census. They brought their offering before Yahweh: six covered wagons and twelve oxen, one wagon for every two leaders and one ox each. They brought them before the tabernacle. Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, "Accept these from them, and let them be set apart for the service of the Tent of Meeting. You are to give them to the Levites, to each as his duties require." Moses took the wagons and the oxen, and gave them to the Levites. To the sons of Gershon he gave two wagons and four oxen for the duties they had to perform. To the sons of Merari he gave four wagons and eight oxen, for the duties they had to perform under the direction of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest. But to the sons of Kohath he gave none at all, because the sacred charge entrusted to them had to be carried on their shoulders.

Dedication offering

- The leaders then made an offering for the dedication of the altar, on the day it was anointed. They brought their offering before the altar, •and Yahweh said 11 to Moses, 'Let the leaders each bring an offering on successive days for the dedication of the altar'.

On the first day an offering was brought by Nahshon son of Amminadab, 12 of the tribe of Judah. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a 13 hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed with oil, •one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young 14 bull, one ram and one male yearling lamb for the holocaust, •one goat for the 15 sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five 16 kids, and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Nahshon son of 17 Amminadab.

On the second day an offering was brought by Nethanel son of Zuar, leader 18 of Issachar. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a hundred and 19 thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed with oil, one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young bull, 20
one ram and one male yearling lamb for the holocaust, •one goat for the 21 sacrifice for sin, •and, for the communion sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five kids, 22 and five male yearling lambs. This was the offering of Nethanel son of Zuar. 23

On the third day an offering was brought by Eliab son of Helon, leader of 24
the sons of Zebulun. •His offering consisted of: one silver bowl weighing a 25
hundred and thirty shekels, one silver sprinkling bowl weighing seventy shekels (sanctuary shekels), both of them filled, for the oblation, with fine flour mixed
with oil, •one golden bowl weighing ten shekels, filled with incense, •one young 26

When Moses went into the Tent of Meeting to speak with Him, he heard the voice that spoke to him from above the throne of mercy which was on the ark of the Testimony, from between the two cherubs. It was then that he spoke with Him.

The lamps for the lamp-stand

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: 1
 'Say this to Aaron, "When you set up the lamps, the seven lamps must throw their light towards the front of the lamp-stand" ' . 2

Aaron saw to this. He set up the lamps to the front of the lamp-stand, as Yahweh had ordered Moses. •This lamp-stand was worked in beaten gold, including its stem and its petals, which were also of beaten gold. This lamp-stand had been made according to the pattern Yahweh had shown to Moses. 3 4

The Levites are offered to Yahweh

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: 5

'Separate the Levites from the sons of Israel and purify them. •This is how you are to purify them: you must sprinkle them with lustral water, and they must shave their bodies all over and wash their clothing. They will then be clean. •They must next take a young bull, with the accompanying oblation of fine flour mixed with oil, and you must take a second young bull for a sacrifice for sin. •Then bring the Levites before the Tent of Meeting, and call together the whole community of the sons of Israel. •When you have brought the Levites before Yahweh, the sons of Israel must lay their hands on them. •Aaron shall then offer the Levites, making the gesture of offering before Yahweh on behalf of the sons of Israel. From that time, they will be dedicated to the service of Yahweh. 6 7 8 9 10 11

'The Levites must then lay their hands on the heads of the bulls, one of which you are to offer as a sacrifice for sin, and the other as a holocaust to Yahweh; this is how the rite of atonement for the Levites is to be performed. •Having brought the Levites before Aaron and his sons, you will present them to Yahweh with the gesture of offering. •This is how you are to set the Levites apart from the rest of the sons of Israel, so that they may be mine. •The Levites will then begin their ministry in the Tent of Meeting. 12 13 14 15

'You must purify them and offer them with the gesture of offering •because they have been made over to me from among the sons of Israel, as 'oblates'. They are to replace those who open the womb, all the first-born; of all the sons of Israel I have taken them for my own. •All the first-born among the sons of Israel, man and beast, do indeed belong to me: the day I struck all the first-born in the land of Egypt, I consecrated them to myself, •and now, in place of all the first-born among the sons of Israel, I have taken the Levites. •From among the sons of Israel I give them to Aaron and his sons, as 'oblates'; on behalf of the sons of Israel, they will minister in the Tent of Meeting and perform the rite of atonement over them, so that none of the sons of Israel may be struck down for approaching the sanctuary.' 16 17 18 19

Moses, Aaron and the whole community of the sons of Israel dealt with the Levites exactly as Yahweh had directed Moses concerning them; this is what the sons of Israel did with them. •The Levites purified themselves and washed their clothes, and Aaron presented them with the gesture of offering before Yahweh. Then he performed the rite of atonement over them to purify them. The Levites were then allowed to perform their ministry in the Tent of Meeting 20 21 22 in the presence of Aaron and his sons. As Yahweh had directed Moses concerning the Levites, so it was done to them.

The duration of their ministry

- 23 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:
 24 'This concerns the Levites. From the age of twenty-five onwards, the Levite 25 must exercise his ministry and do duty in the Tent of Meeting. •After the age of fifty, he is no longer bound to the ministry; he will have no further duties; 26 but he will still help his brothers to ensure the services in the Tent of Meeting, though he himself will no longer have any ministry. See that this is the rule for the ministry of the Levites.'

THE PASSOVER AND THE DEPARTURE

NUMBERS 9:1—10:28

Date of the Passover

- 1 Q Yahweh spoke to Moses, in the wilderness of Sinai, in the second year after the exodus from Egypt, in the first month. He said:
 2 'Let the sons of Israel keep the Passover at its appointed time. •The fourteenth 3 day of this month, between the two evenings, is the appointed time for you to keep it. You must keep it with all the laws and customs proper to it.'
 4 Moses gave orders for the sons of Israel to keep the Passover. •They kept it, in the wilderness of Sinai, in the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month, between the two evenings. The sons of Israel did exactly as Yahweh had ordered Moses.

Individual cases

- 6 It happened that certain men had become unclean by touching a dead body;
 they could not keep the Passover that day. They came the same day to Moses 7 and Aaron, •and said to them, 'We have become unclean by touching a dead body. Why should we be forbidden to bring an offering to Yahweh at the proper 8 time with the rest of the sons of Israel?' •Moses answered them, 'Wait there till I learn what orders Yahweh gives about you'.
 9 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Say this to the sons of Israel:
 10 "If anyone, among you or your descendants, becomes unclean by touching a dead body or is on a journey abroad, he can still keep a Passover for Yahweh.
 11 Such persons shall keep it in the second month, on the fourteenth day, between the two evenings. They are to eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs; 12 nothing of it must be left over until morning, nor must they break any of its bones: they must keep this Passover exactly according to the paschal ritual.
 13 But if anyone who is clean, or who has not had to go on a journey, fails to keep the Passover, he shall be outlawed from his people. He has not brought the offering to Yahweh at its appointed time, and he must bear the burden of his sin.
 14 "If a stranger is living among you and keeps a Passover for Yahweh, he must keep it in accordance with the laws and customs of the Passover. There is to be only one law among you, for settler and native alike."'

The Cloud

- 15 On the day the tabernacle was set up, the Cloud covered the tabernacle, the Tent of the Testimony. From nightfall until morning, it remained over the 16 tabernacle under the appearance of fire. •So the Cloud covered it continually, at night taking the appearance of fire.
 17 Whenever the Cloud lifted above the Tent, the sons of Israel broke camp;
 18 whenever the Cloud halted, there the sons of Israel pitched camp. •The sons of Israel set out at the command of Yahweh, and at his command they pitched camp.

The people remained encamped as long as the Cloud rested on the tabernacle. If the Cloud stayed for many days above the tabernacle, the sons of Israel paid worship to Yahweh and did not break camp. •But if the Cloud happened to stay for only a few days above the tabernacle, they pitched camp at Yahweh's command and broke camp at Yahweh's command. •If the Cloud happened to remain only from evening to morning, they set out when it lifted the next morning. Or, if it stayed for a whole day and night, they set out only when it lifted. •Sometimes it stayed there for two days, a month, or a year; however long the Cloud stayed above the tabernacle, the sons of Israel remained in camp in the same place, and when it lifted they set out. •At Yahweh's command they pitched camp, and at Yahweh's command they broke camp. They paid worship to Yahweh, according to the orders which Yahweh had given through Moses.

The trumpets

10 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: 1
 'Make two trumpets; make them of beaten silver; and use them for 2 summoning the community, and for sounding the order to break camp. •When- 3 ever they are sounded, the whole community is to gather round you, at the 4 entrance to the Tent of Meeting. •But if only one trumpet is sounded, then only 4
 the leaders, the chiefs of Israel's battalions, are to gather round you.
 'When the trumpet blast is accompanied by a battle cry, the camps pitched 5 to the east shall set out. •At the second blast accompanied by a battle cry, 6 the camps pitched to the south shall set out. To break camp, the trumpet blast must 6 be accompanied by a battle cry, •but to assemble the community the trumpets 7 shall be sounded without battle cry. •The sons of Aaron, the priests, are to sound 8 the trumpets; this is a perpetual law for you and your descendants.
 'In your own land when you go to war against an enemy who oppresses you, 9 you must sound the trumpet with a battle cry: Yahweh your God will remember 10 you, and you will be delivered from your enemies. •At your festivals, solemnities, 10 or new-moon feasts, you will sound the trumpet at the time of your holocausts 10 and your communion sacrifices, and they will call you to the remembrance of 10
 your God. I am Yahweh your God.'

The order of march

In the second year, in the second month, on the twentieth day of the month, 11
 the Cloud lifted over the tabernacle of the Testimony. •The sons of Israel set 12 out, in marching order, from the wilderness of Sinai. In the wilderness of Paran 12
 the Cloud came to rest.

These are the men who set out in the vanguard, at the order of Yahweh 13 given through Moses: •in the vanguard was the standard of the camp of the sons 14 of Judah, in battle array. In command of Judah's force was Nahshon son of 14 Amminadab; •in command of the sons of Issachar, in battle array, was Nethanel 15 son of Zuar; •in command of the tribe of the sons of Zebulun, in battle array, 16 was Eliab son of Helon.

Then, the tabernacle being dismantled, the sons of Gershon and the sons 17
 of Merari set out, carrying the tabernacle.

Then came the standard of the camp of the sons of Reuben, in battle array. 18
 In command of Reuben's force was Elizur son of Shedeur; •in command of the 19 tribe of the sons of Simeon, in battle array, was Shelumiel son of Zurishaddai; 19 in command of the tribe of the sons of Gad, in battle array, was Eliasaph son 20 of Reuel.

Then came the sons of Kohath, who carried the sanctuary (the tabernacle 21 was set up before their arrival).

Then came the standard of the camp of the sons of Ephraim, in battle array. 22
 In command of Ephraim's force was Elishama son of Ammihud; •in command 23 of the tribe of the sons of Manasseh, in battle array, was Gamaliel son of 23

- 24 Pedahzur; •in command of the tribe of the sons of Benjamin was Abidan son of Gideon.
- 25 Last of all, the rearguard of all the camps, came the standard of the camp of the sons of Dan, in battle array. In command of the force of Dan was Ahiezer son of Ammishaddai; •in command of the tribe of the sons of Asher, in battle array, was Pagiel son of Ochrán; •in command of the sons of Naphtali, in battle array, was Ahira son of Enan.
- 28 Such was the order of march for the sons of Israel, in battle array. So they set out.

LAWS GOVERNING SACRIFICES. POWERS OF PRIESTS AND LEVITES

NUMBERS 15—19

The oblation to accompany sacrifices

- 1 15 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •“Tell this to the sons of Israel:
2 “When you have arrived in the land where you are to live, the land I give to 3 you, •and you make burnt offering to Yahweh either as a holocaust or as a sacrifice, whether in payment of a vow, or as a voluntary gift, or on the occasion 4 of one of your solemn feasts—taking from your herds and flocks to make an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh —•the offerer must bring, as his personal gift to Yahweh, an oblation of one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with one quarter
5 of a hin of oil. •You must also make a libation of wine, one quarter of a hin to 6 each lamb, in addition to the holocaust or sacrifice. •For a ram, you must make an oblation of two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with one-third of a hin
7 of oil, •and a libation of one-third of a hin of wine, offering it as an appeasing
8 fragrance for Yahweh. •If you offer a bull as a holocaust or sacrifice, in payment of 9 a vow or as a communion sacrifice for Yahweh, •you must offer in addition to the beast an oblation of three-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with half 10 a hin of oil, •and you must offer a libation of half a hin of wine, as a burnt 11 offering, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh. •This must be done for every 12 bull, every ram, every lamb or kid. •Whatever the number of victims you have for sacrifice, you must do the same for each of them, however many there are.
- 13 “This must be done by every man of your own people when he makes a burnt 14 offering, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh. •Any stranger living among you, or among your descendants, will also make a burnt offering, an appeasing fragrance 15 for Yahweh: just as you act, so must •the assembly.<sup>a</sup> There shall be only one law for you and for the settler among you. This is a law that shall bind your descend-16 ants always: before Yahweh, you and the settler are alike. •There is to be one law only, and one statute for you and for the stranger who lives among you.”

The first-fruits of bread

- 17 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •“Speak to the sons of Israel and say to 18 them:
19 “When you have entered the land to which I am bringing you, •you must set 20 aside a portion for Yahweh when you eat the bread of this country. •You must set aside one loaf as the first-fruits of your meal; you must set this offering 21 aside like the one set aside from your threshing. •You are to set aside for Yahweh a portion of the best of your meal. This applies to your descendants.

Atonement for faults of inadvertence

- 22 “If through inadvertence you fail in any of these commands that Yahweh has given to Moses (every single precept that Yahweh has laid on you through Moses, from the day he gave his commands and onwards to your descendants), this is what must be done: 23

15 a. I.e., the assembly of the future.

"If it is an inadvertence of the community, the community as a whole must make a holocaust of a young bull, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh, with the prescribed accompanying oblation and libation, and a he-goat must be offered as a sacrifice for sin. •The priest must perform the rite of atonement over the entire community of the sons of Israel, and pardon will be given, since it was an inadvertence. When they have brought their offering as a burnt offering to Yahweh, and have presented their sacrifice for sin before Yahweh to make amends for their inadvertence, •pardon will be given to the entire community of the sons of Israel, as also to the stranger who lives among them, since the entire people has sinned through inadvertence. 24 25 26

"If it is an individual who has sinned by inadvertence, he must offer a yearling kid in sacrifice for sin. •The priest must perform the rite of atonement before Yahweh over the person who has gone astray by this sin of inadvertence; when the rite of atonement has been performed over him, he will be forgiven, •whether he is a native, one of the sons of Israel, or a stranger living among them. There shall be only one law among you for the man who sins by inadvertence. 27 28 29

"But the man who sins deliberately, whether native or stranger, outrages Yahweh himself. Such a man must be outlawed from his people; •he has despised the word of Yahweh and broken his command. This man must be entirely outlawed, since his sin is inseparable from him." 30 31

Breaking the sabbath

While the sons of Israel were in the wilderness, a man was caught gathering wood on the sabbath day. •Those who caught him gathering wood brought him before Moses, Aaron and the whole community. •He was kept in custody, because the penalty he should undergo had not yet been fixed. •Yahweh said to Moses, 'This man must be put to death. The whole community must stone him outside the camp.' •The whole community took him outside the camp and stoned him till he was dead, as Yahweh had commanded Moses. 32 33 34 35 36

Tassels on garments

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Speak to the sons of Israel and tell them to put tassels on the hems of their garments, and to put a violet cord on this tassel at the hem. •You must have a tassel, then, and the sight of it will remind you of all the commands of Yahweh. You are to put them into practice then, and no longer follow the desires of your heart and your eyes, which have led you to make wantons of yourselves. 37 38 39

'This will remind you of all my commandments; put them into practice, and you will be consecrated to your God. •It is I, Yahweh your God, who have brought you out of the land of Egypt so that I may be your God, I Yahweh your God.' 40 41

The rebellion of Korah, Dathan and Abiram

16 Korah son of Izhar, son of Kohath, son of Levi took . . . Dathan and Abiram sons of Eliab, and On son of Peleth (Eliab and Peleth were sons of Reuben) •rebelled against Moses, together with two hundred and fifty of the sons of Israel, leaders of the community, prominent in the solemn feasts, men of repute. •These joined forces against Moses and Aaron saying to them, 'You take too much on yourselves! The whole community and all its members are consecrated, and Yahweh lives among them. Why set yourselves higher than the community of Yahweh?' 1 2 3

Moses, when he heard this, threw himself face downward on the ground. Then he said to Korah and all his followers, 'Tomorrow morning Yahweh will reveal who is his, who is the consecrated man that he will allow to come near him. The one he allows to come near is the one whom he has chosen. •This is what 4 5 6

7 you are to do: take the censers of Korah and all his followers, •fill them with fire and, tomorrow, put incense in them before Yahweh. Yahweh will choose the one who is the consecrated man. Sons of Levi, you take too much on yourselves!

9 Moses said to Korah, 'Listen to me now, you sons of Levi! •Is it not enough for you that the God of Israel has singled you out from the community of Israel, and called you close to himself for service in the tabernacle of Yahweh, to stand
10 before this community and perform the sacred rites on their behalf? •He has called you to be near him, you and all your brother Levites with you, and now
11 you aspire to the office of priesthood as well! •Against Yahweh himself you have joined forces, you and your followers: for what is Aaron that you should complain against him?'

12 Moses summoned Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab. They replied, 13 'We will not come. •Was it not enough to take us from a land where milk and honey flow to die in this wilderness, without seeking to lord it over us now?
14 There is no land flowing with milk and honey that you have brought us to, nor have you given us fields and vineyards for our inheritance. Do you expect 15 this people to be blind? We will not come.' •Moses flew into a rage and said to Yahweh, 'Pay no heed to their offering. I have not taken so much as a donkey from them, nor have I harmed any of them.'

The punishment

16 Moses said to Korah, 'You and all your followers, come tomorrow into the 17 presence of Yahweh, you and they, and Aaron too. •Let every man bring his censer, put incense in it, and carry his censer before Yahweh—two hundred and 18 fifty censers. You and Aaron also, each of you bring his censer.' •So every man took his censer, filled it with fire, and put incense in it. And they stood at the 19 entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and Moses and Aaron with them. •Then, when Korah had assembled the whole community to confront these two at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, the glory of Yahweh appeared to the whole community.

21 Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron. He said, •'Stand apart from this assembly, 22 I am going to destroy them here and now'. •They threw themselves face downward on the ground, and cried out, 'O God, God of the spirits that give life to every living thing, will you be angry with the whole community for one man's 23 sin?' •Yahweh answered Moses and said, •'Say this to the community, "Stand 24 clear of the dwelling of Korah" '.

25 Moses stood up and went to Dathan and Abiram; the elders of Israel followed
26 him. •He said to the community, 'Stand away, I beg you, from the tents of these perverse men, and touch nothing that belongs to them, for fear that with all 27 their sins you too will be swept away'. •So they moved away from the dwelling of Korah.

Dathan and Abiram had come out and were standing at their tent doors, 28 with their wives and their sons and their young children. •Moses said, 'By this you will know that Yahweh himself has sent me to perform all these tasks and 29 that this is not my doing. •If these people die a natural death such as men commonly die, then Yahweh has not sent me. •But if Yahweh does something 30 utterly new, if the earth should open its mouth and swallow them, themselves and all that belongs to them, so that they go down alive to Sheol,<sup>a</sup> then you will know that these men have rejected Yahweh.'

31 The moment he finished saying all these words, the ground split open under 32 their feet, •the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them, their families too, and all Korah's men and all their belongings.

33 They went down alive to Sheol, they and all their possessions. The earth
34 closed over them and they disappeared from the midst of the assembly. •At their cries all the Israelites around them ran away. For they said, 'The earth must not swallow us!'

16 a. The underworld, the place of the dead.

A fire came down from Yahweh and consumed the two hundred and fifty 35 men carrying incense.

The censers

17 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •‘Tell Eleazar, son of Aaron, the priest, 1,2 to pick the censers out of these ashes and take this unlawful fire elsewhere, 36,3 for these sinful censers are sanctified, at the price of these men’s lives. Since 3 they have been brought before Yahweh and consecrated, let the metal be ham- 38 mered into sheets to cover the altar. They will be an object-lesson to the sons of Israel.’

Eleazar the priest took the bronze censers which had been carried by the men 4 who were destroyed by the fire. They were hammered into sheets to cover the 39 altar. •They are a reminder to the sons of Israel that no layman, no one outside 5 Aaron’s line, may come near Yahweh with incense to burn, under pain of suffering 40
the lot of Korah and his followers, according to the order given by Yahweh through Moses.

Aaron intercedes

On the following day, the entire community of the sons of Israel grumbled 6 against Moses and Aaron, saying, ‘You have brought death to the people of 41 Yahweh’. •As the community was banding together against Moses and Aaron, 7 these turned towards the Tent of Meeting, and there was the Cloud covering it, 42 and the glory of Yahweh appeared. •And Moses and Aaron went to the door of 8
the Tent of Meeting. 43

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •‘Stand clear of this community; I am 9,10 going to destroy them here and now’. They threw themselves face downward on 44,4 the ground. •Then Moses said to Aaron, ‘Take the censer, fill it with fire from the 11 altar, put incense in it and hurry to the community to perform the rite of atone- 46 ment over them. The wrath has come down from Yahweh and the plague has begun.’ •Aaron did as Moses said and ran among the assembly, but the plague 12 was already at work among them. He put in the incense and performed the rite 47 of atonement over the people. •Then he stood between the living and the dead, 13 and the plague stopped. •There were fourteen thousand seven hundred victims of 48 that plague, not counting those who died because of Korah. •Then Aaron came 14 back to Moses at the Tent of Meeting; the plague had been halted. 49

Aaron’s branch

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •‘Tell the sons of Israel to give you a 16,1 branch, one for each patriarchal family; let their leaders together give you twelve 1,2 branches for their patriarchal families. Write the name of each on his branch; •and 18 on the branch of Levi write the name of Aaron, because the leader of the families 7 of Levi must have a branch too. •Then put them in the Tent of Meeting before 19 the Testimony, the place where I meet you. •The man whose branch sprouts 4 will be the one I have chosen; this is how I shall put an end to the complaints 20 that the sons of Israel make against you.’ 5

Moses spoke to the sons of Israel, and all their leaders gave him one branch 21
each, twelve branches in all for their patriarchal families; Aaron’s branch was 6
among them. •Moses placed them before Yahweh in the Tent of the Testimony. 22
On the following day Moses came to the Tent of the Testimony and there, 7 already sprouting, was Aaron’s branch, standing for the House of Levi. Buds had 2,3 opened, flowers had blossomed, and almonds had already ripened. •Moses took 8 all the branches away from before Yahweh and brought them back to all the 24 sons of Israel; they examined them and each one took back his own branch. 9

Then Yahweh said to Moses, ‘Put back Aaron’s branch before the Testimony, 25 where it will have its prescribed place, a sign to these rebels. It will stop them 10 complaining to me any more, and they will not die.’ •Moses did as Yahweh had 26 ordered. That is what he did. 11

Atonement: the function of the priesthood

<sup>27</sup> The sons of Israel said to Moses, 'We are lost! We are dead men! We are <sup>12</sup> all dead men! •Anyone who goes near the tabernacle of Yahweh with an offering <sup>28</sup> will die. Are we to be doomed to the last man?'
<sup>13</sup>

1 18 Then Yahweh said to Aaron:

'You and your sons, and your whole family shall bear the burden of transgressions against the sanctuary. You and your sons with you shall bear
 2 the burden of the transgressions of your priesthood. •Let your brothers of the branch of Levi, your father's tribe, come with you too. They are to join you and
 3 serve you, yourselves and your sons, before the Tent of the Testimony. •They are to be at your service and the service of the whole Tent. Provided they do not come near the sacred vessels or the altar, they will be in no more danger of death
 4 than you. •They are to join you, they are to take charge of the Tent of Meeting for the entire ministry of the Tent, and no layman shall come near you. •You must take charge of the sanctuary and charge of the altar, and the wrath will never
 5 again fall on the sons of Israel. •I myself have chosen your brothers, the Levites, from among the sons of Israel as a gift to you. As 'oblates' they will belong
 6 to Yahweh, to serve at the Tent of Meeting. •You and your sons will undertake the priestly duties in all that concerns the altar and all that lies behind the veil.<sup>a</sup> You will perform the liturgy, the duties of which I entrust to your priesthood. But the layman who comes near shall die.'

The priests' portion

8 Yahweh said to Aaron:

'I myself have given you charge of all that is set aside for me. Everything that the sons of Israel consecrate I give to you as your portion, as well as to your sons, 9 by perpetual ordinance. •This is what shall be yours of the most holy things, of the consecrated food: every offering that the sons of Israel give back to me, whether it be an oblation or a sacrifice for sin or a sacrifice of reparation, is a thing most holy; it shall belong to you and your sons. •You may eat these most holy things. Every male may eat them. You are to count them sacred.

11 'To you also shall belong whatever is set aside from the offerings of the sons of Israel to be held out with the gesture of offering; this I give to you, as well as to your sons and daughters, by perpetual ordinance. Every undefiled person in 12 your house may eat it. •All the best of the oil, all the best of the wine and wheat, the first-fruits made over by them to Yahweh, these I give to you. •All the first produce of their land which they bring to Yahweh shall be yours. Every undefiled
 13 person in your house may eat them. •All in Israel on which the ban is laid shall be yours. •Every first-born brought to Yahweh shall be yours, of all living creatures, whether man or beast; nevertheless you must redeem the first-born of 14 man, and you must redeem the first-born of an unclean beast. •You must redeem it in the month in which it is born at the price of five shekels, each of sanctuary weight—which is twenty gerahs. •The first-born of cow, sheep and goat, these alone you shall not redeem. They are holy: you must sprinkle their blood on the 15 altar and burn the fat as a burnt offering, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh; •the meat shall be yours, together with the breast that has been presented with the gesture of offering, and the right thigh. •All that the sons of Israel set aside for 16 Yahweh from the holy things, this I give to you, and to your sons and daughters, by perpetual ordinance. This is a covenant of salt for ever before Yahweh, for you and your descendants after you.'

The Levites' portion

20 Yahweh said to Aaron:

'You shall have no inheritance in their land, no portion of it among them shall be yours. It is I who will be your portion and your inheritance among the sons of Israel.

See, to the sons of Levi I give as their inheritance all the tithes collected in Israel, in return for their services, for the ministry they render in the Tent of Meeting. •The sons of Israel must no longer go near the Tent of Meeting; they would be burdened with sin and die. •To Levi belongs the ministry of the Tent of Meeting, and the Levites will bear the burden of their sin. This is a perpetual law for all your descendants: the Levites are to have no inheritance among the sons of Israel. •The tithe that the sons of Israel set aside for Yahweh, I give the Levites for their inheritance. For this reason I have told them that they are to have no inheritance among the sons of Israel.'

Tithes

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, 'You are to say to the Levites: 25

"When you receive the tithe from the sons of Israel which they must pay you and which I am giving you as your inheritance, out of this you are to set aside a portion for Yahweh, a tithe of the tithe. •This is to take the place of the portion set aside that is due from you, like the corn from the threshing-floor and new wine from the press. •Thus you too will set aside a portion for Yahweh, of all the tithes you receive from the sons of Israel. You will give what you have set aside for Yahweh to Aaron the priest. •Out of all the gifts you receive you will set aside a portion for Yahweh. From the best of all these things you will set aside the sacred portion."

'You are to say to them, "After you have set aside the best, all these gifts shall, for the Levites, take the place of the produce of the threshing-floor and of the wine press. •You may consume them anywhere, you and your people: this is your payment for serving in the Tent of Meeting. •You will not incur the burden of any sin on this account, once you have set aside the best; you will not be profaning the things consecrated by the sons of Israel, and you will not die." '

The ashes of the red heifer<sup>a</sup>

19 Yahweh spoke to Moses and Aaron. He said: 1
'This is a statute of the Law which Yahweh has prescribed. Say this to the sons of Israel, 2

'They are to bring you a red heifer without fault or blemish, one that has never borne the yoke. •You will give it to Eleazar the priest. It must be taken outside the camp and slaughtered in his presence. •Then Eleazar the priest is to take some of the victim's blood on his finger, and sprinkle this blood seven times towards the entrance to the Tent of Meeting. •The heifer must then be burned in his presence: hide, flesh, blood, and the dung too, must be burnt. •Then the priest is to take cedar wood, hyssop and cochineal red, and throw them on the fire where the heifer is burning. •Then he must wash his clothing and bathe his body in water; after which he may go back to the camp, though he will remain unclean until evening. •The man who has burnt the heifer must wash his clothing and bathe his body in water and will remain unclean until evening. •The man who gathers up the ashes of the heifer must be ritually clean; he will deposit them outside the camp, in a clean place. They must be kept for the ritual use of the community of the sons of Israel for making lustral water; it is a sacrifice for sin. The man who has gathered up the ashes of the heifer must wash his clothing and will remain unclean until evening. For the sons of Israel as for the stranger living among them, this will be a perpetual law. 10

A case of uncleanness

'Anyone who touches a corpse, of any person whatsoever, shall be unclean for seven days. •He shall purify himself with these waters on the third and the seventh day, and he will be clean; but if he does not purify himself on the third and the seventh day he will not be clean. •Anyone who touches a dead person, the 13

body of a man that has died, and has not purified himself, defiles the tabernacle of Yahweh; such a man must be outlawed from Israel because the lustral waters have not flowed over him; he is unclean, and his uncleanness remains in him.

14 This is the law when a man dies in a tent. Anyone who goes into the tent, or 15 anyone who is already there, shall be unclean for seven days. •Equally unclean also shall be every open vessel that has not been closed with a lid or fastening.

16 Anyone in the open country who touches a man who has been killed, or a man who has died, or human bones or a tomb, shall be unclean for seven days.

The ritual of lustral water

17 'For a man thus unclean, some of the ashes must be taken from the victim burnt as a sacrifice for sin. Spring water must be poured on them, in a vessel.
18 Then one who is ritually clean shall take hyssop and dip it in the water. He must then sprinkle the tent, all the vessels and everyone there, and also the man who has touched the bones, or the body of the person, whether he was killed or died 19 of natural causes, or the tomb. •The man who is clean must sprinkle the unclean on the third and the seventh day, and on the seventh day he will have freed him from his sin. The man who is unclean must then wash his clothing and bathe 20 himself in water, and by evening he will be clean. •If an unclean man fails to purify himself in this way, he must be cut off from the community, for he would defile the sanctuary of Yahweh. The lustral waters have not flowed over him, and he is unclean.

21 'This is to be a perpetual law for them. The person who sprinkles the lustral water must wash his clothing, and the person who touches these waters shall be 22 unclean until evening. •Anything that an unclean person touches shall be unclean, and anyone who touches it shall be unclean until evening.'

FURTHER LEGISLATION

NUMBERS 26—30

The census

19 After this plague, 26 Yahweh spoke to Moses and to Eleazar son of Aaron,
1 the priest. He said:

2 'Take a census of all the community of the sons of Israel, by families: all those of twenty years and over, fit to bear arms'.

3 So Moses and Eleazar the priest spoke to the people in the plains of Moab, near the Jordan opposite Jericho. They counted:

4 (As Yahweh had ordered Moses and the sons of Israel on their coming out of the land of Egypt:) Men of twenty years and over:

8 The sons of Pallu: Eliab. •The sons of Eliab: Nemuel, Dathan and Abiram.
9 These two, Dathan and Abiram, men of repute in the community, were the ones who challenged Moses and Aaron; they belonged to the followers of Korah 10 who challenged Yahweh. •The earth opened its mouth and swallowed them (Korah perished with his followers), when fire consumed the two hundred and 11 fifty men. They were a sign. •The sons of Korah did not perish.

The sons of Israel numbered in all six hundred and one thousand seven hundred and thirty men.

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •The land is to be shared out among these as a heritage, according to the number of those inscribed. •To the large in number you are to give a large area of land, to the small in number a small area; to each the heritage will be in proportion to the number registered. •The dividing of the land is, however, to be done by lot. Each is to receive his inheritance according to the number of names in the patriarchal tribes; •the inheritance of each tribe is to be divided by lot, each receiving in accordance with its larger or smaller numbers.'

Census of the Levites

57 These are, by clans, the Levites that were registered: for Gershon, the Gershonite clan; for Kohath, the Kohathite clan; for Merari, the Merarite clan.

58 These are the Levite clans: the Libnite clan, the Hebronite clan, the Mahlite clan, the Mushite clan, the Korahite clan.

59 Kohath was the father of Amram. •The wife of Amram was called Jochebed daughter of Levi, born to him in Egypt. To Amram she bore Aaron, Moses and 60 Miriam their sister. •Aaron was the father of Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and 61 Ithamar. •Nadab and Abihu died when they brought unlawful fire before Yahweh.

62 Altogether there were registered twenty-three thousand males of one month and over. They were not registered with the sons of Israel, having received no inheritance among them.

63 These were the men registered by Moses and Eleazar the priest who took this census of the sons of Israel in the plains of Moab, near the Jordan, opposite
64 Jericho. •Not one of them was among those whom Moses and Aaron had registered when they numbered the sons of Israel in the wilderness of Sinai;
65 for Yahweh had told them that these were to die in the wilderness and without anyone remaining, except Caleb son of Jephunneh and Joshua son of Nun.

The inheritance of daughters

1 27 Then there came forward the daughters of Zelophehad. He was the son of Hephher son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh; he belonged to the clans of Manasseh son of Joseph. These are the names of his daughters:
2 Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah and Tirzah. •They appeared before Moses, before Eleazar the priest, and before the leaders and the whole community,
3 at the entrance to the Tent of Meeting, and said, •'Our father died in the desert. He was not one of the company of those who conspired against Yahweh, Korah's
4 party; it was for his own sin that he died without sons. •Why must our father's name be lost to his clan? Since he had no son, give us some property among our father's kinsmen.'

5 Moses took their case before Yahweh, •and Yahweh spoke to Moses. He 6 said, •'The daughters of Zelophehad have a just case. Give them a property for their inheritance among their father's kinsmen; pass on to them their father's 7 inheritance. •Then say this to the sons of Israel, "If a man dies without sons,
8 his inheritance is to pass to his daughter. •If he has no daughter, the inheritance
9 is to go to his brothers. •If he has no brothers, it is to go to his father's brothers.
10 If his father has no brothers, it is to go to the member of his clan who is most nearly related: he is to take possession. This shall be a statutory ordinance for the sons of Israel, as Yahweh has ordered Moses."'

Joshua the head of the community

12 Yahweh said to Moses, 'Climb this mountain of the Abarim range, and look 13 on the land I have given to the sons of Israel. •After you have seen it, you will 14 be gathered to your people, as Aaron your brother was. •For you both rebelled in the wilderness of Zin when the community complained against me, when I ordered you to proclaim my holiness before their eyes by means of the water.'
(These are the waters of Meribah of Kadesh, in the wilderness of Zin.)

15 Moses said to Yahweh, •'May Yahweh, God of the spirits that give life to 16 all living creatures, appoint a leader for this community, •to be at their head in all they do, a man who will lead them out and bring them in, so that the 17 community of Yahweh may not be like sheep without a shepherd'. •Yahweh answered Moses, 'Take Joshua son of Nun, a man in whom the spirit 18 dwells. Lay your hands on him. •Then bring him before Eleazar the priest and the whole community, to give him your orders in their presence •and to 20 give him a share of your authority, so that the whole community of the sons of Israel may obey him. •He shall present himself to Eleazar the priest, who is to 21 make inquiry for him before Yahweh, according to the rite of the Urim. At his command all the sons of Israel shall go out and come in with him, the whole community.'
19

Moses did as Yahweh had ordered. He took Joshua and brought him before 22
 Eleazar the priest and the whole community, •laid his hands on him and gave 23 him his orders, as Yahweh had directed through Moses.

Regulations for sacrifices

28 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Give the sons of Israel this order: 1/2
 "Take care to bring at the appointed time my offering, my sustenance in the form of burnt offering, an appeasing fragrance for me".

'Say to them, "These are the burnt offerings you must offer to Yahweh: 3

a. Daily sacrifices

"Every day, two yearling lambs without blemish, as a perpetual holocaust.
 The first lamb you must offer in the morning, the second between the two evenings, 4 together with an oblation of one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with one 5 quarter of a hin of purest oil. •This is the perpetual holocaust made long ago 6 at Mount Sinai as an appeasing fragrance, a burnt offering to Yahweh. •The 7 accompanying libation is to be at the rate of one quarter of a hin for each lamb;
 the libation of strong drink for Yahweh must be poured out in the sanctuary.
 The second lamb you must offer as a holocaust between the two evenings; do 8
 this with the same oblation and the same libation as in the morning, as a burnt offering, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh.

b. The sabbath

"On the sabbath day, you must offer two yearling lambs without blemish, 9 and two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour as an oblation, mixed with oil, as well as the accompanying libation. •The sabbath holocaust is to be offered every 10 sabbath in addition to the perpetual holocaust, and the accompanying libation similarly.

c. The feast of New Moon

"At the beginning of each of your months you must offer a holocaust to 11
 Yahweh: two young bulls, one ram and seven yearling lambs without blemish;
 for each bull an oblation of three-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with 12 oil; for each ram, an oblation of two-tenths of fine flour mixed with oil; •for 13 each lamb, an oblation of one-tenth of fine flour mixed with oil. This is a holocaust, an appeasing fragrance, a burnt offering to Yahweh. •The accom- 14 panying libation is to be half a hin of wine for a bull, one-third of a hin for a ram, one-quarter of a hin for a lamb. This must be the monthly holocaust, month after month, every month of the year. •In addition to the perpetual 15 holocaust a he-goat must be offered to Yahweh, as a sacrifice for sin, with its accompanying libation.

d. The feast of Unleavened Bread

"The fourteenth day of the first month, is the Passover of Yahweh, •and 16 the fifteenth day of this month is a feast day. For seven days unleavened bread must be eaten. •On the first day there will be a solemn assembly. You must 17 do no laborious work. •You shall offer to Yahweh a burnt offering as a holocaust: 18 two young bulls, a ram, seven yearling sheep without blemish. •The accompanying 2 oblation of fine flour mixed with oil is to be three-tenths of an ephah for the bull, two-tenths for the ram, •and one-tenth for each of the seven lambs. •There 24

must also be a he-goat for the sacrifice for sin, for performing the rite of atonement 23 over you. •This must be done in addition to the morning holocaust which is a 24 perpetual holocaust. •You must do this every day for seven days. It is nourishment, a burnt offering, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh; it is to be offered 25 in addition to the perpetual holocaust and its accompanying libation. •On the seventh day you must hold a solemn assembly; you will do no laborious work.

e. The feast of Weeks

26 "On the day of the first-fruits, when you make your offering of new fruits to Yahweh at your feast of Weeks, you are to hold a solemn assembly; you must 27 do no laborious work. •You must offer as a holocaust, an appeasing fragrance for 28 Yahweh: two young bulls, one ram, seven yearling lambs. •The accompanying oblation of fine flour mixed with oil is to be three-tenths of an ephah for each 29 bull, •two-tenths for the ram, and one-tenth for each of the seven lambs. •There 30 must also be a he-goat for the sacrifice for sin, for performing the rite of atonement over you. •This must be done in addition to the perpetual holocaust 31 and its accompanying oblation.

f. The feast of Acclamations

1 29 "In the seventh month, on the first day of the month, you are to hold a solemn assembly; you must do no heavy work. It shall be your day of 2 Acclamations. •You must offer as a holocaust, an appeasing fragrance for 3 Yahweh: one young bull, one ram, seven yearling lambs without blemish. •The accompanying oblation of fine flour mixed with oil is to be three-tenths of an 4 ephah for the bull, two-tenths for the ram, •and one-tenth for each of the seven
 5 lambs. •There must also be a he-goat for the sacrifice for sin, for performing 6 the rite of atonement over you. •All this must be done in addition to the monthly holocaust and its oblation, the perpetual holocaust and its oblation, and the accompanying libations enjoined by law,—an appeasing fragrance, a burnt offering to Yahweh.

g. The day of Atonement

7 "On the tenth day of this seventh month, you are to hold a solemn assembly.
 8 You must fast and do no work. •You must offer as a holocaust to Yahweh, an appeasing fragrance: one young bull, one ram, and seven yearling lambs of your 9 choice without blemish. •The accompanying oblation of fine flour mixed with 10 oil is to be three-tenths of an ephah for the bull, two-tenths for the ram, •and 11 one-tenth for each of the seven lambs. •A he-goat must be offered for the sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the victim for sin at the feast of Atonement, and to the perpetual holocaust with its accompanying oblation and libations.

h. The feast of Tabernacles

12 "On the fifteenth day of the seventh month you are to hold a solemn assembly, you must do no heavy work, and for the space of seven days you are to celebrate 13 a feast for Yahweh. •You must offer as a holocaust, a burnt offering, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh: thirteen young bulls, two rams, fourteen yearling lambs 14 without blemish. •The accompanying oblation of fine flour mixed with oil is to be three-tenths of an ephah for each of the thirteen bulls, two-tenths for 15 each of the two rams, •one-tenth for each of the fourteen lambs; •also one 16 he-goat as a sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the perpetual holocaust and its oblation and libations.

17 "On the second day: twelve young bulls, two rams, fourteen yearling lambs 18 without blemish; •the accompanying oblation and libations, as prescribed, in 19 proportion to the number of bulls, rams and lambs; •also one he-goat for the sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the perpetual holocaust with its oblation and libations.

"On the third day: eleven bulls, two rams, fourteen yearling lambs without blemish; •the accompanying oblation and libations, as prescribed, in proportion to the number of bulls, rams and lambs; •also one he-goat for the sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the perpetual holocaust with its oblation and libations.

"On the fourth day: ten bulls, two rams, fourteen yearling lambs without blemish; •the accompanying oblation and libations, as prescribed, in proportion to the number of bulls, rams and lambs; •also one he-goat for the sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the perpetual holocaust with its oblation and libations.

"On the fifth day: nine bulls, two rams, fourteen yearling lambs without blemish; •the accompanying oblation and libations, as prescribed, in proportion to the number of bulls, rams and lambs; •also one he-goat for the sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the perpetual holocaust with its oblation and libations.

"On the sixth day: eight bulls, two rams, fourteen yearling lambs without blemish; •the accompanying oblation and libations, as prescribed, in proportion to the number of bulls, rams and lambs; •also one he-goat for the sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the perpetual holocaust with its oblation and libations.

"On the seventh day: seven bulls, two rams, fourteen yearling lambs without blemish; •the accompanying oblation and libations, as prescribed, in proportion to the number of bulls, rams and lambs; •also one he-goat for the sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the perpetual holocaust with its oblation and libations.

"On the eighth day you must all assemble. You must do no heavy work. •You must offer as a holocaust, a burnt offering, an appeasing fragrance for Yahweh: one bull, one ram, seven yearling lambs without blemish; •the accompanying oblation and libations, as prescribed, in proportion to the number of bulls, rams and lambs; •also one he-goat for the sacrifice for sin. This is in addition to the perpetual holocaust with its oblation and libations.

"This is what you are to do for Yahweh at your solemn feasts, over and above your votive and voluntary offerings, your holocausts, oblations and libations, and your communion sacrifice."

30 Moses told the sons of Israel exactly what Yahweh had ordered him.

Laws concerning vows

Moses spoke to the leaders of the tribes of the sons of Israel. He said, 'This is what Yahweh has ordered:

"If a man makes a vow to Yahweh or takes a formal pledge under oath, he must not break his word: whatever he promises by word of mouth he must do.

"If a woman makes a vow to Yahweh or takes a formal pledge during her youth, while she is still in her father's house, •and if he hears about this vow or pledge made by her and says nothing to her, her vow, whatever it may be, shall be binding, and the pledge she has taken, whatever it may be, shall be binding. •But if the father on the day he learns of it expresses his disapproval of it, then none of the vows or pledges she has taken shall be binding. Yahweh will not hold her to it, since her father has expressed his disapproval.

"If, being bound by vows or by a pledge voiced without due reflection, she then marries, •and if her husband hears of it but says nothing on the day he learns of it, her vows shall be binding and the pledges she has taken shall be binding. •But if on the day he learns of it he expresses his disapproval to her, this will annul the vow that she has made or the pledge that binds her, voiced without due reflection. Yahweh will not hold her to it.

"The vow of a widow or a divorced woman and all pledges taken by her are binding on her.

"If she has made a vow or taken a pledge under oath while in her husband's house, •and if when the husband learns of it he says nothing to her and does not express disapproval to her, then the vow, whatever it is, shall be binding, and

- 13 the pledge, whatever it is, shall be binding. •But if the husband when he hears of them annuls them on the day he learns of them, no word of her mouth, vow or pledge, shall be binding. Since the husband has annulled them, Yahweh will not hold her to them.
- 14 “Every vow or oath that is binding on the wife may be endorsed or annulled by the husband.
- 15 “If by the following day the husband has said nothing to her, it means that he endorses her vow, whatever it may be, or her pledge, whatever it may be.
- 16 He endorses them if he says nothing on the day he learns of them. •But if he annuls them a longer time after he learnt of them, then he must bear the burden of the wife’s fault.”
- 17 These are the laws ordained by Yahweh to Moses, concerning the relationship between man and wife, and between a father and his daughter while still young and living in her father’s home.

BOOTY AND ITS ALLOCATION

NUMBERS 31—36

The holy war against Midian

- 1 31 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, ‘Exact full vengeance for the sons of Israel on the Midianites. Afterwards you will be gathered to your people.’
- 3 Moses said to the people, ‘Some of you must take arms to wage Yahweh’s
- 4 campaign against Midian, to carry out the vengeance of Yahweh on Midian. •Put a thousand men in the field from each of the tribes of Israel.’
- 5 In this way Israel’s hosts provided twelve thousand men equipped for war,
- 6 one thousand from each tribe: •Moses put them in the field, one thousand from each tribe, with Phinehas, son of Eleazar the priest, to go with them carrying the sacred vessels and the trumpets for sounding the alarm.
- 7 They waged the campaign against Midian, as Yahweh had ordered
- 8 Moses, and they put every male to death. •And further, they killed the kings of Midian, Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur and Reba, the five Midianite kings; they also
- 9 put Balaam son of Beor to the sword. •The sons of Israel took the Midianite women captive with their young children, and plundered all their cattle, all their
- 10 flocks and all their goods. •They set fire to the towns where they lived and all their encampments. •Then, taking all their booty, all that they had captured,
- 12 man and beast, •they took the captives, spoil and booty to Moses, Eleazar the priest and all the community of the sons of Israel, at the camp in the plains of Moab, near the Jordan opposite Jericho.

The slaughter of the women and purification of the booty

- 13 Moses, Eleazar the priest, and all the leaders of the community went out of
- 14 the camp to meet them. •Moses was enraged with the commanders of the army, the captains of thousands and the captains of hundreds, who had come back
- 15 from this military expedition. •He said, ‘Why have you spared the life of all the women? •These were the very ones who, on Balaam’s advice, perverted the
- 16 sons of Israel and made them renounce Yahweh in the affair at Peor: hence the plague which struck the community of Israel. •So kill all the male children.
- 17 Kill also all the women who have slept with a man. •Spare the lives only of the
- 19 young girls who have not slept with a man, and take them for yourselves. •As for you, you must camp for seven days outside the camp, all of you who have
- 20 killed a man or touched a corpse. Purify yourselves, you and your prisoners, on the third and seventh days; •purify also all clothing, everything made of skin,
- 21 everything woven of goats’ hair and everything made of wood.’
- 21 Eleazar the priest said to the soldiers who had come back from this campaign,
- 22 ‘This is a statute of the Law which Yahweh has commanded Moses. •Whereas
- 23 the gold, silver, bronze, iron, tin and lead, •everything that can withstand fire, must be passed through the fire and it will be clean, yet it must still be purified with lustral water. Whatever cannot resist fire you must pass through water.

'Wash your clothes on the seventh day and you will then be clean. You may then come back to the camp.'

The allocation of the booty

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: 25

'With Eleazar the priest and the heads of families in the community, count 26 the spoils and the captives, man and beast. •Then share out the spoil, half and 27 half, between those who fought the campaign and the rest of the community. As Yahweh's portion you will set aside, from the share of the combatants who 28 took part in the campaign, one out of every five hundred persons, oxen, donkeys and sheep. •These are to be taken from the half share which is their due, and 29 given to Eleazar the priest as an offering to Yahweh. •From the half which is due to the sons of Israel, you will take one out of every fifty persons, oxen, 30 donkeys, sheep, and all other animals, and give them to the Levites who have charge of the tabernacle of Yahweh.'

Moses and Eleazar the priest did as Yahweh had ordered Moses. •The 31 spoils, the remainder of the booty captured by the soldiers, came to six hundred 32 and seventy-five thousand head of small stock, •seventy-two thousand head of cattle, 33 •sixty-one thousand donkeys, •and in persons, women who had never 34 slept with a man, thirty-two thousand in all. •Half was assigned to those who 35 had taken part in the war, namely three hundred and thirty-seven thousand 36 five hundred head of small stock, •of which Yahweh's portion was six hundred 37 and seventy-five, •thirty-six thousand head of cattle, of which Yahweh's portion 38 was seventy-two. •Thirty thousand five hundred donkeys, of which Yahweh's 39 portion was sixty-one, •and sixteen thousand persons, of which Yahweh's 40 portion was thirty-two. •Moses gave Eleazar the priest the portion set aside 41 for Yahweh, in accordance with Yahweh's instructions to Moses.

As for the half due to the sons of Israel, which Moses had separated from 42 that of the combatants, •this half, the community's share, came to three hundred 43 and thirty-seven thousand five hundred head of small stock, •thirty-six thousand 44 head of cattle, •thirty thousand five hundred donkeys •and sixteen thousand 45 persons. •From this half, the share of the sons of Israel, Moses took one out 46 of every fifty, man and beast, and gave them to the Levites who had charge of 47 the tabernacle of Yahweh, in accordance with Yahweh's instructions to Moses.

The offerings

The commanders of the hosts who had fought the campaign, the captains 48 of thousands and the captains of hundreds, came to Moses •and said, 'Your 49 servants have numbered the soldiers under their command: not one is missing. And further, we bring as an offering for Yahweh the gold ornaments we have 50 found, armlets and bracelets, signet rings, earrings and brooches, to have the rite of atonement performed over us before Yahweh.' •Moses and Eleazar the 51 priest accepted this gold from them, all this jewellery. •This offering of gold 52 given by them to Yahweh amounted to sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels, all given by the captains of thousands and the captains of hundreds.

Each of the soldiers took his own booty. •But Moses and Eleazar the priest 53 received the gold from the captains of thousands and of hundreds, and carried 54 it to the Tent of Meeting as a reminder to Yahweh of the sons of Israel.

The allocation of Transjordan

32 The sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad owned great herds of fine cattle. 1
Now they observed that the land of Jazer and the land of Gilead was an 2 ideal region for raising stock. •The sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben 3 therefore went to Moses, Eleazar the priest and the leaders of the community, 4 and said to them, •'The land of Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, Nimrah, Heshbon, 5

4 Elealeh, Sebam, Nebo and Beon, •which Yahweh has conquered in the sight of the community of Israel, is ideal land for raising stock, and your servants are 5 cattle breeders. •If we have deserved your friendship,' they said 'give this land to your servants for our own; do not make us cross the Jordan.'

6 Moses said to the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben, 'Your brothers are 7 off to the war—are you content to stay here? •Why do you keep the sons of 8 Israel from entering the land that Yahweh has given them? •This is what your 9 fathers did when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea to inspect the land. •They went up as far as the Valley of Eshcol and inspected the land; but they kept 10 the sons of Israel from entering the land that Yahweh had given them. •Hence 11 the wrath of Yahweh blazed out that day and he swore this oath, "•If ever these men of twenty years and over, who came out from Egypt, set eyes on the land that I promised on oath to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. . . ." For they have not 12 followed me faithfully, •except Caleb son of Jephunneh the Kenizzite, and 13 Joshua son of Nun: these indeed have followed Yahweh faithfully.'" •The wrath of Yahweh blazed out against Israel and he made them wander in the wilderness for forty years, until the generation that offended Yahweh had all disappeared.
14 And now you, you rise up in your father's place, offshoot of sinful stock, to add 15 still more to the burning wrath of Yahweh against Israel! •If you turn away from him, he will prolong the time spent in the wilderness, and you will bring about the ruin of all this people.'

16 They came to Moses and said, 'We would like to build sheepfolds here for 17 our flocks and towns for our young children. •We ourselves will take up arms to lead the sons of Israel until we have brought them to the place appointed for them: only our young children will stay in the fortified towns, safe from the 18 inhabitants of the country. •We will not return to our homes until every one 19 of the sons of Israel has taken possession of his inheritance. •For we shall have no inheritance with them on the other bank of the Jordan or beyond, since our inheritance has fallen to us here, east of the Jordan.'

20 Moses said to them, 'If you do as you have said, if you are prepared to fight
21 before Yahweh, •and if all those of you who bear arms cross the Jordan before 22 Yahweh, until he has driven all his enemies before him, •then, once the land has become subject to Yahweh, you may go back; you shall be free of your obligation towards Yahweh and Israel, and this land shall be your inheritance before 23 Yahweh. •But if you do not, you will sin against Yahweh, and be sure your 24 sin will find you out. •Build towns, then, for your young children and folds for your flocks; but do what you have promised.'

25 The sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben said to Moses, 'Your servants will 26 do as you order, sir. •Our children, our wives, our flocks and all our livestock 27 will stay in the towns of Gilead, •but your servants, every man armed for war, will cross over to fight before Yahweh as you have ordered.'

28 Then Moses gave directions about them to Eleazar the priest, to Joshua son of Nun, and to the leaders of the patriarchal Houses of the tribes of Israel.
29 Moses said to them, 'If the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben, all who bear arms, cross the Jordan with you to fight before Yahweh, then once the land is in 30 your power, you will give them the land of Gilead for their possession. •But if they do not cross over in arms with you, then they must have their possessions with you in the land of Canaan.'

31 The sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben replied, 'What Yahweh has said
32 to your servants, we will do. •We will cross in arms before Yahweh into the land of Canaan; but you must give us possession of our inheritance beyond the 33 Jordan.' •Moses gave them—the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben and the half-tribe of Manasseh son of Joseph—the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, the land and the towns contained within its boundaries, the frontier towns of the land.

32 a. The main clause of an oath is often left out, in reporting it.

The sons of Gad built Dibon, Ataroth, Aroer, •Atroth-shophan, Jazer, 34
Jogbehah, •Beth-nimrah, Beth-haran, fortified towns, and folds for the flocks. 35

The sons of Reuben built Heshbon, Elealeh, Kiriathaim, •Nebo, Baal-meon 36 (their names were changed), Sibmah. They gave names to the towns they had 37 built. 38

The sons of Machir son of Manasseh went to Gilead. They conquered it and 39 drove out the Amorites who were there. •Moses gave Gilead to Machir son of 40 Manasseh, and he settled there. •Jair son of Manasseh went and seized their 41 encampments and called them Encampments of Jair. •Nobah went and seized 42
Kenath with its outlying villages, and called it Nobah after himself.

The stages of the Exodus

33 Here are the stages of the journey made by the sons of Israel when they 1 came out in a body from the land of Egypt, under the leadership of Moses 2 and Aaron. •Moses recorded their starting-points in writing whenever they broke 3 camp on Yahweh's orders. Here are the stages according to their starting-points.

They left Rameses in the first month. It was on the fifteenth day of the first 3 month, on the day following the Passover, that the sons of Israel set out 4 triumphantly in the sight of all Egypt. •The Egyptians were burying those of 5 their own people whom Yahweh had struck down, all their first-born; Yahweh 6 had carried out his judgement on their gods.

The sons of Israel left Rameses and camped at Succoth. •Then they left 7 Succoth and encamped at Etham which is on the edge of the wilderness. •They 8 left Etham, turned back to Pi-hahiroth which faces Baal-zephon, and encamped 9 before Migdol. •They left Pi-hahiroth, crossed over the sea into the wilderness, 10 and after marching for three days in the desert of Etham they encamped at 11 Marah. •They left Marah and reached Elim. At Elim there are twelve springs 12 of water and seventy palm trees; they encamped there. •They left Elim and 13 encamped by the Sea of Reeds. •They left the Sea of Reeds and encamped in 14
the wilderness of Sin. •They left the wilderness of Sin and encamped at 15 Dophkah. •They left Dophkah and encamped at Alush. •They left Alush and 16 encamped at Rephidim; the people found no drinking water there. •They left 17 Rephidim and encamped in the wilderness of Sinai. •They left the wilderness 18 of Sinai and encamped at Kibroth-hattaavah. •They left Kibroth-hattaavah 19 and encamped at Hazeroth. •They left Hazeroth and encamped at Rithmah. •They 20 left Rithmah and encamped at Rimmon-perez. •They left Rimmon-perez and 21 encamped at Libnah. •They left Libnah and encamped at Rissah. •They left 22
Rissah and encamped at Kehelathah. •They left Kehelathah and encamped at 23
Mount Shepher. •They left Mount Shepher and encamped at Haradah. •They 24 left Haradah and encamped at Makheloth. •They left Makheloth and encamped 25 at Tahath. •They left Tahath and encamped at Terah. •They left Terah and 26 encamped at Mithkah. •They left Mithkah and encamped at Hashmonah. •They 27 left Hashmonah and encamped at Moseroth. •They left Moseroth and encamped 28 at Bene-jaakan. •They left Bene-jaakan and encamped at Hor-haggidgad. •They 29 left Hor-haggidgad and encamped at Jotbathah. •They left Jotbathah and 30 encamped at Abronah. •They left Abronah and encamped at Ezion-geber. 31
They left Ezion-geber and encamped in the wilderness of Zin; this is Kadesh. 32
They left Kadesh and encamped at Mount Hor, on the borders of the land of 33
Edom. •Aaron the priest went up Mount Hor on Yahweh's orders and it was 34
there that he died, in the fortieth year of the exodus of the sons of Israel 35 from the land of Egypt, in the fifth month, on the first day of the month. •Aaron was 36
a hundred and twenty-three years old when he died at Mount Hor. •The king 37 of Arad, a Canaanite who lived in the Negeb in the land of Canaan, was 38 informed that the sons of Israel arrived. •They left Mount Hor and encamped 39 at Zalmonah. •They left Zalmonah and encamped at Punon. •They left Punon 40 and encamped at Oboth. •They left Oboth and encamped in Moabite territory 41

 46 gad and encamped at Almon-diblathaim. •They left Almon-diblathaim and 47 encamped in the Abarim mountains facing Nebo. •They left the Abarim
 48 mountains and encamped in the plains of Moab, near the Jordan opposite 49 Jericho. •They encamped near the Jordan between Beth-ha-jeshimoth and Abel-hash-shittim, in the plains of Moab.

The allocation of Canaan. God's order

50 Yahweh spoke to Moses in the plains of Moab, near the Jordan opposite
 Jericho. He said:
 51 'Say this to the sons of Israel:
 52 "When you have crossed the Jordan into the land of Canaan, •you must drive all the inhabitants of the country before you. You must destroy their sculptured stones, you must destroy all their statues of cast metal, and you must demolish all 53 their high places. •You will take possession of this land and you will stay in it, 54 for I have given it to you for your own. •You are to divide it by lot among your clans. To a large clan you will give a greater inheritance, to a small clan a lesser one. Where the lot falls for each, that will be his. Make this apportionment 55 according to patriarchal tribes. •But if you do not drive the inhabitants of the country before you, then those you have spared will be barbs in your eyes and 56 thorns in your side, they will harass you in the land where you live •and I will deal with you as I meant to deal with them." '

The boundaries of Canaan

<sup>1</sup>
 2 34 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said, •'Give the sons of Israel this order:
 "When you go into the land (of Canaan), this is the territory that will be your inheritance. This is the land of Canaan defined by its boundaries.
 3 "The southern part of your country will stretch from the wilderness of Zin, on the borders of Edom. Your southern boundary will start on the east at the 4 end of the Salt Sea. •It will then turn south towards the Ascent of the Scorpions and go by Zin to end in the south at Kadesh-barnea. Then it will go towards 5 Hazar-addar and pass through Azmon. •From Azmon the boundary will turn towards the wadi of Egypt and end at the Sea.
 6 "Your seaboard will be the Great Sea; this will be your western boundary.
 7 "This will be your northern boundary. You will draw a line from the Great
 8 Sea to Mount Hor, •then from Mount Hor you will draw a line to the Pass 9 of Hamath, and the boundary will end at Zedad. •From there it will go on to Ziphron and end at Hazar-enan. This will be your northern boundary.
 10 "You will then draw your eastern boundary from Hazar-enan to Shepham.
 11 The boundary will go down from Shepham towards Riblah on the east side of Ain. Further down it will keep to the eastern shore of the Sea of Chinnereth."
 12 The frontier will then follow the Jordan and end at the Salt Sea.
 "This will be your land with the boundaries surrounding it." ' 13 Moses then laid this charge on the sons of Israel:
 'This is the land you are to apportion by lot, which Yahweh has ordered to 14 be made over to the nine tribes and the half-tribe. •The tribe of the sons of Reuben with its patriarchal Houses and the tribe of the sons of Gad with its patriarchal Houses have already been given their heritage; the half-tribe of 15 Manasseh has also been given its heritage. •These two tribes and the half-tribe have been given their heritage beyond the Jordan opposite Jericho, to the east, towards the sunrise.'

The leaders in charge of the allocation

16 Yahweh spoke to Moses and said:
 17 'These are the names of those who will share out the land: Eleazar the priest

34 a. The Lake of Gennesareth.

and Joshua son of Nun, •and you will take one leader from each tribe to share out 18
the land. •Here are the names of these men: 19

For the tribe of Judah, Caleb son of Jephunneh; 19 for the tribe of the sons of Simeon, Shemuel son of Ammibud; 20 for the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad son of Chislon; 21 for the tribe of the sons of Dan, the leader Bukki son of Jogli; 22 for the sons of Joseph: for the tribe of Manasseh, the leader Hannel son 23
of Ephod;
and for the tribe of the sons of Ephraim, the leader Kemuel son of Shiptan; 24 for the tribe of the sons of Zebulun, the leader Elizaphan son of Parnach; 25 for the tribe of the sons of Issachar, the leader Paltiel son of Azzan; 26 for the tribe of the sons of Asher, the leader Ahihud son of Shelomi; 27 for the tribe of the sons of Naphtali, the leader Pedahel son of Ammihud.' 28
These are the men whom Yahweh ordered to divide the land of Canaan 29
among the sons of Israel.

The portion of the Levites

35 Yahweh spoke to Moses in the plains of Moab, near the Jordan opposite 1
Jericho. He said:

'Direct the sons of Israel to make over to the Levites, out of the inheritance 2 they possess, towns in which to live and pasture land round the towns. Give 3 these to the Levites. •The towns are to be their homes and the surrounding 4 pasture land is to be for their cattle, their possessions and all their animals. •The 5 pasture land surrounding the towns that you make over to the Levites shall 6 extend, from the walls of the towns, for a thousand cubits all round.

'Outside the town, measure two thousand cubits to the east side, two thousand 7 cubits to the south, two thousand cubits to the west and two thousand cubits 8 to the north, the town lying in the centre: this is to be the pasture-land for these 9 towns. •The towns you hand over to the Levites will be the six cities of refuge, 10 ceded by you as sanctuary for men who cause another's death; and you are to 11 hand over forty-two towns in addition. •Altogether you will make over forty- 12 eight towns to the Levites, towns together with their pasturage. •Of the towns 13 that you grant out of the possession of the sons of Israel, more will be taken 14 from those who hold more, and less from those who hold less. Everyone will 15 make over towns to the Levites in proportion to the inheritance he himself has 16 received.'

Cities of refuge

Yahweh spoke to Moses and said: 9

'Say this to the sons of Israel: 10

"When you cross the Jordan and reach the land of Canaan, •you are to select 11 towns which you will make into cities of refuge where a man who has killed 12 accidentally may find sanctuary. •These towns will be your refuge from the 13
avenger of blood, so that the killer may not die without being brought to 14 judgement before the community. •The towns you make over will serve you as 15 six cities of refuge: •the three that you make over beyond the Jordan and the 16 three that you make over in the land of Canaan are to be cities of refuge. 17
These six towns will be a refuge, for the sons of Israel as well as for the stranger 18 and the settler among you, where anyone who has killed accidentally may find 19 sanctuary.

"But if he has struck the person with an iron object so as to cause death, 16
he is a murderer. The murderer must be put to death. •If he struck him with a 17 stone capable of killing, and has killed him, he is a murderer. The murderer 18 must be put to death. •Or if he has struck him with a wooden instrument capable 19 of killing, and has killed him, he is a murderer. The murderer must be put to death. •The avenger of blood must put the murderer to death. When he meets him he must put him to death.<sup>a</sup>

20 "If the killer has maliciously manhandled his victim, or thrown some lethal 21 missile to strike him down, •or out of enmity dealt him the death-blow with his fist, then he who struck the blow must die; he is a murderer; the avenger 22 of blood must put him to death when he meets him. •If, however, he has manhandled his victim by chance, without malice, or thrown some missile at 23 him not meaning to hit him, •or without seeing him dropped a stone on him capable of causing death and so killed him, so long as he bore him no malice 24 and wished him no harm, •then the community must decide in accordance with 25 these rules between the one who struck the blow and the avenger of blood, •and so rescue the killer from the avenger of blood. They will send him back to the city of refuge where he had sought sanctuary, and there he will stay until the 26 death of the high priest who has been anointed with the holy oil. •If the killer should leave the bounds of the city of refuge where he has sought sanctuary 27 and the avenger of blood encounters him outside the bounds of his city of refuge, 28 the avenger of blood may kill him without fear of reprisal; •since the killer should stay in his city of refuge until the death of the high priest; only after the death of the high priest is he free to go back to the land where he has his 29 home. •These regulations shall have force of law for you and your descendants, wherever you may be.

30 "In any case of homicide, the evidence of witnesses must determine whether the murderer is to be put to death; but the evidence of a single witness is not 31 sufficient to uphold a capital charge. •You are not to accept ransom for the life
 32 of a murderer condemned to death; he must die. •Nor are you to accept ransom for anyone who, having sought sanctuary in his city of refuge, wishes to come 33 back and live at home before the death of the high priest. •You must not profane the land you live in. Blood profanes the country, and there is no other expiation 34 for the country for bloodshed than the blood of the one who shed it. •You must not defile the land you inhabit, the land in which I live; for I, Yahweh, live
 among the sons of Israel."

A wife's inheritance

1 36 Then the heads of families in the clan of the sons of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, one of the clans of Joseph's sons, came forward.

They spoke before Moses and the leaders, the heads of families of Israel's sons, 2 and said:

'Yahweh has ordered my lord to give the land to the sons of Israel, sharing it out by lot; and my lord has been ordered by Yahweh to give the 3 inheritance of our brother Zelophehad to his daughters. •Now, if they marry someone from another tribe in the sons of Israel, their property will be taken away from the inheritance of our fathers. The property of the tribe to which they will 4 belong will be increased, and the property allotted to us diminished. •And when the jubilee comes round for the sons of Israel, the property of these women will be added to the inheritance of the tribe to which they then belong, and lost to the inheritance of our own patriarchal tribe.'

5 Moses, at Yahweh's bidding, gave the following ruling to the sons of Israel.
 He said:

6 'The tribe of the sons of Joseph is in the right. •This is Yahweh's ruling for the daughters of Zelophehad: "They may marry whom they please, providing 7 they marry into a clan of their father's tribe. •The heritage of the sons of Israel is not to be transferred from tribe to tribe; every man of the sons of Israel is to 8 remain bound to the heritage of his patriarchal tribe. •Every daughter who has a heritage in one of the tribes of the sons of Israel must marry into a clan of her own paternal tribe, so that the sons of Israel may each preserve the heritage of his father. •No heritage may be transferred from one tribe to another: every 9 tribe of the sons of Israel will stay bound to its own heritage.”’

The daughters of Zelophehad did as Yahweh had ordered Moses. 10
Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah and Noah, daughters of Zelophehad, married 11
the sons of their father’s brothers. •Since they married into the clans of the 12 sons of Manasseh son of Joseph, their heritage reverted to the tribe of their father’s clan.

These are the commandments and laws that Yahweh laid down for the sons 13 of Israel through Moses in the plains of Moab near the Jordan opposite Jericho.

ORGANISING THE POST-EXILIC COMMUNITY

By 538 B.C. the Persians had completed their conquest of the Babylonian Empire and were firmly in control of Mesopotamia and the coastal region at the eastern end of the Mediterranean Sea. King Cyrus could turn his attention towards the problem of displaced national groups, amongst whom were the Hebrews exiled from Jerusalem and Judaea in 598 and 587 B.C. As part of the Persian policy towards all the people who had been exiled by the Babylonians, Cyrus authorised the return to Palestine of any of the Hebrew exiles who wished to return. The Temple treasures looted by the Babylonians were returned to the Hebrews and their resettlement was supported by funds from the Persian treasury. In the event it appears that a majority of the Jews preferred to remain in Mesopotamia, where some of them had been living for sixty years, rather than face making a new beginning in Palestine. The beginning of the 'diaspora' may be seen here, settlements of Jews living outside Palestine but retaining their national identity and with their worship centred on the local synagogue rather than the Temple in Jerusalem.

The returned exiles laid the foundations for a new Temple. The Samaritans (descendants of the people whom the Assyrians had settled in the old northern Hebrew kingdom in 721 B.C.) and the people from the southern kingdom who had been spared the exile, asked to assist with the work of rebuilding the Temple, but the newly returned exiles refused their co-operation. Naturally enough, the people who had remained in Palestine resented this attitude and hindered the work of rebuilding.

A series of poor harvests added to the disillusionment. The remaining chapters of the book of Isaiah, Isaiah 56-66, belong to this situation. The glorious resurrection of Jerusalem is foretold, together with vengeance on the people's enemies; but at the same time pagan converts are welcomed. It offers encouragement to people struggling against unexpected difficulties.

By 522 B.C. the whole of the Near East, including Egypt, was under Persian rule. At the death of Cambyses (Cyrus's son and successor) in 522 B.C. there was a year of disorders before Darius I gained firm control. The Temple had still not been completed. The prophet Haggai urged the Jewish community to press on with the work on the Temple and warned the people that the poor harvests would continue until the work was finished. The disorders in the Persian empire inspired further predictions of an intervention by Yahweh in the writings of Zechariah 1-8 (the later chapters are the work of a later author). The vagueness and uncertainty are beginning to show in the use of images which are not easy to interpret. There had always been some use of such imagery in the prophetic writings, but they are now beginning to dominate to an extent which points forward to the obscurity of apocalyptic. The Temple was completed and dedicated in 515 B.C.

Malachi and Obadiah should probably be placed somewhere in the next fifty years, when the new community had settled down and begun to develop towards the exclusive rigidity which became one of its main features. Malachi is an indictment of priests who neglect their official duties, of people who fail to pay their tithes, and of marriages with foreign women which threaten the purity of the Yahweh worship. Obadiah's work is a call for vengeance against the people of Edom, the small kingdom just south of the Dead Sea. The Edomites had assisted the Babylonians in the destruction of Jerusalem, and had then occupied the southern part of Palestine during the period of the Exile.

The only explicit sources of information available for the history of the early post-exilic community are the books of Ezra and Nehemiah. Both books were compiled long after the events they describe, and although they use and quote documents contemporary with these events, the order in which they present the events is not always the order in which the events occurred. There is also the question of whether it is King Artaxerxes I (465-423 B.C.) who is referred to in Ezra 7:7, or Artaxerxes II (404-358 B.C.). The second of these views is the one which has been followed in arranging the texts for this section; this view places Ezra's visit to Jerusalem after both of Nehemiah's visits, during the reign of Artaxerxes II.

Nehemiah was a Jew who held an official position in the Persian court which gave him access to the king, Artaxerxes I. The Jewish community in Jerusalem had completed the Temple seventy years earlier, but opposition from the Samaritans, who had obtained an official decree supporting their objections (Ezra 4:6-23), prevented the rebuilding of the fortifications of Jerusalem. Nehemiah obtained permission from the king to go to Jerusalem and fortify the city. This he achieved in 445-443 B.C., despite the continued opposition of the Jews in Samaria and the local Persian governor, Sanballat. The walls were rebuilt under the protection of armed guards. Before leaving again, Nehemiah gave the community regulations forbidding foreign marriages (but allowing existing ones to continue), regulating the worship in the Temple and arranging for its financial support by the people.

Nehemiah returned to Jerusalem towards the end of Artaxerxes' reign, which ended in 423 B.C., corrected various abuses which had crept in since his previous visit and reinforced the regulations he had made.

The visit of Ezra to Jerusalem in 398 B.C. marks a further vital stage in the development of post-exilic Judaism. He was sent as the Persian minister responsible for Jewish affairs to give the Jerusalem community the official law by which they were to live. There is no absolute certainty about the contents of this law, but it is probable that it was the first five books of the Old Testament very much in the form in which we now have them. This 'five-fold law', the Pentateuch, was the work of the Jewish priestly editors in Babylon, who had incorporated a great deal of earlier material in their work with very little alteration of style or content.

The law was read to the people and expounded, and Ezra took Nehemiah's marriage regulations one stage further by dissolving all existing marriages with foreign women, thus reinforcing the strict exclusiveness of the community.

The two books of Chronicles belong to the same school of historical writing as Ezra and Nehemiah. They reflect the views of the priestly school of editors. The period covered by the two books is roughly the same as the books of Samuel and of Kings, but they present the history in a more idealised form, with particular emphasis on the Temple in Jerusalem, the priesthood and the sacrificial cult. As in the opening chapters of Genesis, genealogies are used to show the various stages of the history of salvation and their connection with the saving acts of God at the creation of the world.

The authors of Chronicles were primarily concerned to strengthen the post-exilic Jewish community centred on Jerusalem, and to reassure them that the law by which they were living was the guarantee of God's special concern for the people whom he had chosen.

THE RETURN FROM EXILE AND THE REBUILDING OF THE TEMPLE

The return of the exiles

Now in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia<sup>1</sup>, to fulfil the word of Yahweh that was spoken through Jeremiah<sup>2</sup>, Yahweh roused the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia to issue a proclamation and to have it publicly displayed throughout his kingdom: 'Thus speaks Cyrus king of Persia, "Yahweh, the God of heaven, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth; he has ordered me to build him a Temple in Jerusalem, in Judah. Whoever there is among you of all his people, may his God be with him! Let him go up to Jerusalem in Judah to build the Temple of Yahweh, the God of Israel—he is the God who is in Jerusalem. And let each survivor, wherever he lives, be helped by the people of that place with silver and gold, with goods and cattle, as well as voluntary offerings for the Temple of God which is in Jerusalem."'

Then the heads of families of Judah and of Benjamin, the priests and the Levites, in fact all whose spirit had been roused by God, prepared to go and rebuild the Temple of Yahweh in Jerusalem; and all their neighbours gave them every assistance with silver, gold, goods, cattle, quantities of costly gifts and with voluntary offerings of every kind.

King Cyrus took the vessels of the Temple of Yahweh which Nebuchadnezzar had carried away from Jerusalem and dedicated to the temple of his god. Cyrus, king of Persia, handed them over to Mithredath, the treasurer, who counted them out to Sheshbazzar, the prince of Judah. The inventory was as follows: thirty golden bowls for offerings; one thousand and twenty-nine silver bowls for offerings; thirty golden bowls; four hundred and ten silver bowls; one thousand other vessels. In all, five thousand four hundred vessels of gold and silver. Sheshbazzar took all these with him when the exiles travelled back from Babylon to Jerusalem.

The list of the returning exiles

These were the people of the province who returned from captivity and exile. After being deported to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, they returned to Jerusalem and to Judah, each to his own town. They

and Immer, could not prove that their families and ancestry were of Israelite origin: sons of Delaiah, sons of Tobiah, sons of Nekoda: six hundred and fifty-two. And among the priests: sons of Habaiah, sons of Hakkoz, sons of Barzillai, who had married one of the daughters of Barzillai, the Gileadite, whose name he adopted. These people searched in their ancestral registers but could not be located in them, so they were excluded from the priesthood as unclean and His Excellency<sup>1</sup> forbade them to eat the sacred foods until a priest could be found for the Urim and Thummim.<sup>2</sup>

The whole assembly numbered forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty people, not counting their slaves and maidservants to the number of seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven. They also had two hundred male and female singers. Their horses numbered seven hundred and thirty-six, their mules two hundred and forty-five, their camels four hundred and thirty-five and their donkeys six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

When they arrived at the Temple of Yahweh in Jerusalem, a certain number of heads of families made voluntary offerings for the Temple of God, for its rebuilding on its site. In accordance with their means they gave sixty-one thousand gold drachmas, five thousand silver minas and one hundred priestly robes to the sacred funds.

The priests, Levites and part of the people settled in Jerusalem; the gatekeepers, cantors, oblates and all the other Israelites, in their own towns.

The resumption of worship

When the seventh month came and the sons of Israel were in their own towns, they all gathered as one man in Jerusalem. Jeshua son of Jozadak, with his brother priests, and Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, with his brothers, began to rebuild the altar of the God of Israel, to offer holocausts there, as it is written in the Law of Moses the man of God. The altar was set up on its old site, despite their fear of the surrounding peoples, and on it they offered holocausts to Yahweh, holocausts morning and evening; they celebrated the feast of Tabernacles, according to the written Law, with as many daily holocausts as are ordained for each day; then, in addition to the perpetual holocaust, they offered those prescribed for the sabbaths, New Moon feasts and all the solemnities sacred to Yahweh, as well as those voluntary offerings made by individuals to Yahweh. From the first day of the seventh month they began offering holocausts to Yahweh, though the foundations of the sanctuary of Yahweh had not yet been laid.

Then they gave money to the masons and carpenters; to the Sidonians and Tyrians they gave food, drink and oil, so that they would bring cedar wood from Lebanon by sea to Jaffa, for which Cyrus king of Persia had given permission. It was in the second month of the second year after their arrival at the Temple of God in Jerusalem that Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak, with the rest of their brothers, the priests, the Levites and all the people who had returned to Jerusalem from captivity, began the work; they appointed the Levites who were twenty years old or more to superintend the work on the Temple of Yahweh. So Jeshua, his sons and his brothers, with Kadmiel, Binnui and Hodaviah, agreed to superintend the workmen at the Temple of God. When the builders had laid the foundations of the sanctuary of Yahweh, the priests in fine linen came with trumpets, and the Levites, the sons of Asaph, with cymbals, to praise Yahweh according to the ordinances of David king of Israel; they chanted praise and thanksgiving to Yahweh, 'For he is good, for his love for Israel is everlasting'. And all the people shouted aloud the praises of Yahweh, since the foundations of the Temple of Yahweh had now been laid. True, many priests and Levites, many heads of families, who were then old and had seen with their own eyes the earlier Temple on its foundations, wept aloud, but many others raised their voices in shouts of joy. And nobody could distinguish the shouts of joy from the sound of the people's weeping; for the people shouted so loudly that the noise could be heard far away.

An indictment of the Samaritans: their tactics under Cyrus

But when the enemies of Judah and Benjamin heard that the exiles were building a sanctuary for Yahweh, the God of Israel, they came to Zerubbabel and Jeshua and the heads of families and said, 'We would like to build with you, for we seek your God as you do and we have sacrificed to him since the time of Esarhaddon king of Assyria, who brought us here'. Zerubbabel, Jeshua, and the other heads of Israelite families replied, 'It is not right that you should join us in building a Temple for our God; we alone may build for Yahweh, the God of Israel, as we were ordered by Cyrus king of Persia'. Then the people of the country<sup>3</sup> set out to dishearten and frighten the people of Judah from building any further; they lured counsellors against them, to defeat their purpose. This lasted throughout the reign of Cyrus king of Persia and until the reign of Darius king of Persia.

Samaritan tactics under Xerxes and Artaxerxes

At the beginning of the reign of Xerxes<sup>4</sup> they lodged a complaint against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.

In the time of Artaxerxes,<sup>5</sup> Mithredath, Tabeel and the rest of their colleagues denounced Jerusalem in writing to Artaxerxes king of Persia. The text of the document was in the Aramaic script and the Aramaic language.

Then Rehum the governor<sup>6</sup> and Shimshai the secretary wrote the following letter denouncing Jerusalem to King Artaxerxes—Rehum the governor and Shimshai the secretary and the rest of their colleagues, the judges and legates, Persian officials, the people of Uruk, Babylon and Susa—that is, the Elamites—and the other peoples whom Assurbanipal the Great deported and settled in the towns of Samaria and in the rest of Transeuphrates.<sup>7</sup>

This is a copy of the letter they sent:

'To King Artaxerxes, from your servants, the people of Transeuphrates: 'Whereas the king should be informed that the Jews, who have come up from your country to Jerusalem, are now rebuilding that rebellious and wicked city; they are working to restore the walls, and the foundations are already laid, and whereas the king should be informed that if this city is rebuilt and the walls are restored, they will refuse to pay tribute, customs or tolls, and that in short this city will damage the authority of the kings, and whereas, because we eat the salt of the palace, it does not seem proper to us to see this affront offered to the king; we therefore send this information to the king so that a search may be made in the archives of your ancestors: in which archives you will find it proved that this city is a rebellious city, the bane of the kings and the provinces, and that sedition has been stirred up there from ancient times; which is why this city was destroyed. We inform the king that if this city is rebuilt and its walls are restored, you will soon have no territories left in Transeuphrates.'

The king sent this reply:

'To Rehum the governor, to Shimshai the secretary, and to the rest of their colleagues resident in Samaria and elsewhere in Transeuphrates, peace!

'Whereas the document you sent to me has been translated and read before me, and by my orders search has been made, and it has been found that from ancient times this city has risen against kings and that rebellion and sedition have been contrived in it; and that powerful kings have reigned in Jerusalem, who dominated all Transeuphrates, exacting tribute, customs and tolls, you must now order the work of these men to cease immediately: this city is not to be rebuilt until I give further orders. Beware of negligence in this matter lest further harm be done to the king's interests.'

As soon as the copy of King Artaxerxes' document had been read before Rehum the governor, Shimshai the secretary and their colleagues, they hurried to the Jews in Jerusalem and stopped their work by force of arms.

The building of the Temple (520-515 B.C.)

Thus the work on the Temple of God in Jerusalem was brought to a standstill; it remained interrupted until the second year of the reign of Darius king of Persia.

Then the prophets Haggai and Zechariah son of Iddo began to prophesy to the Jews of Judah and Jerusalem in the name of the God of Israel who was with them. At this, Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel and Jeshua son of Jozadak started again to build the Temple of God in Jerusalem; the prophets of God were with the people, giving them courage. It was then that Tattenai, satrap of Transeuphrates, Shethar-bozenai and their colleagues came to them and asked, 'Who gave you authority to build this Temple and to do this woodwork? What are the names of the men responsible for this building?' But the eyes of their God were on the elders of the Jews; they were not compelled to stop while a report on the matter was sent to Darius and an official edict awaited.

Copy of the letter that Tattenai, satrap of Transeuphrates, Shethar-bozenai and his colleagues, the officials in Transeuphrates, sent to King Darius. They sent a report to him which ran as follows:

'To King Darius, all peace! The king should be informed that we went to the district of Judah, to the Temple of the great God: it is being built of blocks of stone; the walls are being panelled with wood; the work is being done with great care and makes progress in their hands. Questioning the elders, we asked, "Who gave you authority to build this Temple and to do this woodwork?" We also asked their names so that you might be informed; hence we have been able to list the names of those who are superintending these men.

'They gave us this answer, "We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth; we are rebuilding a Temple which until recently had been standing for many years and which was built and finished by a great king of Israel. But our ancestors angered the God of heaven and he delivered them into the power of Nebuchadnezzar the Chaldaean, king of Babylon, who destroyed that Temple and deported the people to Babylon. In the first year of Cyrus king of Babylon, however, King Cyrus authorised the rebuilding of this Temple of God; furthermore, those vessels of gold and silver belonging to the Temple of God, which Nebuchadnezzar had removed from the sanctuary in Jerusalem and taken to that of Babylon, King Cyrus in turn removed from the sanctuary in Babylon and handed back to a man called Sheshbazzar, whom he appointed high commissioner, with the words: Take these vessels; go and return them to the sanctuary in Jerusalem and let the Temple of God be rebuilt on its original site; the aforesaid Sheshbazzar therefore came and laid the foundations of the Temple of God in Jerusalem; they have been building it ever since, and it is still not finished."

'Wherefore, if it please the king, let search be made in the king's muniment rooms in Babylon, to find out if it is true that King Cyrus gave permission for the rebuilding of this Temple of God in Jerusalem. And let the king's decision on this matter be sent to us.'

Then, on the order of King Darius, a search was made in Babylonia in the muniment rooms where the archives were kept; at Ecbatana, the fortress situated in the province of Media, a scroll was found which ran thus:

'Memorandum.

'In the first year of Cyrus the king, King Cyrus decreed:

"Temple of God in Jerusalem.

"The Temple will be rebuilt as a place at which sacrifices are offered and to which offerings are brought to be burnt. Its height is to be sixty cubits, its width sixty cubits. There are to be three thicknesses of stone blocks and one of wood. The expense is to be met by the king's household. Furthermore, the vessels of gold and silver from the Temple of God which Nebuchadnezzar took from the sanctuary in Jerusalem and brought to Babylon are to be restored so that everything may be restored to the sanctuary in Jerusalem and be put back in the Temple of God."

'Wherefore, Tattenai, satrap of Transeuphrates, Shethar-bozenai and you, their colleagues, the officials of Transeuphrates, withdraw from there; leave the high commissioner of Judah and the elders of the Jews to work on this Temple of God; they are to rebuild this Temple of God on its ancient site. This, I decree, is how you must assist the elders of the Jews in the reconstruction of this Temple of God: the expenses of these people are to be paid, promptly and without fail, from the royal revenue—that is, from the tribute of Transeuphrates. What they need for holocausts to the God of heaven: young bulls, rams and lambs, as also wheat, salt, wine and oil, is to be supplied to them daily, without fail, as required by the priests of Jerusalem, so that they may offer acceptable sacrifices to the God of heaven and pray for the lives of the king and his sons. I also decree this: If anyone disobeys this edict, a beam is to be torn from his house, he is to be pilloried upright on it and his house is to be made into a dung heap for this crime. May the God who causes his name to live there overthrow any king or people who dares to defy this and destroy the Temple of God in Jerusalem! I, Darius, have issued this decree. Let it be obeyed to the letter!

Then Tattenai, satrap of Transeuphrates, Shethar-bozenai and their colleagues obeyed to the letter the instructions sent by King Darius. The elders of the Jews, for their part, prospered with their building, inspired by Haggai the prophet and Zechariah son of Iddo. They finished the building in accordance with the order of the God of Israel and the order of Cyrus and of Darius. This Temple was finished on the twenty-third day of the month of Adar; it was the sixth year of the reign of King Darius.<sup>1</sup> The Israelites—the priests, the Levites and the remainder of the exiles—joyfully dedicated this Temple of God; for the dedication of this Temple of God they offered one hundred bulls, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs and, as a sacrifice for sin for the whole of Israel, twelve he-goats, corresponding to the number of the tribes of Israel. Then they installed the priests according to their orders in the service of the Temple of God in Jerusalem, as is written in the Book of Moses.

The Passover of 515 B.C.

The exiles celebrated the Passover on the fourteenth day of the first month. The Levites, as one man, had purified themselves; all were pure, so they sacrificed the passover for all the exiles, for their brothers the priests and for themselves. The following ate the passover: the Israelites who had returned from exile and all those who, having broken with the impurity of the surrounding peoples, joined them to seek Yahweh, the God of Israel. For seven days they joyfully celebrated the feast of Unleavened Bread, for Yahweh had given them cause to rejoice, having moved the heart of the king of Assyria to encourage their work on the Temple of God, the God of Israel.

ISAIAH 56—66

Yahweh welcomes converts from paganism

- 1 56 Thus says Yahweh: Have a care for justice, act with integrity, for soon
my salvation will come and my integrity be manifest.
- 2 Blessed is the man who does this and the son of man who clings to it: observing the sabbath, not profaning it, and keeping his hand from every evil deed.
- 3 Let no foreigner who has attached himself to Yahweh say, 'Yahweh will surely exclude me from his people'. Let no eunuch say, 'And I, I am a dried-up tree'.
- 4 For Yahweh says this: To the eunuchs who observe my sabbaths, and 5 resolve to do what pleases me and cling to my covenant, •I will give, in my house and within my walls, a monument and a name better than sons and daughters; I will give them an everlasting name that shall never be effaced.
- 6 Foreigners who have attached themselves to Yahweh to serve him and to love his name and be his servants—•all who observe the sabbath, not profaning 7 it, and cling to my covenant—•these I will bring to my holy mountain. I will make them joyful in my house of prayer. Their holocausts and their sacrifices will be accepted on my altar, for my house will be called a house of prayer for all the peoples.
- 8 It is the Lord Yahweh who speaks, who gathers the outcasts of Israel: there are others I will gather besides those already gathered.

The unworthiness of the leaders of Judah

- 9 Come and gorge, all you wild beasts,
all you beasts of the forest.
- 10 Our watchmen are all blind,
they notice nothing.
- Dumb watchdogs all,
unable to bark,
they dream, lie down,
and love to sleep.
- 11 Greedy dogs that are never satisfied.
Shepherds who know nothing.
They all go their own way,
each after his own interest.
- 12 'Come, let me fetch wine;
we will get drunk on strong drink,
tomorrow will be just as wonderful as today
and even more so!'
- 1 57 The upright perish
and no one cares.
Devout men are taken off
and no one gives it a thought.

Yes, on account of evil the upright man is taken off to enter peace. 2
They lie on their beds
those who followed the right way.
But you, you sons of a witch, come here, 3
offspring of the adulterer and the whore.
At whom are you jeering, and making faces,
and sticking out your tongue? 4
Are you not the spawn of sin,
children of lies?
Lusting among the terebinths, 5
and under every spreading tree, sacrificing children in the wadis
and in rocky clefts.

Prophetic elegy against idolatry

The smooth stones of the wadis, these are your share, 6
these, these your portion.
To these you pour libations,
bring oblations.
Can all this appease me?
On a mountain high and lofty 7
you have put your bed.
Thither, too, you have climbed to offer sacrifice.
Behind door and doorpost 8
you have set up your sign.<sup>a</sup>
Yes, far removed from me, you unroll your bedding,
climb into it and spread it wide.
You have struck a pact with those whose bed you love, whoring with them often
with your eyes on the sacred symbol.
With oil you made yourself look your best for Molech, 9
lavishing your scents;
you sent your envoys far afield,
down to Sheol itself.<sup>b</sup> Tired with so much journeying, 10
you never said, 'I give up'.
Finding your strength revived,
you never weakened.
Who was it you dreaded, and feared, 11
that you should disown me
and not remember me,
and refuse me a place in your heart?
Meanwhile I kept silent and shut my eyes, did I not?
So you cannot have been afraid of me.
But now I will expose this integrity of yours 12
and your futile actions.
When you cry, let your hateful idols save you! 13

The wind will carry them all away,
 a breath will take them off.
 But whoever trusts in me shall inherit the land
 and own my holy mountain.

A poem of consolation

- 14 It shall be said:
 Open up, open up, clear the way,
 remove all obstacles from the way of my people.
- 15 For thus speaks the Most High,
 whose home is in eternity,
 whose name is holy:
 'I live in a high and holy place,
 but I am also with the contrite and humbled spirit,
 to give the humbled spirit new life,
 to revive contrite hearts.
- 16 'For I will not quarrel for ever nor be always angry,
 for then the spirit would give way before me,
 the very souls I have made.
- 17 'Angered by his wicked brutality,
 I hid my face and struck him in anger.
 Like a rebel he went the way of his choice;
 but I have seen the way he went.
- 18 'But I will heal him, and console him,
 I will comfort him to the full,
 both him and his afflicted fellows,
 bringing praise to their lips.
 Peace, peace to far and near,
 I will indeed heal him' says Yahweh.
- 19
- 20 The wicked however are like the restless sea
 that cannot be still,
 and washes up mud and slime.
- 21 'No peace' says my God 'for the wicked.'

Fasting

- 1 58 Shout for all you are worth,
 raise your voice like a trumpet.
 Proclaim their faults to my people,
 their sins to the House of Jacob.
- 2 They seek me day after day,
 they long to know my ways,
 like a nation that wants to act with integrity
 and not ignore the law of its God.
- They ask me for laws that are just,
 they long for God to draw near:
- 3 'Why should we fast if you never see it,
 why do penance if you never notice?'
- Look, you do business on your fastdays,
 you oppress all your workmen;

57 a. A domestic idol. b. By sacrificing children.

- look, you quarrel and squabble when you fast and strike the poor man with your fist. 4
- Fasting like yours today
will never make your voice heard on high.
Is that the sort of fast that pleases me, 5
a truly penitential day for men?
- Hanging your head like a reed,
lying down on sackcloth and ashes?
Is that what you call fasting,
a day acceptable to Yahweh?
- Is not this the sort of fast that pleases me 6
—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks—
to break unjust fetters
and undo the thongs of the yoke,
to let the oppressed go free,
and break every yoke,
to share your bread with the hungry, 7
and shelter the homeless poor,
to clothe the man you see to be naked
and not turn from your own kin?
Then will your light shine like the dawn 8
and your wound be quickly healed over.
- Your integrity will go before you and the glory of Yahweh behind you.
Cry, and Yahweh will answer; 9
call, and he will say, 'I am here'.
- If you do away with the yoke,
the clenched fist, the wicked word,
if you give your bread to the hungry, 10
and relief to the oppressed,
your light will rise in the darkness,
and your shadows become like noon.
Yahweh will always guide you, 11
giving you relief in desert places.
- He will give strength to your bones
and you shall be like a watered garden,
like a spring of water
whose waters never run dry.
- You will rebuild the ancient ruins, 12
build up on the old foundations.
You will be called 'Breach-mender',
'Restorer of ruined houses'.

The sabbath

- If you refrain from trampling the sabbath, 13
and doing business on the holy day,
if you call the sabbath 'Delightful',
and the day sacred to Yahweh 'Honourable',
if you honour it by abstaining from travel,
from doing business and from gossip,

- 14 then shall you find your happiness in Yahweh
and I will lead you triumphant over the heights of the land.
I will feed you on the heritage of Jacob your father.
For the mouth of Yahweh has spoken.

A psalm

- 1 59 No, the hand of Yahweh is not too short to save,
nor his ear too dull to hear.
- 2 But your iniquities have made a gulf between you and your God.
Your sins have made him veil his face
so as not to hear you,
- 3 since your hands are stained with blood,
your fingers with crime,
your lips utter lies,
your tongues murmur treachery.
- 4 No one makes just accusations or pleads sincerely.
All rely on nothingness, utter falsehood,
conceive harm and give birth to misery.
- 5 They are hatching adders' eggs
and weaving a spider's web;
eat one of their eggs and you die,
crush one and a viper emerges.
- 6 Their webs are no good for clothing,
their plots no use for covering.
Their plans are sinful plots,
violence is their only method.
- 7 Their feet run to do evil,
are quick to shed innocent blood.
Their thoughts are sinful thoughts,
wherever they go there is havoc and ruin.
- 8 They know nothing of the way of peace,
there is no equity in their paths.
Twisty trails they clear for themselves and no one who follows them knows any peace.
- 9 So justice is removed far away from us,
and integrity keeps its distance.
We looked for light and all is darkness,
for brightness and we walk in the dark.
- 10 Like the blind we feel our way along walls and hesitate like men without eyes.
We stumble as though noon were twilight
and dwell in the dark like the dead.
- 11 We growl, all of us, like bears,
and moan like doves,
waiting for the justice that never comes,
for salvation that is removed far away from us.
- 12 For our faults in your sight have been many
and our sins are a witness against us.
And indeed our faults are present to our minds,
and we know our iniquities:
- 13 rebellion and denial of Yahweh,
turning our back on our God,
talking treachery and revolt,

murmuring lies in our heart.
 Justice is withheld 14
 and integrity stands aloof;
 in the public square sincerity is brought to its knees
 and uprightness forbidden to enter.

Fragments of an apocalypse

Sincerity is missing 15
 and he who avoids evil is robbed.
 Yahweh has seen this, and is indignant
 that there is no justice to be seen.
 He saw there was no one 16
 and wondered there was no one to intervene.
 So he made his own arm his mainstay,
 his own integrity his support.
 He put integrity on like a breastplate, 17
 and on his head the helmet of salvation.
 He put vengeance on like a tunic
 and wrapped himself in ardour like a cloak.
 To each he will pay his due, 18
 wrath to his enemies, reprisals on his foes.
 In the west men will see the name of Yahweh 19
 and in the east his glory;
 for he shall come like a pent-up stream
 impelled by the breath of Yahweh.
 But for Zion he will come as Redeemer, 20
 for those of Jacob who turn from their faults.
 It is Yahweh who speaks.

Oracle

For my part, this is my covenant with them, says Yahweh. My spirit with 21 which I endowed you, and my words that I have put in your mouth, will not disappear from your mouth, nor from the mouths of your children, nor from the mouths of your children's children for ever and ever, says Yahweh.

The glorious resurrection of Jerusalem

60 Arise, shine out, for your light has come, 1
 the glory of Yahweh is rising on you, though night still covers the earth 2
 and darkness the peoples.

Above you Yahweh now rises
 and above you his glory appears.
 The nations come to your light 3
 and kings to your dawning brightness.

Lift up your eyes and look round: 4
 all are assembling and coming towards you,
 your sons from far away
 and your daughters being tenderly carried.

At this sight you will grow radiant, 5
 your heart throbbing and full;
 since the riches of the sea will flow to you,
 the wealth of the nations come to you;

camels in throngs will cover you, 6
 and dromedaries of Midian and Ephah;

everyone in Sheba will come,
 bringing gold and incense
 and singing the praise of Yahweh.

7 All the flocks of Kedar will gather inside you,
 the rams of Nebaioth<sup>a</sup> will be at your service.
 They will come up, for acceptance, to my altar,
 to adorn the Temple of my glory.

8 Who are these flying like a cloud,
 like doves to their cote?

9 Yes, for me the ships are assembling,
 vessels of Tarshish in the front,
 to bring your sons from far away,
 and their silver and gold with them,
 for the sake of the name of Yahweh your God,
 for the sake of the Holy One of Israel who has made you glorious.

10 Foreigners will rebuild your walls
 and their kings will be your servants.
 For though I struck you in anger,
 in mercy I have pitied you.

11 And your gates will lie open continually,
 shut neither by day nor by night,
 for men to bring you the wealth of the nations
 with their kings leading them;
 12 for the nation and kingdom that refuses to serve you shall perish, such nations shall be utterly ruined.

13 The glory of Lebanon<sup>b</sup> will come to you,
 with cypress and plane and box,
 to adorn the site of my sanctuary,
 to glorify the resting place of my feet.

14 The sons of your oppressors will come to you bowing,
 at your feet shall fall all who despised you.
 They will call you 'City of Yahweh',
 'Zion of the Holy One of Israel'.

15 Though you have been abandoned,
 and hated and shunned,
 I will make you an eternal pride,
 a joy for ever and ever.

16 You will be suckled on the milk of nations,
 suckled on the riches of kings,
 and you shall know that I, Yahweh, am your saviour,
 that your redeemer is the Mighty One of Jacob.

17 For bronze I will bring gold;
 for iron, silver;
 and bronze for wood;
 and iron for stone;
 I will put Peace in as magistrate,
 and Integrity as the government.

18 Violence will no longer be heard of in your country,
 nor devastation and ruin within your frontiers.

60 a. Kedar, a bedouin tribe; Nebaioth, a tribe of Arabia. b. Cedar wood.

You will call your walls 'Salvation'
and your gates 'Praise'.

No more will the sun give you daylight,
nor moonlight shine on you,
but Yahweh will be your everlasting light,
your God will be your splendour. 19

Your sun will set no more nor your moon wane,
but Yahweh will be your everlasting light
and your days of mourning will be ended. 20

Your people will all be upright, possessing the land for ever;
a shoot that Yahweh has planted,
my handiwork, designed for beauty. 21

The least among you will become a clan
and the smallest a mighty nation. 22
I, Yahweh, have spoken;
in due time I shall act with speed.

The mission of the prophet

61 The spirit of the Lord Yahweh has been given to me, for Yahweh has anointed me. 1
He has sent me to bring good news to the poor,
to bind up hearts that are broken;
to proclaim liberty to captives,
freedom to those in prison;
to proclaim a year of favour from Yahweh,
a day of vengeance for our God, 2
to comfort all those who mourn and to give them
for ashes a garland;
for mourning robe the oil of gladness,
for despondency, praise. 3
They are to be called 'terebinth of integrity', planted by Yahweh to glorify him.
They will rebuild the ancient ruins,
they will raise what has long lain waste,
they will restore the ruined cities,
all that has lain waste for ages past. 4
Strangers will be there to feed your flocks, foreigners as your ploughmen and vinedressers;
but you, you will be named 'priests of Yahweh',
they will call you 'ministers of our God'. 5
You will feed on the wealth of nations and array yourselves in their magnificence. 6
For their shame was twofold, disgrace and spitting their lot. 7
Twofold therefore shall they possess in their land,
everlasting joy is theirs.
For I, Yahweh, love justice,
I hate robbery and all that is wrong. 8

I reward them faithfully
and make an everlasting covenant with them.

9 Their race will be famous throughout the nations,
their descendants throughout the peoples.
All who see them will admit that they are a race whom Yahweh has blessed.

10 'I exult for joy in Yahweh,
my soul rejoices in my God,
for he has clothed me in the garments of salvation,
he has wrapped me in the cloak of integrity,
like a bridegroom wearing his wreath,
like a bride adorned in her jewels.

11 'For as the earth makes fresh things grow,
as a garden makes seeds spring up,
so will the Lord Yahweh make both integrity and praise
spring up in the sight of the nations.'

Second poem on the glorious resurrection of Jerusalem

1 62 About Zion I will not be silent, about Jerusalem I will not grow weary,
until her integrity shines out like the dawn
and her salvation flames like a torch.

2 The nations then will see your integrity,
all the kings your glory,
and you will be called by a new name,
one which the mouth of Yahweh will confer.

3 You are to be a crown of splendour in the hand of Yahweh,
a princely diadem in the hand of your God;
4 no longer are you to be named 'Forsaken',
nor your land 'Abandoned',
but you shall be called 'My Delight'
and your land 'The Wedded';
for Yahweh takes delight in you and your land will have its wedding.

5 Like a young man marrying a virgin,
so will the one who built you wed you,
and as the bridegroom rejoices in his bride,
so will your God rejoice in you.

6 On your walls, Jerusalem,
I set watchmen.
Day or night
they must never be silent.

You who keep Yahweh mindful must take no rest.
7 Nor let him take rest
till he has restored Jerusalem, and made her
the boast of the earth.

8 Yahweh has sworn it by his right hand
and by his mighty arm:
Never again shall I give your corn
to feed your enemies.

Never again will foreigners drink your wine
that you laboured for.

But those who gather the harvest will eat it and praise Yahweh. 9
Those who gathered the grapes will drink
in the courts of my sanctuary.

Conclusion

Pass through, pass through the gates. 10
Make a way for the people.
Bank up, bank up the highway,
clear it of stones.
Hoist the signal for the peoples.

This Yahweh proclaims 11
to the ends of the earth:

Say to the daughter of Zion, 'Look,
your saviour comes,
the prize of his victory with him,
his trophies before him'.
They shall be called 'The Holy People', 12
'Yahweh's Redeemed'.
And you shall be called 'The-sought-after',
'City-not-forsaken'.

An apocalyptic poem on the vengeance of Yahweh

63

Who is this coming from Edom, 1
from Bozrah in garments stained with crimson,
so richly clothed,
marching so full of strength?
—It is I, who speak of integrity and am powerful to save.

—Why are your garments red, 2
your clothes as if you had trodden the winepress?

—I have trodden the winepress alone. 3
Of the men of my people not one was with me.
In my anger I trod them down,
trampled them in my wrath.
Their juice spattered my garments,
and all my clothes are stained.

For in my heart was a day of vengeance, 4
my year of redemption had come.
I looked: there was no one to help; 5
aghast: not one could I find to support me.
My own arm then was my mainstay,
my wrath my support.
I crushed the people in my fury, 6
trampled them in my anger,
and made the juice of them run all over the ground.

A psalm

Let me sing the praises of Yahweh's goodness, 7
and of his marvellous deeds,

in return for all that he has done for us
and for the great kindness
he has shown us in his mercy
and in his boundless goodness.

- 8 He said, 'Truly they are my people,
sons and no rogues'.
He proved himself their saviour
9 in all their troubles.
It was neither messenger nor angel
but his Presence that saved them.
In his love and pity
he redeemed them himself,
he lifted them up, carried them,
throughout the days of old.
10 But they rebelled, they grieved
his holy spirit.
Then he turned enemy,
and himself waged war on them.
11 They remembered the days of old,
of Moses his servant.
Where is he who brought out of the sea
the shepherd of his flock?
Where is he who endowed him
with his holy spirit, 12 who at the right hand of Moses set to work with his glorious arm, who divided the waters before them
to win himself everlasting renown, 13 who made them walk through the ocean
as easily as a horse through the desert?
14 They stumbled as little as an ox
going down to the plain.
The spirit of Yahweh led them to rest.
This is how you guided your people
to win yourself glorious renown.
- 15 Look down from heaven, look down
from your holy and glorious dwelling.
Where is your ardour, your might,
the yearning of your inmost heart?
Do not let your compassion go unmoved,
16 for you are our Father.
For Abraham does not own us
and Israel does not acknowledge us;
you, Yahweh, yourself are our Father,
Our Redeemer is your ancient name.
- 17 Why, Yahweh, leave us to stray from your ways and harden our hearts against fearing you?
Return, for the sake of your servants,
the tribes of your inheritance.
- 18 Why have the wicked set foot in your sanctuary,
why are our enemies trampling your sanctuary?
19 We have long been like people you do not rule,
people who do not bear your name.

Oh, that you would tear the heavens open and come down 1
 —at your Presence the mountains would melt, 2
 as fire sets brushwood alight, 1
 as fire causes water to boil—
 to make known your name to your enemies,
 and make the nations tremble at your Presence, working unexpected miracles 2
 such as no one has ever heard of before. 3 4
 No ear has heard,
 no eye has seen
 any god but you act like this
 for those who trust him.
 You guide those who act with integrity 4
 and keep your ways in mind. 3
 You were angry when we were sinners;
 we had long been rebels against you.
 We were all like men unclean, 5
 all that integrity of ours like filthy clothing. 6
 We have all withered like leaves
 and our sins blew us away like the wind.
 No one invoked your name 6
 or roused himself to catch hold of you. 7
 For you hid your face from us
 and gave us up to the power of our sins.
 And yet, Yahweh, you are our Father; 7
 we the clay, you the potter, 8
 we are all the work of your hand.
 Do not let your anger go too far, Yahweh, 8
 or go on thinking of our sins for ever. 9
 See, see, we are all your people;
 your holy cities are a wilderness, 9
 Zion a wilderness, 10
 Jerusalem a desolation,
 our holy and glorious Temple, 10
 in which our fathers prayed to you, 11
 is burnt to the ground;
 all that gave us pleasure lies in ruins.
 Yahweh, can you go unmoved by all of this, 11
 oppressing us beyond measure by your silence? 12

A diatribe against idolatry; eschatological discourse

65 I was ready to be approached by those who did not consult me, ready to 1 be found by those who did not seek me. I said, 'I am here, I am here', 1 to a nation that did not invoke my name. •Each day I stretched out my hand to 2 a rebellious people who went by evil ways, following their own whims, •a people 3 who provoked me to my face incessantly, sacrificing in gardens, burning incense on bricks, •living in tombs, spending nights in dark corners, eating the meat 4 of pigs, using unclean foods in their kitchens. •'Keep off,' they say 'do not 5 come near me, or I might sanctify you.' Such men are smoke in my nostrils, an ever burning fire. •See, it is inscribed in front of me; I will not be silent until 6
 I have settled my account with them •for their sins and their fathers' sins, says 7 Yahweh, those men who burned incense on the mountains and insulted me on the hills. I will pay them back in full all they deserve.

Yahweh says this: When new wine is found in a bunch of grapes people 8 say, 'Do not destroy it, it contains a blessing'. I shall do the same for the sake of those who serve me. I refuse to destroy the whole. •I will create a race from 9

- Jacob, and heirs to my mountains from Judah. My chosen shall inherit them, 10 my servants live in them. •Sharon will be a pasture for flocks, the Valley of Achor a feeding ground for oxen, for those of my people who have sought me.
- 11 But you who have abandoned Yahweh,
 and forgotten my holy mountain,
 who lay the table for Gad,
 who fill a cup for Meni,"
- 12 I commit you to the sword,
 all of you to fall in the slaughter.
 For I called and you would not answer,
 I spoke and you would not listen.
 You did what I consider evil,
 you chose to do what displeases me.
- 13 Therefore, thus speaks
 the Lord Yahweh:
 You shall see my servants eat
 while you go hungry.
 You shall see my servants drink
 while you go thirsty.
 You shall see my servants rejoice
 while you are put to shame.
- 14 You shall hear my servants sing
 for joy of heart,
 while you will moan
 for sadness of heart;
 you will wail for distress of spirit.

- 15 My chosen ones will use as a curse the name you leave behind: May the Lord Yahweh strike you dead. But my servants are to be given a new name.
- 16 Whoever asks to be blessed on earth will ask to be blessed by the God of truth, and whoever takes oath on earth will take oath by the God of truth, for 17 past troubles will be forgotten and hidden from my eyes. •For now I create new heavens and a new earth, and the past will not be remembered, and will come 18 no more to men's minds. •Be glad and rejoice for ever and ever for what I am 19 creating, because I now create Jerusalem 'Joy' and her people 'Gladness'. •I shall rejoice over Jerusalem and exult in my people. No more will the sound of weeping 20 or the sound of cries be heard in her; •in her, no more will be found the infant living a few days only, or the old man not living to the end of his days. To die at the age of a hundred will be dying young; not to live to be a hundred will be the 21 sign of a curse. •They will build houses and inhabit them, plant vineyards and 22 eat their fruit. •They will not build for others to live in, or plant so that others can eat. For my people shall live as long as trees, and my chosen ones wear out 23 what their hands have made. •They will not toil in vain or beget children to their own ruin, for they will be a race blessed by Yahweh, and their children 24 with them. •Long before they call I shall answer; before they stop speaking 25 I shall have heard. •The wolf and the young lamb will feed together, the lion eat straw like the ox, and dust will be the serpent's food. They will do no hurt, no harm on all my holy mountain, says Yahweh.<sup>b</sup>

Oracle

- <sup>1</sup> 66 Thus says Yahweh:
 With heaven my throne
 and earth my footstool,
 what house could you build me,
 what place could you make for my rest?

65 a. Gad and Meni are pagan gods. b. The quotations are from the poem which is ch. 11.

All of this was made by my hand and all of this is mine—it is Yahweh who speaks. 2
 But my eyes are drawn to the man of humbled and contrite spirit,
 who trembles at my word.

Against the intrusion of idolatrous practice

Some immolate an ox, some slaughter a man, 3
 some sacrifice a lamb, some strangle a dog.
 Some offer oblations of pig's blood,
 some burn memorial incense, some consecrate idols.
 Since they elect to follow their own ways
 and their souls delight in their abominations,
 I in my turn will select hardships for them 4
 and bring them what they dread;
 for I called and no one would answer,
 I spoke and they would not listen.
 They did what I consider evil,
 they chose to do what displeases me.

An apocalyptic poem

Listen to the word of Yahweh, 5
 you who tremble at his word.
 Your brothers say, who hate you,
 who reject you because of my name,
 'Let Yahweh show his glory,
 let us witness your joy!'
 But they shall be put to shame.

Listen. An uproar from the city! 6
 A voice from the Temple!
 The voice of Yahweh bringing retribution on his enemies.

Long before being in labour 7
 she has given birth.
 Before being overtaken by birth pangs,
 she has been delivered of a boy.

Who ever heard of such a thing, 8
 who ever saw anything like this?
 Is a country born
 in one day?

Is a nation brought forth
 all at once,
 that Zion only just in labour
 should bring forth sons?

Am I to open the womb and not bring to birth? 9 says Yahweh.
 Or I, who bring to birth, am I to close it?
 says your God.

Rejoice, Jerusalem, 10
 be glad for her, all you who love her!
 Rejoice, rejoice for her,
 all you who mourned her!

That you may be suckled, filled, 11
 from her consoling breast,

that you may savour with delight
her glorious breasts.

- 12 For thus says Yahweh:
Now towards her I send flowing peace, like a river,
and like a stream in spate
the glory of the nations.

At her breast will her nurslings be carried and fondled in her lap.

- 11 Like a son comforted by his mother
will I comfort you.
(And by Jerusalem you will be comforted.)

- 14 At the sight your heart will rejoice,
and your bones flourish like the grass.
To his servants Yahweh will reveal his hand,
but to his enemies his fury.

- 15 For see how Yahweh comes in fire,
his chariots like the tempest,
to assuage his anger with burning,
his threats with flaming fire.

- 16 For by fire will Yahweh execute judgement,
and by his sword, against all mankind.
The victims of Yahweh will be many.

A fragment condemning pagan mysteries

- 17 As for those who sanctify themselves and purify themselves to enter the gardens,
following the one in the centre,
who eat the flesh of pigs, reptiles, rats:
their deeds and their thoughts shall end all at once
—it is Yahweh who speaks.

An eschatological discourse

- 118 I am coming to gather the nations of every language. They shall come to 119 witness my glory. •I will give them a sign and send some of their survivors to the nations: to Tarshish, Put, Lud, Moshech, Rosh, Tubal, and Javan, to the distant islands<sup>a</sup> that have never heard of me or seen my glory. They will proclaim 120 my glory to the nations. •As an offering to Yahweh they will bring all your brothers, on horses, in chariots, in litters, on mules, on dromedaries, from all the nations to my holy mountain in Jerusalem, says Yahweh, like Israelites 21 bringing oblations in clean vessels to the Temple of Yahweh. •And of some of them I will make priests and Levites, says Yahweh.

- 22 For as the new heavens and the new earth I shall make will endure before me—it is Yahweh who speaks—
so will your race and name endure.

- 23 From New Moon to New Moon,
from sabbath to sabbath,
all mankind will come to bow down
in my presence, says Yahweh.

<sup>66 a.</sup> Of these distant places, Rosh is unknown; the other names represent: Tartessos (Spain), Somaliland, Libya, two regions of Asia Minor and Ionia.

And on their way out they will see the corpses of men who have rebelled against me.
 Their worm will not die
 nor their fire go out;
 they will be loathsome to all mankind.

HAGGAI

The movement to rebuild the Temple

1 In the second year of King Darius, on the first day of the sixth month,<sup>a</sup> the word of Yahweh was addressed through the prophet Haggai to Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, high commissioner of Judah, and to Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest, as follows, 'Yahweh Sabaoth says this, "This people says: The time has not yet come to rebuild the Temple of Yahweh. (And the word of Yahweh was addressed through the prophet Haggai, as follows:) •Is this a time for you to live in your panelled houses, when this House lies in ruins? So now, Yahweh Sabaoth says this: Reflect carefully how things have gone for you. •You have sown much and harvested little; you eat but never have enough, drink but never have your fill, put on clothes but do not feel warm. The wage earner gets his wages only to put them in a purse riddled with holes. •So go to the hill country, fetch wood, and rebuild the House: I shall then take pleasure in it, and be glorified there, says Yahweh. •Yahweh Sabaoth says this: Reflect carefully how things have gone for you. •The abundance you expected proved to be little. When you brought the harvest in, my breath spoilt it. And why?—it is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks. Because while my House lies in ruins you are busy with your own, each one of you. •That is why the sky has withheld the rain and the earth withheld its yield. •I have called down drought on land and hills, on wheat, on new wine, on oil and on all the produce of the ground, on man and beast and all their labours." ' 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 11

Now Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and all the remnant of the people, paid attention to the voice of Yahweh their God and to the words of the prophet Haggai, Yahweh having sent him to them. And the people were filled with fear before Yahweh. •Haggai, the messenger of Yahweh, passed on the message of Yahweh to the people, as follows, 'I am with you—it is Yahweh who speaks'. •And Yahweh roused the spirit of Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, high commissioner of Judah, the spirit of Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people; and they came and set to work on the Temple of Yahweh Sabaoth their God. This was on the twenty-fourth day of the sixth month. 12 13 14 15 16 17

The glory that is to come to the Temple

In the second year of King Darius, 2 on the twenty-first day of the seventh month,<sup>a</sup> the word of Yahweh was addressed through the prophet Haggai, as follows, 'You are to speak to Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, the high commissioner of Judah, to Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high priest, and to all the remnant of the people. Say this, •"Who is there left among you that saw this Temple in its former glory? And how does it look to you now? Does it seem nothing to you? •But take courage now, Zerubbabel—it is Yahweh who speaks. Courage, High Priest Joshua son of Jehozadak! Courage, all you people of the country!—it is Yahweh who speaks. To work! I am with you—it is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks—and my spirit remains among you. Do not be afraid! •For Yahweh Sabaoth says this: A little while now, and I am going to shake the heavens and the earth, the sea and the dry land. •I will shake all 1 2 3 4 5 6 7

the nations and the treasures of all the nations shall flow in, and I will fill this Temple with glory, says Yahweh Sabaoth. •Mine is the silver, mine the gold!
 9 —it is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks. •The new glory of this Temple is going to surpass the old, says Yahweh Sabaoth, and in this place I will give peace—it is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks.”<sup>1</sup>

The prophet consults the priests

10 On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius,<sup>b</sup>
 11 the word of Yahweh was addressed to the prophet Haggai as follows, •Yahweh 12 Sabaoth says this: Ask the priests for a decision on this question, •“If a man carries consecrated meat in the fold of his gown and with this fold touches bread, broth, wine, or food of any kind, does such food become holy?”<sup>1</sup> The 13 priests answered, ‘No, it does not’. •Haggai then said, ‘If a man made unclean by contact with a corpse touches any of this, does it become unclean?’ The 14 priests answered, ‘Yes, it does’. •Haggai then spoke out. ‘It is the same with this people,’ he said ‘the same with this nation as I see it—it is Yahweh who speaks—the same with everything they turn their hands to; and what they offer here is unclean.

A promise of agricultural prosperity

15 ‘Reflect carefully from today onwards. Before one stone had been laid on 16 another in the sanctuary of Yahweh, •what state were you in? A man would come to a twenty-measure heap and there would be ten; he would come to a vat 17 to draw fifty measures and there would be twenty. •I struck with blight and mildew and hail everything you turned your hands to. And still you would not 18 return to me—it is Yahweh who speaks. •Reflect carefully from today onwards (from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month, from the day the foundation 19 of the sanctuary of Yahweh was laid, think carefully) •if grain is still short in the barn, and if vine and fig tree, pomegranate and olive, still bear no fruit.
 From today onwards I intend to bless you.’

The promise to Zerubbabel

20 On the twenty-fourth day of the month the word of Yahweh was addressed
 21 a second time to Haggai, as follows, •‘Speak to Zerubbabel, the high commis-22 sioner of Judah. Say this, “I am going to shake the heavens and the earth. •I will overturn the thrones of kingdoms and destroy the power of the kings of the nations. I will overthrow the chariots and their charioteers; horses and their riders will be brought down; they shall fall, each to the sword of his fellow.
 23 When the day comes—it is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks—I will take you, Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, my servant—it is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks—and make you like a signet ring. For I have chosen you—it is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks.”’

THE FIRST PART OF ZECHARIAH

ZECHARIAH 1—8

A summons to conversion

1 1 In the second year of Darius, in the eighth month,<sup>a</sup> the word of Yahweh was addressed to the prophet Zechariah (son of Berechiah),<sup>b</sup> son of Iddo,

1 a. August 520.

2 a. October 520, the last day of the feast of Tabernacles. b. December 520.

1 a. October–November 520. b. A gloss suggested by Is 8:2. According to Ezr 5:1 and Ne 12:16, Zechariah was the son of Iddo.

as follows, 'Cry out to the remnant of this people and say to them, "Yahweh Sabaoth says this: Return to me, and I will return to you, says Yahweh Sabaoth. Do not be like your ancestors, to whom the prophets in the past cried: Yahweh Sabaoth says this: Turn back from your evil ways and evil deeds. But—it is Yahweh who speaks—they would not listen or pay attention to me. •Where are your ancestors now? Are those prophets still alive? •Did not my words and my orders, with which I charged my servants the prophets, overtake your ancestors? Yahweh was stirred to anger against your ancestors." ' •This reduced them to such confusion that they said, 'Yahweh Sabaoth has treated us as he resolved to do, and as our ways and deeds deserved.'

First vision: the horsemen

On the twenty-fourth day of the eleventh month (the month of Shebat), in the second year of Darius, the word of Yahweh was addressed to the prophet Zechariah (son of Berechiah), son of Iddo, as follows, 'I saw a vision during the night. It was this: a man was standing among the deep-rooted myrtles; behind him were horses, red and sorrel and black and white. •I said: What are these, my lord? (And the angel who was talking to me said, "I will explain to you what they are".) •The man standing among the myrtles answered, "They are those whom Yahweh has sent to patrol throughout the world". •They then spoke to the angel of Yahweh standing among the myrtles; they said, "We have been patrolling the world, and see, the whole world is at peace and rest". •The angel of Yahweh then spoke and said, "Yahweh Sabaoth, how long will you wait before taking pity on Jerusalem and the cities of Judah, on which you have inflicted your anger for the past seventy years?" •Yahweh then replied with very consoling words to the angel who was talking to me. •The angel who was talking to me then said to me, "Make this proclamation: Yahweh Sabaoth says this: I feel most jealous love for Jerusalem and Zion, •but very bitter anger against the proud nations; for my part I was only a little angry, but they have overstepped all limits. •Yahweh, then, says this. I turn again in compassion to Jerusalem; my Temple there shall be rebuilt—it is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks—and the measuring line will be stretched over Jerusalem. •Make this proclamation too: Yahweh Sabaoth says this: My cities are once more going to be very prosperous. Yahweh will again take pity on Zion, again make Jerusalem his very own."

Second vision: the horns and the smiths

Then, raising my eyes, I saw a vision. It was this: there were four horns. I said to the angel who was talking to me, 'What are these horns, my lord?' He said to me, 'These are the horns which have scattered Judah (Israel) and Jerusalem'. •Yahweh then showed me four smiths. •And I said, 'What are these coming to do?' He said to me, '(Those are the horns which have so scattered Judah that no one has dared to raise his head; but) these have come to lay them low (to strike down the horns of the nations who lifted their hands against the land of Judah, in order to scatter it).'

Third vision: the measurer

Then, raising my eyes, I saw a vision. It was this: there was a man with a measuring line in his hand. •I asked him, 'Where are you going?' He said, 'To measure Jerusalem, to find out her breadth and her length'. •And then, while the angel who was talking to me stood still, another angel came forward to meet him. •He said to him, 'Run, and tell that young man this, "Jerusalem is to remain unwallled, because of the great number of men and cattle there will be in her. •But I—it is Yahweh who speaks—I will be a wall of fire for her all round her, and I will be her glory in the midst of her."

Two exhortations to the exiles

<sup>10</sup><sub>6</sub> Up, up, and leave the land of the North (it is Yahweh who speaks)!
 (For to the four winds of heaven
 I have scattered you—it is Yahweh who speaks.)
<sup>11</sup><sub>7</sub> Zion, up! Dweller in Babylon, flee!
<sup>12</sup><sub>8</sub> For Yahweh Sabaoth says this (he whose glory has sent me here)
 as regards the nations who despoiled you (for whoever touches you touches the apple of my eye):
<sup>13</sup><sub>9</sub> See now, I raise my hand over them,
 for them to be plunder for their slaves.
 (And you will know that Yahweh Sabaoth has sent me.)
<sup>14</sup><sub>10</sub> Sing, rejoice, daughter of Zion;
 for I am coming
 to dwell in the middle of you
 —it is Yahweh who speaks.
<sup>15</sup><sub>11</sub> Many nations will join Yahweh,
 on that day;
 they will become his people.
 (But he will remain among you, and you will know that Yahweh Sabaoth has sent me to you.)
<sup>16</sup><sub>12</sub> But Yahweh will hold Judah
 as his portion in the Holy Land,
 and again make Jerusalem his very own.
<sup>17</sup><sub>13</sub> Let all mankind be silent before Yahweh!
 For he is awaking and is coming from his holy dwelling.

Fourth vision: the investiture of Joshua

<sup>2</sup> with Satan standing on his right to accuse him. •The angel of Yahweh said to Satan, 'May Yahweh rebuke you, Satan, may Yahweh rebuke you, he who has made Jerusalem his very own. Is not this man a brand snatched from the
<sup>4a</sup> of Yahweh. •The angel said these words to those who stood before him, 'Take <sup>5</sup> off his dirty clothes and clothe him in splendid robes of state, •and put a clean turban on his head'. They clothed him in splendid robes of state and put a clean turban on his head.<sup>d</sup> The angel of Yahweh was standing there and said to him, <sup>6</sup> 'Look, I have taken away your iniquity from you'. •The angel of Yahweh then <sup>7</sup> proclaimed to Joshua: •'Yahweh Sabaoth says this, "If you walk in my ways and keep my ordinances, you shall govern my house, you shall watch over my <sup>9a</sup> courts, and I will give you free access among those who stand here. •For this is the stone which I am placing before Joshua; on this single stone there are seven eyes; and I myself intend to cut the inscription on it—it is Yahweh Sabaoth
 who speaks.

The coming of the 'Branch'

<sup>8</sup> "Now listen, High Priest Joshua, you and the friends who sit before you—for <sup>9b</sup> you are men of good omen. I now mean to raise my servant Branch, •and <sup>10</sup> I intend to put aside the iniquity of this land in a single day. •On that day—it is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks—you will entertain each other under your vine and fig tree."

<sup>3</sup> a. Yahweh.    b. The high priest represents the Jewish people.    c. Sign of mourning or national calamity.    d. The national mourning is over.

Fifth vision: the lamp-stand and the olive trees

4 The angel who was talking to me came back and roused me as a man is 1 roused from his sleep. •And he asked me, 'What can you see?' I answered, 2
 'As I look, this is what I see: there is a lamp-stand entirely of gold with a bowl at the top of it; seven lamps are on the lamp-stand, and seven lips for the lamps on it. •By it are two olive trees, one to the right of it and one to the left.' 3 Speaking again, I said to the angel who was talking to me, 'What do those things mean, my lord?' •The angel who was talking to me replied, 'Do you not know 4 what these things mean?' I said, 'No, my lord'. •He then gave me this answer, 5
 'These seven are the eyes of Yahweh; they cover the whole world'. •In reply 6a to this I asked him, 'What is the meaning of these two olive trees, to the right 10b and to the left of the lamp-stand?' •(Speaking again, I asked him, 'What is the 11 meaning of the two olive branches pouring the oil through the two golden pipes?') •He replied, 'Do you not know what these things mean?' I said, 'No, 12 my lord'. •He said, 'These are the two anointed ones who stand before the 13
 Lord of the whole world.' 14

Three sayings about Zerubbabel

'This is the word of Yahweh with regard to Zerubbabel, "Not by might and 6b not by power, but by my spirit, says Yahweh Sabaoth.

"What are you, you great mountain? Before Zerubbabel, be a plain! He will 7 pull out the keystone to shouts of: Blessings on it, blessings on it!"'

The word of Yahweh was addressed to me as follows, •'The hands of 8
 Zerubbabel have laid the foundation of this Temple; his hands will finish it. 9
 (And you will learn that Yahweh Sabaoth has sent me to you.) •A day for little 10a things, no doubt, but who would dare despise it? People will rejoice when they see the chosen stone in the hands of Zerubbabel.'

Sixth vision: the flying scroll

5 Again I raised my eyes, and this is what I saw: a flying scroll. •The angel 1 who was talking to me said, 'What can you see?' I replied, 'I can see a flying 2 scroll; it is twenty cubits long and ten cubits broad'. •He then said to me, 3
 'This is the Curse sweeping across the face of the whole country. According to what it says, every thief will be banished; according to what it says, everyone who swears falsely by my name will be banished. •I am going to let it loose 4
 —it is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks—to enter the house of the thief and the house of anyone who swears falsely by my name, to settle in his house and to consume it, timber, stone and all.'

Seventh vision: the woman in the bushel

The angel who was talking to me came forward and said to me, 'Raise your 5 eyes, and see what this is, moving forward'. •I said, 'What is it?' He said, 'This 6 is a bushel moving forward'. He went on, 'This is their iniquity throughout the country'. •At this, a disc of lead was raised, and I saw a Woman sitting 7 inside the bushel. •He said, 'This is Wickedness'. And he forced her back into 8 the bushel and closed its mouth with the mass of lead. •I raised my eyes, and 9 this is what I saw: two women appearing. The wind caught their wings—they had wings like a stork's; they raised the bushel midway between earth and heaven. •I then said to the angel who was talking to me, 'Where are they taking 10
 the bushel?' •He replied, 'They mean to build a temple for it in the land of 11
 Shinar, and to make a plinth on which to place it'.

Eighth vision: the chariots

6 Again I raised my eyes, and this is what I saw: four chariots coming out 1 between the two mountains, and the mountains were mountains of bronze.
 The first chariot had red horses, the second chariot had black horses, •the 2 3

third chariot had white horses and the fourth chariot had (vigorous) piebald
 4 horses. •I asked the angel who was talking to me, I said, 'What is the meaning
 5 of these, my lord?' •The angel answered, 'These are going out to the four winds
 6 of heaven after standing before the Lord of the whole world. •The red horses are going out to the country of the East; the black horses are going out to the country of the North; the white are going out to the country of the West and 7 the piebald are going out to the country of the South.' •They came out vigorously, eager to patrol the world. He said to them, 'Go and patrol the world'. And they 8 patrolled the world. •He called me and said to me, 'See, those going northward 15 will make the spirit of Yahweh descend on the country of the North.' •And those who are far away will come and rebuild the sanctuary of Yahweh. (And you will learn that Yahweh Sabaoth has sent me to you.) (This will happen if you listen carefully to the voice of Yahweh your God.)'

The votive crown

9 And the word of Yahweh was addressed to me as follows, •'Take the offerings of the captives,<sup>b</sup> of Heldai, Tobijah and Jedaiah, and go to the house of Josiah 11 son of Zephaniah, who has arrived from Babylon. •Take the silver and gold, make a crown and set it on the head of Joshua son of Jehozadak, the high 12 priest.' •And say this to him, "Yahweh Sabaoth says this: Here is a man whose name is Branch; where he is, there will be a branching out (and he will rebuild 13 the sanctuary of Yahweh). •It is he who is going to rebuild the sanctuary of Yahweh. It is he who is going to wear the royal insignia. He will sit on his throne as ruler. And a priest shall be at his right hand. Perfect peace will reign between 14 these two; •while the crown will be a glorious memorial to Heldai, Tobijah and Jedaiah, and to Josiah, son of Zephaniah, in the sanctuary of Yahweh."'

A question on fasting

1 7 In the fourth year of King Darius (the word of Yahweh was addressed to Zechariah), on the fourth day of the ninth month<sup>a</sup> (the month of Chislev), 2 Bethel sent Sharezer and his men to entreat the favour of Yahweh •and to say to 3 the priests in the Temple of Yahweh Sabaoth, and to his prophets, 'Ought I to go on mourning and fasting in the fifth month as I have been doing for so many years past?'

The nation's past surveyed

4 Then the word of Yahweh Sabaoth was addressed to me as follows, •'Say
 5 to all the people of the country, and to the priests, "While you have been fasting and mourning in the fifth and seventh months for the past seventy years, was 6 it for my sake you fasted so rigorously? •And when you were eating and drinking, 7 were not you the eaters and you the drinkers? •Do you not know the words which Yahweh proclaimed through the prophets in the past, when Jerusalem was inhabited and secure, with her surrounding towns, and when the Negeb 8 and the Lowlands were inhabited? (•The word of Yahweh was addressed to 9 Zechariah as follows: •Yahweh Sabaoth says this.) He said: Apply the law 10 fairly, and practise kindness and compassion towards each other. •Do not oppress the widow and the orphan, the settler and the poor man, and do not

4 a. Joshua, the high priest; and Zerubbabel, the High Commissioner, seen as the anointed king.

5 a. Wickedness is banished to Babylon, where it is worshipped.

6 a. Where there are still some exiles. b. Of the captives who have returned from captivity.

c. It is evident that the original text read 'Zerubbabel', see vv.12-13. 'Joshua son of Jehozadak' is a 'modernisation' by a later hand.

7 a. November 518.

b. The destruction of the Temple in 587 had been commemorated by a fast in the month of July; now rebuilding has begun. The answer to this question is in ch. 8. The oracle which follows in the next paragraph seems to have been attached merely because it too mentions fasting, and the second fast to which it alludes was the commemoration of the murder of Gedaliah, 2 K 25.

secretly plan evil against one another. •But they would not pay attention; they 11 turned a petulant shoulder; they stopped their ears rather than hear;• they made 12 their hearts adamant rather than listen to the teaching and the words that Yahweh Sabaoth had sent by his spirit through the prophets in the past. This aroused great anger on the part of Yahweh Sabaoth. •And this is what happened, since 13 he kept calling them and they would not listen (similarly they will call and I shall not listen, says Yahweh Sabaoth); •he scattered them throughout nations 14 unknown to them; hence the country was reduced to desolation behind them, and no one came or went. They turned a land of delights into a desert.” ’

A prospect of messianic salvation

8 The word of Yahweh Sabaoth was addressed to me as follows: 1

‘Yahweh Sabaoth says this. 2
 I am burning with jealousy for Zion,
 with great anger for her sake.

‘Yahweh Sabaoth says this. 3
 I am coming back to Zion
 and shall dwell in the middle of Jerusalem.
 Jerusalem will be called Faithful City and the mountain of Yahweh Sabaoth, the Holy Mountain.

‘Yahweh Sabaoth says this. 4
 Old men and old women will again sit down in the squares of Jerusalem;
 every one of them staff in hand
 because of their great age.
 And the squares of the city will be full 5
 of boys and girls
 playing in the squares.

‘Yahweh Sabaoth says this. 6
 If this seems a miracle
 to the remnant of this people (in those days),
 will it seem one to me?
 It is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks.

‘Yahweh Sabaoth says this. 7
 Now I am going to save my people from the countries of the East and from the countries of the West.
 I will bring them back 8
 to live inside Jerusalem.
 They shall be my people
 and I will be their God
 in faithfulness and integrity.

‘Yahweh Sabaoth says this. Let your hands be strong, you who here and 9 now listen to these words from the mouths of the prophets who have been prophesying since the day when the Temple of Yahweh Sabaoth had its foundation laid for the rebuilding of the sanctuary. •For before the present 10 day men were not paid their wages and nothing was paid for the animals either;
 and because of the enemy there was no security for a man to go about his business;
 I had set every man against everyone else. •But now, with the remnant of this 11 people, I am not as I was in the past. It is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks. •For 12
 I mean to spread peace everywhere; the vine will give its fruit, the earth its increase, and heaven its dew. I am going to bestow all these blessings on the remnant of this people. •Just as once you were a curse among the nations, you 13

House of Judah (and House of Israel), so I mean to save you for you to become a blessing. Do not be afraid; let your hands be strong.

14 'For Yahweh Sabaoth says this. Just as I once resolved to inflict evil on you when your ancestors provoked me—says Yahweh Sabaoth—and as I did not 15 then relent, •so now I have another purpose, and I intend in the present day to confer benefits on Jerusalem and on the House of Judah. Do not be afraid.

16 'These are the things that you must do. Speak the truth to one another;
17 let the judgements at your gates be such as conduce to peace; •do not secretly plot evil against one another; do not love false oaths; since all this is what I hate. It is Yahweh who speaks.'

The answer to the question on fasting

18 The word of Yahweh Sabaoth was addressed to me as follows:

19 'Yahweh Sabaoth says this. The fast of the fourth month, the fast of the fifth, the fast of the seventh and the fast of the tenth are to become gladness and happiness and days of joyful feasting for the House of Judah.<sup>a</sup> But love the truth and peace!

A prospect of messianic salvation

20 'Yahweh Sabaoth says this. There will be other peoples yet, and citizens of 21 great cities. •And the inhabitants of one city will go to the next and say, "Come, let us go and entreat the favour of Yahweh, and seek Yahweh Sabaoth; I am going myself". •And many peoples and great nations will come to seek Yahweh Sabaoth in Jerusalem and to entreat the favour of Yahweh.

23 'Yahweh Sabaoth says this. In those days, ten men of nations of every language will take a Jew by the sleeve and say, "We want to go with you, since we have learnt that God is with you".'

MALACHI

1 An oracle.

1 The word of Yahweh to Israel through the ministration of Malachi.<sup>a</sup>

The love of Yahweh for Israel

2 I have shown my love for you, says Yahweh. But you ask, 'How have you shown your love?' Was not Esau<sup>b</sup> Jacob's brother?—it is Yahweh who speaks;
3 yet I showed my love for Jacob •and my hatred for Esau. I turned his towns into
4 a wilderness and his heritage into desert pastures. •Should Edom say, 'We have been struck down but we will rebuild our ruins', this is the reply of Yahweh Sabaoth: Let them build! I will pull down. They shall be known as Unholy
5 Land and Nation-with-which-Yahweh-is-angry-for-ever. •Your eyes are going to see this and you will say, 'Yahweh is mighty beyond the borders of Israel'.

An indictment of the priests

6 The son honours his father, the slave respects his master. If I am indeed father, where is my honour? If I am indeed master, where is my respect? Yahweh Sabaoth asks this of you, priests, you who despise my name. You ask, 'How have we despised your name?' •By putting polluted food on my altar. You ask, 7

 'How have we polluted it?' By holding the table of Yahweh in contempt. •When 8 you bring blind animals for sacrifice, is that not wrong? When you bring the lame and the diseased, is that not wrong? Try offering them to your high commissioner, and see if he is pleased with this or receives you graciously, says Yahweh Sabaoth. •Now try pleading with God to take pity on us (this is your own fault); 9 do you think he will receive you graciously? says Yahweh Sabaoth. •Oh, is 10
 there no one among you who will shut the doors and stop you from lighting useless fires on my altar? I am not pleased with you, says Yahweh Sabaoth; from your hands I find no offerings acceptable. •But from farthest east to farthest 11 west my name is honoured among the nations and everywhere a sacrifice of incense is offered to my name, and a pure offering too, since my name is honoured among the nations, says Yahweh Sabaoth. •But you, you profane it 12 by thinking of the Lord's table as defiled and by holding in contempt the food placed on it. •'How tiresome it all is!' you say; and you sniff disdainfully at 13 me, says Yahweh Sabaoth. You bring a stolen, lame or diseased animal, you bring that as an offering! Am I to accept this from your hand? says Yahweh Sabaoth. •Cursed be the rogue who owns a male which he has vowed to offer 14 from his flock, and instead sacrifices a blemished animal to me! For I am a great king, says Yahweh Sabaoth, and my name is feared throughout the nations.
 2 And now, priests, this warning is for you. •If you do not listen, if you do 1 not find it in your heart to glorify my name, says Yahweh Sabaoth, I will 2 send the curse on you and curse your very blessing.<sup>a</sup> Indeed I have already cursed it, since there is not a single one of you who takes this to heart. •Now 3 watch how I am going to paralyse your arm and throw dung in your face—the dung from your very solemnities—and sweep you away with it. •Then you 4 shall learn that it is I who have given you this warning of my intention to abolish my covenant with Levi, says Yahweh Sabaoth. •My covenant was with him: 5
 it stood for life and peace, and these were what I gave him; it stood for fear and trembling, and he respected me and stood in awe of my name. •The teaching 6 of truth was in his mouth, falsehood was not to be found on his lips; he walked with me in integrity and virtue; he converted many from sinning. •The 7 lips of the priest ought to safeguard knowledge; his mouth is where instruction should be sought, since he is the messenger of Yahweh Sabaoth. •But you, 8 you have strayed from the way; you have caused many to stumble by your teaching. You have destroyed the covenant of Levi, says Yahweh Sabaoth.
 And so I in my turn have made you contemptible and vile in the eyes of the 9 whole people in repayment for the way you have not kept to my paths but have shown partiality in your administration.

Mixed marriage and divorce

Have we not all one Father? Did not one God create us? Why, then, do we 10 break faith with one another, profaning the covenant of our ancestors? •Judah 11 has broken faith: a detestable thing has been done (in Israel and) in Jerusalem.
 Yes, Judah has profaned the sanctuary that Yahweh loves. He has married the daughter of an alien god. •The man who does this—whoever he be—may 12 Yahweh cut him off from the tents of Jacob and from the company of those who present the offering to Yahweh Sabaoth. •And here is something else you 13 do: you cover the altar of Yahweh with tears, with weeping and wailing, because he now refuses to consider the offering or to accept it from your hands. •And 14 you ask, 'Why?' It is because Yahweh stands as witness between you and the wife of your youth, the wife with whom you have broken faith, even though she was your partner and your wife by covenant. •Did he not create a single 15 being that has flesh and the breath of life? And what is this single being destined for? God-given offspring. Be careful for your own life, therefore, and do not break faith with the wife of your youth. •For I hate divorce, says Yahweh the 16

God of Israel, and I hate people to parade their sins on their cloaks, says Yahweh Sabaoth. Respect your own life, therefore, and do not break faith like this.

The day of Yahweh

17 You weary Yahweh with your talk. You ask, 'How do we weary him?' When you say, 'Any evil-doer is good as far as Yahweh is concerned; indeed he likes them best'; or when you say, 'Where is the God of justice now?' 3 Look, I am going to send my messenger to prepare a way before me. And the Lord you are seeking will suddenly enter his Temple; and the angel of the covenant whom you are longing for, yes, he is coming, says Yahweh Sabaoth. •Who will be able to resist the day of his coming? Who will remain standing when he appears? 3 For he is like the refiner's fire and the fullers' alkali. •He will take his seat as refiner and purifier; he will purify the sons of Levi and refine them like gold and silver, and then they will make the offering to Yahweh as it should be made. •The offering of Judah and Jerusalem will then be welcomed by Yahweh as in former days, as in the years of old. •I mean to visit you for the judgement and I am going to be a ready witness against sorcerer, adulterer and perjurer, against those who oppress the wage-earner, the widow and the orphan, and who rob the settler of his rights—no need for you to be afraid of me, says Yahweh Sabaoth.

Temple tithes

6 No; I, Yahweh, do not change; and you, sons of Jacob, you are not ruined yet! •Since the days of your ancestors you have evaded my statutes and not observed them. Return to me and I will return to you, says Yahweh Sabaoth. 8 You ask, 'How are we to return?' •Can a man cheat God?' Yet you are cheating me. You ask, 'How are we cheating you?' In the matter of tithes and dues. •The curse lies on you because you, yes you the whole nation, are cheating me. •Bring the full tithes and dues to the storehouse so that there may be food in my house, and then see if I do not open the floodgates of heaven for you and pour out blessing for you in abundance. •For your sake I will lay a strict injunction on the locust not to destroy the fruits of your soil nor to make the vine in your fields barren, says Yahweh Sabaoth. •All the nations will call you blessed, for you will be a land of delights, says Yahweh Sabaoth.

The triumph of the virtuous on the day of Yahweh

13 You say harsh things about me, says Yahweh. You ask, 'What have we said against you?' •You say, 'It is useless to serve God; what is the good of keeping his commands or of walking mournfully before Yahweh Sabaoth?' •Now we have reached the point when we call the arrogant blessed; yes, they prosper, these evil-doers; they try God's patience and yet go free.' •This is what those who fear Yahweh used to say to one another. But Yahweh took note and heard them: a book of remembrance was written in his presence recording those who fear him and take refuge in his name. •On the day which I am preparing, says Yahweh Sabaoth, they are going to be my own special possession. I will make allowances for them as a man makes allowances for the son who obeys him. 18 Then once again you will see the difference between an upright man and a wicked one, between the one who serves God and the one who does not serve him. 19 For the day is coming now, burning like a furnace; and all the arrogant and the evil-doers will be like stubble. The day that is coming is going to burn them up, says Yahweh Sabaoth, leaving them neither root nor stalk. •But for you who fear my name, the sun of righteousness will shine out with healing in its rays;

2 a. The 'blessing' of the priests is the levitical revenue.

you will leap like calves going out to pasture. •You will trample on the wicked, who will be like ashes under your feet on the day I am preparing, says Yahweh Sabaoth.

Appendices

Remember the Law of my servant Moses to whom at Horeb I prescribed laws and customs for the whole of Israel. •Know that I am going to send you Elijah the prophet before my day comes, that great and terrible day. •He shall turn the hearts of fathers towards their children and the hearts of children towards their fathers, lest I come and strike the land with a curse.

OBADIAH

Title and prologue

Vision of Obadiah: about Edom.

I have received a message from Yahweh,
a herald has been sent throughout the nations,
'Up! Let us march against this people,
Into battle!'

Sentence pronounced on Edom

The Lord Yahweh says this:
Now I am going to reduce you among the nations,
and make you utterly despised.

Your pride of heart has led you astray,
you whose home is in the holes in the rocks,<sup>a</sup>
who make the heights your dwelling,
who say in your heart,
'Who will bring me down to the ground?'

Though you soared like the eagle,
though you set your nest among the stars,
I would still fling you down again—it is Yahweh who speaks.

The annihilation of Edom

If robbers came to you,
or plunderers at night,
they would steal to their heart's content.
If grape-gatherers came to you,
they would leave no gleanings behind them.

How you have been pillaged!
How Esau has been looted,
his hidden treasures rifled!
They have driven you right to the frontiers,
they have misled you, all your allies.
They have deceived you, your fine friends.
Those who ate your bread now set traps for you,
'He has no intelligence now'.

When that day comes—it is Yahweh who speaks—
shall I not deprive Edom of sages,
the Mount of Esau of intelligence?

- 9 Your warriors, Teman,<sup>b</sup> will be seized with terror until not a single one is left in the Mount of Esau.

The guilt of Edom

- 10 For the slaughter, •for the violence done to your brother Jacob,<sup>c</sup> shame will cover you and you will vanish for ever.
- 11 On the day you stood by
as strangers carried off his riches,
as barbarians passed through his gate
and cast lots for Jerusalem,
you behaved like the rest of them.
- 12 Do not gloat over your brother
on the day of his misfortune.
Do not exult over the sons of Judah
on the day of their ruin.
Do not play the braggart
on the day of distress.
- 13 Do not pass through the gate of my people
on the day of its misfortune.
Do not, in your turn, gloat over its disaster
on the day of its misfortune.
Do not lay a finger on its treasures
on the day of its misfortune.
- 14 Do not take your stand at the crossroads
to cut off its fugitives.
Do not hand over its survivors
on the day of distress.
- 15 For the day of Yahweh is near
for all the nations.
As you have done, so will it be done to you:
your deeds will recoil on your own head.

The day of Yahweh. Israel revenged on Edom

- 16 <sup>d</sup> Yes, as you have drunk on my holy mountain,
so will all the nations drink unsparingly;
they will drink, and drink deep,
and will be as if they had never been.
- 17 But on Mount Zion there will be some who have escaped
—it shall become a holy place—and the House of Jacob will despoil its own despoilers.
- 18 The House of Jacob shall be a fire,
the House of Joseph<sup>e</sup> a flame,
the House of Esau stubble.

a. The capital of Edom was named 'the Rock' (Petra). b. Northern district of Edom.
c. The land of Judah. d. The rest of the prophecy is addressed to Israel. e. The Northern Kingdom.

They will set it alight and burn it up,
and no member of the House of Esau shall survive.
Yahweh has spoken.

The new Israel

Men from the Negeb will occupy the Mount of Esau, 19
men from the Lowlands the country of the Philistines;
they will occupy the land of Ephraim and the land of Samaria,
and Benjamin will occupy Gilead.

The exiles from this army, the sons of Israel, 20
will occupy Canaan<sup>f</sup> as far as Zarephath;
and the exiles from Jerusalem now in Sepharad
will occupy the towns of the Negeb.

Victorious, they will climb Mount Zion 21
to judge the Mount of Esau,
and the sovereignty shall belong to Yahweh.

f. Phoenicia; Zarephath was between Tyre and Sidon.

THE ORGANISATION OF THE COMMUNITY BY NEHEMIAH AND EZRA

NEHEMIAH I:1—7:72a

The call of Nehemiah: his mission to Judah

The words of Nehemiah son of Hacaliah. In the month of Chislev, in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes<sup>1</sup>, when I was in the citadel of Susa, one of my kinsmen, Hanani, arrived with some men from Judah. I asked them about the Jews—the remnant rescued from captivity—and about Jerusalem. ‘Those who escaped from captivity,’ they replied ‘who are back there in the province, are in great trouble and humiliation: the walls of Jerusalem are in ruins and its gates burnt down.’ On hearing this I sank down and wept; for several days I mourned, fasting and praying before the God of heaven.

And I said, ‘Yahweh, God of heaven, great God who must be feared, maintaining covenant and kindness with those who love you and obey your commandments, let your ear be listening, and your eyes open, to hear your servant’s prayer. I am making this to you now day and night on behalf of the sons of Israel, your servants; and I confess the sins of the sons of Israel which we have committed against you: I and my father’s House have sinned. We have acted very wickedly towards you: we have not kept the commandments, laws and customs you laid down for Moses your servant. Remember, I beg you, the charge you gave to Moses your servant: “If you prove faithless, I will scatter you among the peoples; but if you come back to me and keep my commandments and practise them, even if your outcasts were at the very sky’s end, I would gather them from there and bring them back to the place I have chosen for my name to dwell in”. Now these are your servants, your own people: you have redeemed them with your mighty power and outstretched arm. O Lord, let your ear be attentive to your servant’s prayer and to the prayer of your servants who delight to reverence your name. I beg you, let your servant be successful today; make him acceptable to this man.’

At that time I was cupbearer to the king.

In the month of Nisan, in the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes,<sup>2</sup> the wine being my concern, I took up the wine and offered it to the king. Now I had never been downcast before. So the king said, ‘Why is your face so sad? You are not sick, surely? This must be a sadness of the heart.’ A great fear came over me and I said to the king, 'May the king live for ever! How could my face be other than sad when the city where the tombs of my ancestors are lies in ruins, and its gates have been burnt down?' 'What' the king asked 'is your request?' I called on the God of heaven and made this reply to the king, 'If it pleases the king, and if you are satisfied with your servant, give me leave to go to Judah, to the city of my ancestors' tombs, and rebuild it'. The king, with the queen sitting there beside him, said, 'How long will your journey take, and when will you return?' So I named a date that seemed acceptable to the king and he gave me leave to go. I spoke to the king once more, 'If it please the king, could letters be given me for the governors of Transeuphrates to allow me to pass through to Judah? And also a letter for Asaph, keeper of the king's park, to supply me with timber for the gates of the citadel of the Temple, for the city walls and for the house I am to occupy?' This the king granted me, for the kindly favour of my God was with me.

So I travelled to the governors of Transeuphrates, and handed them the king's letters. The king had given me an escort of army officers and cavalry.

When Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the Ammonite slave<sup>3</sup> came to know of this, they were much displeased that anyone should come to promote the welfare of the sons of Israel.

The decision to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem

And so I reached Jerusalem and stayed there for three days. Then I rose in the night, with a few other men, not having told anyone what work God had inspired me to do for Jerusalem, and having no animal with me but my own mount. At night, therefore, leaving by the Valley Gate, I went by way of the Well of the Dragon to the Dung Gate; I examined the walls of Jerusalem with their gaps and burnt-out gates. I went on to the Fountain Gate and the King's Pool, but found no further path for my mount. So I returned, in the dark, through the wadi, still examining the walls, and came in again by the Valley Gate. And so I returned without the officials knowing where I had gone or what I was doing. So far I had said nothing to the Jews: either to the priests, the authorities, the officials or any other responsible persons. Then I said to them, 'You see the trouble we are in: Jerusalem is in ruins, its gates have been burnt down. Come, let us rebuild the walls of Jerusalem and suffer this indignity no longer.' And I told them how the kindly favour of God had been with me, and also repeated the words the king had said to me. 'Let us start!' they exclaimed 'Let us build'; and with willing hands they set about the good work.

When Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the Ammonite slave, and Geshem the Arab came to know of this, they ridiculed us, and came and asked, 'What are you doing? Are you planning to revolt against the king?' But I gave them this answer, 'The God of heaven will give us success. We, his servants, are going to build; you have neither share nor rights nor memorial in Jerusalem.'

The volunteer builders

Eliashib the high priest and his brother priests set about building the Sheep Gate; they constructed its framework and set its doors, bolts and bars in place, and proceeded as far as the Tower of Hananel. The men of Jericho built next to them; Zaccur son of Imri built next to them. The sons of Hassenaah built the Fish Gate; they constructed its framework and set its doors, bolts and bars in place. Meremoth son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz carried out repairs next to them; Meshullam son of Berechiah, son of Meshezabel carried out repairs next to him. The men of Tekoa carried out repairs next to him, though their chiefs refused to bow their necks and work for their lords. Joiada son of Paseah and Meshullam son of Besodeiah repaired the gate of the new quarter:<sup>1</sup> they constructed its framework and set its doors, bolts and bars in place. Next to them repairs were carried out by Melatiah of Gibeon and Jadon of Meronoth, and also by the men of Gibeon and Mizpah, on behalf of the governors of Transeuphrates. Next to them repairs were carried out by Uzziel, a member of the goldsmiths' guild, and next to him repairs were carried out by Hananiah, of the perfumers' guild: they strengthened Jerusalem as far as the Wall of the Square. Next to them repairs were carried out by Rephaiah son of Hur, ruler of half the district of Jerusalem. Next to them Jedaiah son of Harumaph carried out repairs opposite his own house; next to him repairs were carried out by Hattush son of Hashabneiah. Malchijah son of Harim and Hasshub son of Pahath-moab repaired the next section as far as the Tower of the Furnaces. Next to them repairs were carried out by Shallum son of Hallohesh, ruler of half the district of Jerusalem, by him and his sons. Hanun and the inhabitants of Zanoah repaired the Valley Gate; they restored it, constructed its framework and set its doors, bolts and bars in place, and repaired a thousand cubits of wall up to the Dung Gate. Malchijah son of Rechab, ruler of the district of Beth-hac-cherem, repaired the Dung Gate, he and his sons: he set its doors, bolts and bars in place.

Shallum son of Col-hozeh, ruler of the district of Mizpah, repaired the Fountain Gate; he restored it, covered it, and set its doors, bolts and bars in place. He also rebuilt the wall of the conduit cistern, adjoining the king's garden, as far as the steps coming down from the Citadel of David. Next to him, Nehemiah son of Azbuk, ruler of half the district of Beth-zur, carried out repairs up to a point opposite the tombs of David, the artificial pool and the House of Heroes.<sup>2</sup> Next to him repairs were carried out by the Levites: Rehum son of Bani; next to him Hashabiah, ruler of half the district of Keilah, carried out repairs for his own district. Next to him repairs were carried out by their brothers: Binnui son of Henadad, ruler of half the district of Keilah; next to him, Ezer son of Jeshua, ruler of Mizpah, repaired another section opposite the slope up to the Armoury, towards the Angle.

Next to him Baruch son of Zabbai repaired another section from the Angle as far as the door of the house of Eliashib the high priest. Next to him Meremoth son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz repaired another section from the door of Eliashib's house to its farther end. Next to him repairs were carried out by the priests who lived locally in the country. Next to them repairs were carried out by Benjamin and Hasshub, opposite their own houses. Next to them repairs were carried out by Azariah son of Maaseiah, son of Ananiah, beside his own house. Next to him Binnui son of Henadad repaired another section from the house of Azariah as far as the Angle. Next to him Palal son of Uzai carried out repairs opposite the corner of the tower jutting out over the upper palace of the king and standing in the prison courtyard. Next to him Pedaiah son of Parosh carried out repairs as far as the Water Gate, in an easterly direction and up to a point opposite the projecting tower. Next to him the men of Tekoa repaired another section opposite the great projecting tower as far as the wall of Ophel.

From the Horse Gate onwards repairs were carried out by the priests, each opposite his own house. Next to them repairs were carried out by Zadok son of Immer opposite his own house. Next to him repairs were carried out by Shemaiah son of Shecaniah, keeper of the East Gate. Next to him Hananiah son of Shelemiah and Hanun sixth son of Zalaph repaired another section. Next to him repairs were carried out by Meshullam son of Berechiah opposite where he lived. Next to him Malchijah, of the goldsmiths' guild, repaired as far as the quarters of the oblates and of the merchants, opposite the Watch Gate as far as the high chamber of the corner. And between the high chamber of the corner and the Sheep Gate repairs were carried out by the goldsmiths and the merchants.

The effect on the Jews' opponents

When Sanballat heard that we were rebuilding the walls he flew into a rage, beside himself with anger. He ridiculed the Jews and in front of his kinsmen and the wealthy men of Samaria he exclaimed, 'What are these pathetic Jews trying to do?... Do they expect to finish in one day? Do they think they can put new life into these charred stones, salvaged from the heaps of rubble?' Tobiah the Ammonite was standing beside him. 'Let them build,' he said 'a jackal jumping on their wall will soon knock the stones down again.' See, our God, how we are despised! Make their sneers fall back on their own heads. Give them over to shame in a land of exile. Do not hide their guilt or let their sin be blotted out before you, for heaping insults on the builders.

Meanwhile we were rebuilding the wall which was soon finished all the way round to mid-height, since the people put their hearts into the work.

When news reached Sanballat, Tobiah, the Arabs, the Ammonites and the Ashdodites, that repairs to the walls of Jerusalem were going forward—since the gaps were beginning to be made good—they were furious, and conspired together to come and attack Jerusalem and upset my plans.

Then we called on our God and set a watch against them, day and night, to guard the city. Judah, however, was saying, 'The strength of the carriers is failing and the amount of rubble enormous; we shall never finish the wall'. And our enemies were saying, 'We will appear among them before they know or see anything; then we will cut them down and put an end to the business'. Now on ten occasions Jews who lived near them gave us warning, 'They are coming up against us from every place they live in'. So we took up positions down behind the wall where the place was clear; I posted the people by families with their swords, spears and bows. I had seen their fear and I stood up and addressed the authorities, the officials and the rest of the people, 'Do not be afraid of them. Keep your minds on the Lord, who is great and to be feared, and fight for your kinsmen, your sons, your daughters, your wives and your homes.' Learning, however, that we were forewarned, and that God had thwarted their plan, our enemies withdrew, and we all went back, everyone to his work on the wall.

But from that day onwards only half of my men continued the work; the rest, with spears, shields, bows and breastplates, stood behind all the House of Judah who were building the wall. The carriers, too, were armed so that each did his work with one hand while gripping his weapon with the other. And as each builder worked, he wore his sword at his side. Beside me stood a trumpeter. I addressed the authorities, the officials and the rest of the people, 'The work is important and extensive, and we are deployed along the wall at some distance from each other. Rally round us wherever you hear the trumpet sounding, and our God will fight for us.' So we went on with the work from break of day till the stars appeared. Then I spoke to the people again, 'Let each man, with his servant, spend the night inside Jerusalem: in this way we can employ the night in watching and the day in working'. But none of us, neither myself, my kinsmen, my servants, nor the members of my personal guard, ever took off our clothes; every man kept his weapon to hand.

The social problems of Nehemiah. He vindicates his administration

The ordinary people and their wives began complaining loudly against their brother Jews. Some said, 'We are having to barter our sons and daughters to get enough corn to eat and keep us alive'. Others said, 'We are having to mortgage our fields, our vineyards, our houses to get corn during the famine'. Still others said, 'We have had to borrow money on our fields and our vineyards to pay the king's tax; and though we are of the same flesh as our brothers, and our children as good as theirs, we are having to sell our sons and our daughters into slavery; some of our daughters have even been raped! We can do nothing about it, since our fields and our vineyards are now the property of others.'

When I heard their complaints and these words I was very angry. Having turned the matter over in my mind, I reprimanded the authorities and officials. 'What a burden you impose,' I said 'every one of you on his brother!' Summoning a great assembly to deal with them, I said to them, 'To the best of our power, we have redeemed our brother Jews who had been sold to foreigners, and now you in turn are selling our brothers for us to redeem them!' They were silent and could find nothing to say. 'What you are doing' I went on 'is wrong. Do you not want to walk in the fear of our God and escape the sneers of the nations, our enemies? I too, my kinsmen, and my servants have lent them money and corn. Let us cancel this debt. Return them their fields, their vineyards, their olive groves and their houses forthwith, and remit the debt on the money, corn, wine and oil which you have lent them.' 'We will make restitution' they replied 'we will claim nothing more from them; we will do as you say.' At once I summoned the priests and made them swear to do as they had promised. Then I shook out the lap of my gown with the words, 'May God do this, and shake out of his house and property any man who does not keep this promise; may he be shaken out like this and left empty!' And the whole assembly answered, 'Amen' and gave praise to Yahweh. And the people kept this promise.

What is more, from the day the king appointed me governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth to the thirty-second year of King Artaxerxes, for twelve years, neither I nor my kinsmen ever ate governor's bread.<sup>1</sup> Now the former governors, my predecessors, had been a burden on the people, from whom they took forty silver shekels each day as their subsistence allowance, while their servants oppressed the people too. But I, fearing God, never did this.

And furthermore I worked on this wall all the time, though I owned no land; and my servants also were all employed on the work.

Leaders and officials to the number of a hundred and fifty ate at my table, not to mention those who came to us from the surrounding nations. Every day, one ox, six fine sheep, and poultry, were prepared at my expense; every ten days skins of wine were brought in bulk. But even so, I never claimed the governor's subsistence allowance, since the people already had burden enough to bear.

In my favour, my God, remember all I have done for this people.

The intrigues of Nehemiah's enemies. The wall is finished

When Sanballat, Tobiah, Geshem the Arab and our other enemies heard that I had rebuilt the wall and that not a single gap was left—though at that time I had not fixed the doors to the gates—Sanballat and Geshem sent me a message, 'Come and meet us at Hac-chepirim in the Vale of Ono'. Now they intended some harm to me. So I sent messengers to them to say, 'I am engaged in a great undertaking and so cannot come down. The work would come to a halt if I left it to come down to you.' Four times they sent me the same invitation and I made them the same reply. The fifth time, with the same purpose in mind, Sanballat sent me his servant bearing an open letter. It ran, 'There is a rumour among the nations, so Gashmu<sup>2</sup> says, that you and the Jews are thinking of rebelling, which is why you are building the wall; that you yourself are to become their king; that you have even briefed prophets in your own interest in Jerusalem to proclaim: "Judah has a king". These rumours will soon be reaching the king; so you had better come and talk things over with us.' To this, however, I replied, 'As regards what you say, nothing of the sort has occurred; it is a figment of your own imagination'. For they were trying to frighten us, thinking, 'Their hands will tire of the work, and it will never be finished'. But I meanwhile was making my hands even stronger.

I had been to visit Shemaiah son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabel, since he was prevented from coming to me. He said:

'Let us meet at the Temple of God,
in the innermost part of the sanctuary;
let us shut the sanctuary doors,
for they are coming to kill you,
they are coming to kill you tonight'.

But I retorted, 'Is a man like me to run away? A man in my position to go into the sanctuary to save his life? I will not go.' I realised that God had not sent him to say this, but that he had pronounced this oracle over me because Tobiah was paying him to frighten me into doing this, and so committing a sin as a result of which they would have been able to blacken my reputation and ridicule me. Remember Tobiah, my God, for what he has done; and Noadiah the prophetess, and the other prophets who tried to frighten me.

The wall was finished within fifty-two days, on the twenty-fifth of Elul.<sup>3</sup> When all our enemies heard about it, and all the surrounding nations had seen it, they were deeply impressed and acknowledged that this work had been accomplished by the power of our God.

During this same period several of the authorities of Judah kept sending letter after letter to Tobiah, and letters from Tobiah kept arriving for them; for he had many sworn to his interest in Judah, since he was son-in-law to Shecaniah son of Arah, and his son Jehohanan had married the daughter of Meshullam son of Berechiah. They even cried up his good deeds in my presence, and they reported what I said back to him. And Tobiah kept on sending letters to frighten me.

When the wall had been rebuilt and I had set the doors in place, keepers were appointed for the gates (besides cantors and Levites). I entrusted the administration of Jerusalem to my brother Hanani, and to Hananiah the commander of the citadel, for he was a trustworthy man and God-fearing above the ordinary. I said to them, 'The gates of Jerusalem must not be opened until the sun gets hot; and you are to shut and bar the doors while it is still high; and detail guard pickets from the inhabitants of Jerusalem, some for the lookout posts, and others for duty outside their own houses'.

The repopulation of Jerusalem

The city was large and spacious but the population was small, and no new families were growing up. My God therefore inspired me to assemble the authorities, the officials and the people for the purpose of taking a census by families. I discovered the genealogical register of those who had returned in the first group, and there I found entered:

A list of the first exiles to return

These are the people of the province who returned from captivity and exile. After being deported by Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, they returned to Jerusalem and to Judah, each to his own town. They arrived with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah.

The number of the men of the people of Israel: sons of Parosh, two thousand one hundred and seventy-two; sons of Shephatiah, three hundred and seventy-two; sons of Arah, six hundred and fifty-two; sons of Pahath-moab, that is to say sons of Jeshua and Joab, two thousand eight hundred and eighteen; sons of Elam, one thousand two hundred and fifty-four; sons of Zattu, eight hundred and forty-five; sons of Zaccai, seven hundred and sixty; sons of Binnui, six hundred and forty-eight; sons of Bebai, six hundred and twenty-eight; sons of Azgad, two thousand three hundred and

The following, who came from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addon and Immer, could not prove that their families and ancestry were of Israelite origin: sons of Delaiah, sons of Tobia, sons of Nekoda: six hundred and forty-two. And among the priests: sons of Hobai, sons of Hakkoz, sons of Barzillai—who had married one of the daughters of Barzillai, the Gileadite, whose name he adopted. These people searched in their ancestral registers but could not be located in them, so they were excluded from the priesthood as unclean, and His Excellency forbade them to eat the sacred foods until a priest could be found for the Urim and Thummim.

The whole assembly numbered forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty people, not counting their slaves and maidservants to the number of seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven. They also had two hundred and forty-five male and female singers. They had (seven hundred and thirty-six horses, two hundred and forty-five mules) four hundred and thirty-five camels and six thousand seven hundred and twenty donkeys.

A certain number of heads of families gave offerings for the building. His Excellency contributed one thousand gold drachmas, fifty bowls, thirty priestly robes and five hundred (silver minas) to the fund. And heads of families gave twenty thousand gold drachmas and two thousand two hundred silver minas to the building fund. The gifts made by the rest of the people amounted to twenty thousand gold drachmas, two thousand silver minas, and sixty-seven priestly robes.

The priests, Levites and part of the people settled in Jerusalem; the gate-keepers, cantors, oblates and all the other Israelites, in their own towns.

NEHEMIAH 11—13

The repopulation policy of Nehemiah. Various lists

. . . Then the leaders of the people settled in Jerusalem. The rest of the people drew lots: one man in ten was to come and live in Jerusalem, the holy city, while the remaining nine were to stay in their towns. And the people blessed all those who volunteered to live in Jerusalem.

These are the provincial leaders who settled in Jerusalem—and those who settled in the towns of Judah. So Israel, the priests, the Levites, the oblates and the sons of Solomon's slaves, made their homes in their appropriate towns, each man on his own property.

The Jewish population in Jerusalem

In Jerusalem there lived some of the sons of Judah and some of the sons of Benjamin.

Of the sons of Judah: Athaiah son of Uzziash, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mehalalel, of the descendants of Perez; Maaseiah son of Baruch, son of Col-hozeh, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, descendant of Shelah. The total number of the descendants of Perez living in Jerusalem was four hundred and sixty-eight adult men.

These are the sons of Benjamin: Sallu son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshaiash, and his kinsmen, adult men: nine hundred and twenty-eight.

Joel son of Zichri was in charge of them, and Judah son of Hassenuah was second in command of the city.

Of the priests: Jedaiah son of Joiakim, son of Seraiah, son of Hilkiash, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, prefect of the Temple of God, and his kinsmen who were responsible for the Temple liturgy: eight hundred and twenty-two; Adaiah son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah, and his kinsmen, heads of families: two hundred and forty-two; and Amashai son of Azarel, son of Ahzai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer, and his kinsmen, adult men: one hundred and twenty-eight.

Zabdiel son of Haggadol was in charge of them.

Of the Levites: Shemaiah son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni; Shabbethai and Jozabad, the levitical leaders responsible for the outside work of the Temple of God; Mattaniah son of Mica, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, who directed the hymns and, at prayer, intoned the thanksgiving; Bakbukiah, the second in rank among his kinsmen; Obadiah son of Shammua, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun. The total number of Levites in the holy city: two hundred and eighty-four.

The gatekeepers: Akkub, Talmon and their kinsmen, who kept watch at the gates: one hundred and seventy-two.

Supplementary notes

The oblates lived at Ophel; Ziha and Gishpa were in charge of the oblates.—The head of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Mica; he belonged to the sons of Asaph who were responsible for the chanted parts of the liturgy in the Temple of God; there was a royal decree relating to the cantors, embodying regulations for their attendance day by day.—Pethahiah son of Meshezabel, belonging to the sons of Zerah son of Judah, was the king's commissioner for all such matters as concerned the people.

The rest of the Israelites, priests and Levites made their homes throughout the towns of Judah, each man in his own inheritance, and in the hamlets situated in rural districts of their own.

The Jewish population outside Jerusalem

Some of the sons of Judah made their homes in Kiriath-arba and its outlying villages, in Dibon and its outlying villages, in Jekabzeel and its outlying hamlets, in Jeshua, Moladah, Beth-pelet, Hazar-shual, in Beersheba and its villages, in Ziklag, in Meconah and its villages, in Enrimmon, Zorah, Jarmuth, Zanoah, Adullam and their hamlets, Lachish and its countryside, Azekah and its villages: thus, they settled from Beersheba as far as the Valley of Hinnom.

Some of the sons of Benjamin made their homes in Geba, Michmash, Aija, in Bethel and its villages, Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim, Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat, Lod and Ono, and the Valley of the Craftsmen.

Some groups of Levites settled in Judah as well as in Benjamin.

Priests and Levites who returned under Zerubbabel and Jeshua

These are the priests and the Levites who came back with Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua:

Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra, Amariah, Malluch, Hattush, Shecaniah, Harim, Meremoth, Iddo, Ginnethoi, Abijah, Mijamin, Maadiah, Bilgah, Shemaiah; also: Joiarib, Jedaiah, Sallu, Amok, Hilkiyah, Jedaiah.

And the Levites: Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, Mattaniah—this last, with his kinsmen, directed the hymns of thanksgiving while Bakbukiah, Unno and their kinsmen in their respective orders formed an alternate choir.

These were the heads of the priests and of their kinsmen in the days of Jeshua.

Genealogical list of high priests

Jeshua was the father of Joiakim, Joiakim father of Eliashib, Eliashib father of Joiada, Joiada father of Johanan, and Johanan father of Jaddua.

Priests and Levites in the time of the High Priest Joiakim

In the days of Joiakim the heads of the priestly families were: family of Seraiah, Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah; of Ezra, Meshullam; of Amariah, Jehohanan; of Malluchi, Jonathan; of Shebaniah, Joseph; of Harim, Adna; of Meremoth, Helkai; of Iddo, Zechariah; of Ginnethon, Meshullam; of Abijah, Zichri; of Miniamin, . . . ; of Moadiah, Piltai; of Bilgah, Shammua; of Shemaiah, Jehonathan; also: of Joiarib, Mattenai; of Jedaiah, Uzzi; of Sallai, Kallai; of Amok, Eber; of Hilkiah, Hashabiah; of Jedaiah, Nethanel.

In the days of Eliashib, Joiada, Johanan and Jaddua, the heads of the priestly families had been recorded in the Book of the Chronicles<sup>1</sup> up to the reign of Darius the Persian.

The sons of Levi.

The heads of families were recorded in the Book of the Chronicles, but only up to the time of Johanan, grandson of Eliashib.

The heads of the Levites: Hashabiah, Sherebiah, Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel; and their kinsmen forming an alternate choir for the hymns of praise and thanksgiving, in accordance with the ordinances of David the man of God, in corresponding groups, these were: Mattaniah, Bakbukiah and Obadiah. The gatekeepers, Meshullam, Talmon and Akkub stood guard at the storehouses near the gates.

These lived in the days of Joiakim son of Jeshua, son of Jozadak, and in the days of Nehemiah the governor and of Ezra, priest and scribe.

The dedication of the wall of Jerusalem

At the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem the Levites were sent for, wherever they lived, to come to Jerusalem: the dedication was to be celebrated joyfully with songs of thanksgiving, with cymbal, lute and lyre. Accordingly the cantors, sons of Levi, assembled from the countryside round Jerusalem, from the villages of the Netophathites, from Beth-gilgal, from the districts of Geba and Azmaveth; since the cantors had built themselves villages all round Jerusalem. And the priests and Levites purified themselves, then purified the people, the gates and the wall.

I then made the leaders of Judah come on to the top of the wall, and organized two great choirs. The first made its way along the top of the wall, right-handed, towards the Dung Gate; bringing up the rear were Hoshai and half the leaders of Judah, and also Azariah, Ezra, Meshullam, Judah, Mijamin, Shemaiah and Jeremiah, selected from the priests and carrying trumpets; then Zechariah son of Jonathan, son of Shemaiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Micaiah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph, with his kinsmen, Shemaiah, Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, Judah, Hanani, carrying the musical instruments of David the man of God. And Ezra the scribe walked at their head. At the Fountain Gate they went straight on up, near the steps of the Citadel of David, along the top of the wall and along the ascent of the Palace of David as far as the Water Gate, on the east.

The second choir made its way left-handed; I followed it, with half the leaders of the people, along the top of the wall, above the Tower of the Furnaces and as far as the wall of the Square, then over the Gate of Ephraim, the Fish Gate, the Tower of Hananel, as far as the Sheep Gate; they came to a halt at the Watch Gate.

The two choirs then took their places in the Temple of God. I had half of the officials with me, as well as the priests, Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, Hananiah, carrying trumpets, also Maaseiah, Shemaiah, Eleazar, Uzzi, Jehohanan, Malchijah, Elam and Ezer. The cantors sang under the direction of Jezrahiah. There were great sacrifices offered that day and the people rejoiced, God having given them good cause for rejoicing; the women and children rejoiced too, and the joy of Jerusalem could be heard from far away.

A golden age

For the chambers intended for the stores, contributions, first-fruits and tithes, supervisors were then appointed whose business it would be to collect in them those portions from the town lands awarded by the Law to the priests and Levites. For Judah rejoiced in the officiating priests and Levites. It was they who performed the liturgy of their God and the duties of purification—and the cantors and gatekeepers too—in accordance with the ordinances of David and his son Solomon. For from ancient times, from the days of David and Asaph, there had been guilds of cantors and canticles of praise and thanksgiving to God. And so, in the days of Zerubbabel and in the days of Nehemiah, the whole of Israel used to give the cantors and gatekeepers their due portion for each day. They set aside for the Levites their sacred dues, and the Levites would set theirs aside for the sons of Aaron.

At that time they were reading from the Book of Moses to the people, when they found this written in it, 'The Ammonite and the Moabite shall never be admitted to the assembly of God, since they did not come to meet the sons of Israel with bread and water. They hired Balaam against them to curse them,<sup>2</sup> but our God turned the curse into a blessing.' As soon as the people had heard the Law they excluded all of foreign descent from Israel.

The second mission of Nehemiah

Now before this, Eliashib the priest had been appointed supervisor of the chambers of the Temple of our God. A connection of Tobiah's, he had furnished a spacious chamber for him where the oblations, incense, utensils, tithes of corn, wine and oil had previously been kept, that is to say the portions of the Levites, cantors and gatekeepers, and what was set aside for the priests. While all this was going on I was away from Jerusalem, for in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes king of Babylon<sup>3</sup> I had gone to see the king. But after some time I asked the king for permission to leave, and returned to Jerusalem. It was then that I heard the wicked thing that Eliashib had done for Tobiah, furnishing a chamber for him inside the court of the Temple of God. This made me very angry. I threw all Tobiah's household furniture out of the chamber, gave orders for the chambers to be purified, and had the utensils of the Temple of God, the oblations and the incense, all put back.

I also discovered that the portions of the Levites were not being delivered and that they, the Levites and the cantors responsible for the liturgy, had all gone off home to their fields. I reprimanded the officials. 'Why is the Temple of God deserted?' I asked. And I collected them together again and sent them back to their duties. Then the whole of Judah brought the tithe of corn, wine and oil to the storehouses. As supervisors of the storehouses I appointed Shelemiah the priest, Zadok the scribe, Pedaiah one of the Levites and, as their assistants, Hanan son of Zaccur, son of Mattaniah, since they were considered reliable; their duty was to make the distributions to their kinsmen. Remember me for this, my God; do not blot out the pious deed I have done for the Temple of my God and for its liturgy.

In those days I saw people in Judah treading winepresses on the sabbath, and others taking sheaves of corn and loading them on donkeys with wine, grapes, figs and every kind of load which they meant to bring into Jerusalem on the sabbath day. I warned them not to sell the foodstuffs. In Jerusalem itself Tyrians who lived in the city were bringing in fish and every sort of merchandise to sell them on the sabbath day. I reprimanded the authorities of Judah, 'What a wicked way to behave, profaning the sabbath day! Did not your ancestors do just this, with the result that our God brought all this misery on us and on this city? Do you want to bring fresh wrath on Israel, by profaning the sabbath?' So just before the sabbath<sup>1</sup> as the shadows were falling on the gates of Jerusalem, I gave orders for the doors to be shut, and said, 'Do not open them again until the sabbath is over'. I stationed a few of my servants at the gates to see that no load was brought in on the sabbath day. Once or twice merchants and traders in goods of all kinds spent the night outside Jerusalem, but I gave them this warning, 'Why are you spending the night by the wall? Do it again, and I will punish you.' After that, they did not come on the sabbath any more. I ordered the Levites to purify themselves and to come and supervise the gates, so that the sabbath day might be kept holy. For this too remember me, my God, and as your mercy is great, so pity me.

At that time I again saw Jews who had married women from Ashdod, Ammon and Moab. As regards their children, half of them spoke the language of Ashdod<sup>2</sup> or the language of one of the other peoples, but could not speak the language of Judah. I reprimanded them and called down curses on them; I struck several of them and tore out their hair and made them swear by God, 'You shall not give your daughters to their sons or take their daughters either for your sons or for yourselves. Is this not how Solomon king of Israel sinned? Among all the nations there was never a king like him; he was loved by his God; God made him king of all Israel; and yet for him, foreign women were causes of sin. Must we then hear it said that you too are committing this grave crime: playing traitor to our God by marrying foreign women?

One of the sons of Jehoiada, son of the high priest Eliashib, was son-in-law to Sanballat the Horonite, and I expelled him from my presence. Remember these, O my God, for the degradation they have brought on the priesthood and on the covenant of the priests and Levites.

And so I purged them of everything foreign; I drew up regulations for the priests and Levites defining each man's duty, and regulations for the deliveries of wood at stated times, and for the first-fruits.

Remember me, my God, for my happiness.

NEHEMIAH IO

A record of the promises made by the community<sup>3</sup>

. . . As a result of all this we make a firm agreement, in writing. Our leaders, our Levites, and our priests have put their names to the document under seal . . .

On the sealed document were the names of: Nehemiah son of Hacaliah, and Zedekiah, Seraiah, Azariah, Jeremiah, Pashhur, Amariah, Malchijah, Hattush, Shebaniah, Malluch, Harim, Meremoth, Obadiah, Daniel, Ginnethon, Baruch, Meshullam, Abijah, Mijamin, Maaziah, Bilgai, Shemaiah: these are the priests.

Then the Levites: Jeshua son of Azaniah, Binnui of the sons of Henadad, Kadmiel, and their kinsmen Shebaniah, Hodaviah, Kelita, Pelaiah, Hanan, Mica, Rehob, Hashabiah, Zaccur, Sherebiah, Shebaniah, Hodiah, Bani, Chenani.

The leaders of the people: Parosh, Pahath-moab, Elam, Zattu, Bani, Bunni, Azgad, Bebai, Adonijah, Bigvai, Adin, Ater, Hezekiah, Azzur, Hodiah, Hashum, Bezai, Hariph, Anathoth, Nebai, Magpiash, Meshullam, Hezir, Meshezabel, Zadok, Jaddua, Pelatiah, Hanan, Anaiah, Hoshea, Hananiah, Hasshub, Halloesh, Pilha, Shobek, Rehum, Hashabnah, Maaseiah, Ahiah, Hanan, Anan, Malluch, Harim, Baanah.

. . . but also the rest of the people, priests and Levites—gatekeepers, cantors, oblates—in short, all who have broken with the natives of the countries to adhere to the Law of God; as also their wives, sons and daughters, all those who are old enough to understand, join with their kinsmen and leaders and undertake, under curse and oath, to walk according to the Law of God given through Moses, the servant of God, and to observe and practise all the commandments of Yahweh our Lord, his customs and his laws.

In particular: we will not give our daughters to the natives of the land nor take their daughters for our sons.

If the natives of the land bring goods or any foodstuff whatever to sell on the sabbath day, we will buy nothing from them on sabbath or holy day.

We will forego the fruits of the soil in the seventh year, and all debts.

We recognise the following obligations:

to give one third of a shekel yearly for the liturgical requirements of the Temple of our God: for the loaves set out, for the perpetual oblation, for the perpetual holocaust, for the sacrifices on sabbaths, on New Moon feasts and on solemnities, for sacred foods, for sacrifices for sin to atone for Israel; in short, for all the services of the Temple of our God;

and further, to bring yearly to the Temple of our God the first-fruits of our soil and the first-fruits of every fruit of every tree, also the first-born of our sons and of our cattle, as is written in the Law—those first-born of our herds and flocks taken to the Temple of our God being intended for the priests officiating in the Temple of our God. Furthermore, we will bring to the priests, to the chambers of the Temple of our God, the best of our meal, the fruit of every tree, new wine and oil; and to the Levites the tithe on our soil—the Levites themselves will collect the tithes from all our agricultural towns; a priest, a son of Aaron, is to accompany the Levites when they collect the tithes, and the Levites will pay a tenth part of the tithes into the Temple of our God, into the treasury offices; since these rooms are where the Israelites and the Levites bring the contributions of corn, wine and oil, and where the supplies are kept for the sanctuary, the officiating priests, the gatekeepers and cantors.

Furthermore, as regards deliveries of wood for burning on the altar of our God as is written in the Law, we have arranged, by drawing lots among the priests, Levites and people, that these deliveries are to be made at the Temple of our God by each family in turn at stated times every year.

We will no longer neglect the Temple of our God.

EZRA 7-8

The mission and personality of Ezra

After these events, in the reign of Artaxerxes king of Persia, Ezra son of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah, son of Shallum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub, son of Amariah, son of Azariah, son of Meraioth, son of Zeremiah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki, son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of the chief priest Aaron, this man Ezra came up from Babylon. He was a scribe versed in the Law of Moses, which had been given by Yahweh, the God of Israel. As the favour of his God, Yahweh, was with him, the king gave him all he asked. A certain number of Israelites, priests, Levites, cantors, gatekeepers and oblates went up to Jerusalem in the seventh year of the reign of King Artaxerxes. He arrived in Jerusalem in the fifth month: it was the seventh year of the king's reign, for he had decided to depart from Babylon on the first day of the first month, and he arrived in Jerusalem on the first day of the fifth month; the kindly favour of his God was certainly with him. For Ezra had devoted himself to the study of the Law of Yahweh, to practising it and to teaching Israel its laws and customs.

The edict of Artaxerxes

This is a copy of the document which King Artaxerxes handed to Ezra, the priest-scribe, the scribe who was especially learned in the text of Yahweh's commandments and his laws relating to Israel:

'Artaxerxes, king of kings, to the priest Ezra, scribe of the Law of the God of heaven, perfect peace.

'Here then are my orders: Anyone in my kingdom who is of the people of Israel, of their priests or their Levites and who freely chooses to go to Jerusalem, may go with you. For you are sent by the king and his seven counsellors to make an inspection of Judah and Jerusalem according to the Law of your God, which is in your possession, and also to carry the silver and gold which the king and his counsellors have voluntarily offered to the God of Israel who dwells in Jerusalem, as well as all the silver and gold you find in the whole province of Babylonia, together with those voluntary offerings given by the people and the priests for the Temple of their God in Jerusalem. Further, with this money take pains to buy bulls, rams and lambs, as well as the oblations and libations which go with them; you must offer them on the altar of the Temple of your God in Jerusalem. The gold and silver left over you may spend as you and your brothers think right, according to the will of your God. Place the vessels that have been given you for the service of the Temple of your God before your God in Jerusalem. For anything else necessary for the Temple of your God, which you may find occasion to provide, you may draw on the royal treasury. I, King Artaxerxes, give this command to all the treasurers of Transeuphrates: Whatever the priest Ezra, scribe of the Law of the God of heaven, may ask of you must be instantly allowed: up to one hundred talents of silver, one hundred measures of wheat, one hundred baths of wine, one hundred baths of oil, and salt as requested. Everything that the God of heaven commands must be carried out zealously for the Temple of the God of heaven, lest the wrath should come on the realm of the king and of his sons. You are also informed that it is forbidden to impose tribute, customs or tolls on any of the priests, Levites, cantors, gatekeepers, oblates; in short, on the servants of this Temple of God.

'And you, Ezra, by virtue of the wisdom of your God, which is in your possession,<sup>1</sup> you are to appoint scribes and judges to administer justice for the whole people of Transeuphrates, that is, for all who know the Law of your God. You must teach those who do not know it. If anyone does not obey the Law of your God—which is the law of the king—let judgement be strictly executed on him: death, banishment, confiscation or imprisonment.'

The journey of Ezra from Babylonia to Palestine

Blessed be Yahweh, the God of our ancestors, who moved the king's heart in this way to glorify the Temple of Yahweh in Jerusalem and who won for me the favour of the king, his counsellors and all the most powerful of the king's officials. For my part, I took courage, for the favour of Yahweh my God was with me, and I gathered the leading men of Israel together to set out with me.

These, with their genealogies, are the heads of families who set out from Babylon with me in the reign of King Artaxerxes:

Of the sons of Phinehas: Gershom; of the sons of Ithamar: Daniel; of the sons of David: Hattush son of Shecaniah; of the sons of Parosh: Zechariah, with whom one hundred and fifty males were registered; of the sons of Pahathmoab: Eliehoenai son of Zerabiah, and with him two hundred males; of the sons of Zattu: Shecaniah son of Jahaziel, and with him three hundred males; of the sons of Adin: Ebed son of Jonathan, and with him fifty males; of the sons of Elam: Jeshaiiah son of Athaliah, and with him

seventy males; of the sons of Shephatiah: Zebadiah son of Michael, and with him eighty males; of the sons of Joab: Obadiah son of Jehiel, and with him two hundred and eighteen males; of the sons of Bani: Shelomith son of Josiphiah, and with him a hundred and sixty males; of the sons of Bebai: Zechariah son of Bebai, and with him twenty-eight males; of the sons of Azgad: Johanan son of Hakkatan, and with him a hundred and ten males; of the sons of Adonikam: the younger sons, whose names are: Eliphelet, Jeiel and Shemaiah, and with them sixty males; and of the sons of Bigvai: Uthai son of Zabud, and with him seventy males.

I assembled them near the river that runs to Ahava, where we camped for three days. Observing them I saw laymen and priests but no Levites. So I dispatched Eliezer, Ariel, Shemaiah, Elnathan, Jarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zechariah and Meshullam, men of judgement, and sent them to Iddo, the leading man in the region of Casiphia; I told them the words they were to say to Iddo and his kinsmen, living in the region of Casiphia, to provide us with servants for the Temple of our God. Then, thanks to the kindly favour of our God which was with us, they sent us a capable man, of the sons of Mahli son of Levi son of Israel, Sherebiah with his sons and kinsmen: eighteen men; also Hashabiah and with him his brother Jeshaiiah of the sons of Merari, as well as their sons: twenty men; and of the oblates whom David and his notables had assigned to serve the Levites: two hundred and twenty oblates. All were registered by name.

There, beside the river of Ahava, I proclaimed a fast: we were to humble ourselves before our God and pray to him for a successful journey for us, our children and our belongings; since I should have been ashamed to ask the king for an armed guard and cavalry to protect us from an enemy on the road, for we had already told the king, 'The hand of our God is held out in blessing over all who seek him, his power and his anger over all who turn away from him'. So we fasted, pleading with our God for this favour, and he answered our prayers.

I chose twelve of the leading priests, and then Sherebiah and Hashabiah and with them ten of their kinsmen; I weighed out for them the silver, the gold and the vessels, the offerings that the king, his counsellors, his nobles and all the Israelites present had presented for the Temple of our God. So I weighed out and handed over to them six hundred and fifty talents of silver, one hundred silver vessels worth two talents, one hundred talents of gold, twenty golden bowls worth a thousand darics and two vessels of fine gilded bronze which were as valuable as gold. I told them, 'You are consecrated to Yahweh; these vessels are sacred; the silver and gold are voluntary offerings to Yahweh, the God of your ancestors. Take charge of them and guard them until you weigh them before the leading priests, the Levites and the heads of families of Israel in Jerusalem in the chambers of the Temple of Yahweh.' The priests and Levites then took charge of the silver, the gold and the vessels thus weighed, to take them to Jerusalem to the Temple of our God.

On the twelfth day of the first month we left the river of Ahava to go to Jerusalem; the favour of our God was with us and protected us on the road from enemies and thieves. We arrived in Jerusalem and stayed there, resting, for three days. On the fourth day the silver, the gold and the vessels were weighed in the Temple of our God and handed over to the priest Meremoth son of Uriah and, with him, Eleazar son of Phinehas; with them were the Levites Jozabad son of Jeshua and Noadiah son of Binnui. Number and weight, all was there. The total weight was put on record.

At that time those who came back from captivity, the exiles, offered holocausts to the God of Israel: twelve bulls for all Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-two lambs, twelve he-goats for sin; the whole as a holocaust to Yahweh.

The king's instructions were notified to the king's satraps and the governors of Transeuphrates, who then assisted the people and the Temple of God.

NEHEMIAH 7:72b—9:37

Judaism is born. Ezra reads the Law. The feast of Tabernacles

When the seventh month came, all the people gathered as one man on the square before the Water Gate. They asked Ezra the scribe to bring the Book of the Law of Moses which Yahweh had prescribed for Israel. Accordingly Ezra the priest brought the Law before the assembly, consisting of men, women, and children old enough to understand. This was the first day of the seventh month. On the square before the Water Gate, in the presence of the men and women, and children old enough to understand, he read from the book from early morning till noon; all the people listened attentively to the Book of the Law.

Ezra the scribe stood on a wooden dais erected for the purpose; beside him stood, on his right, Mattithiah, Shema, Anaiah, Uriah, Hilkiyah and Maaseiah; on his left, Pedaiah, Mishael, Malchijah, Hashum, Hashbadanah, Zechariah, and Meshullam. In full view of all the people—since he stood higher than all the people—Ezra opened the book; and when he opened it all the people stood up. Then Ezra blessed Yahweh, the great God, and all the people raised their hands and answered, 'Amen! Amen!'; then they bowed down and, face to the ground, prostrated themselves before Yahweh. (Jeshua, Bani, Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabab, Hanan, Pelaiah, who were Levites, expained the Law to the people while the people remained standing.) And Ezra read from the Law of God, translating and giving the sense, so that the people understood what was read.

Then (Nehemiah—His Excellency—and) Ezra, priest and scribe (and the Levites who were instructing the people) said to all the people, 'This day is sacred to Yahweh your God. Do not be mournful, do not weep.' For the people were all in tears as they listened to the words of the Law.

He then said, 'Go, eat the fat, drink the sweet wine, and send a portion to the man who has nothing prepared ready. For this day is sacred to our Lord. Do not be sad: the joy of Yahweh is your stronghold.' And the Levites calmed all the people, saying, 'Be at ease; this is a sacred day. Do not be sad.' And all the people went off to eat and drink and give shares away and begin to enjoy themselves since they had understood the meaning of what had been proclaimed to them.

On the second day the heads of families of the whole people, and the priests and Levites, gathered round Ezra the scribe to study the words of the Law. And written in the Law that Yahewh had prescribed through Moses they found this, 'The sons of Israel are to live in shelters during the feast of the seventh month'. As soon as they heard this, they issued a proclamation in all their towns and in Jerusalem: 'Go into the hills and bring branches of olive, pine, myrtle, palm and other leafy trees to make shelters, as it says in the book'. The people went; they brought back branches and made themselves shelters, each man on his own roof, in their courtyards, in the precincts of the Temple of God, on the square of the Water Gate and the square of the Gate of Ephraim. The whole assembly, all who had returned from captivity, put up shelters and lived in them; the sons of Israel had never done such a thing from the days of Joshua son of Nun till the present.<sup>1</sup> And there was great merrymaking.

Each day, from the first day to the last, Ezra read from the Book of the Law of God. They celebrated the feast for seven days; on the eighth day, as prescribed, there was a solemn assembly.

The ceremony of atonement

On the twenty-fourth day of this month the Israelites, in sackcloth and with dust on their heads, assembled for a fast. Those of Israelite stock separated themselves from all those of foreign origin; they stood confessing their sins and the transgressions of their ancestors. (Standing, each man in his right position, they read from the Book of the Law of Yahweh their God for one quarter of the day; for another quarter they confessed their sins and prostrated themselves before Yahweh their God.)<sup>2</sup> (On the Levites' platform stood Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani and Chenani, calling loudly to Yahweh their God; and the Levites, Jeshua, Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabneiah, Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah and Pethahiah said, 'Arise and bless Yahweh our God'.)

Blessed be you, Yahweh our God,
from everlasting to everlasting.
And blessed be your name of glory
that surpasses all blessing and praise.

Yahweh, you are the only one.
You made the heavens, the heaven of heavens, with all their array,
the earth and all it bears,
the seas and all they hold.
To all of these you give life
and the array of the heavens bows down before you.

Yahweh, you are the God who chose Abram,
brought him out from Ur in Chaldaea,
and gave him the name of Abraham.
Finding him faithful of heart before you,

<sup>1</sup> Ho. 12:10 seems to attest this feast in the 8th century. According to 2 Ch. 7:8; 8:13 it was celebrated from the time of Solomon.

<sup>2</sup> This gloss makes the gathering resemble the liturgical penitential gatherings of the Chronicler's own day.

you made a covenant with him,
 to give him the land of the Canaanite,
 of the Hittite and Amorite,
 of the Perizzite, Jebusite, Girgashite,
 to him and his posterity.
 And you kept your promise
 because you are just.

You saw the distress of our fathers in Egypt,
 you heard their cry by the Sea of Reeds.
 You worked portents and miracles against Pharaoh,
 against his servants and all the people of his land;
 for you knew how they treated them with arrogance.
 You won a reputation which you keep to this day.
 You divided the sea in front of them:
 they passed through the deep sea dry-shod.
 Into the depths you hurled their pursuers
 like a stone into rushing waters.
 With a pillar of cloud you led them by day,
 with a pillar of fire by night:
 to light the way ahead of them
 by which they should go.
 You came down on Mount Sinai
 and spoke with them from heaven;
 you gave them
 ordinances that are just,
 laws that are sure,
 good statutes and commandments;
 you taught them to know
 your holy sabbath,
 laid down for them commandments (statutes) and Law
 through Moses your servant.

For their hunger you gave them bread from heaven,
 for their thirst you brought them water spurting from the rock.
 You bade them go in and take possession of the land that you had sworn to give to them.

But our fathers grew proud,
 were obstinate, and flouted your commands.
 They refused to obey, forgetful of the wonders
 that you had worked for them;
 they became obstinate, they even thought of going back to Egypt and their slavery.
 But you are a God of forgiveness,
 gracious and loving,
 slow to anger, abounding in goodness,

you did not forsake them.

When they cast themselves a calf
out of molten metal and said, 'This is your God who brought you up from Egypt'
(and were guilty of grave blasphemies),
you, so greatly loving,
still did not forsake them in the wilderness:
the pillar of cloud did not leave them
that led them on their path by day, nor the pillar of fire by night,
to light the way ahead of them
by which they should go.
You gave them your good spirit
to make them wise,
you did not withhold your manna from their mouths,
you gave them water for their thirst.
Forty years you cared for them in the wilderness:
they went short of nothing,
their clothes did not wear out,
their feet were not swollen.

You gave to them kingdoms and peoples,
allotted them these as frontier regions;
they occupied the land of Sihon king of Heshbon,
and of Og king of Bashan.
You multiplied their sons
as the stars of heaven and led them to the land that you had told their fathers
to enter and possess.
The sons invaded and conquered the land,
and before them you humbled
the land's inhabitants, the Canaanites, whom you gave into their hands;
with their kings and the population of that country,
to be treated just as they pleased;
they captured fortified towns
and a fertile countryside,
took possession of houses stocked with all kinds of goods,
of cisterns ready-hewn, of vineyards and olive groves,
of fruit trees in profusion;
they ate, ate their fill,
regaling themselves on the good things you lavished on them.

But, disobedient as they were and rebellious towards you,
they thrust the Law behind their backs,
they killed the prophets who admonished them
to bring them back to you

(and were guilty of grave blasphemies).

So you delivered them into the hands of their oppressors who oppressed them.

In the days of their oppression they cried to you,

and from heaven you heard them

and, greatly loving, you granted them saviours

who freed them from the hands of their oppressors.

But, once at peace, again they did wrong before you and you gave them over to the hands of their enemies who treated them tyrannically.

And once more they cried to you

and from heaven you heard them:

how often are you, so loving, to deliver them?

You admonished them to bring them back to your Law;

but they grew proud, they did not obey your commandments,

they sinned against your ordinances

in which a man finds life if he observes them;

they shrugged their shoulders,

they were obstinate, they would not obey.

You were patient with them

for many years;

you admonished them by your spirit

through your prophets,

but they would not listen.

You delivered them then into the hands of the natives of the countries.

But, greatly loving,

you did not make an end of them,

you did not forsake them,

for you are a gracious and a loving God.

Now therefore, our God,

great and mighty God who must be feared,

maintaining your covenant and your kindness,

count as no small thing this misery

that has happened to us, our kings, our leaders,

our priests, our prophets, and all your people from the time of the kings of Assyria

to the present day.

You have been just

in all that has happened to us,

for you have shown your faithfulness,

we our wickedness:

our kings, our leaders, our priests and our fathers

have not kept your Law,

they have been unmindful of your commandments and the warnings that you gave them.

While they were in their kingdom

with the good things you lavished on them,

in the wide and fertile land
 that you had set before them,
 they did not renounce their evil deeds.
 Here are we now, enslaved;
 here in the land you gave our fathers
 to enjoy its fruits and its good things,
 we are slaves.
 Its rich fruits swell the profit of the kings
 whom for our sins you have set over us, who dispose as they please of our bodies and our cattle.
 Such the distress we endure!

EZRA 9—10

The marriages with foreigners dissolved

Once this was done, the leaders approached me to say, 'The people of Israel, the priests and the Levites, have not broken with the natives of the countries who are steeped in abominations—Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites, Jebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians and Amorites—but have found wives among these foreign women for themselves and for their sons; the holy race has been mingling with the natives of the countries; in this act of treachery the chief men and officials have led the way'. At this news I tore my garment and my cloak; I tore hair from my head and beard and sat down, quite overcome. All who trembled at the words of the God of Israel gathered round me, when faced by this treachery of the exiles. For my part, I went on sitting there, overcome, until the evening oblation. At the evening sacrifice I came out of my stupor and falling on my knees, with my garment and cloak torn, I stretched out my hands to Yahweh my God, and said:

'My God, I am ashamed, I blush to lift my face to you, my God. For our crimes have increased, until they are higher than our heads, and our sin has piled up to heaven. From the days of our ancestors until now our guilt has been great; on account of our crimes we, our kings and our priests, were given into the power of the kings of other countries, given to the sword, to captivity, to pillage and to shame, as is the case today. But now, suddenly, Yahweh our God by his favour has left us a remnant and granted us a refuge in his holy place; this is how our God has cheered our eyes and given us a little respite in our slavery. For we are slaves; but God has not forgotten us in our slavery; he has shown us kindness in the eyes of the kings of Persia, obtaining permission for us to rebuild the Temple of our God and restore its ruins, and he has found us safety and shelter in Judah and in Jerusalem. But now what can we say, my God, if after this kindness we have deserted your commandments, which, through your servants the prophets, you ordained in these words, "The land you are entering to possess is a land unclean because of the foulness of the natives of the countries and of the abominations with which their impurities have infected it from end to end. So you must not give your daughters to their sons nor take their daughters for your sons; you must not be concerned for their peace or their prosperity, so that you yourselves may grow strong, eat the best of what the country produces and leave it as an inheritance to your sons for ever."

'Now after all that has come upon us on account of our evil deeds and our great fault—although you, our God, have rated our crimes less than their wickedness and left us this remnant here—are we to break your commandments again and intermarry with these people who practise such abominations? Would you not be provoked to the point of destroying us, so that not even the smallest remnant would survive? Yahweh, God of Israel, by your justice we survive as the remnant we are today; here we are before you with our sin. And because of it, no one can survive in your presence.'

While Ezra, weeping and prostrate before the Temple of God, prayed and confessed, a great crowd of Israelites gathered round him, men, women and children, weeping bitterly too. Then Shecaniah son of Jehiel, one of the sons of Elam, spoke up and said to Ezra, 'We have betrayed our God by marrying foreign women, taken from the natives of the countries. But, in spite of this, there is still some hope for Israel. We will make a solemn promise before our God to put away our foreign wives and the children born to them, as my lord and those who tremble at the commandment of our God may advise. Let us act in accordance with the Law. Up! This is for you to decide, but we will support you. Take courage; to work!' Then Ezra stood up and put the leading priests and Levites and all Israel on oath to do what had been said. They took the oath. Ezra left his place before the Temple of God and went to the room of Jehohanan son of Eliashib, where he spent the night without eating bread or drinking water; he was in mourning for the exiles' treachery.

A proclamation was issued in Judah and in Jerusalem to all the exiles that they were to assemble in Jerusalem: anyone who did not come within three days—such was the warning of the leaders and elders—would have all his goods seized and would himself be excluded from the community of the exiles. As a result, all the men of Judah and Benjamin assembled in Jerusalem within the three days; it was the ninth month, the twentieth day of the month; all the people gathered in the square before the Temple of God; the occasion itself, and the heavy rain, had them trembling. Then Ezra the priest stood up and spoke, 'You have committed treason by marrying foreign women; you have added to the sin of Israel. But now give thanks to Yahweh, the God of your ancestors, and do his will, by separating from the natives of the country and from your foreign wives.' In a loud voice the whole assembly answered, 'Yes, our duty is to do as you say. But there are a great many people here and it is the rainy season; we cannot stay out in the open; besides, this is not something that can be dealt with in one or two days, since many of us have sinned in this respect. Our leaders could represent the full assembly; all those from our towns who have foreign wives could come at stated times, accompanied by elders and judges from each town, until we have turned away God's anger which has been thus roused against us.' Only Jonathan son of Asahel and Jahzeiah son of Tikvah, supported by Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levite, were opposed to this procedure. The exiles acted on this suggestion. Ezra the priest chose as helpers the heads of families for each House, all designated by name. The session for investigating individual cases began on the first day of the tenth month. And by the first day of the first month they had dealt with all the men who had married foreign women.

The list of the guilty

THE TRANSJORDANIAN TRIBES

Reuben

5 Sons of Reuben, first-born of Israel. He was indeed the first-born but, when 1 he violated his father's couch, his birthright was given to the sons of Joseph son of Israel.

Reuben's territory

Reuben, having settled at Aroer, spread as far as Nebo and Baal-meon. •To 9 the east his lands stretched to the beginning of the desert that ends at the river Euphrates, for he had many herds in the land of Gilead.

During the reign of Saul they waged war on the Hagarites; they suffered 10 defeat at their hands and the Hagarites occupied their tents throughout the region east of Gilead.

Gad<sup>a</sup>

- 18 The sons of Reuben, the sons of Gad, the half-tribe of Manasseh, a number of their fighting men, men who carried shield and spear and could handle the bow, men used to warfare, forty-four thousand seven hundred and sixty of them fit for service, •waged war against the Hagriles, against Jetur, Naphish and Nodab. God came to their help against them, and the Hagriles with all their allies fell into their hands, for they had called on God as they fought, and because they put their trust in him their prayer was heard. •They carried off of the Hagriles' livestock fifty thousand camels, two hundred and fifty thousand sheep, two thousand donkeys and a hundred thousand people, •for, God directing the battle, the greater part had been killed. And they settled in what had been Hagrite territory until the exile.

- 25 But they were unfaithful to the God of their ancestors and prostituted themselves to the gods of the peoples of the land whom God had destroyed before them.
- 26 So the God of Israel roused the hostility of Pul<sup>b</sup> king of Assyria and of Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria. He deported Reuben, Gad and the half-tribe of Manasseh, taking them off to Halah near Habor and the river Gozan. They are still there today.

Ebiasaph, son of Korah, with his brother Korahites, of the same family, were Tent, as their fathers, in charge of the camp of Yahweh, had guarded the entrance to it. •At one time, Phinehas son of Eleazar had ruled them (may Yahweh 20 be with him!). •Zechariah son of Meshelemiah was keeper of the gate at the 21

These were the heads of the levitical families, grouped according to their 34 kinship. These heads lived in Jerusalem.

SAUL, DAVID'S PREDECESSOR

The ancestors of Saul

35 At Gibeon lived Abi-gibeon and Jeiel, whose wife was called Maacah, 36 His first-born son was Abdon, then Zur, Kish, Baal, Ner, Nadab, •Gedor, Ahio.

 38 their kinsmen, lived with their kinsmen in Jerusalem.

39 Ner became father of Kish, Kish father of Saul, Saul father of Jonathan, 43 became father of Moza, •Moza father of Binea.

44 Rephaiah his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son. •Azel had six sons; their names were these: Azrikam, his first-born, then Ishmael, Bocheru, Sheariah, Obadiah, Hanan. These were the sons of Azel.

The death of Saul

1 10 The Philistines made war on Israel, and the Israelites fled from the 2 Philistines and were slaughtered on Mount Gilboa. •The Philistines pressed 3 Saul and his sons hard and killed Jonathan, Abinadab and Malchi-shua, the 4 sons of Saul. •The fighting grew heavy about Saul; the bowmen took him off 4 his guard, so that he fell wounded by the bowmen. •Then Saul said to his armour-bearer, 'Draw your sword and run me through with it. I do not want 5 these uncircumcised men to come and gloat over me'. But his armour-bearer was 6 afraid and would not do it. So Saul took his own sword and fell on it. •His armour-bearer, seeing that Saul was dead, fell on his sword too and died with 7 him. •And so Saul died, he and his three sons and all his House together.
 8 When all the Israelites who were in the valley saw that the men of Israel had taken to flight and that Saul and his sons were dead, they abandoned their towns and fled away. The Philistines then came in and occupied them.

9 When the Philistines came on the following day to strip the dead, they found 10 Saul and his sons lying on Mount Gilboa. •They stripped him and, taking his head and his armour, had them carried round the land of the Philistines to 11 proclaim the good news to their idols and their people. •They placed his armour in the temple of their god, but his head they nailed up in the temple of Dagon.

12 When all the inhabitants of Gilead heard all that the Philistines had done
 13 to Saul, •all the warriors set off; and they took the bodies of Saul and his sons away and, bringing them to Jabesh, they buried their bones under the tamarisk of Jabesh; and they fasted for seven days.

14 Saul died because he had shown himself unfaithful to Yahweh: he had not kept the word of Yahweh; he had even questioned and consulted a necromancer.
 He had not consulted Yahweh, who therefore put him to death and transferred the monarchy to David son of Jesse.

DAVID, FOUNDER OF THE TEMPLE WORSHIP

DAVID THE KING

David is anointed king

1 11 All the tribes of Israel then rallied to David at Hebron. 'Look,' they said
 2 'we are your own flesh and blood. •In days past when Saul was our king, it was you who led Israel in all their exploits; and Yahweh your God said to 9 a. At this time, the tabernacle was at Gibeon, but in this chapter the Chronicler anticipates various developments known to his own times, e.g. the use of the word 'Temple', the office of cantors, the Levites as residents of Jerusalem.

you, "You are the man who shall be shepherd of my people Israel, you shall be the leader of my people Israel". ' •So all the elders of Israel came to the king 3 at Hebron, and David made a pact with them at Hebron in the presence of Yahweh, and they anointed David king of Israel, in accordance with the word of Yahweh through Samuel.

The capture of Jerusalem

David with all Israel marched on Jerusalem (that is to say, Jebus); the 4 inhabitants of the country were Jebusites. •The inhabitants of Jebus said to 5 David, 'You will not get in here'. But David captured the fortress of Zion, that is, the Citadel of David. •David said, 'The first to strike down a Jebusite 6 shall become leader and commander'. Joab son of Zeruah was first to go up, and became leader. •David went to live in the fortress, and that is how it came 7 to be called the Citadel of David. •He then built a wall round the city, and the 8 Millo as well as the surrounding wall, while Joab restored the rest of the city. David grew greater and greater, and Yahweh Sabaoth was with him. 9

David's champions

These are the principal champions of David, those who in his reign grew in 10 power with him and who, with all Israel, had made him king in accordance with the word of Yahweh concerning Israel. •This is the roll of David's 11 champions: Jashobeam the Hachmonite, leader of the Thirty; it was he who wielded his battle-axe against three hundred whom he killed at one time.

After him there was Eleazar son of Dodo, the Ahohite, one of the three 12 champions. •He was with David at Pas-dammim when the Philistines mustered 13 for battle there. There was a field full of barley there; the army took flight before the Philistines, •but they positioned themselves in the middle of the field, defended it 14 and struck down the Philistines. So Yahweh brought about a great victory.

Three out of the Thirty went down to David at the rock near the Cave of 15 Adullam while a company of Philistines was encamped in the Valley of the Rephaim. •David was then in the stronghold and there was a Philistine garrison 16 in Bethlehem. •'Oh' David sighed 'if someone would fetch me a drink of water from 17 the well that stands by the gate at Bethlehem!' •At this the three champions, forcing 18 their way through the Philistine camp, drew water from the well that stands by the gate of Bethlehem and, bringing it away, presented it to David. But David would drink none of it and poured it out as a libation to Yahweh. •'God keep 19 me' he said 'from doing this! Am I to drink the blood of these men? For at the risk of their lives they brought it.' And so he would not drink. Such were the deeds of the three champions.

Abishai, the brother of Joab, was leader of the Thirty. It was he who wielded 20 his spear against three hundred whom he killed, winning himself a name among the Thirty. •He was more famous than the Thirty and became their captain, 21 but he was no rival for the Three.

Benaiah son of Jehoiada, a hero from Kabzeel, a man of many exploits, 22 struck down the two champions of Moab and, one snowy day, went down and killed the lion in the cistern. •He was also the man who killed an Egyptian, 23 a huge man five cubits tall. The Egyptian had a spear in his hand like a weaver's beam, but he went down against him with a staff, tore the spear from the Egyptian's hand and killed the man with it. •Such were the exploits of Benaiah 24 son of Jehoiada, winning him a name among the thirty champions. •He was more 25 famous than the Thirty, but he was no rival for the Three. David put him in command of his bodyguard.

David's first supporters

<sup>2</sup> in battle, •who could handle the bow with right hand or with left, who could use stones or arrows.

<sup>3</sup> Of the kinsmen of Saul the Benjaminite: •Ahiezer the leader, and Joash, sons of Hasshemar from Gibeah, Zeziel and Pelet, sons of Azmaveth, Beracah and
<sup>8</sup> Isshiah, Azarel, Joezer, Jashobeam, Korahites, •Joelah, Zebadiah, sons of Jeroham from Gedor.

<sup>10</sup> were stout fighting men and trained, well used to shield and spear. Lions they

Obadiah second, Eliab third, •Mishmannah fourth, Jeremiah fifth, •Attai sixth, Eliel seventh, •Johanah eighth, Elzabad ninth, •Jeremiah tenth, Machbannai eleventh. •These sons of Gad were troop commanders, each one in command, the lesser of a hundred, the greater of a thousand. •These are the men who crossed the Jordan in the first month, when it overflows its course, and put to flight all who lived on its banks, both east and west.

Certain Benjaminites, too, and Judaeans came to David in the stronghold. David went forward to them and addressed them. 'If you come to me as friends' he said 'to give me help, then I am ready to join with you. But if it is to betray me to my enemies, when I have done no wrong, then may the God of our ancestors take note and give judgement.'

Then the spirit took possession of Amasai, leader of the Thirty:

'Go forth, David! Peace be with you, son of Jesse!
Peace to you, peace to him that helps you,
for your help is your God.'

David accepted them and added them to his other company commanders.

Certain Manassites deserted to David as he was setting out with the Philistines to fight Saul. But he gave them no help because the Philistine chiefs, after consultation, dismissed him. 'If he deserted to his master Saul' they said 'it would cost us our heads.' •He was on his way to Ziklag when these Manassites deserted to him: Adnah, Jozabad, Jediahel, Michael, Jozabad, Elihu, Zillethai, commanders of thousands in Manasseh. •This was a reinforcement for David and his troops, since they were all valiant champions and became officers in the army.

Indeed reinforcements reached David every day, so that his camp grew into a camp of prodigious size.

The warriors who assured David's kingship

These are the figures from the roll of warriors equipped for battle who joined David at Hebron to transfer Saul's kingship to him in accordance with the order of Yahweh:

Sons of Judah carrying shield and spear: six thousand eight hundred warriors equipped for battle;

of the sons of Simeon; seven thousand one hundred champions valiant in war;

of the sons of Levi: four thousand six hundred, •in addition to Jehoiada, in command of the Aaronites, with three thousand seven hundred of these, Zadok, a young and valiant champion, and twenty-two commanders of his family;

of the sons of Benjamin: three thousand kinsmen of Saul, most of them hitherto in the service of the House of Saul;

of the sons of Ephraim: twenty thousand eight hundred valiant champions, men famous in their families;

of the half-tribe of Manasseh: eighteen thousand men assigned by name to go and proclaim David king;

of the sons of Issachar, sound judges of the times when Israel should take action, and the way to do it: two hundred chiefs and all their kinsmen under their command;

of Zebulun: fifty thousand men fit for service, marshalled for battle, with warlike weapons of every kind, staunch-hearted auxiliaries;

of Naphtali: a thousand commanders, and with them thirty-seven thousand men armed with shield and spear;

of the Danites: twenty-eight thousand six hundred men marshalled for battle;

of Asher: forty thousand men fit for service, marshalled for battle;

from Transjordan: a hundred and twenty thousand men of Reuben, Gad and the half-tribe of Manasseh, with warlike weapons of every kind.

<sup>39</sup>
<sup>38</sup> All these fighting men, marshalled reinforcements, came to Hebron with the purpose and determination to proclaim David king over all Israel; and the rest of
<sup>40</sup>
<sup>39</sup> Israel, too, were all of one mind in making David king. •For three days they stayed there, eating and drinking with David.

<sup>41</sup>
<sup>40</sup> Their kinsmen had made preparations for them; •furthermore, from as far as Issachar and Zebulun and Naphtali their neighbours brought provisions, by donkey and camel, mule and ox—flour cakes, fig cakes, bunches of raisins, wine, oil, quantities of oxen and sheep; for there was joy in Israel.

The ark brought back from Kiriath-jearim

1 13 David conferred with the commanders of thousands and of hundreds and
2 with all the leaders. •To the whole assembly of Israel David said, 'If this has your approval, and if Yahweh our God wills it so, we will send messengers to the rest of our brothers throughout the territories of Israel, and also to the priests and Levites in their towns and adjacent lands, bidding them join us.
3 We will then recover the ark of our God, for in the time of Saul we neglected it.'

4 The whole assembly agreed to this, for in the eyes of all the people it was 5 the right thing to do. •So David gathered all the people together from the Shihor of Egypt to the Pass of Hamath to bring the ark of God from Kiriath-jearim. •Then David and all Israel went up to Baalah, to Kiriath-jearim in Judah, to bring up from there the ark of God which bears the name of Yahweh
7 who is seated on the cherubs. •At Abinadab's house they placed the ark of God
8 on a new cart. Uzzah and Ahio were leading the cart. •David and all Israel danced before God with all their might, singing to the accompaniment of lyres,
9 harps, tambourines, cymbals, trumpets. •When they came to the threshing-floor of the Javelin, Uzzah stretched his hand out to hold the ark, as the oxen
10 were making it tilt. •Then the anger of Yahweh blazed out against Uzzah and he struck him down because he had laid his hand on the ark, and he died there 11 in the presence of God. •David was displeased that Yahweh had broken out against Uzzah, and that place was called Perez-uzzah as it still is now.

12 David went in fear of God that day. 'However can I bring the ark of God
13 to my home?' he said. •So David did not take the ark home to the Citadel of David, but took it to the house of Obed-edom of Gath. •The ark of God remained with the family of Obed-edom, in his house, for three months, and Yahweh blessed the family of Obed-edom and everything that belonged to him.

David at Jerusalem, his palace, his children

1 14 Hiram king of Tyre sent envoys to David with cedar wood and stone-
2 masons and carpenters to build him a palace. •David then knew that Yahweh had confirmed him as king over Israel, and that for the sake of his people Israel his reign was being made glorious.

3 At Jerusalem David took more wives and fathered more sons and daughters.
4 These are the names of the children born to him in Jerusalem: Shammua, Shobab,
5,6 Nathan, Solomon, •Ibhar, Elishua, Elpelet, •Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia, •Elishama, 7 Beeliada, Eliphelet.

Victories over the Philistines

8 When the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king of all Israel, they all marched up to seek him out. On hearing this, David went out to meet 9 them. •When the Philistines arrived they deployed in the Valley of the Rephaim.
10 David consulted God: 'Shall I attack the Philistines?' he asked. 'Will you deliver them into my power?' Yahweh answered him, 'Attack! I will deliver them into 11 your power.' •Accordingly they went up to Baal-perazim and there David defeated them. David said, 'Through me God has made a breach in my enemies like a breach the waters make'. For this reason that place was called Baal-perazim.

They had left their gods behind them there, and David ordered them to be burnt. 12

Again the Philistines deployed in the valley. •David again consulted God, 13 and God answered, 'Do not attack them from the front; go round and engage 14 them opposite the balsam trees. •When you hear the sound of steps in the tops 15 of the balsam trees, launch your attack, for that will be God going out ahead of you to rout the army of the Philistines.' •David did as God had ordered, and 16
they routed the Philistine army from Gibeon as far as Gezer.

The fame of David spread into every region, and Yahweh made him feared 17
by every nation.

THE ARK IN THE CITADEL OF DAVID

Preparations for moving the ark

15 He put up buildings for himself in the Citadel of David and prepared 1 a place for the ark of God, and he pitched a tent for it. •Then he said, 2
'The ark of God may be moved only by the Levites, since Yahweh has chosen them to carry the ark of Yahweh and to serve him always'.

Then David gathered all Israel together in Jerusalem to bring the ark of 3
God up to the place he had prepared for it. •David called together the sons of 4
Aaron and the sons of Levi: •of the sons of Kohath: Uriel the chief and his 5 hundred and twenty kinsmen; •of the sons of Merari: Asaiah the chief and his 6
two hundred and twenty kinsmen; •of the sons of Gershon: Joel the chief and 7 his hundred and thirty kinsmen; •of the sons of Elizaphan: Shemaiah the chief 8 and his two hundred kinsmen; •of the sons of Hebron: Eliel the chief and eighty 9
kinsmen; •of the sons of Uzziel: Amminadab the chief and his hundred and 10 twelve kinsmen.

David summoned the priests Zadok and Abiathar, and the Levites Uriel, 11
Asaiah, Joel, Shemaiah, Eliel and Amminadab. •To these he said, 'You are 12
the heads of the levitical families. Sanctify yourselves,<sup>a</sup> you and your kinsmen, and bring the ark of Yahweh, the God of Israel, up to the place I have prepared for it. •It was because you were not there the first time that Yahweh our God 13 broke out against us,<sup>b</sup> because we did not approach him in the right way.' •So the 14 priests and the Levites sanctified themselves to bring up the ark of Yahweh, the God of Israel, •and the Levites carried the ark of God with the shafts on 15 their shoulders, as Moses had ordered in accordance with the word of Yahweh.

David then told the heads of the Levites to assign duties for their kinsmen 16 as cantors, with their various instruments of music, harps and lyres and cymbals, to play joyful tunes. •The Levites then appointed Heman son of Joel, Asaph 17 son of Berechiah, one of his brothers, Ethan son of Kushaiah, one of their Merarite kinsmen; •and with them, next in rank, their kinsmen: Zechariah son 18 of Jaaziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattithiah, Eliphehu, Mikneiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel, keepers of the gate. •Heman, Asaph 19 and Ethan, the cantors, were to clash the cymbals of bronze; •Zechariah, 20 Jaaziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Maaseiah and Benaiah were to play the keyed harp. •Mattithiah, Eliphehu, Mikneiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel and 21 Azaziah, giving the beat, were to play the octave lyre. •Chenaniah, a chief of 22
the Levites and versed in divine oracles, was to expound these, being expert in them. •Berechiah and Elkanah were to be gatekeepers to the ark. •The priests 23 Shebaniah, Joshaphat, Nethanel, Amasai, Zechariah, Benaiah and Eliezer were 24 to sound the trumpet before the ark of God. Obed-edom and Jehiah were to be gatekeepers to the ark. <sup>c</sup>

The ark is brought to Jerusalem

So David, with the elders of Israel and the commanders of thousands, went 25 to bring up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh from Obed-edom's house with great rejoicing. •And since God was helping the Levites who carried the ark of 26

27 the covenant of Yahweh, they sacrificed seven bulls and seven rams. •David was wearing a cloak of fine linen, like all the Levites who carried the ark, the cantors and Chenaniah, the officer in charge of its transportation. David also 28 wore the linen ephod. •Thus all Israel brought up the ark of the covenant of Yahweh with acclaim, to the sound of the horn, of trumpets, of cymbals, making 29 harp and lyre resound. •Now as the ark of the covenant of Yahweh entered the Citadel of David, Michal the daughter of Saul was watching from the window and saw King David dancing and exultant; and she despised him in her heart.

1 16 They brought the ark of God in and put it inside the tent that David had pitched for it; and they offered holocausts before God, and communion
2 sacrifices. •And when David had finished offering holocausts and communion
3 sacrifices, he blessed the people in the name of Yahweh. •He then distributed to all the Israelites, men and women, a loaf of bread each, a portion of dates, and a raisin cake.

The service of the Levites before the ark

4 David appointed some of the Levites as ministers before the ark of Yahweh, to commemorate, glorify and praise Yahweh, the God of Israel: •first Asaph, second Zechariah, then Uzziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Mattithiah, Eliab, Benaiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel. These were to play the harp and the lyre, Asaph was to clash
6 the cymbals. •The priests Benaiah and Jahaziel were to keep sounding the 7 trumpet before the ark of the covenant of Yahweh. •That day, David, foremost in praising Yahweh, entrusted this song of praise<sup>a</sup> to Asaph and his kinsmen:

8 Give thanks to Yahweh, call his name aloud,
proclaim his deeds to the peoples.
9 Sing to him, play to him,
tell over all his marvels.
10 Glory in his holy name,
let the hearts that seek Yahweh rejoice!
11 Seek Yahweh and his strength,
seek his face untiringly;
12 remember the marvels he has done,
his wonders, the judgements from his mouth.
13 Stock of Israel his servant,
sons of Jacob his chosen one,
14 he is Yahweh our God;
his authority is over all the earth.
15 Remember his covenant for ever,
his word of command for a thousand generations,
16 the pact he made with Abraham,
his oath to Isaac.
17 He established it as a statute for Jacob,
an everlasting covenant for Israel.
18 'I give you a land,' he said
'Canaan, your allotted heritage,
19 'there where you were easily counted,
'few in number, strangers to the country.'
20 They went from nation to nation,
from one kingdom to another people,

Three lists are combined in this chapter: first, the three famous cantors; second, twelve keepers of the gate; third, a list of seven priests and two gatekeepers to the ark which corresponds with the situation in the Chronicler's own day.

he let no man oppress them, 21
 he punished kings on their behalf.
 'Do not touch my anointed ones,' he said 22
 'do not harm my prophets.'
 Sing to Yahweh, all the earth. 23
 Proclaim his salvation day after day,
 tell of his glory among the nations, 24
 tell his marvels to every people.
 Yahweh is great, loud must be his praise, 25
 he is to be feared beyond all gods.
 Nothingness, all the gods of the nations. 26
 Yahweh himself made the heavens;
 in his presence are splendour and majesty, 27
 in his sanctuary power and joy.
 Pay tribute to Yahweh, families of the peoples, 28
 tribute to Yahweh of glory and power,
 tribute to Yahweh of his name's due glory. 29
 Bring out the offering, bear it before him,
 worship Yahweh in his sacred court,
 tremble before him, all the earth! 30
 Firm has he made the world, and unshakeable.
 Let the heavens be glad, let earth rejoice! 31
 Say among the nations, 'Yahweh is king!'
 Let the sea thunder and all that it holds, 32
 let the fields exult and all that is in them, let all the woodland trees cry out for joy, 33
 at the presence of Yahweh;
 for he comes to judge the earth.
 Give thanks to Yahweh, for he is good, 34
 his love is everlasting.
 Say, 'God of our salvation, save us, 35
 gather us, rescue us from among the heathen,
 to give thanks to your holy name
 and to find our happiness in praising you.'
 Blessed be Yahweh the God of Israel 36
 from all eternity and for ever!
 And let all the people say, 'Amen!'
 Alleluia!

There before the ark of the covenant of Yahweh David left Asaph and his 37
 kinsmen to maintain a permanent ministry before the ark as each day's ritual required, •and also Obed-edom, with his sixty-eight kinsmen. Obed-edom son 38 of Jeduthun, and Hosah were to be keepers of the gate.

Zadok the priest and the priests, his kinsmen, he left before the tabernacle 39 of Yahweh on the high place at Gibeon •to offer holocausts to Yahweh 40 unflinching, morning and evening, on the altar of holocaust, and to carry out all that is written in the Law of Yahweh laid down for Israel. •With them were 41 Heman and Jeduthun and the rest of those who were chosen and assigned by name to give praise to God, 'for his love is everlasting'. •With them were Heman 42 and Jeduthun who were to sound the trumpets, cymbals and musical instruments accompanying the hymns to God. The sons of Jeduthun were given charge of the gate.

43 Then all went away, each to his own house, and David returned to bless his household.

The prophecy of Nathan

1 17 Once David had settled into his house, he said to the prophet Nathan, 'Here am I living in a house of cedar, while the ark of Yahweh's covenant is still beneath the awning of a tent'. •Nathan said to David, 'Do all that is in your mind, for God is with you'.

3 But that very night the word of Yahweh came to Nathan,
4 'Go and tell my servant David, "Yahweh says this: You are not the man to build me a house to dwell in. •I have never stayed in a house from the day I brought Israel out until today, but went from tent to tent, from one shelter to another. •In all my journeying with the whole of Israel, did I say to any one of the judges of Israel, whom I had appointed as shepherds of my people: Why have you not built me a house of cedar? •This is what you must say to my servant David: Yahweh Sabaoth says this: I took you from the pasture, from following the sheep, to be leader of my people Israel. •I have been with you on all your expeditions; I have cut off all your enemies before you. I will give you fame as great as the fame of the greatest on earth. •I will provide a place for my people Israel; I will plant them there and they shall live in that place and never be disturbed again; nor shall the wicked continue to destroy them, as they did •in the days when I appointed judges over my people Israel; I will subdue all their enemies. I will make you great; Yahweh will make you a House. •And when your days are ended and you must go to your ancestors, I will preserve your offspring after you, a son of your own, and make his sovereignty secure. •It is he who shall build a house for me and I will make his throne firm for ever. •I will be a father to him and he a son to me. I will not withdraw my favour from him, as I withdrew it from your predecessor. I will preserve him for ever in my house and in my kingdom; and his throne shall be established for ever." '

15 Nathan related all these words to David and this whole revelation.

David's prayer

16 King David then went in and, seated before Yahweh, said:
17 'Who am I, Yahweh God, and what is my House, that you have led me as far as this? •Yet in your eyes, O God, this is still not far enough, and you make your promises extend to your servant's House into the distant future. You show me as it were a line of men, and it is Yahweh God, who promises it. •What more can David say to you for the honour you have given to your servant?
19 You yourself have singled out your servant. •For your servant's sake, this dog of yours, you have done such a great thing by revealing all this greatness to come. There is none like you, no God except you alone, that we have ever heard of.
21 Is there another people on the earth like your people Israel, with a God setting out to redeem it and make it his people, giving yourself a name for great and terrible things by driving nations out before your people whom you redeemed from Egypt? •You made your people Israel your own people for ever; and you, Yahweh, have become their God. •Now, Yahweh, let the promise you have made to your servant and to his House be always kept, and do as you have said.
24 May this promise hold good and your name be exalted for ever; may they say, "Yahweh Sabaoth is the God of Israel, he is God for Israel". The House of your servant David will be made secure in your presence, •since you yourself, my God, have made the revelation to your servant that you would build him a House; and so your servant has ventured to offer this prayer in your presence.
26 Yes, Yahweh, you are God indeed, and you have made this kind promise to your servant. •Be pleased, then, to bless the House of your servant, that it may continue for ever in your presence; for what you, Yahweh, have blessed is blessed for ever.'

The wars of David

18 After this, David defeated the Philistines and subdued them. From the 1 hands of the Philistines he took Gath and its outlying villages. •He also 2 defeated the Moabites; the Moabites became subject to David, paying him tribute.

At Hamath David defeated Hadadezer king of Zobah on his way to 3 consolidate his power over the river Euphrates. •David captured one thousand 4 chariots, seven thousand charioteers and twenty thousand foot soldiers from him; David hamstringed all the chariot teams, keeping only a hundred of them.
The Aramaeans of Damascus came to the help of Hadadezer king of Zobah, 5 but David killed twenty-two thousand men of the Aramaeans. •Then David 6 imposed governors on Aram of Damascus, and the Aramaeans became subject to David, paying him tribute. Wherever David went, God gave him victory.
David took the golden shields carried by the guards of Hadadezer and brought 7 them to Jerusalem. •From Tibhath and from Cun, towns belonging to Hadadezer, 8 David took a great quantity of bronze; with this Solomon made the bronze Sea and the bronze pillars and furnishings.

When Tou king of Hamath heard that David had defeated the entire army 9 of Hadadezer king of Zobah, •he sent his son Hadoram to King David to greet 10 him and to congratulate him on fighting and defeating Hadadezer, since Hadadezer was the enemy of Tou. He sent articles of every kind in gold, silver and bronze, •which King David also consecrated to Yahweh together with the 11 silver and gold he had levied from all the nations: Edom, Moab, Ammonites, Philistines, Amalek.

Abishai son of Zeruiah defeated the Edomites in the Valley of Salt, eighteen 12 thousand of them. •He imposed governors on Edom, and all the Edomites 13 became subject to David. Wherever David went, God gave him victory.

The exploits of David's commanders

David ruled over all Israel, administering law and justice to all his people. •Joab 14 son of Zeruiah was in command of the army; Jehoshaphat son of Ahilud was 15 recorder; •Zadok son of Ahitub and Abiathar son of Ahimelech were priests; 16 Shavsha was secretary; •Benaiah son of Jehoiada was in command of the 17
Cherethites and Pelethites; David's sons held the first place at the king's side.<sup>a</sup>

19 After this, Nahash king of the Ammonites died and his son Hanun suc- 1 ceeded him. •David thought, 'I will show kindness to Hanun son of Nahash 2 since his father was kind to me'. And David sent messengers with his condolences on his father's death. But when David's servants reached Hanun in the land of the Ammonites to present these condolences, •the Ammonite leaders, 3 said to Hanun, 'Do you imagine David means to honour your father when he sends you messengers of sympathy? On the contrary, the reason why his servants have come to you is to explore, overthrow and reconnoitre the country.'
Whereupon Hanun seized David's servants, shaved them, cut their clothes half- 4 way up to the buttocks, and sent them away. •David was soon told what had 5 happened to these men; he sent someone to meet them, for the men were covered with shame. 'Stay in Jericho' the king said 'until your beards have grown again, and come back then.'

The Ammonites saw that they had incurred the enmity of David, and 6 accordingly Hanun and the Ammonites sent a thousand talents of silver to hire chariots and charioteers from the Aramaeans of Upper Mesopotamia, of Maacah and of Zobah. •They hired thirty-two thousand chariots; also the king 7 of Maacah with his army. These came and encamped before Medeba, while the Ammonites, having left their towns and mustered, were advancing to the war. •When David heard this, he sent Joab with all the common soldiers and 8
the champions. •The Ammonites marched out and drew up their line of battle 9 at the approaches to the town, but the kings who had come kept their distance in the open country. •Joab, seeing that he had to fight on two fronts, to his 10

front and to his rear, chose the best of Israel's picked men and drew them up 11 in line facing the Aramaeans. •He entrusted the rest of the army to his brother 12 Abishai, and drew them up in line facing the Ammonites. •'If the Aramaeans prove too strong for me,' he said 'you must come to my help; if the Ammonites 13 prove too strong for you, I will come to yours. •Take courage and stand firm for the sake of our people and the towns of our God. And may Yahweh do as he 14 thinks right.' •Joab and the force with him joined battle with the Aramaeans, 15 who fled before him. •When the Ammonites saw that the Aramaeans had taken flight, they too fled before Abishai, Joab's brother, and withdrew into their town. Then Joab came back to Jerusalem.

16 Seeing that they had been defeated by Israel, the Aramaeans sent messengers and mobilised the Aramaeans from beyond the river, with Shophach, commander 17 of Hadadezer's army, at their head. •Word of this was brought to David, who mustered all Israel, crossed the Jordan, made contact with them and took up position near them. David drew up his line of battle facing the Aramaeans, who 18 then engaged him. •But the Aramaeans gave ground before Israel, and David killed seven thousand of their chariot teams and forty thousand foot soldiers.
 19 He also killed Shophach their general. •When the vassals of Hadadezer saw that they had been defeated by Israel, they made peace with David and became subject to him. The Aramaeans were reluctant to give any more help to the Ammonites.

1 20 At the turn of the year, the time when kings go campaigning, Joab led out the troops and ravaged the land of the Ammonites and went to lay siege to Rabbah. David, however, remained in Jerusalem. Joab reduced Rabbah and 2 dismantled it. •David took the crown from the head of Milcom and found that it weighed a talent of gold; in it was set a precious stone which made an ornament for David's head. He carried off a great quantity of spoil from the 3 town. •He brought away its population and set them to work with saws, iron picks and axes. David treated all the Ammonite towns in the same way. Then David and the whole army returned to Jerusalem.

4 After this, war with the Philistines was resumed at Gezer. This was when Sibbecai of Hushah killed Sippai, a descendant of the Rephaim. The Philistines were subdued.

5 War with the Philistines broke out again, and Elhanan son of Jair killed Lahmi, the brother of Goliath of Gath, the shaft of whose spear was like a weaver's beam.

6 There was another battle at Gath, where there was a man of huge stature with six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, twenty-four in all. He 7 too was a descendant of Rapha. •Jonathan, son of David's brother Shimea, killed him when he defied Israel.

8 These men were descended from Rapha of Gath and they fell at the hands of David and his guards.

PRELUDE TO THE BUILDING OF THE TEMPLE

The census

1 21 Satan rose against Israel and incited David to take a census of the 2 Israelites. •David said to Joab and to the senior army officers, 'Go, and take a census of Israel, from Beersheba to Dan, then come back and tell me the 3 total.' •Joab said, 'May Yahweh multiply the people a hundred times! My lord king, are they not all servants of my lord? Why should my lord make this 4 enquiry? Why should guilt be brought on Israel?' •But the king enforced his 18 a. According to 2 S they were priests; for the Chronicler, priests are of levitical and not Judaeon descent.

order on Joab, and Joab went away, covered the whole of Israel, and then returned to Jerusalem. •Joab gave David the figures for the census of the people: the whole of Israel numbered one million one hundred thousand men capable of drawing sword, and Judah four hundred and seventy thousand capable of drawing sword. •Joab had found the king's command so distasteful that he had taken no census of Levi or of Benjamin.

The pestilence. God's forgiveness

God looked with displeasure on these proceedings, and he struck Israel. Then David said to God, 'I have committed a grave sin by doing this. But now I beg you to forgive your servant for this fault. I have been very foolish.' •Then Yahweh spoke to Gad, David's seer, •'Go and say to David, "Yahweh says this: I offer you three things; choose one of them for me to do to you".' So Gad went to David and said, 'Yahweh, says this, "Take your choice: three years of famine, three months of disaster at the hands of your enemies, with the sword of your enemies thrusting at you, or the sword of Yahweh and three days' pestilence in the country, with the angel of Yahweh ravaging all the territory of Israel". Now decide how I am to answer him who sends me.' 'This is a hard choice' David said to Gad. 'But let me rather fall into the power of Yahweh, since his mercy is very great; and not into the power of men.'

So Yahweh sent a pestilence on Israel, and seventy thousand men of the Israelites died. •Then God sent the angel to Jerusalem to destroy it, but as he was about to destroy it, Yahweh looked and thought better of this evil; and he said to the destroying angel, 'Enough! Now withdraw your hand.' The angel of Yahweh was standing beside the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. David, raising his eyes, saw the angel of Yahweh standing between earth and heaven, a drawn sword in his hand stretched out towards Jerusalem. Then David and the elders, clothed in sackcloth, fell on their faces. •'Was it not I who sinned, who did this most wicked thing? But these, this flock, what have they done? Yahweh my God, let your hand lie heavy on me and on my family; but let your people escape the plague.'

The altar is built

The angel of Yahweh then said to Gad, 'David must go up and erect an altar to Yahweh on the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite'. •So David went up at the word which Gad had spoken in the name of Yahweh. •Now Ornan, as he turned, had seen the angel and had hidden, with his four sons. Ornan was threshing wheat •when David came to him. Ornan looked down, saw David, came off the threshing-floor and with his face to the ground did homage to David. Then David said to Ornan, 'Let me have the site of this threshing-floor, to build an altar to Yahweh. Let me have it at its full price. For then the plague will be turned away from the people.' •'Take it' Ornan said to David 'and let my lord the king do as he thinks right. Look, I will give you the oxen for holocausts, the threshing-sled for the wood and the wheat for the oblation. I give them all.'

But King David said to Ornan, 'No. I must buy it from you at the full price; I will not take for Yahweh what belongs to you, offering holocausts that cost me nothing.' •So David gave Ornan six hundred shekels of gold by weight for the site.

David built an altar there to Yahweh and offered holocausts and communion sacrifices. He called on Yahweh, and Yahweh answered him with fire from heaven on the altar of holocaust •and ordered the angel to sheathe his sword. Then it was, seeing that Yahweh had answered him on the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite, that David offered sacrifice there. •The tabernacle of Yahweh that Moses had made in the wilderness and the altar of holocaust were at that time on the high place at Gibeon, •but David had not been able to go into God's presence there to consult him, so fearful was he of the sword of the angel

1 of Yahweh. 22 Then David said, 'Here is the house of Yahweh God; and this shall be the altar of holocaust for Israel'.

Preparations for the building of the Temple<sup>a</sup>

2 David gave orders for the gathering of all the strangers living in the land of Israel and set stonecutters preparing dressed stones for building the house of
3 God. •David furthermore stored up great quantities of iron to make nails for the leaves of the doors and for clamps, and more bronze than could be weighed;
4 logs of cedar too, beyond number, the Sidonians and Tyrians having brought cedar logs to David in great quantities.

5 Then David said, 'My son Solomon is young, of tender years, and the house to be built for Yahweh must be of great splendour, renowned for its magnificence in every country. I will make preparations for him.' And so, before he
6 died, David made ample preparations. •He then summoned his son Solomon and instructed him to build a house for Yahweh, the God of Israel. •'My son,'
7 David said to Solomon 'my heart was set on building a house for the name of Yahweh my God. •But the word of Yahweh came to me, "You have shed
8 much blood and fought great battles; it is not for you to build a house for my name, since you have shed so much blood on the earth in my presence. •But 9 now a son is born to you. He shall be a man of peace, and I will give him peace from all the enemies that surround him; for Solomon is his name,<sup>b</sup> and in his
10 days I will give Israel peace and quiet. •He shall build a house for my name; he shall be a son to me and I a father to him, and I will make his royal throne
11 secure in Israel for ever." •Now, my son, may Yahweh be with you and give you success in building a house for Yahweh your God, as he has said concerning 12 you. •Yet may he give you discretion and discernment, may he give you his orders for Israel so that you may observe the Law of Yahweh your God.
13 Success will be yours if you carefully observe the statutes and the ordinances that Yahweh has prescribed to Moses for Israel. Be strong and stand fast, be 14 fearless, be dauntless. •Poor as I am, I have set aside for the house of Yahweh one hundred thousand talents of gold, a million talents of silver and more
15 bronze and iron than can be weighed; I have stored up wood and stone too, to which you must add more. •You will have many workmen, stonecutters, 16 masons, carpenters, skilled artisans of every kind, •while your gold and silver, bronze and iron, will be beyond reckoning. Set to work, then, and may Yahweh be with you!'

17 David then ordered all the Israelite leaders to help his son Solomon.
18 'Is not Yahweh your God with you?' he said. 'He has given you peace on all sides, since he has put the inhabitants of the country into my power and 19 the land has been subdued for Yahweh and for his people. •So now devote heart and soul to the search for Yahweh your God. Set to and build the sanctuary of Yahweh your God, so that you can bring the ark of the covenant of Yahweh and the holy things of God to the house that is built for the name of Yahweh.'

The orders and functions of the Levites

1 23 David, an old man now with his fill of days, made his son Solomon king
2 over Israel. •He gathered all the Israelite leaders together, with the priests and Levites.

3 A census was taken of those Levites thirty years old and upwards. On a 4 count of heads their number was thirty-eight thousand; •twenty-four thousand of these were responsible for the services<sup>a</sup> of the house of Yahweh; six thousand
5 were scribes and judges; •four thousand were keepers of the gate; four thousand praised Yahweh on the instruments David had made for that purpose.

22 a. The author's sources for the remaining chapters of I Ch are not in the Bible. b. Peace is shalom; 'Solomon' is derived from it.

23 a. As cantors.

Then David divided the Levites into orders: Gershon, Kohath and Merari. 6

For the Gershonites: Ladan and Shimei. •Sons of Ladan: Jehiel first, 7 Zetham, Joel; three in all. •Sons of Shimei: Shelomoth, Haziël, Haran; three 8 in all. These are the heads of families of Ladan. •Sons of Shimei: Jahath, Zina, 9
Jeush, Beriah; these were the sons of Shimei; four in all. •Jahath was the eldest, 10
Zizah the second, then Jeush and Beriah, who had not many children and were 11 reckoned as one family.

Sons of Kohath: Amram, Izhar, Hebron, Uzziel; four in all. •Sons of Amram: 12
Aaron and Moses. Aaron was set apart to consecrate the most holy things, he 13 and his sons for ever, to burn incense in the presence of Yahweh, to serve him and to bless in his name for ever. •Moses was a man of God whose sons were 14 given the name of the tribe of Levi. •Sons of Moses: Gershom and Eliezer. 15 Sons of Gershom: Shebuel, the first. •Eliezer had sons: Rehabiah, the first. 16
Eliezer had no other sons, but the sons of Rehabiah were very numerous. •Sons 17 of Izhar: Shelomith, the first. •Sons of Hebron: Jeriah first, Amariah second, 18 Jahziel third, Jekameam fourth. •Sons of Uzziel: Micah first, Isshiah second. 19 20

Sons of Merari: Mahli and Mushi. Sons of Mahli: Eleazar and Kish. •Eleazar 21 died leaving no sons but only daughters; their kinsmen, the sons of Kish, married 22
these. •Sons of Mushi: Mahli, Eder, Jeremoth; three in all. 23

These were the sons of Levi by their families, the heads of families, and those 24 registered by name, individually; whoever was twenty years old or upwards had his function in the service of the Temple of Yahweh.

For David had said, 'Yahweh, the God of Israel, has given peace to his peo- 25
ple; and he dwells in Jerusalem for ever. •The Levites are no longer required 26 to carry the tabernacle or any thing used in its service.' •For, according to the 27 last words of David, the Levites who had been registered were of twenty years and upwards. •Their duty is to be at the disposal of the sons of Aaron for the 28 service of the Temple of Yahweh, in the courts and chambers, to purify everything consecrated; their duty is to serve the Temple of God. •They are 29 also responsible for the loaves set out in rows, and for the flour for the oblation, the wafers of unleavened bread, the cakes baked on the griddle or mixed, and with the various measures of volume and of length.<sup>b</sup> •They have to be present 30 every morning to give glory and praise to Yahweh, and also in the evening, •and 31 at every offering of holocaust to Yahweh on the sabbath, New Moon or solemn feast—a set number of them laid down by rule. This is a perpetual obligation for them in the presence of Yahweh. •In serving the Temple of Yahweh they 32 observe the ritual of the Tent of Meeting, the ritual of the sanctuary and the ritual of their kinsmen, the sons of Aaron.

The classification of the priests

24 Orders of the sons of Aaron: Sons of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, 1 Ithamar. •Nadab and Abihu died in their father's lifetime leaving no 2 children, so Eleazar and Ithamar became priests. •David divided them into 3 orders with the help of Zadok, one of Eleazar's sons, and Ahimelech, one of the sons of Ithamar, and made a register of them according to their duties.
The sons of Eleazar were found to have more leading men than the sons of 4 Ithamar; accordingly, from the heads of families of the sons of Eleazar they made sixteen orders, and from those of the sons of Ithamar, eight. •They divided 5 them, both parties, by lot: there were consecrated officials, officials of God, among the sons of Eleazar, as among the sons of Ithamar. •One of the Levites, 6
the scribe Shemaiah son of Nethanel, recorded them in the presence of the king, his officers, Zadok the priest, Ahimelech son of Abiathar and the heads of the priestly and levitical families. They drew lots for each family of the sons of Eleazar and for the sons of Ithamar, turn and turn about.

The first lot fell to Jehoiarib, to Jedaiah the second, •Harim the third, 7
Seorim the fourth, •Malchijah the fifth, Mijamin the sixth, •Hakkoz the seventh, 8 9
10.

<sup>19</sup> These were the men as registered by their various duties, to enter the Temple of Yahweh in conformity to their rule handed on by Aaron their father as Yahweh, the God of Israel, had laid it down for him.

<sup>31</sup> These were the sons of Levi by their families. •Like their kinsmen, the sons of Aaron, these families, senior and junior, drew lots in the presence of king David, Zadok, Ahimelech, and the heads of the priestly and levitical families.

The cantors

<sup>1</sup> 25 For the liturgy, David and the senior army officers set apart the sons of Asaph, of Heman and of Jeduthun, prophets who accompanied themselves with lyre and harp and cymbal, and a list was made of those with these duties to perform.

<sup>3</sup> For Jeduthun: sons of Jeduthun: Gedaliah, Zeri, Jeshaiiah, Hashabiah, Mattithiah; there were six of them under the direction of their father Jeduthun who, to the sound of the lyre, prophesied to the glory and praise of Yahweh.

 were thirteen in all.

These, as keepers of the gate, had their orders, and the leaders of these heroes <sup>12</sup>

 King David and by the heads of families as officers of thousands, of hundreds, or other senior officers, •(they had dedicated a part of the spoils of war to make <sup>27</sup>
 the house of Yahweh more impressive), •and also for all that Samuel the seer <sup>28</sup>

David took no census of those who were twenty years old and under, since 23 Yahweh had promised to make Israel as numerous as the stars of heaven. •Joab 24 son of Zeruah began a census, though he did not finish it. #### David's instructions for the Temple

28 David held a meeting in Jerusalem of all the officials of Israel, the commis- 1 sioners for the tribes, and the officials of the orders in the royal service, the commanders of thousands, the commanders of hundreds, the bailiffs for all the property and livestock of the king and his sons, together with the eunuchs and champions and all the stout fighting men. •Then King David rose to his 2 feet and said:

'My brothers and my people, listen to me. I had set my heart on building a settled home for the ark of the covenant of Yahweh, as a footstool for our God. I have made preparations for building, •but God has said to me, "You are 3 not to build a house for my name, for you have been a man of war and have shed blood".

'Of all my father's House it was I whom Yahweh, the God of Israel, chose 4 to be king over Israel for ever. He chose Judah for leader, my family within the House of Judah, and of my father's sons myself, in his good pleasure, he gave to all Israel as king. •Of all my sons—and many sons Yahweh has granted 5 me—he has chosen my son Solomon to sit on the sovereign throne of Yahweh over Israel. •He said to me, "Solomon your son is the man to build my house 6 and my courts, for I have chosen him to be a son to me and I will be a father to him. •I will make his sovereignty secure for ever if he sturdily maintains my 7 commandments and my ordinances, as they are now."

'So now in the sight of all Israel and of the assembly of Yahweh, and in the 8 hearing of our God, observe and make sure you understand all the commandments of Yahweh your God, so that you may possess this prosperous land and leave it to your children after you as an inheritance for ever.

'And you, Solomon my son, know the God of your father, serve him with 9 an undivided heart and a willing mind; for Yahweh searches every heart, and knows every plan it devises. If you seek him, he will let you find him; once forsake him, and he casts you off for ever. •Think at this moment how Yahweh has 10 chosen you to build a house for his sanctuary. Be strong and set to work.'

David gave his son Solomon the plans for the vestibule, the buildings, the 11 treasuries, the upper rooms, the inner apartments and the room for the throne of mercy; •he also gave him a description of all he had in mind for the courts 12 of the Temple of Yahweh, all the surrounding apartments, the treasuries of the 13 Temple of God and the treasuries of votive offerings; •also of the orders of 14 priests and Levites, the liturgical duties in the Temple of Yahweh, •the gold bullion, gold for every article for whatever function, the silver bullion for all 15 the silver articles, for every article for whatever function, •the bullion for the golden lamp-stands and their lamps, the gold bullion for each lamp-stand and its lamps, the bullion for the silver lamp-stands, for the lamp-stand and its lamps 16 according to the requirements for each lamp-stand, •gold bullion for the tables on which the rows of bread were set, for each of these tables, the silver for the 17 silver tables, •the forks, the sprinkling bowls, basins of pure gold, the gold 18 bullion for the bowls, for each of the bowls, •the bullion of refined gold for the altar of incense. He gave him the plans for the chariot,<sup>a</sup> for the golden cherubs 19 with wings outspread covering the ark of the covenant of Yahweh—•all this in accordance with what Yahweh with his hand had written in order to make the whole work clear for which he was providing the plans.

20 Then David said to his son Solomon, 'Be strong, stand firm; be fearless, be dauntless and set to work, because Yahweh God, my God, is with you. He will not fail you or forsake you before you have finished all the work to be done 21 for the house of Yahweh. •Here are the orders of priests and Levites for all the duties of the house of God; every willing man of any aptitude will help you in all this work; the officials and all the people are entirely at your command.'

The voluntary offerings

1 29 Then King David said to the whole assembly, 'Solomon my son, whom alone Yahweh has chosen, is young, of tender years, and the work is great;
 2 this palace is not for man but for Yahweh God. •With all the resources I have,
 I have provided for the house of my God, adding gold to gold, silver to silver, bronze to bronze, iron to iron, wood to wood, onyx, inlaid stones, coloured and 3 striped stones, precious stones of every kind, masses of alabaster. •What is more; what gold and silver I have in my own treasury I give out of love for the house of my God, over and above what I have provided already for the holy 4 Temple—•three thousand talents of gold, gold of Ophir, seven thousand talents 5 of refined silver for plating the walls of the buildings. •Whatever gold you have, whatever silver, or workmanship of the craftsman's hand, which of you today will undertake to consecrate it to Yahweh?'

6 Then the heads of families, the officials for the tribes of Israel, the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, and those who managed the king's affairs, 7 undertook •to give for the service of the house of God five thousand talents of gold, ten thousand darics, ten thousand talents of silver, eighteen thousand 8 talents of bronze, a hundred thousand talents of iron. •All this, with what there were in the way of stones, they paid into the treasury of the house of Yahweh, 9 for Jehiel the Gershonite to administer. •The people rejoiced at what these had given so readily, since their generous gift to Yahweh had been made whole-10 heartedly. King David too was filled with joy. •In sight of the whole assembly David blessed Yahweh and said:

'May you be blessed, Yahweh, the God of Israel our ancestor, for ever and 11 for ever! •Yours, Yahweh, is the greatness, the power, splendour, length of days, glory, for all that is in the heavens and on the earth is yours. Yours is the 12 sovereignty, Yahweh; you are exalted over all, supreme. •Riches and honour go before you, you are ruler of all, in your hand lie strength and power; in your 13 hand it is to give greatness and strength to all. •At this time, our God, we give you 14 glory, we praise the splendour of your name. •For who am I and what is my people to have the means to give so generously? All comes from you; from your own hand we have given them to you. •For we are strangers before you, settlers 15 only, as all our ancestors were; our days on earth pass like a shadow, and there is no hope. •Yahweh our God, this store we have provided to build a house for 16 your holy name, all comes from your hand, all is yours. •O my God, you search 17

the heart, I know, and delight in honesty, and with honesty of heart I have willingly given all this; and now with joy I have seen your people here offer you their gifts willingly. •Yahweh, God of our ancestors, of Abraham, of 18 Isaac, of Israel, watch over this for ever, shape the purpose of your people's heart and direct their hearts to you. •Give Solomon my son a heart determined 19 to keep your commandments, your decrees, your statutes; may he practise them all, and build this palace I have prepared for you.'

Then David said to the whole assembly, 'Bless now Yahweh your God!' And 20 the whole assembly blessed Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, and went on their knees to do homage to Yahweh and to the king.

The accession of Solomon and the end of the reign of David

On the day following this, the Israelites offered sacrifices and holocausts to 21
Yahweh: a thousand bulls, a thousand rams, a thousand lambs with their libations, as well as many sacrifices for the whole of Israel. •They ate and drank that day 22 in Yahweh's presence with great joy. Then having made Solomon son of David their second king, they anointed him leader in the name of Yahweh, and anointed Zadok as priest. •Solomon took his seat on the throne of Yahweh, to reign 23 in succession to David his father. He prospered, and all Israel obeyed him. •All the 24 officials, all the champions, and even all the sons of King David, pledged allegiance to King Solomon. •Yahweh brought Solomon's greatness to its height in the 25 sight of all Israel, and gave him a reign of such splendour as none that had reigned over Israel before him had ever known.

David son of Jesse had reigned over the whole of Israel. •His reign over Israel 26 had lasted forty years; he had reigned in Hebron for seven years, and in Jerusalem 27 for thirty-three. •He died in happy old age, with his fill of days, of riches, of 28 honour. Then his son Solomon succeeded him. •The history of King David, from 29 first to last, is not all this recorded in the Annals of Samuel the seer, the Annals of Nathan the prophet, and the Annals of Gad the seer, •with his entire reign, 30 his prowess, and the turns of fortune that came to him and to Israel and to all the kingdoms of the other countries?

THE SECOND BOOK OF CHRONICLES

SOLOMON AND THE BUILDING OF THE TEMPLE

Solomon's gift of wisdom

1 Solomon son of David made himself secure on the throne. Yahweh his God 1 was with him and brought his greatness to its height. •Solomon then spoke 2 to all Israel, to the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, to the judges, and to all the princes of all Israel, the heads of families. •Then Solomon, and 3 with him the whole assembly, went to the high place of Gibeon, where God's Tent of Meeting was, which Moses, the servant of God, had made in the wilderness; •David, however, had brought the ark of God from Kiriath- 4 jearim to the place he had prepared for it, having pitched a tent for it in Jerusalem.
The bronze altar that Bezalel son of Uri, son of Hur, had made stood there 5 in front of the tabernacle of Yahweh; to this went Solomon, with the assembly. •And there Solomon, in Yahweh's presence, ascended the bronze altar 6 that was by the Tent of Meeting, and on it he offered a thousand holocausts.

7 That night, God appeared to Solomon and said, 'Ask what you would like 8 me to give you'. •Solomon replied to God, 'You showed great kindness to 9 David my father; and you have made me king in succession to him. •Yahweh
God, the promise you made to David my father has now been fulfilled, since you have made me king over a people like the dust of the earth for number.
10 Therefore now give me wisdom and knowledge to act as leader of this people, for who could govern a people so great as yours?'

11 'Since that is what you want,' God said to Solomon 'since you have asked, not for riches, treasure, honour, the lives of your enemies, or even for a long life, but for wisdom and knowledge to govern my people of whom I have made 12 you king, •therefore wisdom and knowledge are granted you. I give you riches too, and treasure, and honour such as none of the kings had that were before you, nor shall any have that come after you.'

13 Solomon left the high place of Gibeon for Jerusalem, away from the Tent 14 of Meeting. He reigned over Israel. •Solomon built up a force of chariots and horses; he had one thousand four hundred chariots and twelve thousand horses; 15 these he stationed in the chariot towns and with the king in Jerusalem. •In Jerusalem the king made silver common as pebbles, and cedars plentiful as the 16 sycamores of the lowlands. •Solomon's horses were imported from Cilicia;
17 the king's agents took delivery of them from Cilicia at a fixed rate. •They imported chariots from Egypt at six hundred shekels apiece, and horses at one hundred and fifty shekels. These men acted in a similar capacity for all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Aram.

The final preparations. Hiram of Tyre

18 Solomon decided to build a house for the name of Yahweh and another 2:1 for himself and his court.

1/2 He impressed seventy thousand men for carrying loads, eighty thousand to 2 quarry in the hill country, and three thousand six hundred overseers in charge
3 of them. •Solomon then despatched this message to Hiram king of Tyre, 'Deal
4 with me as you dealt with my father David when you sent him cedars for him
5 to build a house to live in. •I am now building a house for the name of Yahweh 6 my God, to acknowledge his holiness, by burning incense of scented spices in his presence, by the loaves that are perpetually set out, by offering holocausts
7 morning and evening, on the sabbath, New Moon, and the solemn festivals 8 of Yahweh our God—and this for ever in Israel. •The house I am building will 9 be large, for our God is greater than all gods. •Who would have the means to 10 build him a house when the heavens and their own heavens cannot contain him?
11 And I, for what purpose could I build him a house other than to burn incense 12 in his presence? •So send me a man skilled in the use of gold, silver, bronze, iron, scarlet, crimson, violet,<sup>a</sup> and the art of engraving too; he is to work with my skilled men here in Judah and Jerusalem, men my father David provided.
7 From Lebanon send me cedar wood, juniper and alummim, since I know your servants know the art of felling the trees of Lebanon. My servants will work 8 with yours. •They will prepare wood in bulk for me, since the house I wish to 9 build is to be of astounding size. •For the woodmen who are to fell the trees 10 I assign twenty thousand kors of grain, twenty thousand kors of barley, twenty thousand baths of wine, and twenty thousand baths of oil—this is for the maintenance of your servants.'

10 In a letter sent to King Solomon, Hiram king of Tyre replied, 'Because 11 Yahweh loves his people he has made you king. •Blessed be Yahweh, the God 12 of Israel' Hiram went on to say. 'He has made the heavens and the earth, and given King David a wise son, endowed with discretion and discernment, who is going to build a house for Yahweh and another for himself and his court. •And I am also sending you a skilled craftsman, Hiram-abi, •the son of a Danite woman by a Tyrian father. He is skilled in the use of gold, silver, bronze, iron, stone, wood, scarlet, violet, fine linen, crimson, in engraving of all kinds, and in the execution of any design suggested to him. Let him be put to work with your craftsmen and those of my lord David, your father. •So now let my lord send his servants the wheat, barley, oil and wine, as already suggested.

•For our part, we will fell all the wood you need from Lebanon, and bring it you in rafts by sea to Joppa, and it will be your responsibility to transport it to Jerusalem.

The construction

Solomon took a count of all the aliens resident in the land of Israel, following the census that David his father had taken; it was found there were a hundred and fifty-three thousand six hundred. •He impressed seventy thousand of these for carrying loads, eighty thousand for quarrying in the hill country, and three thousand six hundred as overseers to make sure the people worked.

3 Solomon then began to build the house of Yahweh in Jerusalem on Mount Moriah where David his father had a vision. It was the place prepared by David, the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. •Solomon began building in the second month of the fourth year of his reign, on the second day. •Now the structure of the house of God founded by Solomon was sixty cubits long—cubits of the old standard—and twenty cubits wide. •The Ulam in front of the Hekal of the Temple was twenty cubits long across the width of the house, and its height was a hundred and twenty cubits. He plated it on the inside with pure gold. •The Great Hall he faced with juniper which he plated with pure gold, and on it set palms and festoons. •He adorned the hall with precious stones of great beauty; the gold was gold from Parvaim, •and with this he faced the hall, the rafters, thresholds, walls and doors; on the walls he carved cherubs.

He then built the hall of the Holy of Holies; its length, across the width of the Great Hall, was twenty cubits, and its width twenty cubits. He plated it with six hundred talents of fine gold; •the gold nails weighed fifty shekels. He also plated the upper rooms with gold. •In the hall of the Holy of Holies he made two cherubs of wrought metal work and plated them with gold. •The total span of the cherubs' wings was twenty cubits, each being five cubits long, with one wing touching the wall of the hall, while the other touched that of the other cherub. •One wing of a cherub, five cubits long, touched the wall of the apartment; the second, five cubits long, touched the wing of the other cherub. •The spread of these cherubs' wings was twenty cubits. They stood on their feet, facing the Hall.

He made the Veil of violet, scarlet, crimson and fine linen; he worked cherubs on it.

In front of the hall he made two pillars thirty-five cubits high, and on the top of each a capital measuring five cubits. •In the Debir he made festoons, setting them at the tops of the pillars, and a hundred pomegranates which he placed on the festoons. •He set up the pillars in front of the Hekal, one on the right, the other on the left; the one on the right he called Jachin, the one on the left Boaz.

4 He made an altar of bronze, twenty cubits long, twenty cubits wide and ten high. •He made the Sea of cast metal, ten cubits from rim to rim, circular in shape and five cubits high; a cord thirty cubits long gave the measurement of its girth. •Under it and completely encircling it were animals shaped like oxen; they went round the Sea over a length of thirty cubits; the oxen were in two rows, of one and the same casting with the rest. •It rested on twelve oxen, three

5 facing north, three facing west, three facing south, three facing east; on these, their hindquarters all turned inwards, stood the Sea. •It was a hand's breadth in thickness, and its rim was shaped like the rim of a cup, like a flower. It could hold three thousand baths.

6 He made ten basins, arranging five on the right-hand side, five on the left-hand side, for washing the victim for the holocaust which was purified there; but the 7 Sea was for the priests to wash in. •He made the ten golden lamp-stands in the way prescribed and placed them in the Hekal, five on the right and five on the 8 left. •He made ten tables and placed them in the Hekal, five on the right and five on the left. He made a hundred golden sprinkling bowls.

9 He made the court of the priests<sup>a</sup> and the great court with its gates and plated 10 the gates with bronze. •He placed the Sea some distance from the right-hand side, to the south-east.

11 Hiram made the ash containers, the scoops and the sprinkling bowls. He finished all the work that he did for King Solomon on the Temple of God:

12 the two pillars; the two mouldings of the capitals surmounting the pillars; the two sets of filigree to cover the two mouldings of the capitals surmounting 13 the pillars; •the four hundred pomegranates for the two sets of filigree; the pomegranates of each set of filigree were in two rows;

14 the ten stands and the ten basins on the stands;

15 the one Sea and the twelve oxen beneath it;

16 the ash containers, the scoops, the forks, and all their accessories made by Hiram-abi of burnished bronze for King Solomon, for the Temple of Yahweh.

17 The king made them by the process of sand casting, in the Jordan area between 18 Succoth and Zeredah. •Solomon made all these articles in great quantities, no reckoning being made of the weight of bronze.

19 Solomon placed all the furnishings he had made in the Temple of God: 20 the golden altar and the tables for the loaves of offering; •the lamp-stands with 21 their lamps to burn, as prescribed, in front of the Debir, of pure gold; •the floral 22 work, the lamps, the extinguishers, of gold (and it was pure gold); •the knives, the sprinkling bowls, incense boats, of fine gold; the door of the Temple, the inner doors (for the Holy of Holies) and the Temple doors (for the Hekal), of gold.

1 So all the work that Solomon did for the Temple of Yahweh was completed, and Solomon brought what his father David had consecrated, the silver and the gold and the vessels, and put them in the treasury of the Temple of God.

The ark is brought to the Temple

2 Then Solomon called the elders of Israel together in Jerusalem to bring the ark of the covenant of Yahweh up from the Citadel of David, which is Zion.

3 All the men of Israel assembled round the king in the seventh month, at the time 4 of the feast. •All the elders of Israel came, and the Levites took up the ark 5 and the Tent of Meeting with all the sacred vessels that were in it; the levitical priests brought them up.

6 King Solomon, and all the community of Israel gathering with him in front 7 of the ark, sacrificed sheep and oxen, countless, innumerable. •The priests brought the ark of the covenant of Yahweh to its place, in the Debir of the 8 Temple, that is, in the Holy of Holies, under the cherubs' wings. •For there where the ark was placed the cherubs spread out their wings and sheltered the 9a ark and its shafts. •These were long enough for their ends to be seen from the 10 Holy Place in front of the Debir, but not from outside. •There was nothing in the ark except the two tablets that Moses had placed in it at Horeb, where

Yahweh had made a covenant with the Israelites when they came out of Egypt; they are still there today. 9b

The Lord takes possession of his Temple<sup>a</sup>

Now when the priests came out of the sanctuary, •a cloud filled the sanctuary, 11a
the Temple of Yahweh. 13b

Now all the priests present, whatever order they belonged to, had sanctified 11b themselves. •The entire body of levitical cantors, Asaph, Heman and Jeduthun 12 with their sons and brothers, was stationed to the east of the altar, robed in fine linen and playing cymbals, harps, and lyres. A hundred and twenty priests accompanied them on the trumpet. •All those who played the trumpet, or who 13a sang, united in giving praise and glory to Yahweh. Lifting their voices to the sound of the trumpet and cymbal and instruments of music, they gave praise to Yahweh, 'for he is good, for his love is everlasting'.

Because of the cloud the priests could no longer perform their duties: the 14 glory of Yahweh filled the Temple of God.

6 Then Solomon said: 1

'Yahweh has chosen to dwell in the thick cloud.
Yes, I have built you a dwelling, 2
a place for you to live in for ever.'

Solomon addresses the people

Then the king turned and blessed the whole assembly of Israel, while the 3 whole assembly of Israel stood. •He said, 'Blessed be Yahweh, the God of 4 Israel, who has carried out by his hand what he promised with his mouth to David, my father, when he said, •"From the day I brought my people out of 5
the land of Egypt I chose no city, in any of the tribes of Israel, to have a house built where my name might make its home, and chose no man to be prince of 6
my people Israel; •but I chose Jerusalem for my name to make its home there, and I chose David to rule over Israel my people". •My father David had set his 7 heart on building a house for the name of Yahweh, the God of Israel, •but 8 Yahweh said, "You have set your heart on building a house for my name, and in this you have done well; •and yet, you are not the man to build the house; 9 your son, born of your own body, shall build the house for my name". •Yahweh 10 has kept the promise he made: I have succeeded David my father and am seated on the throne of Israel, as Yahweh promised; I have built the house for the name of Yahweh, the God of Israel, •and have placed in it the ark containing 11
the covenant that Yahweh made with the sons of Israel.'

Solomon's prayer for himself

Then in the presence of the whole assembly of Israel Solomon stood before 12
the altar of Yahweh and stretched out his hands. •Now Solomon had made a bronze 13 pedestal and had placed it in the middle of the court; it was five cubits long, five cubits wide and five cubits high. Solomon mounted it, and knelt down on it in the presence of the whole assembly of Israel; he stretched out his hands to heaven, •and said, 'Yahweh, God of Israel, not in heaven nor on earth is 14 there such a God as you, true to your covenant and your graciousness towards your servants when they walk wholeheartedly in your way. •You have kept the 15 promise you made to your servant David my father; what you promised with your mouth, today you have carried out by your hand. •And now, Yahweh, 16
God of Israel, keep the promise you made your servant David when you said, "You shall never lack for a man seated before me on the throne of Israel, if only your sons are careful how they behave, following my law as you yourself have done". •So now, God of Israel, let the words come true which you spoke 17 to your servant David my father. •Yet will God really live with men on the 18 earth? Why, the heavens and their own heavens cannot contain you! How much

- 19 less this house that I have built! •Listen to the prayer and entreaty of your servant, Yahweh my God; listen to the cry and to the prayer your servant makes to you.
 20 Day and night let your eyes watch over this house, over this place in which you have promised to make a home for your name. Listen to the prayer that your servant will offer in this place.

Solomon's prayer for the people

- 21 •Hear the entreaties of your servant and of Israel your people as they pray in this place. From heaven where your dwelling is, hear; and, as you hear, forgive.
- 22 •If a man sins against his neighbour, and the neighbour calls down a curse 23 on him and makes him swear an oath before your altar in this Temple, •hear from heaven, and act; decide between your servants: punish the wicked one, bringing his conduct down on his own head; and vindicate the innocent, rewarding him as his innocence deserves.
- 24 •If Israel your people are defeated by the enemy because they have sinned 25 against you, if they return to you and praise your name and pray to you and entreat you in this Temple, •hear from heaven; forgive the sin of your people Israel, and bring them back to the land you gave to them and their ancestors.
- 26 •When the heavens are shut and there is no rain because they have sinned 27 against you, if they pray in this place and praise your name and, having been humbled by you, repent of their sin, •hear from heaven and forgive the sin of your servant and of your people Israel; show them the good way they ought to follow; and send rain on your land which you have given your people as an inheritance.
- 28 •Should there be famine in the land or pestilence, blight or mildew, locust
 29 or caterpillar, should this people's enemies lay siege to one of its city gates, if there is any plague or sickness, •if any one man, or all Israel your people, should feel remorse and sorrow and pray or make entreaty, stretching out his
 30 hands towards this Temple, •hear from heaven where your home is; forgive, and deal with each as his conduct deserves, for you know each heart—you 31 alone know the hearts of all mankind—•that they may come to revere you and follow your ways as long as they live in the land you gave to our ancestors.
- 32 •And the foreigner too, not belonging to your people Israel, if he comes from 33 a distant country for the sake of your name and of your mighty hand and outstretched arm, if he comes and prays in this Temple, •hear from heaven where your home is, and grant all the foreigner asks, so that all the peoples of the earth may come to know your name and, like your people Israel, revere you, and know that your name is given to the Temple I have built.
- 34 •If your people go out to war against their enemies on the way you send 35 them, and if they turn towards the city you have chosen and towards the Temple I have built for your name and pray to you, •hear from heaven their prayer and their entreaty, and uphold their cause.
- 36 •If they sin against you—for there is no man who does not sin—and you are 37 angry with them and deliver them to the enemy, and they are led away captive to a land far or near, •if in the land of their exile they come to themselves and repent, and in the country of their captivity they entreat you saying, "We have 38 sinned, we have acted perversely and wickedly", •and if they turn again to you with all their heart and soul in the country of their captivity to which they have been deported, and pray, turning towards the land you gave their ancestors, towards the city you have chosen, and towards the Temple I have built for your 39 name, •hear from heaven where your home is, hear their prayer and their entreaty, uphold their cause, and forgive your people the sins they have committed against you.

Conclusion of the prayer

'Now, O my God, may your eyes be open and your ears attentive to the 40
prayer offered in this place. •And now 41

Rise Yahweh God, come to your resting place,
you and the ark of your power.

Your priests, Yahweh God, are vested in salvation,
your faithful rejoice in prosperity.

Yahweh God, do not turn away from the face of your anointed; 42
remember your favours to David your servant.'

The dedication

7 When Solomon had finished his prayer, fire came down from heaven and 1 consumed the holocaust and the sacrifices; and the glory of Yahweh filled 2 the Temple. •The priests could not enter the house of Yahweh, because the glory 3 of Yahweh filled the house of Yahweh. •All the sons of Israel, seeing the fire 4 come down and the glory of Yahweh resting on the Temple, bowed down on 5
the pavement with their faces to the earth; they worshipped and gave praise to 6 Yahweh, 'for he is good, for his love is everlasting'. •Then the king and all the 7 people offered sacrifice before Yahweh. •King Solomon offered twenty-two 8 thousand oxen and a hundred and twenty thousand sheep in sacrifice; and so 9
the king and all the people dedicated the Temple of Yahweh. •The priests stood 10 in their places, while the Levites gave praise to Yahweh on the instruments 11 that David had made to accompany the canticles of Yahweh, 'for his love is 12 everlasting'. These performed the hymns of praise that David had composed. 13
By their side were the priests sounding the trumpet, while all Israel stood.

Solomon consecrated the middle of the court that is in front of the Temple 7 of Yahweh; he offered the holocaust there and the fatty parts of the communion 8 sacrifices, since the bronze altar Solomon had made could not hold the holocaust, 9
the oblation and the fatty parts. •Solomon then celebrated the feast for seven 10 days and all the Israelites gathered together with him in enormous numbers 11 from the Pass of Hamath to the wadi of Egypt. •On the eighth day they held 12
a propitiation ceremony, for they had been seven days dedicating the altar and 13
seven days celebrating the feast. •On the twenty-third day of the seventh month 14
Solomon dismissed the people to their homes, rejoicing and with happy hearts for 15
the goodness Yahweh had shown to David and to Solomon and to his people Israel. 16

Yahweh appears and gives a warning

Solomon finished the Temple of Yahweh and the royal palace and successfully 11 concluded all he had set his heart on doing in the house of Yahweh and in his 12
own. •Then Yahweh appeared to Solomon in the night and said, 'I grant your 13 prayer. I choose this place for myself to be a house of sacrifice. •When I close 14 the skies and there is no rain, when I command the locust to devour the land, 15 when I send pestilence among my people, •then if my people who bear my name 16 humble themselves, and pray and seek my presence and turn from their wicked 17 ways, I myself will hear from heaven and forgive their sins and restore their 18 land. •Now and for the future my eyes are open and my ears attentive to the 19 prayer that is offered in this place. •Now and for the future I have chosen and 20 consecrated this house for my name to be there for ever; my eyes and my heart 21 will be there for ever. •For your part, if you walk before me as David your father 22 did, if you do all that I order you and keep my statutes and my ordinances, 23
I will make your royal throne secure, according to the compact I made with 24
David your father when I said: You shall never lack for a man to rule in Israel. 25
But if you turn away from me and forsake the commandments and statutes 19

- 20 I have set before you, and go and serve other gods and worship them, •then I will tear the Israelites from the land I have given them, and I will reject from my presence this Temple that I have consecrated for my name and make it a 21 proverb and a byword among all the nations. •As for this Temple, now so exalted, all who pass by will be astounded; they will whistle and say, "Why has 22 Yahweh treated this country and this Temple like this?" •And the answer will be, "Because they forsook Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, who brought them out of the land of Egypt, and they adopted other gods and worshipped them and served them; that is why he has brought all these disasters on them".'

Conclusion. The completion of the building programme

- 1 Q At the end of the twenty years which it took Solomon to build the Temple
 2 of Yahweh and his own palace, •he rebuilt the towns that Hiram had given 3 him and settled Israelites in them. •He then went to Hamath of Zobah, which 4 he captured; •he rebuilt Tadmor in the wilderness<sup>a</sup> and all the garrison towns
 5 he had built in Hamath. •He rebuilt Upper Beth-horon and Lower Beth-horon, 6 fortified towns with walls and gates and bars, •also Baalath and all the garrison towns owned by Solomon, all the towns for his chariots and horses, and all it pleased Solomon to build in Jerusalem, in Lebanon and in all the countries
 7 subject to him. •All those who survived of the Hittite, Amorite, Perizzite, Hivite
 8 and Jebusite peoples, who were not Israelites •and whose descendants were left in the country after them, and not exterminated by the Israelites, these Solomon 9 levied for forced labour, as they are levied still. •On the Israelites, however, Solomon did not impose slave-labour; these served as fighting men: they were 10 officers of his equeries and his chariot and cavalry commanders. •These were the administrators' officials in the service of King Solomon: two hundred and fifty in charge of the people.

- 11 Solomon brought Pharaoh's daughter from the Citadel of David up to the house he had built for her. 'It is not for me' he said 'to let a woman live in the palace of David king of Israel; these are holy places, where the ark of Yahweh has been.'

- 12 Solomon then offered holocausts to Yahweh on Yahweh's altar which he had 13 built in front of the porch. •Observing the daily rule for holocausts laid down in the commandment of Moses for sabbath, New Moon and the three annual feasts: the feast of Unleavened Bread, the feast of Weeks and the feast of 14 Tabernacles, •he maintained the regulations of his father David, as also the priestly orders in their duties, the rules affecting the Levites who offered praise and served with the priests according to the daily ritual, and the different orders of gatekeepers at each gate, for such had been the commandments of David, 15 the man of God. •They did not deviate in anything, not even in the matter of the treasuries, from the royal ordinances applying to the priests and the Levites.
 16 And all Solomon's work which, until the day when the foundations of the Temple of Yahweh were laid, had been only in preparation, was completed when the Temple of Yahweh was finished.

Solomon in his glory

- 17 Then Solomon went as far as Ezion-geber and Elath on the shores of the sea, 18 in the land of Edom. •Hiram sent him ships manned by his own men, and experienced sailors. These went with Solomon's men to Ophir and from there they brought back four hundred and fifty talents of gold, which they delivered to King Solomon.

- 1 Q The fame of Solomon having reached the queen of Sheba, she came to Jerusalem to test him with difficult questions. She came with immense riches, camels laden with spices, great quantities of gold and precious stones. On 2 coming to Solomon, she opened her mind freely to him; •and Solomon had an answer for all her questions, not one was too recondite for Solomon to expound. When the queen of Sheba saw the wisdom of Solomon, the palace he had built, 3 the food at his table, the accommodation for his officials, the organisation of his 4 staff and the way they were dressed, his cupbearers and the holocausts he offered in the Temple of Yahweh, it left her breathless, •and she said to the king, 'What 5 I heard in my own country about you and your wisdom was true, then! •Until 6 I came and saw it with my own eyes I could not believe what they told me, but evidently what they told me was less than half the real extent of your wisdom; you surpass the report I heard. •How happy your wives are! How happy these 7 servants of yours who wait on you always and hear your wisdom! •Blessed be 8 Yahweh your God who has granted you his favour, setting you on his throne as king in the name of Yahweh your God. Because your God loves Israel and means to uphold him for ever, he has made you king over them to administer law and justice.' •And she presented the king with a hundred and twenty talents 9 of gold and great quantities of spices and precious stones. There never were spices like those the queen of Sheba gave to King Solomon. •Similarly the servants 10 of Hiram and the servants of Solomon, who carried gold from Ophir, brought alummim wood and precious stones. •Of the alummim wood the king made 11 floorboards for the Temple of Yahweh and for the royal palace, and lyres and harps for the musicians; the like of them had never been seen before in the land of Judah. •And King Solomon, in his turn, presented the queen of Sheba with 12 everything she expressed any wish for, besides returning what she had brought to the king. Then she went home, she and her servants, to her own country.

The weight of gold coming to Solomon in one year was six hundred and 13 sixty-six talents of gold, •not counting the merchants' dues that the import 14 agents brought in; all the kings of Arabia and the governors of the country also brought gold and silver to Solomon. •King Solomon made two hundred great 15 shields of beaten gold, and plated each shield with six hundred shekels of gold. Also three hundred small shields of beaten gold, and plated each of these with 16 three hundred shekels of gold; and he put them in the Hall of the Forest of Lebanon. •The king also made a great ivory throne, and plated it with purest 17 gold. •The throne had six steps, and at the back of it a lamb in gold, and arms 18 at either side of the seat; two lions stood beside the arms, •and twelve lions stood 19 on either side of the six steps. No throne like this was ever made in any other kingdom.

All King Solomon's drinking vessels were of gold, and all the furnishings in 20 the Hall of the Forest of Lebanon were of pure gold; silver was thought little of in the time of Solomon. •And the king also had ships that went to Tarshish 21 with Hiram's men, and once every three years the ships of Tarshish would come back laden with gold and silver, ivory, apes and baboons. •For riches and for 22 wisdom King Solomon outdid all the kings of the earth. •All the kings of the 23 earth sought audience of Solomon to hear the wisdom God had implanted in his heart, •and each would bring his own present: gold vessels, silver vessels, 24 robes, armour, spices, horses and mules; and this went on year after year.

Solomon had four thousand stalls for his horses and chariots, and twelve 25 thousand horses; these he stationed in the chariot towns and near the king in Jerusalem. •Solomon extended his power over all the kingdoms from the river 26 to the land of the Philistines and the Egyptian border. •In Jerusalem the king 27 made silver common as pebbles, and cedars plentiful as the sycamores of the Lowlands. •Horses were imported for Solomon from Cilicia and all the other 28 countries too.

The death of Solomon

The rest of the history of Solomon, from first to last, is not all this recorded 29 in the History of Nathan the prophet, in the Prophecy of Ahijah of Shiloh, and in the Vision of Iddo the seer concerning Jeroboam son of Nebat? •Solomon 30

- 31 reigned in Jerusalem for forty years over all Israel. •Then Solomon slept with his ancestors and was buried in the Citadel of David his father; his son Rehoboam succeeded him.

FIRST REFORMS OF THE MONARCHICAL PERIOD

REHOBAM AND THE REGROUPING OF THE LEVITES

The schism

- 1 10 Rehoboam went to Shechem, for it was to Shechem that all Israel had 2 gone to proclaim him king. •As soon as Jeroboam son of Nebat heard the news—he was still in Egypt, where he had taken refuge from King Solomon—he 3 returned from Egypt. •They sent and summoned him, and he came, with the whole assembly.
- 4 And they said this to Rehoboam, •‘Your father gave us a heavy burden to bear; lighten your father’s harsh tyranny now, and the weight of the burden he 5 laid on us, and we will serve you’. •He said, ‘Come back to me in three days’.
And the people went away.
- 6 King Rehoboam consulted the elders, who had been in the service of his father Solomon while he was alive. ‘What reply’ he asked ‘do you advise me 7 to give to this people?’ •‘If you are kind to these people,’ they said ‘if you are pleasant to them and treat them fairly, then they will be your servants for ever.’
8 But he rejected the advice given him by the elders and consulted the young men 9 who had grown up with him and were in his service. •‘How do you advise us’ he asked ‘to answer these people who have said to me, “Lighten the burden your 10 father imposed on us”?’ •The young men who had grown up with him replied, ‘Give this answer to these people who have said, “Your father gave us a heavy burden to bear, you must lighten it for us”, say this to them, “My little finger is 11 thicker than my father’s loins! •So then, my father made you bear a heavy burden; I will make it heavier still! My father beat you with whips; I am going to beat you with loaded scourges!”’
- 12 On the third day all the people came to Rehoboam in obedience to the king’s command: ‘Come back to me on the third day’. •The king gave them a harsh 13 answer. King Rehoboam, rejecting the advice of the elders, •spoke to them as the young men had recommended. ‘My father made you bear a heavy burden,’ 14 he said ‘but I will make it heavier still. My father beat you with whips; I am going to beat you with loaded scourges!’ •The king in fact took no notice of the 15 people’s wishes, and this was brought about by God to carry out the promise Yahweh had spoken through Ahijah of Shiloh to Jeroboam son of Nebat.
16 When all Israel saw that the king took no notice of their wishes, they gave him this answer:

‘What share have we in David?
We have no inheritance in the son of Jesse.
To your tents, Israel, each one of you.
Henceforth look after your own House, David!’

- 17 And all Israel went off to their tents. •Rehoboam however ruled over those 18 sons of Israel who lived in the towns of Judah. •King Rehoboam sent Adoram who was in charge of forced labour, but the Israelites stoned him to death;
whereupon King Rehoboam was obliged to mount his chariot and escape to 19 Jerusalem. •And Israel has remained separated from the House of David until the present day.

The activities of Rehoboam

11 Rehoboam went to Jerusalem and mustered the House of Judah with 1 Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand picked warriors, to fight the House of Israel and win back the kingdom of Rehoboam. •But the word of 2 Yahweh came to Shemaiah the man of God, •‘Say this to Rehoboam son of 3 Solomon, king of Judah, and to all the Israelites in Judah and Benjamin, “Yahweh says this: Do not set out to fight against your brothers; let everyone go 4 home, for what has happened is my doing”’. They obeyed Yahweh’s command and went back instead of marching against Jeroboam.

Rehoboam lived in Jerusalem and built fortified towns in Judah. •He rebuilt 5 Bethlehem, Etam, Tekoa, •Beth-zur, Soco, Adullam, •Gath, Mareshah, Ziph, 6 Adoraim, Lachish, Azekah, •Zorah, Aijalon, Hebron; these were fortified towns 7 in Judah and Benjamin. •He fortified them strongly and put commanders in 8 them with stores of food, oil and wine. •In each of these towns were shields 9 and spears. He made them very strong to keep Judah and Benjamin under 10 control. 11

Rehoboam’s relations with the priests and Levites

The priests and the Levites throughout Israel left their districts to take up 13 residence near him. •The Levites, indeed, abandoned their pasture lands and 14 their holdings, and came to Judah and Jerusalem, since Jeroboam and his sons had excluded them from the priesthood of Yahweh, •and had set up for himself 15 a priesthood of the high places, for the satyrs and the calves he had made. Members of all the tribes of Israel, men wholeheartedly devoted to the worship 16 of Yahweh the God of Israel, followed them and came to Jerusalem to sacrifice to Yahweh, the God of their ancestors. •These added strength to the kingdom of 17 Judah, and gave their support to Rehoboam son of Solomon for three years, because during three years he followed the example of David and Solomon.

Rehoboam turns unfaithful

Rehoboam took as wife Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth son of David, 18 and of Abihail, daughter of Eliab son of Jesse, •and she bore him sons: Jeush, 19 Shemariah and Zaham. •After her, he married Maacah daughter of Absalom, who bore him Abijah, Attai, Ziza and Shelomith. •Rehoboam loved Maacah, 21 daughter of Absalom, more than all his other wives and concubines. He had in fact a total of eighteen wives and sixty concubines and had twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters. •Rehoboam appointed Abijah, Maacah’s son, as head of the 22 family, to be prince among his brothers, with a view to making him king. •He 23 built more and demolished more than any of his descendants throughout the territories of Judah and Benjamin and in all the fortified towns, which he equipped with numerous granaries.

But he consulted the many gods of his wives, 12 and no sooner was his 1 royal authority securely consolidated than he, and all Israel with him, abandoned the Law of Yahweh. •In the fifth year of Rehoboam, Shishak the king of Egypt 2 marched on Jerusalem, since it had been unfaithful to Yahweh. •With twelve 3 hundred chariots and sixty thousand horses and a countless army of Libyans, Sukkiim and Ethiopians who came from Egypt with him, •he captured the 4 fortified towns of Judah and reached Jerusalem. •Rehoboam and the Judean 5 captains, at the advance of Shishak, had mustered near Jerusalem; to them came Shemaiah the prophet. ‘Yahweh says this’ he said to them. ‘“You have 6 abandoned me, now I have abandoned you into the hands of Shishak.”’ •Then 6 the Israelite captains and the king humbled themselves. ‘Yahweh is just!’ they said. •When Yahweh saw that they had humbled themselves, the word of Yahweh 7 came to Shemaiah. ‘They have humbled themselves,’ it said ‘I will not destroy them. In a little while I will grant them deliverance; my wrath shall not fall 8 on Jerusalem through the power of Shishak. •Nevertheless they shall become his slaves, so that they may come to understand the difference between serving me and serving the kingdoms of foreign countries.'

9 Shishak the king of Egypt marched on Jerusalem. He took all the treasures 10 from the Temple of Yahweh and the treasures from the royal palace, he took 11 everything, including the golden shields that Solomon had made; •in place of 12 them King Rehoboam had bronze shields made, entrusting them to the care 13 of the officers of the guard who guarded the king's palace gate. •Whenever the 14 king went to the Temple of Yahweh, the guards would come out carrying them, 15 and return them to the guardroom afterwards.

16 Since he had humbled himself, the wrath of Yahweh turned away from him 17 and did not destroy him altogether. Indeed, things went well in Judah, •and 18 King Rehoboam was able to strengthen his position in Jerusalem and to govern.
19 Now Rehoboam was forty-one years old when he came to the throne and he 20 reigned for seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city chosen by Yahweh out of all 21 the tribes of Israel, in which to give his name a home. His mother's name was 22 Naamah the Ammonitess. •He did evil, because he had not set his heart on 23 seeking Yahweh.

24 The history of Rehoboam, from first to last, is not all this recorded in the 25 Annals of Shemaiah the prophet and of Iddo the seer concerning the grouping
26 of the Levites and the incessant warfare between Rehoboam and Jeroboam?
27 Then Rehoboam slept with his ancestors and was buried in the Citadel of David;
28 his son Abijah succeeded him.

ABIJAH AND LOYALTY TO THE LEGITIMATE PRIESTHOOD

War

1 13 In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam, Abijah became king of Judah
2 and reigned for three years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Micaiah,
3 daughter of Uriel, from Gibeah. Abijah and Jeroboam were at war. •Abijah
4 went into battle with an army of brave fighters, four hundred thousand picked 5 men, while Jeroboam drew up his battle line against him with eight hundred 6 thousand picked men, stout fighters.

Abijah addresses the Israelites

7 Abijah took his stand on Mount Zemaraim, in the highlands of Ephraim.
8 'Jeroboam and all Israel' he cried 'listen to me! •Do you not know that 9 Yahweh the God of Israel has given the sovereignty of Israel to David for 10 ever? It is an inviolable covenant for him and for his sons. •Yet Jeroboam 11 son of Nebat, a servant of Solomon son of David, has risen in revolt against 12 his lord; •worthless men, scoundrels, have rallied to him and forced their will 13 on Rehoboam the son of Solomon, on Rehoboam, then a young man and timid,
14 powerless to resist them. •Now you talk of resisting the sovereignty of Yahweh, 15 which belongs to the sons of David, and you stand there in a great horde, with 16 your golden calves that Jeroboam made you for gods! •Have you not driven 17 out the priests of Yahweh, the sons of Aaron and the Levites, to make priests
18 of your own like the peoples of foreign countries? Anyone who comes with a bull 19 and seven rams to get himself consecrated can become priest of what is no god
20 at all! •But for our part, our God is Yahweh, and we have not abandoned him:
21 our priests are sons of Aaron who minister to Yahweh, and those who serve 22 are Levites. •Every morning, every evening, we burn holocausts to Yahweh our 23 God; we have the incense of sweet spices, the loaves set out in rows on the pure 24 table, the golden lamp-stand with its lamps that burn each evening; for we 25 observe the ritual of Yahweh our God, but you have abandoned him. •See how 26 God is with us, at our head; see his priests with the trumpets, who will sound 27 them to raise the war cry against you. Sons of Israel, do not fight against Yahweh, 28 the God of our ancestors, for you will not succeed.'

The battle

Jeroboam outflanked the Judaeans by setting an ambush in their rear; the Judaeans were facing the Israelites with the ambush in their rear. •The Judaeans, turning about, found themselves attacked in front and rear. They called on Yahweh, the priests sounded the trumpets, •and the men of Judah raised the war cry, and as they raised the cry God scattered Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah. •The Israelites fled before Judah and God delivered them into the power of the Judaeans. •Abijah and his army inflicted a crushing defeat on them: five hundred thousand of Israel's chosen men fell killed. •So the sons of Israel were humbled on that occasion, and the sons of Judah reassured since they had relied on Yahweh, the God of their ancestors.

The end of the reign of Abijah

Abijah pursued Jeroboam and captured certain towns from him: Bethel with its outlying villages, Jeshanah with its outlying villages and Ephron with its outlying villages. •So in the lifetime of Abijah, Jeroboam could no longer maintain his power; and Yahweh struck him down, and he died. •But Abijah grew in strength; he took fourteen wives and had twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters. •The rest of the history of Abijah, his conduct and his deeds, is not all this recorded in the Midrash of the prophet Iddo? •Then Abijah slept with his fathers and they buried him in the Citadel of David; his son Asa succeeded him.

ASA AND HIS REFORM OF PUBLIC WORSHIP*Peace under Asa

In his time the country was at peace for ten years.

14 Asa did what is good and right in the eyes of Yahweh. •He abolished the foreign altars and the high places, broke the pillars, cut down the sacred poles, •and urged the Judaeans to look to Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, and to observe law and commandment. •He abolished the high places and the altars of incense in every town of Judah. The kingdom was at peace under his rule. •He rebuilt the fortified towns of Judah, since the country was at peace and free of war during those years, Yahweh having granted him peace.

'Let us rebuild these towns,' he told Judah 'let us surround them with wall and tower, with gate and bar; we shall be left in this land, since we have looked to Yahweh our God; and he has looked to us and given us peace on every side.'

They built and prospered. •Asa had an army of three hundred thousand Judaeans armed with buckler and spear, and two hundred and eighty thousand Benjaminites bearing shield and wielding the bow, all of them valiant champions.

Zerah's invasion

Zerah the Cushite and an army one million strong with three hundred chariots made an incursion, and penetrated to Mareshah. •Asa marched out to intercept him and drew up his battle line in the Valley of Zephathah, at Mareshah. He called on Yahweh, his God. 'Yahweh,' he said 'no one but you can stand up for the powerless against the powerful. Come to our help, Yahweh our God! We rely on you, and confront this horde in your name. Yahweh, you are our God. Let man leave everything to you!'

Yahweh defeated the Cushites before Asa and the Judaeans, the Cushites fled, •and Asa pursued them with his army as far as Gerar. So many of the Cushites fell that recovery was impossible, for they had been shattered before Yahweh and his army. They collected great quantities of booty, •they conquered all the towns in the area of Gerar, for the terror of Yahweh had fallen on these;

<sup>14</sup> they plundered them all since they were full of loot. •They also set on the enclosures of livestock and carried off great numbers of sheep and camels; then they returned to Jerusalem.

The prophecy of Azariah and the oath of fidelity

<sup>1</sup> 15 The spirit of God came on Azariah son of Oded; •he went out to meet Asa and said, 'Listen to me, Asa, and all you of Judah and of Benjamin. Yahweh is with you so long as you are with him. When you seek him, he lets you find him; when you desert him, he deserts you. •Many a day Israel will spend without a faithful God, without priest to teach, without law; •but in their distress they will return to Yahweh, the God of Israel; they will seek him, and he will let them find him. •When that time comes no grown man will know peace, for many troubles will afflict all the inhabitants of the country. •Nation will be shattered by nation, city shattered by city, since God will afflict them with every kind of distress. •But for your part, take courage, do not let your hands weaken, for your deeds will be rewarded.'

<sup>8</sup> When Asa heard these words and this prophecy, he was emboldened to remove all the abominable idols throughout the land of Judah and Benjamin, and in the towns he had captured in the highlands of Ephraim; he then repaired the altar of Yahweh that stood in front of the Porch of Yahweh.<sup>a</sup> •He gathered all Judah and Benjamin together, and also the Ephraimites, Manassites and Simeonites who had settled with them, since great numbers of Israelites had gone over to Asa when they saw that Yahweh was with him. •In the third month of the fifteenth year of Asa they assembled in Jerusalem; •and they sacrificed to Yahweh that day seven hundred oxen and seven thousand sheep out of the spoil they had brought back. •They made a compact to seek Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, with all their heart and soul; •anyone who would not seek Yahweh the God of Israel was to be put to death, whether of high or low degree, man or woman. •They pledged their oath to Yahweh aloud with shouts to the sound of trumpet and horn; •all Judah rejoiced at the oath they had wholeheartedly taken. They sought Yahweh so earnestly that he let them find him, and granted them peace on every side.

Further activities of Asa

<sup>16</sup> Maacah herself, the mother of King Asa, was deprived by him of the dignity of queen mother for making an obscenity for Asherah; Asa cut down her obscenity and burnt it in the wadi Kidron. •Though the high places were not abolished in Israel,<sup>b</sup> the heart of Asa was blameless all his life. •He deposited the offerings dedicated by his father and his own offerings too, in the Temple of God, silver and gold and furnishings.

<sup>19</sup> Up to the thirty-fifth year of Asa's reign there was no war. 16 In the thirty-sixth year of Asa's reign, Baasha king of Israel marched on Judah and fortified Ramah to blockade Asa king of Judah. •Asa then took the silver and gold from the treasuries of the Temple of Yahweh and the royal palace, and sent this with the following message to Ben-hadad king of Aram who lived in Damascus, 'An alliance between myself and you, as between my father and your father! With this I send you silver and gold. Come, break off your alliance with Baasha king of Israel, and he will have to retire from my territory.' •Ben-hadad agreed, and sent his generals against the towns of Israel; he conquered Ijon, Dan, Abel-maim and all the garrison towns of Naphtali. •When Baasha heard this he gave up fortifying Ramah, abandoning this work. •King Asa then brought all Judah; they took away the stones and timber with which Baasha had been fortifying Ramah, and the king used them to fortify Geba and Mizpah.

<sup>15</sup> a. Asa, who is credited at the beginning of this chapter with measures exactly like those taken by Josiah, 2 K 22, is credited here with Hezekiah's restoration of the altar, 2 K 16. b. The Chronicler follows 1 K without harmonising it with 2 Ch 14.

It was then that Hanani the seer came to Asa king of Judah and said, 'Since 7
you have relied on the king of Aram and not on Yahweh your God, the army 7 of the king of Aram will slip through your fingers. •Did not the Cushites and 8 Libyans form a vast army with great numbers of chariots and horses? And were 8 they not delivered into your power because you relied on Yahweh? •Since the 9 eyes of Yahweh rove to and fro across the whole world to display his might 9 on behalf of those whose hearts are wholly his, you have acted on this occasion 10 like a fool; and from now on you will have war.' •Enraged with the seer, Asa 10 had him put in the stocks in prison, he was so angry with him for this; at the same time Asa began treating part of the population harshly too.

The end of the reign of Asa

The history of Asa, from first to last, is recorded in the Book of the Kings 11 of Judah and Israel. •A disease attacked Asa from head to foot in the thirty- 12 ninth year of his reign; and, what is more, he turned in his sickness, not to 12 Yahweh, but to doctors. •Then Asa slept with his ancestors, dying in the 13 forty-first year of his reign. •They buried him in the tomb he had ordered to 14 be dug for himself in the Citadel of David. They laid him on a couch entirely covered with spices and varied ointments, products of the perfumer's skill, and lit a huge fire for him.

JEHOSHAPHAT AND HIS GOVERNMENT

His power

17 His son Jehoshaphat succeeded him and consolidated his power over Israel. 1
He put troops in all the fortified towns in Judah, and appointed governors 2 in the land of Judah and in all the towns of Ephraim captured by his father Asa.

His observance of the Law

Yahweh was with Jehoshaphat because he followed the example of his father's 3 earlier days and did not have recourse to the Baals; •he sought the God of his 4 father, following his commandments and not following the example of Israel.
Yahweh made the kingship secure in his hands; all Judah paid tribute to Jehosha- 5
phat, and ample riches and honour were his. •His heart advanced in the ways 6 of Yahweh, and once again he did away with the high places and sacred poles in Judah.

In the third year of his reign he sent his officers: Ben-hail, Obadiah, Zechariah, 7
Nethanel and Micaiah, to give instruction in the towns of Judah. •With them 8 went the Levites: Shemaiah, Nethaniah, Zebadiah, Asahel, Shemiramoth, Jehonathan, Adonijah and Tobijah, the Levites, together with the priests, Elishama and Jehoram. •They gave instruction in Judah, having with them the 9 book of the Law of Yahweh, and went round all the towns of Judah instructing the people. •The terror of Yahweh fell on all the kingdoms of the land 10 surrounding Judah; they did not make war on Jehoshaphat. •Some of the 11 Philistines brought him gifts and silver in tribute; the Arabs<sup>2</sup> themselves brought him, in small stock, seven thousand seven hundred rams and seven thousand seven hundred he-goats. •Jehoshaphat became more and more powerful. 12
He built fortresses and garrison towns in Judah.

The army

He had strong formations in the towns of Judah and a garrison of valiant 13 champions in Jerusalem. •This was their disposition by families: for Judah, 14 commanders of thousands: Adnah, the commanding officer, with three hundred thousand valiant champions; •under his command, Jehohanan with two hundred 15

- 16 and eighty thousand; •under his command, Amasiah son of Zichri, who had volunteered for Yahweh's service, with two hundred thousand valiant champions.
- 17 From Benjamin: the valiant champion Eliada with two hundred thousand,
- 18 armed with bow and shield; •under his command, Jehozabad with a hundred and eighty thousand equipped for war.
- 19 These were the men who served the king, not counting those the king had put in the fortified towns throughout Judah.

The alliance with Ahab; the prophets' attitude

- 1 18 Jehoshaphat, then, enjoyed great wealth and honour, and allied himself
- 2 by marriage to Ahab. •After some years he went to visit Ahab in Samaria. Ahab slaughtered for him and for his retinue great numbers of sheep and oxen
- 3 to induce him to attack Ramoth-gilead. •'Will you come with me to Ramoth-gilead?' Ahab king of Israel asked Jehoshaphat king of Judah. Jehoshaphat answered the king of Israel, 'I am as ready for battle as you, my men as your men'.

The spurious prophets predict success

- 4 Jehoshaphat, however, said to the king of Israel, 'First, please consult the
- 5 word of Yahweh'. •So the king of Israel called the prophets together, four hundred of them. 'Should we march to attack Ramoth-gilead,' he asked 'or should I refrain?' 'March,' they replied 'Yahweh will deliver it into the power of the
- 6 king.' •But Jehoshaphat said, 'Is there no other prophet of Yahweh here for us to consult?' •The king of Israel answered Jehoshaphat, 'There is one more man through whom we can consult Yahweh, but I hate him because he never has a favourable prophecy for me, always unfavourable ones; he is Micaiah son
- 8 of Imlah'. 'The king should not say such things' Jehoshaphat said. •Accordingly the king of Israel summoned one of the eunuchs and said, 'Bring Micaiah son of Imlah immediately'.
- 9 The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah were both sitting on their thrones in full regalia; they sat at the threshing-floor outside the gate of Samaria,
- 10 with all the prophets raving in front of them. •Zedekiah son of Chenaanah had made himself iron horns. 'Yahweh says this' he said. "'With these you will
- 11 gore the Arameans till you make an end of them.'" •And all the prophets prophesied the same. 'March to Ramoth-gilead,' they said 'and conquer. Yahweh will deliver it into the power of the king.'
- 12 The messenger who had gone to summon Micaiah said, 'Here are all the prophets as one man in speaking favourably to the king. Try to speak like one
- 13 of them and foretell success.' •But Micaiah answered, 'As Yahweh lives, what
- 14 my God says, that will I utter!' •When he came to the king, the king said, 'Micaiah, should we march to attack Ramoth-gilead, or should I refrain?' He
- 15 answered, 'March and conquer. They will be delivered into your power.' •But the king said, 'How often must I put you on oath to tell me nothing but the
- 16 truth in the name of Yahweh?' •Then Micaiah spoke:

'I have seen all Israel scattered on the mountains
like sheep without a shepherd.
And Yahweh said, "These have no master,
let each one go home unmolested".'

- 17 At this the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, 'Did I not tell you that he
- 18 never gives me favourable prophecies, but only unfavourable ones?' •Micaiah went on, 'Listen rather to the word of Yahweh. I have seen Yahweh seated on his throne; all the array of heaven stood to his right and to his left. •Yahweh
- 19 said, "Who will trick Ahab king of Israel into marching to his death at Ramoth-gilead?" At which some answered one way, and some another. •Then the spirit 20 came forward and stood before Yahweh. "I," he said "I will trick him." "How?"

Yahweh asked. •He replied, "I will go and become a lying spirit in the mouths 21 of all his prophets". "You shall trick him," Yahweh said "you shall succeed.
Go and do it." •Now see how Yahweh has put a lying spirit into the mouths 22 of your prophets here. But Yahweh has pronounced disaster on you.'

Then Zedekiah son of Chenaanah came up and struck Micaiah on the jaw, 23
'Which way' he asked 'did the spirit of Yahweh leave me, to talk to you?'
'This is what you will find out,' Micaiah retorted 'the day you flee to an inner 24 room to hide.' •The king of Israel said, 'Seize Micaiah and hand him over to Amon, governor of the city, and to Prince Joash, •and say, "This is the king's 25 order: Put this man in prison and feed him on nothing but bread and water until I come back safe and sound" '. •Micaiah said, 'If you come back safe 27 and sound, Yahweh has not spoken through me'.

The king of Israel and Jehoshaphat king of Judah went up against Ramoth- 28
gilead. •The king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, 'I will disguise myself to go 29 into battle, but I want you to wear your royal uniform'. The king of Israel disguised himself, and they went into battle. •The king of Aram had given his 30 chariot commanders the following order: 'Do not attack anyone of whatever rank, except the king of Israel'. •When the chariot commanders caught sight 31 of Jehoshaphat, they said, 'That is the king of Israel'. And they wheeled to the attack. But Jehoshaphat gave a shout and Yahweh came to his help, God drew them away from him, •for the chariot commanders, realising that he was not 32
the king of Israel, called off their pursuit.

Now one of the men, drawing his bow at random, hit the king of Israel 33 between the corslet and the scale-armour of his breastplate. 'Turn about,' the king said to his charioteer 'get me out of the battle; I have been hurt.' •But 34
the battle grew fiercer as the day went on; until evening the king held himself upright in his chariot facing the Aramaeans, and at sunset he died.

19 Jehoshaphat came back safe and sound to Jerusalem. •Jehu, son of Hanani  $\frac{1}{2}$
the seer, went to meet him and said to King Jehoshaphat, 'Should a man give help to the wicked? Should you love those who hate Yahweh and so bring his wrath on you? •There is some good in you, however, since you have removed 3
the sacred poles from the land and have set your heart on seeking God.'

Measures taken to spread the true religion of Yahweh

After a stay in Jerusalem, Jehoshaphat made another progress through his 4 people, from Beersheba to the highlands of Ephraim, to bring them back to Yahweh, the God of their ancestors. •He appointed judges in the country in 5 every one of all the fortified towns of Judah. •He said to these judges, 'Give due thought to your duties, since you are not judging in the name of men but in 6 the name of Yahweh, who is with you whenever you pronounce sentence. •May the fear of Yahweh now be on you. Keep the Law, apply it, for Yahweh our 7
God has no part in fraud or partiality or the taking of bribes.'

In addition, Jehoshaphat appointed priests, Levites and heads of Israelite 8 families in Jerusalem to pronounce the verdicts of Yahweh and to judge disputed cases. They lived in Jerusalem •and Jehoshaphat gave them the following 9 instructions, 'You are to perform these duties in the fear of Yahweh, faithfully and with all your heart. •Whatever dispute comes before you from your brothers 10 living in their towns: a question of blood-vengeance, of the Law, of some commandment, of statute, or of ordinance, you are to clarify these matters for them so that they do not incur guilt before Yahweh, whose wrath will otherwise come on you and your brothers. Do this and you will incur no guilt.

'Amariah, the chief priest, will preside over you in all religious matters, and 11
Zebadiah son of Ishmael, controller of the House of Judah, in all matters affecting the king. The Levites will serve as your scribes. Be resolute, carry out these instructions, and Yahweh will be there to bring success.'

An act of faith and song of praise in the war against Edom

- 1 20 After this the Moabites and Ammonites, with some of the Meunites<sup>a</sup>
 2 started to make war on Jehoshaphat. •Jehoshaphat received the following intelligence, 'A vast horde is advancing against you from Edom, from the other side of the sea; they are already at Hazazon-tamar, that is, En-gedi'.
- 3 Jehoshaphat was alarmed and resolved to have recourse to Yahweh; he 4 proclaimed a fast for all Judah. •Judah assembled to seek help from Yahweh;
 they came seeking Yahweh from every single town in Judah.
- 5 At this assembly of the people of Judah and Jerusalem in the Temple of 6 Yahweh, Jehoshaphat stood before the new court •and said, 'Yahweh, God of our ancestors, are you not the God who dwells in the heavens? Do you not rule 7 over all the kingdoms of the nations? Such power and might are in your hands that no one can resist you. •Are you not our God, you who have dispossessed the inhabitants of this land for Israel your people, and given it to the descendants of 8 Abraham whom you will love for ever? •They have settled in it and built a 9 sanctuary there for your name, •saying, "Should calamity befall us, or war, punishment, pestilence, or famine, then we shall stand before this Temple and before you, for your name is in this Temple. From the depths of our distress we shall cry to you, and you will hear and save us."
- 10 'Here now are the Ammonites and Moab and the mountain folk of Seir;
 when Israel came out of the land of Egypt you would not let Israel invade them;
 11 instead, Israel turned away from them and did not destroy them; •and this is how they reward us, by coming to drive us out of the possessions you have 12 given us as our inheritance. •Will you our God not execute judgement on them, since we are helpless against this vast horde attacking us? We ourselves do not know what to do; we look to you.'
- 13 All the men of Judah, even down to their youngest children and their wives, 14 stood in the presence of Yahweh. •In the middle of the assembly the spirit of Yahweh came on Jahaziel son of Zechariah, son of Benaiah, son of Jeiel, son 15 of Mattaniah the Levite, one of the sons of Asaph. •'Listen all you men of Judah,' he cried 'and you who live in Jerusalem, and you, King Jehoshaphat!
 Yahweh says this to you, "Do not be afraid, do not be daunted by this vast 16 horde; this battle is not yours but God's. •March out against them tomorrow;
 they are coming up by the Slope of Ziz and you will come on them in the Valley 17 of Soph, near the wilderness of Jeruel. •You will not need to fight here. Take up your position, stand firm, and see what salvation Yahweh has in store for you. Judah and Jerusalem, be fearless, be dauntless; march out against them tomorrow and Yahweh will be with you.'"'
- 18 Jehoshaphat bent his head, his face to the ground, and all Judah with those 19 who lived in Jerusalem fell down before Yahweh, worshipping him. •Then the Levites—Kohathites and Korahites—began praising Yahweh the God of Israel at the tops of their voices.
- 20 They rose early in the morning and left for the wilderness of Tekoa. As they were setting out, Jehoshaphat stood and said, 'Listen to me Judah and all who live in Jerusalem! Have faith in Yahweh your God and you will be secure; have 21 faith in his prophets and you will be successful.' •Then, having held a conference with the people, he set the cantors of Yahweh in sacred vestments at the head of the army, to sing praises to him. 'Give praise to Yahweh,' they sang 'for his love is 22 everlasting.' •As they began to sing their joy and their praise, Yahweh laid an ambush for the Ammonites and Moab and the mountain folk of Seir who had 23 come to attack Judah, and routed them. •The Ammonites and Moabites turned on the mountain folk of Seir to inflict the ban on them and destroy them altogether, but they only helped each other to their own undoing.
- 24 When the men of Judah reached the spot that looks out on the wilderness

and turned to face the horde, they found only corpses lying on the ground; no one had escaped. •Jehoshaphat came with his troops to plunder them, and found quantities of cattle, goods, clothing and valuables; they collected more than they could take away; the booty was so plentiful they were three days gathering it. •On the fourth day they mustered in the Valley of Beracah; and there they did indeed bless Yahweh,<sup>b</sup> hence the name of the Valley of Beracah by which the place is still called today. •Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin, with Jehoshaphat at their head, went back joyfully to Jerusalem, for Yahweh had given them cause to rejoice over their enemies. •To the music of harp and lyre and trumpet they came to Jerusalem and to the Temple of Yahweh, and the Terror of God came on all the kingdoms of foreign countries when they came to hear how Yahweh had fought against the enemies of Israel. •The kingdom of Jehoshaphat was calm, his God granting him peace on all his frontiers.

The end of the reign of Jehoshaphat

Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah. He was thirty-five years old when he came to the throne and he reigned for twenty-five years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Azubah, daughter of Shilhi. •He followed the example of his father Asa undeviatingly, doing what is right in the eyes of Yahweh. •The high places, however, were not abolished; the people had still not turned their hearts to the God of their ancestors. •The rest of the history of Jehoshaphat, from first to last, is recorded in the Annals of Jehu son of Hanani which have been transcribed into the Book of the Kings of Israel.

After this, Jehoshaphat king of Judah allied himself with Ahaziah king of Israel, who led him into evil ways. •He combined with him to build ships that would sail to Tarshish; they built them at Ezion-geber. •Eliezer son of Dodavahu of Mareshah then made a prophecy against Jehoshaphat. 'Because you have allied yourself with Ahaziah,' he said 'Yahweh has broken your work.' The ships broke up and were never fit to sail for Tarshish.

21 Jehoshaphat slept with his ancestors and was buried in the Citadel of David; his son Jehoram succeeded him.

IMPIETY AND DISASTERS UNDER JEHORAM, AHAZIAH, ATHALIAH AND JOASH

The accession and crime of Jehoram

Jehoram had six brothers, sons of Jehoshaphat: Azariah, Jehiel, Zechariah, Azariahu, Michael and Shephatiah; these are all the sons of Jehoshaphat king of Israel. •Their father had made them many gifts of silver, gold and jewels, and of fortified towns in Judah, but he bequeathed the throne to Jehoram since he was the first-born. •Jehoram, having maintained his hold over his father's kingdom and secured his own position, put all his brothers to the sword and some officials of Israel too.

Jehoram was thirty-two years old when he came to the throne and he reigned for eight years in Jerusalem. •He followed the example of the kings of Israel as the family of Ahab had done, having married one of Ahab's daughters; and he did what is displeasing to Yahweh. •Yahweh however did not intend to destroy the House of David, because of the covenant he had made with David, and was faithful to the promise he had made to leave a lamp for him and his sons for ever.

The punishment

In his time Edom threw off the domination of Judah and set up a king for itself. •Jehoram crossed the frontier with his commanders and all his chariots. He rose during the night and broke through the Edomites encircling him and

- 10 his chariot commanders. •Thus Edom threw off the domination of Judah, and has remained free to the present day. Libnah threw off Jehoram's domination at the same time.
- 11 He had indeed deserted Yahweh, the God of his ancestors. •He also set up high places in the highlands of Judah and caused the inhabitants of Jerusalem to prostitute themselves, and Judah to go astray. •Then something written by the prophet Elijah came into his hands. It ran, 'This is the word of Yahweh, the God of David your ancestor. "Since you have not followed the example of your father Jehoshaphat or of Asa king of Judah, •but the example of the kings of Israel, and have caused Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to prostitute themselves, just as the House of Ahab did, and since you have also murdered your brothers, your own family, better men than yourself, •Yahweh will strike you with a great calamity, your people, your descendants, your wives and all your property. •You yourself shall suffer dire diseases, and a disease of your bowels so severe that within two years it will make your bowels drop out.'"'
- 16 Yahweh roused against Jehoram the hostility of the Philistines, and of the Arabs bordering on the Cushites. •They attacked Judah, invading it and carrying off all the property they found belonging to the king's household, including his sons and his wives; the only son left him was Ahaziah, the youngest of them.
- 18 And after all this, Yahweh struck him down with an incurable disease of the bowels; •it lasted for more than one year, and when two years were over and his last hour had come, his bowels dropped out with disease and he died in great pain. The people did not light a fire for him as they had for his father.
- 20 He was thirty-two years old when he came to the throne and he reigned for eight years in Jerusalem. He passed away with no one to regret him, and they buried him in the Citadel of David, though not in the tombs of the kings.

Ahaziah and his policy

- 1 22 The population of Jerusalem made his youngest son Ahaziah king in succession to him, since the armed band that had broken into the camp with the Arabs had killed all the elder sons. That was why Ahaziah son of Jehoram became king of Judah. •Ahaziah was twenty years old when he came to the throne and he reigned for one year in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Athaliah, daughter of Omri. •He too followed the example of Ahab's family, since his mother gave him wicked advice. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh as Ahab's family had done, for these were his advisers after his father's death, to his undoing. •He also put their policy into practice and went with Jehoram son of Ahab, king of Israel, to fight against Hazael king of Aram at Ramoth-gilead.
- 6 But the Aramaeans wounded Jehoram, •who returned to Jezreel to recover from the wounds that he had received at Ramoth, fighting against Hazael king of Aram. Ahaziah son of Jehoram, king of Judah, went down to Jezreel to visit Jehoram son of Ahab because he was ill. •Through this visit to Jehoram Yahweh brought ruin to Ahaziah. On his arrival he went out with Jehoram to meet Jehu son of Nimshi whom Yahweh had anointed to make an end of the House of Ahab. •While Jehu was busy executing justice on the House of Ahab, he came across the officials of Judah and the nephews of Ahaziah who were in the king's service; he killed them, •and then went in search of Ahaziah. The latter was captured while trying to hide in Samaria, and taken to Jehu who put him to death. But they gave him burial. 'This was a son of Jehoshaphat,' they said 'who sought Yahweh with all his heart.'

The crime of Athaliah

- 10 There was no one left in the House of Ahaziah strong enough to reign. •As soon as Athaliah the mother of Ahaziah learned that her son was dead, she promptly did away with all the royal stock of the House of Judah. •But Jehosheba, 20 b. Beracah means 'blessing'.

daughter of the king, secretly took away Joash, her brother's son, from among the sons of the king who were being murdered, and put him with his nurse in the sleeping quarters; in this way Jehosheba the daughter of King Joram and wife of Jehoiada the priest (a sister, too, of Ahaziah) hid him from Athaliah, and prevented her from killing him. •He stayed with them for six years, hidden in the Temple of God, while Athaliah governed the country.

The ministers of the Temple oppose Athaliah

23 In the seventh year Jehoiada took strong measures. He sent for the commanders of hundreds, Azariah son of Jeroham, Ishmael son of Jehohanan, Azariah son of Obed, Maaseiah son of 'Adaiah and Elishaphat son of Zichri, and made a pact with them. •They went through Judah, gathering the Levites from all the towns of Judah, and the heads of the Israelite families.<sup>a</sup> They came to Jerusalem, •and this whole assembly made a pact with the king in the Temple of God. 'Here is the son of the king' Jehoiada told them. 'Let him reign, as Yahweh has promised of the sons of David! •This is what you must do: one third of you, priests, Levites and keepers of the gate, must come in for the sabbath, •one third must be at the royal palace, one third at the Gate of Foundation, and all the people will be in the court of the Temple of Yahweh. •Let no one enter the Temple of Yahweh except the priests and the Levites on duty, since they are consecrated and may enter. The people must all observe the injunctions of Yahweh. •The Levites must surround the king, each with his weapons in his hand; anyone who tries to enter the Temple is to be put to death. Wherever the king comes or goes, you must escort him.'

The Levites and all Judah carried out all the orders of Jehoiada the priest. Each brought his men, those coming off duty on the sabbath together with those mounting guard on the sabbath, for Jehoiada the priest had exempted none of the orders. •Then Jehoiada the priest issued the commanders of hundreds with King David's spears and large and small shields, which were in the Temple of God. •He drew all the people up, each man with his weapon in his hand, from the south corner to the north corner of the Temple, surrounding the altar and the Temple, to form a circle round the king. •Then Jehoiada brought out the king's son, crowned him, and imposed the Law on him; and they proclaimed him king, Jehoiada and his sons then anointed him and shouted, 'Long live the king!'

Athaliah, on hearing the shouts of the people rushing to the king and acclaiming him, made for the Temple of Yahweh where the people were. •When she saw the king standing there at the entrance beside the pillar, with the captains and trumpeters at the king's side, and all the country people rejoicing and sounding trumpets, and the cantors with their musical instruments leading the hymns, Athaliah tore her garments and shouted, 'Treason, treason!' •Then Jehoiada the priest called out the military officers. 'Take her outside the precincts,' he ordered 'and put anyone to the sword who follows her.' For the priest had said, 'You must not put her to death in the Temple of Yahweh'. •They seized her, and when she had reached the palace at the entry to the Gate of the Horses, they put her to death there.

The reforms by Jehoiada

Jehoiada made a covenant between the king and all the people, by which they undertook to be the people of Yahweh. •All the people then went to the temple of Baal and demolished it; they smashed his altars and his images and killed Mattan, priest of Baal, in front of the altars.

Jehoiada posted sentries to guard the Temple of Yahweh under the authority of the levitical priests. David had given the Temple of Yahweh to these as their portion, so that they could offer the holocausts of Yahweh as is laid down in the Law of Moses, with joy and song, in accordance with the orders of 19 David. •He stationed gatekeepers at the gates of the Temple of Yahweh so that 20 no one who was in any way unclean might enter. •Then taking the commanders of hundreds, the notables, those holding public positions, and all the country people, he escorted the king down from the Temple of Yahweh. They entered the royal palace through the middle arch of the Upper Gate and seated 21 the king on the royal throne. •All the country people were delighted, and the city made no move. Athaliah was put to death.

Joash repairs the Temple

1 24 Joash was seven years old when he came to the throne and he reigned for forty years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Zibiah of Beersheba.
 2 Joash did what is pleasing to Yahweh throughout the lifetime of Jehoiada the 3 priest. •Jehoiada found him two wives and he had sons and daughters. •Subse-
 4 quently, Joash made up his mind to repair the Temple of Yahweh.

5 Calling the priests and the Levites together, he said, 'Go out to the towns of Judah, and collect enough money from all the Israelites to make possible annual repairs to the Temple of Yahweh. Do this quickly.' But the Levites 6 were in no hurry, •so the king summoned Jehoiada their leader, and said, 'Why have you not insisted on the Levites collecting from Judah and Jerusalem what Moses the servant of Yahweh levied from the community of Israel for the Tent
 7 of the Testimony? •Athaliah and her sons, whom she perverted, not only damaged the Temple of God but even assigned the sacred revenues of the Temple of 8 Yahweh to the Baals.' •The king ordered them to make a chest and to place 9 it outside the gate of the Temple of Yahweh. •Proclamation was then made in Judah and in Jerusalem that what Moses the servant of God had levied from 10 Israel in the wilderness should be brought to Yahweh. •All the officials and all the people came joyfully with their contribution, dropping it into the chest until all was paid.

11 When the chest was taken to the royal office of control, run by the Levites, these would check the amount of money in it; then the king's secretary would come with a representative of the chief priest; they would take up the chest, carry it away, and later return it to its place. They did this every day, and collected 12 a large sum of money. •The king and Jehoiada handed it over to the master of works attached to the Temple of Yahweh. The hired men, masons and carpenters, set about restoring the Temple of Yahweh; craftsmen in iron and 13 bronze also worked on the repairing of it. •The masters of works having once made a start, the repairs went ahead under their supervision; they rebuilt the 14 Temple of God to its former state and strengthened the fabric. •When they had finished, they brought the balance of the money to the king and Jehoiada, and with this furnishings were made for the Temple of Yahweh, vessels for the liturgy and for the holocausts, incense boats and objects of gold and silver.

So, for as long as Jehoiada lived they offered perpetual holocaust in the 15 Temple of Yahweh. •Then Jehoiada, growing old, had his fill of days and died.
 16 He died at the age of a hundred and thirty years, •and they buried him with the kings in the Citadel of David because he had served God and his Temple well in Israel.

Joash falls away and is punished

17 After the death of Jehoiada, the officials of Judah came to pay court to the 18 king, and the king now turned to them for advice. •The Judaeans abandoned the Temple of Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, for the worship of sacred poles and idols. Because of their guilt, God's anger fell on Judah and Jerusalem.

23 a. Comparison of this chapter with 2 K 11 shows how the Chronicler adapts his source to maintain the Temple regulations of his own time, and loses no opportunity to emphasise the part of priests and Levites: a coup d'état has become a liturgical act, even to the hymns led by cantors in v.13.

He sent them prophets to bring them back to Yahweh, but when these gave 19 their message, they would not listen. •The spirit of God took possession of 20 Zechariah son of Jehoiada the priest. He stood up before the people and said,
 'God says this, "Why do you transgress the commandments of Yahweh to no good purpose? You have deserted Yahweh, now he deserts you."' •They 21 then plotted against him and by order of the king stoned him in the court of the Temple of Yahweh. •King Joash, forgetful of the kindness that Jehoiada, 22 the father of Zechariah, had shown him, killed Jehoiada's son who cried out as he died, 'Yahweh sees and he will avenge!'

When a year had gone by, the Aramaean army made war on Joash. They 23 reached Judah and Jerusalem, and executed all the officials among the people, sending back to the king at Damascus all that they had plundered from them.
 Though the Aramaean army had by no means come in force, Yahweh delivered 24 into its power an army of great size for having deserted him, the God of their ancestors.

The Aramaeans treated Joash as he had deserved, •and when they retired 25
 they left him a very sick man; and his officers, plotting against him to avenge the death of the son of Jehoiada the priest, murdered him in his bed. So he died, and they buried him in the Citadel of David, though not in the tombs of the kings. •These were the conspirators: Zabad son of Shimeath the Ammonite 26 woman, and Jehozabad son of Shimrith the Moabites. •As regards his sons, 27
 the heavy tribute imposed on him, and the restoration of the Temple of God, this is all recorded in the Midrash on the Book of the Kings. His son Amaziah succeeded him.

THE HALF-HEARTED PIETY AND PARTIAL SUCCESS OF AMAZIAH, UZZIAH AND JOTHAM

The religious policy of Amaziah

25 Amaziah was twenty-five years old when he came to the throne and he 1 reigned for twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem. •He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, though not 2 wholeheartedly. •Once the kingdom was firmly under his control, he killed 3
 those of his officers who had murdered the king his father. •But he did not put 4 their sons to death, in obedience to what is written in the Law, in the book of Moses, where Yahweh has ordered, 'Fathers must not be put to death for sons, nor sons for fathers; each one must be put to death for his own sin'.

Amaziah called the men of Judah together and organised them in families 5 with commanders of thousands and of hundreds for all Judah and Benjamin.
 He took a census of those who were twenty years old and upwards, and found there were three hundred thousand of them, eligible and fit for military service, with spear and shield to hand. •Next, he enrolled one hundred thousand valiant 6 champions from Israel as mercenaries, for a hundred talents of silver. •A man 7 of God then came to him. 'O king,' he said 'the troops of Israel must not march with you, for Yahweh is not with Israel, nor with anyone from Ephraim. •For 8
 if they come, no matter how brave your conduct in the fight, God will still bring you down before your enemies, for God's is the power to uphold or to throw down.' •Amaziah answered the man of God, 'And what about the hundred 9 talents I have given the Israelite contingent?' 'Yahweh can give you far more than that' the man of God replied. •At this, Amaziah dismissed from his army 10
 the troops that had come to him from Ephraim and sent them home; these men were furious with Judah and went home in a great rage.

His infidelity after the Edomite campaign

- 11 Amaziah decided to lead out his troops and, having reached the Valley of 12 Salt, defeated ten thousand of the sons of Seir. •The men of Judah took ten thousand captives alive and, taking them to the summit of the Rock, threw 13 them off the top; they were all dashed to pieces. •Then the contingent which Amaziah had dismissed and not allowed to fight with him raided the towns of Judah, from Samaria as far as Beth-horon, beating a force of three thousand strong and capturing great quantities of plunder.
- 14 On returning from his defeat of the Edomites, Amaziah brought the gods of the sons of Seir with him; he set these up as gods for himself, bowing down 15 before them and burning incense to them. •The anger of Yahweh blazed out against Amaziah; he sent him a prophet, who said, 'Why do you resort to this people's gods, to gods who could not save their own people from your hands?'
- 16 He was still speaking when Amaziah interrupted him. 'Have we appointed you a royal counsellor? If you do not want to be hurt, be quiet!' The prophet paused;
 then he said, 'I know that God has determined to destroy you, since you have behaved like this and have refused to listen to my advice'.

The disaster at Beth-shemesh

- 17 After consulting his advisers, Amaziah king of Judah sent a message to Joash son of Jehoahaz son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying, 'Come and make a trial of 18 strength!' •Joash king of Israel sent back word to Amaziah king of Judah, 'The thistle of Lebanon sent a message to the cedar of Lebanon, saying, "Give my son your daughter in marriage"; but the wild animals of Lebanon trampled the 19 thistle down as they passed. •"Look at me, the conqueror of Edom" you say, and now hold your head in the air; boast on, but stay at home. Why challenge disaster, to your own ruin and the ruin of Judah?'
- 20 But Amaziah would not listen, and this was God's doing: he intended to 21 hand them over to their enemies for resorting to the gods of Edom. •And at Beth-shemesh, which belongs to Judah, they made their trial of strength, Joash
 22 and Amaziah king of Judah. •Judah was defeated by Israel, and everyone fled 23 to his tent. •The king of Judah, Amaziah son of Joash, son of Ahaziah, was taken prisoner at Beth-shemesh by Joash king of Israel who led him off to Jerusalem, where Joash demolished the city wall from the Gate of Ephraim 24 to the Gate of the Corner for a distance of four hundred cubits. •He took all the gold and silver, and all the furnishings to be found with Obed-edom in the Temple of God, the treasures of the royal palace, and hostages besides, and then returned to Samaria.

The end of the reign of Amaziah

- 25 Amaziah son of Joash, king of Judah, lived for fifteen years after the death of Joash son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel.
- 26 The rest of the history of Amaziah, from first to last, is not all this recorded 27 in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel? •After the time when Amaziah rejected Yahweh, a plot was hatched against him in Jerusalem; he fled to Lachish; 28 but he was followed to Lachish and was put to death there. •He was brought back by horse, and buried with his ancestors in the Citadel of David.

The beginning of the reign of Uzziah

- 1 26 All the people of Judah chose Uzziah, who was sixteen years old, and 2 made him king in succession to his father Amaziah. •It was he who rebuilt Elath and recovered it for Judah, after the king was sleeping with his ancestors.
- 3 Uzziah was sixteen years old when he came to the throne and he reigned for 4 fifty-two years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jecoliah, of Jerusalem. •He 5 did what is pleasing to Yahweh, just as his father Amaziah had done; •he sought God devotedly throughout the lifetime of Zechariah, who had advanced so far in the fear of God. And for as long as he sought Yahweh, God gave him prosperity.

His military strength

He went out to fight the Philistines, demolished the walls of Gath, Jabneh 6 and Ashdod, then rebuilt the towns in the area of Ashdod and in Philistine territory. •God helped him against the Philistines, the Arabs, the inhabitants 7 of Gur-baal<sup>e</sup> and the Meunites. •The Ammonites paid tribute to Uzziah. His 8 fame spread as far as the approaches of Egypt, since he had become very powerful indeed.

Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem, at the Gate of the Corner, at the Gate of 9 the Valley and at the Angle; and he fortified these. •He built towers in the wilderness too, and dug a great many cisterns, for he had large herds in the 10 lowlands and on the tableland; and he had farmers and vine dressers in the hills and on the fertile lands; he was fond of agriculture.

Uzziah had a professional army ready to go on campaign, divided into 11 contingents manned as detailed by the scribe Jeiel and the registrar Maaseiah, and commanded by Hananiah, one of the king's officers. •The total number 12 of heads of families of these valiant champions was two thousand six hundred. Under their command was a trained army of three hundred and seven thousand 13 five hundred fighting men, a powerful force to support the king against the enemy. Uzziah provided them with shields, spears, helmets, coats of mail, bows and 14 sling stones, for each campaign. •In Jerusalem he constructed engines, invented 15 by experts, which were mounted on the towers and at the corners to fire arrows and great stones. His fame spread far and wide; he owed his strength to a help nothing short of miraculous.

Pride and its punishment

But, as his power increased, his heart grew proud, and this was his ruin: 16 he broke faith with Yahweh his God. He entered the great hall of the Temple of Yahweh to burn incense on the altar of incense. •Azariah the priest followed 17 King Uzziah in, with eighty brave priests of Yahweh, •to resist him. 'Uzziah,' 18 they said 'it is not for you to burn incense to Yahweh, but for the priests, the sons of Aaron, consecrated for the purpose. Leave the sanctuary; you have broken faith; the glory from Yahweh God, is no longer yours.' •Uzziah, censer 19 in hand for the burning of incense, flew into a rage. But while he was raging at the priests, leprosy broke out on his forehead in the presence of the priests, in the Temple of Yahweh, there by the altar of incense. •Azariah the chief priest 20 and all the other priests turned towards him and saw the leprosy on his forehead. They quickly hurried him out, and he himself was anxious to go, since Yahweh had struck him.

King Uzziah was a leper till his dying day. He lived confined to his room, 21 a leper, excluded from the Temple of Yahweh. Jotham, his son, was master of the palace, and ruled the people of the country.

The rest of the history of Uzziah, from first to last, has been written by the 22 prophet Isaiah son of Amoz. •Then Uzziah slept with his ancestors and they 23 buried him with his fathers in the burial ground of the kings,<sup>b</sup> for they said, 'He is a leper'. His son Jotham succeeded him.

The reign of Jotham

27 Jotham was twenty-five years old when he came to the throne and he reigned 1 for sixteen years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Jerushah, daughter of Zadok. •He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, just as his father Uzziah had 2 done. But he did not enter the sanctuary of Yahweh. As for the people, they were still corrupt.

It was he who built the Upper Gate of the Temple of Yahweh and carried 3

- 4 out considerable work on the wall of the Ophel. •He built towns in the highlands of Judah, and fortified places and towers in the arable lands.
- 5 He fought against the king of the Ammonites.<sup>a</sup> He defeated these, and that year the Ammonites had to give him a hundred talents of silver, ten thousand kors of wheat and ten thousand of barley. This was the amount that the
- 6 Ammonites had to pay him, and the same for the second and third years. •Jotham became powerful because he kept an even course in the presence of Yahweh his God.
- 7 The rest of the history of Jotham, all his wars and his policy, are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. •He was twenty-five years old when
- 8 he came to the throne and he reigned for sixteen years in Jerusalem. •Then Jotham slept with his ancestors, and they buried him in the Citadel of David; his son Ahaz succeeded him.

THE GREAT REFORMS UNDER HEZEKIAH AND JOSIAH

THE SINS OF AHAZ, FATHER OF HEZEKIAH

Summary of the reign

- 1 28 Ahaz was twenty years old when he came to the throne and he reigned for sixteen years in Jerusalem. He did not do what is pleasing to Yahweh, as his ancestor David had done. •He followed the example of the kings of Israel, even having idols cast for the Baals; •he offered incense in the Valley of the Sons of Hinnom<sup>a</sup> and caused his sons to pass through fire, copying the shameful practices of the nations which Yahweh had dispossessed for the sons of Israel.
- 4 He offered sacrifices and incense on the high places, on the hills and under every spreading tree.

The invasion

- 5 Yahweh his God delivered him into the power of the king of the Aramaeans who defeated him and took great numbers of his people captive, carrying them off to Damascus. He was also delivered into the power of the king of Israel, who inflicted a crushing defeat on him. •In a single day, Pekah son of Remaliah killed a hundred and twenty thousand in Judah, all stout fighting men; this was because they had deserted Yahweh, the God of their ancestors. •Zichri, an Ephraimite champion, killed Maaseiah, son of the king, Azrikam the controller of the palace, and Elkanah the king's second-in-command. •The Israelites took two hundred thousand of their brothers captive, with wives, sons, daughters; they also took quantities of booty, carrying everything off to Samaria.

The Israelites obey the prophet Oded

- 9 A prophet of Yahweh was there named Oded, who went out to meet the troops returning to Samaria and said, 'Yahweh, the God of your ancestors, was angry with Judah and so he delivered them into your power, but you have slaughtered with such fury as reaches to heaven. •And now you propose to reduce these children of Judah and Jerusalem to being your serving men and women! And are you not all the while the ones who are guilty before Yahweh your God? •Now listen to me: release the prisoners you have taken of your brothers, for the fierce anger of Yahweh hangs over you.'
- 12 Some of the Ephraimite chieftains then protested to those who were returning from the expedition: Azariah son of Jehohanan, Berechiah son of Meshillemoth,

26 a. 'The home of Baal', perhaps Samaria: the list is very like that of the enemies of Nehemiah, Ne 4:1. b. But not in the tomb itself.

27 a. Possibly the Meunites of ch. 20 are meant.

28 a. The Valley of Gehenna, S. of Jerusalem.

Jehizkiah son of Shallum and Amasa son of Hadlai. •'You must not bring 13 the captives in here,' they said 'or we should be guilty before Yahweh. You are proposing to add to our sins and to our guilt, but our guilt is already heavy and the fierce anger of Yahweh is hanging over Israel.' •So in the presence of the 14 officials and of the whole assembly the army gave up the captives and the booty.
Men expressly nominated for the purpose saw to the relief of the prisoners. 15
From the booty they clothed all those of them who were naked; they gave them clothing and sandals and provided them with food, drink and shelter. They mounted all those who were infirm on donkeys and took them back to their kinsmen at Jericho, the city of palm trees. Then they returned to Samaria.

The sins of Ahaz

It was then that King Ahaz sent asking the kings of Assyria to come to his 16 assistance.

The Edomites once again invaded and defeated Judah, and carried off 17 prisoners. •The Philistines encroached on the towns in the lowlands and in the Negeb of Judah. They took Beth-shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, and Soco with its outlying villages, Timnah with its outlying villages, Gimzo with its outlying 19 villages, and they settled in them. •For Yahweh humbled Judah on account of Ahaz king of Israel, since he neglected Judah and was unfaithful to Yahweh.

Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria attacked and besieged him but could not 20 overcome him. •Ahaz however had to take part of the goods in the Temple of Yahweh and in the palaces of the king and princes, to hand over to the king of Assyria, yet he received no help from him. •During the time he was under siege 22
he made his faithlessness graver still, this King Ahaz, •by offering sacrifices to 23
the gods of Damascus who had defeated him. 'Since the gods of the kings of Aram' he said 'have been of help to them, I will sacrifice to them in the hope that they may be of help to me.' But they proved his downfall and that of Israel.

Ahaz collected a number of the furnishings of the Temple of God, and 24 dismantled others; he closed the doors of the Temple of Yahweh and put up altars at every street corner in Jerusalem; •he set up high places in every 25 town of Judah to offer incense to other gods, and so provoked the anger of Yahweh, the God of his ancestors.

The rest of his history, his whole policy, from first to last, is recorded in the 26
Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. •Then Ahaz slept with his ancestors, and 27 they buried him in the Citadel, in Jerusalem, though he was not taken into the tombs of the kings of Israel. His son Hezekiah succeeded him.

REFORM UNDER HEZEKIAH

Summary of the reign

29 Hezekiah came to the throne when he was twenty-five years old and reigned 1 for twenty-nine years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Abijah, daughter of Zechariah. •He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, just as his ancestor David 2 had done.

The Temple is purified

It was he who, in the first month of the first year of his reign, threw open 3 the doors of the Temple of Yahweh and repaired them. •Then he brought the 4 priests and the Levites, assembled them in the eastern square, •and said to them. 5
'Listen to me, Levites! Sanctify yourselves now and consecrate the Temple of Yahweh, the God of our ancestors, and eject what is impure from the sanctuary.
Your ancestors have been unfaithful and done what is displeasing to Yahweh 6 our God. They have deserted him; they have turned their faces away from the place Yahweh has made his home, they have turned their backs on him. •They 7 have even closed the doors of the Vestibule, they have put out the lamps and

- 8 offered no incense, no holocaust, to the God of Israel in the holy place. •So the anger of Yahweh has fallen on Judah and Jerusalem; he has made them an object of terror, astonishment and derisive whistling, as you can see for yourselves. •This is why our ancestors have fallen by the sword, and our sons,
- 9 our daughters, our wives, been taken captive: •I am now determined to make a covenant with Yahweh, the God of Israel, so that his fierce anger may be
- 11 turned away from us. •My sons, be negligent no longer, for Yahweh has chosen you to stand in his presence and serve him, to conduct his worship, and offer him incense.’
- 12 The Levites set to work: Mahath son of Amasai and Joel son of Azariah, of the sons of Kohath; of the Merarites: Kish son of Abdi and Azariah son of Jehallelel; of the Gershonites: Joah son of Zimmah and Eden son of Joah;
- 13 of the sons of Elizaphan: Shimri and Jeuel; of the sons of Asaph: Zechariah and Mattaniah; •of the sons of Heman: Jehiel and Shimei; of the sons of
- 15 Jeduthun: Shemaiah and Uzziel. •They gathered their brothers together, they sanctified themselves, and in obedience to the king’s order, in accordance with the words of Yahweh, they began purifying the Temple of Yahweh.
- 16 The priests went inside the Temple of Yahweh to purify it. They brought out everything unclean they found in the sanctuary of Yahweh, out into the court of the Temple of Yahweh, and the Levites collected it and carried it outside,
- 17 into the wadi Kidron. •They began this consecration on the first day of the first month, and were able to enter the Vestibule of Yahweh on the eighth of the month; they then took eight days to consecrate the Temple of Yahweh, and finished on the sixteenth day of the first month.

The sacrifice of Atonement

- 18 They then waited on King Hezekiah and said, ‘We have purified the whole Temple of Yahweh, the altar of holocaust with all its furnishings, and the tables
- 19 on which the rows of bread are set with all its furnishings. •All the furnishings King Ahaz cast aside during his sacrilegious reign we have put back and consecrated; they are now in front of the altar of Yahweh.’
- 20 King Hezekiah lost no time but called the officials of the city together and
- 21 went up to the Temple of Yahweh. •They brought seven bulls, seven rams and seven lambs, with seven he-goats as a sacrifice for sin on behalf of the royal house, of the sanctuary, and of Judah. The king then told the priests, the sons
- 22 of Aaron, to offer the holocaust on the altar of Yahweh. •They slaughtered the bulls and the priests took up the blood and poured it on the altar. They then slaughtered the rams and poured their blood on the altar; and they slaughtered
- 23 the lambs and poured their blood on the altar. •Then they brought the he-goats, the sacrifice for sin, before the king and the assembly who laid their hands on
- 24 them. •The priests slaughtered them, and with their blood on the altar offered a sacrifice for sin, to perform the ritual of atonement for all Israel—since the king had ordered the holocaust and the sacrifice for sin on behalf of all Israel.
- 25 He then positioned the Levites in the Temple of Yahweh with cymbals, harps and lyres, in accordance with the ordinances of David, of Gad the king’s seer and of Nathan the prophet; the order had in fact come from Yahweh
- 26 through his prophets. •When the Levites had taken their places with David’s musical instruments, and the priests with their trumpets, •Hezekiah ordered the
- 27 holocaust to be offered on the altar. And as the holocaust began, the hymns of Yahweh began too, and the trumpets sounded, to the accompaniment of the
- 28 instruments of David king of Israel. •The whole assembly worshipped, cantors singing, trumpets sounding, until the holocaust was over.
- 29 The offering at an end, the king and all there with him fell to their knees
- 30 and worshipped. •Then King Hezekiah and the officials told the Levites to sing praise to Yahweh in the words of David and of Asaph the seer; they sang most
- 31 fervently and then fell down and worshipped. •Hezekiah spoke again, ‘Now you are dedicated to the service of Yahweh. Come forward, bring the sacrifices of communion and praise into the Temple of Yahweh.' The assembly brought sacrifices of communion and praise, and every kind of holocaust as votive offerings. •The number of victims for these holocausts was seventy bulls, a hundred rams and two hundred lambs, all as holocausts for Yahweh; •six hundred bulls and three thousand sheep were consecrated. •The priests were too few, however, and could not dismember all the holocausts, so the Levites helped them until the work was done and the priests were sanctified; for the Levites had been more conscientious about sanctifying themselves than the priests had. •There was, in addition, an abundant holocaust of fatty parts of the communion sacrifices, and numerous libations in association with the holocaust. And so the liturgy of Yahweh's Temple was restored. •Hezekiah and all the people rejoiced that God had disposed the people to act so promptly.

The Passover assembly

30 Hezekiah sent messengers to all Israel and Judah, and also wrote letters to Ephraim and Manasseh, bidding them come to the Temple of Yahweh in Jerusalem to celebrate a Passover in honour of Yahweh, the God of Israel. The king and his officials and all the assembly in Jerusalem had agreed to celebrate it in the second month, •being unable to celebrate it at the proper time, since the priests had not purified themselves in sufficient number, and the people had not assembled in Jerusalem. •This arrangement seemed fitting to the king and to all the assembly. •It was resolved to send a proclamation throughout Israel, from Dan to Beersheba, calling on the people to come to Jerusalem and celebrate a Passover in honour of Yahweh, the God of Israel, for few had observed the prescribed regulations. •Couriers set out with letters from the hands of the king and his officials for every part of Israel and Judah. They had orders from the king to say, 'Sons of Israel, come back to Yahweh, the God of Abraham, of Isaac, of Israel, and he will come back to those of you who are left and have escaped the grasp of the kings of Assyria. •Do not be like your fathers and brothers who were unfaithful to Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, and whom he handed over to destruction, as you can see. •Do not be stubborn now as your ancestors were. Yield to Yahweh, come to his sanctuary which he has consecrated for ever, serve Yahweh your God and he will turn his fierce anger from you. If you come back sincerely to Yahweh, your brothers and your sons will win favour with their conquerors and return to this land, for Yahweh your God is gracious and merciful. If you come back to him, he will not turn his face from you.'

The couriers went from town to town through the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, but the people laughed and scoffed at them, •though a few men from Asher and Manasseh and Zebulun were humble enough to come to Jerusalem. It was in Judah, rather, that the hand of God worked to inspire them with a united will to obey the order of the king and the officials as contained in the word of Yahweh. •A great number of people gathered in Jerusalem to celebrate the feast of Unleavened Bread in the second month. A very great assembly set to work removing the altars that were in Jerusalem and all the altars for burning incense, and throwing them into the wadi Kidron.

The Passover and feast of Unleavened Bread

They slaughtered the passover on the fourteenth day of the second month. The priests and the Levites were ashamed; they sanctified themselves and so were able to bring holocausts into the Temple of Yahweh. •Then they took up their positions as ordained for them according to the Law of Moses, the man of God. The priests poured out the blood handed to them by the Levites, •since there were many people in the assembly who had not sanctified themselves; the Levites were given the task of slaughtering the Passover victims on behalf of those who lacked the requisite purity to consecrate their victims to Yahweh.

- 18 In point of fact, most of the people, many from Ephraim. Manasseh, Issachar and Zebulun had not purified themselves; they had eaten the Passover without observing the prescribed regulations. But Hezekiah interceded for them, saying,
- 19 'May Yahweh in his goodness cover up the fault of anyone who sets his heart to seeking God, Yahweh the God of his ancestors, even if he lacks the purity requisite for holy things'. •Yahweh heard Hezekiah and left the people unharmed.
- 20 For seven days and with great rejoicing the Israelites in Jerusalem celebrated the feast of Unleavened Bread, while each day the Levites and the priests praised
- 21 Yahweh with all their might. •The words of Hezekiah encouraged the Levites who all showed how versed they were in the things of Yahweh, and for seven days they ate their portion in the feast, offering communion sacrifices with praise
- 22 to Yahweh, the God of their ancestors. •Then all the assembly agreed to continue the celebrations for a further seven days and made of them seven days of rejoicing,
- 23 since Hezekiah king of Judah had provided a thousand bulls and seven thousand sheep for the assembly, and the officials another thousand bulls and ten thousand
- 24 sheep. The priests sanctified themselves in great numbers, •and the whole assembly of Judah rejoiced, the priests too, and the Levites, and all who had come from
- 25 Israel, the refugees who came from Israel and those who lived in Judah. •There was great rejoicing in Jerusalem, for since the time of Solomon son of David,
- 26 Israel, nothing comparable had ever occurred in Jerusalem. •The levitical priests began to bless the people. Their voices were heard and their prayer received in heaven, his holy dwelling place.

Idolatrous worship abolished

- 1 31 When all this was over, all the Israelites who were there set off for the towns of Judah to smash the pillars, cut down the sacred poles, wreck the high places and the altars, and so do away with them altogether throughout Judah, Benjamin, Ephraim, and Manasseh. Then all the Israelites returned to their towns, each man to his holding.

The reorganisation of the priests and Levites

- 2 Hezekiah re-established the priestly and levitical orders, each man in his proper order according to his duties, whether priest or Levite, whether for holocaust, communion sacrifice, liturgical service, thanksgiving or praise, within
- 3 the gates of the camp of Yahweh. •The king set aside a portion of his own possessions for the morning and evening holocausts, and the holocausts of sabbath, New Moon, and solemn feast, as laid down in the Law of Yahweh.
- 4 He then told the people, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, to give the priests and the Levites their share so that they might devote themselves to the Law of Yahweh.
- 5 As soon as the order had been promulgated, the Israelites amassed the first fruits of corn, wine, oil, honey, and all agricultural produce, and brought in a generous
- 6 tithe of everything. •The Israelites and Judaeans living in the towns of Judah also brought in the tithe of cattle and sheep, and the tithe of the holy things
- 7 dedicated to Yahweh their God, piling them up, heap after heap. •They began making these heaps in the third month and finished them in the seventh.
- 8 Hezekiah and his officials came to inspect the heaps and blessed Yahweh and
- 9 his people Israel. •Hezekiah questioned the priests and the Levites about the
- 10 heaps, •and Azariah, the chief priest, of the family of Zadok, answered him. 'Since the contributions were first brought to the Temple of Yahweh,' he said, 'we have had enough to eat and still have plenty left over, for Yahweh has blessed his people; this huge pile is what is left.'
- 11 Hezekiah then ordered them to have rooms prepared in the Temple of
- 12 Yahweh. They did this, •and then brought in the contributions, tithes and consecrated things, to keep them in a safe place. Conaniah the Levite was officer
- 13 in charge of them, with Shimei his brother as his second. •Jehiel, Azaziah, Nahath, Asahel, Jerimoth, Jozabad, Eliel, Ismachiah, Mahath, and Benaiah were appointed overseers under the command of Conaniah and his brother Shimei, by order of King Hezekiah and of Azariah, ruler of the house of God. •Kore son of Imnah the Levite, keeper of the eastern gate, was made responsible for the voluntary offerings to God; he provided the portion set aside for Yahweh and the most holy offerings. •Under his command he had Eden, Miniamin, Jeshua, Shemaiah, Amariah and Shecaniah, who resided permanently in the towns of the priests to carry out the distributions to their kinsmen according to their orders whether more or less important.

Further to this, there was the organisation by related groups of all those men thirty years old and upwards who went to the Temple of Yahweh, by daily rotation, to perform the ritual duties appropriate to their orders. •There was also the organisation of priests by families; as also that of Levites twenty years old and upwards, by duties and orders. •There was also the organisation of all their families, wives, sons and daughters for the whole assembly, since they had an obligation to sanctify themselves faithfully by means of the holy things. As regards the priests, the sons of Aaron, who lived in the pasture lands belonging to their towns, or in the towns themselves, there were men expressly named for the purpose of distributing portions to every male among the priests. Each group was organised by the Levites.

Hezekiah enforced these arrangements throughout Judah. He did what is good and right and loyal before Yahweh his God. •All he undertook in the service of the Temple of God as concerning law or commandments, he performed while seeking God with all his heart, and he prospered.

Sennacherib's invasion

32 After these loyal acts of service came the invasion of Sennacherib king of Assyria. He invaded Judah, pitched camp before the fortified towns and gave orders for them to be taken by storm. •Realising that Sennacherib's advance was the preliminary to an attack on Jerusalem, Hezekiah and his officers and champions decided to cut off the water supply from the springs situated outside the city. His military staff supported this plan and numbers of people banded together to block all the springs and cut off the watercourse flowing through the fields. 'Why' they said 'should the kings of Assyria find plenty of water when they arrive?' •Hezekiah strengthened his defences: he had the broken parts of the wall repaired, built towers on it, constructed a second wall on the outer side, strengthened the Millo of the Citadel of David and made quantities of missiles and shields. •He then appointed generals to command the people, summoned them to him in the square by the city gate and spoke as follows to encourage them, •'Be strong and stand firm; be fearless, be undaunted when you face the king of Assyria and the whole horde he brings with him, since he that is with us is stronger than he that is with him. •He has only an arm of flesh, but we have Yahweh our God to help us and fight our battles.' The people took heart at the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

The blasphemies of Sennacherib

Next, Sennacherib king of Assyria, who was then outside Lachish with all his forces, sent his servants to Jerusalem, to Hezekiah king of Judah, and to all the Judaeans who were in Jerusalem. They said, •'Hear the message from Sennacherib king of Assyria, "What gives you the confidence to stay in Jerusalem under siege? •Is not Hezekiah deluding you? Is he not condemning you to die of hunger and thirst when he says: Yahweh our God will save us from the king of Assyria? •Is not Hezekiah the very man who has suppressed his high places and his altars, and given the order to Judah and to Jerusalem: Before one altar only are you to worship, and on that alone offer incense? Do you not know what I have done, I and my ancestors, to all the peoples of other countries? Have the gods of any single nation in those countries ever

14 been able to save them from me? •Of all the gods of those nations devoted 15 to the ban by my father, name a single one who has been able to save his people 16 from me! So how could your god save you? •Do not let Hezekiah deceive you. Do not let him delude you like this. Do not believe him, for no god of any 17 nation or kingdom has been able to save his people from me or from my 18 ancestors. No more will your god be able to save you from me.'` `The envoys 19 were still maligning Yahweh God, and his servant Hezekiah, •when Sennacherib wrote a letter insulting Yahweh the God of Israel. This is what he said about him, 'Just as the gods of the nations in other countries have failed to save their 20 peoples from me, so will the god of Hezekiah fail to save his people'. •They shouted this out in the language of Judah, to the people of Jerusalem on the ramparts, to confuse and frighten them, and so that they might capture the city; 21 they spoke of the God of Jerusalem as of one of the gods of the peoples of the world, the work of men's hands.

The prayer of Hezekiah is heard

22 Faced with this situation, King Hezekiah and the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz 23 prayed and cried out to heaven. •Yahweh sent an angel who massacred all the mighty warriors, commanders and officers in the camp of the king of Assyria.
 Covered with disgrace he retired to his own country. He went into the temple of his god, and there some of his own children struck him down with the sword.
 24 So Yahweh saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the power of Sennacherib king of Assyria and of everyone else, and he gave them peace 25 on every side. •Many people brought oblations to Yahweh in Jerusalem and gifts for Hezekiah king of Judah; after what had happened, he stood high in the esteem of all the nations.

26 In those days, Hezekiah fell ill and was at the point of death. He prayed to 27 Yahweh, who heard him and granted him a sign. •But Hezekiah made no return for the benefit he received; his heart grew proud and the wrath came 28 on him and on Judah and Jerusalem. •Hezekiah did however humble the pride of his heart, and so did the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem; hence the wrath 29 of Yahweh did not come on them in the lifetime of Hezekiah. •Hezekiah enjoyed immense riches and honour. He built himself treasuries for gold, silver, precious 30 stones, spices, gems and every sort of valuable. •He had storehouses for his returns of corn, wine and oil, buildings for his different sorts of cattle, and 31 sheep-runs for his sheep, •and, further, acquired donkeys and enormous herds and flocks. God had indeed given him immense possessions.

Summary of the reign; its end

32 It was Hezekiah who stopped the upper outlet of the waters of Gihon and directed them down to the west side of the Citadel of David. Hezekiah succeeded 33 in all he undertook. •Even in the affair of the messengers from the authorities in Babylon, sent to him to inquire about the extraordinary thing that had taken place in the country, God only deserted him to test him, and to discover the secrets of his heart.

34 The rest of the history of Hezekiah, and his deeds of piety, are recorded in the Vision of the prophet Isaiah son of Amoz, in the Book of the Kings of Judah 35 and Israel. •Then Hezekiah slept with his ancestors, and they buried him on the slope going up to the tombs of the sons of David. At his death, all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did him honour. His son Manasseh succeeded him.

THE SINS OF MANASSEH AND OF AMON

Manasseh undoes the work of Hezekiah

1 33 Manasseh was twelve years old when he came to the throne and he reigned
 2 for fifty-five years in Jerusalem. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh, copying the shameful practices of the nations whom Yahweh had dispossessed for the sons of Israel. •He rebuilt the high places that his father Hezekiah had demolished, he set up altars to the Baals and made sacred poles, he worshipped the whole array of heaven and served it. •He built altars in the Temple of Yahweh, the Temple of which Yahweh had said, 'In Jerusalem my name shall be for ever'.

He built altars to the whole array of heaven in the two courts of the Temple of Yahweh. •He caused his sons to pass through the fire in the Valley of Ben-hinnom. He practised soothsaying, magic and witchcraft, and introduced necromancers and wizards. He did very many more things displeasing to Yahweh, thus provoking his anger. •He placed the image of the idol he had made in the Temple of which God had said to David and to his son Solomon, 'In this Temple and in Jerusalem, the city I chose out of all the tribes of Israel, I will give my name a home for ever. •I will no longer turn Israel's footsteps away from the land I assigned to their fathers, provided they observe all I have ordered them in accordance with the whole Law, the statutes and the ordinances, given through Moses.' •Manasseh led Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem astray, so that they did more evil than those nations Yahweh had destroyed before the sons of Israel. •Yahweh spoke to Manasseh and his people, but they paid no attention.

The conversion of Manasseh<sup>a</sup>

Then Yahweh sent the generals of the king of Assyria against them, who captured Manasseh with hooks, put him in chains and led him away to Babylon.<sup>b</sup> In his distress he sought to appease Yahweh his God, humbling himself deeply before the God of his ancestors; •he prayed to him, and God relented at his prayer, hearing his plea and bringing him back to Jerusalem and his kingdom. Manasseh realised then that Yahweh is God. •After this he rebuilt the outer wall of the Citadel of David, west of Gihon in the wadi, as far as the Fish Gate; it encircled the Ophel, and he increased its height very considerably. He stationed military governors in all the fortified towns of Judah.

Next he removed the alien gods and the idol from the Temple of Yahweh, and all the altars he had built on the mountain of the Temple of Yahweh and in Jerusalem, and threw them out of the city. •He rebuilt the altar of Yahweh and offered sacrifices of communion and of praise on it, and ordered Judah to offer worship to Yahweh the God of Israel; •however, the people continued to sacrifice on the high places, although only to Yahweh their God.

The rest of the history of Manasseh, his prayer to his God,<sup>c</sup> and the words of the seers who spoke to him in the name of Yahweh the God of Israel, can be found in the Annals of the Kings of Israel. •His prayer and how God relented at his prayer, all his sins, his unfaithfulness, the sites where he built high places and set up sacred poles and idols before he humbled himself, are recorded in the Annals of Hozai. •Then Manasseh slept with his ancestors, and they buried him in his palace. His son Amon succeeded him.

The obduracy of Amon

Amon was twenty-two years old when he came to the throne and he reigned for two years in Jerusalem. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh, as Manasseh his father had done. Amon offered sacrifice and worship to all the idols Manasseh his father had made. •He did not humble himself before Yahweh like Manasseh his father; it was this very Amon who made the guilt of Judah so grave. •His officers plotted against him and killed him in his palace. •But the country people struck down all those who had plotted against King Amon and proclaimed his son Josiah as his successor.

REFORM UNDER JOSIAH

Summary of the reign

1 34 Josiah was eight years old when he came to the throne and he reigned for 2 thirty-one years in Jerusalem. •He did what is pleasing to Yahweh, and followed the example of his ancestor David, not deviating from it to right or left.

The first reforms

3 In the eighth year of his reign, when he was still a youth, he began to seek the God of his ancestor David. In the twelfth year he began to purge Judah and 4 Jerusalem of high places, sacred poles and carved or cast idols. •He looked on as the altars of the Baals were demolished; he tore down the altars of incense standing on them, he smashed the sacred poles and the carved and cast idols;
 he reduced them to dust, scattering it over the graves of those who had offered 5 them sacrifices. •He burned the bones of their priests on their altars, and so
 6 purified Judah and Jerusalem; •he did the same in the towns of Manasseh, Ephraim, Simeon, and even Naphtali, and in the ravaged districts round them.
 7 He demolished the altars and sacred poles, smashed the idols and ground them to powder, and tore down all the altars of incense throughout the land of Israel.
 Then he returned to Jerusalem.

Work on the Temple

8 In the eighteenth year of his reign, with the object of purifying land and Temple, he sent Shaphan son of Azaliah, Maaseiah governor of the city and 9 the herald Joah son of Joahaz, to repair the Temple of Yahweh his God. •These went to the high priest Hilkiah and handed over the money that had been brought to the Temple of God and that the Levites, the guardians of the threshold, had collected; the money had come from Manasseh, Ephraim and all the rest of 10 Israel, and from all the Judaeans and Benjaminites who lived in Jerusalem. •They handed it over to the masters of works attached to the Temple of Yahweh, and 11 these used it for the repair and restoration of the Temple. •They gave it to the carpenters and builders for buying dressed stone, and wood for the coupling and the rafters of the buildings which the kings of Judah had allowed to fall into ruin.
 12 The men were conscientious in doing their work; to supervise them they had Jahath and Obadiah, Levites of the sons of Merari; Zechariah and Meshullam of the sons of Kohath, who were masters of works; Levites who were all skilled 13 liturgical musicians; •others who were in charge of the carriers; others who gave instructions to the masters of works of the various undertakings; and lastly a number of Levites who were scribes, clerks and gatekeepers.

The Book of the Law discovered

14 When they took out the money that had been brought to the Temple of Yahweh, Hilkiah the high priest found the book of the Law given through 15 Moses. •At once Hilkiah told Shaphan the secretary, 'I have found the Book of the Law in the Temple of Yahweh'. And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan.
 16 Shaphan took the book to the king, and reported to him: 'Your servants' he 17 said 'are carrying out the commissions you gave them: •they have melted down the silver which was in the Temple of Yahweh and have handed it over to the 18 overseers and masters of works,' •after which Shaphan the secretary informed

33 a. This narrative is peculiar to Ch; 2 K 21 condemns the reign of Manasseh in the words used here of Amon in vv.21-23. b. Manasseh of Judah was a vassal of Esarhaddon (680-669) and of Assurbanipal (668-633). c. 'The Prayer of Manasseh' is found in some editions of the Apocrypha.

the king, 'Hilkiah the priest has given me a book'; and Shaphan read from it in the king's presence.

On hearing the contents of the Law, the king tore his garments, and gave the following order to Hilkiah, Ahikam son of Shaphan, Abdon son of Micah, Shaphan the secretary and Asaiah the king's minister, 'Go and consult Yahweh, on behalf of me and those left in Israel and Judah, about the contents of the book that has been found. Great indeed must be the anger of Yahweh pouring down on us because our ancestors did not observe the word of Yahweh by practising everything written in this book.'

Huldah the prophetess is consulted

Hilkiah and the king's men went to Huldah the prophetess, wife of Shallum son of Tokhath, son of Hasrah, the keeper of the wardrobe; she lived in Jerusalem in the new town. They spoke to her about this, and she replied, 'Yahweh, the God of Israel says this, "To the man who sent you to me say this: Yahweh says this: I am bringing disaster on this place and those who live in it, carrying out all the curses written in the book that has been read in the presence of the king of Judah, because they have deserted me and sacrificed to other gods, to provoke my anger by everything they did. My anger blazes out against this place; it will not be extinguished. And you will say to the king of Judah who sent you to consult Yahweh, Yahweh, the God of Israel says this: The words you have heard. . . But since your heart has been touched and you have humbled yourself before God on hearing what he has threatened against this place and those who live in it, since you have humbled yourself before me and torn your garments and wept before me, I for my part have heard—it is Yahweh who speaks. I will gather you to your ancestors, you shall be gathered into your grave in peace; your eyes will not see all the disasters that I mean to bring on this place and on those who live in it." ' They took this answer to the king.

The covenant renewed

The king then had all the elders of Judah and of Jerusalem summoned, and the king went up to the Temple of Yahweh, with all the men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, priests, Levites and all the people, of high or low degree. In their hearing he read out everything that was said in the book of the covenant found in the Temple of Yahweh. The king stood beside the pillar, and in the presence of Yahweh he made a covenant to follow Yahweh and to enforce the terms of the covenant as written in that book with all his heart and soul. He allotted a station to everyone there in Jerusalem or in Benjamin; and the inhabitants of Jerusalem complied with the covenant of God, the God of their ancestors. Josiah removed all the abominations throughout the territories belonging to the sons of Israel. His whole life long he made sure that every member of Israel served their God. They did not fail to follow Yahweh, the God of their ancestors.

The preparation for the Passover

35 Josiah then celebrated a Passover in honour of Yahweh in Jerusalem and they slaughtered the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month.

He re-established the priests in their functions and made it possible for them to discharge the duties of the Temple of Yahweh. Then he said to the Levites, whose understanding was at the disposal of all Israel and who were consecrated to Yahweh, 'Place the holy ark in the Temple built by Solomon son of David, king of Israel. It is no longer a burden for your shoulders. Now serve Yahweh your God and Israel his people. Take your places by families according to your orders, in compliance with the written decree of David king of Israel and his son Solomon. Stand in the sanctuary at the disposal of the family groupings, at the disposal of your brothers the laity; the Levites are to have a portion in

- 6 the family. •Slaughter the passover, sanctify yourselves, and be at the disposal of your brothers in acting in accordance with the word of Yahweh which was spoken through Moses.’

The celebration of the Passover

- 7 Josiah then provided for the laity lambs and kids from the flocks to the number of thirty thousand, all as Passover victims for all who were present, and three thousand bulls as well; all these animals came from the king’s possessions.
- 8 His officials, for their part, made provision for the voluntary offerings on behalf of the people, the priests and the Levites. The senior officials gave the priests of the Temple of God, Hilkiah, Zechariah and Jehiel, two thousand six hundred
- 9 lambs and kids and three hundred bulls as Passover victims. •The heads of the Levites, Conaniah, Shemaiah and his brother Nathanel, Hashabiah, Jeiel and Jozabad, provided five thousand lambs and kids and five hundred bulls as
- 10 Passover victims for the Levites. •The order of the service was arranged, the priests at their places and the Levites in their orders, in compliance with the
- 11 king’s order. •They slaughtered the passover, and the priests sprinkled the blood as they received it from the Levites, and the Levites dismembered the
- 12 victims. •They put the holocaust on one side to give it to the family groupings among the laity as each made its offering to Yahweh, as is written in the Book
- 13 of Moses; they did the same with the bulls. •They roasted the passover, as ordained, and the sacred foods in pots, dishes, pans, carrying them speedily
- 14 to the laity. •Afterwards they prepared the passover for themselves and for the priests—the priests, the sons of Aaron, having been busy till nightfall offering the holocaust and the fatty parts; that was why the Levites prepared the passover
- 15 for themselves and for the priests, the sons of Aaron. •The cantors, the sons of Asaph, were at their places, in accordance with the ordinances of David; neither Asaph, Heman, Jeduthun the king’s seer, nor the keepers of each gate, had to leave their duties, since their brothers the Levites made all the preparations for them.

- 16 So the whole liturgical service of Yahweh was arranged that day to celebrate the Passover and to offer holocausts on the altar of Yahweh, in accordance with
- 17 the ordinances of King Josiah. •And so it was that the Israelites who were present celebrated the Passover and, for seven days, the feast of Unleavened Bread.
- 18 No Passover like this one had ever been celebrated in Israel since the days of the prophet Samuel; no king of Israel had ever celebrated a Passover like the one celebrated by Josiah with the priests, the Levites, all of Judah and of Israel who were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

The tragic end of the reign

- 19 This Passover was celebrated in the eighteenth year of the reign of Josiah.
- 20 After everything had been done by Josiah to set the Temple in order, Neco king of Egypt came up to fight at Carchemish on the Euphrates. When Josiah marched out to intercept him, •Neco sent him messengers to say, ‘What quarrel is there between me and you, king of Judah? I have not come today to attack you; my quarrel is with another dynasty, and God has told me to hurry. Do not oppose the God
- 22 who is with me any more, or else he may destroy you.’ •But Josiah continued to challenge him; he was in fact determined to fight him, and would not listen to the words of Neco from God’s own mouth. He gave battle in the plain of
- 23 Megiddo; •the bowmen fired on King Josiah, and the king said to his followers,
- 24 ‘Take me away; I am badly wounded’. •His servants lifted him out of his own chariot, transferred him to another one and took him back to Jerusalem, where he died. He was buried in the tombs of his ancestors. All Judah and Jerusalem
- 25 mourned for Josiah. •Jeremiah composed a lament for Josiah which all the singing men and singing women still recite today when they lament for Josiah; this has become a custom in Israel; the dirges are recorded in the Lamentations. “

The rest of the history of Josiah, his deeds of piety conforming to everything 26 written in the Law of Yahweh, •his history from first to last, are recorded in the 27 Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

ISRAEL IN THE CLOSING YEARS OF THE MONARCHY

Jehoahaz

36 The country people took Jehoahaz son of Josiah and made him king in 1 Jerusalem in succession to his father. •Jehoahaz was twenty-three years 2 old when he came to the throne and he reigned for three months in Jerusalem. The king of Egypt carried him off from Jerusalem and imposed a levy of a hundred 3 talents of silver and one talent of gold on the country. •The king of Egypt then 4 made Eliakim, brother of Jehoahaz, king of Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoiakim. Neco took his brother Jehoahaz and carried him off to Egypt.

Jehoiakim

Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he came to the throne and he reigned 5 for eleven years in Jerusalem. He did what is displeasing to Yahweh his God. Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon attacked him, loaded him with chains and 6 carried him off to Babylon. •To Babylon Nebuchadnezzar also carried off part 7 of the furnishings of the Temple of Yahweh and put them in his palace at Babylon. •The rest of the history of Jehoiakim, the shameful things he did and 8 those discovered to his discredit, these are recorded in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah. His son Jehoiachin succeeded him.

Jehoiachin

Jehoiachin was eight years old when he came to the throne and he reigned 9 three months and ten days in Jerusalem. He did what is displeasing to Yahweh. At the turn of the year, King Nebuchadnezzar sent for him and had him taken 10 to Babylon, with the precious furnishings of the Temple of Yahweh, and made Zedekiah his brother<sup>a</sup> king of Judah and Jerusalem in his place.

Zedekiah

Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he came to the throne and he reigned 11 for eleven years in Jerusalem. •He did what is displeasing to Yahweh his God. 12 He did not listen humbly to the prophet Jeremiah, accredited by Yahweh himself. He also rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar to whom he had sworn allegiance 13 by God. He became stubborn, and obstinately refused to return to Yahweh the God of Israel.

The nation as a whole

Furthermore, all the heads of the priesthood, and the people too, added 14 infidelity to infidelity, copying all the shameful practices of the nations and defiling the Temple that Yahweh had consecrated for himself in Jerusalem. Yahweh, the God of their ancestors, tirelessly sent them messenger after messenger, 15 since he wished to spare his people and his house. •But they ridiculed the messengers of God, they despised his words, they laughed at his prophets, until 16 at last the wrath of Yahweh rose so high against his people that there was no further remedy.

The end

He summoned against them the king of the Chaldeans who put their young 17 warriors to the sword within their sanctuary; he spared neither youth nor virgin, neither old man nor aged cripple; God handed them all over to him. •All 18

the furnishings of the Temple of God, large and small, the treasures of the Temple of Yahweh, the treasures of the king and his officials, he carried everything off to Babylon. •They burned down the Temple of God, demolished the walls of Jerusalem, set fire to all its palaces, and destroyed everything of value in it. 19 The survivors were deported by Nebuchadnezzar to Babylon; they were to 20 serve him and his sons until the kingdom of Persia came to power. •This is how the word of Yahweh was fulfilled that he spoke through Jeremiah, 'Until this land has enjoyed its sabbath rest, until seventy years have gone by, it will keep sabbath throughout the days of its desolation'.

Looking to the future

22 And in the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, to fulfil the word of Yahweh that was spoken through Jeremiah, Yahweh roused the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia to issue a proclamation and to have it publicly displayed throughout his kingdom: •'Thus speaks Cyrus king of Persia, "Yahweh, the God of heaven, 23 has given me all the kingdoms of the earth; he has ordered me to build him a Temple in Jerusalem, in Judah. Whoever there is among you of all his people, may his God be with him! Let him go up." '

THE HYMNS OF THE SECOND TEMPLE

Many parts of the Old Testament show signs of having originated within the context of public worship, or of having been shaped by such use. The Psalms are the clearest examples, and several Hebrew poems which are presented in the form of canticles. These are printed again, together with the Psalms, in the following section. It is not intended that this should imply that these are the only examples of liturgical poetry in the Old Testament; only that they are the most obvious ones.

The Psalms. Despite the titles and descriptions which are attached to many of the psalms it is impossible to say with any certainty where or when any particular psalm was first produced in the form in which we now have it. Some may go back to King David's time (c. 1010–970 B.C.) or before (see Section C), while others may be as late as the Maccabaeen revolt (167–150 B.C.). The titles, attributions of authorship, and directions for the use of particular psalms are late additions and cannot be accepted as indications of their origins, whether as expressions of individual piety, or for corporate use.

The Psalms which have survived are those that were found to be particularly appropriate for the liturgy of the Temple in Jerusalem, the services in the synagogues of the scattered Jewish communities which emerged during the period after the Exile in Babylon, and, indeed, for devotional use in the home. They are an important expression of the faith of the ordinary Hebrew people, for they have survived because they give expression to the people's feelings in their approach to God.

The Psalms have their roots in secular Hebrew poetry, as well as in the very old Hebrew sacrificial cult. This cult existed in some form at local sanctuaries, or in a central religious institution which served the federations of Hebrew tribes, long before the Temple in Jerusalem and even, possibly, before the Exodus from Egypt. The Hebrews were not the only people to use psalms. Similar religious poetry has been discovered in ancient Egypt,

Canaan and Mesopotamia, dating from periods throughout the time covered by the Old Testament, and it may be confidently accepted that there was mutual borrowing and influence.

The themes which occur in the Psalms touch the whole range of human experience and desires, as might be expected from religious poetry with such deep roots in folk tradition. Themes which are immediately noticeable are the creative activity of God and his mighty acts in history, particularly in the Exodus and Covenant, and the settlement of the Hebrew people in Palestine. God's sovereignty over all the nations of the world is asserted and the confidence that he will complete the exaltation of the Hebrew people which was begun at the Exodus from Egypt. Pleas for divine intervention in the affairs of the individual or of the nation are combined with penitential statements. The king's dependence on God has a prominent place, and praise of the law. The experiences of suffering, poverty, death, conquest and separation from Jerusalem are evident in many of the psalms, and show how close they are to the fundamental insecurity of life in the ancient Near East.

Exodus 15:1-18, I Samuel 2:1-10, Isaiah 38:9-20 and Habbakuk 3, are all religious poems which show signs of liturgical use. For this reason they have been included in this section as well as in the sections which contain the material with which they are usually associated.

THE PSALMS

PSALM 1

The two ways

Happy the man
who never follows the advice of the wicked, or loiters on the way that sinners take,
or sits about with scoffers,
but finds his pleasure in the Law of Yahweh,
and murmurs his law day and night.

He is like a tree that is planted
by water streams,
yielding its fruit in season,
its leaves never fading;
success attends all he does.
It is nothing like this with the wicked, nothing like this!

No, these are like chaff
blown away by the wind.
The wicked will not stand firm when Judgement comes,
nor sinners when the virtuous assemble.
For Yahweh takes care of the way the virtuous go,
but the way of the wicked is doomed.

PSALM 2

The king's enthronement

Why this uproar among the nations?
Why this impotent muttering of pagans—
kings on earth rising in revolt,
princes plotting against Yahweh and his Anointed,
'Now let us break their fetters!
Now let us throw off their yoke!'

The One whose throne is in heaven sits laughing,
Yahweh derides them.
Then angrily he addresses them,
in a rage he strikes them with panic,
'This is my king, installed by me
on Zion, my holy mountain'.

Let me proclaim Yahweh's decree;
he has told me, 'You are my son,

today I have become your father.
 Ask and I will give you the nations for your heritage,
 the ends of the earth for your domain.
 With iron sceptre you will break them,
 shatter them like potter's ware.' 8

So now, you kings, learn wisdom,
 earthly rulers, be warned:
 serve Yahweh, fear him,
 tremble and kiss his feet,
 or he will be angry and you will perish,
 for his anger is very quick to blaze. 10

Happy all who take shelter in him. 11 12

PSALM 3

Morning prayer of the virtuous man under persecution

Psalm Of David When he was escaping from his son Absalom

Yahweh, more and more are turning against me,
 more and more rebelling against me,
 more and more saying about me,
 'There is no help for him in his God'. 1
Pause 2

But, Yahweh, my encircling shield,
 my glory, you help me hold up my head.
 Loudly I cry to Yahweh,
 and he answers me from his holy mountain. 3
Pause 4

Now I can lie down and go to sleep and then awake, for Yahweh has hold of me:
 no fear now of those tens of thousands posted against me wherever I turn. 5 6

Rise, Yahweh!
 Save me, my God!
 You hack all my enemies to the cheekbone,
 you break the teeth of the wicked.
 From Yahweh, rescue.
 On your people, blessing! 7
Pause 8

PSALM 4

Evening prayer

For the choirmaster For strings Psalm Of David

God, guardian of my rights, you answer when I call,
 when I am in trouble, you come to my relief;
 now be good to me and hear my prayer. 1

You men, why shut your hearts so long, loving delusions, chasing after lies. 2
Pause

Know this, Yahweh works wonders for those he loves, Yahweh hears me when I call to him. 3

- 4 Tremble: give up sinning,
spend your night in quiet meditation. Pause
- 5 Offer sacrifice in a right spirit, and trust Yahweh.
- 6 'Who will give us sight of happiness?' many say.
Show us the light of your face, turned towards us!
- 7 Yahweh, •you have given more joy to my heart
than others ever knew, for all their corn and wine.
- 8 In peace I lie down, and fall asleep at once,
since you alone, Yahweh, make me rest secure.

PSALM 5

Morning Prayer

For the choirmaster For flutes Psalm Of David

- 1 Yahweh, let my words come to your ears,
spare a thought for my sighs.
- 2 Listen to my cry for help,
my King and my God!
- 3 I say this prayer to you, •Yahweh,
for at daybreak you listen for my voice;
and at dawn I hold myself in readiness for you,
I watch for you.
- 4 You are not a God who is pleased with wickedness,
you have no room for the wicked;
5 boasters collapse
under your scrutiny.
- 6 You hate all evil men,
liars you destroy;
murderers and frauds
Yahweh detests.
- 7 But I, so great is your love,
may come to your house,
and before your holy Temple bow down
in reverence to you.
- 8 Yahweh, lead me in the path of your righteousness,
for there are men lying in wait for me;
make your way plain before me.
- 9 Not a word from their lips can be trusted,
deep within them lies ruin,
their throats are yawning graves;
they make their tongues so smooth!
- 10 Pronounce them guilty, God,
make their intrigues their own downfall!
Hound them for their countless crimes,
since they have rebelled against you.
- 11 But joy for all who take shelter in you,
endless shouts of joy!
Since you protect them, they exult in you,
those who love your name.

It is you who bless the virtuous man, Yahweh;
your favour is like a shield covering him.

PSALM 6

Prayer in ordeal

For the choirmaster For strings, for the octachord Psalm Of David

Yahweh, do not punish me in your rage, or reprove me in the heat of anger.	1
Pity me, Yahweh, I have no strength left, heal me, my bones are in torment, my soul is in utter torment.	2 3
Yahweh, how long will you be?
Come back, Yahweh, rescue my soul, save me, if you love me; for in death there is no remembrance of you: who can sing your praises in Sheol?	4 5
I am worn out with groaning, every night I drench my pillow and soak my bed with tears; my eye is wasted with grief, I have grown old with enemies all round me.	6 7
Away from me, all you evil men! For Yahweh has heard the sound of my weeping; Yahweh has heard my petition, Yahweh will accept my prayer. Let all my enemies, discredited, in utter torment, fall back in sudden confusion.	8 9 10

Prayer of the virtuous under persecution

Lamentation Of David, who sang it to Yahweh about Cush the Benjaminite

Yahweh my God, I take shelter in you; from all who hound me, save me, rescue me, or, like a lion, he will carry me off and tear me to pieces where no one can save me.	1 2
Yahweh my God, if I ever soiled my hands with fraud, repaid a friend evil for good, spared a man who wronged me, then let the enemy hound me down and catch me, let him stamp my life into the ground, and leave my entrails lying in the dust!	3 4 5
	Pause
Rise, Yahweh, in anger, awake, my God! Confront the raging of my enemies, you who demand that justice shall be done.	6

- 7 Let the nations muster round you in a body,
and then return, high over them.
8 (Yahweh is arbiter of nations.)<sup>b</sup>
- Give judgement for me, Yahweh: as my virtue and my integrity deserve.
- 9 Bring the maliciousness of evil men to an end,
set the virtuous on his feet,
you righteous God,
assessor of mind and heart.
- 10 God is the shield that protects me,
he preserves upright hearts, 11 God the righteous judge
is slow to show his anger,
but he is a God who is always enraged 12 by those who refuse to repent.
- The enemy may sharpen his sword,
he may bend his bow and take aim,
13 but the weapons he prepares will kill himself and his arrows turn into firebrands.
14 Look at him, pregnant with wickedness,
conceiving Spite, he gives birth to Mishap.
15 He dug a pit, hollowed it out,
only to fall into his own trap!
16 His spite recoils on his own head,
his brutality falls back on his own skull.
- 17 I give thanks to Yahweh for his righteousness,
I sing praise to the name of the Most High.

PSALM 8

The munificence of the creator

For the choirmaster On the . . . of Gath<sup>a</sup> Psalm Of David

- 1 Yahweh, our Lord,
how great your name throughout the earth!
- Above the heavens is your majesty chanted 2 by the mouths of children, babes in arms.
You set your stronghold firm against your foes

at the moon and stars you set in place—

you have crowned him with glory and splendour,

God crushes the wicked and saves the humble<sup>a</sup>

For the choirmaster For oboe and harp Psalm Of David

Aleph	I thank you, Yahweh, with all my heart; I recite your marvels one by one, I rejoice and exult in you, I sing praise to your name, Most High.	1 2
Beth	My enemies are in retreat, stumbling, perishing as you confront them: you have upheld the justice of my cause from the throne where you sit as righteous judge.	3 4
Ghimel	You have checked the nations, you have crushed the wicked, blotted out their name for ever and ever; the enemy is finished, in everlasting ruin, you have overthrown cities, their memory has perished.	5 6
He	See, •Yahweh is enthroned for ever, he sets up his throne for judgement; he is going to judge the world with justice, and pronounce a true verdict on the nations.	7 8
Waw	May Yahweh be a stronghold for the oppressed, a stronghold when times are hard. Those who acknowledge your name can rely on you, you never desert those who seek you, Yahweh.	9 10
Zain	To Yahweh with his home in Zion, sing praise, tell the nations of his mighty actions; he, the avenger of blood, remembers them, he does not ignore the cry of the wretched.	11 12
Heth	Take pity on me, Yahweh, look on my suffering, you who lift me back from the gates of death, that in the gates of the daughter of Zion I may recite your praises one by one, rejoicing that you have saved me.	13 14
Teth	The nations have sunk into a pit of their own making, they are caught by the feet in the snare they set themselves. Yahweh has made himself known, has given judgement, he has trapped the wicked in the work of their own hands.	15 16

Muted music

- 17 May the wicked return to Sheol,
all the nations forgetful of God. Pause
- 18 Kaph For the needy is not always forgotten,
the hope of the poor is never brought to nothing.
- 19 Rise, Yahweh, let not man have the upper hand,
let the nations stand trial before you!
- 20 Strike terror into them, Yahweh,
let the nations know they are only men! Pause
- 1 Lamed Yahweh, why do you stand aside,
why hide from us now the times are hard?
- 2 The poor man is devoured by the pride of the wicked,
he is caught in the wiles that the other has devised.
- 3 (Mem) The evil man boasts of his soul's desires,
the grasping man blasphemes,<sup>a</sup> the wicked spurns Yahweh.
- 4 (Nun) 'His anger is up there, he will not make me pay!
There is no God!' This is the way his mind works.
- 5 At every moment his course is assured,
your rulings are too lofty for his notice;
his rivals? He sneers at them all.
- 6 'Nothing can shake me' he assures himself.
- 7 Himself untouched by disaster, •he curses others.
- (Samek)
Pe Fraud and oppression fill his mouth,
spite and iniquity are under his tongue;
8 there in the reeds he lies in ambush
to kill the innocent where no one can see.
- Ain*
9 Peering and prying for the out-of-luck, lurking unseen like a lion in his hide,
lurking to capture the poor man,
the poor man seized, he drags him away in his net.
- 10 (Sade) Questing of eye, he stoops, he crouches,
and the luckless wretch falls into his power
as he thinks to himself, 'God forgets,
he hides his face, he does not see at all'.
- 12 Qoph Rise, Yahweh, God raise your hand,
do not forget the poor!
- 13 Why does the wicked man spurn God,
assuring himself, 'He will not make me pay'?
- 14 Resh You yourself have seen the distress and the grief,
you watch and then take them into your hands;
the luckless man commits himself to you,
you, the orphan's certain help.
- 15 Shin Break the power of the wicked, of the evil man, seek out his wickedness till there is none to be found!
- 16 Yahweh is king for ever and ever,
the pagans are doomed to vanish from his country.

9 a. Ps 9 and 10 were originally one poem; it is 'alphabetical' (i.e., an acrostic), but in the present text there are several letters without their strophes.

10 a. Lit. 'blesses', the customary euphemism.

Tau

Yahweh, you listen to the wants of the humble, 17
 you bring strength to their hearts, you grant them a hearing, judging in favour of the orphaned and exploited, 18
 so that earthborn man may strike fear no longer.

The confidence of the virtuousFor the choirmaster Of David*

In Yahweh I take shelter. 1
 How can you say to me,
 'Bird, fly back to your mountain:
 'see how the wicked are bending their bows 2
 and fitting their arrows to the string,
 ready to shoot the upright from the shadows.
 When foundations fall to ruin, what can the virtuous do?' 3
 Yahweh is in his holy Temple, 4
 Yahweh whose throne is in heaven;
 his eyes look down at the world,
 his searching gaze scans all mankind.
 The virtuous and the wicked are under Yahweh's scrutiny, 5
 and his soul hates anyone who loves brutality.
 He rains coals of fire and brimstone on the wicked, 6
 he serves them a scorching wind to swallow down.
 Yahweh is righteous, he loves virtue, 7
 upright men will contemplate his face.

Against a deceitful worldFor the choirmaster For the octachord Psalm Of David*

Save us, Yahweh! There are no devout men left, 1 fidelity has vanished from mankind.
 All they do is lie to one another, 2 flattering lips, talk from a double heart.
 May Yahweh slice off every flattering lip, 3
 each tongue so glib with boasts,
 those who say, 'In our tongue lies our strength, 4
 our lips have the advantage; who can master us?'
 'For the plundered poor, for the needy who groan, 5
 now will I act' says Yahweh.
 'I will grant them the safety they sigh for.'
 The words of Yahweh are without alloy, 6 nature's silver coming from the earth seven times refined.
 And you, Yahweh, hold us in your keeping, 7 against that breed protect us always.
 The wicked prowl on every side, 8
 baseness stands high among the sons of men.

A confident appeal

For the choirmaster Psalm Of David

- 1 How much longer will you forget me, Yahweh? For ever?
How much longer will you hide your face from me?
- 2 How much longer must I endure grief in my soul,
and sorrow in my heart by day and by night?
How much longer must my enemy have the upper hand of me?
- 3 Look and answer me, Yahweh my God!
Give my eyes light, or I shall sleep in death,
and my enemy will say, 'I have beaten him',
and my oppressors have the joy of seeing me stumble.
- 4 But I for my part rely on your love, Yahweh;
let my heart rejoice in your saving help.
- 5 Let me sing to Yahweh for the goodness he has shown me.

The godless men

For the choirmaster Of David

- 1 The fool says in his heart,
'There is no God!'
Their deeds are corrupt and vile,
there is not one good man left.
- 2 Yahweh is looking down from heaven
at the sons of men,
to see if a single one is wise,
if a single one is seeking God.
- 3 All have turned aside,
all alike are tainted;
there is not one good man left,
not a single one.
- 4 Are they so ignorant, all these evil men
who swallow my people
as though they were eating bread,
and never invoke Yahweh?
- 5 They will be struck with fear,
fear without reason,
since God takes the side of the virtuous:
deride as you may the poor man's hopes,
Yahweh is his shelter.
- 6 Who will bring Israel salvation from Zion?
When Yahweh brings his people home,
what joy for Jacob, what happiness for Israel!

The guest of Yahweh

Psalm Of David

Yahweh, who has the right to enter your tent,
or to live on your holy mountain? 1

The man whose way of life is blameless,
who always does what is right,
who speaks the truth from his heart,
whose tongue is not used for slander, 2

who does no wrong to his fellow,
casts no discredit on his neighbour,
looks with contempt on the reprobate,
but honours those who fear Yahweh; 3

who stands by his pledge at any cost,
does not ask interest on loans,
and cannot be bribed to victimise the innocent. 4

—If a man does all this, nothing can ever shake him. 5

Yahweh, my heritage

Miktam Of David

Look after me, God, I take shelter in you. 1

To Yahweh you say, 'My Lord,
you are my fortune, nothing else but you',
yet to those pagan deities in the land,
'My princes, all my pleasure is in you'. 2

Their idols teem, after these they run:
shall I pour their blood-libations?—not I!
Take their names on my lips?—never! 3

Yahweh, my heritage, my cup, 4

you, and you only, hold my lot secure;
the measuring line marks out delightful places for me,
for me the heritage is superb indeed. 5

I bless Yahweh, who is my counsellor, and in the night my inmost self instructs me; 6

I keep Yahweh before me always,
for with him at my right hand nothing can shake me. 7

So my heart exults, my very soul rejoices,
my body, too, will rest securely,
for you will not abandon my soul to Sheol, nor allow the one you love to see the Pit; 8

you will reveal the path of life to me,
give me unbounded joy in your presence,
and at your right hand everlasting pleasures. 9

The innocent man pleads his causePrayer Of David*

- 1                   Yahweh, hear the plea of virtue,
                      listen to my appeal,
                      lend an ear to my prayer,
                      my lips free from dishonesty.
- 2                   From your presence will my sentence come,
                      your eyes are fixed on what is right.
- 3                   You probe my heart, examine me at night,
                      you test me yet find nothing, no murmuring from me:
4                   my mouth has never sinned •as most men's do.
- 5                   No, I have treasured the words from your lips;
                      in the path prescribed •walking deliberately
                      in your footsteps, so that my feet do not slip.
- 6                   I invoke you, God, and you answer me;
                      turn your ear to me, hear what I say,
7                   display your marvellous kindness, saviour of fugitives!
- 8                   From those who revolt against you guard me like the pupil of your eye;
                      hide me in the shadow of your wings
9                   from the onslaughts of the wicked.
- 10                  My enemies cluster round me, breathing hostility; 11                  entrenched in their fat, their mouths utter arrogant claims; •now they are closing in,
                      they have eyes for nothing but to see me overthrown.
12                  They look like a lion eager to tear to pieces, like a young lion crouching in its hide.
- 13                  Rise, Yahweh, subdue him face to face, rescue my soul from the wicked with your sword, 14                  with your hand, Yahweh, rescue me from men, from the sort of men whose lot is here and now.
- Cram their bellies from your stores,
                      give them all the sons that they could wish for,
                      let them have a surplus to leave their children!
15                  For me the reward of virtue is to see your face,
                      and, on waking, to gaze my fill on your likeness.

Song of triumph for the king

For the choirmaster. Of David, the servant of Yahweh, who addressed the words of this song to Yahweh at the time when Yahweh delivered him from the power of his enemies and of Saul. He said:

- 1                   I love you, Yahweh, my strength (my saviour, you rescue me from violence.)
- 2                   Yahweh is my rock and my bastion,
                      my deliverer is my God.

I take shelter in him, my rock, my shield, my horn of salvation, my stronghold and my refuge. From violence you rescue me. He is to be praised; on Yahweh I call and am saved from my enemies.	3
The waves of death encircled me, the torrents of Belial burst on me; the cords of Sheol girdled me, the snares of death were before me.	4 5
In my distress I called to Yahweh and to my God I cried; from his Temple he heard my voice, my cry came to his ears.	6
Then the earth quivered and quaked, the foundations of the mountains trembled (they quivered because he was angry); from his nostrils a smoke ascended, and from his mouth a fire that consumed (live embers were kindled at it).	7 8
He bent the heavens and came down, a dark cloud under his feet; he mounted a cherub and flew, and soared on the wings of the wind.	9 10
Darkness he made a veil to surround him, his tent a watery darkness, dense cloud; before him a flash enkindled hail and fiery embers.	11 12
Yahweh thundered from heaven, the Most High made his voice heard; he let his arrows fly and scattered them, launched the lightnings and routed them.	13 14
The bed of the seas was revealed, the foundations of the world were laid bare, at your muttered threat, Yahweh, at the blast of your nostrils' breath.	15
He sends from on high and takes me, he draws me from deep waters, he delivers me from my powerful enemy, from a foe too strong for me.	16 17
They assailed me on my day of disaster, but Yahweh was my support; he freed me, set me at large, he rescued me, since he loves me.	18 19
Yahweh requites me as I act justly, as my hands are pure so he repays me, since I have kept the ways of Yahweh, nor fallen away from my God.	20 21
His judgements are all before me, his statutes I have not put from me;	22

- 23 I am blameless in his presence,
I keep sin at arm's length.
- 24 And Yahweh repays me as I act justly,
as my purity is in his sight.
- 25 Faithful you are with the faithful,
blameless with the blameless, 26 pure with the one who is pure,
but crafty with the devious, 27 you save a people that is humble and humiliate eyes that are haughty.
- 28 Yahweh, you yourself are my lamp,
my God lights up my darkness;
29 with you I storm the barbican,
with my God I leap the rampart.
- 30 This God, his way is blameless;
the word of Yahweh is without dross.
He it is who is the shield
of all who take shelter in him.
- 31 Who else is God but Yahweh,
who else a rock save our God?
- 32 This God who girds me with strength and makes my way without blame, 33 who makes my feet like the hinds'
and holds me from falling on the heights, 34 who trains my hands for battle,
my arms to bend a bow of bronze.
- 35 You give me your saving shield
(your right hand upholds me), with care you train me, 36 wide room you make for my steps under me,
my feet have never faltered.
- 37 I pursue my enemies and overtake them,
nor turn back till an end is made of them;
38 I strike them down, and they cannot rise,
they fall, they are under my feet.
- 39 You have girt me with strength for the fight,
bent down my assailants beneath me, 40 made my enemies turn their backs to me;
and those who hate me I destroy.
- 41 They cry out, there is no one to save,
to Yahweh, but there is no reply;
42 I crush them fine as dust before the wind,
trample them like the mud of the streets.
- 43 You deliver me from a people in revolt,
you place me at the head of the nations,
a people I did not know are now my servants, 44 foreigners come wooing my favour,
no sooner do they hear than they obey me, 45 foreigners grow faint of heart,
they come trembling out of their fastnesses.

Life to Yahweh! Blessed be my rock! 46
 Exalted be the God of my salvation,
 the God who gives me vengeance 47
 and subjects the peoples to me,
 who rescues me from my raging enemies. 48
 You lift me high above those who attack me,
 you deliver me from the man of violence.
 For this I will praise you, Yahweh, among the heathen 49
 and sing praise to your name.
 His king he saves and saves again,
 displays his love for his anointed, 50
 for David and his heirs for ever.

Yahweh, the sun of righteousness

For the choirmaster Psalm Of David

The heavens declare the glory of God, 1
 the vault of heaven proclaims his handiwork;
 day discourses of it to day, 2
 night to night hands on the knowledge.
 No utterance at all, no speech, 3
 no sound that anyone can hear;
 yet their voice goes out through all the earth, 4
 and their message to the ends of the world.
 High above, he pitched a tent for the sun,
 who comes out of his pavilion like a bridegroom, 5
 exulting like a hero to run his race.
 He has his rising on the edge of heaven, 6
 the end of his course is its furthest edge,
 and nothing can escape his heat.
 The Law of Yahweh is perfect, 7
 new life for the soul;
 the decree of Yahweh is trustworthy,
 wisdom for the simple.
 The precepts of Yahweh are upright, 8
 joy for the heart;
 the commandment of Yahweh is clear,
 light for the eyes.
 The fear of Yahweh is pure, 9
 lasting for ever;
 the judgements of Yahweh are true,
 righteous, every one,
 more desirable than gold, 10
 even than the finest gold;
 his words are sweeter than honey,
 even than honey that drips from the comb.

- 11 Thus your servant is formed by them,
observance brings great reward.
- 12 But who can detect his own failings?
Wash out my hidden faults.
- 13 And from pride preserve your servant,
never let it dominate me.
So shall I be above reproach,
free from grave sin.
- 14 May the words of my mouth always find favour,
and the whispering of my heart,
in your presence, Yahweh,
my Rock, my Redeemer!

Prayer for the king

For the choirmaster Psalm Of David

- 1 May Yahweh answer you in time of trouble,
may the name of the God of Jacob protect you!
- 2 May he send you help from the sanctuary,
give you support from Zion,
3 remember all your oblations
and find your holocaust acceptable;
- 4 may he grant you your heart's desire,
and crown all your plans with success;
5 may we shout with joy for your victory,
and plant our banners in the name of our God!
- May Yahweh grant all your petitions!
- 6 Now I know that Yahweh
saves his anointed,
and answers him from his holy heaven
with mighty victories from his own right hand.
- 7 Some boast of chariots, some of horses,
but we boast about the name of Yahweh our God;

but we shall stand, and stand firm!

For the choirmaster Psalm Of David

- 1 Yahweh, the king rejoices in your power;
what great joy your saving help gives him!
- 2 You have granted him his heart's desire,
not denied him what his lips entreated.

Pause

For you have met him with choicest blessings, put a crown of pure gold on his head; he asked for life, and you gave it him, length of days for ever and ever.	3 4
Great his glory through your saving help, you have loaded him with splendour and majesty; yes, you confer on him everlasting blessings, you gladden him with the joy of your presence.	5 6
Yes, the king puts his trust in Yahweh, by grace of the Most High he reigns unshaken.	7
Your hand will unmask all your enemies, your right hand all who hate you; you will make them like a blazing furnace, the day that you appear,	8 9
Yahweh will engulf them in his anger, and fire will devour them; you will wipe their children from the earth, their descendants from among the sons of men.	10
Plot though they do to harm you and weave their plan as they may, they cannot win; since you will make them turn tail, by shooting your arrows in their faces.	11 12
Rise, Yahweh, in your power! We will sing and play in honour of your strength.	13

The sufferings and hope of the virtuous manFor the choirmaster To the 'Doe of the Dawn' Psalm Of David*

My God, my God, why have you deserted me? How far from saving me, the words I groan!	1
I call all day, my God, but you never answer, all night long I call and cannot rest.	2
Yet, Holy One, you who make your home in the praises of Israel, in you our fathers put their trust, they trusted and you rescued them;	3 4
they called to you for help and they were saved, they never trusted you in vain.	5
Yet here am I, now more worm than man, scorn of mankind, jest of the people, all who see me jeer at me, they toss their heads and sneer, 'He relied on Yahweh, let Yahweh save him! If Yahweh is his friend, let Him rescue him!'	6 7 8
Yet you drew me out of the womb, you entrusted me to my mother's breasts; placed on your lap from my birth, from my mother's womb you have been my God.	9 10

- 11 Do not stand aside: trouble is near,
I have no one to help me!
- 12 A herd of bulls surrounds me,
strong bulls of Bashan close in on me;
13 their jaws are agape for me,
like lions tearing and roaring.
- 14 I am like water draining away,
my bones are all disjointed,
my heart is like wax,
melting inside me;
15a my palate is drier than a potsherd
15b and my tongue is stuck to my jaw.
- 16 A pack of dogs surrounds me,
a gang of villains closes me in;
they tie me hand and foot 15c and leave me lying in the dust of death.
- 17 I can count every one of my bones,
and there they glare at me, gloating;
18 they divide my garments among them
and cast lots for my clothes.
- 19 Do not stand aside, Yahweh.
O my strength, come quickly to my help;
20 rescue my soul from the sword,
my dear life from the paw of the dog, 21 save me from the lion's mouth,
my poor soul from the wild bulls' horns!
- 22 Then I shall proclaim your name to my brothers,
praise you in full assembly:
23 you who fear Yahweh, praise him!
Entire race of Jacob, glorify him!
Entire race of Israel, revere him!
- 24 For he has not despised or disdained the poor man in his poverty,
has not hidden his face from him,
but has answered him when he called.
- 25 You are the theme of my praise in the Great Assembly,
I perform my vows in the presence of those who fear him.
26 The poor will receive as much as they want to eat.
Those who seek Yahweh will praise him.
Long life to their hearts!
- 27 The whole earth, from end to end, will remember and come back to Yahweh;
all the families of the nations will bow down before him.
28 For Yahweh reigns, the ruler of nations!
29 Before him all the prosperous of the earth will bow down, before him will bow all who go down to the dust.
30 And my soul will live for him, •my children will serve him;
31 men will proclaim the Lord to generations •still to come,
his righteousness to a people yet unborn. All this he has done.

Though I pass through a gloomy valley, I fear no harm; beside me your rod and your staff are there, to hearten me.	4

for you are the God who saves me.
- Waw* All day long I hope in you 7c because of your goodness, Yahweh.
- 6 Zain Remember your kindness, Yahweh,
your love, that you showed long ago.
- 7a Heth Do not remember the sins of my youth;
7b but rather, with your love remember me.
- 8 Teth Yahweh is so good, so upright,
he teaches the way to sinners;
- 9 Yod in all that is right he guides the humble,
and instructs the poor in his way.
- 10 Kaph All Yahweh's paths are love and truth
for those who keep his covenant and his decrees.
- 11 Lamed For the sake of your name, Yahweh, forgive my guilt, for it is great.
- 12 Mem Everyone who fears Yahweh will be taught the course a man should choose;
- 13 Nun his soul will live in prosperity,
his children have the land for their own.
- 14 Samek The close secret of Yahweh belongs to them who fear him, his covenant also, to bring them knowledge.
- 15 Ain My eyes are always on Yahweh,
for he releases my feet from the net.
- 16 Pe Turn to me, take pity on me,
alone and wretched as I am!
- 17 Sade Relieve the distress of my heart,
free me from my sufferings.
- 18 Qoph See my misery and pain,
forgive all my sins!

Resh	See how my enemies multiply, and how violent their hatred has grown.	19
Shin	Watch over my soul, rescue me; let me not be shamed: I take shelter in you.	20
Tau	Let innocence and integrity be my protection, since my hope is in you, Yahweh.	21
	Redeem Israel, God, from all his troubles.

Prayer of the blameless

Of David

Yahweh, be my judge!	1
I go my way in my innocence, My trust in Yahweh never wavers.
Test me, Yahweh, and probe me, put me to the trial, loins and heart;	2
for your love is before my eyes, and I live my life in loyalty to you.	3
No sitting with wastrels for me, no associating with hypocrites;	4
I hate the society of evil men, I refuse to sit down with the wicked.	5
I wash my hands in innocence and join the procession round your altar, singing a hymn of thanksgiving, proclaiming all your wonders.	6 7
I love the house where you live, the place where your glory makes its home.	8
Do not let my soul share the fate of sinners, or my life the doom of men of blood, men with guilt on their hands, whose right hands are heavy with bribes.	9 10
But I live my life in innocence, redeem me, Yahweh, take pity on me; my foot is set on the right path, I bless you, Yahweh. at the Assemblies.	11 12

In God's company there is no fear

Of David

Yahweh is my light and my salvation, whom need I fear?	1
Yahweh is the fortress of my life, of whom should I be afraid?

- 2           When evil men advance against me
              to devour my flesh,
              they, my opponents, my enemies,
              are the ones who stumble and fall.
- 3           Though an army pitched camp against me,
              my heart would not fear;
              though war were waged against me,
              my trust would still be firm.
- 4           One thing I ask of Yahweh,
              one thing I seek:
              to live in the house of Yahweh
              all the days of my life,
              to enjoy the sweetness of Yahweh
              and to consult him in his Temple.
- 5           For he shelters me under his awning
              in times of trouble;
              he hides me deep in his tent,
              sets me high on a rock.
- 6           And now my head is held high over the enemies who surround me,
              in his tent I will offer
              exultant sacrifice.
- I will sing, I will play for Yahweh!
- 7           Yahweh, hear my voice as I cry!
              Pity me! Answer me!
- 8           My heart has said of you,
              'Seek his face'.
              Yahweh, I do seek your face;
9           do not hide your face from me.
- Do not repulse your servant in anger;
              you are my help.
              Never leave me, never desert me,
              God, my saviour!
- 10          If my father and mother desert me, Yahweh will care for me still.
- 11          Yahweh, teach me your way,
              lead me in the path of integrity
              because of my enemies;
- 12          do not abandon me to the will of my foes—
              false witnesses have risen against me,
              and breathe out violence.
- 13          This I believe: I shall see the goodness of Yahweh,
              in the land of the living.
- 14          Put your hope in Yahweh, be strong, let your heart be bold, put your hope in Yahweh.

Petition and thanksgiving

Of David

I cry to you, Yahweh, my Rock! Do not be deaf to me, for if you are silent, I shall go down to the Pit like the rest.	1
Hear my voice, raised in petition, as I cry to you for help, as I raise my hands, Yahweh, toward your Holy of Holies.	2
Do not drag me away with the wicked, away with the evil men who talk of peace to their neighbours while malice is in their hearts.	3
Repay them for their actions, Yahweh, for the evil they commit, for their handiwork repay them, let them have what they deserve!	4
How blind they are to the works of Yahweh, to his own handiwork! May he pull them down and not rebuild them!	5
Blessed be Yahweh, for he hears the sound of my petition!	6
Yahweh is my strength, my shield, my heart puts its trust in him; I have been helped, my flesh has bloomed again, I thank him with all my heart.	7
Yahweh is the strength of his people, a saving fortress for his anointed. Save your people! Bless your heritage!	8
Shepherd them; carry them for ever!	9

- 7 The voice of Yahweh sharpens lightning shafts!

Yahweh shakes the wilderness of Kadesh.

Thanksgiving after mortal dangerPsalms Canticle for the Dedication of the House Of David*

- 1 High praise, Yahweh, I give you, for you have helped me up,
and not let my enemies gloat over me.
- 2 Yahweh, my God, I cried to you for help, and you have healed me.
- 3 Yahweh, you have brought my soul up from Sheol,
of all those who go down to the Pit you have revived me.
- 4 Play music in Yahweh's honour, you devout,
remember his holiness, and praise him.
- 5 His anger lasts a moment, his favour a lifetime;
in the evening, a spell of tears, in the morning, shouts of joy.
- 6 In my prosperity, I used to say,
'Nothing can ever shake me!'
- 7 Your favour, Yahweh, stood me on a peak impregnable;
but then you hid your face and I was terrified.
- 8 Yahweh, I call to you,
I beg my God to pity me,
- 9 'What do you gain by my blood<sup>a</sup> if I go down to the Pit?
Can the dust praise you or proclaim your faithfulness?
- 10 'Hear, Yahweh, take pity on me;
Yahweh, help me!'
- 11 You have turned my mourning into dancing,
you have stripped off my sackcloth and wrapped me in gladness;
12 and now my heart, silent no longer, will play you music;
Yahweh, my God, I will praise you for ever.

Prayer in time of ordeal

For the choirmaster Psalm Of David

In you, Yahweh, I take shelter; never let me be disgraced.	1
In your righteousness deliver me, rescue me, turn your ear to me, make haste!	2
Be a sheltering rock for me, a walled fortress to save me! For you are my rock, my fortress; for the sake of your name, guide me, lead me!	3
Pull me out of the net they have spread for me, for you are my refuge;	4
into your hands I commit my spirit, you have redeemed me, Yahweh.	5
God of truth, you hate those who serve worthless idols; but I put my trust in Yahweh: I will exult, and rejoice in your love!	6 7
You, who have seen my wretchedness, and known the miseries of my soul, have not handed me over to the enemy, you have given my feet space and to spare.	8
Take pity on me, Yahweh, I am in trouble now. Grief wastes away my eye, my throat, my inmost parts.	9
For my life is worn out with sorrow, my years with sighs; my strength yields under misery, my bones are wasting away.	10
To every one of my oppressors I am contemptible, loathsome to my neighbours, to my friends a thing of fear.	11
Those who see me in the street hurry past me; I am forgotten, as good as dead in their hearts, something discarded.	12
I hear their endless slanders, threats from every quarter, as they combine against me, plotting to take my life.	13
But I put my trust in you, Yahweh, I say, 'You are my God'.	14

- 15 My days are in your hand, rescue me
from the hands of my enemies and persecutors;
- 16 let your face smile on your servant,
save me in your love.
- 17 I invoke you, Yahweh; do not let me be disgraced,
let the disgrace fall on the wicked!
- 18 May they go speechless to Sheol,
their lying lips struck dumb
for those insolent slurs on the virtuous,
for that arrogance and contempt.
- 19 Yahweh, how great your goodness,
reserved for those who fear you,
bestowed on those who take shelter in you,
for all mankind to see!
- 20 Safe in your presence you hide them
far from the wiles of men;
inside your tent you shelter them
far from the war of tongues.
- 21 Blessed be Yahweh, who performs marvels of love for me (in a fortress-city)!
- 22 In my alarm I exclaimed,
'I have been snatched out of your sight!'
Yet you heard my petition
when I called to you for help.
- 23 Love Yahweh, all you devout:
Yahweh, protector of the faithful,
will repay the arrogant
with interest.
- 24 Be strong, let your heart be bold,
all you who hope in Yahweh!

Candid admission of sin

Of David Poem

- 1 Happy the man whose fault is forgiven,
whose sin is blotted out;
- 2 happy the man whom Yahweh
accuses of no guilt,
whose spirit is incapable of deceit!
- 3 All the time I kept silent, my bones were wasting away with groans, day in, day out;
- 4 day and night your hand
lay heavy on me;
my heart grew parched as stubble
in summer drought.

Pause

- 13 Yahweh looks down from heaven,
he sees the whole human race;
14 from where he sits he watches
all who live on the earth, 15 he who moulds every heart
and takes note of all men do.
- 16 A large army will not keep a king safe,
nor does the hero escape by his great strength;
17 it is delusion to rely on the horse for safety,
for all its power, it cannot save.
- 18 But see how the eye of Yahweh is on those who fear him,
on those who rely on his love, 19 to rescue their souls from death
and keep them alive in famine.
- 20 Our soul awaits Yahweh,
he is our help and shield;
21 our hearts rejoice in him,
we trust in his holy name.
22 Yahweh, let your love rest on us
as our hope has rested in you.

In praise of God's justice

Of David. When, after pretending to be mad in front of Abimelech, he was dismissed by him and made his escape

- 1 Aleph I will bless Yahweh at all times,
his praise shall be on my lips continually;
- 2 Beth my soul glories in Yahweh,
let the humble hear and rejoice.
- 3 Ghimel Proclaim with me the greatness of Yahweh,
together let us extol his name.
- 4 Daleth I seek Yahweh, and he answers me
and frees me from all my fears.
- 5 He Every face turned to him grows brighter
and is never ashamed.
- 6 Zain A cry goes up from the poor man, and Yahweh hears,
and helps him in all his troubles.
- 7 Heth The angel of Yahweh pitches camp round those who fear him; and he keeps them safe.
- 8 Teth How good Yahweh is—only taste and see!
Happy the man who takes shelter in him.
- 9 Yod Fear Yahweh, you his holy ones:
those who fear him want for nothing.
- 10 Kaph The young lion may go empty and hungry,
but those who seek Yahweh lack nothing good.

33 a. 'Hail him with the war cry'; but after the Exile, the war cry has assumed a ceremonial and liturgical character in thanksgivings and processions.

Prayer of a virtuous man under oppression

Of David

Accuse my accusers, Yahweh, attack my attackers;	1
grip shield and buckler, up, and help me;	2
brandish lance and pike in the faces of my pursuers. Tell my soul, 'I am your salvation'.	3
Shame and dishonour on those who are out to kill me!	4
Back with them! Cover with confusion those who plot my downfall!
May they be like chaff before the wind, with the angel of Yahweh to chase them!	5
May their way be dark and slippery, with the angel of Yahweh to hound them!	6
Unprovoked they spread their net for me, they dug a pit for me;	7
but Ruin creeps on them unawares, the net they have spread will catch them instead, and into their own pit will they fall.	8

- 9 Then my soul will rejoice in Yahweh,
exult that he has saved me.
- 10 All my bones will exclaim, 'Yahweh,
who can compare with you
in rescuing the poor man from the stronger,
the needy from the man who exploits him?'
- 11 Lying witnesses take the stand, questioning me on things I know nothing about;
12 they repay my kindness with evil,
there is desolation in my soul.
- 13 Yet, when they were sick, I put sackcloth on,
I humbled my soul with fasting,
murmuring prayers to my own breast 14 as though for a friend or brother;
and, like a person mourning his mother,
went about dejected and sorrowing.
- 15 Now I have fallen, they crowd round delighted,
flocking to jeer at me;
strangers I never even knew
with loud cries tear me to pieces, 16 riddling me with gibe after gibe,
grinding their teeth at me.
- 17 How much longer, Lord, will you look on?
Rescue my soul from their onslaughts,
my dear life from these lions.
- 18 I will give thanks in the Great Assembly,
praise you where the people throng.
- 19 Do not let my lying enemies
gloat over me,
do not let those who hate me for no reason exchange sly glances.
- 20 Peace is not what they discuss with the peaceloving people of the land;
they think out false accusations, 21 their mouths wide to accuse me,
'Aha! Aha!' they say
'With our own eyes we saw it!'
- 22 Now break your silence, Yahweh, you were looking too,
Lord, do not stand aside,
23 up, wake up, come to my defence,
Lord my God side with me!
- 24 Yahweh my God, you are righteous, so give verdict for me,
and do not let them gloat over me.
- 25 Do not let them think, 'Just as we hoped!'
Do not let them say, 'Now we have got him down!'
- 26 Shame and dishonour on all
who gloat over my misfortune;
shame and discredit cover all
who profit at my expense!
- 27 But shouts of joy and gladness for all who take pleasure in my virtue;

give them constant cause to say,
 'Great is Yahweh,
 who likes to see his servant at peace!'

Then my tongue will shout your goodness, 28
 and sing your praises all day long.

The wickedness of the sinner, the goodness of God

For the choirmaster Of the servant of Yahweh, David

The wicked man's oracle is Sin 1
 in the depths of his heart;
 there is no fear of God
 before his eyes.

He sees himself with too flattering an eye 2
 to detect and detest his guilt;
 all he says tends to mischief and deceit, 3
 he has turned his back on wisdom.

How best to work mischief he plots, 4
 even when he is in bed;
 he persists in his evil course,
 he never rejects what is bad.

Your love, Yahweh, reaches to the heavens, 5
 your faithfulness to the clouds;
 your righteousness is like the mountains of God, 6
 your judgements like the mighty deep.

Yahweh, protector of man and beast,
 how precious, God, your love! 7
 Hence the sons of men
 take shelter in the shadow of your wings.

They feast on the bounty of your house, 8
 you give them drink from your river of pleasure;
 yes, with you is the fountain of life, 9
 by your light we see the light.

Do not stop loving those who know you, 10
 or being righteous to upright hearts.
 Do not let arrogant feet crush me 11
 or wicked hands expel me.

The evil men have fallen, there they lie, 12
 beaten down, never to stand again!

The fate of the virtuous and the wicked

Of David

Aleph Do not worry about the wicked, 1
 do not envy those who do wrong.
 Quick as the grass they wither, 2 fading like the green in the field.

- 3 Beth Trust in Yahweh and do what is good,
make your home in the land and live in peace;
4 make Yahweh your only joy
and he will give you what your heart desires.
- 5 Ghimel Commit your fate to Yahweh,
trust in him and he will act:
6 making your virtue clear as the light,
your integrity as bright as noon.
- 7 Daleth Be quiet before Yahweh, and wait patiently for him,
not worrying about men who make their fortunes,
about men who scheme 14c to bring the poor and needy down.
- 8 He Enough of anger, leave rage aside,
do not worry, nothing but evil can come of it:
9 for the wicked will be expelled,
while those who hope in Yahweh shall have the land for their own.
- 10 Waw A little longer, and the wicked will be no more,
search his place well, he will not be there; 11 but the humble shall have the land for their own to enjoy untroubled peace.
- 12 Zain The wicked man plots against the virtuous,
and grinds his teeth at him;
13 but the Lord only laughs at the man,
knowing his end is in sight.
- 14a Heth Though the wicked draw the sword, 14b and bend their bow, to kill the upright,
15 their swords will only pierce their own hearts
and their bows will be smashed.
- 16 Teth The little the virtuous possesses
outweighs all the wealth of the wicked, 17 since the arms of the wicked are doomed to break,
and Yahweh will uphold the virtuous.
- 18 Yod Yahweh takes care of good men's lives,
and their heritage will last for ever;
19 they will not be at a loss when bad times come,
in time of famine they will have more than they need.
- 20 Kaph As for the wicked—they will perish,
these enemies of Yahweh;
they will vanish like the beauty of the meadows,
they will vanish in smoke.
- 21 Lamed The wicked man borrows without meaning to repay,
but a virtuous man is generous and open-handed;
22 those he blesses will have the land for their own,
those he curses will be expelled.
- 23 Mem Yahweh guides a man's steps,
they are sure, and he takes pleasure in his progress;
24 he may fall, but never fatally,
since Yahweh supports him by the hand.
- 25 Nun Now I am old, but ever since my youth
I never saw a virtuous man deserted,

	or his descendants forced to beg their bread; he is always compassionate, always lending; his children will be blessed.	26
Samek	Never yield to evil, practise good and you will have an everlasting home, for Yahweh loves what is right, and never deserts the devout.	27 28
Ain	Those who do wrong will perish once and for all, and the children of the wicked shall be expelled; the virtuous will have the land for their own, and make it their home for ever.	29
Pe	The mouth of the virtuous man murmurs wisdom, and his tongue speaks what is right; with the Law of his God in his heart his steps can never falter.	30 31
Sade	The wicked man spies on the virtuous, seeking to kill him; Yahweh will never leave him in those clutches, or let him be condemned under trial.	32 33
Qoph	Put your hope in Yahweh, keep his way, and he will save you from the wicked, raising you until you make the land your own and see the wicked expelled.	34a 40b 34b
Resh	I have seen the wicked in his triumph towering like a cedar of Lebanon, but when next I passed, he was not there, I looked for him and he was nowhere to be found.	35 36
Shin	Observe the innocent man, consider the upright: for the man of peace there are descendants, but sinners shall be destroyed altogether, the descendants of the wicked shall be wiped out.	37 38
Tau	The salvation of the virtuous comes from Yahweh, he is their shelter when trouble comes; Yahweh helps and rescues them, he saves them because they take shelter in him.	39 40a

Prayer in distress

Psalms Of David In commemoration

Yahweh, do not punish me in your rage, or reprove me in the heat of anger.	1
Your arrows have pierced deep, your hand has pressed down on me;	2
no soundness in my flesh now you are angry, no health in my bones, because of my sin.	3
My guilt is overwhelming me, it is too heavy a burden;	4
my wounds stink and are festering,	5

- 6 the result of my folly;
bowed down, bent double, overcome,
I go mourning all the day.
- 7 My loins are burnt up with fever,
there is no soundness in my flesh:
8 numbed and crushed and overcome,
my heart groans, I moan aloud.
- 9 Lord, all that I long for is known to you,
my sighing is no secret from you;
10 my heart is throbbing, my strength deserting me,
the light of my eyes itself has left me.
- 11 My friends and my companions shrink from my wounds,
even the dearest of them keep their distance;
12 men intent on killing me lay snares,
others, hoping to hurt me, threaten my ruin,
hatching treacherous plots all day.
- 13 But I am like the deaf, I do not hear,
like the dumb man who does not open his mouth;
14 I am like the man who, hearing nothing,
gives no sharp answer in return.
- 15 For I put my trust in you, Yahweh,
and leave you to answer for me, Lord my God.
16 I have already said, 'Stop them gloating over me,
do not let them take advantage of me if my foot should slip'.
- 17 And now my fall is upon me,
there is no relief from my pains;
18 yes, I admit my guilt,
I am sorry for having sinned.
- 19 There are more and more to hurt me for no reason,
There are more to hate me unprovoked, 20 repaying my kindness with evil,
arraigning me for trying to do right.
- 21 Yahweh, do not desert me,
do not stand aside, my God!
22 Come quickly to my help,
Lord, my saviour!

The insignificance of man before GodFor the choirmaster For Jeduthun Psalm Of David*

- 1 I said, 'I will watch how I behave,
and not let my tongue lead me into sin;
I will keep a muzzle on my mouth
as long as the wicked man is near me'.
2 I stayed dumb, silent, speechless,
though the sight of him thriving made torment increase.
- 3 My heart had been smouldering inside me,
but it flared up at the thought of this and the words burst out,

 'Tell me, Yahweh, when my end will be, 4
 how many days are allowed me,
 show me how frail I am.

'Look, you have given me an inch or two of life, 5
 my life-span is nothing to you;
 each man that stands on earth is only a puff of wind, Pause
 every man that walks, only a shadow, 6
 and the wealth he amasses is only a puff of wind—
 he does not know who will take it next.'

So tell me, Lord, what can I expect? 7
 My hope is in you.

Free me from all my sins, 8
 do not make me the butt of idiots.

I am dumb, I speak no more, 9
 since you yourself have been at work.

Lay your scourge aside, 10
 I am worn out with the blows you deal me.

You punish man with the penalties of sin, 11
 like a moth you eat away all that gives him pleasure—man is indeed only a puff of wind! Pause

Yahweh, hear my prayer, 12
 listen to my cry for help,
 do not stay deaf to my crying.

I am your guest, and only for a time,
 a nomad like all my ancestors.

Look away, let me draw breath, 13
 before I go away and am no more!

Song of praise and prayer for help

For the choirmaster Psalm Of David

I waited and waited for Yahweh, 1
 now at last he has stooped to me
 and heard my cry for help.

He has pulled me out of the horrible pit, 2 out of the slough of the marsh, has settled my feet on a rock
 and steadied my steps.

He has put a new song in my mouth, 3
 a song of praise to our God;
 dread will seize many at the sight,
 and they will put their trust in Yahweh.

Happy the man who puts 4
 his trust in Yahweh,
 and does not side with rebels
 who stray after false gods.

How many wonders you have done for us, 5
 Yahweh, my God!

- How many plans you have made for us;
you have no equal!
I want to proclaim them, again and again,
but they are more than I can count.
- 6 You, who wanted no sacrifice or oblation,
opened my ear,
you asked no holocaust or sacrifice for sin;
7 then I said, 'Here I am! I am coming!'
- In the scroll of the book am I not commanded 8 to obey your will?
My God, I have always loved your Law
from the depths of my being.
- 9 I have always proclaimed the righteousness of Yahweh
in the Great Assembly;
nor do I mean to stop proclaiming,
as you know well.
- 10 I have never kept your righteousness to myself,
but have spoken of your faithfulness and saving help;
I have made no secret of your love and faithfulness
in the Great Assembly.
- 11 For your part, Yahweh, do not withhold your kindness from me!
May your love and faithfulness constantly preserve me.
- 12 More misfortunes beset me
than I can count,
my sins close in on me
until I can hardly see,
they outnumber the hairs on my head;
my courage is running out.
- 13 Oh come and rescue me, Yahweh,
Yahweh come quickly and help me!
14 Shame and dishonour on all
who are out to kill, to destroy me!
- Down with them! Disgrace on those who enjoy my misfortune!
15 May they be aghast with shame,
those who say to me, 'Aha! Aha!'
- 16 But joy and gladness
for all who seek you!
To all who love your saving power
give constant cause to say, 'God is great!'
- 17 To me, poor wretch,
come quickly, Lord!
My helper, my saviour, my God,
come and do not delay!

Prayer of a sick and lonely manFor the choirmaster Psalm Of David*

Happy the man who cares for the poor and the weak: 1
 if disaster strikes, Yahweh will come to his help.
 Yahweh will guard him, give him life and happiness in the land; 2 ah, do not let his enemies treat him as they please!
 Yahweh will be his comfort on his bed of sickness; 3
 most carefully you make his bed when he is sick.

I for my part said, 'Yahweh, take pity on me! 4
 Cure me, for I have sinned against you.'
 My enemies say of me with malice, 5
 'How long before he dies and his name perishes?'
 They visit me, their hearts full of spite, 6
 they offer hollow comfort, and go out to spread the news.

All who hate me whisper to each other about me, 7
 reckoning I deserve the misery I suffer,
 'This sickness is fatal that has overtaken him, 8
 he is down at last, he will never get up again'.
 Even my closest and most trusted friend, 9
 who shared my table, rebels against me.

But Yahweh, take pity on me! 10
 Raise me up, and I will pay them back;
 and by this I shall know that I enjoy your favour, 11
 if my enemy fails to triumph over me;
 and I, whom you uphold, go unscathed, 12
 set by you in your presence for ever.

Blessed be Yahweh; the God of Israel, 13
 from all eternity and for ever!
 Amen. Amen!<sup>a</sup>

Lament of a Levite in exileFor the choirmaster Poem Of the sons of Korah*

As a doe longs 1
 for running streams,
 so longs my soul
 for you, my God.

My soul thirsts for God, 2
 the God of life;
 when shall I go to see the face of God?<sup>a</sup>

I have no food but tears, 3
 day and night;
 and all day long men say to me,
 'Where is your God?'

- 4 I remember, and my soul
melts within me:
I am on my way to the wonderful Tent,
to the house of God,
among cries of joy and praise
and an exultant throng.
- 5 Why so downcast, my soul,
why do you sigh within me?
Put your hope in God: I shall praise him yet,
my saviour, my God.
- 6 When my soul is downcast within me,
I think of you;
from the land of Jordan and of Hermon,
of you, humble mountain!<sup>b</sup>
- 7 Deep is calling to deep
as your cataracts roar;
all your waves, your breakers,
have rolled over me.
- 8 In the daytime may Yahweh
command his love to come,
and by night may his song be on my lips,
a prayer to the God of my life!
- 9 Let me say to God my Rock,
'Why do you forget me?
Why must I walk
so mournfully, oppressed by the enemy?'
- 10 Nearly breaking my bones
my oppressors insult me,
as all day long they ask me,
'Where is your God?'
- 11 Why so downcast, my soul,
why do you sigh within me?
Put your hope in God: I shall praise him yet,
my saviour, my God.
- 43
- 1 Defend me, take up my cause against people who have no pity;
from the treacherous and cunning man
rescue me, God.
- 2 It is you, God, who are my shelter:
why do you abandon me?
Why must I walk
so mournfully, oppressed by the enemy?
- 3 Send out your light and your truth,
let these be my guide,
to lead me to your holy mountain
and to the place where you live.
- 4 Then I shall go to the altar of God,
to the God of my joy,

41 a. This doxology ends the first book of the Psalter.

42 a. To find the presence of God in the Temple at Jerusalem. b. Mount Zion.

I shall rejoice, I shall praise you on the harp,

my saviour, my God.

National lament

For the choirmaster Of the sons of Korah Psalm

God, we have heard with our own ears, our ancestors have told us of the deeds you performed in their days, in days long ago, •by your hand.	1   2
To put them in the land you dispossessed the nations, you harried the peoples to make room for them; it was not by their swords they won the land, it was not by their arms they gained the victory: it was your right hand, your arm and the light of your face—because you loved them.	3   3
You it was, my King, my God, who won those victories for Jacob; through you we trampled down our enemies, through your name we subdued our aggressors.	4  5
My trust was not in my bow, my sword did not gain me victory: we conquered our enemies through you, you, who defeated all who hated us— our boast was always of God, we praised your name without ceasing.	6 7  8
Yet now you abandon and scorn us, you no longer march with our armies, you allow the enemy to push us back, and let those who hate us raid us when it suits them.	9  10
You let us go to the slaughterhouse like sheep, you scatter us among the nations; you sell your people for next to nothing, and make no profit from the bargain.	11 12
Thanks to you, our neighbours insult us, all those around us make us their butt and laughing-stock; you make us a byword to pagans, a thing to make them toss their heathen heads.	13 14
All day long I brood on this disgrace, my face covered in shame, under a shower of insult and blasphemy, a display of hatred and revenge.	15 16

Pause

- 17 All this happened to us though we had not forgotten you, though we had not been disloyal to your covenant;
 18 though our hearts had not turned away,
 though our steps had not left your path:
 19 yet you crushed us in the place where the jackals live,
 and threw the shadow of death over us.
- 20 Had we forgotten the name of our own God and stretched out our hands to a foreign one, 21 would not God have found this out,
 he who knows the secrets of the heart?
 22 No, it is for your sake we are being massacred daily,
 and counted as sheep for the slaughter.
- 23 Wake up, Lord! Why are you asleep?
 Awake! Do not abandon us for good.
 24 Why do you hide your face,
 and forget we are wretched and exploited?
- 25 For we are bowed in the dust,
 our bodies crushed to the ground.
 26 Rise! Come to our help!
 Redeem us for the sake of your love.

Royal wedding song

For the choirmaster    Tune: 'Lilies...'    Of the sons of Korah
Poem    Love song

- 1 My heart is stirred by a noble theme:
 I address my poem to the king;
 my tongue as ready as the pen of a busy scribe.
- 2 Of all men you are the most handsome,
 your lips are moist with grace,
 for God has blessed you for ever.
- 3 Hero, strap your sword at your side, 4 in majesty and splendour; •on, ride on,
 in the cause of truth, religion and virtue!
- Stretch the bowstring tight,
 lending terror to your right hand.
 5 Your arrows are sharp; nations lie at your mercy,
 the king's enemies are losing heart.
- 6 Your throne, God, shall last for ever and ever,
 your royal sceptre is a sceptre of integrity:
 7 virtue you love as much as you hate wickedness.
- This is why God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness, above all your rivals;
 8 myrrh and aloes waft from your robes.
- 9 From palaces of ivory harps entertain you,
 daughters of kings are among your maids of honour;
 on your right stands the queen, in gold from Ophir.

Listen, daughter, pay careful attention:	10
forget your nation and your ancestral home,
then the king will fall in love with your beauty.	11
He is your master now, bow down to him.
The daughter of Tyre will solicit your favour with gifts,	12
the wealthiest nations, •with jewels set in gold.	13
Dressed •in brocades, the king's daughter	14
is led in to the king, with bridesmaids in her train.
Her ladies-in-waiting follow
and enter the king's palace to general rejoicing.	15
Your ancestors will be replaced by sons	16
whom you will make lords of the whole world.
I shall immortalise your name,	17
nations will sing your praises for ever and ever.

God is on our side

For the choirmaster Of the sons of Korah For oboe Song

God is our shelter, our strength,	1
ever ready to help in time of trouble,
so we shall not be afraid when the earth gives way,	2
when mountains tumble into the depths of the sea,
and its waters roar and seethe,	3
the mountains tottering as it heaves.
(Yahweh Sabaoth is on our side,
our citadel, the God of Jacob!)	Pause
There is a river whose streams refresh the city of God,	4
and it sanctifies the dwelling of the Most High.
God is inside the city, she can never fall,	5
at crack of dawn God helps her;
to the roaring of nations and tottering of kingdoms,	6
when he shouts, the world disintegrates.
Yahweh Sabaoth is on our side,	7
our citadel, the God of Jacob!	Pause
Come, think of Yahweh's marvels,	8
the astounding things he has done in the world;
all over the world he puts an end to wars,	9
he breaks the bow, he snaps the spear,
he gives shields to the flames.
'Pause a while and know that I am God,	10
exalted among the nations, exalted over the earth!'
Yahweh Sabaoth is on our side,	11
our citadel, the God of Jacob!	Pause

Yahweh, king of Israel, lord of the world

For the choirmaster Of the sons of Korah Psalm

Clap your hands, all you peoples,
acclaim God with shouts of joy;
for Yahweh, the Most High, is to be dreaded,
the Great King of the whole world.

He brings the peoples under our dominion,
he puts the nations under our feet;
for us he chooses our heritage—
the pride of Jacob, whom he loved.

God rises to shouts of acclamation,
Yahweh rises to a blast of trumpets,
let the music sound for our God, let it sound,
let the music sound for our King, let it sound!

God is king of the whole world:
play your best in his honour!
God is king of the nations,
he reigns on his holy throne.

The leaders of the nations rally
to the people of the God of Abraham.
Every shield in the world belongs to God.
He reigns supreme.

Zion, the mountain of God

Song Psalm Of the sons of Korah

Yahweh is great and supremely to be praised
in the city of our God,
the holy mountain, beautiful where it rises,
joy of the whole world;

Mount of Zion, deep heart of the North,
city of the Great King;
here among her palaces,
God proved to be her fortress.

There was a rallying, once, of kings,
advancing together along a common front;
they looked, they were amazed,
they panicked, they ran!

There they shuddered and writhed
like women in labour,
it was the east wind, that wrecker
of ships of Tarshish!<sup>a</sup>

48 a. 'Ships capable of sailing to Tarshish', the common phrase for sea-going vessels.

What we had heard we saw for ourselves in the city of our God, the city of Yahweh Sabaoth, God-protected for ever.	8
	Pause
God, in your Temple we reflect on your love:	9
God, your praise, like your name, reaches to the ends of the world.	10
Your right hand holds the victory; Mount Zion rejoices, the daughters of Judah exult to have your rulings.	11
Go through Zion, walk round her, counting her towers, admiring her walls, reviewing her palaces;	12
	13
then tell the next generation that God is here, our God and leader, for ever and ever.	14

The futility of riches

V 48

For the choirmaster Of the sons of Korah Psalm

Hear this, all nations, pay attention all who live on earth, important people, ordinary people, rich and poor alike!	1
	2
My lips have wisdom to utter, my heart whispers sound sense; I turn my attention to a proverb, and set my solution to the harp.	3
	4
Why should I be afraid in evil times, when malice dogs my steps and hems me in, of men who trust in their wealth and boast of the profusion of their riches?	5
	6
But man could never redeem himself or pay his ransom to God: it costs so much to redeem his life, it is beyond him; how then could he live on for ever and never see the Pit—	7
	9
when all the time he sees that wise men die, that foolish and stupid perish both alike, and leave their fortunes to others.	10

- 11 Their tombs are their eternal home,
their lasting residence,
though they owned estates that bore their names.
- 12 Man when he prospers forfeits intelligence:
he is one with the cattle doomed to slaughter.
- 13 So on they go with their self-assurance,
with men to run after them when they raise their voice. Pause
- 14 Like sheep to be penned in Sheol, Death will herd them to pasture
and the upright will have the better of them.
- Dawn will come and then the show they made will disappear, Sheol the home for them!
- 15 But God will redeem my life
from the grasp of Sheol, and will receive me. Pause
- 16 Do not be afraid when a man grows rich,
when the glory of his House increases;
when he dies he can take nothing with him,
his glory cannot follow him down.
- 17
- 18 The soul he made so happy while he lived
— ‘look after yourself and men will praise you’ —
- 19 will join the company of his ancestors who will never see the light of day again.
- 20 Man in his prosperity forfeits intelligence:
he is one with the cattle doomed to slaughter.

Worship in spirit and truth

Psalm Of Asaph

- 1 Yahweh, God of gods,
speaks, he summons the earth.
From east to west,
2 from Zion, perfection of beauty, he shines.
- 3 Let our God come, and be silent no more!
- Preceding him, a devouring fire,
round him, a raging storm;
4 he summons the heavens above
and the earth, to his people's trial:
- 5 ‘Assemble my faithful before me who sealed my covenant by sacrifice!’
- 6 Let the heavens proclaim his righteousness
when God himself is judge! Pause
- 7a ‘Listen, my people, I am speaking;
7b Israel, I am giving evidence against you!
21c I charge, I indict you to your face, 7c I, God, your God.

'I am not finding fault with your sacrifices, those holocausts constantly before me;	8
I do not claim one extra bull from your homes, nor one extra goat from your pens,	9
'since all the forest animals are already mine, and the cattle on my mountains in their thousands;	10
I know all the birds of the air, nothing moves in the field that does not belong to me.	11
'If I were hungry, I should not tell you, since the world and all it holds is mine.	12
Do I eat the flesh of bulls, or drink goats' blood?	13
'No, let thanksgiving be your sacrifice to God, fulfil the vows you make to the Most High;	14
then you can invoke me in your troubles and I will rescue you, and you shall honour me.'	15
But to the wicked man God says:	16
'What business have you reciting my statutes, standing there mouthing my covenant, since you detest my discipline and thrust my words behind you?	17
'You make friends with a thief as soon as you see one, you feel at home with adulterers, your mouth is given freely to evil and your tongue to inventing lies.	18 19
'You sit there, slandering your own brother, you malign your own mother's son. You do this, and expect me to say nothing? Do you really think I am like you?	20 21 21b
'You are leaving God out of account; take care! Or I will tear you to pieces where no one can rescue you! Whoever makes thanksgiving his sacrifice honours me; to the upright man I will show how God can save.'	22 23

Prayer for forgiveness

For the choirmaster Psalm Of David When the prophet Nathan came to him because he had been with Bathsheba

Have mercy on me, O God, in your goodness, in your great tenderness wipe away my faults;	1
wash me clean of my guilt, purify me from my sin.	2
For I am well aware of my faults, I have my sin constantly in mind,	3
having sinned against none other than you, having done what you regard as wrong.	4

- 5 You are just when you pass sentence on me,
 blameless when you give judgement.
 You know I was born guilty,
 a sinner from the moment of conception.
- 6 Yet, since you love sincerity of heart,
 teach me the secrets of wisdom.
 7 Purify me with hyssop<sup>a</sup> until I am clean;
 wash me until I am whiter than snow.
- 8 Instil some joy and gladness into me,
 let the bones you have crushed rejoice again.
 9 Hide your face from my sins,
 wipe out all my guilt.
- 10 God, create a clean heart in me,
 put into me a new and constant spirit, 11 do not banish me from your presence,
 do not deprive me of your holy spirit.
- 12 Be my saviour again, renew my joy,
 keep my spirit steady and willing;
 13 and I shall teach transgressors the way to you,
 and to you the sinners will return.
- 14 Save me from death, God my saviour,
 and my tongue will acclaim your righteousness;
 15 Lord, open my lips,
 and my mouth will speak out your praise.
- 16 Sacrifice gives you no pleasure,
 were I to offer holocaust, you would not have it.
 17 My sacrifice is this broken spirit,
 you will not scorn this crushed and broken heart.
- 18 Show your favour graciously to Zion, rebuild the walls of Jerusalem.<sup>b</sup> 19 Then there will be proper sacrifice to please you
 —holocaust and whole oblation—
 and young bulls to be offered on your altar.

The fate of cynics

For the choirmaster Poem Of David When Doeg the Edomite went and warned Saul, 'David has gone to Ahimelech's house'

- 1 Why make a boast of your wickedness,
 you champion in villainy,
 2 all day plotting destruction?
 Your tongue is razor-sharp,
 you artist in perfidy!
- 3 You prefer evil to good,
 lying to honest speech;

Pause

51 a. Plant used in ceremonial purification by sprinkling. b. In spite of the inscription at the beginning of this psalm, this stanza at least speaks of a time after the return from Exile.

you love the destructive word, perfidious tongue! 4
 That is why God will crush you, snatch you away for good, 5
     tear you out of your tent,
 uproot you from the land of the living. Pause
 Dread will seize the virtuous at the sight,
     they will laugh at his fate: 6
 'So much for the man who refused to make God his fortress, 7
 but relied on his own great wealth
     and drew his strength from crime!'

I, for my part, like an olive tree 8
     growing in the house of God, put my trust in God's love
     for ever and ever.

I mean to thank you constantly 9

 and put my hope in your name, that is so full of kindness,

The godless man<sup>a</sup>For the choirmaster In sickness Poem Of David*

The fool says in his heart, 1
     'There is no God!'
 They are false, corrupt, vile,
     there is not one good man left.

God is looking down from heaven 2
     at the sons of men,
 to see if a single one is wise,
     if a single one is seeking God.

All have turned aside, 3
     all alike are tainted
 There is not one good man left,
     not a single one.

Are they so ignorant, these evil men 4
     who swallow my people
 as though they were eating bread,
     and never invoke God?

They will be struck with fear, 5
     fear without reason,
 since God scatters the bones of the apostate,
     they are disgraced, for God rejects them.

Who will bring Israel salvation from Zion? 6
 When God brings his people home,
 what joy for Jacob, what happiness for Israel!

For the choirmaster On stringed instruments Poem Of David When the Ziphites went to Saul and said, 'Is not David hiding with us?'

- 1 God, save me by your name,
by your power see justice done to me;
- 2 God, hear my prayer,
listen to what I am saying!
- 3 Arrogant men are attacking me,
brutes who are hounding me to death,
people to whom God means nothing.
- 4 But now God himself comes to help me,
the Lord, supporter of my life.
5 May their wickedness recoil on themselves,
Yahweh, ever faithful, destroy my enemies!
- 6 How gladly will I offer sacrifice to you and praise your name, that is so full of kindness.

Prayer in persecution

For the choirmaster For strings Poem Of David

- 1 God, hear my prayer,
do not hide from my petition,
2 give me a hearing, answer me,
I cannot rest for complaining.
- 3 I shudder at the enemy's shouts,
at the howling of the wicked;
they bring misery crashing down on me,
and vent their fury on me.
- 4 My heart aches in my breast,
Death's terrors assail me,
5 fear and trembling descend on me,
horror overwhelms me.
- 6 And I say,
'Oh for the wings of a dove
to fly away and find rest'.
7 How far I would take my flight,
and make a new home in the desert!
- 8 There I should soon find shelter
from the raging wind,

Pause

- and from the tempest, •Lord, that destroys,
and from their malicious tongues. 9
- I can see how Violence and Discord fill the city;
day and night they stalk together 10
along the city walls.
- Sorrow and Misery live inside,
Ruin is an inmate; 11
Tyranny and Treachery are never absent
from its central square.
- Were it an enemy who insulted me, 12
I could put up with that;
had a rival got the better of me,
I could hide from him.
- But you, a man of my own rank, 13
a colleague and a friend,
to whom sweet conversation bound me 14
in the house of God!
- May they recoil in disorder,
may Death descend on them, 15
may they go down, still living, to Sheol—
since Evil shares their homes.
- I, for myself, appeal to God 16
and Yahweh saves me;
evening, morning, noon, 17
I complain, I groan;
he will hear me calling.
- His peace can ransom me 18
from the war being waged on me.
How many are ranged against me!
But God will hear me. 19
- Sovereign from the first, he will humble them; Pause
no change of heart for them,
since they do not fear God.
- He<sup>a</sup> has attacked his friends, 20
he has gone back on his word;
though his mouth is smoother than butter, 21
he has war in his heart;
his words may soothe more than oil,
but they are naked swords.
- Unload your burden on to Yahweh, 22
and he will support you;
he will never permit
the virtuous to falter.
- As for these murderous, these treacherous men, 23
you, God, will push them

before half their days are out.
- For my part, I put my trust in you.

Reliance on God

*For the choirmaster Tune: 'Dove of the distant gods' Of David Miktam
When the Philistines held him in Gath*

- 1           Take pity on me, God, as they harry me, pressing their attacks home all day.
- 2           All day my opponents harry me,
          hordes coming in to the attack.
- 3           Raise me up when I am most afraid,
          I put my trust in you;
- 4           in God, whose word<sup>a</sup> I praise,
          in God I put my trust, fearing nothing;
          what can men do to me?
- 5           All day long they twist what I say,
          all they think of is how to harm me,
- 6           they conspire, lurk, spy on my movements,
          determined to take my life.
- 7           Are they to go unpunished for such a crime?
          God, in fury bring the nations down!
- 8           You have noted my agitation,
          now collect my tears in your wineskin!
- 9           Then my enemies will have to fall back
          as soon as I call for help.
- This I know: that God is on my side.
- 10          In God whose word I praise,
          in Yahweh, whose word I praise,
- 11          in God I put my trust, fearing nothing;
          what can man do to me?
- 12          I must fulfil the vows I made you, God;
          I shall pay you my thank-offerings,
- 13          for you have rescued me from Death
          to walk in the presence of God
          in the light of the living.

Among ferocious enemies

For the choirmaster Tune: 'Do not destroy' Of David Miktam When he escaped from Saul, in the cave

- 1           Take pity on me, God, take pity on me,
          in you my soul takes shelter;
          I take shelter in the shadow of your wings
          until the destroying storm is over.
- 2           I call on God the Most High,
          on God who has done everything for me:
- 3           to send from heaven and save me,

to check the people harrying me,
may God send his faithfulness and love. Pause

I lie surrounded by lions 4
greedy for human prey,
their teeth are spears and arrows,
their tongue a sharp sword.

Rise high above the heavens, God, 5

let your glory be over the earth!

They laid a net where I was walking 6

when I was bowed with care;

they dug a pitfall for me

but fell into it themselves! Pause

My heart is ready, God, 7

my heart is ready;

I mean to sing and play for you,

awake, my muse, 8

awake, lyre and harp,

I mean to wake the Dawn!

Lord, I mean to thank you among the peoples; 9

to play music to you among the nations;

your love is high as heaven, 10

your faithfulness as the clouds.

Rise high above the heavens, God, 11

let your glory be over the earth!

The Judge of earthly judges

For the choirmaster Tune: 'Do not destroy' Of David Miktam

Gods<sup>a</sup> you may be, but do you give the sentences you should, 1 and dispense impartial justice to mankind?

On the contrary, in your hearts you meditate oppression, 2
with your hands you dole out tyranny on earth.

Right from the womb these wicked men have gone astray, 3

these double talkers have been in error since their birth;

their poison is the poison of the snake, 4

they are deaf as the adder that blocks its ears

so as not to hear the magician's music 5

and the clever snake-charmer's spells.

God, break their teeth in their mouths, 6

Yahweh, wrench out the fangs of these savage lions!

May they drain away like water running to waste, 7

may they wither like trodden grass,

like a slug that melts as it moves, 8

like an abortion, denied the light of day!

Before they sprout thorns like the bramble, 9

green or scorched, may the wrath whirl them away!

What joy for the virtuous, seeing this vengeance, 10

- 11 bathing their feet in the blood of the wicked!
 'So' people will say 'the virtuous do have their harvest;
 so there is a God who dispenses justice on earth!'

Against the wicked

For the choirmaster Tune: 'Do not destroy' Of David Miktam When Saul sent spies to his house to have him killed

- 1 Rescue me from my enemies, my God,
 protect me from those attacking me,
 2 rescue me from these evil men,
 save me from these murderers!
- 3 Look at them lurking to ambush me,
 they are strong and united against me;
 4 for no fault, no sin, no offence of mine,
 Yahweh, how they hurry into position!
- 5 Wake up, stand by me and look,
 Yahweh, God of Sabaoth, God of Israel,
 up, now, and punish these pagans,
 show no mercy to these villains and traitors! Pause
- 6 Back they come at nightfall,
 snarling like curs,
 prowling through the town.
- 7 See how they slaver at the mouth,
 with swords between their teeth,
 'There is no one listening'.
- 8 Yahweh, you laugh at them,
 you make fun of these pagans.
 9 My Strength, I look to you.
- 10 My citadel is God himself,
 the God who loves me is coming,
 God will show me my enemies defeated.
- 11 Slaughter them, God, before my people forget!
 Harry them with your power and strike them down,
 Lord, our shield!
- 12 Sin is in their mouths, sin on their lips,
 so let them be caught in their pride!
 For the curses and lies they utter,
- 13 destroy them in anger, destroy, until they are finished,
 until God is acknowledged as ruler in Jacob to the remotest parts of the earth! Pause

58 a. The judges and rulers addressed in these two verses.

Back they come at nightfall, snarling like curs, prowling through the town; scavenging for food, growling till they are full.	14 15
I, for my part, celebrate your strength, I sing of your love morning by morning; you have always been my citadel, a shelter when I am in trouble.	16
My Strength, I play for you, my citadel is God himself, the God who loves me.	17

National prayer after defeat

For the choirmaster Tune: 'The decree is a lily' Miktam Of David For instruction When he was at war with Aram-naharaim and Aram-zobah, and Joab marched back to destroy twelve thousand Edomites in the Valley of Salt

God, you have rejected us, broken us; you have been angry, come back to us!	1
You have made the earth tremble, torn it apart; now mend the rifts, it is tottering still!	2
You have allowed your people to suffer, to drink a wine that makes us reel.	3
Hoist the standard to rally those who fear you, to put them out of range of bow and arrow.	4
To bring rescue to those you love, save with your right hand and answer us!	Pause 5
God promised us once from his sanctuary, 'I the Victor will parcel out Shechem, and share out the Valley of Succoth.	6

'Moab a bowl for me to wash in! I throw my sandal <sup>a</sup> over Edom. Now shout "Victory", Philistia! <sup>b</sup>	8
Who is there now to take me into the fortified city, to lead me into Edom? God, can you really have rejected us? You no longer march with our armies.	9 10
Help us in this hour of crisis, the help that man can give is worthless. With God among us we shall fight like heroes, he will trample on our enemies.	11 12

- 1 God, hear my cry for help,
listen to my prayer!
- 2 From the end of the earth I call to you,
with sinking heart.
- To the rock too high for me,
lead me!
- 3 For you are my refuge,
a strong tower against the enemy.
- 4 Let me stay in your tent for ever,
taking refuge in the shelter of your wings. Pause
- 5 You, God, accept my vows,
you grant me the heritage of those who fear your name.
- 6 Let the king live on and on,
prolong his years, generation on generation.
- 7 May he sit enthroned in God's presence for ever!
Assign your Love and Faithfulness to guard him!
- 8 So I shall always sing of your name, fulfilling the vows I have taken, day after day.

Hope in God alone

For the choirmaster... Jeduthun Psalm Of David

- 1 In God alone there is rest for my soul, from him comes my safety;
- 2 with him alone for my rock, my safety,
my fortress, I can never fall.
- 3 How many times will you come rushing at a man,
all of you, to bring him down
like a wall already leaning over,
like a rampart undermined?
- 4 Deceit their sole intention,
their delight is to mislead;
with lies on their lips they bless aloud,
while cursing inwardly. Pause
- 5 Rest in God alone, my soul!
He is the source of my hope;
- 6 with him alone for my rock, my safety,
my fortress, I can never fall;
- 7 rest in God, my safety, my glory,
the rock of my strength.

In God, I find shelter; •rely on him, people, at all times; unburden your hearts to him, God is a shelter for us.	8
	Pause
Ordinary men are only a puff of wind, important men <sup>a</sup> delusion; put both in the scales and up they go, lighter than a puff of wind.	9
Put no reliance on extortion, no empty hopes in robbery; though riches may increase, keep your heart detached.	10

and you yourself repay man as his works deserve.	12

Desire for God

Psalm Of David When he was in the wilderness of Judah

God, you are my God, I am seeking you, my soul is thirsting for you, my flesh is longing for you, a land parched, weary and waterless; I long to gaze on you in the Sanctuary, and to see your power and glory.	1
Your love is better than life itself, my lips will recite your praise; all my life I will bless you, in your name lift up my hands; my soul will feast most richly, on my lips a song of joy and, in my mouth, praise.	3
	5
On my bed I think of you, I meditate on you all night long, for you have always helped me. I sing for joy in the shadow of your wings; my soul clings close to you, your right hand supports me.	6
	8
But may those now hounding me to death go down to the earth below, consigned to the edge of the sword, and left as food for jackals. Then will the king rejoice in God, and all who swear by him be able to boast once these lying mouths are silenced.	9

For the choirmaster Psalm. Of David

- 1 God, hear me as I make my plea,
protect me from this frightening enemy,
2 hide me from the wicked and their schemes,
from this mob of evil men,
3 sharpening their tongues like swords,
shooting bitter words like arrows,
4 shooting them at the innocent from cover,
shooting suddenly, without warning.
5 Urging each other on to their wicked purpose,
they discuss where to hide their snares.
'Who is going to see us?' they say
6 'Who can probe our secrets?'
Who? He who probes the inmost mind and the depths of the heart.
7 God will shoot them with his own arrow,
wound them without warning.
8 He will destroy them for that tongue of theirs,
and all who see them fall will shake their heads.
9 Then all will feel afraid,
will tell others what God has done;
they will understand why he has done it.
10 The virtuous will rejoice in Yahweh,
will make him their refuge;
and upright hearts will be able to boast.

 The nations are in uproar, in panic 8
 those who live at the ends of the world,
 as your miracles bring shouts of joy
 to the portals of morning and evening.
 You visit the earth and water it, 9
 you load it with riches;
 God's rivers brim with water
 to provide their grain.
 This is how you provide it: 10
 by drenching its furrows, by levelling its ridges,
 by softening it with showers, by blessing the first-fruits.
 You crown the year with your bounty, 11

 the valleys are clothed in wheat,

Corporate act of thanksgiving

For the choirmaster Song Psalm

Acclaim God, all the earth, 1 play music to the glory of his name, 2 glorify him with your praises, say to God, 'What dread you inspire!' 3
 Your achievements are the measure of your power.
 Your enemies cringe in your presence;
 all the earth bows down to you, 4
 playing music for you, playing in honour of your name. ; Pause
 Come and see what marvels God has done, 5
 so much to be feared for his deeds among mankind:
 he turned the sea into dry land, 6
 they crossed the river on foot!
 So let us rejoice in him,
 who rules for ever by his power: 7
 his eyes keep watch on the nations, let no rebel raise his head! Pause
 You nations, bless our God 8
 and make his praise resound, who brings our soul to life 9
 and keeps our feet from faltering.

10 You tested us, God,
 you refined us like silver, 11 you let us fall into the net,
 you laid heavy burdens on our backs, 12 you let people drive over our heads;
 but now the ordeal by fire and water is over,
 and you allow us once more to draw breath.

13 I bring holocausts to your house,
 I bring them to fulfil those vows 14 that rose to my lips,
 those vows I spoke when in trouble.

15 I offer you fat holocausts
 and the smoke of burning rams,
 I offer you bullocks and he-goats.

Pause

16 Come and listen, all you who fear God,
 while I tell you what he has done for me:
 17 when I uttered my cry to him
 and high praise was on my tongue, 18 had I been guilty in my heart,
 the Lord would never have heard me.
 19 But God not only heard me,
 he listened to my prayer.

20 Blessed be God,
 who neither ignored my prayer
 nor deprived me of his love.

National song of triumph

For the choirmaster Of David Psalm Song

Let God arise, let his enemies be scattered,	1
let those who hate him flee before him!
As smoke disperses, they disperse;	2
as wax melts when near the fire,
so the wicked perish when God approaches.
But at God's approach, the virtuous rejoice,	3
exulting and singing for joy.
Sing to Yahweh, play music to his name,	4
build a road for the Rider of the Clouds, rejoice in Yahweh, exult at his coming!
Father of orphans, defender of widows,	5
such is God in his holy dwelling;
God gives the lonely a permanent home,	6
makes prisoners happy by setting them free,
but rebels must live in an arid land.
God, when you set out at the head of your people,	7
and marched across the desert, the earth rocked,	Pause 8
the heavens deluged at God's coming,
at the coming of God, the God of Israel.
God, you rained a downpour of blessings,	9
when your heritage was faint you gave it strength;
your family found a home, where you	10
in your goodness, God, provided for the needy.
The Lord gives his couriers the news,	11a
'Shaddai has scattered a huge army'.	14a
Kings are in flight, armies in flight,	11b
the women at home take their pick of the loot.	12
Meanwhile you others were lolling in the sheepfolds.	13
There were dove-wings covered with silver,
on their pinions the sheen of green gold;
jewels were there like snow on Dark Mountain.	14b
That peak of Bashan, a mountain of God?	15
Rather, a mountain of pride, that peak of Bashan!
Peaks of pride, have you the right to look down on	16
a mountain where God has chosen to live,
where Yahweh is going to live for ever?
With thousands of myriads of divine chariots	17
the Lord has left Sinai for his sanctuary.
God, you have ascended to the height, and captured prisoners,	18
you have taken men as tribute,
yes, taken rebels to your dwelling, Yahweh!
Blessed be the Lord day after day,	19
the God who saves us and bears our burdens!

- 20 This God of ours is a God who saves,
to the Lord Yahweh belong the ways of escape from death; 21 but God will smash the heads of his enemies,
the hairy skull of the man who parades his guilt.
- 22 The Lord has promised, 'I will bring them back from Bashan,
I will bring them back from the bottom of the sea,
23 for your feet to wade in blood,
for the tongues of your dogs to lap their share of the enemy'.
- 24 God, your procession can be seen,
my God's, my king's procession to the sanctuary, 25 with cantors marching in front, musicians behind,
and between them maidens playing tambourines.
- 26 Bless God in your choirs,
bless the Lord, you who spring from Israel!
- 27 Benjamin, the youngest, is there in the lead,
the princes of Judah in brocaded robes,
the princes of Zebulun, the princes of Naphtali.
- 28 Take command, God, as befits your power, that power, God, you have wielded on our behalf 29 from your Temple high above Jerusalem!
Kings will come to you, bringing presents.
- 30 Rebuke the Beast of the Reeds,<sup>a</sup>
that herd of bulls, those calves, that people,
until, humbled, they bring gold and silver.
Scatter those warmongering pagans!
- 31 Ambassadors will come from Egypt,
Ethiopia will stretch out her hands to God.
- 32 Sing to God, you kingdoms of the earth, 33 play for the Rider of the Heavens, the ancient heavens! Pause
Listen to him shouting, to his thundering, 34 and acknowledge the power of God!
- 35 Over Israel his splendour, in the clouds his power,
God in his sanctuary is greatly to be feared.
He, the God of Israel,
gives power and strength to his people.
- Blessed be God.

Lament

For the choirmaster Tune: 'Lilies...' Of David

- 1 Save me, God! The water is already up to my neck!

68 a. Egypt.

I am sinking in the deepest swamp, there is no foothold;	2
I have stepped into deep water and the waves are washing over me.
Worn out with calling, my throat is hoarse, my eyes are strained, looking for my God.	3
More people hate me for no reason than I have hairs on my head, more are groundlessly hostile than I have hair to show. (They ask me to give back what I never took.)	4
God, you know how foolish I have been, my offences are not hidden from you;	5
but let those who hope in you not blush for me, Yahweh Sabaoth! <sup>a</sup>	6
Let those who seek you not be ashamed of me, God of Israel!
It is for you I am putting up with insults that cover me with shame, that make me a stranger to my brothers, an alien to my mother's other sons;	7
zeal for your house devours me, and the insults of those who insult you fall on me.	8
If I mortify myself with fasting, they make this a pretext for insulting me;	9
if I dress myself in sackcloth, I become their laughing-stock, the gossip of people sitting at the city gate, and the theme of drunken songs.	10
For my part, I pray to you, Yahweh, at the time you wish;	11
in your great love, answer me, God, faithful in saving power.	12
Pull me out of this swamp; let me sink no further, let me escape those who hate me, save me from deep water!	13
Do not let the waves wash over me, do not let the deep swallow me or the Pit close its mouth on me.	14
In your loving kindness, answer me, Yahweh, in your great tenderness turn to me;	15
do not hide your face from your servant, quick, I am in trouble, answer me;	16
come to my side, redeem me, from so many enemies ransom me.	17
You know all the insults I endure, every one of my oppressors is known to you;	18
the insults have broken my heart, my shame and disgrace are past cure;	19a
I had hoped for sympathy, but in vain, I found no one to console me.	19c
	20a
	19b 20b
	20c

- 21 They gave me poison to eat instead,
when I was thirsty they gave me vinegar to drink.
- 22 May their own table prove a trap for them,
and their plentiful supplies, a snare!
23 may their eyes grow dim, go blind,
strike their loins with chronic palsy!
- 24 Vent your fury on them,
let your burning anger overtake them;
25 may their camp be reduced to ruin,
and their tents left unoccupied:
26 for hounding a man after you had struck him,
for adding more wounds to those which you inflicted.
- 27 Charge them with crime after crime,
deny them further access to your righteousness, 28 blot them out of the book of life,
strike them off the roll of the virtuous!
- 29 For myself, wounded wretch that I am,
by your saving power, God, lift me up!
30 I will praise the name of God with a song,
I will extol him with my thanksgiving,
31 more pleasing to Yahweh than any ox
or bull with horn and hoof.
- 32 Then, seeing this, the humble can rejoice:
long life to your hearts, all you who seek for God!
33 Yahweh will always hear those who are in need,
will never scorn his captive people.
34 Let heaven and earth acclaim him,
the oceans and all that moves in them!
- 35 For God will save Zion,
and rebuild the towns of Judah:
they will be lived in, owned,
36 handed down to his servants' descendants,
and lived in by those who love his name.

An old man's prayer

In you, Yahweh, I take shelter; 1 never let me be disgraced.
In your righteousness rescue me, deliver me, 2
turn your ear to me and save me!
Be a sheltering rock for me, 3
a walled fortress to save me!
For you are my rock, my fortress.
My God, rescue me from the hands of the wicked, 4
from the clutches of rogue and tyrant!
For you alone are my hope, Lord, 5
Yahweh, I have trusted you since my youth,
I have relied on you since I was born, 6
you have been my portion from my mother's womb,
and the constant theme of my praise.
To many I have seemed an enigma, 7
but you are my firm refuge.
My mouth is full of your praises, 8
filled with your splendour all day long.
Do not reject me now I am old, 9
nor desert me now my strength is failing,
for my enemies are uttering threats, 10
spies hatching their conspiracy:
'Hound him down now that God has deserted him, 11
seize him, there is no one to rescue him!'
God, do not stand aside, 12
my God, come quickly and help me!
Shame and ruin on those 13
who attack me;
may insult and disgrace cover those
whose aim is to hurt me!
I promise that, ever hopeful, 14
I will praise you more and more,
my lips shall proclaim your righteousness 15
and power to save, all day long.
I will come in the power of Yahweh 16
to commemorate your righteousness, yours alone.
God, you taught me when I was young, 17
and I am still proclaiming your marvels.

18 Now that I am old and grey,
 God, do not desert me;
 let me live to tell the rising generation
 about your strength and power, 19 about your heavenly righteousness, God.
 You have done great things;
 who, God, is comparable to you?
 20 You have sent me misery and hardship,
 but you will give me life again,
 you will pull me up again from the depths of the earth,
 21 prolong my old age, and once more comfort me.
 22 I promise I will thank you on the lyre,
 my ever-faithful God,
 I will play the harp in your honour,
 Holy One of Israel.
 23 My lips shall sing for joy as I play to you,
 and this soul of mine which you have redeemed.
 24 And all day long, my tongue shall be talking of your righteousness.
 Shame and disgrace on those
 whose aim is to hurt me!

The promised king

Of Solomon

1 God, give your own justice to the king,
 your own righteousness to the royal son,
 2 so that he may rule your people rightly
 and your poor with justice.
 3 Let the mountains and hills
 bring a message of peace for the people.
 4 Uprightly he will defend the poorest,
 he will save the children of those in need,
 and crush their oppressors.
 5 Like sun and moon he will endure,
 age after age,
 6 welcome as rain that falls on the pasture,
 and showers to thirsty soil.
 7 In his days virtue will flourish,
 a universal peace till the moon is no more;
 8 his empire shall stretch from sea to sea,
 from the river to the ends of the earth.
 9 The Beast<sup>a</sup> will cower before him and his enemies grovel in the dust;
 10 the kings of Tarshish and of the islands
 will pay him tribute.

72 a. A word for a demon or a dangerous wild animal of the desert, used here for the heathen neighbouring nations.

The kings of Sheba and Seba will offer gifts; all kings will do him homage, all nations become his servants.	11
He will free the poor man who calls to him, and those who need help, he will have pity on the poor and feeble, and save the lives of those in need;	12 13
he will redeem their lives from exploitation and outrage, their lives will be precious in his sight.	14
(Long may he live, may gold from Sheba be given him!) Prayer will be offered for him constantly, blessings invoked on him all day long.	15
Grain everywhere in the country, even on the mountain tops, abundant as Lebanon its harvest, luxuriant as common grass!	16
Blessed be his name for ever, enduring as long as the sun! May every race in the world be blessed in him, and all the nations call him blessed!	17
Blessed be Yahweh, the God of Israel, who alone performs these marvels!	18
Blessed for ever be his g!orious name, may the whole world be filled with his glory! Amen. Amen!	19
End of the prayers of David, son of Jesse. <sup>b</sup>	20

The triumph of justicePsalm Of Asaph*

God is indeed good to Israel, the Lord is good to pure hearts.	1
My feet were on the point of stumbling, a little further and I should have slipped, envying the arrogant as I did, and watching the wicked get rich.	2 3
For them, no such thing as pain, their bodies are healthy and strong, they do not suffer as other men do, no human afflictions for them!	4 5
So pride is their chain of honour, violence the garment that covers them;	6

- 7 their spite oozes like fat,
their hearts drip with slyness.
- 8 Cynical advocates of evil,
lofty advocates of force,
9 they think their mouth is heaven
and their tongue can dictate on earth.
- 10 This is why my people turn to them
and lap up all they say, 11 asking, 'How will God find out?
Does the Most High know everything?
12 Look at them: these are the wicked,
well-off and still getting richer!'
- 13 After all, why should I keep my own heart pure,
and wash my hands in innocence, 14 if you plague me all day long and discipline me every morning?
- 15 Had I said, 'That talk appeals to me',
I should have betrayed your children's race.
16 Instead, I tried to analyse the problem,
hard though I found it—
- 17 until the day I pierced the mystery
and saw the end in store for them:
18 they are on a slippery slope, you put them there,
you urge them on to ruin,
- 19 until suddenly they fall,
done for, terrified to death.
20 When you wake up, Lord, you shrug them off like the phantoms of a morning dream.
- 21 When my heart had been growing sourer
with pains shooting through my loins, 22 I had simply failed to understand,
my stupid attitude to you was brutish.
- 23 Even so, I stayed in your presence,
you held my right hand;
24 now guide me with advice
and in the end receive me into glory.
- 25 I look to no one else in heaven,
I delight in nothing else on earth.
26 My flesh and my heart are pining with love,
my heart's Rock, my own, God for ever!
- 27 So then: those who abandon you are doomed,
you destroy the adulterous deserter;<sup>a</sup>
28 whereas my joy lies in being close to God.
I have taken shelter in the Lord,
continually to proclaim what you have done.

72 b. As this note indicates, the doxology (vv.18,19) ends the second book of the Psalter.

73 a. As in the prophets, the expression refers to religious unfaithfulness.

Lament on the destruction of the Temple

Poem Of Asaph

God, have you finally rejected us, 1 raging at the flock you used to pasture?
 Remember the people you long since made your own, 2
 your hereditary tribe whom you redeemed,
 and this Mount Zion where you came to live.
 Pick your steps over these endless ruins: 3
 the enemy have sacked everything in the sanctuary.
 They roared where your Assemblies used to take place, 4
 they stuck their enemy emblems over the entrance,<sup>a</sup> emblems we had never seen before. 5
 Axes deep in the wood, hacking at the panels, 6
 they battered them down with mallet and hatchet;
 then, God, setting fire to your sanctuary, 7
 they profanely razed the house of your name to the ground.
 Determined to destroy us once and for all, 8
 they burned down every shrine of God in the country.
 Deprived of signs, with no prophets left, 9
 who can say how long this will last?
 How much longer, God, is the oppressor to blaspheme, 10
 is the enemy to insult your name for ever?
 Why hold back your hand, 11
 why keep your right hand hidden?
 Yet, God, my king from the first, 12
 author of saving acts throughout the earth,
 by your power you split the sea in two, 13
 and smashed the heads of monsters on the waters.
 You crushed Leviathan's heads, 14
 leaving him for wild animals to eat,
 you opened the spring, the torrent, 15
 you dried up inexhaustible rivers.
 You are master of day and night, 16
 you instituted light and sun,
 you fixed the boundaries of the world, 17
 you created summer and winter.
 Now, Yahweh, remember the enemy's blasphemy, 18
 how frenzied people dare to insult your name.
 Do not betray your turtledove to the beast, 19
 do not forget your wretched people for good.
 Respect the covenant! We can bear no more— 20
 every cave in the country is the scene of violence!
 Do not let the hard-pressed retreat in confusion, 21
 give the poor and needy cause to praise your name.
 Rise, God, say something on your own behalf, 22
 do not forget the madman's day-long blaspheming,

23 remember the shouting of your enemies,
this ever-rising clamour of your adversaries.

To the divine judge

For the choirmaster Tune: 'Do not destroy' Psalm Of Asaph Song

1 We give thanks to you, God,
we give thanks as we invoke your name,
as we recount your marvels.

2 'At the moment I decide
I will dispense strict justice;
3 the earth shall quake and all its inhabitants,
it is I who poised its columns.

4 'I said to the boastful: Enough of boasting!
and to the wicked: How dare you raise your horn, 5 how dare you raise your horn like that,
how dare you speak so boldly!'

6 Not from the east, nor from the west,
not from the desert, nor from the mountains, 7 but from God the judgement comes,
lowering one, raising another.

8 Yahweh is holding a cup of frothing wine, heavily drugged;
he pours it out, they drain it to the dregs,
all drink of it, the wicked of the earth.

9 But I will never stop proclaiming the God of Jacob or playing in his honour;
10 I will cut off the horns of all the wicked
and raise the horns of the virtuous.

Ode to God the awe-inspiring<sup>a</sup>

For the choirmaster For strings Psalm Of Asaph

1 God is renowned in Judah,
his name is great in Israel;
2 his tent is pitched in Salem,
his home is in Zion;
3 there he has broken the lightning-swift arrow,
the shield, the sword and the line of battle. Pause

4 You the Illustrious and Majestic:
5 mountains of spoil have been captured;
heroes are now sleeping their last sleep,
the warriors' arms have failed them;

74 a. Probably a description of the destruction of the Temple by 'the mad king', Antiochus Epiphanes; if so, he is the 'madman' of v.22.

76 a. Apparently related to the defeat of Sennacherib, 2 K 19.

at your reproof, God of Jacob, chariot and horse stand spellbound.	6
You the Terrible! Who can oppose you and your furious onslaught?	7
When your verdicts thunder from heaven, earth stays silent with dread;	8
when God stands up to give judgement and to save all the humble of the earth.	9
	Pause
Man's wrath only adds to your glory; the survivors of your wrath you will draw like a girdle around you;	10

Meditation on Israel's past

For the choirmaster . . . Jeduthun Of Asaph Psalm

Loudly I cry to God, loudly to God who hears me.	1
When in trouble I sought the Lord, all night long I stretched out my hands, my soul refusing to be consoled.	2
I thought of God and sighed, I pondered and my spirit failed me.	3
You stopped me closing my eyes, I was too distraught to speak;	4
I thought of the olden days, years long past came back to me,	5
I spent all night meditating in my heart, I pondered and my spirit asked this question:	6
'If the Lord has rejected you, is this final? If he withholds his favour, is this for ever? Is his love over for good and the promise void for all time?	7
Has God forgotten to show mercy, or has his anger overcome his tenderness?	8
	Pause
'This' I said then 'is what distresses me: that the power of the Most High is no longer what it was.'	9
Remembering Yahweh's achievements, remembering your marvels in the past, I reflect on all that you did,	10
I ponder on all your achievements.	11
God, your ways are holy! What god so great as God?	12
You are the God who did marvellous things and forced nations to acknowledge your power, with your own arm redeeming your people,	13
the sons of Jacob and Joseph.	14
	Pause
	15

- 16 When the waters saw it was you, God,
when the waters saw it was you, they recoiled,
shuddering to their depths.
- 17 The clouds poured down water,
the sky thundered,
your arrows darted out.
- 18 Your thunder crashed as it rolled,
your lightning lit up the world,
the earth shuddered and quaked.
- 19 You strode across the sea,
you marched across the ocean,
but your steps could not be seen.
- 20 You guided your people like a flock
by the hands of Moses and Aaron.

The lessons of Israelite history

Psalm Of Asaph

- 1 Listen to this Law, my people,
pay attention to what I say;
- 2 I am going to speak to you in parable
and expound the mysteries of our past.
- 3 What we have heard and known for ourselves,
and what our ancestors have told us,
4 must not be withheld from their descendants,
but be handed on by us to the next generation;
- that is: the titles of Yahweh, his power
and the miracles he has done.
- 5 When he issued the decrees for Jacob and instituted a Law in Israel,
he gave our ancestors strict orders
to teach it to their children;
- 6 the next generation was to learn it,
the children still to be born,
and these in their turn were to tell their own children
7 so that they too would put their confidence in God, never forgetting God's achievements,
and always keeping his commandments,
8 and not becoming, like their ancestors,
a stubborn and unruly generation,
a generation with no sincerity of heart,
in spirit unfaithful to God.
- 9 The sons of Ephraim, who were bowmen,
turned tail when the time came to fight;
- 10 they had not kept God's covenant,
they refused to follow his Law;
- 11 they had forgotten his achievements,
the marvels he had shown them:

he had worked wonders for their ancestors in the plains of Zoan, down in Egypt:	12
dividing the sea, bringing them through, making the waters stand up like dikes,	13
leading them with a cloud by day and with a fiery glow at night,	14
splitting rocks in the wilderness, quenching their thirst with unlimited water, conjuring streams from the rock and bringing down water in torrents.	15
They only sinned against him more than ever, defying the Most High in the désert, deliberately challenging God	17
by demanding their favourite food.	18
They blasphemed against God, 'Is it likely' they said 'that God could give a banquet in the wilderness?	19
'Admittedly, when he struck the rock, waters gushed, torrents streamed out, but bread now, can he give us that, can he provide meat for his people?'	20
Yahweh was enraged when he heard them, a fire flared at Jacob, the wrath attacked Israel for having no faith in God, no trust in his power to save.	21
He gave orders to the skies above, he opened the doors of heaven, he rained down manna to feed them, he gave them the wheat of heaven;	23
men ate the bread of Immortals, he sent them more food than they could eat.	24
He stirred up an east wind in the heavens, he conjured up a south wind by his power, he rained down meat on them like dust;	25
birds as thick as sand on the seashore he sent tumbling into their camp, in all directions round their tents.	26
They all had enough and to spare, he having provided what they wanted; but they had hardly satisfied their craving, the food was still in their mouths,	27
when the wrath of God attacked them, slaughtering their strongest men and laying the flower of Israel low.	28
Despite all this they went on sinning, and put no faith in his marvels;	29
for which he blasted their days and their years in a flash.	30 31
	32
	33

- 34 Whenever he slaughtered them they sought him,
they came to their senses and sought him earnestly 35 remembering that God was their rock,
God the Most High, their redeemer.
- 36 But though they outwardly flattered him
and used their tongues to lie to him, 37 in their hearts they were not true to him,
they were unfaithful to his covenant.
- 38 Compassionately, however,
he forgave their guilt instead of killing them,
repeatedly repressing his anger
instead of rousing his full wrath, 39 remembering they were creatures of flesh,
a puff of wind that passes and does not return.
- 40 How often they defied him in the wilderness,
how often they outraged him in the desert, 41 repeatedly challenging God, provoking the Holy One of Israel—42 entirely oblivious of his hand and of the time he saved them from the oppressor:
- 43 by imposing his signs on Egypt,
by displaying his wonders in the plains of Zoan, 44 by turning their rivers into blood
to stop them drinking from their streams, 45 by sending horseflies to eat them
and frogs to devastate them, 46 by consigning their crops to the caterpillar
and their hard-won harvest to the locust, 47 by killing their vines with hail and their sycamore trees with frost, 48 by condemning their cattle to plague
and their flocks to feverish pests,
- 49 by unleashing his fierce anger, rage,
indignation and hardship on them,
a mission of angels of disaster,
50 by giving his anger free rein,
- by not even exempting them from death,
by condemning them to plague,
51 by striking down all the first-born in Egypt,
the first-fruits of their virility in the tents of Ham, 52 by driving his people out like sheep,
by leading them through the wilderness like a flock, 53 by guiding them safe and unafraid
while the sea engulfed their enemies,
- 54 by bringing them to his sacred frontier,
the highlands conquered by his own right hand, 55 by expelling the pagans in front of them
and by marking out a heritage for each,
in which the tribes of Israel could pitch their tents.
- 56 Even so, they went on challenging God the Most High,
rebelliously disregarding his decrees;

as perverse and disloyal as their ancestors, treacherous as a bow with a warp, provoking him with their high places and rousing his jealousy with their idols.	57 58
God was enraged when he heard them, he rejected Israel out of hand, he left his home in Shiloh, that tent where he once lived with men.	59 60
He consigned his power to captivity, his splendour <sup>a</sup> to the enemy's clutches; he condemned his own people to the sword, he raged at his heritage,	61 62
whose young men were then burnt to death— no brides left to hear the wedding song; whose priests fell by the sword— no widows left to raise the dirge.	63 64
Then, like a sleeper, like a hero fighting-mad with wine, the Lord woke up to strike his enemies on the rump and put them to everlasting shame.	65 66
Rejecting the tent of Joseph, not choosing the tribe of Ephraim, instead he chose the tribe of Judah and his well-loved mountain of Zion, where he built his sanctuary, a copy of high heaven, founding it firm as the earth for ever.	67 68 69
Choosing David as his servant, he took him from the sheepfolds, called him from tending ewes in lamb to pasture his people Jacob and Israel his heritage: who did this with unselfish care and led them with a sensitive hand.	70 71 72

National lament<sup>a</sup>Psalm Of Asaph

God, the pagans have invaded your heritage, they have desecrated your holy Temple; they have reduced Jerusalem to a pile of ruins, they have left the corpses of your servants to the birds of the air for food, and the flesh of your devout to the beasts of the earth.	1 2
They have shed blood like water throughout Jerusalem, not a gravedigger left! we are now insulted by our neighbours, butt and laughing-stock of all those around us.	3 4

- 5 How much longer will you be angry, Yahweh? For ever?
Is your jealousy to go on smouldering like a fire?
- 6 Pour out your anger on the pagans,
who do not acknowledge you,
and on those kingdoms
that do not call on your name, 7 for they have devoured Jacob and reduced his home to desolation.
- 8 Do not hold our ancestors' crimes against us,
in tenderness quickly intervene,
we can hardly be crushed lower;
9 help us, God our saviour,
for the honour of your name;
Yahweh, blot out our sins,
rescue us for the sake of your name.
- 10 Why should the pagans ask, 'Where is their God?'
May we soon see the pagans learning what vengeance
you exact for your servants' blood shed here!
11 May the groans of the captive reach you;
by your mighty arm rescue those doomed to die!
- 12 Pay our neighbours sevenfold, strike to the heart
for the monstrous insult proffered to you, Lord!
13 And we your people, the flock that you pasture,
giving you everlasting thanks,
will recite your praises for ever and ever.

Prayer for the restoration of Israel

For the choirmaster Tune: 'The decrees are lilies' Of Asaph Psalm

- 1 Shepherd of Israel, listen,
you who lead Joseph like a flock;
enthroned on the cherubs, shine
2 on Ephraim, Benjamin and Manasseh;"
rouse your strength,
come to us and save us!
- 3 Yahweh Sabaoth, bring us back,
let your face smile on us and we shall be safe.
- 4 Yahweh Sabaoth, how much longer
will you smoulder at your people's prayer?
5 Having fed us on the bread of tears,
having made us drink them in such measure, 6 you now let our neighbours quarrel over us
and our enemies deride us.

78 a. I.e., the ark of the covenant, 2 Ch 6:41.

79 a. Possibly relating to the capture of Jerusalem by the Chaldeans in 587.

80 a. The principal tribes of the North.

Yahweh Sabaoth, bring us back, let your face smile on us and we shall be safe.	7
There was a vine: you uprooted it from Egypt; to plant it, you drove out other nations, you cleared a space where it could grow, it took root and filled the whole country.	8 9
It covered the mountains with its shade, the cedars of God with its branches, its tendrils extended to the sea, its offshoots all the way to the river. <sup>b</sup>	10 11
Why have you destroyed its fences? Now anyone can go and steal its grapes, the forest boar can ravage it and wild animals eat it.	12 13
Please, Yahweh Sabaoth, relent! Look down from heaven, look at this vine, visit it, •protect what your own right hand has planted. They threw it on the fire like dung, but one look of reproof from you and they will be doomed.	14 15 16
May your hand protect the man at your right, the son of man who has been authorised by you. We shall never turn from you again; our life renewed, we shall invoke your name.	17 18
Yahweh Sabaoth, bring us back, let your face smile on us and we shall be safe.	19

For the feast of Tabernacles<sup>a</sup>For the choirmaster On the . . . of Gath Of Asaph

Shout for joy to honour God our strength, shout to acclaim the God of Jacob!	1
Start the music, sound the drum, the melodious lyre and the harp; sound the New Moon trumpet, at the full moon, on our feastday!	2 3
This is a statute binding on Israel, an ordinance of the God of Jacob, this decree he imposed on Joseph when he went to war against Egypt.	4 5
I can hear a voice I no longer recognise, 'It was I who relieved your shoulder of the burden, your hands could drop the labourer's basket; you called in your trouble, so I rescued you.	6 7

'Hidden in the storm, I answered you,
I tested you at the waters of Meribah.
Listen, you are my people, let me warn you.
Israel, if you would only listen to me!

Pause

'Tolerate no foreign god,
worship no alien god;
I, Yahweh, am your God,
I who brought you here from Egypt;
you have only to open your mouth for me to fill it.

'My people refused to listen to me,
Israel refused to obey me,
so I left them to their stubborn selves
to do whatever they pleased.

'If only my people would listen,
if Israel would follow my ways,
at one blow I would defeat their enemies
and strike at all who attack them.

'Then those who hate Yahweh would cringe,
their doom being sealed for ever;
while I would feed you on pure wheat and satisfy you with the wild rock honey.'

Against corrupt judges

Psalm Of Asaph

God stands in the divine assembly,
among the gods he dispenses justice:

'No more mockery of justice,
no more favouring the wicked!
Let the weak and the orphan have justice,
be fair to the wretched and destitute;
rescue the weak and needy,
save them from the clutches of the wicked!'

Pause

Ignorant and senseless, they carry on blindly, undermining the very basis of earthly society.
I once said, 'You too are gods,
sons of the Most High, all of you',
but all the same, you shall die like other men;
as one man, princes, you shall fall.

Rise, God, dispense justice throughout the world,
since no nation is excluded from your ownership.

Against the enemies of Israel

Song Psalm Of Asaph

God, do not remain silent;	1
do not be unmoved, O God, or unresponsive!
See how your enemies are stirring,	2
see how those who hate you rear their heads.
Weaving a plot against your people,	3
conspiring against those you protect, •they say,	4
'Come, we will finish them as a nation,
the name of Israel shall be forgotten!'
Unanimous in their plot,	5
they seal a treaty against you:
the tents of Edom and the Ishmaelites,	6
Moab and the Hagrites,
Gebal, Ammon, Amalek,	7
Philistia and the Tyrians;
and now Assur <sup>a</sup> has joined them	8
to reinforce the sons of Lot.	Pause
Treat them like Midian and Sisera,	9
like Jabin at the river Kishon,
wiped out at En-dor,	10
they served to dung the ground.
Treat their generals like Oreb and Zeeb,	11
their commanders like Zebah and Zalmunna,
those who once said, 'Let us take for ourselves	12
possession of the Dwellings of God!'
My God, bowl them along like tumbleweed,	13
like chaff at the mercy of the wind;
as fire devours the forest,	14
as the flame licks up the mountains,
drive them on with your whirlwind,	15
rout them with your tornado;
cover their faces with shame,	16
until they seek your name, Yahweh.
Shame and panic be always theirs,	17
disgrace and death; •and let them know this:
you alone bear the name Yahweh,	18
Most High over the whole world.

For the choirmaster On the . . . of Gath Of the sons of Korah Psalm

- 1 How I love your palace,
Yahweh Sabaoth!
- 2 How my soul yearns and pines
for Yahweh's courts!
My heart and my flesh sing for joy
to the living God.
- 3 The sparrow has found its home at last,
the swallow a nest for its young,
your altars, Yahweh Sabaoth,
my king and my God.
- 4 Happy those who live in your house
and can praise you all day long; Pause
5 and happy the pilgrims inspired by you with courage to make the Ascents!
- 6 As they go through the Valley of the Weeper,<sup>d</sup>
they make it a place of springs,
clothed in blessings by early rains.
7 Thence they make their way from height to height,
soon to be seen before God on Zion.
- 8 Yahweh Sabaoth, hear my prayer,
listen, God of Jacob; Pause
9 God our shield, now look on us and be kind to your anointed.
- 10 A single day in your courts
is worth more than a thousand elsewhere;
merely to stand on the steps of God's<sup>b</sup> house
is better than living with the wicked.
- 11 For God is battlement and shield,
conferring grace and glory;
Yahweh withholds nothing good
from those who walk without blame.
- 12 Yahweh Sabaoth,
happy the man who puts his trust in you!

Prayer for peace

For the choirmaster Of the sons of Korah Psalm

- 1 Yahweh, you favour your own country,
you bring back the captives of Jacob,
2 you take your people's guilt away,

83 a. The names are those of ten traditional enemies of Israel. Three of them are not immediately familiar from the historical books: 'Hagrites', the sons of Hagar, are Transjordanian nomads; 'Geba' is Gabalene in Idumaea; 'Assur' may be either Assyria or the Asshurite tribe.

84 a. The balsam tree; this valley was the last stage of the pilgrimage to Jerusalem. b. The 'sons of Korah' (see inscription) were the order of gatekeepers at the Temple.

you blot out all their sins, you retract all your anger, you abjure your fiery rage.	Pause	3
Bring us back, God our saviour, master your resentment against us.		4
Do you mean to be angry with us for ever, to prolong your wrath age after age?		5
Will you not give us life again, for your people to rejoice in you?		6
Yahweh, show us your love, grant us your saving help.		7
I am listening. What is Yahweh saying? What God is saying means peace for his people, for his friends, if only they renounce their folly;		8
for those who fear him, his saving help is near, and the glory will then live in our country.		9
Love and Loyalty now meet, Righteousness and Peace now embrace; Loyalty reaches up from earth and Righteousness leans down from heaven.		10
Yahweh himself bestows happiness as our soil gives its harvest, Righteousness always preceding him and Peace following his footsteps.		11

Prayer in ordeal

Prayer Of David

Listen to me, Yahweh, and answer me, poor and needy as I am;		1
keep my soul: I am your devoted one, save your servant who relies on you.		2
You are my God, •take pity on me, Lord, I invoke you all day long;		3
give your servant reason to rejoice, for to you, Lord, I lift my soul.		4
Lord, you are good and forgiving, most loving to all who invoke you;		5
Yahweh, hear my prayer, listen to me as I plead.		6
Lord, in trouble I invoke you, and you answer my prayer;		7
there is no god to compare with you, no achievement to compare with yours.		8
All the pagans will come and adore you, Lord, all will glorify your name, since you alone are great, you perform marvels, you God, you alone.		9

- 11 Yahweh, teach me your way,
how to walk beside you faithfully,
make me single-hearted in fearing your name.
- 12 I thank you with all my heart, Lord my God,
I glorify your name for ever,
13 your love for me has been so great,
you have rescued me from the depths of Sheol.
- 14 Now arrogant men, God, are attacking me,
a brutal gang hounding me to death:
people to whom you mean nothing.
- 15 Lord God, you who are always merciful and tender-hearted, slow to anger, always loving, always loyal,
16 turn to me and pity me.
- Give me your strength, your saving help,
me your servant, this son of a pious mother, 17 give me one proof of your goodness.
- Yahweh, make my opponents ashamed,
show them that you are my help and consolation.

Zion, mother of nations

Of the sons of Korah Psalm Song

- 2a
1 Yahweh loves •his city
founded on the holy mountain;
2b he prefers the gates of Zion
2c to any town in Jacob.
- 3 He has glorious predictions to make of you,
city of God! Pause
- 4 'I will add Egypt and Babylon
to the nations that acknowledge me.
Of Philistia, Tyre, Ethiopia,
"Here so and so was born" men say.
- 5 But all call Zion "Mother", since all were born in her.'
- 6 It is he who makes her what she is,
he, the Most High, •Yahweh;
and as he registers the peoples,
'It was here' he writes 'that so and so was born'. Pause
- 7 And there will be princes dancing there.<sup>a</sup>
All find their home in you.

Lament

Song Psalm Of the sons of Korah For the choirmaster In sickness or suffering Poem For Heman the native-born

- 1 Yahweh my God, I call for help all day,

87 a. In the ceremonial celebrations in the Temple.

I weep to you all night;
 may my prayer reach you hear my cries for help; 2

for my soul is all troubled,
 my life is on the brink of Sheol; 3
 I am numbered among those who go down to the Pit,
 a man bereft of strength; 4

a man alone, down among the dead,
 among the slaughtered in their graves,
 among those you have forgotten,
 those deprived of your protecting hand. 5

You have plunged me to the bottom of the Pit,
 to its darkest, deepest place,
 weighted down by your anger,
 drowned beneath your waves. 6
Pause 7

You have turned my friends against me
 and made me repulsive to them;
 in prison and unable to escape,
 my eyes are worn out with suffering. 8

Yahweh, I invoke you all day,
 I stretch out my hands to you:
 are your marvels meant for the dead,
 can ghosts rise up to praise you? 9
Pause 10

Who talks of your love in the grave,
 of your faithfulness in the place of perdition?
 Do they hear about your marvels in the dark,
 about your righteousness in the land of oblivion? 11 12

But I am here, calling for your help,
 praying to you every morning:
 why do you reject me? 13
 Why do you hide your face from me? 14

Wretched, slowly dying since my youth,
 I bore your terrors—now I am exhausted;
 your anger overwhelmed me,
 you destroyed me with your terrors
 which, like a flood, were round me, all day long,
 all together closing in on me. 15 16
 17
 You have turned my friends and neighbours against me,
 now darkness is my one companion left. 18

Hymn and a prayer to God's faithfulness

Poem For Ethan the native-born

I will celebrate your love for ever, Yahweh, age after age my words shall proclaim your faithfulness; 1
 for I claim that love is built to last for ever 2
 and your faithfulness founded firmly in the heavens.

3 'I have made a covenant with my Chosen,
I have given my servant David my sworn word:
4 I have founded your dynasty to last for ever,
I have built you a throne to outlast all time.'

Pause

5 Yahweh, the assembly of holy ones in heaven applaud the marvel of your faithfulness.
6 Who in the skies can compare with Yahweh?
Which of the heaven-born can rival him?

7 God, dreaded in the assembly of holy ones,
great and terrible to all around him,
8 Yahweh, God of Sabaoth, who is like you?—
mighty Yahweh, clothed in your faithfulness!

9 You control the pride of the ocean,
when its waves ride high, you calm them;
10 you split Rahab<sup>a</sup> in two like a carcass
and scattered your enemies with your mighty arm.

11 The heavens are yours and the earth is yours,
you founded the world and all it holds,
12 you created north and south;
Tabor and Hermon hail your name with joy.

13 Yours was the arm, and yours the prowess,
mighty and exalted your right hand;
14 Righteousness and Justice support your throne,
Love and Faithfulness are your attendants.

15 Happy the people who learn to acclaim you!
Yahweh, they will live in the light of your favour;
16 they will rejoice in your name all day
and exult in your righteousness.

17 You are their glory and their strength,
you, by your kindness, raise our fortunes, 18 since both our shield and our king belong to Yahweh, the Holy One of Israel.

19 Once you spoke in vision and said to your friends,<sup>b</sup>
'I have conferred the crown on a hero,
and promoted one chosen from my people.

20 'I have selected my servant David and anointed him with my holy oil; 21 my hand will be constantly with him,
he will be able to rely on my arm.

22 'No enemy will be able to outwit him,
no wicked man to worst him,
23 I myself will crush his opponents,
I will strike dead all who hate him.

24 'With my faithfulness and love,
his fortunes shall rise in my name.
25 I will give him control of the sea,
complete control of the rivers.

89 a. A demon or monster personifying water, the element of chaos; sometimes used for Egypt.
b. Samuel and Nathan.

'He will invoke me, "My father,
my God and rock of my safety",
and I shall make him my first-born,
the Most High for kings on earth.

'I will keep my love for him always,
my covenant with him shall stand,
I have founded his dynasty to last for ever,
his throne to be as lasting as the heavens.

'Should his descendants desert my Law
and disregard my rulings,
should they violate my statutes
and not keep my commandments,

'I will punish their sins with the rod and their crimes with the whip,
but never withdraw my love from him
or fail in my faithfulness.

'I will not break my covenant,
I will not revoke my given word;
I have sworn on my holiness, once for all,
and cannot turn liar to David.

'His dynasty shall last for ever,
I see his throne like the sun, enduring for ever like the moon,
that faithful witness in the sky.'

Pause

And yet you have rejected, disowned
and raged at your anointed;
you have repudiated the covenant with your servant
and flung his crown dishonoured to the ground.

You have pierced all his defences,
and laid his forts in ruins;
anyone may go and loot him,
his neighbours treat him with scorn.

You have let his opponents get the upper hand,
and made all his enemies happy,
you have snapped his sword on a rock
and failed to support him in battle.

You have stripped him of his glorious sceptre,
and toppled his throne to the ground,
you have aged him before his time
and covered him in shame.

Pause

Yahweh, how much longer will you hide? For ever?
How much longer must your anger smoulder like a fire?
Remember me, the short time I have left
and the void to which you destine mankind.
What man can cling to life and not see death?
Who can evade the clutches of Sheol?

Pause

Lord, where are those earlier signs of your love?
You swore your oath to David on your faithfulness!
Lord, do not forget how your servant was insulted,
how I take these pagans' taunts to heart,

51 insults, Yahweh, that your enemies have offered,
 insults to your anointed wherever he goes.
 Blessed be Yahweh for ever.
 Amen. Amen!c

The human condition

Prayer Of Moses, man of God

1 Lord, you have been our refuge. age after age.

2 Before the mountains were born,
 before the earth or the world came to birth,
 you were God from all eternity and for ever.

3 You can turn man back into dust
 by saying, 'Back to what you were, you sons of men!'
 4 To you, a thousand years are a single day,
 a yesterday now over, an hour of the night.

5 You brush men away like waking dreams,
 they are like grass
 6 sprouting and flowering in the morning, withered and dry before dusk.

7 We too are burnt up by your anger
 and terrified by your fury;
 8 having summoned up our sins
 you inspect our secrets by your own light.

9 Our days dwindle under your wrath,
 our lives are over in a breath 10 —our life lasts for seventy years,
 eighty with good health,
 but they all add up to anxiety and trouble—
 over in a trice, and then we are gone.

11 Who yet has felt the full force of your fury,
 or learnt to fear the violence of your rage?

12 Teach us to count how few days we have
 and so gain wisdom of heart.
 13 Relent, Yahweh! How much longer do we have?
 Take pity on your servants!

14 Let us wake in the morning filled with your love
 and sing and be happy all our days;
 15 make our future as happy as our past was sad,
 those years when you were punishing us.

16 Let your servants see what you can do for them,
 let their children see your glory.
 17 May the sweetness of the Lord be on us!
 Make all we do succeed.

God's protection

If you live in the shelter of Elyon <sup>a</sup>	1
and make your home in the shadow of Shaddai,
you can say to Yahweh, 'My refuge, my fortress,	2
my God in whom I trust!'
He rescues you from the snares	3
of fowlers hoping to destroy you;
he covers you with his feathers,	4a
and you find shelter underneath his wings.	4b
You need not fear the terrors of night,	5
the arrow that flies in the daytime,
the plague that stalks in the dark,	6
the scourge that wreaks havoc in broad daylight.
Though a thousand fall at your side,	7
ten thousand at your right hand,
you yourself will remain unscathed,
with his faithfulness for shield and buckler.	4c
You have only to look around	8
to see how the wicked are repaid,
you who can say, 'Yahweh my refuge',	9
and make Elyon your fortress.
No disaster can overtake you,	10
no plague come near your tent:
he will put you in his angels' charge	11
to guard you wherever you go.
They will support you on their hands	12
in case you hurt your foot against a stone;
you will tread on lion and adder,	13
trample on savage lions and dragons.
'I rescue all who cling to me,	14
I protect whoever knows my name,
I answer everyone who invokes me,	15
I am with them when they are in trouble;
I bring them safety and honour.
I give them life, long and full,	16 <sup>e</sup>
and show them how I can save.'

The virtuous man rejoicesPsalm Song For the sabbath.*

It is good to give thanks to Yahweh,	1 <sup>i</sup>
to play in honour of your name, Most High,
to proclaim your love at daybreak	2 <sup>i</sup>
and your faithfulness all through the night

- 3 to the music of the zither and lyre,
to the rippling of the harp.
- 4 I am happy, Yahweh, at what you have done;
at your achievements I joyfully exclaim,
5 'Great are your achievements, Yahweh, immensely deep your thoughts!'
6 Stupid men are not aware of this,
fools can never appreciate it.
- 7 The wicked may sprout as thick as weeds
and every evil-doer flourish,
but only to be everlastingly destroyed,
8 whereas you are supreme for ever.
9 See how your enemies perish,
how all evil men are routed.
- 10 You raise my horn as if I were a wild ox,
you pour fresh oil on my head;
11 I was able to see those who were spying on me,
to overhear what the wicked were whispering, 12 so the virtuous flourish like palm trees
and grow as tall as the cedars of Lebanon.
- 13 Planted in the house of Yahweh,
they will flourish in the courts of our God, 14 still bearing fruit in old age,
still remaining fresh and green, 15 to proclaim that Yahweh is righteous,
my rock in whom no fault is to be found!

PSALM 93

V 92

The majesty of God

- 1 Yahweh is king, robed in majesty, Yahweh is robed in power,
he wears it like a belt.
- You have made the world firm, unshakeable;
2 your throne has stood since then,
you existed from the first, Yahweh.
- 3 Yahweh, the rivers raise,
the rivers raise their voices,
the rivers raise their thunders;
- 4 greater than the voice of ocean,
transcending the waves of the sea,
Yahweh reigns transcendent in the heights.
- 5 Your decrees will never alter;
holiness will distinguish your house,
Yahweh, for ever and ever.

91 a. Four names for God are used in this strophe: Elyon, Shaddai, Yahweh and Elohim. They can be rendered, the Most High, the God of heaven, the Lord, God.

V 93

The justice of God

Yahweh, God of revenge,	1
God of revenge, appear!
Rise, judge of the world,	2
give the proud their deserts!
Yahweh, how much longer are the wicked,	3
how much longer are the wicked to triumph?
Are these evil men to remain unsilenced,	4
boasting and asserting themselves?
Yahweh, they crush your people,	5
they oppress your hereditary people,
murdering and massacring	6
widows, orphans and guests.
'Yahweh sees nothing,' they say	7
'the God of Jacob takes no notice.'
You most stupid of men, you fools,	8
think this over and learn some sense.
Is the inventor of the ear unable to hear?	9
The creator of the eye unable to see?
The punisher of the pagans unable to punish?	10
Yahweh the teacher of mankind
knows exactly how men think,	11
how their thoughts are a puff of wind.
Yahweh, happy the man whom you instruct,	12
the man whom you teach through your law;
his mind is at peace though times are bad,	13
while a pit is being dug for the wicked.
For Yahweh has not abandoned	14
or deserted his hereditary people;
for verdict will return to righteousness again,	15
and, in its wake, all upright hearts.
No one ever stood up for me against the wicked,	16
not a soul took a stand to save me from evil men;
without Yahweh's help, I should, long ago,	17
have gone to the Home of Silence.
I need only say, 'I am slipping',	18
and your love, Yahweh, immediately supports me;
and in the middle of all my troubles	19
you console me and make me happy.
You never consent to that corrupt tribunal	20
that imposes disorder as law,
that takes the life of the virtuous	21
and condemns the innocent to death.
No! Yahweh is still my citadel,	22
my God is a rock where I take shelter;
he will pay them back for all their sins,	23
he will silence their wickedness,
Yahweh our God will silence them.

PSALM 95

V 94

Yahweh, rock of refuge

- 1           Come, let us praise Yahweh joyfully, 2           acclaiming the Rock of our safety;
           let us come into his presence with thanksgiving,
           acclaiming him with music.
- 3           For Yahweh is a great God,
 4           a greater King than all other gods;
           from depths of earth to mountain top everything comes under his rule;
 5           the sea belongs to him, he made it,
           so does the land, he shaped this too.
- 6           Come in, let us bow, prostrate ourselves,
 7           and kneel in front of Yahweh our maker,
           for this is our God,
           and we are the people he pastures,
           the flock that he guides.
- 8           If only you would listen to him today,
           'Do not harden your hearts as at Meribah, 9           as you did that day at Massah in the wilderness,' when your ancestors challenged me, tested me,
           although they had seen what I could do.
- 10          'For forty years that generation repelled me, until I said: How unreliable these people who refuse to grasp my ways!
 11          And so, in anger, I swore that not one would reach the place of rest I had for them.'

PSALM 96

V 95

Yahweh, king and judge

- 1           Sing Yahweh a new song!
           Sing to Yahweh, all the earth!
 2           Sing to Yahweh, bless his name.
- Proclaim his salvation day after day,
 3           tell of his glory among the nations,
           tell his marvels to every people.
- 4           Yahweh is great, loud must be his praise,
           he is to be feared beyond all gods.
 5           Nothingness, all the gods of the nations.
- 6           Yahweh himself made the heavens,
           in his presence are splendour and majesty,
           in his sanctuary power and beauty.
- 7           Pay tribute to Yahweh, families of the peoples,
           tribute to Yahweh of glory and power,
 8           tribute to Yahweh of his name's due glory.

95 a. 'The place was named Massah and Meribah', Ex 17:7. The names mean 'Temptation' and 'Dispute'.

Bring out the offering, bear it before him, worship Yahweh in his sacred court, tremble before him, all the earth!	9
Say among the nations, 'Yahweh is king!' Firm has he made the world, and unshakeable; he will judge each nation with strict justice.	10
Let the heavens be glad, let earth rejoice, let the sea thunder and all that it holds, let the fields exult and all that is in them, let all the woodland trees cry out for joy,	11 12
at the presence of Yahweh, for he comes, he comes to judge the earth, to judge the world with justice and the nations with his truth.	13

The triumph of Yahweh

Yahweh is king! Let earth rejoice, the many isles be glad!	1
Cloud and Darkness surround him, Righteousness and Justice support his throne.	2
A fire precedes him as he goes, devouring all enemies around him;	3
his lightning lights up the world, earth observes and quakes.	4
The mountains melt like wax at the coming of the Master of the world;	5
the heavens proclaim his righteousness, all nations see his glory.	6
Shame on those who worship images, who take pride in their idols: bow down as he passes, all you gods!	7
Zion hears and rejoices, the daughters of Judah exult at the rulings you utter, Yahweh.	8
For you are Yahweh Most High over the world, far transcending all other gods.	9
Yahweh loves those who repudiate evil, he guards the souls of the devout, rescuing them from the clutches of the wicked.	10
Light dawns for the virtuous, and joy, for upright hearts.	11
Rejoice in Yahweh, you virtuous, remember his holiness, and praise him!	12

The judge of the world<sup>a</sup>Psalms*

- 1 Sing Yahweh a new song
for he has performed marvels,
his own right hand, his holy arm,
gives him the power to save.
- 2 Yahweh has displayed his power;
has revealed his righteousness to the nations, 3 mindful of his love and faithfulness
to the House of Israel.
- The most distant parts of the earth have seen
the saving power of our God.
- 4 Acclaim Yahweh, all the earth,
burst into shouts of joy!
- 5 Sing to Yahweh, sing to the music of harps,
and to the sound of many instruments;

acclaim Yahweh the King!
- 7 Let the sea thunder and all that it holds,

God, righteous and holy king

- 1 Yahweh is king, the nations tremble;
he is enthroned on the cherubs, earth quakes;
2 Yahweh is great in Zion.
- He is high over all nations;
3 may they praise your great and terrible name,
4 'Holy is he, and mighty!'
- You are a king who loves justice,
insisting on honesty, justice, virtue,
as you have done for Jacob.
- 5 Let us extol Yahweh our God,
and worship at his footstool,
'Holy is he!'

98 a. Almost a doublet of Ps 96 and, like that psalm, owing much to the closing chapters of Is.

Moses, Aaron one of his priests, and Samuel his votary, all invoked Yahweh: and he answered them.	6
He talked with them in the pillar of cloud; they obeyed his decrees, the Law he gave them.	7
Yahweh our God, you responded to them, a God of forgiveness for them, in spite of punishing their sins.	8
Extol Yahweh our God, worship at his holy mountain, 'Holy is Yahweh our God!'	9

The ideal ruler

Of David Psalm

My song is about kindness and justice; Yahweh, I sing it to you.	1
I mean to make good progress, as the blameless do: when will you come to me?	2
In my household, I will advance in purity of heart; I will not let my eyes rest on any misconduct.	3
I hate the practices of the apostate, they have no appeal for me; perverted hearts must keep their distance, the wicked I disregard.	4
The man who secretly slanders his neighbour I reduce to silence;	5

haughty looks, proud heart,
I cannot tolerate these.

6 I look to my religious countrymen
to compose my household;
only the man who makes progress, as the blameless do,
can be my servant.

7 There is no room in my house
for any hypocrite;
no liar keeps his post
where I can see him.

8 Morning after morning<sup>a</sup> I reduce to silence
all who are wicked in this country, banishing from the city of Yahweh
all evil men.

Prayer in misfortune

Prayer of the downtrodden telling Yahweh their troubles at a moment of distress

1 Yahweh, hear my prayer,
let my cry for help reach you;
2 do not hide your face from me
when I am in trouble;
bend down to listen to me,
when I call, be quick to answer me!

3 For my days are vanishing like smoke,
my bones smouldering like logs,
4 my heart shrivelling like scorched grass
and my appetite has gone;
5 whenever I heave a sigh,
my bones stick through my skin.

6 I live in a desert like the pelican,
in a ruin like the screech owl,
7 I stay awake, lamenting
like a lone bird on the roof;
8 my enemies insult me all day long,
those who used to praise me now use me as a curse.

9 Ashes are the bread I eat,
what I drink I lace with tears,
10 under your furious anger,
since you only picked me up to throw me down;
11 my days dwindle away like a shadow,
I am as dry as hay.

12 Whereas, Yahweh, you remain for ever;
each generation in turn remembers you!

13 Rise, take pity on Zion!—
the time has come to have mercy on her,
the hour has come;

101 a. Morning is the time for administering justice.

for your servants prize her stones
and are moved to pity by her dust. 14

Then will the nations fear the name of Yahweh and all kings on earth respect your glory; 15
when Yahweh builds Zion anew,
he will be seen in his glory; 16
he will answer the prayer of the abandoned,
he will not scorn their petitions. 17

Put this on record for the next generation,
so that a race still to be born can praise God:
Yahweh has leaned down from the heights of his sanctuary,
has looked down at earth from heaven,
to hear the sighing of the captive,
and to set free those doomed to die. 18 19 20

Your servants' sons will have a permanent home,
and their descendants be in your presence always,
to proclaim the name of Yahweh in Zion,
his praise in Jerusalem; 28 21 nations and kingdoms will be united and offer worship to Yahweh together. 22

My strength has already run out;
tell me how much longer I have left. 23a 24a
23b
Do not take me prematurely,
when your own life lasts for ever. 24b

Aeons ago, you laid earth's foundations,
the heavens are the work of your hands;
all will vanish, though you remain,
all wear out like a garment,
like clothes that need changing you will change them;
but yourself, you never change, and your years are unending. 25 26

God is love

Of David

Bless Yahweh, my soul,
bless his holy name, all that is in me! 1
Bless Yahweh, my soul,
and remember all his kindnesses: 2

in forgiving all your offences,
in curing all your diseases,
in redeeming your life from the Pit, 3 4
in crowning you with love and tenderness,
in filling your years with prosperity, 5
in renewing your youth like an eagle's.<sup>a</sup>

Yahweh, who does what is right,
is always on the side of the oppressed;
he revealed his intentions to Moses,
his prowess to the sons of Israel. 6 7

- 8 Yahweh is tender and compassionate,
slow to anger, most loving;
- 9 his indignation does not last for ever,
his resentment exists a short time only;
- 10 he never treats us, never punishes us,
as our guilt and our sins deserve.
- 11 No less than the height of heaven over earth is the greatness of his love for those who fear him;
- 12 he takes our sins farther away
than the east is from the west.
- 13 As tenderly as a father treats his children,
so Yahweh treats those who fear him;
- 14 he knows what we are made of,
he remembers we are dust.
- 15 Man lasts no longer than grass,
no longer than a wild flower he lives, 16 one gust of wind, and he is gone,
never to be seen there again;
- 17 yet Yahweh's love for those who fear him
lasts from all eternity and for ever,
like his goodness to their children's children, 18 as long as they keep his covenant
and remember to obey his precepts.
- 19 Yahweh has fixed his throne in the heavens,
his empire is over all.
- 20 Bless Yahweh, all his angels, heroes mighty to enforce his word,
attentive to his word of command.
- 21 Bless Yahweh, all his armies, servants to enforce his will.
- 22 Bless Yahweh, all his creatures
in every part of his empire!
- Bless Yahweh, my soul.

The glories of creation

- 1 Bless Yahweh, my soul.
Yahweh my God, how great you are!
Clothed in majesty and glory,
2 wrapped in a robe of light!
- 3 You stretch the heavens out like a tent,
you build your palace on the waters above;
using the clouds as your chariot,
4 you advance on the wings of the wind;
you use the winds as messengers
and fiery flames as servants.

103 a. i.e., like an eagle recovering strength and vigour after moulting.

You fixed the earth on its foundations, unshakeable for ever and ever;	5
you wrapped it with the deep as with a robe, the waters overtopping the mountains.	6
At your reproof the waters took to flight, they fled at the sound of your thunder, cascading over the mountains, into the valleys, down to the reservoir you made for them;	7
you imposed the limits they must never cross again, or they would once more flood the land.	8
You set springs gushing in ravines, running down between the mountains, supplying water for wild animals, attracting the thirsty wild donkeys;	10
near there the birds of the air make their nests and sing among the branches.	11
From your palace you water the uplands until the ground has had all that your heavens have to offer;	13
you make fresh grass grow for cattle and those plants made use of by man, for them to get food from the soil: wine to make them cheerful, oil to make them happy and bread to make them strong.	14
The trees of Yahweh get rain enough, those cedars of Lebanon he planted;	15
here the little birds build their nest and, on the highest branches, the stork has its home.	16
For the wild goats there are the mountains, in the crags rock-badgers hide.	17
You made the moon to tell the seasons, the sun knows when to set:	18
you bring darkness on, night falls, all the forest animals come out: savage lions roaring for their prey, claiming their food from God.	19
The sun rises, they retire, going back to lie down in their lairs, and man goes out to work, and to labour until dusk.	20
Yahweh, what variety you have created, arranging everything so wisely!	21
Earth is completely full of things you have made:	22
among them vast expanse of ocean, teeming with countless creatures, creatures large and small, with the ships going to and fro and Leviathan whom you made to amuse you.	23
All creatures depend on you to feed them throughout the year;	24
you provide the food they eat, with generous hand you satisfy their hunger.	25 26
	27
	28

29 You turn your face away, they suffer,
 you stop their breath, they die
 and revert to dust.

30 You give breath, fresh life begins,
 you keep renewing the world.

31 Glory for ever to Yahweh!
 May Yahweh find joy in what he creates,
 at whose glance the earth trembles,
 at whose touch the mountains smoke!

33 I mean to sing to Yahweh all my life,
 I mean to play for my God as long as I live.
 34 May these reflections of mine give him pleasure,
 as much as Yahweh gives me!
 35 May sinners vanish from the earth and the wicked exist no more!

Bless Yahweh, my soul.

The wonderful history of Israel

Alleluia!

1 Give thanks to Yahweh, call his name aloud,
 proclaim his deeds to the peoples!

2 Sing to him, play to him,
 tell over all his marvels!

3 Glory in his holy name,
 let the hearts that seek Yahweh rejoice!

4 Seek Yahweh and his strength,
 seek his face untiringly;
 5 remember the marvels he has done,
 his wonders, the judgements from his mouth.

6 Stock of Abraham his servant,
 sons of Jacob his chosen one!
 7 He is Yahweh our God,
 his authority is over all the earth.

8 Remember his covenant for ever,
 his word of command for a thousand generations,
 9 the pact he made with Abraham,
 his oath to Isaac.

10 He established it as a statute for Jacob,
 an everlasting covenant for Israel.
 11 'I give you a land,' he said
 'Canaan, your allotted heritage.

12 'There where you were easily counted,
 few in number, strangers to the country.'
 13 They went from nation to nation,
 from one kingdom to another people;

14 he let no man oppress them,
 he punished kings on their behalf.

'Do not touch my anointed ones,' he said 'do not harm my prophets!'	15
Next, he called down famine on the country, he broke their staff, that is, their bread; he sent a man ahead of them, Joseph, sold as a slave.	16 17
They tortured his feet with fetters, they put his neck in irons; time passed, Joseph's oracle came true, Yahweh's word proved him right.	18 19
The king gave orders to release him, that master of nations set him free, putting him in charge of his household, in control of all he possessed,	20 21
to train his officials as he thought fit and convert his elders into sages. Israel then migrated to Egypt, Jacob settled in the land of Ham.	22 23
He made his people fertile and more vigorous than their oppressors, whose hearts he then disposed to hatred of his people and double-dealing with his servants.	24 25
He sent his servant Moses, and Aaron, the man of his choice; there they displayed his signs, his wonders in the land of Ham.	26 27
He sent darkness, darkness fell, but still they defied his word. He turned their rivers into blood, thus killing all their fish.	28 29
Their country was overrun with frogs even in the royal apartments; he spoke: flies and mosquitoes swarmed throughout the country.	30 31
He sent them hail instead of rain, fire swept across their land; he blasted their vines and fig trees, he shattered the trees throughout the country.	32 33
He spoke: there came locusts, grasshoppers, more than you could count, eating every scrap of greenstuff, every blade their soil produced.	34 35
Next, he struck down all the first-born in their land, the entire first-fruits of their fertility; then he led Israel out with gold and silver, and not one man of their tribes was left behind.	36 37
Egypt was glad to see them go, they had filled her with alarm; he spread a cloud to cover them, and a fire to glow at night.	38 39

40 They demanded food, he sent them quails,
 he satisfied them with the bread of heaven;
 41 he opened the rock, the waters gushed
 to flow through the desert like a river.

42 Yes, faithful to the sacred promise
 given to his servant Abraham, 43 he led his happy people forward,
 to joyful shouts from his chosen,

44 and gave them the pagans' territories.
 Where others had toiled, they took possession, 45 on condition that they kept his statutes
 and remained obedient to his laws.

National confession

Alleluia!

1 Give thanks to Yahweh, for he is good,
 his love is everlasting!

2 Who can count all Yahweh's triumphs?
 Who can praise him enough?

3 Happy are we if we exercise justice and constantly practise virtue!

4 Yahweh, remember me,
 for the love you bear your people,
 come to me as a saviour,
 5 let me share the happiness of your chosen,
 the joys of your nation
 and take pride in being one of your heirs.

6 We have sinned quite as much as our fathers,
 we have been wicked, we are guilty;
 7 our ancestors in Egypt never grasped
 the meaning of your marvels.

They failed to appreciate your great love,
 they defied the Most High at the Sea of Reeds.
 8 For the sake of his name, he saved them
 to demonstrate his power.

9 One word from him dried up the Sea of Reeds,
 he led them across the sea bed like dry land, 10 he saved them from the grasp of those who hated them
 and rescued them from the clutches of the enemy.

11 And the waters swallowed their oppressors,
 not one of them was left.

12 Then, having faith in his promises,
 they immediately sang his praises.

13 They forgot his achievements as quickly,
 going on before asking his advice;
 14 their desires overcame them in the desert,
 they challenged God in the wilds.

He granted them what they asked for, then struck them with a wasting fever; in camp, they grew jealous of Moses and Aaron, Yahweh's holy one.	15 16
The earth opened, swallowing Dathan, closing on Abiram's faction, fire flamed out against their faction, the renegades went up in flames.	17 18
They made a calf at Horeb, performed prostrations to a smelted thing, exchanging the one who was their glory for the image of a grass-eating ox.	19 20
They forgot the God who had saved them by performing such feats in Egypt, such wonders in the land of Ham, such fearful things at the Sea of Reeds.	21 22
He talked of putting an end to them and would have done, if Moses his chosen had not stood in the breach, confronting him, and deflecting his destructive anger.	23
They refused a land of delight, having no faith in his promise; they stayed in their camp and grumbled, they would not listen to Yahweh's voice.	24 25
So, raising his hand, he swore to make them fall dead in the desert and their descendants to fall to the heathen, and to disperse them throughout those countries.	26 27
They accepted the yoke of Baal-peor and ate sacrifices to the dead. They provoked him by their behaviour; plague broke out among them.	28 29
Then up stood Phinehas to intervene, and the plague was checked; hence his reputation for virtue through successive generations for ever.	30 31
They enraged him at the waters of Meribah; as a result, things went wrong for Moses, since they had embittered his spirit and he spoke without stopping to think.	32 33
They did not destroy the pagans as Yahweh had told them to do, but, intermarrying with them, adopted their practices instead.	34 35
Serving the pagans' idols, they found themselves trapped into sacrificing their own sons and daughters to demons.	36 37
They shed innocent blood, the blood of their sons and daughters,	38

offering them to the idols of Canaan,
they polluted the country with blood.

39 They defiled themselves by such actions,
their behaviour was that of a whore.
40 Yahweh's anger blazed out at his people,
he came to loathe his heirs.

41 He handed them over to the pagans,
those who hated them became their masters;
42 their enemies tyrannised over them,
crushing them under their rule.

43 Time and again he rescued them,
but they went on defying him deliberately
and plunging deeper into wickedness;
44 even so, he took pity on their distress
each time he heard them calling.

45 For their sake, he remembered his covenant,
he relented in his great love, 46 making their captors mitigate the harshness of their treatment.

47 Yahweh our God and saviour,
gather us from among the pagans,
to give thanks to your holy name
and to find our happiness in praising you.

48 Blessed be Yahweh the God of Israel,
from all eternity and for ever!
Here, all the people are to say, 'Amen'.<sup>d</sup>

God, a refuge in all dangers

Alleluia!

1 Give thanks to Yahweh, for he is good,
his love is everlasting:
2 let these be the words of Yahweh's redeemed,
those he has redeemed from the oppressor's clutches,
3 by bringing them home from foreign countries,
from east and west, from north and south.
4 Some had lost their way in the wilds and the desert,
not knowing how to reach an inhabited town;
5 they were hungry and desperately thirsty,
their courage was running low.
6 Then they called to Yahweh in their trouble
and he rescued them from their sufferings, 7 guiding them by a route leading direct to an inhabited town.
8 Let these thank Yahweh for his love,

106 a. The doxology ends the fourth book of the Psalter, and is followed by a rubric.

for his marvels on behalf of men; satisfying the hungry, he fills the starving with good things.	9
Some were living in gloom and darkness, fettered in misery and irons for defying the orders of God, for scorning the advice of the Most High; who bent them double with hardship, to breaking point, with no one to help them.	10 11 12
Then they called to Yahweh in their trouble and he rescued them from their sufferings; releasing them from gloom and darkness, shattering their chains.	13 14
Let these thank Yahweh for his love, for his marvels on behalf of men; breaking bronze gates open, he smashes iron bars.	15 16
Some, driven frantic by their sins, made miserable by their own guilt and finding all food repugnant, were nearly at death's door.	17 18
Then they called to Yahweh in their trouble and he rescued them from their sufferings; sending his word and curing them, he snatched them from the Pit.	19 20
Let these thank Yahweh for his love, for his marvels on behalf of men. Let them offer thanksgiving sacrifices and proclaim with shouts of joy what he has done.	21 22
Others, taking ship and going to sea, were plying their business across the ocean; they too saw what Yahweh could do, what marvels on the deep!	23 24
He spoke and raised a gale, lashing up towering waves. Flung to the sky, then plunged to the depths, they lost their nerve in the ordeal, staggering and reeling like drunkards with all their seamanship adrift.	25 26 27
Then they called to Yahweh in their trouble and he rescued them from their sufferings, reducing the storm to a whisper until the waves grew quiet, bringing them, glad at the calm, safe to the port they were bound for.	28 29 30
Let these thank Yahweh for his love, for his marvels on behalf of men. Let them extol him at the Great Assembly and praise him in the Council of Elders.	31 32
Sometimes he turned rivers into desert, springs of water into arid ground,	33

- 34 or a fertile country into salt-flats,
because the people living there were wicked.
- 35 Or again, he turned a desert into sheets of water,
and an arid country into flowing springs, 36 where he gave the hungry a home
in which to found a habitable town.
- 37 There, they sow the fields and plant their vines,
there, they show a profitable harvest.
18 He blesses them, they grow in number,
he sees that their livestock does not decrease.
- 39 Their numbers had fallen, they had grown weak
under pressure of disaster and hardship.
40 Pouring his contempt upon the nobly born,
he left them to wander in a trackless waste.
- 41 But now, he lifts the needy out of their misery,
and gives them a flock of new families;
42 at the sight of which, upright hearts rejoice and wickedness must hold its tongue.
- 43 If you are wise, study these things and realise how Yahweh shows his love.

Morning hymn and national prayer<sup>a</sup>Song Psalm Of David

- 1 My heart is ready, God
—I mean to sing and play.
Awake, my muse,
2 awake, lyre and harp,
I mean to wake the Dawn!
- 3 Yahweh, I mean to thank you among the peoples,
to play music to you among the nations;
4 your love is high as heaven,
your faithfulness as the clouds.
5 Rise high above the heavens, God,
let your glory be over the earth!
- 6 To bring rescue to those you love
save with your right hand and answer us!
- 7 God promised us once from his sanctuary,
'I the Victor will parcel out Shechem,
and share out the Valley of Succoth.
- 8 'Gilead is mine, Manasseh mine,
Ephraim is my helmet,
Judah, my marshal's baton.
- 9 'Moab a bowl for me to wash in!
I throw my sandal over Edom
and shout: Victory! over Philistia.'

108 a. Made from Ps 57:7-11 and Ps 60:5-12, with a few minor variations.

Who is there now to take me into the fortified city, 10
 to lead me into Edom?
 God, can you really have rejected us? 11
 You no longer march with our armies.
 Help us in this hour of crisis, 12
 the help that man can give is worthless.
 With God among us, we shall fight like heroes, 13
 he will trample on our enemies.

An appeal against enemies

For the choirmaster Of David Psalm

God whom I praise, break your silence, 1
 now that the wicked and the false 2
     are both accusing me.
 They are defaming me, 3 saying malicious things about me, attacking me for no reason.
 In return for my friendship, they denounce me, 4
     though all I had done was pray for them;
 they pay me back evil for kindness 5
     and hatred for friendship.
 'Give him a venal judge, 6
 find someone to frame the charge;
 let him be tried and found guilty, 7
 let his prayer be construed as a crime!
 'Let his life be cut short, 8
 let someone else take his office;
 may his children be orphaned 9
 and his wife widowed!
 'May his children be homeless vagabonds, 10
 beggared and hounded from their hovels;
 may the creditor seize his possessions 11
 and foreigners swallow his profits!
 'May no one be left to show him kindness, 12
 may no one look after his orphans,
 may his family die out, 13
 its name disappear in one generation!
 'May the crimes of his fathers be held against him 14
 and his mother's sin never be effaced;
 may Yahweh bear these constantly in mind, 15
 to wipe their memory off the earth!
 That wretch never thought of being kind, 16
 but hounded the poor, the needy
 and the broken-hearted to death.
 He loved cursing, may it recoil on him, 17
 had no taste for blessing, may it shun him!
 He used to wrap curses round him like a cloak, 18
 let them soak right into him like water,

- deep into his bones like oil.
 19 May they now envelop him like a gown,
 be tied round his waist for ever!
- 20 May Yahweh pay all my accusers,
 all my detractors like this!
- 21 Yahweh, defend me for the sake of your name,
 rescue me, since your love is generous!
- 22 Reduced to weakness and poverty,
 my heart is sorely tormented;
 23 I am dwindling away like a shadow,
 they have brushed me off like a locust.
- 24 My knees are weak for lack of food,
 my body is thin for lack of oil;
 25 I have become an object of derision,
 people shake their heads at me in scorn.
- 26 Help me, Yahweh my God,
 save me since you love me, 27 and let them know that you have done it,
 that it was you, Yahweh, who did it.
- 28 Counter their curses with your blessing,
 shame my aggressors, make your servant glad!
 29 Clothe my accusers in disgrace,
 cover them with a cloak of shame.
- 30 I will give thanks aloud to Yahweh
 and praise him in the Assembly, 31 for conducting the poor man's defence
 against those who would have sentenced him to death.

Yahweh protects the kingOf David Psalm*

- 1 Yahweh's oracle to you, my Lord, 'Sit at my right hand and I will make your enemies a footstool for you'.
- 2 Yahweh will force all your enemies
 under the sway of your sceptre in Zion.
- 3 Royal dignity was yours from the day you were born, on the holy mountains,
 royal from the womb, from the dawn of your earliest days.
- 4 Yahweh has sworn an oath which he never will retract,
 'You are a priest of the order of Melchizedek, and for ever.
- 5 The Lord is at your right hand.
 When he grows angry he shatters kings,
- 6 he gives the nations their deserts,
 smashing their skulls, he heaps the wide world with corpses.
- 7 Drinking from the stream as he goes,
 he can hold his head high in victory.

- 5 Sea, what makes you run away?
Jordan, why stop flowing?

Why skip like rams, you mountains, why like lambs, you hills?	6
Quake, earth, at the coming of your Master, at the coming of the God of Jacob, who turns rock into pool flint into fountain.	7 8

V 113B

The one true God

Not by us, Yahweh, not by us, by you alone is glory deserved, by your love and your faithfulness! Do the pagans ask, 'Where is their God?'	1 2
Ours is the God whose will is sovereign in the heavens and on earth, whereas their idols, in silver and gold, products of human skill,	3 4
have mouths, but never speak, eyes, but never see, ears, but never hear, noses, but never smell,	5 6
hands, but never touch, feet, but never walk, and not a sound from their throats. Their makers will end up like them, and so will anyone who relies on them.	7 8
House of Israel, rely on Yahweh, on him, our help and shield!	9
House of Aaron, rely on Yahweh, on him, our help and shield!	10
You who fear Yahweh, rely on Yahweh, on him, our help and shield!	11
Yahweh remembers us, he will bless, he will bless the House of Israel, he will bless the House of Aaron, he will bless those who fear Yahweh, without distinction of rank."	12 13
May Yahweh add to your numbers, yours and your children's too!	14
May you be blessed by Yahweh, maker of heaven and earth!	15
Heaven belongs to Yahweh, earth he bestows on man.	16
The dead cannot praise Yahweh, they have gone down to silence; but we, the living, bless Yahweh henceforth and evermore.	17 18

Thanksgiving

Alleluia!

- 1 I love! For Yahweh listens to my entreaty;
- 2 he bends down to listen to me
when I call.
- 3 Death's cords were tightening round me,
the nooses of Sheol;
distress and anguish gripped me,
4 I invoked the name of Yahweh:
'Yahweh, rescue me!'
- 5 Yahweh is righteous and merciful,
our God is tenderhearted;
- 6 Yahweh defends the simple,
he saved me when I was brought to my knees.
- 7 Return to your resting place, my soul,
Yahweh has treated you kindly.
- 8 He has rescued (me from death) my eyes from tears
and my feet from stumbling.
- 9 (I will walk in Yahweh's presence
in the land of the living.)"
- 10 I have faith, even when I say,
'I am completely crushed'.
11 In my alarm, I declared,
'No man can be relied on'.
- 12 What return can I make to Yahweh
for all his goodness to me?
- 13 I will offer libations to my saviour,
invoking the name of Yahweh.
- 14 (I will pay what I vowed to Yahweh;
may his whole nation be present!)
- 15 The death of the devout costs Yahweh dear.
- 16 Yahweh, I am your servant,
your servant, son of a pious mother,
you undo my fetters.
- 17 I will offer you the thanksgiving sacrifice,
invoking the name of Yahweh.
- 9 I will walk in Yahweh's presence
in the land of the living.
- 18 I will pay what I vowed to Yahweh;
may his whole nation be present,
19 in the courts of the house of Yahweh,
in your heart, Jerusalem.

Summons to praise

Alleluia!

Praise Yahweh, all nations, extol him, all you peoples!	1
For his love is strong, his faithfulness eternal.	2

PSALM 118

V 117

Processional hymn for the feast of Tabernacles<sup>a</sup>

Alleluia!

Give thanks to Yahweh, for he is good, his love is everlasting!	1
Let the House of Israel say it, 'His love is everlasting!'	2
Let the House of Aaron say it, 'His love is everlasting!'	3
Let those who fear Yahweh say it, 'His love is everlasting!'	4
Hard-pressed, I invoked Yahweh, he heard me and came to my relief.	5
With Yahweh on my side, I fear nothing: what can man do to me?	6
With Yahweh on my side, best help of all, I can triumph over my enemies.	7
I would rather take refuge in Yahweh than rely on men;	8
I would rather take refuge in Yahweh than rely on princes.	9
The pagans were swarming round me, in the name of Yahweh I cut them down;	10
they swarmed round me closer and closer, in the name of Yahweh I cut them down;	11
they swarmed round me like bees, they blazed like a thorn-fire, in the name of Yahweh I cut them down.	12
I was pressed, pressed, about to fall, but Yahweh came to my help;	13
Yahweh is my strength and my song, he has been my saviour.	14
Shouts of joy and safety in the tents of the virtuous:	15
Yahweh's right hand is wreaking havoc, Yahweh's right hand is winning, Yahweh's right hand is wreaking havoc!	16

- 17 No, I shall not die, I shall live
to recite the deeds of Yahweh;
- 18 though Yahweh has punished me often,
he has not abandoned me to Death.
- 19 Open the gates of virtue to me,
I will come in and give thanks to Yahweh.
- 20 This is Yahweh's gateway,
through which the virtuous may enter.
- 21 I thank you for having heard me,
you have been my saviour.
- 22 It was the stone rejected by the builders that proved to be the keystone;
- 23 this is Yahweh's doing and it is wonderful to see.
- 24 This is the day made memorable by Yahweh,
what immense joy for us!
- 25 Please, Yahweh, please save us.
Please, Yahweh, please give us prosperity.
- 26 Blessings on him who comes in the name of Yahweh!
We bless you from the house of Yahweh.
- 27 Yahweh is God, he smiles on us.
With branches in your hands draw up in procession
as far as the horns of the altar,
- 28 You are my God, I give you thanks,
I extol you, my God;
I give you thanks for having heard me,
you have been my saviour.
- 29 Give thanks to Yahweh, for he is good,
his love is everlasting!

In praise of the divine Law

- 1 Alaph Ah, how happy those of blameless life
who walk in the Law of Yahweh!
- 2 How happy those who respect his decrees,
and seek him with their whole heart,
3 and, doing no evil,
walk in his ways!
- 4 You yourself have made your precepts known,
to be faithfully kept.
- 5 Oh, may my behaviour be constant in keeping your statutes.
- 6 If I concentrate on your every commandment,
I can never be put to shame.
- 7 I thank you from an upright heart,
schooled in your rules of righteousness.
- 8 I mean to observe your statutes;
never abandon me.
- 9 Beth How can a youth remain pure?
By behaving as your word prescribes.

118 a. The last of the six 'Hallel' (Praise) psalms which began with Ps 113.

	I have sought you with all my heart, do not let me stray from your commandments.	10
	I have treasured your promises in my heart, since I have no wish to sin against you.	11
	How blessed are you, Yahweh! Teach me your statutes!	12
	With my lips I have repeated them, all these rulings from your own mouth.	13
	In the way of your decrees lies my joy, a joy beyond all wealth.	14
	I mean to meditate on your precepts and to concentrate on your paths.	15
	I find my delight in your statutes, I do not forget your word.	16
Ghimel	Be good to your servant and I shall live, I shall observe your word.	17
	Open my eyes: I shall concentrate on the marvels of your Law.	18
	Exile though I am on earth, do not hide your commandments from me.	19
	My soul is overcome with an incessant longing for your rulings.	20
	You reprove the arrogant, the accursed who stray from your commandments.	21
	Avert their insults and contempt from me, since I respect your decrees.	22
	Though princes put me on trial, your servant will meditate on your statutes, since your decrees are my delight, your statutes are my counsellors.	23 24
Daleth	Down in the dust I lie prostrate: revive me as your word has guaranteed.	25
	I admitted my behaviour, you answered me, now teach me your statutes.	26
	Explain to me how to keep your precepts, that I may meditate on your marvels.	27
	I am sleepless with grief: raise me as your word has guaranteed.	28
	Turn me from the path of delusion, grant me the grace of your Law.	29
	I have chosen the way of fidelity, I have set my heart on your rulings.	30
	I cling to your decrees: Yahweh, do not disappoint me.	31
	I run the way of your commandments, since you have set me free.	32
He	Expound to me the way of your statutes, Yahweh, and I will always respect them.	33
	Explain to me how to respect your Law and how to observe it wholeheartedly.	34
	Guide me in the path of your commandments, since my delight is there.	35
	Turn my heart to your decrees and away from getting money.	36

- 37 Avert my eyes from lingering on inanities,
give me life by your word.
- 38 Keep your promise to your servant,
so that others in turn may fear you.
- 39 Avert the insults that I fear,
in the kindness of your rulings.
- 40 Look how I yearn for your precepts:
give me life by your righteousness.
- 41 Waw For, Yahweh, visited by your love and saving help, as you have promised, 42 I can find an answer to the insults,
since I rely on your word.
- 43 Do not deprive me of that faithful word,
since my hope has always lain in your rulings.
- 44 Let me observe your Law unfailingly
for ever and ever.
- 45 So, having sought your precepts,
I shall walk in all freedom.
- 46 I shall proclaim your decrees to kings
without fear of disgrace.
- 47 Your commandments fill me with delight,
I love them deeply.
- 48 I stretch out my hands to your beloved commandments,
I meditate on your statutes.
- 49 Zain Remember the word you pledged your servant,
on which you have built my hope.
- 50 This has been my comfort in my suffering:
that your promise gives me life.
- 51 Endlessly the arrogant have jeered at me,
but I have not swerved from your Law.
- 52 Remembering your rulings in the past,
Yahweh, I take comfort.
- 53 Fury grips me when I see the wicked
abandoning your Law.
- 54 Where I live in exile,
your statutes are psalms for me.
- 55 All night, Yahweh, I remember your name and observe your Law.
- 56 Surely it will count to my credit:
that I respect your precepts.
- 57 Heth Have I not said, Yahweh, that my task is to observe your words?
- 58 Wholeheartedly I now entreat you,
take pity on me as you have promised!
- 59 After reflecting on my behaviour,
I turn my feet to your decrees.
- 60 Wasting no time, I hurry
to observe your commandments.
- 61 Though the nooses of the wicked tighten round me,
I do not forget your Law.
- 62 I get up at midnight to thank you for the righteousness of your rulings.
- 63 I am a friend to all who fear you and observe your precepts.

	Yahweh, your love fills the earth: teach me your statutes.	64
Teth	In accordance with your word, Yahweh, you have been good to your servant.	65
	Teach me good sense and knowledge, for I rely on your commandments.	66
	In earlier days I had to suffer, I used to stray, but now I remember your promise.	67
	You, so good and kind, teach me your statutes!	68
	Though the arrogant tell foul lies about me, I wholeheartedly respect your precepts.	69
	Their hearts are gross as fat, but my delight is in your Law.	70
	It was good for me to have to suffer, the better to learn your statutes.	71
	I put the Law you have given before all the gold and silver in the world.	72
Yod	Yahweh, my maker, my preserver, explain your commandments for me to learn.	73
	Seeing me, those who fear you will be glad, since I put my hope in your word.	74
	I know that your rulings are righteous, Yahweh, that you make me suffer out of faithfulness.	75
	Now, please let your love comfort me, as you have promised your servant.	76
	Treat me tenderly, and I shall live, since your Law is my delight.	77
	Shame seize the arrogant who defame me, when I meditate on your precepts!	78
	May those who fear you rally to me, all those familiar with your decrees!	79
	Blameless in your statutes be my heart: no such shame therefore for me!	80
Kaph	Keeping my hope in your word, I have worn myself out waiting for you to save me, and have strained my eyes waiting for your promise: when, I want to know, will you console me?	81
	Though smoked as dry as a wineskin, I do not forget your statutes.	82
	How much longer has your servant to live, when will you condemn my persecutors?	83
	The arrogant have dug pitfalls for me in defiance of your Law.	84
	Your commandments epitomise faithfulness; when liars hound me, you must help me.	85
	Though these wretches have almost done for me, I have never abandoned your precepts.	86
	Lovingly intervene, give me life, and I will observe your decrees.	87
Lamed	Lasting to eternity, your word, Yahweh, unchanging in the heavens: your faithfulness lasts age after age;	88
		89
		90

- you founded the earth to endure.
 91 Creation is maintained by your rulings,
 since all things are your servants.
 92 Had your Law not been my delight
 I should have perished in my suffering.
 93 I shall never forget your precepts;
 by these you have kept me alive.
 94 I am yours, save me,
 since I study your precepts.
 95 The wicked may hope to destroy me,
 but I am scrupulous about your decrees.
 96 I have noticed limitations to all perfection,
 but your commandment has no limits at all.
- 97 Mem Meditating all day on your Law,
 how I have come to love it!
 98 By your commandment, ever mine,
 how much wiser you have made me than my enemies!
 99 How much subtler than my teachers,
 through my meditating on your decrees!
 100 How much more perceptive than the elders,
 as a result of my respecting your precepts!
 101 I refrain my feet from every evil path,
 the better to observe your word.
 102 I do not turn aside from your rulings,
 since you yourself teach me these.
 103 Your promise, how sweet to my palate!
 Sweeter than honey to my mouth!
 104 Your precepts endow me with perception;
 I hate all deceptive paths.
- 105 Nun Now your word is a lamp to my feet,
 a light on my path.
 106 I have sworn to observe, I shall maintain,
 your righteous rulings.
 107 Yahweh, though my suffering is acute, revive me as your word has guaranteed.
 108 Yahweh, accept the homage that I offer,
 teach me your rulings.
 109 I would lay down my life at any moment,
 I have never yet forgotten your Law.
 110 The wicked have tried to trap me,
 but I have never yet veered from your precepts.
 111 Your decrees are my eternal heritage,
 they are the joy of my heart.
 112 I devote myself to obeying your statutes—compensation enough for ever!
- 113 Samek Odious, those whose allegiance is divided;
 I love your Law!
 114 You, my refuge and shield,
 I put my hope in your word.
 115 Away from me, you wicked people!
 I will respect the commandments of my God.
 116 Support me as you have promised, and I shall live,
 do not disappoint me of my hope.
 117 Uphold me, and I shall be safe
 with your statutes constantly before my eyes.

	You spurn all who stray from your statutes, their notions being delusion.	118
	You scour the wicked off the earth like rust; that is why I love your decrees.	119
	My whole being trembles before you, your rulings fill me with fear.	120
Ain	Persevering in justice and virtue, must I now be abandoned to my oppressors?	121
	Guarantor of your servant's well-being, forbid the arrogant to oppress me!	122
	My eyes are worn out looking for your saving help for your promise of righteousness to come.	123
	Treat your servant lovingly, teach me your statutes.	124
	I am your servant; if you will explain, I shall embrace your decrees.	125
	Yahweh, now is the time to act, your Law is being broken.	126
	Yes, I love your commandments more than gold, than purest gold.	127
	Yes, I rule myself by all your precepts; I hate all deceptive paths.	128
Pe	Your decrees are so wonderful my soul cannot but respect them.	129
	As your word unfolds, it gives light, and the simple understand.	130
	I open my mouth, panting eagerly for your commandments.	131
	Turn to me please, pity me, as you should those who love your name.	132
	Direct my steps as you have promised, let evil win no power over me.	133
	Rescue me from human oppression; I will observe your precepts.	134
	Treat your servant kindly, teach me your statutes.	135
	My eyes stream with tears, because others disregard your Law.	136
Sade	Righteous, indeed, Yahweh! And all your rulings correct!	137
	The decrees you impose, how righteous, how absolutely faithful!	138
	Zeal for your house devours me, since my oppressors forget your word.	139
	But your promise is well tested, and your servant holds it dear.	140
	Puny and despised as I am, I do not forget your precepts.	141
	Your righteousness is eternal righteousness, your Law holds true for ever.	142
	Though distress and anguish grip me, your commandments are my delight.	143
	Eternally righteous, your decrees— explain them to me, and I shall live.	144

- 145 Qoph Sincere, my call—Yahweh, answer me!
I will respect your statutes.
- 146 I invoke you, save me,
I will observe your decrees.
- 147 I am up before dawn to call for help,
I put my hope in your word.
- 148 I lie awake throughout the night,
to meditate on your promise.
- 149 In your love, Yahweh, listen to my voice,
let your rulings give me life.
- 150 My cruel persecutors are closing in,
how remote they are from your Law!
- 151 But, Yahweh, you are closer still and all your commandments are true.
- 152 Long have I known that your decrees were founded to last for ever.
- 153 Resh Take note of my suffering and rescue me,
for I do not forget your Law.
- 154 Take up my cause, defend me,
give me life as you have promised.
- 155 You will never save the wicked,
if they do not study your statutes,
but many are your mercies to me, Yahweh,
by your rulings give me life.
- 156 Many hound me and oppress me,
but I do not swerve from your decrees.
- 157 The sight of these renegades disgusts me,
they do not observe your promise;
but, Yahweh, see how I love your precepts,
and lovingly give me life.
- 158 Faithfulness is the essence of your word,
your righteous rulings hold good for ever.
- 161 Shin Unjustifiably though princes hound me,
your word is what fills me with dread.
- 162 I rejoice in your promise,
like someone on finding a vast treasure.
- 163 I hate, I detest, delusion;
your Law is what I love.
- 164 Seven times daily I praise you for your righteous rulings.
- 165 Universal peace for those who love your Law,
no stumbling-blocks for them!
- 166 Waiting for you, Yahweh, my saviour,
I fulfil your commandments.
- 167 My soul observes your decrees;
these I wholly love.
- 168 I observe your precepts, your decrees;
you know how I keep to your paths.
- 169 Tau Yahweh, may my cry approach your presence;
let your word endow me with perception!
- 170 May my entreaty reach your presence;
rescue me as you have promised.
- 171 May my lips proclaim your praise,
since you teach me your statutes.

May my tongue recite your promise, since all your commandments are righteous.	172
May your hand be there to help me, since I have chosen your precepts.	173
I long for you, Yahweh, my saviour, your Law is my delight.	174
Long may my soul live to praise you, long be your rulings my help!	175
I am wandering like a lost sheep: come and look for your servant.	176
No, I have never forgotten your commandments.

The enemies of peace

Song of Ascents

When I am in trouble, I call to Yahweh, and he answers me.	1
Yahweh, save me from these lying lips and these faithless tongues!	2
How will he pay back the false oath of a faithless tongue?	3
With war arrows hardened over red-hot charcoal!	4
This is worse than a life in Meshech, <sup>a</sup> or camping in Kedar!	5
Too long have I lived among people who hate peace,	6
who, when I propose peace, are all for war.	7

The guardian of Israel

Song of Ascents

I lift my eyes to the mountains: where is help to come from?	1
Help comes to me from Yahweh, who made heaven and earth.	2
No letting our footsteps slip! This guard of yours, he does not doze!	3
The guardian of Israel does not doze or sleep.	4
Yahweh guards you, shades you. With Yahweh at your right hand	5
sun cannot strike you down by day, nor moon at night.	6
Yahweh guards you from harm, he guards your lives,	7

8 he guards you leaving, coming back,
now and for always.

Hail, Jerusalem!

Song of Ascents Of David

1 How I rejoiced when they said to me,
'Let us go to the house of Yahweh!'
2 And now our feet are standing in your gateways, Jerusalem.
3 Jerusalem restored! The city,
one united whole!
4 Here the tribes come up,
the tribes of Yahweh,
they come to praise Yahweh's name,
as he ordered Israel,
5 here where the tribunals of justice are,
the royal tribunals of David.
6 Pray for peace in Jerusalem,
'Prosperity to your houses!
7 Peace inside your city walls!
Prosperity to your palaces!'
8 Since all are my brothers and friends,
I say 'Peace be with you!'
9 Since Yahweh our God lives here,
I pray for your happiness.

Prayer of the distressed

Song of Ascents

1 I lift my eyes to you,
to you who have your home in heaven,
2 eyes like the eyes of slaves
fixed on their master's hand;
like the eyes of a slave-girl
fixed on the hand of her mistress,
so our eyes are fixed on Yahweh our God,
for him to take pity on us;
3 pity us, Yahweh, take pity on us,
we have had more than our share of scorn,
4 more than our share
of jeers from the complacent,
of scorn from the proud.

The saviour of IsraelSong of Ascents David*

If Yahweh had not been on our side	1
—let Israel repeat it—
if Yahweh had not been on our side	2
when they attacked us,
they would have swallowed us alive	3
and burnt us to death in their rage.
The waters would have closed over us,	4
the torrent have swept us away,
either would have drowned us	5
in their turbulent waves.
Blessed be Yahweh who did not let us fall	6
a victim to those teeth,
who let us escape like birds	7
from the fowler's net.
He tore the net
and we escaped;
our help is in the name of Yahweh,	8
who made heaven and earth.

God protects his faithfulSong of Ascents*

Those who trust in Yahweh are like Mount Zion,	1
unshakeable, standing for ever.
Jerusalem! Encircled by mountains,	2
as Yahweh encircles his people
now and for always.
No wicked sceptre shall rule	3
this heritage of the virtuous,
or the virtuous in their turn might take to evil.
Yahweh, be good to the good,	4
to those of upright heart.
But the perverts, those who follow twisting paths—	5
may Yahweh send them to join the evil-doers!
Peace to Israel!

Song of the returning exilesSong of Ascents*

When Yahweh brought Zion's captives home,	1
at first it seemed like a dream;

- 2 then our mouths filled with laughter
and our lips with song.
- Even the pagans started talking about the marvels Yahweh had done for us!
- 3 What marvels indeed he did for us,
and how overjoyed we were!
- 4 Yahweh, bring all our captives back again
like torrents in the Negeb!
- 5 Those who went sowing in tears
now sing as they reap.
- 6 They went away, went away weeping,
carrying the seed;
they come back, come back singing,
carrying their sheaves.

Trust in ProvidenceSong of Ascents Solomon*

- 1 If Yahweh does not build the house,
in vain the masons toil;
if Yahweh does not guard the city,
in vain the sentries watch.
- 2 In vain you get up earlier,
and put off going to bed,
sweating to make a living,
since he provides for his beloved as they sleep.
- 3 Sons are a bounty from Yahweh,
he rewards with descendants:
4 like the arrows in a hero's hand
are the sons you father when young.
- 5 Happy the man who has filled his quiver
with arrows of this sort;
in dispute with his enemies at the gate,
he will not be worsted.

Blessing for the devoutSong of Ascents*

- 1 Happy, all those who fear Yahweh
and follow in his paths.
- 2 You will eat what your hands have worked for,
happiness and prosperity will be yours.
- 3 Your wife: a fruitful vine
on the inner walls of your house.

127 a. The city gate, at which all business matters and disputes are settled.

Your sons: round your table like shoots round an olive tree.
Such are the blessings that fall on the man who fears Yahweh.	4
May Yahweh bless you from Zion. all the days of your life!	5a 5c
May you see Jerusalem prosperous and live to see your children's children!	5b 6
Peace to Israel!

Against the enemies of Zion

Song of Ascents

Hard as they have harried me since I was young —let Israel repeat it—	1
hard as they have harried me since I was young, they have not overcome me.	2
Ploughmen have ploughed on my back longer and longer furrows, but now Yahweh the Righteous has shattered the yoke of the wicked.	3 4
May they all be thrown into confusion, be routed, who have hated Zion, be blasted by winds from the east like grass sprouting on the roof!	5 6
Roof-grass never yet filled reaper's arm or binder's lap— and no one passing them will ever say, 'Yahweh's blessing on you!'	7 8
We bless you in the name of Yahweh.

From the depths

Song of Ascents

From the depths I call to you, Yahweh, Lord, listen to my cry for help!	1 2
Listen compassionately to my pleading!
If you never overlooked our sins, Yahweh, Lord, could anyone survive?	3
But you do forgive us: and for that we revere you.	4
I wait for Yahweh, my soul waits for him, I rely on his promise, my soul relies on the Lord more than a watchman on the coming of dawn.	5 6

7 Let Israel rely on Yahweh
 as much as the watchman on the dawn!
 For it is with Yahweh that mercy is to be found,
 and a generous redemption;
 8 it is he who redeems Israel
 from all their sins.

Childlike trust in God

Song of Ascents Of David

1 Yahweh, my heart has no lofty ambitions,
 my eyes do not look too high.
 I am not concerned with great affairs
 or marvels beyond my scope.
 2 Enough for me to keep my soul tranquil and quiet
 like a child in its mother's arms,
 as content as a child that has been weaned.
 3 Israel, rely on Yahweh,
 now and for always!

The ark is taken to Zion: anniversary hymn

Song of Ascents

1 Yahweh, remember David and all the hardships he suffered,
 2 and the oath he swore to Yahweh,
 his vow to the Mighty One of Jacob:
 3 not to enter tent or house,
 not to climb into bed,
 4 not to allow himself to sleep,
 not even to close his eyes,
 5 until he had found a place for Yahweh,
 a home for the Mighty One of Jacob!
 6 Listen: we heard it was in Ephrathah,
 we found it at Fields-of-the-Forest!
 7 Let us go where he is waiting
 and worship at his footstool.
 8 Yahweh, go up to your resting place,
 you and your ark of power.
 9 Your priests are vesting in virtue and your devout are shouting for joy.
 10 For the sake of your servant David,
 do not banish your anointed.
 11 Yahweh swore to David and will remain true to his word,
 'I promise that your own son shall succeed you on the throne.

'If your sons observe my covenant, the decrees that I have taught them, their sons too shall succeed you on the throne for evermore.'	12
For Yahweh has chosen Zion, desiring this to be his home, 'Here I will stay for ever, this is the home I have chosen.	13
'I will bless her virtuous with riches, provide her poor with food, vest her priests in salvation and her devout shall shout for joy.	14
'I will bless her virtuous with riches, provide her poor with food, vest her priests in salvation and her devout shall shout for joy.	15
'I will bless her virtuous with riches, provide her poor with food, vest her priests in salvation and her devout shall shout for joy.	16
'Here, I will make a horn sprout for David, here, I will trim a lamp for my anointed, whose enemies I shall clothe in shame, while his crown bursts into flower.'	17
'Here, I will make a horn sprout for David, here, I will trim a lamp for my anointed, whose enemies I shall clothe in shame, while his crown bursts into flower.'	18

Brotherly loveSong of Ascents Of David*

How good, how delightful it is for all to live together like brothers:	1
fine as oil on the head, running down the beard, running down Aaron's beard to the collar of his robes;	2
copious as a Hermon dew falling on the heights of Zion, where Yahweh confers his blessing, everlasting life.	3

Hymn of praise

- 1 Alleluia!
- Praise the name of Yahweh,
praise Yahweh, you who serve him,
2 serving in the house of Yahweh,
in the courts of the house of our God!
- 3 Praise Yahweh, for Yahweh is good.
Play for his name, for he inspires love;
4 since Yahweh has chosen Jacob,
Israel as his own.
- 5 I have learnt for myself that Yahweh is great,
that our Lord surpasses all other gods.
6 In the heavens, on the earth,
in the ocean, in the depths,
Yahweh's will is sovereign.
- 7 He raises up clouds from the boundaries of earth,
makes the lightning flash for the downpour
and brings the wind out of his storehouse.
- 8 He struck down the first-born of Egypt,
of man and beast alike,
9 he sent signs and wonders
among you, Egypt,
against Pharaoh and his officials.
- 10 He struck the pagans down in droves,
he slaughtered mighty kings, 11 Sihon, king of the Amorites,
and Og, the king of Bashan,
and all the kingdoms of Canaan;
12 he gave their lands as a legacy,
a legacy to his people Israel.
- 13 Yahweh, your name endures for ever!
Yahweh, your memory is always fresh!
14 Since Yahweh vindicates his people,
and cares for those who serve him;
- 15 whereas pagans' idols, in silver and gold,
products of human skill, 16 have mouths, but never speak,
eyes, but never see,
- 17 ears, but never hear,
and not a breath in their mouths.
18 Their makers will end up like them
and so will anyone who relies on them.
- 19 House of Israel, bless Yahweh, House of Aaron, bless Yahweh, 20 House of Levi, bless Yahweh,
you who fear Yahweh, bless Yahweh!

134 a. This blessing ends the series of pilgrim psalms ('Songs of Ascents') which began with Ps 120.

Blessed be Yahweh in Zion,
in Jerusalem his home! 21

A song from exile

- 1 Beside the streams of Babylon
we sat and wept
at the memory of Zion,
2 leaving our harps
hanging on the poplars there.
- 3 For we had been asked to sing to our captors,
to entertain those who had carried us off:
'Sing' they said
'some hymns of Zion'.
- 4 How could we sing
one of Yahweh's hymns
in a pagan country?
5 Jerusalem, if I forget you,
may my right hand wither!
- 6 May I never speak again,
if I forget you!
If I do not count Jerusalem
the greatest of my joys!
- 7 Yahweh, remember
what the Sons of Edom did on the day of Jerusalem,<sup>a</sup>
how they said, 'Down with her!
Raze her to the ground!'
- 8 Destructive Daughter of Babel,
a blessing on the man who treats you
as you have treated us, 9 a blessing on him who takes and dashes
your babies against the rock!

Hymn of thanksgiving

Of David

- 1 I thank you, Yahweh, with all my heart,
because you have heard what I said.

In the presence of the angels I play for you,
and bow down towards your holy Temple. 2

I give thanks to your name for your love and faithfulness;
your promise is even greater than your fame.
The day I called for help, you heard me 3
and you increased my strength.

Yahweh, all kings on earth give thanks to you, 4
for they have heard your promises;
they celebrate Yahweh's actions, 5
'Great is the glory of Yahweh!'

From far above, Yahweh sees the humble, 6
from far away he marks down the arrogant.

Though I live surrounded by trouble, 7
you keep me alive—to my enemies' fury!
You stretch your hand out and save me,
your right hand will do everything for me. 8
Yahweh, your love is everlasting,
do not abandon us whom you have made.

In praise of God's omniscience

For the choirmaster Of David Psalm

Yahweh, you examine me and know me, 1
you know if I am standing or sitting, 2
you read my thoughts from far away, whether I walk or lie down, you are watching, 3
you know every detail of my conduct.

The word is not even on my tongue, 4
Yahweh, before you know all about it;
close behind and close in front you fence me round, 5
shielding me with your hand.
Such knowledge is beyond my understanding, 6
a height to which my mind cannot attain.

Where could I go to escape your spirit? 7
Where could I flee from your presence?
If I climb the heavens, you are there, 8
there too, if I lie in Sheol.

If I flew to the point of sunrise, 9 or westward across the sea,
your hand would still be guiding me, 10
your right hand holding me.

If I asked darkness to cover me, 11
and light to become night around me,
that darkness would not be dark to you, 12
night would be as light as day.

It was you who created my inmost self, 13
and put me together in my mother's womb;
for all these mysteries I thank you: 14
for the wonder of myself, for the wonder of your works.

- 15 You know me through and through,
from having watched my bones take shape
when I was being formed in secret, knitted together in the limbo of the womb.
- 16 You had scrutinised my every action,
all were recorded in your book,
my days listed and determined,
17 even before the first of them occurred.
- God, how hard it is to grasp your thoughts!
How impossible to count them!
- 18 I could no more count them than I could the sand, and suppose I could, you would still be with me.
- 19 God, if only you would kill the wicked!
Men of blood, away from me!
20 They talk blasphemously about you,
regard your thoughts as nothing.
- 21 Yahweh, do I not hate those who hate you,
and loathe those who defy you?
22 I hate them with a total hatred,
I regard them as my own enemies.
- 23 God, examine me and know my heart,
probe me and know my thoughts;
24 make sure I do not follow pernicious ways,
and guide me in the way that is everlasting.

Against the wicked

For the choirmaster Psalm Of David

- 1 Yahweh, rescue me from evil people,
defend me from men of violence,
2 from people plotting evil,
forever intent on stirring up strife,
3 who make their tongues as sharp as serpents'
with viper's venom on their lips. Pause
- 4 Yahweh, guard me from attacks by the wicked,
defend me from those who love force,
from people plotting to make me stumble,
5b forever laying snares where I walk,
5a insolent wretches, concealing pitfall and noose
5c to trap me as I pass. Pause
- 6 I have told Yahweh, 'You are my God'.
Yahweh, listen to my cry for help.
- 7 Yahweh, my Lord, my saving strength,
shielding my head when I have to fight, 8 Yahweh, do not grant their wicked wishes,
do not let their plots succeed.
- 9 May those besieging me not win, Pause
may their own cruel words overtake them, 10 may red-hot embers rain down on them,

may they be flung into the abyss for good,
 may evil hound the man of violence to death
 and the slanderer not hold his own on earth. 11

I know Yahweh will avenge the wretched,
 and see justice done for the poor. 12

The virtuous shall have good cause to thank your name,
 and the upright to find a home with you. 13

Against the attractions of evil

Psalm Of David

Yahweh, I am calling, hurry to me,
 listen to me, I am invoking you. 1

My prayers rise like incense,
 my hands like the evening offering. 2

Yahweh, set a guard at my mouth,
 a watcher at the gate of my lips. 3

Let me feel no impulse to do wrong,
 to share the godlessness of evil-doers. 4

No, I will not sample their delights.
 A virtuous man may strike me in reproof, for my own good,
 but a wicked one shall never anoint my head with oil!
 Daily I counter their malice with prayer. 5

When their judges are flung on jagged rock,
 they will learn how mild my words have been, 6

'Like a millstone smashed on the ground,
 our bones are scattered at the mouth of Sheol'. 7

To you, Yahweh my Lord, I turn my eyes.
 I take shelter in you, do not leave me exposed!
 Keep me out of traps that are set for me,
 from the bait laid for me by evil men. 9

Let the wicked fall into their own net,
 while I go on my way. 10

Prayer of a hunted man

Poem Of David When he was in the cave Psalm

To Yahweh, my cry! I plead.
 To Yahweh, my cry! I entreat. 1

I pour out my supplications,
 I unfold all my troubles;
 my spirit fails me,
 but you, you know my path. 3

On the path I follow
 they have concealed a trap.
 Look on my right " and see,
 there is no one to befriend me. 4

All help is denied me,
no one cares about me.

5 I invoke you, Yahweh,
I affirm that you are my refuge,
my heritage in the land of the living.
6 Listen to my cries for help,
I can hardly be crushed lower.

Rescue me from persecutors stronger than I am!
7 Free me from this imprisonment,
and I will thank your name once more in the Assembly of the virtuous,
for the goodness you show me.

A humble entreaty

Psalm Of David

1 Yahweh, hear my prayer,
listen to my pleading,
answer me faithfully, righteously;
2 do not put your servant on trial,
no one is virtuous by your standards.

3 An enemy who hounds me
to crush me into the dust, forces me to dwell in darkness
like the dead of long ago;
4 my spirit fails me
and my heart is full of fear.

5 I recall the days of old,
I reflect on all that you did,
I ponder your deeds;
6 I stretch out my hands,
like thirsty ground I yearn for you.

Pause

7 Quick, Yahweh, answer me
before my spirit fails;
if you hide your face much longer,
I shall go down to the Pit like the rest.

8 Let dawn bring proof of your love,
for one who relies on you;
let it show the right road,
to one who lifts up his soul to you.

9 Yahweh, rescue me from my enemies,
I have fled to you for shelter;
10 teach me to obey you,
since you are my God;
may your good spirit guide me
on to level ground.

142 a. The place for a man's advocate to stand.

Yahweh, for the sake of your name, 11
 keep your promise to save me;
 protect me from oppression,
 love me, kill my enemies, 12
 destroy my oppressors,
 for I am your servant.

War hymn and the fruits of victory

David

Blessed be Yahweh, my rock, 1
 who trains my hands for war
 and my fingers for battle,
 my love, my bastion, 2
 my citadel, my saviour,
 I shelter behind him, my shield,
 he makes the nations submit to me.

Yahweh, what is man, that you should notice him? 3
 A human being, that you should think about him?
 Man's life, a mere puff of wind, 4
 his days, as fugitive as shadows. 5

Yahweh, lower your heavens, come down to us!
 Touch the mountains, make them smoke,
 flash your lightning—scatter them, 6
 shoot your arrows—rout them.

Reach down your hand from above, 7
 save me, rescue me from deep waters,
 from the power of aliens
 who tell nothing but lies, 8
 who are prepared to swear to falsehood!

God, I have made a new song for you 9
 to be played on the ten-string lyre,
 you who give victory to kings 10
 and safety to your servant David.

From peril of sword •save me, 11
 rescue me from the power of aliens
 who tell nothing but lies,
 who are prepared to swear to falsehood!

May our sons be like plants 12
 growing strong from their earliest days,
 our daughters like corner-statues,<sup>a</sup>
 carvings fit for a palace;
 may our barns overflow 13
 with every possible crop,
 may the sheep in our fields be counted
 in their thousands and tens of thousands,
 may our cattle be stout and strong;
 and may there be an end of raids and exile,
 and of panic in our streets.

- 15 Happy the nation of whom this is true, happy the nation whose God is Yahweh!

I bless your name for ever and ever,
2 Beth blessing you day after day,
and praising your name for ever and ever.
3 Ghimeh Can anyone measure the magnificence of Yahweh the great, and his inexpressible grandeur?
4 Daleth Celebrating your acts of power,
one age shall praise your doings to another.
5 He Oh, the splendour of your glory, your renown!
I tell myself the story of your marvellous deeds.
6 Waw Men will proclaim your fearful power
and I shall assert your greatness;
7 Zain they will celebrate your generous kindness and joyfully acclaim your righteousness.
8 Heth He, Yahweh, is merciful, tenderhearted, slow to anger, very loving,
9 Teth and universally kind; Yahweh's tenderness embraces all his creatures.
10 Yod Yahweh, all your creatures thank you,
and your faithful bless you.
11 Kaph Kingly and glorious they proclaim you,
they affirm your might.
12 Lamed Let mankind learn your acts of power,
and the majestic glory of your sovereignty!
13 Mem Your sovereignty is an eternal sovereignty,
your empire lasts from age to age.
(Nun) Always true to his promises,
Yahweh shows love in all he does.
14 Samek Only stumble, and Yahweh at once supports you,
if others bow you down, he will raise you up.
15 Ain Patiently all creatures look to you to feed them throughout the year;
16 Pe quick to satisfy every need,
you feed them all with a generous hand.
17 Sade Righteous in all that he does,
Yahweh acts only out of love,
18 Qoph standing close to all who invoke him,
close to all who invoke Yahweh faithfully.

Hymn to the God of help

Alleluia!	1
Praise Yahweh, my soul! I mean to praise Yahweh all my life, I mean to sing to my God as long as I live.	2
Do not put your trust in men in power, or in any mortal man—he cannot save, he yields his breath and goes back to the earth he came from, and on that day all his schemes perish.	3 4
Happy the man who has the God of Jacob to help him, whose hope is fixed on Yahweh his God, maker of heaven and earth, and the sea, and all that these hold!	5 6
Yahweh, forever faithful, gives justice to those denied it, gives food to the hungry, gives liberty to prisoners.	7
Yahweh restores sight to the blind, Yahweh straightens the bent, Yahweh protects the stranger, he keeps the orphan and widow.	8a 8b 9a 9b
Yahweh loves the virtuous, and frustrates the wicked. Yahweh reigns for ever, your God, Zion, from age to age.	8c 9c 10

Hymn to the Almighty

Alleluia!
Praise Yahweh—it is good to sing in honour of our God—sweet is his praise.	1
Yahweh, Restorer of Jerusalem! He brought back Israel's exiles, healing their broken hearts, and binding up their wounds.	2 3
He decides the number of the stars and gives each of them a name;	4

5 our Lord is great, all-powerful,
 of infinite understanding.
 6 Yahweh, who lifts up the humble,
 humbles the wicked to the ground.
 7 Sing to Yahweh in gratitude,
 play the lyre for our God:
 8 who covers the heavens with clouds,
 to provide the earth with rain,
 to produce fresh grass on the hillsides
 and the plants that are needed by man, 9 who gives their food to the cattle and to the young ravens when they cry.
 10 The strength of the war horse means nothing to him,
 it is not infantry that interests him.
 11 Yahweh is interested only in those who fear him,
 in those who rely on his love.
 12 Praise Yahweh, Jerusalem,
 Zion, praise your God:
 13 for strengthening the bars of your gates,
 for blessing your citizens, 14 for granting you peace on your frontiers,
 for feeding you on the finest wheat.
 15 He gives an order;
 his word flashes to earth:
 16 to spread snow like a blanket,
 to strew hoarfrost like ashes, 17 to drop ice like breadcrumbs,
 and when the cold is unbearable, 18 he sends his word to bring the thaw
 and warm wind to melt the snow.
 19 He reveals his word to Jacob,
 his statutes and rulings to Israel:
 20 he never does this for other nations,
 he never reveals his rulings to them.

Cosmic hymn of praise

1 Alleluia!
 Let heaven praise Yahweh:
 praise him, heavenly heights,
 2 praise him, all his angels,
 praise him, all his armies!
 3 Praise him, sun and moon,
 praise him, shining stars,
 4 praise him, highest heavens,
 and waters above the heavens!
 5 Let them all praise the name of Yahweh,
 at whose command they were created;
 6 he has fixed them in their place for ever,
 by an unalterable statute.

Let earth praise Yahweh:	7
sea-monsters and all the deeps,
fire and hail, snow and mist,	8
gales that obey his decree, mountains and hills,	9
orchards and forests,
wild animals and farm animals,	10
snakes and birds,
all kings on earth and nations,	11
princes, all rulers in the world,
young men and girls,	12
old people, and children too!
Let them all praise the name of Yahweh,	13
for his name and no other is sublime, transcending earth and heaven in majesty,
raising the fortunes of his people,	14
to the praises of the devout,
of Israel, the people dear to him.

PSALM 149

Song of triumph

Alleluia!	1
Sing Yahweh a new song,
let the congregation of the faithful sing his praise!
Let Israel rejoice in his maker,	2
and Zion's children exult in their King;
let them dance in praise of his name,	3
playing to him on strings and drums!
For Yahweh has been kind to his people,	4
conferring victory on us who are weak;
the faithful exult in triumph,	5
prostrate before God they acclaim him
with panegyrics on their lips,	6
and a two-edged sword in their hands
to exact vengeance on the pagans,	7
to inflict punishment on the heathen,
to shackle their kings with chains	8
and their nobles with fetters,
to execute the preordained sentence. <sup>a</sup>	9
Thus gloriously are the faithful rewarded!

PSALM 150

Final chorus of praise<sup>a</sup>

Alleluia!	1
Praise God in his Temple on earth,
praise him in his temple in heaven,
praise him for his mighty achievements,	2:
praise him for his transcendent greatness!

- 3 Praise him with blasts of the trumpet,
 praise him with lyre and harp,
 4 praise him with drums and dancing,
 praise him with strings and reeds,
 5 praise him with clashing cymbals,
 praise him with clanging cymbals!
 6 Let everything that breathes praise Yahweh!
 Alleluia!

EXODUS 15:1-18

Song of victory

- 1 15 It was then that Moses and the sons of Israel sang this song in honour of Yahweh:
 'Yahweh I sing: he has covered himself in glory,
 horse and rider he has thrown into the sea.
 2 Yah is my strength, my song,
 he is my salvation.
 This is my God, I praise him;
 the God of my father, I extol him.
 3 Yahweh is a warrior;
 Yahweh is his name.
 4 The chariots and the army of Pharaoh he has hurled into the sea;
 the pick of his horsemen lie drowned in the Sea of Reeds.
 5 The depths have closed over them;
 they have sunk to the bottom like a stone.
 6 Your right hand, Yahweh, shows majestic in power,
 your right hand, Yahweh, shatters the enemy.
 7 So great your splendour, you crush your foes;
 you unleash your fury, and it devours them like stubble.
 8 A blast from your nostrils and the waters piled high;
 the waves stood upright like a dyke;
 in the heart of the sea the deeps came together.
 9 "I will give chase and overtake," the enemy said
 "I shall share out the spoil, my soul will feast on it;
 I shall draw my sword, my hand will destroy them."
 10 One breath of yours you blew, and the sea closed over them;
 11 they sank like lead in the terrible waters.
 Who among the gods is your like, Yahweh?
 Who is your like, majestic in holiness,
 12 terrible in deeds of prowess, worker of wonders?
 13 You stretched your right hand out, the earth swallowed them!
 By your grace you led the people you redeemed,
 14 by your strength you guided them to your holy house.
 Hearing of this, the peoples tremble;
 15 pangs seize on the inhabitants of Philistia.
 Edom's chieftains are now dismayed,
 the princes of Moab fall to trembling,
 16 Canaan's inhabitants are all unmanned.
 On them fall terror and dread;

149 a. In the prophetic books.

150 a. A grand doxology to close the Psalter.

through the power of your arm they are still as stone
 as your people pass, Yahweh,
 as the people pass whom you purchased.
 You will bring them and plant them on the 17
 mountain that is your own,
 the place you have made your dwelling, Yahweh,
 the sanctuary, Yahweh, prepared by your own hands.
 Yahweh will be king for ever and ever.' 18

I SAMUEL 2:1-10

The song of Hannah

2 Then Hannah said this prayer:

'My heart exults in Yahweh, 1
 my horn is exalted in my God,
 my mouth derides my foes,
 for I rejoice in your power of saving.

There is none as holy as Yahweh, (indeed, there is no one but you)
 no rock like our God. 2

Do not speak and speak with haughty words, let not arrogance come from your mouth. 3
 For Yahweh is an all-knowing God and his is the weighing of deeds.

The bow of the mighty is broken
 but the feeble have girded themselves with strength. 4
 The sated hire themselves out for bread
 but the famished cease from labour; 5
 the barren woman bears sevenfold,
 but the mother of many is desolate.

Yahweh gives death and life,
 brings down to Sheol and draws up; 6 Yahweh makes poor and rich,
 he humbles and also exalts. 7

He raises the poor from the dust,
 he lifts the needy from the dunghill 8
 to give them a place with princes,
 and to assign them a seat of honour;
 for to Yahweh the props of the earth belong,
 on these he has poised the world.

He safeguards the steps of his faithful 9
 but the wicked vanish in darkness (for it is not by strength that man triumphs).
 The enemies of Yahweh are shattered, 10
 the Most High thunders in the heavens.

Yahweh judges the ends of the earth,
 he endows his king with power,
 he exalts the horn of his Anointed.'

ISAIAH 38:9-20

The canticle of Hezekiah

9 Canticle of Hezekiah king of Judah after his illness and recovery.

10 I said: In the noon of my life
I have to depart
for the gates of Sheol,
I am deprived of the rest of my years.

11 I said: I shall never see Yahweh again
in the land of the living,
never again look on any man
of those who inhabit the earth.

12 My tent is pulled up, and thrown away
like the tent of a shepherd;
like a weaver you roll up my life
to cut it from the loom.

13 From dawn to night you are compassing my end,
I cry aloud until the morning;
like a lion he crushes all my bones,
from dawn to night you are compassing my end.

14 I am twittering like a swallow,
I am moaning like a dove,
my eyes turn to the heights,
take care of me, be my safeguard.

15 What can I say? Of what can I speak to him?
It is he who is at work;
I will give glory to you all the years of my life
for my sufferings.

16 Lord, my heart will live for you,
my spirit will live for you alone.
You will cure me and give me life,
my suffering will turn to health.

17 It is you who have kept my soul from the pit of nothingness,
you have thrust all my sins
behind your back.

18 For Sheol does not praise you,
Death does not extol you;
those who go down to the pit do not go on trusting
in your faithfulness.

19 The living, the living are the ones who praise you,
as I do today.
Fathers tell their sons
about your faithfulness.

20 Yahweh, come to my help and we will make our harps resound
all the days of our life
in front of the Temple of Yahweh.

HABAKKUK 3

PLEA TO YAHWEH FOR DELIVERANCE

3	A prayer <sup>a</sup> of Habakkuk the prophet; tone as for dirges.	1
	Yahweh, I have heard of your renown, your work, Yahweh, inspires me with dread. Repeat it in our own time, reveal it in our time. For all your wrath, remember to be merciful.	2
	Eloah is coming from Teman, and the Holy One from Mount Paran. <sup>b</sup> His majesty veils the heavens, the earth is filled with his glory.	3 Pause
	His brightness is like the day, rays flash from his hands, that is where his power lies hidden.	4
	Plague goes in front of him, fever follows on his heels.	5
	When he stands up he makes the earth tremble, with his glance he makes the nations quake.	6
	Then the ancient mountains are dislodged, the everlasting hills sink down, his pathway from of old.
	I have seen the tents of Cushan terrified, the pavilions of the land of Midian shuddering. <sup>c</sup>	7
	Yahweh, is your anger blazing against the rivers, or your fury against the sea, that you come mounted on your horses, on your victorious chariots?	8
	You uncover your bow, you ply its string with arrows.	9 Pause
	You trench the soil with torrents; the mountains shiver when they see you; great floods sweep on their way, the abyss <sup>d</sup> roars aloud, high it lifts its hands.	10
	Sun and moon stay in their houses, avoiding the flash of your arrows, the gleam of your glittering spear.	11
	Raging, you stride the earth, in anger you trample the nations.	12
	You have marched to save your people, to save your own anointed; you have beaten down the wicked man's house, bared its foundations to the rock.	13 Pause
	With your shafts you have pierced the leader of his warriors who stormed out with shouts of joy to scatter us,

as if they meant to devour some poor wretch in their lair.

15 You have trampled the sea with your horses,
the surge of great waters.

16 I have heard. My whole body trembles, my lips quiver at the sound;
decay creeps into my bones,
my steps falter beneath me.

Calmly I await the day of anguish
which is dawning on the people now attacking us.

17 (For the fig tree is not going to blossom,
nor will there be any fruit on the vine,
the yield of the olive will fail,
the fields afford no food;
the sheep will vanish from the fold,
nor will there be any cattle in the stalls.)

18 But I will rejoice in Yahweh,
I will exult in God my saviour.

19 Yahweh my Lord is my strength,
he makes my feet as light as a doe's,
he sets my steps on the heights.

For the choirmaster; on stringed instruments.

3 a. The note at the end of this chapter, and the three rubrics marking pauses, show that this psalm was used in the liturgy. b. Eloah is an ancient name for God. The place-names are in Edom, and the coming of Yahweh is described in terms of an advancing storm. c. Midian is to the S. of Edom; Cushan appears to be the same region. d. 'The waters under the earth' rise to join the rain.

THE WISDOM LITERATURE

This general description is usually applied to a number of books which belong mainly to the post-exilic period. The Hebrew people were exposed to a wide range of cultural influences throughout their history, for their country lay across some of the busiest routes in the Near East. After the Exile in Babylon the influences from neighbouring cultures increased, for permanent settlements of Jews developed in many of the major cities. The Jewish inhabitants of cities such as Babylon and Alexandria retained their national identity and their loyalty to their religion, but they were deeply influenced by the cultures of the people amongst whom they were living.

The spread of Greek ways of life and thought was another important factor, and this was strengthened by the conquest of the Near East by Alexander the Great (336–323 B.C.) and the subsequent attempts to force the Greek way of life on the countries through which his armies passed. Such Greek influences were meant to assist political control, and even when they were not fully accepted, as in the case of Jerusalem, they had an important effect in the reactions they provoked.

There is no single factor which each of the books in this section shares with all the others. They are all concerned with the experiences and problems of ordinary, everyday life, rather than with events on an international or even a cosmic scale; but their conclusions range from sheer delight, through complacency, to something very close to despair or cynicism.

The 'wisdom' which figures largely in four of the books is essentially practical wisdom in everyday relationships and the commonplace happenings in the family and the local community. Unlike the more abstract ethical philosophy which developed amongst the Greeks during this period, Hebrew wisdom was almost entirely concrete. It expressed the collective experience, tested and approved, which was passed on by the older generation to the younger one. Consequently, proverbs and maxims of conduct predominate in three of the books, Proverbs, Ecclesiasticus, and Wisdom, and form the basis for much of the material in Job and Ecclesiastes.

Proverbs is a number of collections of proverbs, gathered and edited over a very wide period. The contents of three of the collections are attributed to King Solomon (c. 970–931 B.C.), and while this attribution must be questioned in view of the ancient custom of attributing literature to famous people, there is no reason for doubting that much of the material may come from Solomon's time or even much earlier (see Section C). There are marked correspondences with similar Egyptian collections which must be given a date earlier than 600 B.C. The text states that one of the collections was made by scribes working for King Hezekiah (716–687 B.C.). 'Wisdom' is personified in several notable sections (as also in Ecclesiasticus and Wisdom); this reflects the experience of possession of a personal power which assists right action, rather than the merely external precepts of a code of law.

Ecclesiasticus was originally written in Jerusalem about 190–180 B.C. and translated into Greek in Alexandria by the author's grandson in 132 B.C. The book is sometimes called 'Ben Sirach', part of the Hebrew phrase by which the author is identified in 50:27. It was written during the time when the Greek influence in Jerusalem was provoking intense opposition, and the book may be an attempt to show that there is a large body of traditional Hebrew wisdom by which people can regulate their lives and which is as impressive as the Greek way of life. It shows how the Covenant and the traditional law can be applied to ordinary life, but it makes little attempt to come to grips with the problems of suffering and evil. In a central passage in the book wisdom is personified and depicted as a close companion of God sent by him to live amongst the Hebrew people.

Wisdom is the latest of the books based on the use of traditional proverb-type material. Although it is attributed to King Solomon it is more likely that it was written or compiled in Alexandria about 50 B.C. It urges that the problems of suffering and evil are best met by being faithful to the traditional law, in which the experience of the nation is expressed. The great deeds of God in history are listed in order to show that this power is available in the personal lives of those who put their trust in him. Wisdom is again personified and given an intimately close relationship with God as 'a breath of the power of God, pure emanation of the glory of the Almighty' (7:25). This strength is available throughout the world. The influence of Greek thought may be seen in the belief in the immortality of the soul, and in a tendency to think of the body as little more than the dwelling-place for the soul.

The Song of Songs is a remarkable collection of love poems. It is not easy to see how it became part of the Old Testament, and it has only retained its place through the years in the face of strong opposition. The language of love and of sexual intercourse provided important images in the prophetic writings for the relationship between Yahweh and the Hebrew people, but this was always within the context of marriage. The Song of Songs is an expression of the delight that two lovers find in each other; any allegorical interpretations must be secondary to this primary meaning, and there is nothing to show that any other purpose was in the author's mind.

Job is an examination of the problem of innocent suffering. No clear solution is reached except the negative one that the traditional attitude, which taught that there was an inevitable connection between prosperity and virtue, and between suffering and sin, is unacceptable. Throughout the book Job refuses to accept that he is anything but entirely innocent, and the conclusion reached at the end is that suffering is a mystery which man cannot hope to understand. The book is written in the form of a series of dialogues between Job and a group of friends, who put forward the traditional explanations. Finally, God himself answers Job and tells him that he must bow to his creator's superior wisdom and not attempt to find a cause for his suffering. The book itself suggests a cause in the introductory passages where God intends to prove to Satan (one of God's servants) that it is possible for a man to remain faithful to God even if he can see no benefit to be gained from it. But this must be seen as little more than a literary device which enables the author to employ the dialogue form to discuss the problems of evil and misfortune.

The book is filled with passages which glory in the wonders of the natural world and which reflect the view of creation expressed in the opening chapter of Genesis. Wisdom is praised as an attribute of God which is beyond the reach of man; fearing God and avoiding evil is the nearest that man can approach to wisdom. There is a suggestion of belief in life after death in a passage which speaks of Job being able to witness, after death, his vindication by God. All that can be said about the date is that the book was written after the Exile.

Ecclesiastes takes its name from the author's position as a member of the assembly or congregation, and although the further identification of this person as King Solomon cannot be accepted, it indicates the presence of traditional sayings mixed in with the pessimism which dominates the book. It is not easy to say whether there is any Greek influence present, and the book is best seen as a collection of the comparatively disconnected thoughts of an educated and sophisticated Jewish leader. There is no clear indication of date, except that copies were already in existence about 150 B.C. and that it is unlikely that it was written before 400 B.C.

PROVERBS 1—9

Title and purpose of the book

- 1 1 The proverbs of Solomon son of David, king of Israel:
2           for learning what wisdom and discipline are,
3           for understanding words of deep meaning,
4           for acquiring an enlightened attitude of mind
5           —virtue, justice and fair-dealing;
6           for teaching sound judgement to the ignorant,
7           and knowledge and sense to the young;
8           for perceiving the meaning of proverbs and obscure sayings,
9           the sayings of the sages and their riddles.
10 Let the wise listen and he will learn yet more,
11 and the man of discernment will acquire the art of guidance.
12
13 The fear of Yahweh is the beginning of knowledge;
14 fools spurn wisdom and discipline.

PROLOGUE

A COMMENDATION OF WISDOM

The sage speaks: avoid bad company

- 8 Listen, my son, to your father's instruction,
9 do not reject your mother's teaching:
10 they will be a crown of grace for your head,
11 a circlet for your neck.
12 My son, if sinners try to seduce you,
13 do not give way.
14 If they say, 'Come with us:
15 there is blood to be had if we lie in wait for it,
16 if we plan an ambush for the innocent;
17 we can swallow them alive, like Sheol,
18 alive and whole like those who go down to the Pit.
19 We shall find treasures of every sort,
20 we shall fill our houses with plunder;
21 throw in your lot with us:
22 one purse between us all.'
23 My son, do not follow them in their way,
24 keep your steps out of their path
25 (for their feet hasten to evil, 26 they are quick to shed blood);
27 the net is always spread in vain
if the bird is watching.

It is for their own blood these men lie in wait, 18
 their own selves they lie in ambush for.
 To this come all men who are after dishonest gain, 19
 which robs of their lives all those who take it for their own.

Wisdom speaks: a warning to the heedless

Wisdom calls aloud in the streets, 20
 she raises her voice in the public squares;
 she calls out at the street corners, 21
 she delivers her message at the city gates,
 'You ignorant people, how much longer will you cling to 22 your ignorance?
 How much longer will mockers revel in their mocking and fools hold knowledge contemptible?
 Pay attention to my warning: 23
 now I will pour out my heart to you,
 and tell you what I have to say.
 Since I have called and you have refused me, 24
 since I have beckoned and no one has taken notice, since you have ignored all my advice 25
 and rejected all my warnings,
 I, for my part, will laugh at your distress, 26
 I will jeer at you when calamity comes,
 when calamity bears down on you like a storm 27
 and your distress like a whirlwind,
 when disaster and anguish bear down on you.
 Then they shall call to me, but I will not answer, 28
 they shall seek me eagerly and shall not find me.
 They despised knowledge, 29
 they had no love for the fear of Yahweh, they would take no advice from me, 30
 and spurned all my warnings:
 so they must eat the fruits of their own courses, 31
 and choke themselves with their own scheming.
 For the errors of the ignorant lead to their death, 32
 and the complacency of fools works their own ruin;
 but whoever listens to me may live secure, 33
 he will have quiet, fearing no mischance.'

Wisdom, a safeguard against bad company

2 My son, if you take my words to heart, 1
 if you set store by my commandments, tuning your ear to wisdom, 2
 and applying your heart to truth:
 yes, if your plea is for clear perception, 3
 if you cry out for discernment,
 if you look for it as if it were silver, 4
 and search for it as for buried treasure, you will then understand what the fear of Yahweh is, 5
 and discover the knowledge of God.
 For Yahweh himself is giver of wisdom, 6
 from his mouth issue knowledge and discernment.
 He keeps his help for honest men, 7
 he is the shield of those whose ways are honourable;
 he stands guard over the paths of justice, 8
 he keeps watch on the way of his devoted ones.

- 9 Then you will understand what virtue is, justice, and fair dealing,
all paths that lead to happiness.
- 10 When wisdom comes into your heart and knowledge is a delight to you, 11 then prudence will be there to watch over you,
and discernment be your guardian 12 to keep you from the way that is evil,
from the man whose speech is deceitful, 13 from those who leave the paths of honesty
to walk the roads of darkness:
14 men who find their joy in doing wrong,
and their delight in deceitfulness, 15 whose tracks are twisted,
and the paths that they tread crooked.
- 16 Keeping you also from the alien woman,
from the stranger, with her wheedling words;
17 she has left the partner of her younger days,
she has forgotten the covenant of God;
18 towards death her house is declining,
down to the Shades her paths go.
- 19 Of those who go to her not one returns,
they never regain the paths of life.
- 20 So you will pursue the way of good men,
persisting in the paths of the virtuous.
- 21 For the land will be for honest men to live in the innocent will have it for their home; 22 while the wicked will be cut off from the land,
and the faithless rooted out of it.

How to acquire wisdom

- 1 3 My son, do not forget my teaching,
let your heart keep my principles,
2 for these will give you lengthier days,
longer years of life, and greater happiness.
- 3 Let kindness and loyalty never leave you:
tie them round your neck,
write them on the tablet of your heart.
- 4 So shall you enjoy favour and good repute
in the sight of God and man.
- 5 Trust wholeheartedly in Yahweh,
put no faith in your own perception;
6 in every course you take, have him in mind:
he will see that your paths are smooth.
- 7 Do not think of yourself as wise,
fear Yahweh and turn your back on evil:
8 health-giving, this, to your body,
relief to your bones.
- 9 Honour Yahweh with what goods you have
and with the first-fruits of all your returns; 10 then your barns will be filled with wheat,
your vats overflowing with new wine.
- 11 My son, do not scorn correction from Yahweh,
do not resent his rebuke;
12 for Yahweh reproves the man he loves,
as a father checks a well-loved son.

The joys of wisdom

Happy the man who discovers wisdom, 13
     the man who gains discernment:
 gaining her is more rewarding than silver, 14
     more profitable than gold.
 She is beyond the price of pearls, 15
     nothing you could covet is her equal.
 In her right hand is length of days; 16
     in her left hand, riches and honour.
 Her ways are delightful ways, 17
     her paths all lead to contentment.
 She is a tree of life for those who hold her fast, 18
     those who cling to her live happy lives.

 By wisdom, Yahweh set the earth on its foundations, 19
     by discernment, he fixed the heavens firm.
 Through his knowledge the depths were carved out, 20
     and the clouds rain down the dew.

 My son, hold to sound judgment and to prudence, 21
     do not let them out of your sight;
 they will prove the life of your soul, 22
     an ornament round your neck.
 You will go on your way in safety, 23
     your feet will not stumble.
 When you sit down, you will not be afraid, 24
     when you lie down, sweet will be your sleep.
 Have no fear of sudden terror 25
     or of assault from wicked men, since Yahweh will be your guarantor, 26
     he will keep your steps from the snare.

 Do not refuse a kindness to anyone who begs it, 27
     if it is in your power to perform it.
 Do not say to your neighbour, 'Go away! Come another time!
     I will give it you tomorrow', if you can do it now.
 Do not plot harm against your neighbour 29
     as he lives unsuspecting next door.
 Do not pick a groundless quarrel with a man 30
     who has done you no harm.
 Do not emulate the man of violence, 31 never model your conduct on his;
 for the wilful wrong-doer is abhorrent to Yahweh, 32
     who confides only in honest men.
 Yahweh's curse lies on the house of the wicked, 33
     but he blesses the home of the virtuous.
 He mocks those who mock, 34
     but accords his favour to the humble.
 Honour is the portion of the wise, 35
     all that fools inherit is disgrace.

On choosing wisdom

4 Listen, my sons, to a father's instruction; 1:
     pay attention, and learn what clear perception is.
 What I am commending to you is sound doctrine: 2:
     do not discard my teaching.
 I too was once a son with a father, 3:
     in my mother's eyes a tender child, unique.

- 4 This was what he used to teach me,
'Let your heart treasure what I have to say,
keep my principles and you shall live;
5 acquire wisdom, acquire perception,
never forget her, never deviate from my words.
6 Do not desert her, she will keep you safe,
love her, she will watch over you.
7 The beginning of wisdom? The acquisition of wisdom;
at the cost of all you have, acquire perception.
8 Hold her close, and she will make you great;
embrace her, and she will be your pride;
9 she will set a crown of grace on your head,
present you with a glorious diadem.'
- 10 Listen, my son, take my words to heart,
and the years of your life shall be multiplied.
11 I have educated you in the ways of wisdom,
I have guided you along the paths of honesty.
12 As you walk, your going will be unhindered,
as you run, you will not stumble.
13 Hold fast to discipline, never let her go,
keep your eyes on her, she is your life.
14 Never set your foot on the path of the wicked,
do not walk the way that the evil go.
15 Avoid it, do not take it,
turn your back on it, pass it by.
16 For they cannot sleep unless they have first done wrong,
they miss their sleep if they have not brought someone down;
17 wickedness is the bread they eat,
and violence the wine they drink.
- 18 The path of the virtuous is like the light of dawn,
its brightness growing to the fulness of day;
19 the way of the wicked is as dark as night,
they cannot tell what it is they stumble over.
- 20 My son, pay attention to my words,
listen carefully to the words I say;
21 do not let them out of your sight,
keep them deep in your heart.
22 They are life to those who grasp them,
health for the entire body.
23 More than all else, keep watch over your heart,
since here are the wellsprings of life.
24 Turn your back on the mouth that misleads,
keep your distance from lips that deceive.
25 Let your eyes be fixed ahead,
your gaze be straight before you.
26 Let the path you tread be level
and all your ways made firm.
27 Turn neither to right nor to left,
keep your foot clear of evil.

Flight from the seductress. Where the wise man's love should be

- 1 5 My son, pay attention to my wisdom,
listen carefully to what I know,
2 and so have prudence and knowledge to protect you;
these will keep a guard on your lips.

Take no notice of a loose-living woman,
 for the lips of this alien drip with honey, 3
     her words are smoother than oil, but their outcome is bitter as wormwood, 4
     sharp as a two-edged sword.
 Her feet go down to death, 5
     her steps lead down to Sheol;
 far from following the path of life, 6
     her ways are undirected, irresponsible.

And now, my son, listen to me, 7
     never deviate from what I say:
 set your course as far from her as possible, 8
     go nowhere near the door of her house, or you will surrender your honour to others, 9
     your years to one who has no pity, and strangers will batten on your property, 10
     your labours going to some alien house,
 and, at your ending, 11
     when body and flesh are consumed,
 you will groan and exclaim, 12
 'Alas, I hated discipline,
     my heart spurned all correction;
 I would not hear the voice of my masters, 13
     I would not listen to those who tried to teach me.
 Now I am all but reduced to the depths of misery, 14
     in the presence of the whole community.'

Drink the water from your own cistern, 15
     fresh water from your own well.<sup>a</sup>
 Do not let your fountains flow to waste elsewhere, 16
     nor your streams in the public streets.
 Let them be for yourself alone, 17
     not for strangers at the same time.
 And may your fountain-head be blessed! 18

Find joy with the wife you married in your youth, fair as a hind, graceful as a fawn, 19
     Let hers be the company you keep,
 hers the breasts that ever fill you with delight,
     hers the love that ever holds you captive.

Why be seduced, my son, by an alien woman, 20
     and fondle the breast of a woman who is a stranger?
 For the eyes of Yahweh observe a man's ways 21
     and survey all his paths.
 The wicked man is snared in his own misdeeds, 22
     is caught in the meshes of his own sin.
 For want of discipline, he dies, 23
     and is lost through his own excessive folly.

On surety rashly offered

6 My son, if you have gone surety for your neighbour, 1
     if you have guaranteed the bond of a stranger,
 if you have committed yourself with your own lips, 2
     if through words of yours you have been entrapped,
 do this, my son, to extricate yourself— 3
     since you have put yourself in the power of your neighbour:

- 4 go, go quickly, and plead with your neighbour,
give your eyes no sleep,
your eyelids no rest,
5 break free like a gazelle from the trap,
like a bird from the snare.

The idler and the ant

- 6 Idler, go to the ant;
ponder her ways and grow wise:
7 no one gives her orders,
no overseer, no master,
8 yet all through the summer she makes sure of her food,
and gathers her supplies at harvest time.
9 How long do you intend to lie there, idler?
When are you going to rise from your sleep?
10 A little sleep, a little drowsiness,
a little folding of the arms to take life easier, 11 and like a vagrant, poverty is at your elbow
and, like a beggar, want.

Portrait of a scoundrel

- 12 A scoundrel, a vicious man,
he goes with a leer on his lips, 13 winking his eye, shuffling his foot,
beckoning with his finger.
14 Deceit in his heart, always scheming evil,
he sows dissension.
15 Disaster will overtake him sharply for this,
suddenly, irretrievably, his fall will come.

Seven things hateful to God<sup>a</sup>

- 16 There are six things that Yahweh hates,
seven that his soul abhors:
17 a haughty look, a lying tongue,
hands that shed innocent blood, 18 a heart that weaves wicked plots,
feet that hurry to do evil, 19 a false witness who lies with every breath,
a man who sows dissension among brothers.

More fatherly advice

- 20 Keep your father's principle, my son,
do not spurn your mother's teaching.
21 Bind them ever to your heart,
tie them round your neck.
22 When you walk, these will guide you,
when you lie down, watch over you,
when you wake, talk with you.
23 For this principle is a lamp,
this teaching is a light;
correction and discipline are the way to life, 24 preserving you from the woman subject to a husband,
from the smooth tongue of the woman who is a stranger.

<sup>6</sup> a. 'Numerical proverb', a favourite form; there is a series of them in ch.30.

Do not covet her beauty in your heart	25
or let her captivate you with the play of her eyes;
a harlot can be bought for a hunk of bread,	26
but the adulteress is aiming to catch a precious life.
Can a man hug fire to his breast	27
without setting his clothes alight?
Can a man walk on red-hot coals	28
without burning his feet?
So it is the man who consorts with his neighbour's wife:	29
no one who touches her will go unpunished.
Men attach small blame to the thief	30
who in hunger steals to fill his belly;
though, once caught, he must pay back sevenfold,	31
and has to hand over all his family resources.
But the adulterer has no sense;	32
act like him, and court your own destruction.
All he gets is blows and insults,	33
and disgrace that will not be blotted out.
For jealousy inflames the husband	34
who will show no mercy when the day comes for revenge,
he will not consider any compensation,	35
lavish what gifts you may, he will not be placated.
My son, keep my words,	1
and treasure my principles,
keep my principles and you will live,	2
keep my teaching as the apple of your eye.
Bind these to your fingers,	3
write them on the tablet of your heart.
To Wisdom say, 'My sister!'	4
Call Perception your dearest friend,
to preserve you from the alien woman,	5
from the stranger, with her wheedling words.
From the window of her house	6
she looked out on the street,
to see if among the men, young and callow,	7
there was one young man who had no sense at all.
And now he passes down the lane, and comes near her corner,	8
reaching the path to her house
at twilight when day is declining,	9
at dead of night and in the dark.
But look, the woman comes to meet him,	10
dressed like a harlot, wrapped in a veil.
She is loud and brazen;	11
her feet cannot rest at home.
Now in the street, now in the square,	12
she is on the look-out at every corner.
She catches hold of him, she kisses him,	13
the bold-faced creature says to him,
'I had to offer sacrifices:	14
I discharged my vows today,
that is why I came out to meet you,	15
to look for you, and now I have found you.
I have made my bed gay with quilts,	16
spread the best Egyptian sheets,
I have sprinkled my bed with myrrh,	17
with aloes and with cinnamon.

- 18 Come, let us drink deep of love until the morning,
and abandon ourselves to delight.
- 19 For my husband is not at home,
he has gone on a very long journey, 20 taking his moneybags with him;
he will not be back until the moon is full.<sup>7</sup>
- 21 With her persistent coaxing she entices him,
draws him on with her seductive patter.
- 22 Bemused, he follows her
like an ox being led to the slaughter,
like a stag caught in a noose, 23 till he is pierced to the liver by an arrow,
like a bird darting into a snare
not knowing its life is at stake.
- 24 And now, my son, listen to me,
pay attention to the words I have to say:
25 do not let your heart stray into her ways,
or wander into her paths;
26 she has done so many to death,
and the strongest have all been her victims.
- 27 Her house is the way to Sheol,
the descent to the courts of death.

Wisdom again personified

- 1 Q Does Wisdom not call meanwhile?
Does Discernment not lift up her voice?
- 2 On the hilltop, on the road,
at the crossways, she takes her stand;
3 beside the gates of the city,
at the approaches to the gates she cries aloud, 4 'O men! I am calling to you;
my cry goes out to the sons of men.
- 5 You ignorant ones! Study discretion;
and you fools, come to your senses!
- 6 Listen, I have serious things to tell you,
from my lips come honest words.
- 7 My mouth proclaims the truth,
wickedness is hateful to my lips.
- 8 All the words I say are right,
nothing twisted in them, nothing false, 9 all straightforward to him who understands,
honest to those who know what knowledge means.
- 10 Accept my discipline rather than silver,
knowledge in preference to pure gold.
- 11 For wisdom is more precious than pearls,
and nothing else is so worthy of desire.

Wisdom sings her own praises. Wisdom, the guide of kings

- 12 'I, Wisdom, am mistress of discretion,
the inventor of lucidity of thought.
- 14 Good advice and sound judgement belong to me,
perception to me, strength to me.
- 13 (To fear Yahweh is to hate evil.)
I hate pride and arrogance,
wicked behaviour and a lying mouth.
- 17 I love those who love me;

those who seek me eagerly shall find me.
 By me monarchs rule 15
 and princes issue just laws;
 by me rulers govern, 16
 and the great impose justice on the world.
 With me are riches and honour, 18
 lasting wealth and justice.
 The fruit I give is better than gold, even the finest, 19
 the return I make is better than pure silver.
 I walk in the way of virtue, 20
 in the paths of justice,
 enriching those who love me, 21
 filling their treasuries.

Wisdom as creator

'Yahweh created me when his purpose first unfolded, 22
 before the oldest of his works.
 From everlasting I was firmly set, 23
 from the beginning, before earth came into being.
 The deep" was not, when I was born, 24
 there were no springs to gush with water.
 Before the mountains were settled, 25
 before the hills, I came to birth;
 before he made the earth, the countryside, 26
 or the first grains of the world's dust.
 When he fixed the heavens firm, I was there, 27
 when he drew a ring on the surface of the deep,
 when he thickened the clouds above, 28
 when he fixed fast the springs of the deep,
 when he assigned the sea its boundaries 29
 —and the waters will not invade the shore—
 when he laid down the foundations of the earth,
 I was by his side, a master craftsman, 30
 delighting him day after day,
 ever at play in his presence,
 at play everywhere in his world, 31
 delighting to be with the sons of men.

The great invitation

'And now, my sons, listen to me; 32a listen to instruction and learn to be wise,
 do not ignore it. 33
 Happy those who keep my ways! 32b
 Happy the man who listens to me, 34
 who day after day watches at my gates to guard the portals.
 For the man who finds me finds life, 35
 he will win favour from Yahweh;
 but he who does injury to me does hurt to his own soul, 36
 all who hate me are in love with death.'

Wisdom as hostess

9 Wisdom has built herself a house, 1
 she has erected her seven pillars, she has slaughtered her beasts, prepared her wine, 2
 she has laid her table.

3 She has despatched her maidservants
and proclaimed from the city's heights:
4 'Who is ignorant? Let him step this way.'
To the fool she says,
5 'Come and eat my bread,
drink the wine I have prepared!
6 Leave your folly and you will live,
walk in the ways of perception.'

Against cynics

7 Correct a mocker and you make an enemy;
rebuke a wicked man, you get insult in return.
8 Do not rebuke the mocker, he will only hate you,
rebuke a wise man and he will love you for it.
9 Be open with the wise, he grows wiser still,
teach a virtuous man, he will learn yet more.
10 The fear of Yahweh is the beginning of wisdom;
the knowledge of the Holy One—perception indeed!
11 For days are multiplied by me
and years of life increased.
12 Are you wise? It is to your advantage.
A mocker? The burden is yours alone.

Dame Folly apes Wisdom

13 Dame Folly acts on impulse, is childish and knows nothing.
14 She sits at the door of her house,
on a throne commanding the city, 15 inviting the passers-by
as they pass on their lawful occasions,
16 'Who is ignorant? Let him step this way.'
To the fool she says,
17 'Stolen waters are sweet,
and bread tastes better when eaten in secret'.
18 The fellow does not realise that here the Shades are gathered,
that her guests are heading for the valleys of Sheol.

TRANSLATOR'S FOREWORD

1 Many and wonderful are the gifts we have been granted by means of the 2 Law and the Prophets and the others that followed them, an education in 3 wisdom on which Israel is indeed to be complimented. But it is not enough 4 merely for those who read the scriptures to be learned in them; students should 5 also be able to be of use to people outside by what they say and write. So it
6 was that my grandfather Jesus, having devoted himself more and more to reading
7 the Law and the Prophets and the other volumes of the fathers, and having 8,9 gained ability enough in these matters, was brought to the point of himself 0,11 writing down some of the things that have a bearing on education in wisdom, 12

8 a. 'The waters under the earth'.

in order that those studiously inclined and with obligations in these matters might make all the more progress in living according to the Law. 13 14

You are therefore asked to read this book with good will and attention and to show indulgence in those places where, notwithstanding our efforts at interpretation, we may seem to have failed to give an adequate rendering of this or that expression; the fact is that you cannot find an equivalent for things originally written in Hebrew when you come to translate them into another language; what is more, you will find on examination that the Law itself, the Prophets and the other books differ considerably in translation from what appears in the original text. 15 16 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26

It was in the thirty-eighth year of the late King Euergetes, when after my arrival in Egypt I had already spent some time there, that I found a work of more than common instructional worth, which convinced me of the urgency of applying myself in my turn with pains and diligence to the translation of the book that follows; and I spent much time and learning on it in the course of this period, to complete the work and to publish the book for the benefit especially of those who, domiciled abroad, wish to study how to fit themselves and their manners for living according to the Law. 27 28 29 30 31 32 33 34 35

COLLECTIONS OF SAYINGS

The mystery of wisdom

1 All wisdom is from the Lord, 1
and it is his own for ever.

The sand of the sea and the raindrops, 2
and the days of eternity, who can assess them?

The height of the sky and the breadth of the earth, 3
and the depth of the abyss, who can probe them?

Before all other things wisdom was created, 4
shrewd understanding is everlasting.

For whom has the root of wisdom ever been uncovered? 6
Her resourceful ways, who knows them?

One only is wise, terrible indeed, 8
seated on his throne, the Lord

He himself has created her, looked on her and assessed her, 9 and poured her out on all his works

to be with all mankind as his gift, 10
and he conveyed her to those who love him.

The fear of God

The fear of the Lord is glory and pride, 11
and happiness and a crown of joyfulness.

The fear of the Lord will gladden the heart 12
giving happiness and joy and long life.

With him who fears the Lord it will be well at the last, 13 and he will be blessed on the day of his death.

To fear the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, 14
she was created with the faithful in their mothers' womb; 16
she has made a nest among men, an age-old foundation, 15
and to their offspring she will cling faithfully. 19

To fear the Lord is the perfection of wisdom; 16
she intoxicates them with her fruits; 20

she fills their whole house with their heart's desire, 17
and their storerooms with her produce. 21

18 The fear of the Lord is the crown of wisdom;
22 it makes peace and health to flourish.

19 The Lord has looked on her and assessed her,
23 he has showered down learning and discernment,
24 and exalted the renown of those who hold her close.

20 To fear the Lord is the root of wisdom,
25 and her branches are long life.

Patience and self-control

22 The rage of the wicked man cannot justify him,
28 for the weight of his rage is his downfall.

23 The patient man will hold out till the time comes,
29 but his joy will break out in the end.

24 He will hide his words till the time comes,
30 and stories of his discernment will be on many lips.

Wisdom and uprightness

25 In wisdom's treasuries there are learned sayings,
31 but reverence for God is loathsome to the sinner.

32 If you desire wisdom, keep the commandments,
26 and the Lord will convey her to you.
33

27 For wisdom and instruction mean the fear of the Lord, 34 and what pleases him is faithfulness and gentleness.

35 Do not be unsubmitive to the fear of the Lord,
28 do not practise it with a double heart.
36

29 Do not act a part in public,
37 and keep a watch over your lips.

10 Do not raise yourself up, in case you fall
38 and bring disgrace on yourself,

39 for the Lord would then reveal your secrets
and humiliate you before the whole community

40 for not having attained the fear of the Lord,
and for having a heart full of deceit.

The fear of God in time of ordeal

1 2 My son, if you aspire to serve the Lord, prepare yourself for an ordeal.

2 Be sincere of heart, be steadfast,
and do not be alarmed when disaster comes.

3 Cling to him and do not leave him,
so that you may be honoured at the end of your days.

4 Whatever happens to you, accept it,
and in the uncertainties of your humble state, be patient,

5 since gold is tested in the fire,
and chosen men in the furnace of humiliation.

6 Trust him and he will uphold you,
follow a straight path and hope in him.

7 You who fear the Lord, wait for his mercy;
do not turn aside in case you fall.

8 You who fear the Lord, trust him,
and you will not be balked of your reward.

9 You who fear the Lord hope for good things,
for everlasting happiness and mercy.

F a. Probably Ptolemy VII Euergetes Physkon (170-117 B.C.), in which case the date would be 132 B.C.

Look at the generations of old and see: who ever trusted in the Lord and was put to shame?	10 11
Or who ever feared him steadfastly and was left forsaken?	12
Or who ever called out to him, and was ignored?	11
For the Lord is compassionate and merciful, he forgives sins, and saves in days of distress.	13 13
Woe to faint hearts and listless hands, and to the sinner who treads two paths.	12 14
Woe to the listless heart that has no faith, for such will have no protection.	13 13
Woe to you who have lost the will to endure; what will you do at the Lord's visitation?	14 16 17
Those who fear the Lord do not disdain his words, and those who love him keep his ways.	15 18
Those who fear the Lord do their best to please him, and those who love him find satisfaction in his Law.	16 19
Those who fear the Lord keep their hearts prepared and humble themselves in his presence.	17 20 21
Let us fall into the hands of the Lord, not into the hands of men; for as his majesty is, so too is his mercy.	18 22 23

Duties towards parents

3 Children, listen to me your father, do what I tell you, and so be safe;	1 2
for the Lord honours the father in his children, and upholds the rights of a mother over her sons.	2 3
Whoever respects his father is atoning for his sins, he who honours his mother is like someone amassing a fortune.	3 4 4 5
Whoever respects his father will be happy with children of his own, he shall be heard on the day when he prays.	5 6
Long life comes to him who honours his father, he who sets his mother at ease is showing obedience to the Lord.	6 7
He serves his parents as he does his Lord.	7b
Respect your father in deed as well as word, so that blessing may come on you from him;	8b 8 9 10
since a father's blessing makes the houses of his children firm, while a mother's curse tears up their foundations.	9 11
Do not make a boast of disgrace overtaking your father, your father's disgrace reflects no honour on you;	10 12
for a man's honour derives from the respect shown to his father, and a mother held in dishonour is a reproach to her children.	11 13
My son, support your father in his old age, do not grieve him during his life.	12 14
Even if his mind should fail, show him sympathy, do not despise him in your health and strength;	11 13
for kindness to a father shall not be forgotten but will serve as reparation for your sins.	14 17
In the days of your affliction it will be remembered of you, like frost in sunshine, your sins will melt away.	15
The man who deserts his father is no better than a blasphemer, and whoever angers his mother is accursed of the Lord.	16 18

Humility

My son, be gentle in carrying out your business, and you will be better loved than a lavish giver.	17 19
The greater you are, the more you should behave humbly,	18 20

20 and then you will find favour with the Lord; 21 for great though the power of the Lord is,
 he accepts the homage of the humble.
 21 Do not try to understand things that are too difficult for you,
 22 or try to discover what is beyond your powers.
 22 Concentrate on what has been assigned you,
 you have no need to worry over mysteries.
 23 Do not meddle with matters that are beyond you;
 24 what you have been taught already exceeds the scope of the 25 human mind.
 24 For many have been misled by their own presumption,
 26 and wrong-headed opinions have warped their ideas.

Pride

26 A stubborn heart will come to a bad end at last,
 27 and whoever loves danger will perish in it.
 27 A stubborn heart is weighed down with troubles,
 28 the sinner heaps sin on sin.
 28 There is no cure for the proud man's malady,
 30 since an evil growth has taken root in him.
 29 The heart of a sensible man will reflect on parables, 31 an attentive ear is the sage's dream.

Charity to the poor

30 Water quenches a blazing fire,
 31 almsgiving atones for sins.
 31 Whoever gives favours in return is mindful of the future;
 34 at the moment of his fall he will find support.
 1 4 My son, do not refuse the poor a livelihood,
 do not tantalise the needy.
 2 Do not add to the sufferings of the hungry,
 do not bait a man in distress.
 3 Do not aggravate a heart already angry,
 nor keep the destitute waiting for your alms.
 4 Do not repulse a hard-pressed beggar,
 nor turn your face from a poor man.
 5 Do not avert your eyes from the destitute,
 give no man occasion to curse you;
 6 for if a man curses you in the bitterness of his soul,
 his maker will hear his imprecation.
 7 Gain the love of the community,
 bow your head to a man of authority.
 8 To the poor man lend an ear,
 and return his greeting courteously.
 9 Save the oppressed from the hand of the oppressor,
 and do not be mean-spirited in your judgements.
 10 Be like a father to orphans,
 and as good as a husband to widows.
 11 And you will be like a son to the Most High,
 whose love for you will surpass your mother's.

Wisdom as educator

11 Wisdom brings up her own sons,
 12 and cares for those who seek her.
 12 Whoever loves her loves life,
 13 those who wait on her early will be filled with happiness.

Whoever holds her close will inherit honour, and wherever he walks the Lord will bless him.	13 14
Those who serve her minister to the Holy One, and the Lord loves those who love her.	14 15
Whoever obeys her judges aright, and whoever pays attention to her dwells secure.	15 16
If he trusts himself to her he will inherit her, and his descendants will remain in possession of her;	16 17
for though she takes him at first through winding ways, bringing fear and faintness on him,	17 18
plaguing him with her discipline until she can trust him, and testing him with her ordeals,	19
in the end she will lead him back to the straight road, and reveal her secrets to him.	18 20 21
If he wanders away she will abandon him, and hand him over to his fate.	19 22

Shame and human respect

My son, bide your time and be on your guard against evil, and have no cause to be ashamed of yourself;	20 23 24
for there is a shame that leads to sin, as well as a shame that is honourable and gracious.	21 25
Do not show partiality, to your own detriment, or deference, to your own downfall.	22 26 27
Do not refrain from speech at an opportune time, and do not hide your wisdom;	23 28
for wisdom shall be recognised in speech, and instruction by what the tongue utters.	24 29
Do not contradict the truth, rather blush for your own ignorance.	25 30
Do not be ashamed to confess your sins, do not strive against the current of a river.	26 31a 32b
Do not grovel to a foolish man, do not show partiality to a man of influence.	27 31b 32a
Fight to the death for truth, and the Lord God will war on your side.	28 33
Do not be bold of tongue, yet idle and slack in deed;	29 34
do not be like a lion at home, or a coward before your servants.	30 35
Do not let your hands be outstretched to receive, yet closed when the time comes to give back.	31 36

Wealth and presumption

5 Do not give your heart to your money, or say, 'With this I am self-sufficient'.	1
Do not be led by your appetites and energy to follow the passions of your heart.	2
And do not say, 'Who has authority over me?' for the Lord will certainly be avenged on you.	3
Do not say, 'I sinned, and what happened to me?' for the Lord's forbearance is long.	4
Do not be so sure of forgiveness that you add sin to sin.	5
And do not say, 'His compassion is great, he will forgive me my many sins';	6

- 7 for with him are both mercy and wrath,
and his rage bears heavy on sinners.
- 7
8 Do not delay your return to the Lord,
do not put it off day after day;
- 9 for suddenly the Lord's wrath will blaze out,
and at the time of vengeance you will be utterly destroyed.
- 8
10 Do not set your heart on ill-gotten gains,
they will be of no use to you on the day of disaster.

Straightforwardness and self-possession

- 9
11 Do not winnow in every wind,
or walk along every by-way (such is the practice of the deceitful sinner).
- 10
12 Be steady in your convictions, sincere in your speech.
- 11
13 Be quick to listen,
and deliberate in giving an answer.
- 12
14 If you understand the matter, give your neighbour an answer,
if not, put your hand over your mouth.
- 13
15 Both honour and disgrace come from talking,
a man's tongue can cause his downfall.
- 14
16 Do not get a name for scandal-mongering,
do not set traps with your tongue;
- 17 for as shame lies in store for the thief,
so harsh condemnation awaits the deceitful.
- 15
18 Avoid offences in great as in small matters, and do not become an enemy where you should stay a friend;
- 1
6 for a bad name will earn you shame and reproach,
as happens to the deceitful sinner.
- 2 Do not give in to the promptings of your temper,
in case it gores your soul like a mad bull;
- 3 in case it gobbles up your leaves and you lose your fruits,
and are left like a withered tree.
- 4 An evil temper destroys the man who has it
and makes him the laughing-stock of his enemies.

Friendship

- 5 A kindly turn of speech multiplies a man's friends, and a courteous way of speaking invites many a friendly reply.
- 6 Let your acquaintances be many,
but your advisers one in a thousand.
- 7 If you want to make a friend, take him on trial,
and be in no hurry to trust him;
- 8 for one kind of friend is only so when it suits him
but will not stand by you in your day of trouble.
- 9 Another kind of friend will fall out with you and to your dismay make your quarrel public,
and a third kind of friend will share your table,
but not stand by you in your day of trouble;
- 10 when you are doing well he will be your second self,
ordering your servants about;
- 11 but if ever you are brought low he will turn against you and will hide himself from you.
- 12 Keep well clear of your enemies,
and be wary of your friends.
- 13 A faithful friend is a sure shelter,
- 14

whoever finds one has found a rare treasure.
 A faithful friend is something beyond price, 15
 there is no measuring his worth.
 A faithful friend is the elixir of life, 16
 and those who fear the Lord will find one.
 Whoever fears the Lord makes true friends, 17
 for as a man is, so is his friend.

Apprenticeship to wisdom

My son, from your earliest youth choose instruction, 18
 and till your hair is white you will keep finding wisdom.
 Cultivate her like the ploughman and the sower, 19
 and wait for her fine harvest, for in tilling her you will toil a little while, 20
 but very soon you will be eating her crops.
 How very harsh she is to the undisciplined! 20
 The senseless man does not stay with her for long:
 she will weigh on him like a heavy stone, 21
 and he will lose no time in throwing her off; 22
 for discipline is true to her name, 22
 she is not accessible to many. 23
 Listen, son, and take my warning, 23
 do not reject my advice: 24
 put your feet into her fetters, 24
 and your neck into her harness; 25
 give your shoulder to her yoke, 25
 do not be restive in her reins; 26
 court her with all your soul, 26
 and with all your might keep in her ways; 27 go after her and seek her; she will reveal herself to you; 27
 once you hold her, do not let her go. 28
 For in the end you will find rest in her 28
 and she will take the form of joy for you: 29
 her fetters you will find are a strong defence, 29
 her harness, a robe of honour. 30
 Her yoke will be a golden ornament, 30
 her reins, purple ribbons; 31
 you will wear her like a robe of honour, 31
 you will put her on like a crown of honour. 32
 If you wish, my son, you can acquire instruction, 32
 if you give your mind to it, subtlety will be yours. 33
 If you love listening you will learn, 33
 if you lend an ear, wisdom will be yours. 34 Attend the gathering of elders; 34
 if there is a wise man there, attach yourself to him. 35
 Listen willingly to any discourse coming from God, 35
 do not let shrewd proverbs escape you.
 If you see a man of understanding, visit him early, 36
 let your feet wear out his doorstep.
 Reflect on the injunctions of the Lord, 37
 busy yourself at all times with his commandments.
 He will strengthen your mind,
 and the wisdom you desire will be granted you.

Miscellaneous advice

7 Do no evil, and evil will not befall you; 1 shun wrong, and it will avoid you. 2

- 3 Son, do not sow in the furrows of wrong-doing,
or you may reap it seven times over.
- 4 Do not ask the Lord for the highest place,
or the king for a seat of honour.
- 5 Do not parade your virtue before the Lord,
or your wisdom before the king.
- 6 Do not scheme to be appointed judge,
in case you are not strong enough to stamp out injustice,
in case you let yourself be swayed by an influential man,
and so risk the loss of your integrity.
- 7 Do not wrong the general body of citizens and so lower yourself in popular esteem.
- 8 Do not be drawn to sin twice over,
for you will not go unpunished even once.
- 9
11 Do not say, 'God will consider the great number of my gifts;
when I make my offerings to the Most High God he will accept them'.
- 10
9 Do not be impatient in prayer;
10 do not neglect to give alms.
- 11
12 Do not laugh at a man when he is sad of heart,
for he who brings him low can lift him high.
- 12
13 Do not draw up a lying indictment against your brother,
do not do it against a friend either.
- 13
14 Mind you tell no lies,
for no good can come of it.
- 14
15 Do not make long-winded speeches in the gathering of elders,
and do not repeat yourself at your prayers.
- 15
16 Do not shirk wearisome labour,
or farm work, which the Most High created.
- 16
17 Do not swell the ranks of the sinners, 18 remember that the wrath will not delay.
- 17
19 Be very humble,
since the punishment for the godless is fire and worms.
- 18
20 Do not barter a friend for profit,
nor a real brother for the gold of Ophir.
- 19
21 Do not turn against a wise and good wife,
for her charm is worth more than gold.
- 20
22 Do not ill-treat a slave who is an honest worker,
or a wage-earner who does his best for you.
- 21
23 Love an intelligent slave like your own self,
and do not deny him his freedom.

Children

- 22
24 Have you cattle? Look after them;
if they are making you a profit, keep them.
- 23
25 Have you children? Educate them, make them bow the neck from childhood.
- 24
26 Have you daughters? Take care of their bodies, but do not be over-indulgent.
- 25
27 Marry a daughter off, and you have finished a great work;
but give her to a man of sense.

Have you a wife to your liking? Do not turn her out;
but if you dislike her, never trust her. 26 28

Parents

With all your heart honour your father, never forget the birthpangs of your mother. 27 29
Remember that you owe your birth to them;
how can you repay them for what they have done for you? 28 30

Priests

With all your soul hold the Lord in awe, and revere his priests. 29
31
With all your might love him who made you,
and do not abandon his ministers. 30 32
Fear the Lord and honour the priest
and give him the portion enjoined on you: 31 33
first-fruits and sacrifices of reparation and the shoulder-gift, the sacrifice of sanctification, and first-fruits of the holy things. 34 35

The poor and afflicted

Stretch your hand out also to the poor man, that your blessing may be perfect. 32
36
Be generous in your gifts to all the living,
do not withhold your favour even from the dead. 33 37
Do not fail those who weep,
but share the grief of the grief-stricken. 34
38
Do not shrink from visiting the sick;
in this way you will make yourself loved. 35 39
In everything you do, remember your end,
and you will never sin. 36 40

Prudence and commonsense

8 Do not try conclusions with an influential man,
in case you later fall into his clutches. 1
Do not quarrel with a rich man, in case he turns the scales against you; 2
for gold has destroyed many,
and has swayed the hearts of kings. 3
Do not quarrel with a man of quick tongue,
do not pile logs on his fire. 3 4
Do not jest with an ill-mannered man,
in case you hear your ancestry insulted. 4 5
Do not revile a repentant sinner;
remember that we all are guilty. 5 6
Do not despise a man in his old age;
after all, some of us too are growing old. 6 7
Do not gloat over a man's death;
remember that we all must die. 7 8

Tradition

Do not ignore the talk of the wise,
be conversant with their proverbs,
since from these you will learn the theory and art
of serving the great. 8 9
Do not underrate the talk of old men, 9 11

12 after all, they themselves learned it from their fathers;
from them you will learn how to think,
and the art of the timely answer.

Prudence

10 Do not kindle the coals of the sinner,
13 in case you scorch yourself in his blaze.
11 Refuse to be drawn by an arrogant man,
14 for fear he tries to trap you in your words.
12 Do not lend to anyone who is stronger than you are—
15 if you do lend, resign yourself to loss.
13 Do not stand surety beyond your means;
16 if you do stand surety, be prepared to pay up.
14 Do not go to law with a judge,
17 since judgement will be given in his favour.
15 Do not travel with a reckless fellow,
18 in case he imposes on you;
he will act as the whim takes him,
and you will both be ruined by his folly.
16 Do not argue with a quick-tempered man,
19 or travel with him through the wilderness;
since blood counts for nothing in his eyes,
and where no help is to be had, he will strike you down.
17 Do not ask a fool for advice,
20 since he will not be able to keep a confidence.
18 In a stranger's presence do nothing that should be kept secret,
21 since you cannot tell what use he will make of it.
19 Do not open your heart to every man,
22 or solicit favours from all comers.

Women

1 9 Do not be jealous of the wife you love,
or teach her lessons in evil to your detriment.
2 Do not give your soul to a woman,
for her to trample on your strength.
3 Do not keep company with a harlot,
in case you get entangled in her snares.
4 Do not dally with a singing girl,
in case you get caught by her wiles.
5 Do not stare at a virgin,
in case you and she incur the same punishment.
6 Do not give your soul to whores,
or you will ruin your inheritance.
7 Keep your eyes to yourself in the streets of a town,
do not prowl about its unfrequented quarters.
8 Turn your eyes away from a handsome woman,
do not stare at the beauty that belongs to someone else.
9 Woman's beauty has led many astray;
it kindles desire like a flame.
12 Never sit down with a married woman,
13 or sit at table with her drinking wine,
in case you succumb to her charms,
and in your ardour you slide down to your ruin.

Relations with men

Do not desert an old friend; the new one will not be his match.	10 14
New friend, new wine; when it grows old, you drink it with pleasure.	15
Do not envy the sinner his success; you do not know what turn his career will take.	11 16
Do not take pleasure in what pleases the godless; remember they will not go unpunished to their grave.	12 17
Keep your distance from the man who has the power to put to death, and you will not be haunted by the fear of dying.	13 18
If you do approach him, make no false move, or he may take your life.	19
Realise that you are treading among trip-lines, that you are strolling on the battlements.	20
Cultivate your neighbours as far as you can, and consult with wise men.	14 21
For conversation seek intelligent men, let all your discussions bear on the law of the Most High.	15 22
Have virtuous men for your table companions, and let your pride be in fearing the Lord.	16 23
Work from skilled hands will earn its praise, but a leader of the people must be shrewd of speech.	17 24
A phrase-maker is a terror to his town, a loose talker is detested.	18 25

Government

10 The wise magistrate will be strict with his people, and the government of a prudent man will be well-regulated.	1
As the magistrate is, so will his officials be, as the governor is, so will be the inhabitants of his city.	2
An uneducated king will be the ruin of his people, a city owes its prosperity to the intelligence of its leading men.	3
The government of the earth is in the hands of the Lord, he sets the right man over it at the right time.	4
A man's success is in the hands of the Lord, it is he who invests the lawgiver with honour.	5

Against pride

Do not resent your neighbour's every offence, and never act in a fit of passion.	6
Pride is hateful to God and man, and injustice is abhorrent to both.	7
Empire passes from nation to nation because of injustice, arrogance and money.	8
What has dust and ashes to pride itself on? Even in life its guts are repellent.	9 10b
A long illness mocks the doctor; a king today is a corpse tomorrow.	10 12
When a man comes to die, his inheritance will be creeping things, beasts of prey, worms.	11 13
The beginning of human pride is to desert the Lord,	12 14

- 15 and to turn one's heart away from one's maker.
 13 Since the beginning of pride is sin,
 whoever clings to it will pour forth filth.
- 16 For which reason the Lord inflicted extraordinary punishments
 on them
 and utterly overthrew them.
- 14 The Lord has thrown down rulers' thrones, 17 and seated the humble in their place.
- 15 The Lord has plucked up proud men by the roots, 18 and planted the lowly in their place.
- 16 The Lord has overthrown the lands of the heathens 19 and destroyed them to the very foundations of the earth.
- 17 He has taken some of them away and destroyed them, 20 and blotted out their memory from the earth.
- 21 Pride was not created for men,
 18 nor furious rage for those born of woman.
 22

Persons deserving honour

- 19 What race deserves honour? The human race.
 23 What race deserves honour? Those who fear the Lord.
 What race deserves contempt? The human race.
 What race deserves contempt? Those who break the commandments.
- 20 Among brothers the leader of them deserves honour, 24 and those who fear the Lord deserve honour in his sight.
- 22 Let rich and noble and poor 25 take pride in fearing the Lord.
- 23 It is not right to despise a poor but intelligent man, 26 and it is not good to honour a man who is a sinner.
- 24 Ruler, magistrate, influential man, all are to be honoured, 27 but none of them is greater than him who fears the Lord.
- 25 A wise slave will have free men waiting on him,
 28 and the man of sense will not grumble.

Frankness and humility

- 26 Do not try to be smart when you do your work, 29 do not put on airs when you are in difficulties.
- 27 Better a hardworking man who has plenty of everything, 30 than a pretentious man at a loss for a meal.
- 28 My son, be modest in your self-esteem, 31 and value yourself at your proper worth.
- 29 Who can justify a man who runs himself down, 32 or respect a man who despises himself?
- 30 A poor man is honoured for his wits, 33 and a rich man for his wealth.
- 31 Honoured in poverty, how much the more in wealth!
 34 Dishonoured in wealth, how much the more in poverty!

Do not go by appearances

- 1 11 The poor man's wisdom keeps his head erect,
 and gives him a place with the great.
- 2 Do not praise a man for his good looks,
 nor dislike anybody for his appearance.
- 3 Small among winged creatures is the bee
 but her produce is the sweetest of the sweet.

Do not preen yourself on your fine clothes,
 nor be swollen headed on your day of glory;
 for the Lord's deeds are marvellous,
 though hidden from mankind. 4

Many monarchs have been made to sit on the ground, and the man nobody thought of has worn the crown. 5

Many influential men have been utterly disgraced, and prominent men have fallen into the power of others. 6

Deliberation and reflection

Do not find fault before making thorough inquiry;
 first reflect, then give a reprimand. 7

Listen before you answer,
 and do not interrupt a speech in the middle. 8

Do not wrangle about something that does not concern you, nor interfere in the squabbles of sinners. 9

My son, do not take on a great amount of business;
 if you multiply your interests, you are bound to suffer for it;
 hurry as fast as you can, yet you will never arrive,
 nor will you escape by running away. 10

A man labours and toils and forges ahead,
 only to find himself the more out-distanced. 11

Trust in God alone

Another man is a poor creature begging for assistance, badly off for support, but rich in poverty,
 and the Lord turns a favourable eye on him,
 sets him on his feet out of his abject condition,
 and enables him to hold his head high,
 to the utter amazement of many. 12 13

Good and bad, life and death,
 poverty and wealth, all come from the Lord. 14

The Lord's gift remains constant to the devout,
 and his goodwill means a good journey for ever. 17

A man grows rich by his sharpness and grabbing, and here is the reward he receives for it: 18

he says, 'I have found rest,
 and now I can enjoy my goods'; 19

but he does not know how long this will last;
 he will have to leave his goods for others and die. 20

Persevere at your duty, take pleasure in doing it,
 and grow old at your work. 20 21

Do not be astonished at the sinner's achievements;
 trust the Lord and keep to your duty; 21 22

since it is a trifle in the eyes of the Lord,
 in a moment, suddenly to make a poor man rich. 23

The devout man receives the Lord's blessing as his reward, in a moment God brings his blessing to flower. 22 24

Do not say, 'What are my needs,
 what will be my profits in future?' 23 25

And do not say, 'I am self-supporting, what losses can I suffer in future?' 24 26

In a time of profit, losses are forgotten, and in a time of loss, no one remembers profits. 25 27

Yet it is a trifle for the Lord on the day a man dies 26 28

to repay him as his conduct deserves.

- <sup>27</sup>
<sup>29</sup> A moment's adversity, and pleasures are forgotten;
in a man's last hour his deeds will stand revealed.
<sup>28</sup>
<sup>30</sup> Call no man fortunate before his death;
it is by his end that a man will be known.

Distrust the wicked

- <sup>29</sup>
<sup>31</sup> Do not bring every man home with you,
for many are the traps of the crafty.
<sup>30</sup>
<sup>32</sup> Like a decoy partridge in a basket, such is the proud man's heart;
like a spy he watches for your downfall.
<sup>31</sup>
<sup>33</sup> The slanderer twists good into evil,
will cast a slur on what deserves most praise.
<sup>32</sup>
<sup>34</sup> A hearthful of glowing coals starts from a single spark,
and the sinner lurks for the chance to spill blood.
<sup>33</sup>
<sup>35</sup> Beware of a scoundrel and his evil contrivances, in case he puts a smear on you for ever.
<sup>34</sup>
<sup>36</sup> Bring a stranger home with you and he will start trouble, and estrange you from your own family.

Rules for doing good<sup>a</sup>

- 1 12 If you do a good turn, know for whom you are doing it,
and your good deeds will not go to waste.
2 Do good to a devout man, and you will receive a reward,
if not from him, then certainly from the Most High.
3 No good will come to a man who persists in evil,
or who refuses to give alms.
4 Give to a devout man,
do not go to the help of a sinner.
5 Do good to a humble man,
give nothing to a godless one.
Refuse him bread, do not give him any,
it might make him stronger than you are;
then you would be repaid evil twice over
for all the good you had done him.
6 For the Most High himself detests sinners,
and will repay the wicked with a vengeance.
7 Give to the good man,
and do not go to the help of a sinner.

True and false friends

- 8 In prosperity you cannot always tell a true friend,
but in adversity you cannot mistake an enemy.
9 When a man is doing well his enemies are sad,
when he is doing badly, even a friend will keep his distance.
10 Do not ever trust an enemy;
as bronze tarnishes, so does his malignity.
11 Even if he behaves humbly and comes bowing and scraping,
maintain your reserve and be on your guard against him.
Behave towards him as if you were polishing a mirror,
you will find that his tarnish cannot last.
12 Do not stand him beside you
in case he thrusts you out and takes your place.

<sup>12 a</sup>. The worldly wisdom of this section may be contrasted with the ethics of the Gospel.

- Do not seat him at your right hand,
or he will be after your position,
and you will end up by admitting the truth of my words,
and feeling the sting in them.
- Who feels sorry for a snake-charmer bitten by a snake, 13
or for those who take risks with savage animals? —
just so for someone consorting with a sinner, 14
and being accomplice to his sins. 13b
- As long as you maintain your stand he will not reveal himself, 15
but if you once give way he will press his advantage. 14
- An enemy may have sweetness on his lips, 16
and in his heart a scheme to throw you in the ditch. 15
- An enemy may have tears in his eyes, 16
but if he gets a chance not even blood will satisfy him.
- If you meet with misfortune, you will find him there before you, 17 and, pretending to help you, he will trip you up.
- He will wag his head and clap his hands, 18
he will whisper a lot and his expression will change. 19

Mix with your equals

- 13 Whoever touches pitch will be defiled, 1 and anyone who associates with a proud man will come to be like him.
- Do not try to carry a burden too heavy for you, 2
do not associate with someone more powerful and wealthy than yourself.
- Why put the clay pot next to the iron cauldron? 3
It will only break when they collide.
- The rich man wrongs a man and puts on airs, 3
while the poor man is wronged and apologises. 4
- If you are useful he will exploit you, 4
if you cannot keep up with him he will desert you. 5
- Are you well off?—he will live with you, 5
he will clean you out without a single qualm. 6
- Does he need you?—he will hoodwink you, 6 smile at you and raise your hopes; 7
he will speak to you with smooth words and say, 'I wonder what you would like?'
- And he will put you to shame with his grand dinners, 7 until he has cleaned you out two or three times over, 8
and he will finish by making you ridiculous.
- When he sees you afterwards he will snub you,
and wag his head about you.
- Take care you are not hoodwinked 8
and thus humiliated through your own stupidity. 11
- When an influential man invites you, show reluctance, 9
and he will press his invitation all the more. 12
- Do not thrust yourself forward, in case you are pushed aside, 10
but do not stand aloof, or you will be overlooked. 13
- Do not affect to treat him as an equal, 11
do not trust his flow of words; 14
since all this talking is expressly meant to test you,
under cover of geniality he will be weighing you up.
- Pitiless is the man who is too free with his words, 12
he will not spare you either blows or chains. 13

- 13
16 Be wary, take very great care,
because you are walking with your own downfall.
- 15
19 Every living thing loves its own sort,
and every man his neighbour.
- 16
20 Every creature mixes with its kind,
and man sticks to his own sort.
- 17
21 How can wolf and lamb agree?—
Just so with sinner and devout.
- 18
22 What peace can there be between hyena and dog?
And what peace between rich man and poor?
- 19
23 Wild donkeys are the prey of desert lions;
so too, the poor are the quarry of the rich.
- 20
24 The proud man thinks humility abhorrent;
so too, the rich abominate the poor.
- 21
25 When the rich man stumbles he is supported by friends;
when the poor man falls, his friends push him away.
- 22
26 When the rich man slips, there are many hands to catch him, if he talks nonsense he is congratulated.
- 27 The poor man slips, and is blamed for it,
he may talk good sense, but no room is made for him.
- 23
28 The rich man speaks and everyone stops talking,
and then they praise his discourse to the skies.
- 29 The poor man speaks and people say, 'Who is this?'
and if he staggers they push him down.
- 24
30 Wealth is good where there is no sin,
poverty is evil, the godless say.
- 25
31 A man's heart moulds his expression
whether for better or worse.
- 26
32 The mark of a good heart is a cheerful expression;
inventing proverbs is weary work.

True happiness

- 1 14 Happy the man who has not sinned in speech and who need feel no remorse for sins.
- 2 Happy the man whose own soul does not accuse him,
and who has never given up hope.

Envy and greed

- 3 Wealth is not the right thing for a niggardly man,
and what use are possessions to a covetous one?
- 4 A man who hoards by stinting himself is hoarding for others,
and others will live sumptuously on his riches.
- 5 If a man is mean to himself, to whom will he be good?
He does not even enjoy what is his own.
- 6 No one is meaner than the man who is mean to himself,
and this is how his wickedness pays him back.
- 7 If he does good at all, he does it without intending to,
and in the end he himself reveals his wickedness.
- 8 Evil is the man who has a grudging eye,
averting his face, and careless of others' lives.
- 9 The eye of the grasping man is not content with his portion,
greed shrivels up the soul.

The miser is grudging of bread, there is famine at his table.	10
My son, treat yourself as well as you can afford, and bring worthy offerings to the Lord.	11
Remember that death will not delay, and that the covenant of Sheol <sup>a</sup> has not been revealed to you.	12
Be kind to your friend before you die, treat him as generously as you can afford.	13
Do not refuse yourself the good things of today, do not let your share of what is lawfully desired pass you by.	14
Will you not have to leave your fortune to another, and the fruit of your labour to be divided by lot?	15
Then give and receive, and take your ease, for in Sheol you cannot look for pleasure.	16 17
Every living thing grows old like a garment, the age-old law is 'Death must be'.	17 18
Like foliage growing on a bushy tree, some leaves falling, others growing, so are the generations of flesh and blood: one dies, another is born.	18 19
Every achievement rots away and perishes, and with it goes its author.	19 20

The happiness of the sage

Happy the man who meditates on wisdom, and reasons with good sense, who studies her ways in his heart, and ponders her secrets.	20 22
He pursues her like a hunter, and lies in wait by her path; he peeps in at her windows, and listens at her doors;	21 23 24
he lodges close to her house, and fixes his peg in her walls; he pitches his tent at her side, and lodges in an excellent lodging;	24 25 25
he sets his children in her shade, and camps beneath her branches; he is sheltered by her from the heat, and in her glory he makes his home.	26 27

15

Whoever fears the Lord will act like this, and whoever grasps the Law will obtain wisdom.	1
She will come to meet him like a mother, and receive him like a virgin bride.	2
She will give him the bread of understanding to eat, and the water of wisdom to drink.	3
He will lean on her and will not fall, he will rely on her and not be put to shame.	4
She will raise him high above his neighbours, and in full assembly she will open his mouth.	5
He will find happiness and a crown of joy, he will inherit an everlasting name.	6
Foolish men will not gain possession of her, nor will sinful men set eyes on her.	7
She stands remote from pride,	8

and liars cannot call her to mind.
 9 Praise is unseemly in a sinner's mouth,
 since it has not been put there by the Lord.
 10 For praise should only be uttered in wisdom,
 and the Lord himself then prompts it.

Man is free

11 Do not say, 'The Lord was responsible for my sinning', for he is never the cause of what he hates.
 12 Do not say, 'It was he who led me astray',
 for he has no use for a sinner.
 13 The Lord hates all that is foul,
 and no one who fears him will love it either.
 14 He himself made man in the beginning,
 and then left him free to make his own decisions.
 15 If you wish, you can keep the commandments,
 16 to behave faithfully is within your power.
 16 He has set fire and water before you;
 17 put out your hand to whichever you prefer.
 17 Man has life and death before him;
 18 whichever a man likes better will be given him.
 18 For vast is the wisdom of the Lord;
 19 he is almighty and all-seeing.
 19 His eyes are on those who fear him,
 20 he notes every action of man.
 20 He never commanded anyone to be godless,
 21 he has given no one permission to sin.

Curses reaped by the wicked

1 16 Do not long for a brood of worthless children,
 and take no pleasure in godless sons.
 2 However many you have, take no pleasure in them,
 unless the fear of the Lord lives among them.
 3 Do not count on their having long life,
 do not put too much faith in their future;
 for better have one than a thousand,
 4 better die childless than have godless ones.
 5 One man of sense can populate a city,
 6 but the race of lawless men will be destroyed.
 6 My eyes have seen many such things,
 7 my ears have heard things still more impressive.
 7 Fire will be kindled in a community of sinners;
 8 the wrath was kindled in a disobedient nation.
 8 God did not pardon the giants of old
 9 who, confident in their strength, rebelled.
 9 He did not spare the people with whom Lot lived,
 10 whom he abhorred for their pride.
 10 He had no pity on that people doomed to destruction,
 11 who were wiped out in their sins,
 11 nor on the six hundred thousand men on the march 12 who banded together in their obstinacy.<sup>a</sup>
 12 Had there been even only one stubborn man,
 it would have been astonishing if he had escaped unpunished,

<sup>a</sup> 16 a. Those who died in the wilderness and did not reach Canaan; Ex 12:37; Nb 11:21.

since mercy and wrath alike belong to the Lord
 who is mighty to forgive and to pour out wrath.
 His mercy is great, but his severity is as great; 12
 he judges every man as his deeds deserve; 13
 the sinner shall not escape with his ill-gotten gains, 13
 nor the devout man's patience go for nothing. 14
 He allows free play to his mercy; 14
 yet every man shall be treated as his deeds deserve. 15

Certainty of retribution

Do not say, 'I will hide from the Lord, 17
 who will remember me up there? 16
 I shall certainly not be noticed among so many; 17
 what am I in the immensity of creation?'
 Why look, the sky and the heavens above the sky, 18
 the deep and the earth tremble at his visitation.
 The mountains and the base of the earth together 19
 quail and tremble when he looks at them.
 But who bothers his head about such things? 20
 Who attempts to understand the way he moves?
 The storm wind itself is invisible, 21
 and most of what he does goes undetected.
 'Who will report whether justice has been done? 22
 Who will be expecting it? The covenant is far away.'
 Such are the thoughts of the man of little sense, 23
 the rash misguided man who loves his illusions.

Man in creation

Listen to me, my son, and learn knowledge, 24
 and give your whole mind to my words.
 I will expound discipline to a nicety, 25
 and proclaim knowledge with precision.
 When God created his works in the beginning, 26
 he allotted them their portions as soon as they were made.
 He determined his works for all time, 27
 from their beginnings to their distant future.
 They know neither hunger nor weariness,
 and they never desert their duties.
 None has ever jostled its neighbour, 28
 they will never disobey his word.<sup>b</sup> 29
 And afterwards the Lord looked at the earth, 29
 and filled it with his good things. 30
 He covered its surface with every kind of animal, 30
 and to it they will return. 31

17

The Lord fashioned man from the earth, 1
 to consign him back to it.
 He gave them so many days' determined time, 2
 he gave them authority over everything on earth.
 He clothed them with strength like his own, 3
 and made them in his own image.
 He filled all living things with dread of man, 4
 making him master over beasts and birds.
 He shaped for them a mouth and tongue, eyes and ears, 6
 and gave them a heart to think with. 5
 He filled them with knowledge and understanding, 7
 and revealed to them good and evil. 6

8 He put his own light in their hearts
7 to show them the magnificence of his works.
10 They will praise his holy name,
8 as they tell of his magnificent works.
11 He set knowledge before them,
9 he endowed them with the law of life.
12 He established an eternal covenant with them,
10 and revealed his judgements to them.
13 Their eyes saw his glorious majesty,
11 and their ears heard the glory of his voice.
14 He said to them, 'Beware of all wrong-doing';
12 he gave each a commandment concerning his neighbour.

The divine judge

15 Their ways are always under his eye,
13 they cannot be hidden from his sight.
17 Over each nation he has set a governor,
14 but Israel is the Lord's own portion.<sup>a</sup>
15 All their works are as the sun to him,
19 and his eyes rest constantly on their ways.
16 Their iniquities are not hidden from him,
20 all their sins are before the Lord.
17 A man's almsgiving is like a signet ring to him,
22 he cherishes a man's generosity like the pupil of his eye.
18 One day he will rise and reward them,
23 he will pay back their deserts on their own heads.
19 But to those who repent he permits return,
24 and he encourages those who were losing hope.
20

Exhortation to repentance

25 Return to the Lord and leave sin behind,
21 plead before his face and lessen your offence.
22 Come back to the Most High and turn away from iniquity, 26 and hold in abhorrence all that is foul.
23 Who will praise the Most High in Sheol,
27 if the living do not do so by giving glory to him?
26 To the dead, as to those who do not exist, praise is unknown,
28 only those with life and health can praise the Lord.
27 How great is the mercy of the Lord,
29 his pardon on all those who turn towards him!
28 Man cannot have everything,
30 since the son of man is not immortal.
29 What is brighter than the sun? Yet it suffers eclipse.
31 Flesh and blood think of nothing but evil.
30 He surveys the armies of the lofty sky,
31 while all men are no more than dust and ashes.

The greatness of God

1 18 He who lives for ever created all the universe.
2 The Lord alone will be found righteous.
4 He has given no one the power to proclaim his works,
2 and who can fathom his magnificent deeds?
3 Who can assess his magnificent strength,
5 and who can go further and tell of his mercies?
4

16b. The reference is to the stars and planets.

17 a. Israel had no king in the author's time.

Nothing can be added to them, nothing subtracted,
 it is impossible to fathom the marvels of the Lord. 6 5
 When a man finishes he is only beginning, 7 6
 and when he stops he is as puzzled as ever.

The nothingness of man

What is man, what purpose does he serve? 8 7
 What is the good in him, and what the bad?
 Take the number of a man's days; a hundred years is very long. 9 8
 Like a drop of water from the sea, or a grain of sand,
 such are these few years compared with eternity. 10
 For this reason the Lord shows them forbearance, and pours out his mercy on them. 11 9
 He sees and recognises how wretched their end is,
 and so he makes his forgiveness the greater. 12 10
 11
 Man's compassion extends to his neighbour,
 but the compassion of the Lord extends to everything that lives;
 rebuking, correcting and teaching, 13 12
 bringing them back as a shepherd brings his flock.
 He has compassion on those who accept correction, 14
 and who fervently look for judgements.

The art of giving

My son, do not temper your favours with disparagement, nor any of your gifts with words that hurt. 15
 Does not dew relieve the heat? 16
 In the same way a word is worth more than a gift.
 Why surely, a word is better than a good present,
 but a generous man is ready with both. 17
 A fool will offer nothing but insult,
 and a grudging man's gift makes the eyes smart. 18

Reflection and foresight

Learn before you speak, 19
 take care of yourself before you fall ill.
 Examine yourself before judgement comes,
 and on the day of visitation you will find yourself acquitted. 20 Humble yourself before you fall ill,
 and when you sin, repent. 21
 Let nothing prevent your discharging a vow in good time, and do not wait till death before setting matters to rights. 22 Prepare yourself before making a vow, and do not be like a man who tempts the Lord. 23
 Bear the wrath of the last days in mind,
 the time of vengeance when God averts his face. 24
 In a time of plenty remember times of famine, poverty and want in days of wealth. 25
 The time slips by between dawn and dusk,
 all things pass swiftly in the presence of the Lord. 26
 A wise man will be cautious in everything, and in sinful days he will take care not to offend. 27
 Every man of sense recognises wisdom,
 and will respect anyone who has found her. 28
 Those who understand sayings have themselves grown wise and have poured out apt proverbs. 29

Self-control

- 30 Do not follow your lusts,
restrain your desires.
- 31 If you allow yourself to satisfy your desires,
this will make you the laughing-stock of your enemies.
- 32 Do not indulge in luxurious living,
nor get involved in such society.
- 33 Do not beggar yourself by banqueting on credit
when there is nothing in your pocket.
- 1 19 Behave like that and you will never grow rich;
he who despises trifles will sink down little by little.
- 2 Wine and women corrupt sensible men,
the customer of whores loses all sense of shame.
- 3 Grubs and worms will have him as their legacy,
and the man who knows no shame shall lose his life.

Against loose talk

- 4 Being too ready to trust shows shallowness of mind,
by committing sin a man does wrong to himself.
- 5 Taking pleasure in evil earns condemnation,
by hating gossip a man avoids evil.
- 6 Never repeat what you are told
and you will come to no harm;
- 8 whether to friend or foe, do not talk about it, unless it would be sinful not to, do not reveal it;
- 9 you would be heard out, then mistrusted,
and in due course you would be hated.
- 10 Have you heard something? Let it die with you.
Courage! It will not burst you!
- 11 A fool will suffer birthpangs over something told him,
like a woman labouring with child.
- 12 Like an arrow stuck in the flesh of the thigh,
such is a piece of news inside a fool.

Do not trust everything you hear

- 13 Question your friend, he may have done nothing at all,
and if he has done anything, he will not do it again.
- 14 Question your neighbour, he may have said nothing at all,
and if he has said anything, he will not say it again.
- 15 Question your friend, for slander is very common,
do not believe all you hear.
- 16 A man sometimes makes a slip, without meaning what he says;
and which of us has never sinned by speech?
- 17 Question your neighbour before you threaten him,
and leave scope for the Law of the Most High.

True and false wisdom

- 20 Wisdom consists entirely in fearing the Lord, and wisdom is entirely constituted by the fulfilling of the Law.
- 22 But being learned in evil is not wisdom,
and there is no shrewd judgement in the advice of sinners.
- 23 There is a cleverness that is foul,
he who does not have wisdom is a fool.
- 24 Better be short of sense and full of fear,
than abound in shrewdness and violate the Law.
- 25 There is an adroit sort of cleverness promoting injustice,
there is the man who will abuse favours to establish his case.

There is the man who will walk bowed down with grief, when inwardly this is nothing but deceit:	26
he hides his face and pretends to be deaf,	27
and when you are off your guard he takes advantage of you.	24
This man may think he lacks the power to sin, but he will do wrong when he gets the chance.	28
You can tell a man by his appearance,	23
you can tell a thinking man by the look on his face.	26
A man's dress tells you what he does,	29
and a man's walk tells you what he is.	27

Silence and speech

20 There is the rebuke that is untimely, and there is the man who keeps quiet, and he is the shrewd one.	1
But how much better to rebuke than to fume!	2
The man who acknowledges a fault wards off punishment.	1
Like a eunuch longing to take a girl's virginity so is he who uses force to argue cases.	3
Like a eunuch longing to take a girl's virginity so is he who uses force to argue cases.	4
There is the man who keeps quiet and is considered wise, another incurs hatred for talking too much.	2
There is the man who keeps quiet, not knowing how to answer, another keeps quiet, because he knows when to speak.	3
There is the man who keeps quiet and is considered wise, another incurs hatred for talking too much.	5
There is the man who keeps quiet, not knowing how to answer, another keeps quiet, because he knows when to speak.	6
A wise man will keep quiet till the right moment, but a garrulous fool will always misjudge it.	7
The man who talks too much will get himself disliked, and the self-appointed oracle will make himself hated.	8

Paradoxes

There is the man who finds misfortune the saving of him, and the lucky find that may turn to loss.	9
There is the gift that affords you no profit, and the gift that repays you double.	10
There is the honour that leads to humiliation, and there are men in a low state who raise their heads.	11
There is the man who buys much for little, yet pays for it seven times over.	12
The wise man will win love by his words, while fools may shower favours in vain.	13
A stupid man's gift will bring you no advantage, his eyes look for seven times as much in return.	14
He gives little and reviles much, he opens his mouth like the town crier, he lends today and demands payment tomorrow; he is a detestable fellow.	15
The fool will say, 'I have no friends, I get no gratitude for my good deeds; those who eat my bread have malicious tongues'. How often he will be laughed at, and by how many!	16
	17
	18

Inappropriate talk

Better a slip on the pavement than a slip of the tongue;	18 20

this is how ruin takes the wicked by surprise.

19
21 A coarse-grained man is like an indiscreet story
endlessly retold by the ignorant.

20 22 A maxim is rejected when coming from a fool,
since he does not utter it on the apt occasion.

21
23 Take a man who is prevented from sinning by poverty;
no qualms of conscience disturb his rest.

22
24 Take a man who destroys himself out of false shame,
destroys himself for the sake of a fool's opinion.

23
25 Take a man who, out of false shame, makes promises to a friend,
and so makes an enemy for nothing.

Lying

24
26 Lying is an ugly blot on a man,
and ever on the lips of the ignorant.

25
27 A thief is preferable to an inveterate liar,
but both are heading for ruin.

26
28 Lying is an abominable habit,
so that disgrace is the liar's for ever.

The wise man: his dignity and his dangers

27
29 A wise man advances himself by his words,
a shrewd man will please princes.

28
30 He who tills the soil will have a full harvest,
he who pleases princes will secure pardon for his offences.

29
31 Presents and gifts blind wise men's eyes
and stifle rebukes like a muzzle on the mouth.

30
32 Wisdom concealed, and treasure undiscovered,
what use is either of these?

31
33 Better a man who conceals his folly than a man who conceals his wisdom.

Various sins

1 21 My son, have you sinned? Do not do it again,
and ask forgiveness for your previous faults.

2
Flee from sin as from a snake,
if you approach it, it will bite you;

3
its teeth are lion's teeth,
they deprive men of their lives.

3
4 All law-breaking is like a two-edged sword,
the wounds it inflicts are beyond cure.

4
5 Panic and violence make havoc of palaces,
similarly, desolation overtakes the houses of the proud.

5
6 A plea from a poor man's mouth goes straight to the ear of God, whose judgement comes without delay.

6
7 Whoever resents reproof walks in the sinner's footsteps;
the man who fears the Lord bears repentance in his heart.

8 The glib speaker is known far and wide,
but when he makes a slip the thinking man detects it.

To build your house on other people's money is like collecting stones for your own tomb.	8 9
A meeting of lawless men is like a heap of tow : they will end in a blazing fire.	9 10
The sinner's road is smoothly paved, but it ends at the pit of Sheol.	10 11
The wise man and the fool
Whoever keeps the Law will master his instincts; the fear of the Lord is made perfect in wisdom.	11 12 13
The man who lacks intelligence cannot be taught, but intelligence can increase a man's bitterness.	12 14 15
The wise man's knowledge will increase like a flood, and his advice is like a living spring.	13 16
The heart of a fool is like a broken jar, it will not hold any knowledge.	14 17
If a cultured man hears a wise saying, he praises it and caps it with another; if an imbecile hears it, he laughs at it, and tosses it behind his back.	15 18
The talk of a fool is like a load on a journey, but it is a pleasure to listen to an intelligent man.	16 19
The shrewd man's utterance will be eagerly awaited in the assembly, what he says will be given serious consideration.	17 20
The wisdom of a fool is like the wreckage of a house, the knowledge of a dolt is incoherent talk.	18 21
To the senseless fellow instruction is like fetters on his feet, like manacles on his right hand.	19 22
A fool laughs at the top of his voice, but a man of intelligence quietly smiles.	20 23
To the shrewd man instruction is like a golden ornament, like a bracelet on his right arm.	21 24
The foot of a fool goes straight into a house, but a man of much experience is respectful in his approach; a stupid man peeps inside through the door, a well-bred man waits outside.	22 25 26
Listening at doors is a sign of bad upbringing, a perceptive man would be ashamed to do so.	24 27
The lips of gossips repeat the words of others, the words of wise men are carefully weighed.	25 28
The heart of fools is exposed in their words; the words of wise men reveal their heart.	26 29
When a godless man curses his enemy, he is cursing himself.	27 30
The scandal-monger sullies himself and earns the hatred of the neighbourhood.	28 31

The idler

22

An idler is comparable to a stone covered in filth, everyone whistles at his disgrace.	1
---	---

- 2 An idler is comparable to a lump of dung,
anyone picking it up shakes it off his hand.

Degenerate children

- 3 It is a disgrace to have fathered a badly brought-up son,
and the birth of a daughter is a loss.
4 A sensible daughter is a treasure to her husband,
but a shameless one is a grief to her father.
5 An insolent daughter puts father and mother to shame,
and will be disowned by both.
6 An untimely remonstrance is like music at a funeral,
but a thrashing and correction are wisdom at all times.

Wisdom and folly

- 9 You are gluing the broken pieces of a pot together if you try 7 to teach a fool,
8 you are rousing a man who is besotted with sleep.
10 A fool is the same as a drowsing man if you have to explain 9 anything to him,
when you have finished he will say, 'What is it all about?'
11 Shed tears for the dead man, since he has left the light behind;
10 shed tears for the fool, since he has left his wits behind;
11 shed quieter tears for the dead, since he is at rest.
12 For the fool, life is sadder than death.
12 Mourning for the dead lasts seven days,
13 for the foolish and ungodly all the days of their lives.
13 Do not waste many words on a stupid man,
14 do not go near a dolt.
15 Beware of him, or he will give you trouble,
and will leave you soiled by contact with him.
16 Avoid him, and you will find rest
and not be exasperated by his folly.
14 What is heavier than lead,
17 and what is its name if not 'fool'?
15 Sand, and salt, and a lump of iron
18 are all easier to bear than a dolt.
16 A tie-beam bonded into a building
19 will not be dislodged by an earthquake; 20 so too, a heart resolved after due reflection
will not flinch at the critical moment.
17 A heart founded on intelligent reflection
is like a stucco decoration on a smooth wall.
18 Pebbles placed on top of a wall
21 will not stand up to the wind;
22 no more can the heart of a fool frightened at his own thoughts stand up to fear.

Friendship

- 19 Prick an eye and you will draw a tear, 24 prick a heart and you bring its feelings to light.
20 Throw stones at birds and you scare them away,
25 revile a friend and you break up friendship.
21 If you have drawn your sword on a friend,
26 do not despair; there is a way back.

If you have opened your mouth against your friend, do not worry; there is hope for reconciliation; but insult, arrogance, betrayal of secrets, and the stab in the back— in these cases any friend will run away.	22 27
Win your neighbour's confidence when he is poor, so that you may enjoy his later good fortune with him; stand by him in times of trouble, in order to have your share when he comes into a legacy.	23 28 29
Fire is heralded by the reek of the furnace and smoke, so too bloodshed by insults.	24 30
I will not be ashamed to shelter a friend, nor will I hide from his face; and if evil comes to me through him, everyone who hears about it will beware of him.	25 31 26 32

Vigilance

23

Who will set a guard on my mouth, and a seal of prudence on my lips, to keep me from falling, and my tongue from causing my ruin?	17 33
Lord, father and master of my life, do not abandon me to their whims, do not let me fall because of them.	1
Who will lay whips to my thoughts, and the discipline of wisdom to my heart, to be unmerciful to my errors, and let none of my sins go unchecked in case my errors multiply, and my sins increase in number, and I fall before my adversaries, and my enemy gloats over me?	2 3
Lord, father and God of my life, do not give me proud eyes, turn lust away from me, do not let lechery and lust grip me, do not give me over to shameless desire.	4 5 6

Swearing

Listen, children, to the instruction I have to give; whoever keeps it will not be caught out.	7
The sinner is ensnared by his own lips, both the abusive and the proud man are tripped by them.	8
Do not accustom your mouth to swearing, nor get into the habit of naming the Holy One; for just as a slave who is constantly overseen will never be without bruises, so too the man who is continually swearing oaths and uttering the name will not be exempt from sin.	9 10 10 11
A man forever swearing is full of iniquity, and the scourge will not depart from his house.	11 12
If he offends, his sin will be on him, if he swears lightly, he sins twice over; if he swears a false oath, he will not be treated as innocent, for his house will be filled with calamities.	13 14

Foul talk

- 12
15 There is a manner of talking that is fraught with death;
let it not be found in the inheritance of Jacob, 16 for devout men will keep all that far from them,
they will not wallow in sin.
13
17 Do not habituate your mouth to coarseness and foul language,
for this means sinful talk.
14
18 Remember your father and mother
when you are sitting among princes, 19 in case you forget yourself in their presence,
and behave like a fool,
and then wish you had not been born,
and curse the day of your birth.
15
20 A man in the habit of using improper words
will never break himself of it however long he lives.

Incest and adultery

- 16
21 Two kinds of men multiply sins,
and a third draws down wrath:
22 there is a desire that, blazing like a furnace,
cannot be quenched until it is slaked;
23 there is the man who lusts for his own flesh:
he will not give up until the fire consumes him;
17
24 to a fornicator all food is sweet,
and he will not weary of it until he dies.
18
25 The man who sins against his own marriage bed, and says to himself, 'Who can see me?'
26 There is darkness all round me, the walls hide me, nobody sees me; why should I worry?
The Most High will not call my sins to mind':
what he fears is the eyes of men, 27
19
28 he does not realise that the eyes of the Lord
are ten thousand times brighter than the sun,
observing every aspect of human behaviour,
seeing into the most secret corners.
20
29 All things were known to him before they were created,
and are still, now that they are finished.
21
30 This man will be punished in view of the whole town,
and will be seized where he least expects it.

The adulteress

- 22
32 Similarly the woman who deserts her husband,
and provides him with an heir by another man:
23
33 first, she has disobeyed the Law of the Most High;
secondly, she has been false to her husband;
and thirdly, she has gone whoring in adultery
and conceived children by another man.
24
34 She will be led before the assembly,
an enquiry will be held about her children.
25
35 Her children will strike no root,
her branches will bear no fruit.
26
36 She will leave an accursed memory behind her,
her shame will never be wiped out.
27
37 And those who survive her will recognise that nothing is better than fearing the Lord,
and nothing sweeter than adherence to the Lord's commandments.

Discourse of Wisdom

24

Wisdom speaks her own praises,	1
in the midst of her people she glories in herself.
She opens her mouth in the assembly of the Most High,	2
she glories in herself in the presence of the Mighty One;
'I came forth from the mouth of the Most High,	3
and I covered the earth like mist.	5
I had my tent in the heights,	6
and my throne in a pillar of cloud.	4
Alone I encircled the vault of the sky,	7
and I walked on the bottom of the deeps.	8
Over the waves of the sea and over the whole earth,	6
and over every people and nation I have held sway.	9
Among all these I searched for rest,	10
and looked to see in whose territory I might pitch camp.	7
Then the creator of all things instructed me,	11
and he who created me fixed a place for my tent.	8
He said, "Pitch your tent in Jacob,	12
make Israel your inheritance".	13
From eternity, in the beginning, he created me,	9
and for eternity I shall remain.	14
I ministered before him in the holy tabernacle,	10
and thus was I established on Zion.	15
In the beloved city he has given me rest,	11
and in Jerusalem I wield my authority.
I have taken root in a privileged people,	12
in the Lord's property, in his inheritance.	16
I have grown tall as a cedar on Lebanon,	13
as a cypress on Mount Hermon;	17
I have grown tall as a palm in Engedi,	14
as the rose bushes of Jericho;	18
as a fine olive in the plain,	19
as a plane tree I have grown tall.
I have exhaled a perfume like cinnamon and acacia,	15
I have breathed out a scent like choice myrrh,	20
like galbanum, onycha and stacte,	21
like the smoke of incense in the tabernacle.
I have spread my branches like a terebinth,	16
and my branches are glorious and graceful.	22
I am like a vine putting out graceful shoots,	17
my blossoms bear the fruit of glory and wealth.	23
Approach me, you who desire me,	19
and take your fill of my fruits,	26
for memories of me are sweeter than honey,	20
inheriting me is sweeter than the honeycomb.	27
They who eat me will hunger for more,	28
they who drink me will thirst for more.	21
Whoever listens to me will never have to blush,	29
whoever acts as I dictate will never sin.'	22 30

Wisdom and the Law

All this is no other than the book of the covenant of the	21
Most High God,	32
the Law that Moses enjoined on us,
an inheritance for the communities of Jacob.	33

25 That is what makes wisdom brim like the Pishon,<sup>a</sup>
 35 like the Tigris in the season of fruit,
 26 what makes understanding brim over like the Euphrates,
 36 like the Jordan at harvest time;
 27 and makes discipline flow like the Nile,
 37 like the Gihon at the time of vintage.
 28 The first man never managed to grasp her entirely,
 38 nor has the most recent one fully comprehended her;
 29 for her thoughts are wider than the sea,
 39 and her designs more profound than the abyss.
 40 And I, like a conduit from a river,
 41 like a watercourse running into a garden,
 31 I said, 'I am going to water my orchard,
 42 I intend to irrigate my flower beds'.
 43 And see, my conduit has grown into a river,
 and my river has grown into a sea.
 44 Now I shall make discipline shine out,
 45 I shall send its light far and wide.
 33 I shall pour out teaching like prophecy,
 46 as a legacy to all future generations.
 34 Observe that I have not toiled for myself alone,
 47 but for all who are seeking wisdom.

Proverbs

1 25 There are three things my soul delights in,
 and which are delightful to God and to men:
 2 concord between brothers, friendship between neighbours,
 and a wife and husband who live happily together.
 2 There are three sorts of people my soul hates,
 3 and whose existence I consider an outrage:
 4 a poor man swollen with pride, a rich man who is a liar
 and an adulterous old man who has no sense.

Old men

3 If you have gathered nothing in your youth,
 5 how can you find anything in your old age?
 4 How fine a thing: sound judgement with grey hairs,
 6 and for greybeards to know how to advise!
 5 How fine a thing: wisdom in the aged,
 7 and considered advice coming from men of distinction!
 6 The crown of old men is ripe experience,
 8 their true glory, the fear of the Lord.

Numerical proverbs

7 There are nine things I can think of which strike me as happy,
 9 and a tenth which is now on my tongue:
 10 a man whose joy is in his children,
 he who lives to see the downfall of his enemies;
 8 happy the man who keeps house with a sensible wife;
 11 he who does not toil with ox and donkey;<sup>a</sup>
 he who has never sinned with his tongue;
 he who does not serve a man less worthy than himself;
 9 happy the man who has acquired good sense
 12

24 a. The Jordan and the Nile are grouped here with the four rivers of Eden, Gn 2:10f.

25 a. I.e., work with an uneven team.

and can find attentive ears for what he has to say;
 how great the man is who has acquired wisdom; 10
 but no one excels the man who fears the Lord. 13
 The fear of the Lord surpasses everything; 11
 what can compare with a man who has mastered that? 14 15

Women

Any wound rather than a wound of the heart! 13
 Any spite rather than the spite of woman! 17
 Any evil rather than an evil caused by an enemy! 14
 Any vengeance rather than the vengeance of a foe! 18
 There is no poison worse than the poison of a snake, 19
 there is no fury worse than the fury of an enemy. 15
 I would sooner keep house with a lion or a dragon 22
 than keep house with a spiteful wife. 23 16
 A woman's spite changes her appearance 17
 and makes her face as grim as any bear's. 24
 When her husband goes out to dinner with his neighbours, 18
 he cannot help heaving bitter sighs. 25
 No wickedness comes anywhere near the wickedness of a woman, 19
 may a sinner's lot be hers! 26
 As climbing up a sandhill is for elderly feet 20
 such is a garrulous wife for a quiet husband. 27
 Do not be taken in by a woman's beauty, 21
 never lose your head over a woman. 28
 Bad temper, insolence and shame hold sway 22
 where the wife supports the husband. 29
 Low spirits, gloomy face, stricken heart: 23
 such the achievements of a spiteful wife. 31
 Slack hands and sagging knees 32
 indicate a wife who makes her husband wretched.
 Sin began with a woman, 24
 and thanks to her we all must die. 33
 Do not let water find a leak, 25
 do not allow a spiteful woman free rein for her tongue. 34
 If she will not do as you tell her, 26
 get rid of her.<sup>b</sup> 35 26
 Happy the husband of a really good wife; 36
 the number of his days will be doubled. 1
 A perfect wife is the joy of her husband, 2
 he will live out the years of his life in peace.
 A good wife is the best of portions, 3
 reserved for those who fear the Lord;
 rich or poor, they will be glad of heart, 4
 cheerful of face, whatever the season.
 There are three things my heart dreads, 5
 and a fourth which terrifies me:
 slander by a whole town, the gathering of a mob, 6
 and a false accusation—these are all worse than death; 7
 but a woman jealous of a woman means heartbreak and sorrow, 8
 and all this is the scourge of the tongue. 9
 A bad wife is a badly fitting ox yoke, 7 10

- 8
11 trying to master her is like grasping a scorpion.
A drunken wife will goad anyone to fury,
she makes no effort to hide her degradation.
- 9
12 A woman's wantonness shows in her bold look,
and can be recognised by her sidelong glances.
- 10
13 Keep a headstrong daughter under firm control,
or she will abuse any indulgence she receives.
- 11
14 Keep a strict watch on her shameless eye,
do not be surprised if she disgraces you.
- 12
15 Like a thirsty traveller she will open her mouth and drink any water she comes across;
she will sit in front of every peg,
and open her quiver to any arrow.
- 13
16 The grace of a wife will charm her husband,
her accomplishments will make him the stronger.
- 14
18 A silent wife is a gift from the Lord,
no price can be put on a well-trained character.
- 15
19 A modest wife is a boon twice over,
a chaste character cannot be weighed on scales.
- 20
21 Like the sun rising over the mountains of the Lord is the beauty of a good wife in a well-kept house.
- 17
22 Like the lamp shining on the sacred lamp-stand is a beautiful face on a well-proportioned body.
- 18
23 Like golden pillars on a silver base
are shapely legs on firm-set heels.

Depressing things

- 28
25 There are two things which grieve my heart
and a third arouses my anger:
a warrior wasting away through poverty,
intelligent men treated with contempt,
- 27 a man turning back from virtue to sin—
the Lord marks this man out for a violent death.

Commerce

- 29
28 It is difficult for a merchant to avoid doing wrong
and for a salesman not to incur sin.
- 1
27 Many have sinned for the sake of profit,
he who hopes to be rich must be ruthless.
- 2 A peg will stick in the joint between two stones,
and sin will wedge itself between selling and buying.
- 3
4 If a man does not hold earnestly to the fear of the Lord,
his House will soon be overthrown.

Speech

- 4
3 In a shaken sieve the rubbish is left behind,
so too the defects of a man appear in his talk:
- 5
6 The kiln tests the work of the potter,
the test of a man is in his conversation.
- 6
7 The orchard where the tree grows is judged on the quality of its fruit, similarly a man's words betray what he feels.
- 7
8 Do not praise a man before he has spoken,
since this is the test of men.

Virtue

If you pursue justice you will achieve it and put it on like a festal gown.	8 9
Birds consort with their kind, justice comes home to those who practise it.	9 10
The lion lies in wait for its prey, so does sin for those who do wrong.	10 11
The devout man's conversation is wisdom at all times, but the fool is as changeable as the moon.	11 12
Among stupid people look for your opportunity to leave, but among thoughtful men take your time.	12 13
The conversation of fools is disgusting, raucous their laughter at their sinful orgies.	13 14
The talk of hard-swearing men makes your hair stand on end, their brawls make you stop your ears.	14 15
A quarrel between proud men leads to bloodshed, their abuse is painful to hear.	15 16

Secrets

A betrayer of secrets forfeits all esteem and will never find the kind of friend he wants.	16 17
Be fond of a friend and keep faith with him, but if you have betrayed his secrets, do not pursue him any more; for as a man destroys his enemy, so you have destroyed the friendship of your neighbour, and as you let a bird slip through your fingers, so you have let your friend go, and will not catch him.	17 18 19 20 21
Do not go after him—he is far away, he has fled like a gazelle from the snare.	20 22
For a wound can be bandaged and abuse forgiven, but for the man who has betrayed a secret there is no hope.	21 23 24

Hypocrisy

The man with a sly wink is plotting mischief, no one can dissuade him from it.	22 25
Honey-tongued to your face, he is lost in admiration at your words; but behind your back he has other things to say, and makes your own words sound offensive.	23 26
I have found many things to hate, but nothing to equal this man, and the Lord hates him too.	24 27
The man who throws a stone in the air, throws it on to his own head; a treacherous blow cuts both ways.	25 28
The man who digs a pit falls into it, he who sets a snare will be caught by it.	26 29
On the man who does evil, evil will recoil, though where it came from he will not know.	27 30
Sarcasm and abuse are the mark of an arrogant man, but vengeance lies in wait like a lion for him.	28 31
The trap will close on all who rejoice in the downfall of the devout, and pain will eat them up before they die.	29 32

Resentment

- 30
33
1 28 Resentment and anger, these are foul things too,
and both are found with the sinner.
- 2 He who exacts vengeance will experience the vengeance of the Lord,
who keeps strict account of sin.
- 3 Forgive your neighbour the hurt he does you,
and when you pray, your sins will be forgiven.
- 4 If a man nurses anger against another,
can he then demand compassion from the Lord?
- 5 Showing no pity for a man like himself,
can he then plead for his own sins?
- 6 Mere creature of flesh, he cherishes resentment;
who will forgive him his sins?
- 7 Remember the last things, and stop hating,
remember dissolution and death, and live by the commandments.
- 8 Remember the commandments, and do not bear your neighbour ill-will;
- 9 remember the covenant of the Most High, and overlook
the offence.

Quarrels

- 8
10 11
9
10
12
11
13
12
14
- Avoid quarrelling and you will sin less;
for a hot-tempered man provokes quarrels,
a sinner sows trouble between friends,
introducing discord among men at peace.
- The way a fire burns depends on its fuel,
a quarrel spreads in proportion to its violence;
a man's rage depends on his strength,
his fury grows fiercer in proportion to his wealth.
- A sudden quarrel kindles fire,
a hasty dispute leads to bloodshed.
- Blow on a spark and up it flares,
spit on it and out it goes;
both are the effects of your mouth.

The tongue

15
14
16
17
15
19 16 20 17
21
18
22
19
23
- A curse on the scandal-monger and the deceitful,
he has ruined many who lived in concord.
- That third tongue has shaken many,<sup>a</sup>
and driven them from nation to nation;
it has pulled down fortified cities,
and overturned the houses of princes.
- The third tongue has driven virtuous wives out of house and home, and deprived them of the due reward for their hard work.
- Anyone who listens to it will never know peace of mind,
will never live in peace again.
- A stroke of the whip raises a weal,
but a stroke of the tongue breaks bones.
- Many have fallen by the edge of the sword,
but many more have fallen by the tongue.
- Happy the man who has been sheltered from it,
and has not experienced its fury,
who has not dragged its yoke about,
or been bound in its chains;

28 a. From the context, it seems that the 'first' man is slandered to a 'second' man by 'the third tongue'.

for its yoke is an iron yoke, 20
 its chains are bronze chains; 24
 the death it inflicts is a miserable death, 21
 Sheol is preferable to it. 23
 It cannot gain a hold over the devout, 22
 they are not burnt by its flames. 26
 Those who desert the Lord will fall into it, 23
 it will flare up inextinguishably among them, 27
 it will be let loose against them like a lion,
 it will tear them like a leopard.
 Look, fence your property round with a quickthorn hedge, 24 lock away your silver and gold; 28
 then make scales and weights for your words, 25
 and put a door with bolts across your mouth. 29
 Take care you take no false step through it, 26
 in case you fall a prey to him who lies in wait. 30

Loans

29

Making your neighbour a loan is an act of mercy, 1
 to lend him a helping hand is to keep the commandments.
 Lend to your neighbour in his time of need, 2
 and in your turn repay your neighbour on time.
 Be as good as your word and keep faith with him, 3
 and you will find your needs met every time.
 Many treat a loan as a windfall, 4
 and embarrass those who have come to their rescue.
 Until he gets something, a man will kiss his neighbour's hand, 5 and refer to his wealth in respectful tones;
 but when the loan falls due, he puts this off, 6
 he repays with offhand words,
 and pleads the inconvenience of the time.
 Even if he can be made to pay, his creditor will barely recover half, 6 and consider even that a windfall.
 But otherwise he will be cheated of his money, 8
 and undeservedly gain himself an enemy;
 the man will pay him back in curses and recriminations, 9
 and instead of respect will have contempt for him.
 Many, not out of malice, refuse to lend; 7
 they are merely anxious not to be cheated for nothing. 10

Generosity

Nevertheless, be patient with those who are badly-off, 8
 do not keep them waiting on your generosity. 11
 For the commandment's sake go to the poor man's help, 9
 do not turn him away empty-handed in his need. 12
 Better let your silver go on brother or friend, 10
 do not let it go to waste, rusting under a stone. 13
 Invest your treasure as the Most High orders, 11
 and you will find it more profitable than gold. 14 Deposit generosity in your storerooms 12
 and it will release you from every misfortune. 15
 Better than sturdy shield or weighty spear, 13
 it will fight for you against the enemy. 16 17

Securities

A good man will go surety for his neighbour; 14
 a man has lost all shame if he fails him. 18

- 15
19 Do not forget the favour your guarantor has done you;
he has given his life for you.
- 16
21 A sinner is careless of his guarantor's prosperity,
17 an ungrateful man forgets the one who saved him.
- 18
23 Going surety has ruined many prosperous men
and rocked them like a wave of the sea.
- 24 It has driven powerful men from home
to wander among foreign nations.
- 19
25 The sinner who involves himself with guarantees,
in pursuit of a deal, will find himself involved in lawsuits.
- 20
26 Come to your neighbour's help as far as you can,
but take care not to fall into the same plight.

Home and hospitality

- 21
27 The first thing in life is water, and bread, and clothing,
and a house for the sake of privacy.
- 22
28 Better a poor man's life under a roof of planks,
than lavish fare in the house of another.
- 23
29 Whether you have little or much, be content with it,
and you will not be dubbed an intruder.
- 24
30 It is a miserable life, going from house to house;
wherever you stay, not daring to open your mouth;
25 you are a stranger, you know the taste of humiliation, 31 not to mention the sound of embittering words,
- 26
32 'Come along, stranger, lay the table,
if you have anything with you, give it to me to eat'.
- 27
33 'Go away, stranger, make room for someone important;
my brother is coming to stay, I need the house.'
- 28
34 It is hard for a cultured man
to hear himself begrudged hospitality and treated like an undischarged debtor.

Bringing up children

- 1
30 A man who loves his son will beat him frequently so that in after years the son may be his comfort.
- 2 A man who is strict with his son will reap the benefit,
and be able to boast of him to his acquaintances.
- 3 A man who educates his son will be the envy of his enemy,
and will be proud of him among his friends.
- 4 Even when the father dies, he might well not be dead,
since he leaves his likeness behind him.
- 5 In life he has had the joy of his company,
dying, he has no anxieties.
- 6 He leaves an avenger against his enemies,
and a rewarder of favours for his friends.
- 7 A man who coddles his son will bandage his wounds,
his heart will turn over at every shout.
- 8 A horse badly broken-in turns out stubborn,
an uncontrolled son turns out headstrong.
- 9 Pamper your child, and he will give you a fright,
play with him, and he will bring you sorrow.
- 10 Do not share his laughter, if you do not wish to share his sorrow and to end by grinding your teeth.

- Allow him no independence in childhood, and do not wink at his mistakes. 11
- Bend his neck in youth,
bruise his ribs while he is a child,
or else he will grow stubborn and disobedient,
and hurt you very deeply. 12
- Be strict with your son, and persevere with him,
or you will rue his insolence. 13

Health

- Better a poor man healthy and fit
than a rich man tormented in body. 14
- Health and strength are better than any gold,
a robust body than untold wealth. 15
- No riches can outweigh bodily health,
no enjoyment surpass a cheerful heart. 16
- Better death than a wretched life,
and everlasting rest than chronic illness. 17
- Good things lavished on a closed mouth are like food offerings put on a grave. 18
- What use is an offering to an idol which can neither eat nor smell? 19
- How describe a man pursued by the Lord's displeasure?<sup>a</sup>
He looks and sighs 20
as a eunuch embracing a virgin sighs. 21

Happiness

- Do not abandon yourself to sorrow,
do not torment yourself with brooding. 21 22
- Gladness of heart is life to a man,
joy is what gives him length of days. 22 23
- Beguile your cares, console your heart,
chase sorrow far away; 23 24
- for sorrow has been the ruin of many,
and is no use to anybody. 25
- Jealousy and anger shorten your days,
and worry brings premature old age. 24 26
- A genial heart makes a good trencherman,
one who benefits from his food. 25 27

Riches

31

- The sleeplessness brought by wealth makes a man lose weight,
the worry it causes drives away sleep. 1
- The worries of the daytime interfere with slumber,
as a serious illness drives away sleep. 2
- The rich man toils, piling up money, and when he leaves off, he stuffs himself with luxuries; 3
- the poor man toils, his livelihood dwindling,
and when he leaves off, is destitute. 4
- The man who loves gold will not be reckoned virtuous, the man who chases after profit will be caught out by it. 5
- Many have gone to their ruin for the sake of gold, though their destruction stared them in the face; 6
- it is a snare for those who sacrifice to it,
and every fool will be caught in it. 7

- 8 Happy the rich man who is found to be blameless
and does not go chasing after gold.
- 9 Who is he, for us to congratulate him,
since he has achieved wonders among his kind?
- 10 Who has been through this test and emerged perfect?
He may well be proud of that!
Who has had the power to sin and has not sinned,
to wrong another and not done it?
- 11 His fortune will be firmly based and the assembly will acclaim his generosity.

Dinner parties

- 12 Have you sat down at a lavish table?
Do not gape at it,
do not say, 'What a feast!'
- 13 Remember how bad it is to have a greedy eye;
14 is anything in creation greedier than the eye?
15 That is why it waters on every occasion.
- 16 Do not reach out for anything your host has his eye on, 17 do not jostle him at the dish.
- 18 Judge your fellow guest's needs by your own,
be thoughtful in every way.
- 16 Eat what is offered you like a well brought-up person, 19 do not wolf your food or you will earn dislike.
- 17 For politeness' sake be the first to stop; 20 do not act the glutton, or you will give offence,
and if you are sitting with a large party,
do not help yourself before the others do.
- 19 A little is quite enough for a well-bred person;
22 his breathing is easy when he gets to bed.
- 20 A moderate diet ensures sound sleep, 24 a man gets up early, in the best of spirits.
- 23 Sleeplessness, biliousness and gripe
are what the glutton has to endure.
- 21 If you are forced to eat too much,
25 get up, go and be sick, and you will feel better.
- 22 Listen to me my son, do not disregard me, 26 eventually you will see the force of my words.
- 27 Be moderate in all your activities
and illness will never overtake you.
- 23 People praise the man who keeps a splendid table,
28 and their opinion of his munificence is sound;
24 similarly, the man who keeps a mean table will be notorious 29 throughout the town,
and their opinion of his meanness is not doubtful either.

Wine

- 25 Do not play the valiant at your wine, 30 for wine has been the undoing of many.
- 26 The furnace proves the temper of steel, 31 and wine proves hearts in the drinking bouts of braggarts.
- 27 Wine is life for man
32 if drunk in moderation.

30 a. The sick man, who can eat nothing.

What is life worth without wine?	33
It was created to make men happy.	35
Drunk at the right time and in the right amount, wine makes for a glad heart and a cheerful mind.	28 36
Bitterness of soul comes of wine drunk to excess out of temper or bravado.	37 29
Drunkenness excites the stupid man to a fury to his own harm, it reduces his strength while leading to blows.	30 40
Do not rebuke your neighbour at a wine feast, do not slight him when he is enjoying himself, do not speak reproachfully to him, or annoy him by reclaiming money owing.	31 41 42

Banquets

32

Have they made you president? <sup>a</sup> Do not let it go to your head, behave like everyone else in the party, see that they are happy and then sit down yourself.	1
Having discharged your duties, take your place and enjoy yourself with the others, and receive the crown for your competence.	2 3
Speak, old men, it is proper that you should; but know what you are talking about, and do not interrupt the music.	3 4 5
If entertainment is provided, do not keep up a running commentary, and do not play the sage at the wrong moment.	4 0
A carbuncle seal on a precious stone, such is a concert of music at a wine feast.	5 7
An emerald seal in a golden setting, such are strains of music with a vintage wine.	6 8
Speak, young men, if you have to; but twice at most, and then only if questioned.	7 9,1 11
Keep to the point, say much in few words; give the impression of knowing but not wanting to speak.	8 12
Among eminent men do not behave as though you were their equal; do not make frivolous remarks when someone else is speaking.	9 13
Lightning comes before the thunder, favour goes ahead of a modest man.	10 14
Rise in good time to take your leave, do not bring up the rear; hurry home without loitering.	11 15
There amuse yourself, and do what you have a mind to, but do not sin by arrogant talk.	12 16
And for all this bless him who made you and plies you with his good things.	13 17

The fear of God

The man who fears the Lord will accept his correction; those who eagerly look for him will win his favour.	14 16
The man who seeks the Law will be nourished by it, the hypocrite will find it a stumbling-block.	15 15
Those who fear the Lord will have justice done them, and make their good deeds shine like a light.	14 20
The sinner waves reproof aside, he finds excuses to do what he wants.	1 2
A sensible man never scorns a suggestion; a proud and godless man will be immune to fear.	1 2

- 19 Never act without reflection,
24 and you will have nothing to regret when you have done it.
- 20 Do not venture on a rough road, 25 for fear of stumbling over the stones.
- 21 Do not be over confident on an even road, 22 and beware of your own children.
- 26 Watch yourself in everything you do, 27 this is what keeping the commandments means.
- 24 The man who trusts in the Law pays attention to the commandments, 28 the man who has confidence in the Lord will come to no harm.
- 1 33 If a man fears the Lord, evil will not come his way,
again and again he will be rescued in his trials.
- 2 The man who hates the Law is not wise,
if hypocritical in observance, he is like a ship in a storm.
- 3 A man of understanding will put his faith in the Law,
for him the Law is as dependable as an oracle.
- 4 Prepare what you have to say and you will get a hearing,
marshal your information before you answer.
- 5 The feelings of a fool are like a cart-wheel,
his thought revolves like a turning axle.
- 6 A rutting stallion is like a sarcastic friend;
he neighs, whoever rides him.

Inequality

- 7 Why is one day better than another,
when each day's light throughout the year comes from the sun?
- 8 They have been differentiated in the mind of the Lord,
who has diversified the seasons and feasts;
- 9 some he has made more important and hallowed,
others he has made ordinary days.
- 10 All men come from the ground,
Adam himself was formed out of earth;
- 11 in the fulness of his wisdom the Lord has made distinctions between them,
and diversified their conditions.
- 12 Some he has blessed and made more important,
some he has hallowed and set near him;
others he has cursed and humiliated
by degrading them from their positions.
- 13 Like clay in the hands of the potter
to mould as it pleases him,
so are men in the hands of their Maker
to reward as he judges right.
- 14 Opposite evil stands good,
opposite death, life;
so too, opposite the devout man stands the sinner.
- 15 This is the way to view all the works of the Most High;
they go, in pairs, by opposites.
- 16 I myself have been the last to keep watch,
like a gleaner following the vintagers.
- 17 By the blessing of the Lord I have come in first,
and, like a vintager, filled the winepress.

Observe that I have not toiled for myself only,
but for all who seek instruction. 18

Listen to me, you princes of the people, leaders of the assembly, lend ear. 19

Independence

Neither to son nor wife, brother nor friend,
give power over yourself during your own lifetime. 20

And do not give your property to anyone else,
in case you regret it and have to ask for it back.

As long as you live and there is breath in your body,
do not yield power over yourself to anyone; 21

since it is better for your children to be your suppliants, than for you to have to look to the generosity of your sons. 22

In all you do be the master, and do not spoil the honour that is rightly yours. 23

The day your life draws to a close,
when death is approaching, is the time to distribute your inheritance. 24

Slaves

Fodder, the stick and burdens for a donkey, bread, discipline and work for a slave. 25

Work your servant hard, and you will know peace of mind;
leave his hands idle, and he will start thinking of his freedom. 26

Yoke and harness will bow the neck,
for a criminal slave there is the rack and torture. 27

Keep him occupied, or he will idle;
idleness teaches all sorts of mischief. 28

Keep him at his duties, where he should be,
if he is disobedient, clap him in irons. 29

But do not be over-exacting with anyone,
and do nothing contrary to justice. 30

You have only one slave? Treat him like yourself, since you have acquired him with blood. 31

You have only one slave? Treat him as a brother, since you need him as you need yourself. 32

If you ill-treat him and he runs away,
which way will you go to look for him? 33

Dreams

34

Vain and deceptive hopes are for the foolish, and dreams put fools in a flutter. 1

As well clutch at shadows and chase the wind
as put any faith in dreams. 2

Mirror and dream are similar things:
confronting a face, the reflection of that face. 3

What can be cleansed by uncleanness,
what can be verified by falsehood? 4

Divinations, auguries and dreams are nonsense,
like the delirious fancies of a pregnant woman. 5

Unless sent as emissaries from the Most High,
do not give them a thought; 6

for dreams have led many astray, and those building their hopes on them have been disappointed. 7

8 Fulfilling the Law requires no such falsehood,
and wisdom is most perfectly expressed by truthful lips.

Travelling

9 A much travelled man knows many things,
and a man of great experience will talk sound sense.
10 Someone who has never had his trials knows little;
but the travelled man is master of every situation.
11 I have seen many things on my travels,
12 I have understood more than I can put into words.
13 I have often been in danger of death,
14 but I have been spared, and this is why:
the spirit of those who fear the Lord can survive,
15 for their hope is in someone with power to save them.
16 The man who fears the Lord will not be faint-hearted,
17 will not be daunted since the Lord is his hope.
Happy the soul of the man who fears the Lord.
18 On whom does he rely? Who supports him?
19 The eyes of the Lord watch over those who love him,
he is their powerful protection and their strong support, their screen from the desert wind, their shelter from the midday sun, 20 a guard against stumbling, an assurance against a fall.
17 He revives the spirit and brightens the eyes,
he gives healing, life and blessing.

Sacrifices

18 The sacrifice of an offering unjustly acquired is a mockery;
21 the gifts of impious men are unacceptable.
19 The Most High takes no pleasure in offerings from the godless, 23 multiplying sacrifices will not gain his pardon for sin.
20 Offering sacrifice from the property of the poor
24 is as bad as slaughtering a son before his father's very eyes.
21 A meagre diet is the very life of the poor,
25 he who withholds it is a man of blood.
22 A man murders his neighbour if he robs him of his livelihood,
26 sheds blood if he withholds an employee's wages.
27 If one man builds while another pulls down,
28 what else do they gain but trouble?
24 If one man prays and another calls down a curse, 29 whose voice will the master listen to?
25 If a man washes after touching a corpse, and then touches it again,
30 what is the good of his washing?
26 Just so with a man who fasts for his sins,
and then goes off and commits them again.
Who will listen to his prayers?
What is the good of his self-abasement?

The Law and sacrifices

1 35 A man multiplies offerings by keeping the Law;
2 he offers communion sacrifices by following the commandments.
3 By showing gratitude he makes an offering of fine flour,
4 by giving alms he offers a sacrifice of praise.
3 Withdraw from wickedness and the Lord will be pleased,
5 withdraw from injustice and you make atonement.
4 Do not appear empty-handed in the Lord's presence;
6 for all these things are due under the commandment.
7 A virtuous man's offering graces the altar,
8

and its savour rises before the Most High.
A virtuous man's sacrifice is acceptable,	6
its memorial will not be forgotten.	9
Honour the Lord with generosity,	7
do not stint the first-fruits you bring.	10
Add a smiling face to all your gifts,	8
and be cheerful as you dedicate your tithes.	11
Give to the Most High as he has given to you,	9
generously as your means can afford;	12
for the Lord is a good rewarder,	10
he will reward you seven times over.	13

The justice of God

Offer him no bribe, he will not accept it,	11
do not put your faith in an unvirtuous sacrifice;	14
since the Lord is a judge	15
who is no respecter of personages.	12
He shows no respect of personages to the detriment of a poor man,	13
he listens to the plea of the injured party.	16
He does not ignore the orphan's supplication,	14
nor the widow's as she pours out her story.	17
Do the widow's tears not run down her cheeks,	15
as she cries out against the man who caused them?	18
The man who with his whole heart serves God will be accepted,	16
his petitions will carry to the clouds.	20
The humble man's prayer pierces the clouds,	17
until it arrives he is inconsolable,	21
nor will he desist until the Most High takes notice of him,	18
acquits the virtuous and delivers judgement.
And the Lord will not be slow,	19
nor will he be dilatory on their behalf,	22
until he has crushed the loins of the merciless	20
and exacted vengeance on the nations,	23
until he has eliminated the hordes of the arrogant	21
and broken the sceptres of the wicked,
until he has repaid each as his deeds deserve	22
and human actions as their intentions merit,	24
until he has judged the case of his people	23
and made them rejoice in his mercy.	25
Mercy is welcome in time of trouble,	24
like rain clouds in time of drought.	26

Prayer for the deliverance and restoration of Israel

36	Have mercy on us, Master, Lord of all, and look on us,	1
	cast the fear of yourself over every nation.	2
	Raise your hand against the foreign nations	2
	and let them see your might.	3
	As in their sight you have proved yourself holy before us,	4
	so now in our sight prove yourself great before them.
	Let them acknowledge you, just as we have acknowledged	4
	that there is no God but you, Lord.	5
	Send new portents, do fresh wonders,	5
	win glory for your hand and your right arm.	6
	Rouse your fury, pour out your rage,	7
destroy the opponent, annihilate the enemy.	6
Hasten the day, remember the oath,	8
	9
	7
	10

and let men tell of your mighty deeds.
 8 Let fiery wrath swallow up the survivor,
 11 and destruction overtake those who use your people badly.
 9 Crush the heads of hostile rulers
 12 who say, 'There is nobody else but us!'
 10 Gather together all the tribes of Jacob,
 13 restore them their inheritance as in the beginning.<sup>a</sup>
 11 Have mercy, Lord, on the people who have invoked your name, 14 on Israel whom you have treated as a first-born.
 12 Show compassion on your holy city,
 13 on Jerusalem the place of your rest.
 13 Fill Zion with songs of your praise,
 16 and your sanctuary with your glory.
 14 Bear witness to those you created in the beginning,
 17 and bring about what has been prophesied in your name.
 15 Give those who wait for you their reward,
 18 and let your prophets be proved worthy of belief.
 16 Grant, Lord, the prayer of your servants,
 19 in accordance with Aaron's blessing on your people, 17 so that all the earth's inhabitants may acknowledge that you are the Lord, the everlasting God.

Discrimination

18 The stomach takes in all kinds of food
 20 but some foods are better than others.
 19 As the palate discerns the flavour of game,
 21 so a shrewd man detects lying words.
 20 A perverse heart causes sorrow,
 22 an experienced man knows how to pay him back.

Choosing

21 A woman will accept any husband,
 23 but some daughters are better than others.
 22 A woman's beauty delights the beholder,
 24 a man likes nothing better.
 23 If her tongue is kind and gentle,
 25 her husband has no equal among the sons of men.
 24 The man who takes a wife has the makings of a fortune, 26 a helper that suits him, and a pillar to lean on.
 25 If a property has no fence, it will be plundered.
 27 When a man has no wife, he is aimless and querulous.
 26 Will anyone trust a man carrying weapons
 28 who flits from town to town?
 27 So it is with the man who has no nest,
 and lodges wherever night overtakes him.

False friends

1 37 Any friend will say, 'I am your friend too', but some friends are only friends in name.
 2 Is it not a deadly sorrow,
 when a comrade or a friend turns enemy?
 1 O evil inclination, why were you created,
 to cover the earth with deceit?

36 a. The situation implied in this Prayer is that of the year 190 B.C., just before the Maccabean revolt.

One sort of comrade takes advantage of his friend's good fortune, 4
 but in time of trouble turns against him.
 Another sort of comrade shares his friend's hardships out of concern, 5
 when it comes to a fight, he springs to arms.
 Do not forget the friend who fought your battles, 6
 do not put him out of mind once you are rich.

Advisers

Any adviser will offer advice, 7
 but some are governed by self-interest. 8
 Beware of a man who offers advice, 8
 first find out what he wants himself— 9
 since his advice coincides with his own interest—
 in case he has designs on you 10
 and tells you, 'You are on the right road', 11
 but stands well clear to see what will happen to you.
 Do not consult a man who looks at you askance, 10 conceal your plans from people jealous of you. 12
 Do not consult a woman about her rival, 11
 or a coward about war,
 a merchant about prices,
 or a buyer about selling,
 a mean man about gratitude,
 or a selfish man about kindness, 13
 a lazy fellow about any sort of work, or a casual worker about finishing a job, 14
 an idle servant about a major undertaking—
 do not rely on these for any advice.
 But constantly have recourse to a devout man, 12 whom you know to be a keeper of the commandments, 15
 whose soul matches your own, 16
 and who, if you go wrong, will be sympathetic.
 Finally, stick to the advice your own heart gives you, 13
 no one can be truer to you than that; 17
 since a man's soul often forewarns him better 14
 than seven watchmen perched on a watchtower. 18
 And besides all this beg the Most High 15
 to guide your steps in the truth. 19

True and false wisdom

Reason must be the beginning of every activity, 16 reflection must come before any undertaking. 20
 Thoughts are rooted in the heart, 17
 and this sends out four branches: 21
 good and evil, life and death, 18
 and always mistress of them all is the tongue.
 Think of a clever man who teaches many people, 19
 but does no good at all to himself. 22
 Think of a man, a ready enough speaker, yet he is detested 20
 and will end up by starving, 23
 not having won the favour of the Lord, 21
 and being destitute of all wisdom. 24
 Think of a man who is wise in his own eyes, 22 and the fruits of his understanding are, if you take his word 25 for it, certain.
 The truly wise will instruct his own people, 23 26

the fruits of his understanding are certain.
 24 This wise man will be filled with blessing,
 27 and those who see him will call him happy.
 25 A man's life lasts a number of days,
 28 but the days of Israel are beyond counting.
 26 The wise man will earn confidence among his people,
 29 his name will live for ever.

Moderation

27 My son, in the course of your life test your constitution, 30 and do not allow it what you see is harmful to it;
 28 for everything does not suit everybody,
 31 nor does everybody take pleasure in everything.
 29 Do not be insatiable over any delicacy,
 32 do not be greedy over food,
 30 for overeating leads to sickness,
 33 and gluttony brings on biliousness.
 31 Many have died of gluttony;
 34 beware of this and you will prolong your life.

Medicine and illness

1 38 Honour the doctor with the honour that is his due in return for his services;
 for he too has been created by the Lord.
 2 Healing itself comes from the Most High,
 like a gift from a king.
 3 The doctor's learning keeps his head high,
 he is regarded with awe by potentates.
 4 The Lord has brought medicines into existence from the earth,
 and the sensible man will not despise them.
 5 Did not a piece of wood once sweeten the water,
 thus giving proof of its virtue?<sup>a</sup>
 6 He has also given men learning
 so that they may glory in his mighty works.
 7 He uses them<sup>b</sup> to heal and to relieve pain,
 8 the chemist makes up a mixture from them.
 Thus there is no end to his activities,
 and through him health extends across the world.
 9 My son, when you are ill, do not be depressed,
 but pray to the Lord and he will heal you.
 10 Renounce your faults, keep your hands unsoiled,
 and cleanse your heart from all sin.
 11 Offer incense and a memorial of fine flour,
 and make as rich an offering as you can afford.
 12 Then let the doctor take over—the Lord created him too—and do not let him leave you, for you need him.
 13 Sometimes success is in their hands,
 14 since they in turn will beseech the Lord to grant them the grace to relieve and to heal, that life may be saved.
 15 If a man sins in the eyes of his Maker,
 may he fall under the care of the doctor.

38 a. Ex 15:25 b. The medicines of v.4.

Mourning

My son, shed tears over a dead man, and intone the lament to show your own deep grief; bury his body with due ceremonial, and do not neglect to honour his grave.	16
Weep bitterly, wail most fervently; observe the mourning the dead man deserves, one day, or two, to avoid comment, and then be comforted in your sorrow;	17 18
for grief can lead to death, a grief-stricken heart undermines your strength.	18 19
Let grief end with the funeral; a life of grief oppresses the mind.	19 20
Do not abandon your heart to grief, drive it away, bear your own end in mind.	20 21
Do not forget, there is no going back; you cannot help the dead, and you will harm yourself.	21 22
'Remember my doom, since it will be yours too; yesterday was my day, today is yours.'	22 23
Once the dead man is laid to rest, let his memory rest too, do not fret for him, once his spirit departs.	23 24

Trades and crafts

Leisure is what gives the scribe the opportunity to acquire wisdom; the man with few business affairs grows wise.	24 25
How can the ploughman become wise, whose sole ambition is to wield the goad; driving his oxen, engrossed in their work, his conversation is of nothing but cattle?	25 26
His mind is fixed on the furrows he traces, and his evenings pass in fattening his heifers.	26 27
So it is with every workman and craftsman, toiling day and night; those who engrave seals, always trying to think of new designs: they set their heart on producing a good likeness, and stay up perfecting the work.	27 28
So it is with the blacksmith sitting by his anvil; he considers what to do with the pig-iron, the breath of the fire scorches his skin, as he contends with the heat of the furnace; he batters his ear with the din of the hammer, his eyes are fixed on the pattern;	28 29 30
he sets his heart on completing his work, and stays up putting the finishing touches.	31
So it is with the potter, sitting at his work, turning the wheel with his feet; constantly on the alert over his work, each flick of the finger premeditated;	29 32
he pummels the clay with his arm, and puddles it with his feet;	30 33
he sets his heart on perfecting the glaze, and stays up cleaning the kiln.	34
All these put their trust in their hands, and each is skilled at his own craft.	31 35
A town could not be built without them,	32 36

37 there would be no settling, no travelling.
 33 But they are not required at the council,
 they do not hold high rank in the assembly.
 38 They do not sit on the judicial bench,
 and have no grasp of the law.
 They are not remarkable for culture or sound judgement,
 and are not found among the inventors of maxims.
 34 But they give solidity to the created world,
 39 while their prayer is concerned with what pertains to their trade.

The scholar

1 39 It is otherwise with the man who devotes his soul to reflecting on the Law of the Most High.
 1 He researches into the wisdom of all the Ancients,
 he occupies his time with the prophecies.
 2 He preserves the discourses of famous men,
 he is at home with the niceties of parables.
 3 He researches into the hidden sense of proverbs,
 he ponders the obscurities of parables.
 4 He enters the service of princes,
 he is seen in the presence of rulers.
 5 He travels in foreign countries,
 he has experienced human good and human evil.
 5 At dawn and with all his heart
 6 he resorts to the Lord who made him;
 he pleads in the presence of the Most High,
 7 he opens his mouth in prayer
 and makes entreaty for his sins.
 6 If it is the will of the great Lord,
 8 he will be filled with the spirit of understanding,
 9 he will shower forth words of wisdom,
 and in prayer give thanks to the Lord.
 7 He will grow upright in purpose and learning,
 10 he will ponder the Lord's hidden mysteries.
 8 He will display the instruction he has received,
 11 taking his pride in the Law of the Lord's covenant.
 9 Many will praise his understanding,
 12 and it will never be forgotten.
 13 His memory will not disappear,
 generation after generation his name will live.
 10 Nations will proclaim his wisdom,
 14 the assembly will celebrate his praises.
 11 If he lives long, his name will be more glorious than a thousand others, 15 and if he dies, that will satisfy him just as well.

Invitation to praise God

12 I wish to develop my reflections further,
 16 they fill me as full as the moon at the full.
 13 Listen to me, devout children, and blossom
 17 like the rose that grows on the bank of a watercourse.
 14 Give off a sweet smell like incense,
 18 flower like the lily, spread your fragrance abroad,
 19 sing a song of praise
 blessing the Lord for all his works.
 15 Declare the greatness of his name,
 20 proclaim his praise

with song and with lyre,
 and this is how you must sing his praises:
 how wonderful they are, all the works of the Lord! 16
 All that he orders is promptly carried out. 21
 You must not say, 'What is this? Why is that?' 17
 All will be studied in due time. 22
 At his word water stops running and piles up, waters are stored at a word from his mouth.
 At his bidding, all his pleasure is accomplished, 18
 no one can diminish his power to save. 23
 The actions of every creature are before him,
 there is no hiding from his eyes; 19
 his gaze stretches from eternity to eternity, 24
 and nothing can astonish him. 25
 You must not say, 'What is this? Why is that?' 21
 All things have been created for their proper functions. 26
 As his blessing covers the dry land like a river 22
 and soaks it like a flood, 27
 so wrath is his legacy to the nations, 28
 just as he has turned fresh waters to salt. 23
 His ways are as smooth for devout men, 24
 as they are full of obstacles for the wicked.
 Good things were created from the beginning for good men, 25
 as evils were for sinners. 30
 The prime needs of mankind for living 26
 are water and fire, iron and salt, 31
 wheat-flour, milk and honey,
 the juice of the grape, oil and clothing.
 All these things are good for people who are good, 27
 just as they turn into bad for sinners. 32
 Some winds were created to punish; 28
 he has made them the scourge of his anger; 33
 on the day of doom they unleash their force, 34
 and appease the anger of him who made them.
 Fire and hail, famine and death, 29
 all these were created to punish. 35
 The teeth of savage animals, scorpions, adders, 30 and the avenging sword to destroy the godless, 36
 all these exult in obeying his orders, 31
 they are ready on earth when he requires, 37
 and when the time comes they will not disobey his order.
 That is why I was determined from the outset, 32
 I have pondered and I have written it down, 38
 'All the works of the Lord are good, 33
 and he will supply every want in due time. 39
 You must not say, "This is worse than that", 34
 for everything will prove its value in its time. 40
 So now, sing with all your heart and voice, 35
 and bless the name of the Lord!' 41

The wretchedness of man

40

Much hardship has been made for every man, 1 a heavy yoke lies on the sons of Adam from the day they come out of their mother's womb, till the day they return to the mother of them all.

- 2           What fills them with brooding and their hearts with fear is dread of the day of death.
- 3           From the man who sits on a glorious throne
               to the wretch on dust and ashes,
- 4           from the man who wears purple and a crown
               to the man clothed in sacking,
- 5           all is fury and jealousy, turmoil and unrest,
               fear of death, rivalry, strife.
- And even at night while he rests on his bed
               his sleep only gives a new twist to his worries:
- 6           scarcely has he lain down to rest,
               than in his sleep, as if in broad daylight,
               he is shaken by terrible sights
               like a man running away from a battle.
- 7           At the moment of rescue he awakens,
               astonished that his fear was imaginary.
- 8           For all creatures, from men to animals—
               and seven times more for sinners—
- 9           there is death and blood and strife and the sword, disasters, famine, affliction, plague.
- 10          All these were created for the godless,
               through them came the Flood.
- 11          All that comes from the earth returns to the earth,
               what comes from the water returns to the sea.

Various maxims

- 12          All bribery and injustice will be blotted out,
               but good faith will stand for ever.
- 13          The wealth of wrong-doers will dry up like a torrent, will crash like a clap of thunder in a downpour.
- 14          When he opens his hands he rejoices,
               by the same token defaulters will come to utter ruin.
- 15          The offshoots of the godless will not have many branches, unclean roots only find hard rock.
- 16          The reeds by every lake and river's edge
               will be pulled up before any other grass.
- 17          Graciousness is like a paradise of blessing, and generosity stands firm for ever.

Comparisons

- 18          For the man of private means and the man who works hard,
               life is pleasant,
               better off than either, he who finds a treasure.
- 19          Children and the building of a city make a man's reputation;
               better than either, the discovery of wisdom.
- Cattle and vineyards make you well known;
               better valued than either, a perfect wife.
- 20          Wine and music cheer the heart;
               better than either, the love of wisdom.
- 21          Flute and harp add sweetness to a song;
               better than either, a sweet voice.
- 22          The eye longs for grace and beauty;
               better than either, the green of spring corn.
- 23          Friend or comrade — it is always well met;
               better than either, a wife and husband.
- 24          Brothers and allies are good in times of trouble;

better than either, generosity to the rescue.
Gold and silver will steady your feet;	25
better valued than either, good advice.
Money and strength make a confident heart;	26
better than either, the fear of the Lord.
With the fear of the Lord a man lacks nothing;	27
with that he need seek no ally.
The fear of the Lord is like a paradise of blessing,	27
it clothes a man with more than glory.	28

On begging

My son, do not live by begging from others,	28
better be dead than a beggar.	29
The life of a man ever eyeing the table of another	29
cannot be reckoned as a life at all.	30
He defiles his gullet with other people's food;
a man of culture and breeding will never do this.	31
Begging comes easily to the lips of the shameless man,	30
but eventually it will set fire to his belly.	32

Death*41

O death, how bitter it is to remember you	1
for a man at peace among his goods,
to a man without worries, who prospers in everything,	2
and still has the strength to feed himself.
O death, your sentence is welcome	2
to a man in want, whose strength is failing,	3
to a man worn out with age, worried about everything,	4
disaffected and beyond endurance.
Do not dread death's sentence;	3
remember those who came before you and those who will	5
come after.
This is the sentence passed on all living creatures by the Lord,
so why object to what seems good to the Most High?	4
Whether your life lasts ten or a hundred or a thousand years,	6
its length will not be held against you in Sheol.	7

The fate of the wicked

Hateful brats, such are the children of sinners,	5
who forgather in the haunts of the godless.	8
The inheritance of sinners' children is doomed to perish,	6
their posterity will endure lasting reproach.	9
A godless father will be blamed by his children	7
for the reproach he has brought on them.	10
A bad outlook for you, godless men,	8
who have forsaken the Law of God Most High.	11
When you were born, you were born to be accursed,	9
and when you die, that curse will be your portion.	12
All that comes from the earth returns to the earth,	10
so too the wicked proceed from curse to destruction.	13
Men go into mourning for their dead,	11
but the worthless name of sinners will be blotted out.	14
Be careful of your reputation, for it will last you longer	12
than a thousand great hoards of gold.	13
A good life lasts a certain number of days,	13
but a good reputation lasts for ever.	16

A sense of shame

- 14 Keep my instructions and be at peace, my children.
 17 Wisdom hidden away and treasure undisplayed,
 what use are either of these?
 15 Better a man who hides his folly
 18 than one who hides his wisdom.
 16 Now, keep your sense of shame with respect to what I am going to say,
 19 for not every kind of shame is right to harbour,
 20 nor is every situation correctly appraised by all.
 17 Be ashamed, before father and mother, of licentious behaviour,
 21 and before prince or potentate of telling lies;
 18 of wrong-doing before judge or magistrate,
 22 and of impiety before the assembly of the people;
 19 of sharp practice before your companion and your friend, 23 and of theft before the neighbourhood you live in.
 24 Before the truth and covenant of God,
 '0 be ashamed of leaning elbows on the table,
 21 of making gifts before those who despise them,
 23 and of ignoring those who greet you:
 22 of gazing at a loose woman
 26 and of turning your back on a relation,
 23 of misappropriating another's portion or gift,
 27 of paying court to another man's wife, 24 of carrying on with his servant-girl
 —do not go near her bed—
 25 of words of abuse before your friends
 28 —do not follow up a gift with a taunt—
 26 of repeating and retailing gossip
 1 and of betraying confidences.
 27 Then you will know what true shame is,
 and you will find yourself in every man's graces.
- 1 42 These are the things you should not be ashamed of,
 2 and do not sin from fear of what others think:
 3 of the Law of the Most High and the covenant,
 4 of a verdict that acquits the godless,
 5 of keeping strict accounts with a travelling companion,
 6 of settling property on your friends,
 7 of being accurate over scales and weights,
 8 of making small and large profits,
 9 of gaining from commercial transactions,
 10 of disciplining your children strictly,
 11 of lashing a wicked slave till you draw blood.
 12 With an interfering wife, it is as well to use your seal,
 13 and where there are many hands, lock things up.
 14 Whatever stores you issue, do it by number and weight,
 15 spendings and takings, put everything in writing.
 16 Do not be ashamed to correct a stupid man or a fool,
 17 or an old dotard who bickers with young people.
 18 Then you will show yourself really educated 19 and win the approval of everyone.

The cares of a father over his daughter

- 9 Unknown to her, a daughter keeps her father awake,
 the worry she gives him drives away his sleep :
 in her youth, in case she never marries,

married, in case she should be disliked,
 as a virgin, in case she should be defiled, 10
 and found with child in her father's house,
 having a husband, in case she goes astray,
 married, in case she should be barren.
 Your daughter is headstrong? Keep a sharp look-out 11 that she does not make you the laughing-stock of your enemies,
 the talk of the town, the object of common gossip,
 and put you to public shame.

Women

Do not stare at any man for his good looks, 12
 do not sit down with the women;
 for moth comes out of clothes, 13
 and woman's spite out of woman.
 A man's spite is preferable to a woman's kindness; 14
 women give rise to shame and reproach.

THE GLORY OF GOD

IN NATURE

Next, I will remind you of the works of the Lord, 15
 and tell of what I have seen.
 By the words of the Lord his works come into being and all creation obeys his will.
 As the sun in shining looks on all things, 16
 so the work of the Lord is full of his glory.
 The Lord has not granted to the holy ones<sup>a</sup> 17
 to tell of all his marvels which the Almighty Lord has solidly constructed for the universe to stand firm in his glory.
 He has fathomed the deep and the heart, 18
 and seen into their devious ways;
 for the Most High knows all the knowledge there is,
 and has observed the signs of the times.
 He declares what is past and what will be, 19
 and uncovers the traces of hidden things.
 Not a thought escapes him, 20
 not a single word is hidden from him.
 He has imposed an order on the magnificent works of his wisdom, 21
 he is from everlasting to everlasting, nothing can be added to him, nothing taken away, 22
 he needs no one's advice.
 How desirable are all his works, 22
 how dazzling to the eye! 23
 They all live and last for ever, 23
 whatever the circumstances all obey him. 24
 All things go in pairs, by opposites, 24
 and he has made nothing defective; 25
 the one consolidates the excellence of the other, 25
 who could ever be satiated with gazing at his glory? 26

The sun

43

Pride of the heights, shining vault, 1
 so, in a glorious spectacle, the sky appears.

2           The sun, as he emerges, proclaims at his rising,
           'A thing of wonder is the work of the Most High!'
 3           At his zenith he parches the land,
           who can withstand his blaze?
 4           A man must blow a furnace to produce any heat,
           the sun burns the mountains three times as much;
           breathing out blasts of fire,
           flashing his rays he dazzles the eyes.
 5           Great is the Lord who made him,
           and whose word speeds him on his course.

The moon

6           And then the moon, always punctual,
           to mark the months and make division of time:
 7           the moon it is that signals the feasts,
           a luminary that wanes after her full.
 8           The month derives its name from hers,
           she waxes wonderfully in her phases, 9           banner of the hosts on high,
           shining in the vault of heaven.

The stars

9           The glory of the stars makes the beauty of the sky,
 10          a brilliant decoration to the heights of the Lord.
 10          At the words of the Holy One they stand as he decrees, 11          and never grow slack at their watch.

The rainbow

11          See the rainbow and praise its maker,
 12          so superbly beautiful in its splendour.
 12          Across the sky it forms a glorious arc 13          drawn by the hands of the Most High.

The wonders of nature

13          By his command he sends the snow,
 14          he speeds the lightning as he orders.
 14          In the same way, his treasures open
 15          and the clouds fly out like birds.
 15          In his great might he banks up the clouds,
 16          and shivers them into fragments of hail.
 16a          At sight of him the mountains rock,
 17a          at the roar of his thunder the earth writhes in labour.
 16b          At his will the south wind blows,
 17b          or the storm from the north and the whirlwind.
 18b          He sprinkles snow like birds alighting,
 19          it comes down like locusts settling.
 18          The eye marvels at the beauty of its whiteness,
 20          and the mind is amazed at its falling.
 19          Over the earth, like salt, he also pours hoarfrost,
 21          which, when it freezes, bristles like thorns.
 20          The cold wind blows from the north,
 22          and ice forms on the water,
           settling on every watery expanse,
           and water puts it on like a breastplate.

He swallows up the mountains and scorches the desert, like a fire he consumes the vegetation.	21 23
But the mist heals everything in good time, after the heat falls the reviving dew.	22 24
By his own resourcefulness he has tamed the abyss, and planted it with islands.	23 25
Those who sail the sea tell of its dangers, their accounts fill our ears with amazement:	24 26
for there too there are strange and wonderful works, animals of every kind and huge sea creatures.	25 27
Thanks to him all ends well, and all things hold together by means of his word.	26 28
We could say much more and still fall short; to put it concisely, 'He is all'.	27 29
Where shall we find sufficient power to glorify him, since he is the Great One, above all his works,	28 30
the awe-inspiring Lord, stupendously great, and wonderful in his power?	29 31
Exalt the Lord in your praises as high as you may—still he surpasses you.	30 32 33
Exert all your strength when you exalt him, do not grow tired—you will never come to the end.	34
Who has ever seen him to give a description? Who can glorify him as he deserves?	31 35
Many mysteries remain even greater than these, for we have seen only a few of his works, the Lord himself having made all things— and having given wisdom to devout men.	32 36 33 37

IN HISTORY

Eulogy of the ancestors

44	Next let us praise illustrious men, our ancestors in their successive generations.	1
	The Lord has created an abundance of glory, and displayed his greatness from earliest times.	2
	Some wielded authority as kings and were renowned for their strength; others were intelligent advisers and uttered prophetic oracles.	3
	Others directed the people by their advice, by their understanding of the popular mind, and by the wise words of their teaching; others composed musical melodies, and set down ballads;	4 5
	others were rich and powerful, living peacefully in their homes.	6
	All these were honoured by their contemporaries, and were the glory of their day.	7
	Some of them left a name behind them, so that their praises are still sung.	8
	While others have left no memory, and disappeared as though they had not existed, they are now as though they had never been, and so too, their children after them.	9

10 But here is a list of generous men whose good works have not been forgotten.
 11 In their descendants there remains a rich inheritance born of them.
 12 Their descendants stand by the covenants
 and, thanks to them, so do their children's children.
 13 Their offspring will last for ever,
 their glory will not fade.
 14 Their bodies have been buried in peace,
 and their name lives on for all generations.
 15 The peoples will proclaim their wisdom,
 the assembly will celebrate their praises.

Enoch

16 Enoch pleased the Lord and was taken up,
 an example for the conversion of all generations.

Noah

17 Noah was found perfectly virtuous,
 in the time of wrath he became the scion:
 18 because of him a remnant was preserved for the earth
 at the coming of the Flood.
 18 19 Everlasting covenants were made with him
 that never again should every living creature perish by flood.

Abraham

19 20 Abraham, the great forefather of a host of nations,
 no one was ever his equal in glory.
 20 He observed the Law of the Most High,
 and entered into a covenant with him.
 21 He confirmed the covenant in his own flesh,
 and proved himself faithful under ordeal.
 21
 22 The Lord therefore promised him on oath
 to bless the nations through his descendants,
 to multiply him like the dust on the ground, 23 to exalt his descendants like the stars,
 and give them the land for their inheritance,
 from sea to sea,
 from the River to the ends of the earth.

Isaac and Jacob

22
 24 To Isaac too, for the sake of Abraham his father,
 21 he assured the blessing of all mankind;
 23 he caused the covenant to rest on the head of Jacob.
 26 He confirmed him in his blessings
 and gave him the land for his inheritance;
 he divided it into portions,
 and shared it out among the twelve tribes.

Moses

1
 45 From him he produced a generous man who found favour in the eyes of all mankind,<sup>a</sup>
 1 beloved by God and men,
 Moses, of blessed memory.

45 a. In the text as preserved, these two lines refer to Moses; possibly they referred originally to Joseph.

He made him the equal of the holy ones in glory and made him strong, to the terror of his enemies. 2
 At the word of Moses he made the miracles stop, 3
 he raised him high in the respect of kings;
 he gave him commandments for his people,
 and showed him something of his glory.
 For his loyalty and gentleness he sanctified him, 4
 choosing him alone out of all mankind; he allowed him to hear his voice, 5
 and led him into the darkness;
 he gave him the commandments face to face, 6
 the law of life and knowledge, to teach Jacob his ordinances and Israel his decrees.

Aaron

He raised up Aaron, a holy man like Moses, 6
 his brother, of the tribe of Levi. 7
 He made an everlasting covenant with him, 7
 and gave him the priesthood of the people. 8
 He adorned him with impressive vestments,
 he dressed him in a robe of glory. 9
 He clothed him in glorious perfection 8
 and invested him with emblems of authority:
 the breeches, the long robe, the ephod. 10
 To go round the robe he gave him pomegranates, 9
 and many gold bells all round to chime at every step, 11
 for their sound to be heard in the Temple
 as a reminder to the sons of his people;
 and a sacred vestment of gold and purple, violet shade 10
 and red, the work of an embroiderer; 12
 the pectoral of judgement, the Urim and Thummim,<sup>b</sup> of plaited crimson, the work of a craftsman; 13 precious stones cut like seals 11 mounted in gold, the work of a jeweller,
 as a reminder with their engraved inscriptions
 of the number of the tribes of Israel;
 and a golden diadem on his turban, 12
 engraved with the seal of consecration;
 superb ornamentation, magnificent work,
 adornment to delight the eye.
 There had never been such lovely things before him, 13
 and no one else has ever put them on, 15
 but only his own sons, 16
 and his descendants for all time.
 His sacrifices were to be burnt entirely, 14
 twice each day and for ever. 17
 Moses consecrated him 15
 and anointed him with holy oil; 18
 and this was an everlasting covenant for him, 19
 and for his descendants as long as the heavens endure,
 that he should preside over worship, act as priest,
 and bless his people in the name of the Lord,
 who chose him out of all the living 16
 to offer sacrifice to the Lord, 20

incense and an appeasing fragrance as a memorial to make atonement for the people.

17 He entrusted him with his commandments,
21 committed to him the statutes of the Law
to teach Jacob his decrees,
and enlighten Israel on his Law.

18 Others joined forces against him,
22 they were jealous of him in the wilderness,
Dathan and Abiram and their men,
Korah and his crew in fury and rage.

19 The Lord saw it and was displeased,
23 his raging fury made an end of them;
24 he overwhelmed them with miracles
and consumed them with his flaming fire.

20 And he added to Aaron's glory,
25 he gave him an inheritance;
he allotted him the prime of the first-fruits,
before all else ensured him bread in abundance.

26 Thus they eat the sacrifices of the Lord
21 which he gave to him and his posterity.

22 But of the people's territory he inherits nothing, 27 he alone of all the people has no share,
the Lord is his share and inheritance.

Phinehas

23 Phinehas son of Eleazar is third in glory
28 because of his zeal in the fear of the Lord,
because he stood firm when the people revolted, 39 with a staunch and courageous heart;
and in this way atoned for Israel.
Hence a covenant of peace was sealed with him,
24 making him governor of both sanctuary and people,
30 and securing to him and his descendants
the high priestly dignity for ever.
There was also a covenant with David 25 son of Jesse, of the tribe of Judah, 31 a royal succession from father to one son exclusively,
but the succession of Aaron passes to all his descendants.
26 May God endow your hearts with wisdom to judge his people virtuously,
so that the virtues of your ancestors may never fade,
and their glory may pass to all their descendants.

Joshua

1 46 Mighty in war was Joshua son of Nun, successor to Moses in the prophetic office,
who well deserved his name,
2 and was a great saviour of the Chosen People,
wreaking vengeance on the enemies who opposed him,
and so bringing Israel into its inheritance.
2 How splendid he was when he raised his arms
3 to brandish his sword against cities!

45 b. See note a of Dt 33; also Ex 28:30, Lv 8:8. c. Addressed to the contemporary 'succession of Aaron'.

46 a. Joshua means 'Yahweh-saves'. The Greek form of the same name is Jesus.

Who had ever shown such determination as his? 3
 He himself waged the wars of the Lord. 4
 Was not the sun held back by his hand, 4
 and one day drawn out into two? 5
 He called on God the Most High, 5
 as he pressed the enemy on every side; 6 and the great Lord answered him 6
 with hard and violent hailstones. 7
 He fell on that enemy nation, 7
 and at the Descent he destroyed all resistance;
 that the nations might acknowledge his warlike prowess 8
 and know that their foe was the Lord. 8

Caleb

For he was a follower of the Mighty One, and in the time of Moses he did devoted service, 7
 he and Caleb son of Jephunneh, 9
 by opposing the whole community,
 by preventing the people from sinning,
 and by silencing the mutters of rebellion.
 Hence these two alone were preserved 8
 out of six hundred thousand men on the march, 10
 and brought into their inheritance,
 into a land where milk and honey flow.
 The Lord gave Caleb the strength— 9
 which he retained right into old age— 11
 to tread the highlands of the country which his descendants still hold as their inheritance, for all the sons of Israel to see 10
 that it is good to follow the Lord. 12

The judges

The judges too, each when he was called, 11
 all men whose hearts were never disloyal, 13
 who never turned their backs on the Lord—
 may their memory be blessed! 14
 May their bones flower again from the tomb, 12
 and may the names of those illustrious men 15
 live again in their sons.

Samuel

Samuel was the beloved of his Lord; 13
 prophet of the Lord, he instituted the kingdom, 16
 and anointed rulers over his people.
 In the Law of the Lord he judged the assembly, 14
 and the Lord watched over Jacob. 17
 By his loyalty he was recognised as a prophet, 15
 by his words he was known to be a trustworthy seer. 18
 He called on the Lord, the Mighty One, 16
 when his enemies pressed him on every side,
 by offering a sucking lamb. 19
 And the Lord thundered from heaven, 17
 and made his voice heard in a rolling peal; 20
 he massacred the leaders of the enemy, 18
 and all the rulers of the Philistines. 21
 Before the time of his everlasting rest 19

22 he bore witness before the Lord and his anointed,
 'Of no property, not even a pair of sandals,
 have I ever deprived a soul'.
 Nor did anyone accuse him.
 20 And after he fell asleep he prophesied again,
 23 warning the king of his death;
 he lifted up his voice from the earth in prophecy,
 to blot out the wickedness of the people.

Nathan

1 47 After him arose Nathan,
 to prophesy in the time of David.

David

2 As the fat is set apart from the communion sacrifice, so David was chosen out of all the sons of Israel.
 3 He played with lions as though with kids,
 and with bears as though with lambs of the flock.
 4 While still a boy, did he not slay the giant,
 and relieve the people of their shame,
 5 by putting out a hand to sling a stone
 which brought down the arrogance of Goliath?
 5 For he called on the Lord Most High,
 6 who gave strength to his right arm
 to put a mighty warrior to death,
 and lift up the horn of his people.
 6 Hence they gave him credit for ten thousand,
 7 and praised him while they blessed the Lord,
 by offering him a crown of glory;
 7 for he massacred enemies on every side,
 8 he annihilated his foes the Philistines,
 and crushed their horn to this very day.
 8 In all his activities he gave thanks
 9 to the Holy One, the Most High, in words of glory;
 10 he put all his heart into his songs
 out of love for his Maker.
 9 He placed harps before the altar
 11 to make the singing sweeter with their music;
 10 he gave the feasts their splendour,
 12 the festivals their solemn pomp,
 causing the Lord's holy name to be praised
 and the sanctuary to resound from dawn.
 11 The Lord took away his sins, 13 and exalted his horn for ever;
 he gave him a royal covenant,
 and a glorious throne in Israel.

Solomon

12 A wise son succeeded him,
 14 who lived spaciously, thanks to him.
 13 Solomon reigned in a time of peace,
 15 and God gave him peace all round
 so that he could raise a house to his name and prepare an everlasting sanctuary.

How wise you were in your youth, brimming over with understanding like a river!	14 16
Your mind ranged the earth, you filled it with mysterious sayings.	15 17
Your name reached the distant islands, and you were loved for your peace. <sup>b</sup>	16
Your songs, your proverbs, your sayings and your retorts made you the wonder of the world.	17 18
In the name of the Lord God, of him who is called the God of Israel, you amassed gold like so much tin, and made silver as common as lead.	18 19 20
You abandoned your body to women, you became the slave of your appetites.	19 21
You stained your honour, you profaned your stock, so bringing wrath on your children and grief on your posterity: the sovereignty was split in two, from Ephraim arose a rebel kingdom.	20 22 23
But the Lord would not go back on his mercy, or undo any of his words, he would not obliterate the issue of his elect, nor destroy the stock of the man who loved him; and so he granted a remnant to Jacob, and to David a root springing from him.	22 24 25

Rehoboam

Solomon rested with his ancestors, leaving one of his stock as his successor, the stupidest member of the nation, brainless Rehoboam, whose policy drove the nation to rebel.	23 26 27 28
--	----------------------

Jeroboam

Next, Jeroboam son of Nebat, who made Israel sin, and set Ephraim on the way of evil; from then on their sins multiplied so excessively as to drive them out of their country; for they tried out every kind of wickedness, until vengeance overtook them.	29 24 30 25 31
---	----------------------------

Elijah

48

Then the prophet Elijah arose like a fire, his word flaring like a torch.	1
It was he who brought famine on them, and who decimated them in his zeal.	2
By the word of the Lord, he shut up the heavens, he also, three times, brought down fire.	3
How glorious you were in your miracles, Elijah! Has anyone reason to boast as you have?— rousing a corpse from death, from Sheol by the word of the Most High; dragging kings down to destruction, and high dignitaries from their beds; hearing reproof on Sinai, and decrees of punishment on Horeb;	4 5 6 7

8 anointing kings as avengers,
 and prophets to succeed you;
 9 taken up in the whirlwind of fire,
 in a chariot with fiery horses;
 10 designated in the prophecies of doom
 to allay God's wrath before the fury breaks, to turn the hearts of fathers towards their children,<sup>a</sup>
 and to restore the tribes of Jacob.
 11 Happy shall they be who see you,
 and those who have fallen asleep in love;
 12 for we too will have life.

Elisha

12 Elijah was shrouded in the whirlwind,
 13 and Elisha was filled with his spirit;
 throughout his life no ruler could shake him,
 and no one could subdue him.
 13 No task was too hard for him,
 14 and even in death his body prophesied.
 14 In his lifetime he performed wonders,
 15 and in death his works were marvellous.

Infidelity and punishment

15 Despite all this the people did not repent, 16 nor did they give up their sins,
 until they were herded out of their country
 and scattered all over the earth; 17 only a few of the people were left,
 with a ruler of the House of David.
 16 Some of them did what pleased the Lord,
 18 others piled sin on sin.

Hezekiah

17 Hezekiah fortified his city, 19 and laid on a water supply inside it;
 with iron he tunnelled through the rock
 and constructed cisterns.
 18 In his days Sennacherib invaded 20 and sent Rabshakeh;<sup>b</sup>
 he lifted his hand against Zion,
 and boasted loudly in his arrogance.
 19 Then their hearts and hands trembled,
 21 they felt the pangs of a woman in labour,
 20 but they called on the merciful Lord,
 22 stretching out their hands towards him.
 Swiftly the Holy One heard them from heaven,
 and delivered them by the hand of Isaiah,
 23 he struck the camp of the Assyrians
 24 and his angel massacred them.

Isaiah

22 For Hezekiah did what is pleasing to the Lord,
 25 and was steadfast in the ways of David his father,

47 b. Solomon means 'man of peace'.

48 a. MI 3:24. b. Ben Sira's translator has made a proper name out of rab shakeh ('the chief cupbearer').

enjoined on him by the prophet Isaiah,
 a great man trustworthy in his vision.
 In his days the sun moved back; 23
 he prolonged the life of the king. 26
 In the power of the spirit he saw the last things, 24
 he comforted the mourners of Zion, 27
 he revealed the future to the end of time, 25
 and hidden things long before they happened. 28

Josiah

49

The memory of Josiah is like blended incense 1
 prepared by the perfumer's art;
 it is as sweet as honey to all mouths, 2
 and like music at a wine feast.
 He took the right course, of converting the people, 2
 he rooted out the iniquitous abominations, 3
 he set his heart on the Lord, 4
 in godless times he upheld the cause of religion.

The last kings and prophets

Apart from David, Hezekiah and Josiah, 4
 they all heaped wrong on wrong;
 since they disregarded the Law of the Most High, 5
 the kings of Judah disappeared; 6
 since they gave their strength to others 5
 and their honour to a foreign nation. 7
 The holy, chosen city was burnt down, 6
 her streets were left deserted, 8
 as Jeremiah had predicted; *for they had ill-treated him 7
 though consecrated a prophet in his mother's womb 9
to tear up and afflict and destroy,
but also to build up and to plant.<sup>a</sup>
 Ezekiel it was who saw a vision of glory 8 which God showed to him above the chariot of the Cherubs, 10 for he remembered the enemies with torrential rain<sup>b</sup> 9 to the advantage of those who follow the right way. 11
 As for the twelve prophets, 10
 may their bones flower again from the tomb, 12
 since they have comforted Jacob and redeemed him in faith and hope.

Zerubbabel and Joshua

How shall we extol Zerubbabel? 11
 He was like a signet ring on the right hand, 13
 so too was Jeshua son of Jozadak; 12
 they who in their days built the Temple, 14
 and raised to the Lord a holy people,
 destined to everlasting glory.

Nehemiah

Great too is the memory of Nehemiah, 13
 who rebuilt our walls which lay in ruins, 15 erected the gates and bars
 and rebuilt our houses.

Retrospect

<sup>14</sup>
<sup>16</sup> No one else has ever been created on earth to equal Enoch,
 for he was taken up from earth.
<sup>15</sup>
<sup>17</sup> And no one else ever born has been like Joseph,
 the leader of his brothers, the prop of his people;
 his bones were honoured.
<sup>18</sup>
<sup>16</sup>
<sup>19</sup> Shem and Seth were honoured among men, but above every living creature is Adam.

Simon the high priest

1 50 It was the High Priest Simon son of Onias who repaired the Temple during his lifetime
 and in his day fortified the sanctuary.
 2 He laid the foundations of the double height,
 the high buttresses of the Temple precincts.
 3 In his day the water cistern was excavated,
 a reservoir as huge as the sea.
 4 Anxious to save the people from ruin,
 he fortified the city against siege.
 5 How splendid he was with the people thronging round him,
 when he emerged from the curtained shrine,<sup>a</sup> 6 like the morning star among the clouds,
 like the moon at the full,
 7 like the sun shining on the Temple of the Most High,
 8 like the rainbow gleaming against brilliant clouds,
 8 like roses in the days of spring,
 like lilies by a freshet of water,
 like a sprig of frankincense in summer-time,
 9 like fire and incense in the censer,
 10 like a vessel of beaten gold encrusted with every kind of precious stone,
 10 like an olive tree loaded with fruit,
 11 like a cypress soaring to the clouds;
 when he put on his splendid vestments,
 and clothed himself in glorious perfection, 12 when he went up to the holy altar,
 and filled the sanctuary precincts with his grandeur;
 12 when he received the portions from the hands of the priests, 13 himself standing by the altar hearth,
 surrounded by a crowd of his brothers,
 like a youthful cedar of Lebanon
 14 as though surrounded by the trunks of palm trees.
 When all the sons of Aaron in their glory,
 15 with the offerings of the Lord in their hands,
 stood before the whole assembly of Israel, 14 while he completed the rites at the altars, presenting in due order the offering for the Most High, the Almighty, 15 reaching out his hand to the cup,<sup>b</sup>
 16 and pouring a libation of the juice of the grape, 17 pouring it at the foot of the altar,
 an appealing fragrance to the Most High, the King of all,
 16 then the sons of Aaron would shout
 18 and blow their trumpets of beaten metal,

49 a. Jr 1:10. b. Possibly an allusion to Ezk 38:22.

50 a. At the ceremonies of the feast of the Atonement. b. A libation not described in Lv.

making a mighty sound ring out
     as a reminder before the Most High;
 and immediately the people all together
     would fall on their faces to the ground,
 in adoration of their Lord,
     the Almighty, God Most High,
 and with the cantors chanting their hymns of praise:
     sweet was the melody of all these voices,
 as the people pleaded with the Lord Most High,
     and prayed in the presence of the Merciful,
 until the service of the Lord was completed
     and the ceremony at an end.
 Then he would come down and raise his hands
     over the whole concourse of the sons of Israel,
 to give them the Lord's blessing from his lips,
     being privileged to pronounce his name;<sup>c</sup>
 and once again the people would bow low to receive the blessing from the Most High.

Exhortation

And now bless the God of all things,
     the doer of great deeds everywhere,
 who has exalted our days from the womb
     and acted towards us in his mercy.
 May he grant us cheerful hearts
     and bring peace in our time,
     in Israel for ages on ages.
 May his mercy be faithfully with us,
     may he redeem us in our time.

Numerical proverb

There are two nations that my soul detests,
     the third is not a nation at all:
 the inhabitants of Mount Seir, and the Philistines,
     and the stupid people living at Shechem.<sup>d</sup>

Conclusion

Instruction in wisdom and knowledge
     has been committed to writing in this book
 by Jesus son of Sira, Eleazar, of Jerusalem, who has rained down wisdom from his heart.
 Happy is he who busies himself with these things,
     and grows wise by taking them to heart.
 If he practises them he will be strong enough for anything,
     since the light of the Lord is his path.

APPENDICES

A hymn of thanksgiving

51 I will give thanks to you, Lord and King, and praise you, God my saviour,
     I give thanks to your name;
 for you have been protector and support to me,
     and redeemed my body from destruction,

from the snare of the lying tongue,
 from lips that fabricate falsehood;
 and in the presence of those around me
 you have been my support, *you have redeemed me,
 true to the greatness of your mercy and of your name,
 from the fangs of those who would devour me,
 from the hands of those seeking my life,
 from the many ordeals which I have endured,
 from the stifling heat which hemmed me in,
 from the heart of a fire which I had not kindled,
 from deep in the belly of Sheol,
 from the unclean tongue and the lying word—
 the perjured tongue slandering me to the king.
 My soul has been close to death,
 my life had gone down to the brink of Sheol.
 They were surrounding me on every side, there was no one
 to support me;
 I looked for someone to help—in vain.
 Then I remembered your mercy, Lord,
 and your deeds from earliest times,
 how you deliver those who wait for you patiently,
 and save them from the clutches of their enemies.
 And I sent up my plea from the earth,
 I begged to be delivered from death,
 I called on the Lord, the father of my Lord,
 'Do not desert me in the days of ordeal,
 in the time of my helplessness against the proud.
 I will praise your name unceasingly,
 and gratefully sing its praises.'
 And my plea was heard,
 for you saved me from destruction,
 you delivered me from that time of evil.
 And therefore I will thank you and praise you,
 and bless the name of the Lord.

A poem on the quest for wisdom<sup>a</sup>

When I was still a youth, before I went travelling,
 in my prayers I asked outright for wisdom.
 Outside the sanctuary I would pray for her,
 and to the last I will continue to seek her.
 From her blossoming to the ripening of her grape
 my heart has taken its delight in her.
 My foot has pursued a straight path,
 I have been following her steps ever since my youth.
 By bowing my ear a little I have received her,
 and have found much instruction.
 Thanks to her I have advanced;
 the glory be to him who has given me wisdom!
 For I am determined to put her into practice,
 I have earnestly pursued what is good, I will not be put to shame.
 My soul has fought to possess her,
 I have been scrupulous in keeping the Law;

50 c. The holy name was pronounced only at the feast of the Atonement, as a blessing over the people. d. The Samaritans.

51 a. This was an 'alphabetical' (acrostic) poem, and is no longer complete.

I have stretched out my hands to heaven and bewailed my ignorance of her;	26
I have directed my soul towards her, and in purity have found her;	27
having my heart fixed on her from the outset, I shall never be deserted;	28
my very core having yearned to discover her, I have now acquired a good possession.	29
In reward the Lord has given me a tongue with which I shall sing his praises.	30
Come close to me, you uninstructed, take your place in my school.	31
Why complain about lacking these things when your souls are so thirsty for them?	32
I have opened my mouth and spoken: 'Buy her without money,	33
put your necks under her yoke, and let your souls receive instruction; she is not far to seek.	34
See for yourselves: how slight my efforts have been to win so much peace.	35
Buy instruction with a large sum of silver, thanks to her you will gain much gold.	36
May your souls rejoice in the mercy of the Lord, may you never be ashamed of praising him.	37
Do your work before the appointed time and he in his time will give you your reward.'	38

THE BOOK OF WISDOM

WISDOM AND MAN'S DESTINY

On seeking God and rejecting evil

1	Love virtue, you who are judges on earth, <sup>a</sup> let honesty prompt your thinking about the Lord, seek him in simplicity of heart;	1
	since he is to be found by those who do not put him to the test, he shows himself to those who do not distrust him.	2
	But selfish intentions divorce from God; and Omnipotence, put to the test, confounds the foolish.	3
	No, Wisdom will never make its way into a crafty soul nor stay in a body that is in debt to sin;	4
	the holy spirit of instruction shuns deceit, it stands aloof from reckless purposes, is taken aback when iniquity appears.	5
	Wisdom is a spirit, a friend to man, though she will not pardon the words of a blasphemer,	6

since God sees into the innermost parts of him,
truly observes his heart,
and listens to his tongue.

7 The spirit of the Lord, indeed, fills the whole world,
and that which holds all things together knows every word that is said.

8 The man who gives voice to injustice will never go unnoticed, nor shall avenging Justice pass him by.

9 For the godless man's deliberations will be examined, and a report of his words will reach the Lord
to convict him of his crimes.

10 There is a jealous ear that overhears everything,
not so much as a murmur of complaint escapes it.

11 Beware, then, of complaining about nothing,
and keep your tongue from finding fault;
since the most secret word will have repercussions,
and a lying mouth deals death to the soul.

12 Do not court death by the errors of your ways,
nor invite destruction through your own actions.

13 Death was not God's doing,
he takes no pleasure in the extinction of the living.

14 To be—for this he created all;
the world's created things have health in them,
in them no fatal poison can be found,
and Hades<sup>b</sup> holds no power on earth;
15 for virtue is undying.

Life as the godless see it

16 But the godless call with deed and word for Death, counting him friend, they wear themselves out for him,
with him they make a pact,
and are fit to be his partners.

1 2 For they say to themselves, with their misguided reasoning:

'Our life is short and dreary,
nor is there any relief when man's end comes,
nor is anyone known who can give release from Hades.
2 By chance we came to birth, and after this life we shall be as if we had never been.

The breath in our nostrils is a puff of smoke,
reason a spark from the beating of our hearts;
3 put this out and our body turns to ashes,
and the spirit melts away like idle air.

4 In time, our name will be forgotten,
nobody will remember what we have done;
our life will pass away like wisps of cloud,
dissolve like the mist

that the sun's rays drive away
and the heat of it overwhelms.

5 Yes, our days are the passing of a shadow,
from our death there is no turning back,
the seal is set: no one returns.

6 'Come then, let us enjoy what good things there are,
use this creation with the zest of youth:

1 a. 'Judges' is equivalent to 'men in authority'; the book is written as though by Solomon for his fellow-kings. b. I.e., Death; the Greek word represents the Hebrew sheol.

take our fill of the dearest wines and perfumes, 7
 let not one flower of springtime pass us by,
 before they wither crown ourselves with roses. 8
 Let none of us forgo his part in our orgy, 9
 let us leave the signs of our revelry everywhere,
 this is our portion, this the lot assigned us.

 'As for the virtuous man who is poor, let us oppress him; 10
 let us not spare the widow,
 nor respect old age, white-haired with many years.
 Let our strength be the yardstick of virtue, 11
 since weakness argues its own futility.
 Let us lie in wait for the virtuous man, since he annoys us 12
 and opposes our way of life, reproaches us for our breaches of the law
 and accuses us of playing false to our upbringing.
 He claims to have knowledge of God, 13
 and calls himself a son of the Lord.
 Before us he stands, a reproof to our way of thinking, 14
 the very sight of him weighs our spirits down; 15
 his way of life is not like other men's,
 the paths he treads are unfamiliar.
 In his opinion we are counterfeit; 16
 he holds aloof from our doings as though from filth;
 he proclaims the final end of the virtuous as happy and boasts of having God for his father.
 Let us see if what he says is true, 17
 let us observe what kind of end he himself will have.
 If the virtuous man is God's son, God will take his part 18 and rescue him from the clutches of his enemies.
 Let us test him with cruelty and with torture, 19
 and thus explore this gentleness of his
 and put his endurance to the proof.
 Let us condemn him to a shameful death 20
 since he will be looked after—we have his word for it.'

The godless gravely mistaken

This is the way they reason, but they are misled, 21
 their malice makes them blind.
 They do not know the hidden things of God, 22
 they have no hope that holiness will be rewarded,
 they can see no reward for blameless souls.
 Yet God did make man imperishable, 23
 he made him in the image of his own nature;
 it was the devil's envy that brought death into the world, 24
 as those who are his partners will discover.

The destinies of good and bad men compared

3 But the souls of the virtuous are in the hands of God, 1 no torment shall ever touch them.
 In the eyes of the unwise, they did appear to die, 2
 their going looked like a disaster, their leaving us, like annihilation; 3
 but they are in peace.
 If they experienced punishment as men see it, 4
 their hope was rich with immortality;
 slight was their affliction, great will their blessings be. 5

God has put them to the test
 and proved them worthy to be with him;
 6 he has tested them like gold in a furnace,
 and accepted them as a holocaust.
 7 When the time comes for his visitation they will shine out;
 as sparks run through the stubble, so will they.
 8 They shall judge nations, rule over peoples,
 and the Lord will be their king for ever.
 9 They who trust in him will understand the truth,
 those who are faithful will live with him in love;
 for grace and mercy await those he has chosen.
 10 But the godless will be duly punished for their reasoning, for neglecting the virtuous man and deserting the Lord.
 11 Yes, wretched are they who scorn wisdom and discipline:<sup>d</sup> their hope is void,
 their toil unavailing,
 their achievements unprofitable;
 12 their wives are reckless,
 their children depraved,
 13 their descendants accursed.

Better be barren than have godless children

Blessed the barren woman<sup>b</sup> if she be blameless,
 she who has known no guilty bed;
 her fruitfulness will be seen at the scrutiny of souls.
 14 Blessed, too, the eunuch<sup>c</sup> whose hand has committed no crime, who has contemplated no wrong against the Lord;
 for his loyalty special favour will be granted him,
 a most desirable portion in the temple of the Lord.
 15 For the fruit of honest labours is glorious,
 and the root of understanding does not decay.
 16 But children of adulterers,<sup>d</sup> these shall have no future,
 the offspring of an unlawful bed must vanish.
 17 Even if they live long, they will count for nothing,
 their old age will go unhonoured at the last;
 18 while if they die early, they have neither hope nor comfort on the day of doom.
 19 Yes, harsh is the fate of a race of evil-doers.
 1 4 Better to have no children yet to have virtue, since immortality perpetuates its memory
 and God and men both think highly of it.
 2 Present, we imitate it,
 absent, we long for it;
 crowned, it holds triumph through eternity,
 having striven for blameless prizes and emerged the victor.
 3 But the swarming brood of the godless shall bring no advantage;
 offspring of bastard stock, it will never strike deep roots,
 never put down firm foundations.
 4 Branch out for a time they may;

3 a. This wisdom is practical—life directed by wisdom; for this, discipline is necessary.
 b. Until now, it had been axiomatic that sterility was a disgrace or a punishment. c. Eunuchs were excluded from the community of Israel (Dt 23:2), and therefore from the blessings promised to the Chosen People. d. The word may bear the usual sense; or indicate Jews married to pagans, or simply renegade Jews.

but, frailly rooted, they will sway in the wind,
 be torn up by the violence of the storm;
 hardly grown, their branches will be snapped off, 5
 their fruit be useless,
 too unripe to eat,
 fit for nothing.
 For children begotten of unlawful intercourse 6
 witness, when God judges them, to the wrong their parents did.

The premature death of the virtuous man

The virtuous man, though he die before his time, will find rest. 7
 Length of days is not what makes age honourable, 8
 nor number of years the true measure of life;
 understanding, this is man's grey hairs, 9
 untarnished life, this is ripe old age.
 He has sought to please God, so God has loved him; 10
 as he was living among sinners, he has been taken up.
 He has been carried off so that evil may not warp his understanding 11 or treachery seduce his soul;
 for the fascination of evil throws good things into the shade, 12
 and the whirlwind of desire corrupts a simple heart.
 Coming to perfection in so short a while, he achieved long life; 13
 his soul being pleasing to the Lord, 14
 he has taken him quickly from the wickedness around him.
 Yet people look on, uncomprehending; 15
 it does not enter their heads
 that grace and mercy await the chosen of the Lord,
 and protection, his holy ones.
 The virtuous man who dies condemns the godless who survive, 16
 and youth's untimely end the protracted age of the wicked.
 These people see the wise man's ending 17
 without understanding what the Lord has in store for him or why he has taken him to safety;
 they look on and sneer, 18
 but the Lord will laugh at them.
 Soon they will be corpses without honour,
 objects of scorn among the dead for ever.
 The Lord will dash them down headlong, dumb. 19
 He will tear them from their foundations,
 they will be utterly laid waste,
 anguish will be theirs,
 and their memory shall perish.

Virtuous men and godless at the judgement

They will come trembling to the reckoning of their sins, 20 and their crimes, confronting them, will accuse them.
 5 Then the virtuous man stands up boldly 1
 to face those who have oppressed him,
 those who thought so little of his sufferings.
 And they, at the sight of him, will shake with cowards' fear, 2 amazed he should be saved so unexpectedly.
 Stricken with remorse, each will say to the other, 3
 say with a groan and in distress of spirit:
 'This is the man we used to laugh at once, 4
 a butt for our sarcasm, fools that we were!
 His life we regarded as madness,

his ending as without honour.

5 How has he come to be counted as one of the sons of God?

How does he come to be assigned a place among the saints?

6 Clearly we have strayed from the way of truth;

the light of justice has not shone for us,

the sun never rose on us.

7 We have left no path of lawlessness or ruin unexplored,

we have crossed deserts where there was no track,

but the way of the Lord is one we have never known.

8 Arrogance, what advantage has this brought us?

Wealth and boasting, what have these conferred on us?

9 All those things have passed like a shadow,

passed like a fleeting rumour.

10 Like a ship that cuts through heaving waves — leaving no trace to show where it has passed,

no wake from its keel in the waves.

11 Or like a bird flying through the air —

leaving no proof of its passing;

it whips the light air with the stroke of its pinions,

tears it apart in its whirring rush,

drives its way onward with sweeping wing,

and afterwards no sign is seen of its passage.

12 Or like an arrow shot at a mark,

the pierced air closing so quickly on itself,

there is no knowing which way the arrow has passed.

13 So with us: scarcely born, we have ceased to be;

of virtue not a trace have we to show,

we have spent ourselves on wickedness instead.'

14 Yes, the hope of the godless is like chaff carried on the wind,

15 like fine spray driven by the gale;

it disperses like smoke before the wind,

goes like the memory of a one-day guest.

15 But the virtuous live for ever,

16 their recompense lies with the Lord,

the Most High takes care of them.

16 So they shall receive the royal crown of splendour,

17 the diadem of beauty from the hand of the Lord;

for he will shelter them with his right hand and shield them with his arm.

17 For armour he will take his jealous love,

18 he will arm creation to punish his enemies;

19 he will put on justice as a breastplate,

and for helmet wear his undissembling judgement;

19 he will take up invincible holiness for shield,

20 he will forge a biting sword of his stern wrath,

21 and the universe will march with him to fight the reckless.

21 Bolts truly aimed, the shafts of lightning will leap,

22 and from the clouds, as from a full-drawn bow, fly to their mark;

23 and the catapult will hurl hailstones charged with fury.

The waters of the sea will rage against them,

the rivers engulf them without pity.

23 The breath of Omnipotence will blow against them

24 and winnow them like a hurricane.

So lawlessness will bring the whole earth to ruin

and evil-doing bring the thrones of the mighty down.

THE ORIGIN, NATURE AND EFFECTS OF WISDOM
HOW IT IS TO BE HAD

The duty of kings to cultivate wisdom

6	°Listen then, kings, and understand;	1 2 rulers of remotest lands, take warning;
	hear this, you who have thousands under your rule,	3 3
	who boast of your hordes of subjects.
	For power is a gift to you from the Lord,	3 4 sovereignty is from the Most High;
	he himself will probe your acts and scrutinise your intentions.
	If, as administrators of his kingdom, you have not governed justly	4 5
	nor observed the law,
	nor behaved as God would have you behave,
	he will fall on you swiftly and terribly.	5 6
	Ruthless judgement is reserved for the high and mighty;
	the lowly will be compassionately pardoned,	6 7
	the mighty will be mightily punished.
	For the Lord of All does not cower before a personage,	7 8
	he does not stand in awe of greatness, since he himself has made small and great
	and provides for all alike;
	but strict scrutiny awaits those in power.	8 9
	Yes, despots, my words are for you,	9 10
	that you may learn what wisdom is and not transgress;
	for they who observe holy things holily will be adjudged holy,	10 11
	and, accepting instruction from them, will find their defence in them.
	Look forward, therefore, to my words;	11 12
	yearn for them, and they will instruct you.

Wisdom sought is Wisdom found

Wisdom is bright, and does not grow dim.	12 13
By those who love her she is readily seen,
and found by those who look for her.
Quick to anticipate those who desire her, she makes herself	11 14
known to them.
Watch for her early and you will have no trouble;	14 15
you will find her sitting at your gates.
Even to think about her is understanding fully grown;	15 16
be on the alert for her and anxiety will quickly leave you.
She herself walks about looking for those who are worthy of her	16 17
and graciously shows herself to them as they go,
in every thought of theirs coming to meet them.
Of her the most sure beginning is the desire for discipline,	17 18 care for discipline means loving her,
loving her means keeping her laws,	18 19
obeying her laws guarantees incorruptibility,
incorruptibility brings near to God;	19 20
thus desire for Wisdom leads to sovereignty.	20 21
If then, despots of nations, you delight in throne and sceptre,	21 22 honour Wisdom, thus to reign for ever.

Solomon sets out to describe Wisdom

22 What Wisdom is and how she came to be, I will now declare,
 24 I will hide none of the secrets from you;
 I will trace her right from the beginning and set out knowledge of her, plainly, not swerving from the truth.
 23 Neither will I take blighting Envy as my travelling companion, for she has nothing in common with Wisdom.
 24 In the greatest number of wise men lies the world's salvation,
 26 in a sagacious king the stability of a people.
 25 Learn, therefore, from my words; the gain will be yours.
 27

Solomon a man like other men

1 7 Like all the others, I too am a mortal man, descendant of the first being fashioned from the earth,
 I was modelled in flesh within my mother's womb,
 2 for ten months<sup>a</sup> taking shape in her blood
 by means of virile seed and pleasure, sleep's companion.
 3 I too, when I was born, drew in the common air,
 I fell on the same ground that bears us all,
 a wail my first sound, as for all the rest.
 4 I was nurtured in swaddling clothes, with every care.
 5 No king has known any other beginning of existence;
 6 for all there is one way only into life, as out of it.

Solomon's respect for Wisdom

7 And so I prayed, and understanding was given me;
 I entreated, and the spirit of Wisdom came to me.
 8 I esteemed her more than sceptres and thrones;
 compared with her, I held riches as nothing.
 9 I reckoned no priceless stone to be her peer,
 for compared with her, all gold is a pinch of sand,
 and beside her silver ranks as mud.
 10 I loved her more than health or beauty,
 preferred her to the light,
 since her radiance never sleeps.
 11 In her company all good things came to me, at her hands riches not to be numbered.
 12 All these I delighted in, since Wisdom brings them,
 but as yet I did not know she was their mother.
 13 What I learned without self-interest, I pass on without reserve;
 I do not intend to hide her riches.
 14 For she is an inexhaustible treasure to men,
 and those who acquire it win God's friendship,
 commended as they are to him by the benefits of her teaching.

The appeal to divine inspiration

15 May God grant me to speak as he would wish and express thoughts worthy of his gifts,
 since he himself is the guide of Wisdom,
 since he directs the sages.
 16 We are indeed in his hand, we ourselves and our words,

6 a. The Latin Vulgate begins this chapter with an additional maxim numbered as v. 1.
 7 a. Ten lunar months.

with all our understanding, too, and technical knowledge.
 It was he who gave me true knowledge of all that is,<sup>b</sup> 17 who taught me the structure of the world and the properties of the elements,
 the beginning, end and middle of the times, 18
 the alternation of the solstices and the succession of the seasons, the revolution of the year and the positions of the stars, 19
 the natures of animals and the instincts of wild beasts, 20
 the powers of spirits and the mental processes of men,
 the varieties of plants and the medical properties of roots.
 All that is hidden, all that is plain, I have come to know, 21 instructed by Wisdom who designed them all. 22

In praise of Wisdom

For within her is a spirit intelligent, holy,
 unique, manifold, subtle,
 active, incisive, unsullied,
 lucid, invulnerable, benevolent, sharp,
 irresistible, beneficent, loving to man, 23
 steadfast, dependable, unperturbed,
 almighty, all-surveying,
 penetrating all intelligent, pure
 and most subtle spirits;
 for Wisdom is quicker to move than any motion; 24
 she is so pure, she pervades and permeates all things.

She is a breath of the power of God, 25
 pure emanation of the glory of the Almighty;
 hence nothing impure can find a way into her.
 She is a reflection of the eternal light, 26
 untarnished mirror of God's active power,
 image of his goodness.

Although alone, she can do all; 27
 herself unchanging, she makes all things new.
 In each generation she passes into holy souls,
 she makes them friends of God and prophets;
 for God loves only the man who lives with Wisdom. 28
 She is indeed more splendid than the sun, 29
 she outshines all the constellations;
 compared with light, she takes first place,
 for light must yield to night, 30
 but over Wisdom evil can never triumph.

8

She deploys her strength from one end of the earth to the other, ordering all things for good. 1

From Wisdom comes all that is desirable

She it was I loved and searched for from my youth; 2
 I resolved to have her as my bride,
 I fell in love with her beauty.
 Her closeness to God lends lustre to her noble birth,
 since the Lord of All has loved her. 3
 Yes, she is an initiate in the mysteries of God's knowledge, 4 making choice of the works he is to do.
 If in this life wealth be a desirable possession, 5
 what is more wealthy than Wisdom whose work is everywhere?
 Or if it be the intellect that is at work, 6

7 where is there a greater than Wisdom, designer of all?
 Or if it be virtue you love,
 why, virtues are the fruit of her labours,
 since it is she who teaches temperance and prudence,
 justice and fortitude;
 nothing in life is more serviceable to men than these.
 8 Or if you are eager for wide experience,
 she knows the past, she forecasts the future;
 she knows how to turn maxims, and solve riddles;
 she has foreknowledge of signs and wonders,
 of the unfolding of the ages and the times.

Wisdom indispensable to rulers

9 I therefore determined to take her to share my life,
 knowing she would be my counsellor in prosperity,
 my comfort in cares and sorrow.
 10 Through her, I thought, I shall be acclaimed where people gather and honoured, while still a youth, among the elders.
 11 I shall be reckoned shrewd when I sit in judgement,
 in presence of the great I shall be admired.
 12 They will wait on my silences,
 and pay attention when I speak;
 if I speak at some length, they will lay their hand on their lips.
 13 By means of her, immortality shall be mine,
 I shall leave an everlasting memory to my successors.
 14 I shall govern peoples and nations will be subject to me;
 15 at the sound of my name fearsome despots will be afraid;
 I shall show myself kind to my people and valiant in battle.
 16 When I go home I shall take my ease with her,
 for nothing is bitter in her company,
 when life is shared with her there is no pain,
 gladness only, and joy.

Solomon prepares to ask for Wisdom

17 Inwardly revolving these thoughts, and considering in my heart
 that immortality is found in being kin to Wisdom 18 pure contentment in her friendship, inexhaustible riches in what she does,
 intelligence in the cultivation of her society,
 and renown in the fellowship of her conversation,
 I went in all directions seeking by what means I might make her mine.
 19 I was a boy of happy disposition,
 I had received a good soul as my lot,
 20 or rather, being good, I had entered an undefiled body;
 21 but knowing I could not master Wisdom but by the gift of God
 —a mark itself of understanding, to know whose the bounty was—
 I turned to the Lord and entreated him,
 with all my heart I said:

A prayer for Wisdom

1 9 'God of our ancestors, Lord of mercy,
 who by your word have made all things,

7b. The outline of knowledge and science which follows reflects the interests of the hellenistic schools of the author's own day.

and in your wisdom have fitted man to rule the creatures that have come from you, to govern the world in holiness and justice and in honesty of soul to wield authority, grant me Wisdom, consort of your throne, and do not reject me from the number of your children.	2 3 4
'For I am your servant, son of your serving maid, a feeble man, with little time to live, with small understanding of justice and the laws. Indeed, were anyone perfect among the sons of men, if he lacked the Wisdom that comes from you, he would still count for nothing.	5 6
You yourself have chosen me <sup>a</sup> to be king over your people, to be judge of your sons and daughters. You have bidden me build a temple on your holy mountain, an altar in the city where you have pitched your tent, a copy of that sacred tabernacle which you prepared from the beginning.	7 8
With you is Wisdom, she who knows your works, she who was present when you made the world; she understands what is pleasing in your eyes and what agrees with your commandments. Despatch her from the holy heavens, send her forth from your throne of glory to help me and to toil with me and teach me what is pleasing to you, since she knows and understands everything.	9 10 11
She will guide me prudently in my undertakings and protect me by her glory. Then all I do will be acceptable, I shall govern your people justly and shall be worthy of my father's <sup>b</sup> throne.	12
'What man indeed can know the intentions of God? Who can divine the will of the Lord? The reasonings of mortals are unsure and our intentions unstable; for a perishable body presses down the soul, and this tent of clay weighs down the teeming mind. It is hard enough for us to work out what is on earth, laborious to know what lies within our reach; who, then, can discover what is in the heavens? As for your intention, who could have learnt it, had you not granted Wisdom and sent your holy spirit' from above? Thus have the paths of those on earth been straightened and men been taught what pleases you, and saved, by Wisdom.'	13 14 15 16 17 18

WISDOM AND GOD IN HISTORY

From Adam to Moses

10	The father of the world, the first being to be fashioned, created alone, he had her for his protector	1
----	--	---

- and she delivered him from his fault;<sup>a</sup>
 2 she gave him the strength to subjugate all things.
 3 But when a sinner<sup>b</sup> in his wrath deserted her,
 he perished in his fratricidal fury.
- 4 When because of him the earth was drowned, it was Wisdom again who saved it,
 piloting the virtuous man<sup>c</sup> on a paltry piece of wood.
 5 Again, when, concurring in wickedness, the nations had been thrown into confusion, it was she who singled out the virtuous man,<sup>d</sup> preserved him blameless before God
 and fortified him against pity for his child.
- 6 It was she who, while the godless perished, saved the virtuous man<sup>e</sup>
 as he fled from the fire raining down on the Five Cities, 7 in witness against whose evil ways
 a desolate land still smokes,
 where shrubs bear fruit that never ripens and where, monument to an unbelieving soul, there stands a pillar of salt.
- 8 For, by neglecting the path of Wisdom,
 not only were they kept from knowledge of the good,
 they actually left the world a memorial of their folly,
 so that their crimes might not escape notice.
- 9 But Wisdom delivered her servants from their ordeals.
 10 The virtuous man,<sup>f</sup> fleeing from the anger of his brother, was led by her along straight paths.
 She showed him the kingdom of God
 and taught him the knowledge of holy things.
 She brought him success in his toil
 and gave him full return for all his efforts; 11 she stood by him against grasping and oppressive men
 and she made him rich.
- 12 She guarded him closely from his enemies
 and saved him from the traps they set for him.
 In an arduous struggle she awarded him the prize,
 to teach him that piety is stronger than all.
- 13 She did not forsake the virtuous man when he was sold,<sup>g</sup>
 but kept him free from sin;
 14 she went down to the dungeon with him;
 she would not abandon him in his chains,
 but procured for him the sceptre of a kingdom
 and authority over his despotic masters,
 thus exposing as liars those who had traduced him,
 and giving him honour everlasting.

The Exodus

- 15 A holy people and a blameless race,
 this she delivered from a nation of oppressors.
 16 She entered the soul of a servant of the Lord,<sup>h</sup> and withstood fearsome kings with wonders and signs.

9 a. Solomon was preferred to Absalom or Adonijah. b. David.

10 a. It was common doctrine of contemporary Judaism that Adam was 'delivered' by repentance and atonement. b. Cain. c. Noah. d. Abraham. e. Lot. f. Jacob. g. Joseph. h. Moses.

To the saints she gave the wages of their labours; 17
 she led them by a marvellous road;
 she herself was their shelter by day
 and their starlight through the night.
 She brought them across the Red Sea, 18
 led them through that immensity of water, while she swallowed their enemies in the waves 19
 then spat them out from the depths of the abyss.
 So the virtuous despoiled the godless; 20
 Lord, they extolled your holy name,
 and with one accord praised your protecting hand,
 for Wisdom opened the mouths of the dumb 21
 and gave speech to the tongues of babes.

11

At the hand of a holy prophet<sup>a</sup> she gave their actions success. 1
 They journeyed through an unpeopled wilderness 2
 and pitched their tents in inaccessible places.
 They stood firm against their enemies, fought off their foes. 3
 On you<sup>b</sup> they called when they were thirsty, and from the rocky cliff water was given them, 4
 from hard stone their thirst was quenched.

How water proved the ruin of Egypt and the saving of Israel

Thus, what served to punish their enemies 5 became a benefit for them in their distress. 5.0
 You gave them not that ever-flowing source of river water 6
 turbid with defiling floods, 7
 stern answer for their decree of infanticide,<sup>c</sup> 7
 but, against all hope, water in abundance, 8 showing by the thirst that then was raging 8
 how severely you punished their enemies. 9
 From their ordeals, which were no more than the reproofs of Mercy, 9 they learned what tortures a sentence of wrath inflicts on the godless; 10
 you tested them indeed, correcting them like a father, 10
 but the others you strictly examined, like a severe king who condemns. 11 Near or far away,<sup>d</sup> they were equally worn down, 11 double indeed was the grief that seized on them, 12
 double the groaning at the memory of the past; 13 hearing that what punished them<sup>e</sup> had set the others rejoicing, 13
 they saw the Lord in it, 14 and for him whom long ago they had cast out, exposed, and 14
 later mockingly rebuffed,<sup>f</sup> 15
 they felt only amazement when all was done;
 the thirst of the virtuous and theirs had worked so differently.

God's forbearance with Egypt

As their foolish and wicked notions led them astray 15 into worshipping mindless reptiles and contemptible beasts, 16
 you sent hordes of mindless creatures to punish them and teach them that the instruments of sin are instruments 16
 of punishment. 17
 And indeed your all-powerful hand did not lack means 17
 —the hand that from formless matter created the world — 18
 to unleash a horde of bears or savage lions on them or unknown beasts, newly created, full of rage, 18
 exhaling fiery breath, 19
 ejecting swirls of stinking smoke

19 or flashing fearful sparks from their eyes, 20 beasts not only able to crush them with a blow,
 but also to destroy them by their terrifying appearance.
 20 But even without these, they could have dropped dead at a single breath, 21 pursued by your justice,
 whirled away by the breath of your power.
 But no, you ordered all things by measure, number, weight.

This forbearance explained

21 For your great strength is always at your call;
 22 who can withstand the might of your arm?
 22 In your sight the whole world is like a grain of dust that tips the scales,
 23 like a drop of morning dew falling on the ground.
 23 Yet you are merciful to all, because you can do all things
 24 and overlook men's sins so that they can repent.
 24 Yes, you love all that exists, you hold nothing of what you have 25 made in abhorrence, for had you hated anything, you would not have formed it.
 25 And how, had you not willed it, could a thing persist,
 26 how be conserved if not called forth by you?
 26 You spare all things because all things are yours, Lord, lover of life, 27 you whose imperishable spirit is in all.
 1 12 Little by little, therefore, you correct those who offend,
 2 you admonish and remind them of how they have sinned,
 so that they may abstain from evil and trust in you, Lord.

God's forbearance with Canaan

3 The ancient inhabitants of your holy land
 4 you hated for their loathsome practices,
 their deeds of sorcery and unholy rites,
 5 hated as ruthless murderers of children,
 as eaters of entrails at feasts of human flesh,
 initiated while the bloody orgy goes on,
 6 as murderous parents of defenceless beings.
 You determined to destroy them at our fathers' hands,
 7 so that this land, dearer to you than any other,
 might receive a colony of God's children worthy of it.
 8 Even so, since these were men, you treated them leniently,
 sending hornets as forerunners of your army,
 to destroy them bit by bit.
 9 Not that you could not hand the godless over to the virtuous in pitched battle
 or destroy them at once by savage beasts or one stern word from you; 10 but, by condemning them piece by piece, you gave them the chance to repent,
 although you knew very well they were inherently evil,
 innately wicked
 and fixed in their cast of mind;
 11 for they were a race accursed from the beginning.

11 a. Moses. b. God; much of the rest of the book is directly addressed to him (e.g. continuously from here to 12:14) and Wisdom is scarcely mentioned again.

c. According to Ex 7, the turning of the Nile water into blood was a threat to persuade Pharaoh to release the Israelites; here it is represented as retribution for the decree of Ex 1.

d. The Egyptians, 'near' while Israel was among them, 'far' after the Exodus. e. Water.

12 a. Human sacrifice was known in Canaan, but nothing is known of cannibalism; the author is borrowing from his knowledge of hellenistic mystery religions.

This forbearance explained

Nor was it from awe of anyone that you left them unpunished for their sins.
Who would venture to say, 'What have you done?' 12
Who would dare to defy your sentence?
Who arraign you for destroying nations which you have created?
What champion of guilty men dare come to confront you
and challenge you?
For there is no god, other than you, who cares for every thing, 13 to whom you might have to prove that you never judged unjustly;
as for those you punished, no king, no despot, dare reproach you 14
with it to your face.
Being just yourself, you order all things justly, 15
holding it unworthy of your power to condemn a man who has not deserved to be punished.
Your justice has its source in strength, 16
your sovereignty over all makes you lenient to all.
You show your strength when your sovereign power is questioned 17
and you expose the insolence of those who know it;
but, disposing of such strength, you are mild in judgement, 18
you govern us with great lenience,
for you have only to will, and your power is there.

What is to be learned from God's forbearance

By acting thus you have taught a lesson to your people 19
how the virtuous man must be kindly to his fellow men,
and you have given your sons the good hope
that after sin you will grant repentance.
If with such care and such indulgence you have punished 20
the enemies of your children,
when death was what they deserved,
and given them time and room to rid themselves of wickedness, with what exact attention have you not judged your sons, 21
to whose ancestors you made such fair promises by oaths and covenants.
Thus, while you correct us, you flog our enemies ten thousand 22
times harder, to teach us, when we judge, to reflect on your kindness
and when we are judged, to look for mercy.

God follows clemency with severity

This is why, against those who were leading wicked and foolish lives, 23 you turned their own abominations<sup>b</sup> to torment them;
they had indeed strayed too far from paths that strayed already, 24 and came to regard the vilest, most contemptible animals as gods, being deceived, like silly little children.
So, as to children with no sense, 25
you sent them a punishment to mock them, but they who took no warning from such mocking correction 26
were soon to experience a punishment worthy of God.
Worn down by what they suffered from these beasts, 27
those beasts they had taken for gods, now the means of their punishment,
they saw straight, and acknowledged as true God
him they had hitherto refused to know.
That is why the extreme penalty was inflicted on them.

Astral and nature cults

- 1 13 Yes, naturally stupid are all men who have not known God and who, from the good things that are seen, have not been able to discover Him-who-is,
or, by studying the works, have failed to recognise the Artificer.
- 2 Fire however, or wind, or the swift air,
the sphere of the stars, impetuous water, heaven's lamps,
are what they have held to be the gods who govern the world.
- 3 If, charmed by their beauty, they have taken things for gods,
let them know how much the Lord of these excels them,
since the very Author of beauty has created them.
- 4 And if they have been impressed by their power and energy, let them deduce from these how much mightier is he that has formed them,
- 5 since through the grandeur and beauty of the creatures
we may, by analogy, contemplate their Author.
- 6 Small blame, however, attaches to these men,
for perhaps they only go astray
in their search for God and their eagerness to find him;
7 living among his works, they strive to comprehend them
and fall victim to appearances, seeing so much beauty.
- 8 Even so, they are not to be excused:
9 if they are capable of acquiring enough knowledge to be able to investigate the world,
how have they been so slow to find its Master?

The cults of idols

- 10 But wretched are they—in dead things putting their hopes—who have given to things made by human hands the title of gods, gold and silver, finely worked,
likenesses of animals,
or some useless stone, carved by some hand long ago.
- 11 Take a woodcutter. He fells a suitable tree, neatly strips off the bark all over
and then with admirable skill works the wood into an object useful in daily life.
- 12 The bits left over from his work
he uses for cooking his food, then eats his fill.
- 13 There is still a good-for-nothing bit left over,
a gnarled and knotted billet:
he picks it up, whittles it with the concentration of leisure,
he shapes it with the skill of relaxation,
he gives it a human shape
- 14 or perhaps he makes it into some vile animal,
smears it with ochre, paints its surface red,
coats over all its blemishes.
- 15 He next makes a worthy home for it, lets it into the wall, fixes it with an iron clamp.
- 16 Thus he makes sure that it will not fall down—
he is well aware it cannot help itself:
it is only an image, and it needs to be helped.

14

And yet, if he wishes to pray for his goods, for marriages, 17
 for his children,
 he does not blush to harangue this lifeless thing—
 for health he invokes weakness, 18
 for life he pleads with death,
 for help he goes begging to utter inexperience,
 for his travels, to something that cannot stir a foot;
 for his profits and plans and success in pursuing his craft, 19
 he asks skill from something whose hands have no skill whatever.
 Or someone else, taking ship to cross the raging sea, 1 invokes a log<sup>a</sup> even frailer than the vessel that bears him.
 No doubt that ship is the product of a craving for gain, 2 its building embodies the wisdom of the shipwright, but your providence, Father, is what steers it, 3
 you having opened a pathway even through the sea,
 a safe way over the waves,
 showing that you can save, whatever happens, 4
 so that even without skill a man may sail abroad.

It is not your will that the works of your Wisdom lie idle, 5 and hence men entrust their lives to the smallest piece of wood, cross the high seas on a raft and come safe to port.
 Why, in the beginning even, while the proud giants were perishing, 6
 the hope of the world took refuge on a raft<sup>b</sup> and, steered by your hand, preserved the germ of a new generation for the ages to come.

For blessed is the wood which serves the cause of virtue, 7
 but accursed that hand-made thing and its maker, 8
 he for having made it, the perishable thing itself because it has been called god.
 Yes, God holds the godless and his godlessness in equal hatred; 9
 work and workman alike shall be punished. 10
 Hence judgement shall fall on the idols themselves of the heathen, 11 since, although part of God's creation, they have become an abomination,
 snares for the souls of men,
 a pitfall for the feet of the reckless.

The origin of the cult of idols

The invention of idols was the origin of fornication,<sup>c</sup> 12 their discovery the corrupting of life.
 They did not exist at the beginning, they will not exist for ever; 13 through human vanity they came into the world 14
 and hence a sudden end has been designed for them.
 A father afflicted by untimely mourning 15
 makes an image of his child so swiftly taken,
 and now he honours as a god what yesterday had only been a dead man,
 bequeathing mysteries and initiations to his dependents.
 Then in the course of time the godless custom hardens, and is 16 observed as law
 and, by command of princes, the carved images receive worship.
 Of those who lived too far away to be honoured in person 17 men would make a portrait from a distance
 and produce a visible image of the king they honoured,

18 meaning, by such zeal, to flatter the absent as if he were with them.
 Even people who did not know him were stimulated into spreading his cult by the idealism of the artist; 19 for the latter, doubtless wishing to please the ruler, exerted all his skill to make the likeness finer than reality 20 and the crowd, carried away by the beauty of the work, accorded divine honours to him whom only recently they had honoured as a man.
 21 And this became a pitfall for life,
 that men, whether slaves to misfortune or princely power,
 should have bestowed the incommunicable name on sticks and stones.

The consequences of idolatry

22 Soon it is not enough for them that their knowledge of God should be at fault;
 in the great struggle to which ignorance condemns their lives
 they next give such massive ills the name of peace.
 23 With their child-murdering initiations, their secret mysteries, their orgies with outlandish ceremonies,<sup>d</sup> 24 they no longer retain any purity in their lives or their marriages, one treacherously murdering the next or doing him injury
 by adultery.
 25 Everywhere a welter of blood and murder, theft and fraud, corruption, treachery, riots, perjury, 26 disturbance of decent people, forgetfulness of favours, pollution of souls, sins against nature,
 disorder in marriage, adultery, debauchery.
 27 For the worship of unnamed<sup>e</sup> idols
 is the beginning, cause, and end of every evil.
 28 Either that, or they rave in ecstasy,
 or utter false oracles,
 or lead lives of great wickedness,
 or perjure themselves without hesitation;
 29 for since they put their trust in lifeless idols
 they do not reckon their false oaths can harm them.
 30 But justice will overtake them on two counts:
 as idolaters, for degrading the concept of God,
 as frauds, for swearing in despite of truth,
 in defiance of all that is holy.
 31 For it is not the power of the things by which men swear
 but the retribution due to sinners that always overtakes the offence of the guilty.

Israel not idolatrous

1 15 But you, our God, are kind, loyal and slow to anger, and you govern all things with mercy.
 2 If we sin, we still are yours, since we acknowledge your power, but, knowing you acknowledge us as yours, we will not sin.
 3 To acknowledge you is indeed the perfect virtue,
 to know your power is the root of immortality.
 4 No invention of perverted human skill has led us astray,

14 a. A wooden image on the prow or the poop.

b. Noah's ark; the 'proud giants' are the Nephilim of Gn 6. c. Probably in the sense of religious infidelity. d. Such as the orgies of the Bacchanalian rites and the Phrygian mystery religions. e. I.e., either 'unreal' or 'unspeakable'.

no painter's sterile labour,
 no figure daubed with assorted colours,
 the sight of which sets fools yearning 5
 and reverencing the lifeless form of some unbreathing image.
 Lovers of evil and worthy of such hopes, 6 are those who make them, those who reverence them and those who worship them.

The makers of idols are fools

Take a potter, now, laboriously working the soft earth, 7 shaping all sorts of things for us to use.
 Out of the same clay, even so, he models vessels intended for clean purposes
 and the contrary sort, all alike;
 but which of these two uses each will have
 is for the potter himself to decide.
 Then—effort very evilly spent—of the same clay he shapes 8
 a futile god—
 he who, so recently made out of earth himself,
 will shortly return to what he was taken from,
 once he is called to give an account of his life.
 Even so he wastes no thought on imminent death 9 or on the shortness of his life.
 Far from it, he strives to outdo the goldsmiths and silversmiths,
 apes the bronzeworkers too,
 and takes pride in the spurious models that he makes.
 Ashes, his heart, 10
 meaner than dirt his hope,
 his life more ignoble than clay,
 since he misconceives the One who shaped him, 11
 who breathed an active soul into him
 and inspired a living spirit.
 What is more, he looks on this life of ours as a kind of game, 12 and our time here like a fair, full of bargains.
 'However foul the means,' he says 'a man must make a living.'
 He, more than any other, knows he is sinning, 13
 he who from the same earthly material makes both breakable vessel and idol.

The folly of the Egyptians; their indiscriminate idolatry

But most foolish, more pitiable even than the soul of a little child, 14 are the enemies who once played the tyrant with your people, and have taken all the idols of the heathen for gods, 15
 which can use neither their eyes for seeing nor their nostrils for breathing the air
 nor their ears for hearing
 nor the fingers on their hands for handling;
 while their feet are no use for walking,
 since a human being made them, 16
 a creature of borrowed breath gave them shape.
 Now no man can shape a god as good as himself;
 subject to death, his impious hands can only produce something dead. 17
 He himself is worthier than the things he worships;
 he will at least have lived, but never they.
 Even the most hateful animals are worshipped, 18
 worse than the rest in their degree of stupidity.

- 19 With no trace of beauty to prompt the inclination—as some animals might have—the praise and blessing of God do not come their way.

Egypt and Israel: harmful animals, quails

- 1 16 Thus they were appropriately punished by similar creatures and were tormented by hordes of brutes.
2 In contrast to this punishment, you treated your own people with kindness
and, to satisfy their sharp appetite,
you provided for their food quails, a luscious rarity.
3 Thus the Egyptians, at the repulsive sight of the creatures sent against them,<sup>a</sup> were to find, though they longed for food,
that even their natural appetite had revolted.
While your own people, after a short privation,
were to have a rare relish for their portion.
4 Inevitable that relentless want should seize on the former,
the oppressors;
enough for the latter to be shown how their enemies were being tortured.

Egypt and Israel: the plague of locusts, the bronze serpent

- 5 When the savage rage of wild animals overtook them and they were perishing from the bites of writhing snakes,
your wrath did not continue to the end.
6 It was by way of reprimand, lasting a short time, that they were distressed,
for they had a saving token to remind them of the commandment
of your Law.
7 Whoever turned to it was saved, not by what he looked at,
but by you, the universal saviour.
8 And by such means you proved to our enemies
that it is you who deliver from every evil; 9 since the bites of locusts and flies proved fatal to them and no remedy could be found to save them —
and well they deserved to be punished by such creatures.
10 But, for your sons, not even the fangs of venomous serpents could bring them down;
your mercy came to their help and cured them.
11 One sting—how quickly healed!—to remind them of your oracles rather than that, by sinking into deep forgetfulness,
they should be cut off from your kindness.
12 No herb, no poultice cured them,
but it was your word, Lord, which heals all things.
13 For you have power of life and death,
you bring down to the gates of Hades and bring back again.
14 Man in his malice may put to death,
he does not bring the departed spirit back or free the soul that Hades has once received.

Egypt and Israel: the elements

- 15 It is not possible to escape your hand.
16 The godless who refused to acknowledge you

16 a. Frogs, Ex 7-8.

were scourged by the strength of your arm,
 pursued by no ordinary rains, hail and unrelenting downpours,
 and consumed by fire.
 Even more wonderful, in the water—which quenches all— 17
 the fire raged fiercer than ever;
 for the elements fight for the virtuous.
 At one moment the flame would die down, 18
 to avoid consuming the animals sent against the godless and to make clear to them by that sight, that the sentence of God was pursuing them;
 at another, in the very heart of the water, it would burn more fiercely 19
 than fire
 to ruin the harvests of a guilty land.
 How differently with your people! You gave them the food of angels,<sup>b</sup> 20 from heaven untiringly sending them bread already prepared, containing every delight, satisfying every taste.
 And the substance you gave demonstrated your sweetness towards 21
 your children,
 for, conforming to the taste of whoever ate it,
 it transformed itself into what each eater wished.
 Snow and ice endured the fire, without melting; 22
 by which they were to know that, to destroy the harvests
 of their enemies,
 fire would burn even in hail and flare in falling rain, whereas, on the other hand, it would even forget its own virtue 23
 in the service of feeding the virtuous.

For creation, in obedience to you, its maker, 24
 exerts itself to punish the wicked
 and slackens for the benefit of those who trust in you.
 Thus it became, by a total transformation, 25
 the agent of your all-nourishing bounty,
 conforming to the wish of those in need,
 so that your beloved children, Lord, might learn 26
 that the various crops are not what nourishes man,
 but your word which preserves all who trust in you.
 For that, which fire could not destroy 27
 melted in the heat of a single fleeting sunbeam, to show that, to give you thanks, we must rise before the sun 28
 and pray to you when light begins to dawn;
 for the hope of the ungrateful will melt like winter's frost 29
 and flow away like water running to waste.

Egypt and Israel: darkness and light

17 Your judgements are indeed great and inexpressible, 1 which is why undisciplined souls have gone astray.
 When impious men imagined they had the holy nation in their power, 2 they themselves lay prisoners of the dark,<sup>a</sup> in the fetters of long night, confined under their own roofs, banished from eternal providence.
 While they thought to remain unnoticed with their secret sins, 3 curtained by dark forgetfulness,
 they were scattered in fearful dismay,
 terrified by apparitions.
 The hiding place sheltering them could not ward off their fear; 4 terrifying noises echoed round them;
 and gloomy, grim-faced spectres haunted them.

- 5 No fire had power enough to give them light,
nor could the brightly blazing stars illuminate that dreadful night—
- 6 only a great blaze, burning of its own accord,
that, full of dread, shone through to them;
and in their terror, once that sight had vanished,
they thought what they had seen more terrible than ever.
- 7 Their magic arts proved utterly unavailing,
their boasted cunning was ignominiously confounded;
- 8 for those who professed to drive out fears and disorders from sick souls,
themselves fell sick of a ridiculous terror.
- 9 Even when there was nothing frightful to scare them,
the prowling of beasts and the hissing of reptiles terrified them;
they died convulsed with fright,
refusing so much as to look at the air, which cannot be eluded anyhow!
- 10 Wickedness is confessedly very cowardly, and it condemns itself;
under pressure from conscience it always assumes the worst.
- 11 Fear, indeed, is nothing other than the abandonment of the supports offered by reason;
- 12 the less you rely within yourself on these,
the more alarming it is not to know the cause of your suffering.
- 13 And they, all locked in the same sleep,
while that darkness lasted, which was in fact quite powerless
and had issued from the depths of equally powerless Hades,
were now chased by monstrous spectres,
now paralysed by fainting of their souls;
for a sudden, unexpected terror had swept over them.
- 15 And thus, whoever it might be that fell there stayed clamped to the spot in this prison without bars.
- 16 Whether he was ploughman or shepherd,
or someone working by himself,
he was still overtaken and suffered the inevitable fate,
for all had been bound by the one same chain of darkness.
- 17 The souging of the wind,
the tuneful noise of birds in the spreading branches,
the measured beat of water in its powerful course,
the harsh din of the rocky avalanche, 18 the invisible, swift course of bounding animals,
the roaring of the savagest wild beasts,
the echo rebounding from the clefts in the mountains,
all held them paralysed with fear.
- 19 The whole world was shining with brilliant light and, unhindered, went on with its work;
- 20 over them alone there spread a heavy darkness,
image of the dark that would receive them.
But heavier than the darkness, the burden they were to themselves.
- 1 18 But for your holy ones all was great light.
The Egyptians who could hear their voices, though not see their shapes,
called them fortunate because they had not suffered too;
- 2 they thanked them for doing no injury in return for previous wrongs

16 b. Manna, Ex 16.

17 a. The ninth plague, Ex 10, was darkness.

and asked forgiveness for their past ill-will.
 In contrast to the darkness, you gave your people a pillar of 3 blazing fire,
 to guide them on their unknown journey,
 a mild sun for their ambitious migration.
 But well they deserved, those others, to be deprived of light 4 and imprisoned in darkness,
 for having kept in captivity your children,
 by whom the imperishable light of the Law was to be given to the world.

Egypt and Israel: the Destroyer

As they had resolved to kill the infants of the holy ones, 5 and as of those exposed only one child had been saved, to punish them, you made away with thousands of their children,
 and destroyed them all together in the wild waves.
 That night had been foretold to our ancestors, 6 so that, once they saw what kind of oaths they had put their trust in, they would joyfully take courage.
 This was the expectation of your people, 7
 the saving of the virtuous and the ruin of their enemies;
 for by the same act with which you took vengeance on our foes 8
 you made us glorious by calling us to you.
 The devout children of worthy men offered sacrifice<sup>a</sup> in secret 9
 and this divine pact they struck with one accord:
 that the saints would share the same blessings and dangers alike;
 and forthwith they had begun to chant the hymns of the fathers.<sup>b</sup>

In echo came the discordant cries of their enemies 10
 and the pitiful sound rang out of those lamenting their children.
 The same punishment struck slave and master alike, 11
 commoner and king suffered the selfsame loss.
 All had innumerable dead alike, 12
 struck by the same death.
 There were not enough living left to bury them,
 for in a moment the flower of their race had perished.
 They who, thanks to their sorceries, had been wholly incredulous, 13
 at the destruction of their first-born now acknowledged this people to be son of God.

When peaceful silence lay over all, 14
 and night had run the half of her swift course, down from the heavens, from the royal throne, leapt your 15
 all-powerful Word;
 into the heart of a doomed land the stern warrior leapt.
 Carrying your unambiguous command like a sharp sword,
 he stood, and filled the universe with death; 16
 he touched the sky, yet trod the earth.
 Immediately, dreams and gruesome visions overwhelmed 17
 them with terror,
 unexpected fears assailed them.
 Hurling down, some here, some there, half dead, 18
 they proclaimed why it was they were dying;
 for the dreams that had troubled them had warned them 19
 why beforehand,
 so that they might not perish without knowing why they had been struck down.

20 But the virtuous, too, felt the touch of death;
 a multitude was struck down in the wilderness.
 But the wrath did not last long,
 21 for a blameless man<sup>c</sup> hastened to champion their cause.
 Wielding the weapons of his sacred office,
 prayer and atoning incense,
 he took his stand against the Anger and put an end to the calamity,
 showing that he was indeed your servant.
 22 He conquered the bitter plague, not by physical strength,
 not by force of arms;
 but by word he prevailed over the Punisher,
 by recalling the oaths made to the Fathers, and the covenants.
 23 Already the corpses lay piled in heaps,
 when he interposed and beat back the wrath
 and cut off its approach to the living.
 24 For the whole world was on his flowing robe,<sup>d</sup>
 the glorious names of the Fathers on the four rows of stones,
 and your Majesty on the diadem on his head.
 25 From these the Destroyer recoiled, he was afraid of these;
 a mere taste of the wrath had been enough.

Egypt and Israel: the Red Sea

1 19 But the goddess were assailed by merciless anger to the very end, for God knew beforehand what they would do,
 2 how, after letting his people leave and hastening their departure,
 they would change their minds and set out in pursuit.
 3 They were actually still conducting their mourning rites and lamenting at the tombs of their dead,
 when another mad scheme entered their heads, and they set out to pursue as fugitives the very people they had begged to go away.
 4 A well-deserved fate urged them to this extreme and made them forget what had already happened, so that to all their torments they might add the one penalty still outstanding
 5 and, while your people accomplished a miraculous journey, themselves meet an extraordinary death.
 6 For, to keep your children from all harm,
 the whole creation, obedient to your commands,
 was once more, and newly, fashioned in its nature.
 7 Overshadowing the camp there was the cloud,
 where water had been, dry land was seen to rise,
 the Red Sea became an unimpeded way,
 the tempestuous flood a green plain;
 8 sheltered by your hand, the whole nation passed across,
 gazing at these amazing miracles.
 9 They were like horses at pasture,
 they skipped like lambs,
 singing your praises, Lord, their deliverer.

18 a. The Passover meal, a sacrifice celebrated inside the houses. b. In the author's time, the Psalms of Praise (Hallel) were sung at the Passover. c. Aaron. d. In these three lines, the author is describing the high priest's robe of his own day: 'the whole world' is a symbolic representation of the three-storey universe; 'the Fathers' are the twelve ancestors of the tribes; 'the Majesty of the Lord' is the gold plate of dedication.

Nature refashioned for Israel

They still remembered the events of their exile, 10
 how the land, not bearing animals, had bred mosquitoes instead,
 how, instead of fish, the river had disgorged innumerable frogs.
 Later they saw a new method of birth for birds 11
 when, goaded by hunger, they asked for food they could relish, and quails came out of the sea to satisfy them. 12

Egypt more blameworthy than Sodom

On the sinners, however, punishments rained down 13
 not without violent thunder as early warning;
 and deservedly they suffered for their crimes,
 since they evinced such bitter hatred towards strangers.
 Others<sup>a</sup> had refused to welcome unknown men on their arrival, 14
 but these had made slaves of guests and benefactors.
 The former, moreover—and this will be to their credit — 15 had shown the foreigners hostility from the start;
 not so the latter: these welcomed your people with feasting 16
 and after granting them equal rights with themselves
 then afflicted them with forced labour.
 Thus they were struck with blindness 17
 like the former at the door of the virtuous man,<sup>b</sup>
 when, yawning darkness all around them,
 each had to grope his way through his own door.

Nature refashioned at the Exodus

Thus the elements interchanged their qualities, 18
 as on a harp the notes may change their rhythm,
 though all the while preserving their tone;
 this clearly appears from a scrutiny of the events.
 Creatures that live on land became aquatic,<sup>c</sup> 19
 and those that swim emerged on land.
 Fire increased its own virtue in the water, 20
 water forgot its property of extinguishing.
 Flames, on the other hand, would not scorch the flesh 21
 of animals, however frail, that ventured into them;
 nor would they melt that heavenly food
 like hoarfrost, and as easily melted.

Conclusion

Yes, Lord, in every way you have made your people great and glorious; 22
 you have never disdained them, but stood by them always and everywhere.

THE SONG OF SONGS

TITLE AND PROLOGUE

- 1 The Song of Songs, which is Solomon's. 1
- THE BRIDE Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth. 2
 Your love is more delightful than wine;
 delicate is the fragrance of your perfume, 3

your name is an oil poured out,
and that is why the maidens love you.
4 Draw me in your footsteps, let us run.
The King has brought me into his rooms;
you will be our joy and our gladness.
We shall praise your love above wine;
how right it is to love you.

FIRST POEM

- 5 THE BRIDE I am black but lovely, daughters of Jerusalem,
like the tents of Kedar,
like the pavilions of Salmah.
- 6 Take no notice of my swarthyness,
it is the sun that has burnt me.
My mother's sons turned their anger on me,
they made me look after the vineyards.
Had I only looked after my own!
- 7 Tell me then, you whom my heart loves:
Where will you lead your flock to graze,
where will you rest it at noon?
That I may no more wander like a vagabond
beside the flocks of your companions.
- 8 THE CHORUS If you do not know this, O loveliest of women, follow the tracks of the flock,
and take your kids to graze
close by the shepherds' tents.
- 9 THE BRIDEGROOM To my mare harnessed to Pharaoh's chariot
I compare you, my love.
- 10 Your cheeks show fair between their pendants
and your neck within its necklaces.
- 11 We shall make you golden earrings
and beads of silver.
- 12 DIALOGUE OF —While the King rests in his own room
THE BRIDE AND my nard yields its perfume.
13 BRIDEGROOM My Beloved is a sachet of myrrh lying between my breasts.
- 14 My Beloved is a cluster of henna flowers
among the vines of Engedi.
- 15 —How beautiful you are, my love,
how beautiful you are!
Your eyes are doves.
- 16 —How beautiful you are, my Beloved,
and how delightful!
All green is our bed.
- 17 —The beams of our house are of cedar,
the panelling of cypress.
- 1 2 —I am the rose of Sharon,
the lily of the valleys.

19 a. The inhabitants of Sodom, Gn 19. b. Lot, see 10:6. c. The Israelites and their cattle 'took to the water'; frogs left the water for the land.

—As a lily among the thistles,
so is my love among the maidens. 2

—As an apple tree among the trees of the orchard,
so is my Beloved among the young men. 3

In his longed-for shade I am seated and his fruit is sweet to my taste.
He has taken me to his banquet hall,
and the banner he raises over me is love. 4

Feed me with raisin cakes, restore me with apples, 5
for I am sick with love.

His left arm is under my head,
his right embraces me. 6

—I charge you,
daughters of Jerusalem,
by the gazelles, by the hinds of the field,
not to stir my love, nor rouse it,
until it please to awake. 7

SECOND POEM

THE BRIDE

I hear my Beloved. 8
See how he comes
leaping on the mountains,
bounding over the hills.
My Beloved is like a gazelle,
like a young stag. 9

See where he stands
behind our wall.
He looks in at the window,
he peers through the lattice.

My Beloved lifts up his voice, 10
he says to me,
'Come then, my love,
my lovely one, come.
For see, winter is past, 11
the rains are over and gone.
The flowers appear on the earth. 12
The season of glad songs has come,
the cooing of the turtledove is heard
in our land.

The fig tree is forming its first figs 13
and the blossoming vines give out their fragrance.
Come then, my love,
my lovely one, come.
My dove, hiding in the clefts of the rock, 14
in the coverts of the cliff,
show me your face,
let me hear your voice;
for your voice is sweet and your face is beautiful.'

Catch the foxes for us, 15
the little foxes

that make havoc of the vineyards,
for our vineyards are in flower.

16 My Beloved is mine and I am his.
He pastures his flock among the lilies.

17 Before the dawn-wind rises,
before the shadows flee,
return! Be, my Beloved,
like a gazelle,
a young stag,
on the mountains of the covenant.

1 3 On my bed, at night, I sought him whom my heart loves.

I sought but did not find him.
2 So I will rise and go through the City;
in the streets and the squares
I will seek him whom my heart loves.
... I sought but did not find him.

3 The watchmen came upon me
on their rounds in the City:
'Have you seen him whom my heart loves?'

4 Scarcely had I passed them than I found him whom my heart loves.
I held him fast, nor would I let him go till I had brought him into my mother's house,
into the room of her who conceived me.

5 THE BRIDEGROOM I charge you,
daughters of Jerusalem,
by the gazelles, by the hinds of the field,
not to stir my love, nor rouse it,
until it please to awake.

THIRD POEM

6 What is this coming up from the desert
like a column of smoke,
breathing of myrrh and frankincense
and every perfume the merchant knows?

7 See, it is the litter of Solomon.
Around it are sixty champions,
the flower of the warriors of Israel;
8 all of them skilled swordsmen,
veterans of battle.
Each man has his sword at his side,
against alarms by night.

9 King Solomon
has made himself a throne
of wood from Lebanon.
10 The posts he has made of silver,
the canopy of gold,
the seat of purple;
the back is inlaid with ebony.

Daughters of Zion,
 come and see
 King Solomon,
 wearing the diadem with which his mother crowned him
 on his wedding day,
 on the day of his heart's joy. 11

- 4 THE BRIDEGROOM    How beautiful you are, my love, 1
 how beautiful you are!
 Your eyes, behind your veil,
 are doves;
 your hair is like a flock of goats
 frisking down the slopes of Gilead.
 Your teeth are like a flock of shorn ewes 2
 as they come up from the washing.
 Each one has its twin,
 not one unpaired with another.
 Your lips are a scarlet thread 3
 and your words enchanting.
 Your cheeks, behind your veil,
 are halves of pomegranate.
 Your neck is the tower of David 4 built as a fortress,
 hung round with a thousand bucklers,
 and each the shield of a hero.
 Your two breasts are two fawns, 5
 twins of a gazelle,
 that feed among the lilies.
 Before the dawn-wind rises, 6
 before the shadows flee,
 I will go to the mountain of myrrh,
 to the hill of frankincense.
 You are wholly beautiful, my love, 7
 and without a blemish.
 Come from Lebanon, my promised bride, 8
 come from Lebanon, come on your way.
 Lower your gaze, from the heights of Amana,
 from the crests of Senir and Hermon,
 the haunt of lions,
 the mountains of leopards.
 You ravish my heart, 9
 my sister,<sup>a</sup> my promised bride,
 you ravish my heart
 with a single one of your glances,
 with one single pearl of your necklace.
 What spells lie in your love, 10
 my sister, my promised bride!
 How delicious is your love, more delicious than wine!
 How fragrant your perfumes,
 more fragrant than all other spices!
 Your lips, my promised one, 11
 distil wild honey.
 Honey and milk
 are under your tongue;

and the scent of your garments
is like the scent of Lebanon.

- 12 She is a garden enclosed,
my sister, my promised bride;
a garden enclosed,
a sealed fountain.
- 13 Your shoots form an orchard of pomegranate trees,
the rarest essences are yours:
- 14 nard and saffron,
calamus and cinnamon,
with all the incense-bearing trees;
myrrh and aloes,
with the subtlest odours.
- 15 Fountain that makes the gardens fertile,
well of living water,
streams flowing down from Lebanon.
- 16 THE BRIDE Awake, north wind,
come, wind of the south!
Breathe over my garden,
to spread its sweet smell around.
Let my Beloved come into his garden,
let him taste its rarest fruits.

- 1 5 THE BRIDEGROOM I come into my garden,
my sister, my promised bride,
I gather my myrrh and balsam,
I eat my honey and my honeycomb,
I drink my wine and my milk.
Eat, friends, and drink,
drink deep, my dearest friends.

FOURTH POEM

- 2 THE BRIDE I sleep, but my heart is awake.
I hear my Beloved knocking.
'Open to me, my sister, my love,
my dove, my perfect one,
for my head is covered with dew,
my locks with the drops of night.'
- 3 —'I have taken off my tunic,
am I to put it on again?
I have washed my feet,
am I to dirty them again?'
- 4 My Beloved thrust his hand
through the hole in the door;
I trembled to the core of my being.
- 5 Then I rose
to open to my Beloved,
myrrh ran off my hands,
pure myrrh off my fingers,
on to the handle of the bolt.
- 6 I opened to my Beloved,
but he had turned his back and gone!

4 a. An expression borrowed from Egyptian love poetry.

	My soul failed at his flight. I sought him but I did not find him, I called to him but he did not answer. The watchmen came upon me as they made their rounds in the City. They beat me, they wounded me, they took away my cloak, they who guard the ramparts.	7
	I charge you, daughters of Jerusalem, if you should find my Beloved, what must you tell him . . . ? That I am sick with love.	8
THE CHORUS	What makes your Beloved better than other lovers, O loveliest of women? What makes your Beloved better than other lovers, to give us a charge like this?	9
THE BRIDE	My Beloved is fresh and ruddy, to be known among ten thousand. His head is golden, purest gold, his locks are palm fronds and black as the raven. His eyes are doves at a pool of water, bathed in milk, at rest on a pool. His cheeks are beds of spices, banks sweetly scented. His lips are lilies, distilling pure myrrh. His hands are golden, rounded, set with jewels of Tarshish. His belly a block of ivory covered with sapphires. His legs are alabaster columns set in sockets of pure gold. His appearance is that of Lebanon, unrivalled as the cedars. His conversation is sweetness itself, he is altogether lovable. Such is my Beloved, such is my friend, O daughters of Jerusalem.	10 11 12 13 14 15
6 THE CHORUS	Where did your Beloved go, O loveliest of women? Which way did your Beloved turn so that we can help you to look for him?	17
THE BRIDE	My Beloved went down to his garden, to the beds of spices, to pasture his flock in the gardens and gather lilies. I am my Beloved's, and my Beloved is mine. He pastures his flock among the lilies.	2 3

FIFTH POEM

- 4
3 THE BRIDEGROOM You are beautiful as Tirzah, my love, fair as Jerusalem.
5 4 Turn your eyes away,
for they hold me captive.
Your hair is like a flock of goats
frisking down the slopes of Gilead.
6 5 Your teeth are like a flock of sheep
as they come up from the washing.
Each one has its twin,
not one unpaired with another.
7
6 Your cheeks, behind your veil,
are halves of pomegranate.
- 8
7 There are sixty queens
and eighty concubines
(and countless maidens).
9 8 But my dove is unique,
mine, unique and perfect.
She is the darling of her mother,
the favourite of the one who bore her.
The maidens saw her, and proclaimed her blessed,
queens and concubines sang her praises:
10 9 'Who is this arising like the dawn,
fair as the moon,
resplendent as the sun,
terrible as an army with banners?'
- 11
10 I went down to the nut orchard
to see what was sprouting in the valley, to see if the vines were budding
and the pomegranate trees in flower.
12
11 Before I knew . . . my desire had hurled me
on the chariots of my people, as their prince.
- 1
12 7 THE CHORUS Return, return, O maid of Shulam, return, return, that we may gaze on you!
- 1 THE BRIDEGROOM Why do you gaze on the maid of Shulam dancing as though between two rows of dancers?
2 How beautiful are your feet in their sandals,
O prince's daughter!
The curve of your thighs is like the curve of a necklace,
work of a master hand.
3
2 Your navel is a bowl well rounded with no lack of wine,
your belly a heap of wheat
surrounded with lilies.
4
3 Your two breasts are two fawns,
twins of a gazelle.
5
4 Your neck is an ivory tower.
Your eyes, the pools of Heshbon,
by the gate of Bath-rabbim.
Your nose, the Tower of Lebanon, sentinel facing Damascus.
6
5 Your head is held high like Carmel,

	and its plaits are as dark as purple; a king is held captive in your tresses. How beautiful you are, how charming, my love, my delight!	7 6
	In stature like the palm tree, its fruit-clusters your breasts. 'I will climb the palm tree,' I resolved, 'I will seize its clusters of dates.' May your breasts be clusters of grapes, your breath sweet-scented as apples, your speaking, superlative wine.	8 7 9 8 10 9
THE BRIDE	Wine flowing straight to my Beloved, as it runs on the lips of those who sleep. I am my Beloved's, and his desire is for me. Come, my Beloved, let us go to the fields. We will spend the night in the villages, and in the morning we will go to the vineyards. We will see if the vines are budding, if their blossoms are opening, if the pomegranate trees are in flower. Then I shall give you the gift of my love. The mandrakes yield their fragrance, " the rarest fruits are at our doors; the new as well as the old, I have stored them for you, my Beloved.	11 10 12 11 13 12 14 13
8	Ah, why are you not my brother, nursed at my mother's breast! Then if I met you out of doors, I could kiss you without people thinking ill of me. I should lead you, I should take you into my mother's house, and you would teach me! I should give you spiced wine to drink, juice of my pomegranates. His left arm is under my head and his right embraces me.	1 2 3
THE BRIDEGROOM	I charge you, daughters of Jerusalem, not to stir my love, nor rouse it, until it please to awake.	4

CONCLUSION

THE CHORUS	Who is this coming up from the desert leaning on her Beloved?	5
THE BRIDEGROOM	I awakened you under the apple tree, there where your mother conceived you, there where she who gave birth to you conceived you. Set me like a seal on your heart, like a seal on your arm. For love is strong as Death,	6

jealousy relentless as Sheol.<sup>a</sup>
 The flash of it is a flash of fire,
 a flame of Yahweh himself.
 Love no flood can quench,
 no torrents drown.

APPENDICES

Aphorism of a sage

Were a man to offer all the wealth of his house to buy love, contempt is all he would purchase.

Two epigrams<sup>b</sup>

- 8 Our sister is little: her breasts are not yet formed. What shall we do for our 9 sister on the day she is spoken for? •If she is a rampart, on the crest we will build a battlement of silver; if she is a door, we will board her up with planks of cedar.
 10 — I am a wall, and my breasts represent its towers. And under his eyes
 I have found true peace.
 11 Solomon had a vineyard at Baal-hamon. He entrusted it to overseers, and each one was to pay him the value of its produce, a thousand shekels of 12 silver. •But I look after my own vineyard myself. You, Solomon, may have your thousand shekels, and those who oversee its produce their two hundred.

Final additions

- 13 You: who dwell in the gardens, my companions listen for your voice; deign to let me hear it.

Haste away, my Beloved.
 Be like a gazelle,
 a young stag,
 on the spicy mountains.<sup>d</sup>

THE BOOK OF JOB

PROLOGUE

Satan tests Job

- 1 1 There was once a man in the land of Uz<sup>a</sup> called Job: a sound and honest
 2 man who feared God and shunned evil. •Seven sons and three daughters
 3 were born to him. •And he owned seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels,

7 a. The mandrake was thought to be aphrodisiac, and to promote fertility.

8 a. Sheol (the underworld) is personified here and more or less an equivalent of Death.

b. Written in criticism of the worldly wisdom of a Jewish ruler, probably John Hyrcanus, 135–105 B.C. In the first, Jerusalem answers that she has no need of the costly fortifications proposed by 'her brothers', the Sadducees. The second seems to protest that the modern Solomon's officers are taking a large commission on the taxes which they do nothing to earn.

c. Wisdom. d. An answer by a different author.

1 a. Probably in the S. of Edom.

five hundred yoke of oxen and five hundred she-donkeys, and many servants besides. This man was indeed a man of mark among all the people of the East.<sup>b</sup> It was the custom of his sons to hold banquets in each other's houses, one after the other, and to send and invite their three sisters to eat and drink with them. Once each series of banquets was over, Job would send for them to come and be purified, and at dawn on the following day he would offer a holocaust for each of them. 'Perhaps' Job would say 'my sons have sinned and in their hearts affronted God.' So that was what he used to do after each series.

One day the Sons of God<sup>c</sup> came to attend on Yahweh, and among them was Satan. •So Yahweh said to Satan, 'Where have you been?' 'Round the earth,' he answered 'roaming about.' •So Yahweh asked him, 'Did you notice my servant Job? There is no one like him on the earth: a sound and honest man who fears God and shuns evil.' •'Yes,' Satan said 'but Job is not God-fearing for nothing, is he? •Have you not put a wall round him and his house and all his domain? You have blessed all he undertakes, and his flocks throng the countryside. •But stretch out your hand and lay a finger on his possessions: I warrant you, he will curse you to your face.' •'Very well,' Yahweh said to Satan 'all he has is in your power. But keep your hands off his person.' So Satan left the presence of Yahweh.

On the day when Job's sons and daughters were at their meal and drinking wine at their eldest brother's house, •a messenger came to Job. 'Your oxen' he said 'were at the plough, with the donkeys grazing at their side, •when the Sabaeans<sup>d</sup> swept down on them and carried them off. Your servants they put to the sword: I alone escaped to tell you.' •He had not finished speaking when another messenger arrived. 'The fire of God' he said 'has fallen from the heavens and burnt up all your sheep, and your shepherds too: I alone escaped to tell you.' •He had not finished speaking when another messenger arrived. 'The Chaldaeans,' he said 'three bands of them, have raided your camels and made off with them. Your servants they put to the sword: I alone escaped to tell you.' •He had not finished speaking when another messenger arrived. 'Your sons and daughters' he said 'were at their meal and drinking wine at their eldest brother's house, •when suddenly from the wilderness a gale sprang up, and it battered all four corners of the house which fell in on the young people. They are dead: I alone escaped to tell you.'

Job rose and tore his gown and shaved his head.<sup>e</sup> Then falling to the ground he worshipped •and said:

'Naked I came from my mother's womb,
naked I shall return.
Yahweh gave, Yahweh has taken back.
Blessed be the name of Yahweh!'

In all this misfortune Job committed no sin nor offered any insult to God.

2 Once again the Sons of God came to attend on Yahweh, and among them was Satan. •So Yahweh said to Satan, 'Where have you been?' 'Round the earth,' he answered 'roaming about.' •So Yahweh asked him, 'Did you notice my servant Job? There is no one like him on the earth: a sound and honest man who fears God and shuns evil. His life continues blameless as ever; in vain you provoked me to ruin him.' •'Skin for skin!' Satan replied. 'A man will give away all he has to save his life. •But stretch out your hand and lay a finger on his bone and flesh; I warrant you, he will curse you to your face.' •'Very well,' Yahweh said to Satan 'he is in your power. But spare his life.' •So Satan left the presence of Yahweh.

He struck Job down with malignant ulcers from the sole of his foot to the top of his head. •Job took a piece of pot to scrape himself, and went and sat in the ashpit. •Then his wife said to him, 'Do you now still mean to persist in your blamelessness? Curse God, and die.' •'That is how foolish women talk' Job replied. 'If we take happiness from God's hand, must we not take sorrow too?' And in all this misfortune Job uttered no sinful word.

- 11 The news of all the disasters that had fallen on Job came to the ears of three of his friends. Each of them set out from home—Eliphaz of Teman, Bildad of Shuah and Zophar of Naamath<sup>a</sup>—and by common consent they decided to go and offer 12 him sympathy and consolation. •Looking at him from a distance, they could not recognise him; they wept aloud and tore their garments and threw dust over 13 their heads. •They sat there on the ground beside him for seven days and seven nights. To Job they spoke never a word, so sad a sight he made.

THE DIALOGUE

FIRST SERIES OF SPEECHES

JOB 3-14

Job curses the day of his birth

- 1 3 In the end it was Job who broke the silence and cursed the day of his birth.
2 This is what he said:
3 May the day perish when I was born,
and the night that told of a boy conceived.
4 May that day be darkness,
may God on high have no thought for it,
may no light shine on it.
5 May murk and deep shadow claim it for their own,
clouds hang over it,
eclipse swoop down on it.
6 Yes, let the dark lay hold of it, to the days of the year let it not be joined,
into the reckoning of months not find its way.
7 May that night be dismal,
no shout of joy come near it.
8 Let them curse it who curse the day,
who are prepared to rouse Leviathan.<sup>a</sup> 9 Dark be the stars of its morning,
let it wait in vain for light
and never see the opening eyes of dawn.
10 Since it would not shut the doors of the womb on me to hide sorrow from my eyes.
11 Why did I not die new-born,
not perish as I left the womb?
12 Why were there two knees to receive me,
two breasts for me to suck?
13 Had there not been, I should now be lying in peace,
wrapped in a restful slumber, 14 with the kings and high viziers of earth
who build themselves vast vaults, 15 or with princes who have gold and to spare
and houses crammed with silver.
16 Or put away like a still-born child that never came to be,
like unborn babes that never see the light.

1b. I.e., of Edomite or Arab territory to the E. of Palestine. c. The angels who make up his Council. d. Predatory nomads. So are the Chaldaeans of v.17. e. Mourning ritual.

2 a. The three towns are in Idumaeen and Arab territory. Edom and 'the East' were proverbially the homeland of the sages.

3 a. The dragon of primeval chaos; he might be roused by a curse against the present order.

Down there,<sup>o</sup> bad men bustle no more,
 there the weary rest. 17
 Prisoners, all left in peace, 18
 hear no more the shouts of the gaoler.
 Down there, high and low are all one, 19
 and the slave is free of his master.
 Why give light to a man of grief? 20
 Why give life to those bitter of heart, who long for a death that never comes, 21
 and hunt for it more than for a buried treasure?
 They would be glad to see the grave-mound 22
 and shout with joy if they reached the tomb.
 Why make this gift of light to a man who does not see his way, 23
 whom God balks on every side?
 My only food is sighs, 24
 and my groans pour out like water.
 Whatever I fear comes true, 25
 whatever I dread befalls me.
 For me, there is no calm, no peace; 26
 my torments banish rest.

Confidence in God

4 Eliphaz of Teman spoke next. He said: 1
 If one should address a word to you, will you endure it? 2
 Yet who can keep silent?
 Many another, once, you schooled, 3
 giving strength to feeble hands;
 your words set right whoever wavered, 4
 and strengthened every failing knee.
 And now your turn has come, and you lose patience too; 5
 now it touches you, and you are overwhelmed.
 Does not your piety give you confidence, 6
 your blameless life not give you hope?
 Can you recall a guiltless man that perished, 7
 or have you ever seen good men brought to nothing?
 I speak of what I know: those who plough iniquity 8
 and sow the seeds of grief reap a harvest of the same kind.
 A breath from God will bring them to destruction, 9
 a blast of his anger will wipe them out.
 The lion's roar, his savage growls, 10
 like the fangs of lion cubs are broken off.
 For lack of prey the lion dies at last, 11
 and the whelps of his lioness are scattered.
 Now, I have had a secret revelation, 12
 a whisper has come to my ears.
 At the hour when dreams master the mind, 13
 and slumber lies heavy on man,
 a shiver of horror ran through me, 14
 and my bones quaked with fear.
 A breath slid over my face, 15
 the hairs of my body bristled.
 Someone stood there—I could not see his face, 16
 but the form remained before me.
 Silence—and then I heard a Voice,
 'Was ever any man found blameless in the presence of God, 17

or faultless in the presence of his Maker?
 18 In his own servants, God puts no trust,
 and even with his angels he has fault to find.
 19 What then of those who live in houses of clay,
 who are founded on dust?
 They are crushed as easily as a moth,
 20 one day is enough to grind them to powder.
 They vanish for ever, and no one remembers them.
 21 Their tent-peg is snatched from them,
 and they die for lack of wisdom.
 1 5 Make your appeal then. Will you find an answer?
 To which of the Holy Ones will you turn?
 2 Resentment kills the senseless,
 and anger brings death to the fool.
 3 I myself have seen how such a one took root,
 until a swift curse fell on his House.
 4 His sons at a single blow lose their prop and stay, ruined at the gate<sup>a</sup> with no one to defend them;
 5 their harvest goes to feed the hungry,
 God snatches it from their mouths,
 and thirsty men hanker after their goods.
 6 Grief does not grow out of the earth,
 nor sorrow spring from the ground.
 7 It is man who breeds trouble for himself
 as surely as eagles fly to the height.
 8 If I were as you are, I should appeal to God,
 and lay my case before him.
 9 His works are great, past all reckoning,
 marvels, beyond all counting.
 10 He sends down rain to the earth,
 pours down water on the fields.
 11 If his will is to rescue the downcast,
 or raise the afflicted to the heights of joy, 12 he wrecks the plans of the artful,
 and brings to naught their intrigues.
 13 He traps the crafty in the snare of their own shrewdness, turns subtle counsellors to idiots.
 14 In daylight they come against darkness,
 and grope their way as if noon were night.
 15 He rescues the bankrupt from their jaws,
 and the poor man from the hands of the violent.
 16 Thus the wretched can hope again
 and wickedness must shut its mouth.
 17 Happy indeed the man whom God corrects!
 Then do not refuse this lesson from Shaddai.<sup>b</sup> 18 For he who wounds is he who soothes the sore,
 and the hand that hurts is the hand that heals.
 19 Six times he will deliver you from sorrow,
 and the seventh, evil shall not touch you.
 20 In time of famine, he will save you from death,
 and in wartime from the stroke of the sword.

3 b. In Sheol, the underworld.

5 a. The town gate, at which justice was dispensed. b. Name for God in the patriarchal period, here a deliberate archaism.

You shall be safe from the lash of the tongue,
 and see the approach of the brigand without fear. 21
 You shall laugh at drought and frost, 22
 and have no fear of the beasts of the earth.
 You shall have a pact with the stones of the field,
 and live in amity with wild beasts. 23
 You shall find your tent secure, 24
 and your sheepfold untouched when you come.
 You shall see your descendants multiply, 25
 your offspring grow like the grass in the fields.
 In ripe age you shall go to the grave, 26
 like a wheat sheaf stacked in due season.
 All this, we have observed: it is true. 27
 Heed it, and do so to your profit.

Only the sufferer knows his own grief

6 Job spoke next. He said: 1
 If only my misery could be weighed, 2
 and all my ills be put on the scales!
 But they outweigh the sands of the seas; 3
 what wonder then if my words are wild?
 The arrows of Shaddai stick fast in me, 4
 my spirit absorbs their poison,
 God's terrors stand against me in array.
 Does a wild donkey bray when it finds soft grass, 5
 or an ox ever low when its fodder is in reach?
 Can tasteless food be taken without salt, 6
 or is there flavour in the white of an egg?
 The very dishes which I cannot stomach, 7
 these are my diet in my sickness.
 Oh may my prayer find fulfilment, 8
 may God grant me my hope!
 May it please God to crush me, 9
 to give his hand free play and do away with me!
 This thought, at least, would give me comfort 10
 (a thrill of joy in unrelenting pain),
 that I had not denied the Holy One's decrees.
 But have I the strength to go on waiting? 11
 What use is life to me, when doomed to certain death?
 Is mine the strength of stone, 12
 or is my flesh bronze?
 Can any power be found within myself, 13
 has not all help deserted me?
 Grudge pity to a neighbour, 14
 and you forsake the fear of Shaddai.
 My brothers have been fickle as a torrent, 15
 as the course of a seasonal stream.
 Ice is the food of their dark waters, 16
 they swell with the thawing of the snow;
 but in the hot season they dry up, 17
 with summer's heat they vanish.
 Caravans leave the trail to find them, 18
 go deep into desert, and are lost.
 The caravans of Tema look to them, 19

- and on them Sheba's convoys build their hopes.
 20 Their trust proves vain,
     they reach them only to be thwarted.
- 21 So, at this time, do you behave to me:
     one sight of me, and then you flee in fright.
- 22 Have I said to you, 'Give me this or that,
 23 bribe someone for me at your own cost,
 23 snatch me from the clutches of an enemy,
     or ransom me from a tyrant's hand'?
- 24 Put me right, and I will say no more;
     show me where I have been at fault.
- 25 Fair comment can be borne without resentment,
     but what is the basis for your strictures?
- 26 Do you think mere words deserve censure,
     desperate speech that the wind blows away?
- 27 Soon you will be casting lots for an orphan,
     and selling your friend at bargain prices!
- 28 Come, I beg you, look at me:
     as man to man, I will not lie.
- 29 Relent, and grant me justice;
     relent, my case is not yet tried.
- 30 Is falsehood to be found on my lips?
     Cannot my palate tell the taste of misfortune?
- 1 7 Is not man's life on earth nothing more than pressed service,
     his time no better than hired drudgery?
- 2 Like the slave, sighing for the shade,
     or the workman with no thought but his wages,
 3 months of delusion I have assigned to me,
     nothing for my own but nights of grief.
- 4 Lying in bed I wonder, 'When will it be day?'
     Risen I think, 'How slowly evening comes!'
- Restlessly I fret till twilight falls.
- 5 Vermin cover my flesh, and loathsome scabs;
     my skin is cracked and oozes pus.
- 6 Swifter than a weaver's shuttle my days have passed,
     and vanished, leaving no hope behind.
- 7 Remember that my life is but a breath,
     and that my eyes will never again see joy.
- 8 The eye that once saw me will look on me no more,
     your eyes will turn my way, and I shall not be there.
- 9 As a cloud dissolves and is gone,
     so he who goes down to Sheol never ascends again.
- 10 He never comes home again,
     and his house knows him no more.
- 11 No wonder then if I cannot keep silence;
     in the anguish of my spirit I must speak,
     lament in the bitterness of my soul.
- 12 Am I the Sea, or the Wild Sea Beast,<sup>a</sup>
     that you should keep me under watch and guard?
- 13 If I say, 'My bed will comfort me,
     my couch will soothe my pain',

7 a. In the Babylonian cosmogonies, the Sea (personified as Tiamat) was conquered and controlled by one of the gods. In popular imagery influenced by this story, Yahweh became the conqueror who held the sea under his control.

you frighten me with dreams and terrify me with visions.	14
Strangling I would welcome rather, and death itself, than these my sufferings.	15
I waste away, my life is not unending; leave me then, for my days are but a breath.	16
What is man that you should make so much of him, subjecting him to your scrutiny, that morning after morning you should examine him and at every instant test him?	17
Will you never take your eyes off me long enough for me to swallow my spittle?	18
Suppose I have sinned, what have I done to you, you tireless watcher of mankind?	19
Why do you choose me as your target? Why should I be a burden to you?	20
Can you not tolerate my sin, nor overlook my fault?	21
It will not be long before I lie in earth; then you will look for me, but I shall be no more.

The unswerving course of God's justice

8 Bildad of Shuah spoke next. He said:	1
Is there no end to these words of yours, to your long-winded blustering?	2
Can God deflect the course of right or Shaddai falsify justice?	3
If your sons sinned against him, they have paid for their sins; so you too, if so pure and honest, must now seek God, plead with Shaddai.	4
Without delay he will restore his favour to you, will see that the good man's house is rebuilt.	6a
Your former state will seem to you as nothing beside your new prosperity.	5
Question the generation that has passed, meditate on the experience of its fathers.	6b
We sons of yesterday know nothing; our life on earth passes like a shadow.	7
But they will teach you, they will tell you, and these are the words they will speak from the heart,	8
'Does papyrus flourish, except in marshes? Without water, can the rushes grow?	9
Pluck them even at their freshest: fastest of all plants they wither.	10
Such is the fate of all who forget God; so perishes the hope of the godless man.	11
His trust is only a thread, his assurance a spider's web.	12
Let him lean on his house; it will not stand firm; cling to it, it will not hold.	13
Like some lush plant in the sunlight, he sprouted his early shoots over the garden; but his roots were twined in a heap of stones,	14
	15
	16
	17

he drew his life among the rocks.
 18 Snatch him from his bed,
 and it denies it ever saw him.
 19 Now he rots on the roadside,
 and from that soil spring others.
 20 Believe me, God neither spurns a stainless man,
 nor lends his aid to the evil.
 21 Once again your cheeks will fill with laughter,
 from your lips will break a cry of joy.
 22 Your enemies shall be covered with shame,
 and the tent of the wicked folk shall vanish.'

God's justice is above all law

1 9 Job spoke next. He said:
 2 Indeed, I know it is as you say:
 how can man be in the right against God?
 3 If any were so rash as to challenge him for reasons,
 one in a thousand would be more than they could answer.
 4 His heart is wise, and his strength is great:
 who then can successfully defy him?
 5 He moves the mountains, though they do not know it;
 he throws them down when he is angry.
 6 He shakes the earth, and moves it from its place,
 making all its pillars tremble.
 7 The sun, at his command, forbears to rise,
 and on the stars he sets a seal.
 8 He and no other stretched out the skies,
 and trampled the Sea's tall waves.
 9 The Bear, Orion too, are of his making,
 the Pleiades and the Mansions of the South.
 10 His works are great, beyond all reckoning,
 his marvels, past all counting.
 11 Were he to pass me, I should not see him,
 nor detect his stealthy movement.
 12 Were he to snatch a prize, who could prevent him, or dare to say, 'What are you doing?'
 13 God never goes back on his anger,
 Rahab's minions still lie at his feet.<sup>a</sup> 14 How dare I plead my cause, then,
 or choose arguments against him?
 15 Suppose I am in the right, what use is my defence?
 For he whom I must sue is judge as well.
 16 If he deigned to answer my citation,
 could I be sure that he would listen to my voice?
 17 He, who for one hair crushes me,
 who, for no reason, wounds and wounds again, 18 leaving me not a moment to draw breath,
 with so much bitterness he fills me.
 19 Shall I try force? Look how strong he is!
 Or go to court? But who will summon him?
 20 Though I think myself right, his mouth may condemn me;
 though I count myself innocent, it may declare me a hypocrite.
 21 But am I innocent after all? Not even I know that,

9 a. Rahab stands for Chaos, the first enemy conquered by God.

and, as for my life, I find it hateful.
 It is all one, and this I dare to say: 22
     innocent and guilty, he destroys all alike.
 When a sudden deadly scourge descends, 23
     he laughs at the plight of the innocent.
 When a country falls into a tyrant's hand, 24
     it is he who blindfolds the judges.
     Or if not he, who else?
 My days run hurrying by, 25
     seeing no happiness in their flight, skimming along like a reed canoe, 26
     or the flight of an eagle after its prey.
 If I resolve to stifle my moans, 27
     change countenance, and wear a smiling face, fear comes over me, at the thought of all I suffer, 28
     for such, I know, is not your treatment of the innocent.
 And if I am guilty, 29
     why should I put myself to useless trouble?
 No use to wash myself with snow, 30
     or bleach my hands pure white;
 for you will plunge me in dung 31
     until my very clothes recoil from me.
 Yes, I am man, and he is not; and so no argument, 32
     no suit between the two of us is possible.
 There is no arbiter between us, 33
     to lay his hand on both,
 to stay his rod from me, 34
     or keep away his daunting terrors.
 Nonetheless, I shall speak, not fearing him: 35
     I do not see myself like that at all.
 Since I have lost all taste for life, 1
     I will give free rein to my complaints;
     I shall let my embittered soul speak out.
 I shall say to God, 'Do not condemn me, 2
     but tell me the reason for your assault.
 Is it right for you to injure me, 3 cheapening the work of your own hands
     and abetting the schemes of the wicked?
 Have you got human eyes, 4
     do you see as mankind sees?
 Is your life mortal like man's, 5
     do your years pass as men's days pass?
 You, who inquire into my faults 6
     and investigate my sins,
 you know very well that I am innocent, 7
     and that no one can rescue me from your hand.
 Your own hands shaped me, modelled me; 8
     and would you now have second thoughts, and destroy me?
 You modelled me, remember, as clay is modelled, 9
     and would you reduce me now to dust?
 Did you not pour me out like milk, 10
     and curdle me then like cheese;"
 clothe me with skin and flesh, 11
     and weave me of bone and sinew?
 And then you endowed me with life, 12
     watched each breath of mine with tender care.

13 Yet, after all, you were dissembling;
     biding your time, I know,
 14 to mark if I should sin
     and to let no fault of mine go uncensured.
 15 Woe to me, if I am guilty;
     if I am innocent, I dare not lift my head,
     so wholly abject, so drunk with pain am I.
 16 And if I make a stand, like a lion you hunt me down,
     adding to the tale of your triumphs.
 17 You attack, and attack me again,
     with stroke on stroke of your fury,
     relentlessly your fresh troops assail me.
 18 'Why did you bring me out of the womb?
     I should have perished then, unseen by any eye, 19 a being that had never been,
     to be carried from womb to grave.
 20 The days of my life are few enough:
     turn your eyes away, leave me a little joy, 21 before I go to the place of no return,
     the land of murk and deep shadow, 22 where dimness and disorder hold sway,
     and light itself is like the dead of night.'

Job must acknowledge God's wisdom

1 11 Zophar of Naamath spoke next. He said:
 2 Is babbling to go without an answer?
     Is wordiness in man a proof of right?
 3 Do you think your talking strikes men dumb,
     will you jeer with no one to refute you?
 4 These were your words, 'My way of life is faultless,
     and in your eyes I am free from blame'.
 5 But if God had a mind to speak,
     to open his lips and give you answer,
 6 were he to show you the secrets of wisdom which put all cleverness to shame —
     you would know it is for sin he calls you to account.
 7 Can you claim to grasp the mystery of God,
     to understand the perfection of Shaddai?
 8 It is higher than the heavens: what can you do?
     It is deeper than Sheol: what can you know?
 9 Its length is longer than the earth,
     its breadth is broader than the sea.
 10 If he passes, who can stop him,
     or make him yield once he has seized?
 11 For he detects the worthlessness in man,
     he sees iniquity and marks it well.
 12 And so the idiot grows wise,
     thus a young wild donkey grows tame.
 13 Come, you must set your heart right,
     stretch out your hands to him.
 14 Renounce the iniquity that stains your hands,
     let no injustice live within your tents.

10 a. The contemporary belief was that an embryo was formed by the congealing of the mother's blood.

Then you may face the world in innocence,
 unwavering and free from fear. 15
 You will forget your sufferings,
 remember them as waters that have passed away. 16
 Your life, more radiant than the noonday, will make a dawn of darkness. 17
 Full of hope, you will live secure, dwelling well and safely guarded. 18
 No one will dare disturb you,
 and many a man will seek your favour. 19
 But the wicked will look round with weary eyes,
 and finding no escape, 20
 the only hope they have is life's last breath.

God's wisdom is best seen in the dreadful works of his omnipotence

12 Job spoke next. He said: 1
 Doubtless, you are the voice of the people, and when you die, wisdom will die with you! 2
 I can reflect as deeply as ever you can,
 I am no way inferior to you. 3
 And who, for that matter, has not observed as much?
 A man becomes a laughing-stock to his friends 4
 if he cries to God and expects an answer.
 The blameless innocent incurs only mockery.
 'Add insult to injury,' think the prosperous 5
 'strike the man now that he is staggering!'
 And yet, the tents of brigands are left in peace, 6
 and those who challenge God live in safety,
 and make a god of their two fists!
 If you would learn more, ask the cattle, 7
 seek information from the birds of the air.
 The creeping things of earth will give you lessons, 8
 and the fishes of the sea will tell you all.
 There is not one such creature but will know 9
 this state of things is all of God's own making.
 He holds in his power the soul of every living thing, 10
 and the breath of each man's body.
 The ear is a judge of speeches, is it not, 11
 just as the palate can tell one food from another?
 Wisdom is found in the old, 12
 and discretion comes with great age.
 But in him there is wisdom, and power, too, 11
 and decision no less than discretion.
 What he destroys, none can rebuild; 14
 whom he imprisons, none can release.
 Is there a drought? He has checked the waters. 15
 Do these play havoc with the earth? He has let them loose.
 In him is strength, in him resourcefulness, 16
 beguiler and beguiled are both alike his slave.
 He robs the country's counsellors of their wits, 17
 turns judges into fools.
 His hands untie the belt of kings, 18
 and bind a rope about their loins.
 He makes priests walk barefoot, 19
 and overthrows the powers that are established.

20 He strikes the cleverest speakers dumb,
and robs old men of their discretion.
21 He pours contempt on the nobly born,
and unties the girdle of the strong.
22 He robs the depths of their darkness,
brings deep shadow to the light.
23 He builds a nation up, then strikes it down,
or makes a people grow, and then destroys it.
24 He strips a country's leaders of their judgement,
and leaves them to wander in a trackless waste, 25 to grope about in unlit darkness,
and totter like a man in liquor.

1 13 I have seen all this with my own eyes,
heard with my own ears, and understood.
2 Whatever you know, I know too;
I am no way inferior to you.
3 But my words are intended for Shaddai;
I mean to remonstrate with God.
4 As for you, you are only charlatans,
physicians in your own estimation.
5 I wish someone would teach you to be quiet
—the only wisdom that becomes you!
6 Kindly listen to my accusation,
pay attention to the pleading of my lips.
7 Will you plead God's defence with prevarication,
his case in terms that ring false?
8 Will you be partial in his favour,
and act as his advocates?
9 For you to meet his scrutiny, would this be well?
Can he be duped as men are duped?
10 Harsh rebuke you would receive from him
for your covert partiality.
11 Does his majesty not affright you,
dread of him not fall on you?
12 Your old maxims are proverbs of ash,
your retorts, retorts of clay.
13 Silence! Now I will do the talking, whatever may befall me.
14 I put my flesh between my teeth,
I take my life in my hands.
15 Let him kill me if he will; I have no other hope than to justify my conduct in his eyes.
16 This very boldness gives promise of my release,
since no godless man would dare appear before him.
17 Listen carefully to my words,
and lend your ears to what I have to say.
18 You shall see, I will proceed by due form of law, persuaded, as I am, that I am guiltless.
19 Who comes against me with an accusation?
Let him come! I am ready to be silenced and to die.
20 But grant me these two favours:
if not, I shall not dare to confront you.
21 Take your hand away, which lies so heavy on me,
no longer make me cower from your terror.
22 Then arraign me, and I will reply;

14

- or rather, I will speak and you shall answer me,
 How many faults and crimes have I committed? 23
 What law have I transgressed, or in what have I offended?
 Why do you hide your face 24
 and look on me as your enemy?
 Will you intimidate a wind-blown leaf, 25
 will you chase the dried-up chaff;
 you list bitter accusations against me, 26
 taxing me with the faults of my youth, after putting my feet in the stocks, 27
 watching my every step,
 and measuring my footprints;
 while my life is crumbling like rotten wood, 28
 or a moth-eaten garment.
- Man, born of woman, 1
 has a short life yet has his fill of sorrow.
 He blossoms, and he withers, like a flower;
 fleeting as a shadow, transient. 2
 And is this what you deign to turn your gaze on, him that you would bring before you to be judged? 3
 Who can bring the clean out of the unclean? 4
 No man alive!
 Since man's days are measured out, 5
 since his tale of months depends on you,
 since you assign him bounds he cannot pass,
 turn your eyes from him, leave him alone, 6
 like a hired drudge, to finish his day.
- There is always hope for a tree: 7
 when felled, it can start its life again;
 its shoots continue to sprout.
 Its roots may be decayed in the earth, 8
 its stump withering in the soil,
 but let it scent the water, and it buds, 9
 and puts out branches like a plant new set.
- But man? He dies, and lifeless he remains;
 man breathes his last, and then where is he? 10
 The waters of the seas may disappear, 11
 all the rivers may run dry or drain away;
 but man, once in his resting place, will never rise again. 12
 The heavens will wear away before he wakes,
 before he rises from his sleep.
- If only you would hide me in Sheol, 13
 and shelter me there until your anger is past, fixing a certain day for calling me to mind—
 for once a man is dead can he come back to life?— 14
 day after day of my service I would wait for my relief to come.
- Then you would call, and I should answer, 15
 you would want to see the work of your hands once more.
 Now you count every step I take, 16
 but then you would cease to spy on my sins;
 you would seal up my crime in a bag, 17
 and whiten my fault over.
- But no! Soon or late the mountain falls, 18
 the rock moves from its place,

19 water wears away the stones,
     the cloudburst erodes the soil;
     just so do you destroy man's hope.
 20 You crush him once for all, and he is gone;
     you mar him, and then you bid him go.
 21 Let his sons achieve honour, he does not know of it, humiliation, he gives it not a thought.
 22 He feels no pain for anything but his own body,
     makes no lament, save for his own life.

SECOND SERIES OF SPEECHES

JOB 15-21

Job's own words condemn him

1 15 Eliphaz of Teman spoke next. He said:
 2 Does a wise man answer with airy reasonings,
     or feed himself on an east wind?
 3 Does he defend himself with empty talk and ineffectual wordiness?
 4 You do worse: you flout piety,
     you repudiate meditation in God's presence.
 5 A guilty conscience prompts your words,
     you adopt the language of the cunning.
 6 Your own mouth condemns you, and not I;
     your own lips bear witness against you.
 7 Are you the first-born of the human race,
     brought into the world before the hills?
 8 Have you been a listener at God's council, or established a monopoly of wisdom?
 9 What knowledge have you that we have not,
     what understanding that is not ours too?
 10 A grey-haired man, and an ancient, are of our number;
     these have seen more summers than your father.
 11 Do you scorn the comfort that God gives,
     and the moderation we have used in speaking?
 12 See how passion carries you away!
     How evil you look,
 13 when you thus loose your anger on God and utter speeches such as these!
 14 How can any man be clean?
     Born of woman, can he ever be good?
 15 In his own Holy Ones God puts no trust,
     and the heavens themselves are not, in his eyes, clean.
 16 Then how much less this hateful, corrupt thing,
     mankind, that drinks iniquity like water!
 17 Listen to me, I have a lesson for you:
     I will tell you of my own experience,
 18 and of the teaching of the sages,
     those faithful guardians of the tradition of their fathers, 19 to whom alone the land was given,
     with never a foreigner to mix with them.
 20 The life of the wicked is unceasing torment,

the years allotted to the tyrant are numbered.
 The danger signal ever echoes in his ear, 21
 in the midst of peace the marauder swoops on him.
 He has no hope of fleeing from the darkness, 22
 but knows that he is destined for the sword, marked down as meat for the vulture. 23
 He knows that his ruin is at hand.
 The hour of darkness makes him terrified; 24
 distress and anguish close in on him,
 as though some king were mounting an attack.
 He raised his hand against God, 25
 he ventured to defy Shaddai.
 Blindly he bore down on him 26
 from behind his massive shield.
 His face had grown full and fat, 27
 and his thighs too heavy with flesh.
 He had taken possession of ruined towns 28
 and made his dwelling in deserted houses.
 But all his careful building will go once more to ruin;
 not for him increase of wealth, his riches will not last, 29
 no longer will he cast his shadow over the land.
 A flame will wither up his tender buds; 30
 the wind will carry off his blossom.
 But he should not trust in his great stature, 31
 if he would not trust in vain.
 His boughs will wither before their time, 32
 and his branches never again be green.
 Like a vine he will let his unripe clusters fall, 33
 like an olive shed his blossom.
 Ah yes, the sinner's brood is barren, 34
 and fire consumes the tents of the venal.
 Conceive mischief, and you breed disaster, 35
 and carry in yourself deceitfulness.

The injustice of man and the justice of God

16 Job spoke next. He said: 1
 How often have I heard all this before! 2
 What sorry comforters you are!
 Is there never to be an end of airy words? 3
 What a plague your need to have the last word is!
 I too could talk like you, 4
 were your soul in the plight of mine.
 I too could overwhelm you with sermons,
 I could shake my head over you, 5
 and speak words of encouragement,
 until my lips grew tired.
 But, while I am speaking, my suffering remains; 6
 and when I am not, do I suffer any the less?
 And now ill-will drives me to distraction, 7
 and a whole host molests me, 8
 rising, like some witness for the prosecution,
 to utter slander to my very face.
 In tearing fury it pursues me, 9
 with gnashing teeth.
 My enemies whet their eyes on me,
 and open gaping jaws. 10

- Their insults strike like slaps in the face,
 and all set on me together.
 11 Yes, God has handed me over to the godless,
 and cast me into the hands of the wicked.
 12 I lived at peace, until he shattered me,
 taking me by the neck to dash me to pieces.
 He has made me a target for his archery,
 13 shooting his arrows at me from every side.
 Pitiless, through the loins he pierces me,
 and scatters my gall on the ground.
 14 Breach after breach he drives through me,
 bearing down on me like a warrior.
 15 I have sewn sackcloth over my skin
 and rubbed my brow in the dust.
 16 My face is red with tears,
 and a veil of shadow hangs on my eyelids.
 17 This notwithstanding, my hands are free of violence,
 and my prayer is undefiled.
 18 Cover not my blood, O earth,<sup>a</sup> afford my cry no place to rest.
 19 Henceforth I have a witness in heaven,
 my defender is there in the height.
 20 My own lament is my advocate with God,
 while my tears flow before him.
 21 Let this plead for me as I stand before God,
 as a man will plead for his fellows.
 22 For the years of my life are numbered,
 and I shall soon take the road of no return.
 1 17 My breath grows weak,
 and the gravediggers are gathering for me.
 2 I am the butt of mockers,
 and all my waking hours I brood on their spitefulness.
 3 You yourself must take my own guarantee, since no one cares to clap his hand on mine.<sup>a</sup> 4 For you have shut their hearts to reason,
 and not a hand is lifted.
 5 Like a man who invites his friends to share his property
 while the eyes of his own sons languish, 6 I have become a byword among the people,
 and a creature on whose face to spit.
 7 My eyes grow dim with grief,
 and my limbs wear away like a shadow.
 8 At this, honest men are shocked,<sup>b</sup>
 and the guiltless man rails against the godless; 9 just men grow more settled in their ways,
 those whose hands are clean add strength to strength.
 10 Come, then, all of you: set on me once more!
 I shall not find a single sage among you.
 11 My days have passed, far otherwise than I had planned,
 and every fibre of my heart is broken.
 12 Night, they say, makes room for day,
 and light is near at hand to chase the darkness.

16 a. Blood, if not covered with earth, cries to heaven for vengeance.

17 a. I.e., to go surety for me. b. Assuming that such suffering is a punishment for guilt.

All I look forward to is dwelling in Sheol,
and making my bed in the dark. 13
I tell the tomb, 'You are my father', 14
and call the worm my mother and my sister.
Where then is my hope? 15
Who can see any happiness for me?
Will these come down with me to Sheol,
or sink with me into the dust? 16

Anger is powerless against the course of justice

18 Bildad of Shuah spoke next. He said: 1
Will you never learn to check such words? 2
Do you think we shall be slow to speak?
Why do you regard us as beasts, 3
look on us as dumb animals?
Tear yourself to pieces if you will, 4
but the world, for all your rage, will not turn to desert,
the rocks will not shift from their places.
The wicked man's light must certainly be put out, 5
his brilliant flame cease to shine.
In his tent the light is dimmed, 6
the lamp that shone on him is snuffed.
His vigorous stride grows cramped, 7
his own cunning brings him down.
For into the net his own feet carry him, 8
he walks among the snares.
A spring grips him by the heel, 9
a trap snaps shut, and he is caught.
Hidden in the earth is a noose to snare him, 10
pitfalls lie across his path.
Terrors attack him on every side, 11
and follow behind him step for step.
Hunger becomes his companion, 12
by his side Disaster stands.
Disease devours his flesh, 13
Death's First-Born<sup>a</sup> gnaws his limbs.
He is torn from the shelter of his tent, 14
and dragged before the King of Terrors.
The Lilith<sup>b</sup> makes her home under his roof, 15
while people scatter brimstone on his holding.
His roots grow withered below, 16
and his branches are blasted above.
His memory fades from the land, 17
his name is forgotten in his homeland.
Driven from light into darkness, 18
he is an exile from the earth,
without issue or posterity among his own people, 19
none to live on where he has lived.
His tragic end appals the West, 20
and fills the East with terror.
A fate like his awaits every sinful house, 21
the home of every man who knows not God.

Faith at its height in desertion by God and man

- 1 19 Job spoke next. He said:
- 2 Will you never stop tormenting me,
and shattering me with speeches?
- 3 Ten times, no less, you have insulted me,
ill-treating me without a trace of shame.
- 4 Suppose that I have gone astray,
suppose I am even yet in error:
- 5 it is still true, though you think you have the upper hand of me and feel that you have proved my guilt, 6 that God, you must know, is my oppressor,
and his is the net that closes round me.
- 7 If I protest against such violence, there is no reply;
if I appeal against it, judgement is never given.
- 8 He has built a wall across my path which I cannot pass,
and covered my way with darkness.
- 9 He has stolen my honour away,
and taken the crown from my head.
- 10 On every side he breaks through my defences, and I succumb.
As a man a shrub, so he uproots my hope.
- 11 His anger flares against me,
and he counts me as his enemy.
- 12 His troops have come in force,
they have mounted their attack against me,
laid siege to my tent.
- 13 My brothers stand aloof from me,
and my relations take care to avoid me.
- 14 My kindred and my friends have all gone away,
and the guests in my house have forgotten me.
- 15 The serving maids look on me as a foreigner,
a stranger, never seen before.
- 16 My servant does not answer when I call him,
I am reduced to entreating him.
- 17 To my wife my breath is unbearable,
for my own brothers I am a thing corrupt.
- 18 Even the children look down on me,
ever ready with a jibe when I appear.
- 19 All my dearest friends recoil from me in horror:
those I loved best have turned against me.
- 20 Beneath my skin, my flesh begins to rot,
and my bones stick out like teeth.
- 21 Pity me, pity me, you, my friends,
for the hand of God has struck me.
- 22 Why do you hound me down like God,
will you never have enough of my flesh?
- 23 Ah, would that these words of mine were written down, inscribed on some monument
- 24 with iron chisel and engraving tool,
cut into the rock for ever.
- 25 This I know: that my Avenger<sup>a</sup> lives,
and he, the Last, will take his stand on earth.

18 a. The principal disease, probably plague. b. A female demon of popular legend.

19 a. 'Avenger' and 'take his stand' are technical legal terms.

After my awaking, he will set me close to him,
 and from my flesh I shall look on God. 26
 He whom I shall see will take my part: 27
 these eyes will gaze on him and find him not aloof.
 My heart within me sinks...
 You, then, that mutter, 'How shall we track him down,
 what pretext shall we find against him?' 28
 may well fear the sword on your own account. 29
 There is an anger stirred to flame by evil deeds;
 you will learn that there is indeed a judgement.

The course of justice admits of no exception

20 Zophar of Naamath spoke next. He said: 1
 To this my thoughts are eager to reply: 2
 no wonder if I am possessed by impatience.
 I found these admonitions little to my taste, 3
 but my spirit whispers to me how to answer them.
 Do you not know, that since time began 4
 and man was set on the earth,
 the triumph of the wicked has always been brief, 5
 and the sinner's gladness has never lasted long?
 Towering to the sky he may have been, 6
 with head touching the clouds;
 but he vanishes, like a phantom, once for all, 7
 while those who saw him now ask, 'Where is he?'
 Like a dream that leaves no trace he takes his flight, 8
 like a vision in the night he flies away.
 The eye that looked on him will never see him more, 9
 his house nevermore sets eyes on him.
 His sons must recoup his victims, 10
 and his children pay back his riches.
 With the vigour of youth his bones were filled, 11
 now it lies in the dust with him.
 Evil was sweet to his mouth, 12
 he hid it beneath his tongue;
 unwilling to let it go, 13
 he let it linger on his palate.
 Such food goes bad in his belly, 14
 working inside him like the poison of a viper.
 Now he must bring up all the wealth that he has swallowed, 15
 God makes him disgorge it.
 He sucked 'poison of vipers': 16
 and the tongue of the adder kills him.
 He will know no more of streams that run with oil, 17
 or the torrents of honey and cream.
 Gone that glad face at the sight of his gains, 18
 those comfortable looks when business was thriving.
 Since he once destroyed the huts of poor men, 19
 and stole other's houses when he should have built his own, since his avarice could never be satisfied, 20
 now his hoarding will not save him;
 since there was nothing ever escaped his greed, 21
 now his prosperity will not last.
 His abundance at its full, want seizes him, 22
 misery descends on him in all its force.

23 On him God looses all his burning wrath,
     hurling against his flesh a hail of arrows.
 24 No use to run away from the iron armoury,
     for the bow of bronze will shoot him through.
 25 Out through his back an arrow sticks,
     from his gall a shining point.
 An arsenal of terrors falls on him,
 26 and all that is dark lies in ambush for him.
 A fire unlit by man devours him,
     and consumes what is left in his tent.
 27 The heavens lay bare his iniquity,
     the earth takes its stand against him.
 28 A flood sweeps his house away,
     and carries it off in the Day of Wrath.
 29 Such is the fate God allots to the wicked,
     such his inheritance assigned by God.

Facts give the lie

1 21 Job spoke next. He said:
 2 Listen, only listen to my words;
     this is the consolation you can offer me.
 3 Let me have my say;
     you may jeer when I have spoken.
 4 Do you think I bear a grudge against man?
     Have I no reason to be out of patience?
 5 Hear what I have to say, and you will be dumbfounded,
     will place your hands over your mouths.
 6 I myself am appalled at the very thought,
     and my flesh begins to shudder.
 7 Why do the wicked still live on,
     their power increasing with their age?
 8 They see their posterity ensured,
     and their offspring grow before their eyes.
 9 The peace of their houses has nothing to fear,
     the rod that God wields is not for them.
 10 No mishap with their bulls at breeding-time,
     nor miscarriage with their cows at calving.
 11 They let their infants frisk like lambs,
     their children dance like deer.
 12 They sing to the tambourine and the lyre,
     and rejoice to the sound of the flute.
 13 They end their lives in happiness and go down in peace to Sheol.
 14 Yet these were the ones who said to God, 'Go away!
     We do not choose to learn your ways.
 15 What is the point of our serving Shaddai?
     What profit should we get from praying to him?'
 16 Is it not true, they held their fortune in their own two hands, and in their counsels, left no room for God?
 17 Do we often see a wicked man's light put out,
     or disaster overtaking him,
     or all his goods destroyed by the wrath of God?
 18 How often do we see him harassed like a straw before the wind,
     or swept off like chaff before a gale?

God, you say, reserves the man's punishment for his children. 19
 No! Let him bear the penalty himself, and suffer under it!
 Let him see his ruin with his own eyes, 20
 and himself drink the anger of Shaddai.
 When he has gone, how can the fortunes of his House affect him, 21
 when the number of his months is cut off?
 But who can give lessons in wisdom to God, 22
 to him who is judge of those on high?
 And again: one man dies in the fulness of his strength, 23
 in all possible happiness and ease,
 with his thighs all heavy with fat, 24
 and the marrow of his bones undried.
 Another dies with bitterness in his heart, 25 never having tasted happiness.
 Together now they lie in the dust 26
 with worms for covering.

 I know well what is in your mind, 27
 the spiteful thoughts you entertain about me.
 'What has become of the great lord's house,' you say 28
 'where is the tent where the wicked lived?'
 Have you never asked those that have travelled, 29
 or have you misunderstood the tale they told,
 'The wicked man is spared for the day of disaster, 30
 and carried off in the day of wrath'?
 But who is there then to accuse him to his face for his deeds, 31
 and pay him back for what he has done,
 when he is on his way to his burial, 32
 when men are watching at his grave.
 The clods of the valley are laid gently on him, 33
 and a whole procession walks behind him.
 So what sense is there in your empty consolation? 34
 What nonsense are your answers!

THIRD SERIES OF SPEECHES

JOB 22-27

God punishes only to vindicate justice

22 Eliphaz of Teman spoke next. He said: 1
 Can a man be of any use to God, 2
 when even the wise man's wisdom is of use only to himself?
 Does Shaddai derive any benefit from your integrity, 3
 or profit from your blameless conduct?
 Would he punish you for your piety, 4
 and hale you off to judgement?
 No, rather for your manifold wickednesses, 5
 for your unending iniquities!
 You have exacted needless pledges from your brothers, 6
 and men go naked now through your despoiling;
 you have grudged water to the thirsty man, 7
 and refused bread to the hungry;
 you have narrowed the lands of the poor man down to nothing 8
 to set your crony in his place, sent widows away empty-handed 9
 and crushed the arms of orphans.

10 No wonder, then, if snares are all around you,
 or sudden terrors make you afraid.
 11 Light has turned to darkness and it blinds you,
 and a flood of water overwhelms you.
 12 Does not God live at the height of heaven,
 and see the zenith of the stars?
 13 Because he is far above, you said, 'What does God know?
 Can he peer through the shadowed darkness?'
 14 The clouds, to him, are an impenetrable veil,
 and he prowls on the rim of the heavens.
 15 And will you still follow the ancient trail
 trodden by the wicked?
 16 Those men who were borne off before their time,
 with rivers swamping their foundations,
 17 because they said to God, 'Go away!
 What can Shaddai do to us?'
 18 Yet he himself had filled their houses with good things,
 while these wicked men shut him out of their counsels.
 19 At the sight of their ruin, good men rejoice,
 and the innocent deride them:
 20 'See how their greatness is brought to nothing!
 See how their wealth has perished in the flames!'
 21 Well then! Make peace with him, be reconciled, and all your happiness will be restored to you.
 22 Welcome the teaching from his lips,
 and keep his words close to your heart.
 23 If you return, humbled, to Shaddai
 and drive all injustice from your tents, 24 if you reckon gold as dust
 and Ophir as the pebbles of the torrent, 25 then you will find Shaddai worth bars of gold or silver piled in heaps.
 26 Then Shaddai will be all your delight,
 and you will lift your face to God.
 27 You will pray, and he will hear;
 you will have good reason to fulfil your vows.
 28 Whatever you undertake will go well,
 and light will shine on your path;
 29 for he that casts down the boasting of the braggart
 is he that saves the man of downcast eyes.
 30 If a man is innocent, he will bring him freedom,
 and freedom for you if your hands are kept unstained.

God is far off, and evil is victorious

1 23 Job spoke next. He said:
 2 My lament is still rebellious,
 that heavy hand of his drags groans from me.
 3 If only I knew how to reach him,
 or how to travel to his dwelling!
 4 I should set out my case to him,
 my mouth would not want for arguments.
 5 Then I could learn his defence, every word of it,
 taking note of everything he said to me.
 6 Would he use all his strength in this debate with me?
 No, he would have to give me a hearing.

He would see he was contending with an honest man,
 and I should surely win my case. 7

If I go eastward, he is not there;
 or westward—still I cannot see him. 8

If I seek him in the north, he is not to be found, invisible still when I turn to the south. 9

And yet he knows of every step I take!
 Let him test me in the crucible: I shall come out pure gold. 10

My footsteps have followed close in his,
 I have walked in his way without swerving; 11

I have kept every commandment of his lips, cherishing the words from his mouth in my breast. 12

But once he has decided, who can change his mind?
 Whatever he plans, he carries out. 13

No doubt, then, but he will carry out my sentence,
 like so many other decrees that he has made. 14

That is why I am full of fear before him, and the more I think, the greater grows my dread of him. 15

God has made my heart sink,
 Shaddai has filled me with fear. 16

For darkness hides me from him,
 and the gloom veils his presence from me. 17

Why has not Shaddai his own store of times, and why do his faithful never see his Days?<sup>a</sup> 1

The wicked move boundary-marks away,
 they carry off flock and shepherd. 2

Some drive away the orphan's donkey,
 and take the widow's ox for a security. 3

Beggars, now, avoid the roads, and all the poor of the land must go into hiding. 4

Like wild donkeys in the desert, they go out, driven by the hunger of their children,
 to seek food on the barren steppes. 5

They must do the harvesting in the scoundrel's field, they must do the picking in the vineyards of the wicked. 6

They go about naked, lacking clothes,
 and starving while they carry the sheaves. 10

They have no stones for pressing oil, they tread the winepresses, yet they are parched with thirst. 11

They spend the night naked, lacking clothes, with no covering against the cold. 7

Mountain rainstorms cut them through,
 shelterless, they hug the rocks. 8

Fatherless children are robbed of their lands, and poor men have their cloaks seized as security. 9

From the towns come the groans of the dying
 and the gasp of wounded men crying for help. 12

Yet God remains deaf to their appeal!

Others of them hate the light,
 know nothing of its ways,
 avoid its paths. 13

When all is dark the murderer leaves his bed
 to kill the poor and needy. 14

All night long prowls the thief,
 breaking into houses while the darkness lasts. 15

15 The eye of the adulterer watches for twilight,
 'No one will see me' he mutters
 as he masks his face.
 16b In the daytime they go into hiding,
 these folk who have no love for the light.
 17 For all of them, morning is their darkest hour,
 because they know its terrors.
 25 Is this not so? Who can prove me a liar or show that my words have no substance?

A hymn to God's omnipotence

1 25 Bildad of Shuah spoke next. He said:
 2 What sovereignty, what awe, is his who keeps the peace in his heights!
 3 Can anyone number his armies,
 or boast of having escaped his ambushes?
 4 Could any man ever think himself innocent, when confronted by God?
 Born of woman, how could he ever be clean?
 5 The very moon lacks brightness,
 and the stars are unclean as he sees them.
 6 What, then, of man, maggot that he is,
 the son of man, a worm?
 5 26 The Shades tremble beneath the earth;
 the waters and their denizens are afraid.
 6 Before his eyes, Sheol is bare,
 Perdition<sup>a</sup> itself is uncovered.
 7 He it was who spread the North<sup>b</sup> above the void,
 and poised the earth on nothingness.
 8 He fastens up the waters in his clouds—
 the mists do not tear apart under their weight.
 9 He covers the face of the moon at the full,
 his mist he spreads over it.
 10 He has traced a ring on the surface of the waters,
 at the boundary between light and dark.
 11 The pillars of the heavens tremble,
 they are struck with wonder when he threatens them.
 12 With his power he calmed the Sea,
 with his wisdom struck Rahab down.
 13 His breath made the heavens luminous,
 his hand transfixed the Fleeing Serpent.
 14 All this but skirts the ways he treads,
 a whispered echo is all that we hear of him.
 But who could comprehend the thunder of his power?

Bildad's words are empty

1 Job spoke next. He said:
 2 To one so weak, what a help you are,
 for the arm that is powerless, what a rescuer!
 3 What excellent advice you give the unlearned,
 never at a loss for a helpful suggestion!

24 a. A 'store of times' could be used to lengthen a man's life and provide the opportunity to complete his punishment: 'his Days' would be like 'the Day of Yahweh', a time when he would assert his sovereignty in universal retribution.

26 a. 'Abaddon', perhaps originally a deity, here a synonym for Sheol, the underworld.

b. The 'fixed quarter' of the vault of the sky, on which the heavens were believed to revolve.

But who are they aimed at, these speeches of yours, and what spirit is this that comes out of you? 4

Job reaffirms his innocence while acknowledging God's power

27 And Job continued his solemn discourse. He said: 1
 I swear by the living God who denies me justice, 2
 by Shaddai who has turned my life sour, that as long as a shred of life is left in me, 3
 and the breath of God breathes in my nostrils, my lips shall never speak untruth, 4
 nor any lie be found on my tongue.
 Far from ever admitting you to be in the right: 5
 I will maintain my innocence to my dying day.
 I take my stand on my integrity, I will not stir: 6
 my conscience gives me no cause to blush for my life.
 May my enemy meet a criminal's end, 7
 and my opponent suffer with the guilty.
 For what hope, after all, has the godless when he prays, 8
 and raises his soul to God?
 Is God likely to hear his cries 9
 when disaster descends on him?
 Did he make Shaddai all his delight, 10
 calling on him at every turn?
 No: I am showing you how God's power works, 11
 making no secret of Shaddai's designs.
 And if you all had understood them for yourselves, 12
 you would not have wasted your breath in empty words.

The speech of Zophar: the accused

Here is the fate that God has in store for the wicked, 13 and the inheritance with which Shaddai endows the man of violence.
 A sword awaits his sons, however many they may be, 14
 and their children after them will go unfed.
 Plague will bury those he leaves behind him, 15
 and their widows will have no chance to mourn them.
 He may collect silver like dust, 16
 and gather fine clothes like clay.
 Let him gather! Some good man will wear them, 17
 while his silver is shared among the innocent.
 He has built himself a spider's web, 18
 made himself a watchman's shack.
 He goes to bed a rich man, but never again: 19
 he wakes to find not a penny left.
 Terrors attack him in broad daylight, 20
 and at night a whirlwind sweeps him off.
 An east wind picks him up and drags him away, 21
 snatching him up from his homestead.
 Pitilessly he is turned into a target, 22
 and forced to flee from the hands that menace him.
 His downfall is greeted with applause, 23
 and hissing meets him on every side.
 24 Headlong he flees from the daylight, 18a1
 he shrinks from the road which runs on the heights.
 The lands of his home are under a curse,
 for heat and drought dry up the waters 19:
 and scorch what is left of his corn.

- 20 The womb that shaped him forgets him
and his name is recalled no longer.
Thus wickedness is blasted as a tree is struck.
- 21 He used to be harsh to the barren, childless woman,
and show no kindness to the widow.
- 22 But he who lays mighty hold on tyrants
rises up to take away that life which seemed secure.
- 23 He let him build his hopes on false security,
but kept his eyes on every step he took.
- 24 The man had his time of glory, now he vanishes,
drooping like a mallow plucked from its bed,
and withering like an ear of corn.

A HYMN IN PRAISE OF WISDOM

JOB 28

Wisdom is beyond man's reach

- 1 28 Silver has its mines,
and gold a place for refining.
- 2 Iron is extracted from the earth,
the smelted rocks yield copper.
- 3 Man makes an end of darkness
when he pierces to the uttermost depths
the black and lightless rock.
- 4 Mines the lamp-folk dig
in places where there is no foothold,
and hang suspended far from mankind.
- 5 That earth from which bread comes is ravaged underground by fire.
- 6 Down there, the rocks are set with sapphires,
full of spangles of gold.
- 7 Down there is a path unknown to birds of prey,
unseen by the eye of any vulture;
- 8 a path not trodden by the lordly beasts,
where no lion ever walked.
- 9 Man attacks its flinty sides,
upturning mountains by their roots,
driving tunnels through the rocks,
on the watch for anything precious.
- 11 He explores the sources of rivers,<sup>4</sup>
and brings to daylight secrets that were hidden.
- 12 But tell me, where does wisdom come from?
Where is understanding to be found?
- 13 The road to it is still unknown to man,
not to be found in the land of the living.
- 14 'It is not in me' says the Abyss;
'Nor here' replies the Sea.
- 15 It cannot be bought with solid gold,
not paid for with any weight of silver,
- 16 nor be priced by the standard of the gold of Ophir,
or of precious onyx or sapphire.

28 a. In 'the waters under the earth', cf. 26:5.

No gold, no glass can match it in value, nor for a fine gold vase can it be bartered.	17
Nor is there need to mention coral, nor crystal; beside wisdom pearls are not worth the fishing.	18
Topaz from Cush is worthless in comparison, and gold, even refined, is valueless.	19
But tell me, where does wisdom come from? Where is understanding to be found?	20
It is outside the knowledge of every living thing, hidden from the birds in the sky.	21
Perdition and Death can only say, 'We have heard reports of it'.	22
God alone has traced its path and found out where it lives.	23
(For he sees to the ends of the earth, and observes all that lies under heaven.)	24
When he willed to give weight to the wind and measured out the waters with a gauge,	25
when he made the laws and rules for the rain and mapped a route for thunderclaps to follow,	26
then he had it in sight, and cast its worth, assessed it, fathomed it.	27
And he said to man, 'Wisdom? It is fear of the Lord. Understanding?—avoidance of evil.'	28

CONCLUSION OF THE DIALOGUE

JOB 29-31

Job's lament and final defence*a. His former happiness

29 And Job continued his solemn discourse. He said:	1
Who will bring back to me the months that have gone, and the days when God was my guardian, when his lamp shone over my head, and his light was my guide in the darkness?	2 3 4
Shall I ever see my autumn days again when God hedged round my tent; when Shaddai dwelt with me, and my children were around me;	5 6
when my feet were plunged in cream, and streams of oil poured from the rocks?	6
When I went out to the gate of the city, when I took my seat in the square, as soon as I appeared, the young men stepped aside, while the older men rose to their feet.	7 8
Men of note interrupted their speeches, and put their fingers on their lips; the voices of rulers were silenced, and their tongues stayed still in their mouths.	9 10
They waited anxiously to hear me, and listened in silence to what I had to say.	21

22 When I paused, there was no rejoinder,
 and my words dropped on them, one by one.
 23 They waited for me, as men wait for rain,
 open-mouthed, as if to catch the year's last showers.
 24 If I smiled at them, it was too good to be true,
 they watched my face for the least sign of favour.
 25 In a lordly style, I told them which course to take,
 and like a king amid his armies,
 I led them where I chose.

11 My praises echoed in every ear,
 and never an eye but smiled on me;
 12 because I freed the poor man when he called,
 and the orphan who had no one to help him.
 13 When men were dying, I it was who had their blessing;
 if widows' hearts rejoiced, that was my doing.
 14 I had dressed myself in righteousness like a garment;
 justice, for me, was cloak and turban.
 15 I was eyes for the blind,
 and feet for the lame.
 16 Who but I was father of the poor?
 The stranger's case had a hearing from me.
 17 I used to break the fangs of wicked men,
 and snatch their prey from between their jaws.

18 So I thought to myself, 'I shall die in honour,
 my days like a palm tree's for number.
 19 My roots thrust out to the water,
 my leaves freshened by the falling dew at night.
 20 My reputation will never fade,
 and the bow in my hands will gain new strength.'

b. His present misery

1 30 And now I am the laughing-stock of my juniors, the young people, whose fathers I did not consider fit
 to put with the dogs that looked after my flock.
 2 The strength of their hands would have been useless to me,
 enfeebled as they were,
 3 worn out by want and hunger.
 They used to gnaw the roots of desert plants,
 and brambles from abandoned ruins;
 4 and plucked mallow, and brushwood leaves,
 making their meals off roots of broom.
 5 Outlawed from the society of men,
 who, as against thieves, raised hue and cry against them, 6 they made their dwellings on ravines' steep sides,
 in caves or clefts in the rock.
 7 You could hear them wailing from the bushes,
 as they huddled together in the thistles.
 8 Their children are as worthless a brood as they were,
 nameless people, outcasts of society.
 9 And these are the ones that now sing ballads about me,
 and make me the talk of the town!
 10 To them I am loathsome, they stand aloof from me,
 do not scruple to spit in my face.

Because he has unbent my bow and chastened me
 they cast the bridle from their mouth. 11
 That brood of theirs rises to right of me, 12 stones are their weapons,
 and they take threatening strides towards me.
 They have cut me off from all escape, 13
 there is no one to check their attack.
 They move in, as though through a wide breach, 14
 and I am crushed beneath the rubble.
 Terrors turn to meet me, 15
 my confidence is blown away as if by the wind;
 my hope of safety passes like a cloud.

 And now the life in me trickles away, 16
 days of grief have gripped me.
 At night-time, sickness saps my bones, 17
 I am gnawed by wounds that never sleep.
 With immense power it has caught me by the clothes, 18
 clutching at the collar of my coat.
 It has thrown me into the mud 19
 where I am no better than dust and ashes.

 I cry to you, and you give me no answer; 20
 I stand before you, but you take no notice.
 You have grown cruel in your dealings with me, 21
 your hand lies on me, heavy and hostile.
 You carry me up to ride the wind, 22
 tossing me about in a tempest.
 I know it is to death that you are taking me, 23
 the common meeting place of all that lives.

 Yet have I ever laid a hand on the poor 24
 when they cried out for justice in calamity?
 Have I not wept for all whose life is hard, 25
 felt pity for the penniless?
 I hoped for happiness, but sorrow came; 26
 I looked for light, but there was darkness.
 My stomach seethes, is never still, 27
 for every day brings further suffering.
 Sombre I go, yet no one comforts me, 28
 and if I rise in the council, I rise to weep.
 I have become the jackal's brother 29
 and the ostrich's companion.
 My skin has turned black on me, 30
 my bones are burnt with fever.
 My harp is tuned to funeral wails, 31
 my flute to the voice of mourners.

Job's apologia<sup>a</sup>

31 I made a pact with my eyes, 1
 not to linger on any virgin.
 Now, what shares does God deal out on high, 2
 what lots does Shaddai assign from heaven,
 if not disaster for the wicked, 3
 and calamities for the iniquitous?
 But surely he sees how I behave, 4
 does he not count all my steps?

5 Have I been a fellow traveller with falsehood,
 or hastened my steps towards deceit?
 6 If he weighs me on honest scales,
 being God, he cannot fail to see my innocence.
 7 If my feet have wandered from the rightful path,
 or if my eyes have led my heart astray,
 or if my hands are smirched with any stain,
 8 let another eat what I have sown,
 and let my young shoots all be rooted out.
 9 If I ever lost my heart to any woman,
 or lurked at my neighbour's door,
 10 let my wife grind corn that is not mine,
 let her sleep between others' sheets.
 11 For I should have committed a sin of lust,
 a crime punishable by the law,
 12 and should have lit a fire burning till Perdition,
 which would have devoured all my harvesting.
 13 If ever I have infringed the rights of slave or maidservant in legal actions against me—14 what shall I do, when God stands up?
 What shall I say, when he holds his assize?
 15 They, no less than I, were created in the womb
 by the one same God who shaped us all within our mothers.
 16 If my land calls down vengeance on my head and every furrow runs with tears, 17 if without payment I have eaten fruit grown on it or given those who toiled there cause to groan, 18 let brambles grow where once was wheat,
 and foul weeds where barley thrived.
 19 Have I been insensible to poor men's needs,
 or let a widow's eyes grow dim?
 20 Or taken my share of bread alone,
 not giving a share to the orphan?
 21 I, whom God has fostered father-like, from childhood,
 and guided since I left my mother's womb.
 22 Have I ever seen a wretch in need of clothing,
 or a beggar going naked,
 23 without his having cause to bless me from his heart,
 as he felt the warmth of the fleece from my lambs?
 24 Have I raised my hand against the guiltless, presuming on my credit at the gate?
 25 If so, then let my shoulder fall from its socket,
 my arm be shattered at the joint.
 26 God's terror would indeed descend on me;
 how could I hold my ground before his majesty?
 27 Have I put all my trust in gold,
 from finest gold sought my security?
 28 Have I ever gloated over my great wealth,
 or the riches that my hands have won?
 29 Or has the sight of the sun in its glory,
 or the glow of the moon as it walked the sky, 30 stolen my heart, so that my hand
 blew them a secret kiss?

31 a. The form of this declaration, 'a conditional imprecation', is that required by law from an accused person pleading 'not guilty'.

That too would be a criminal offence, to have denied the supreme God.	28
Have I taken pleasure in my enemies' misfortunes, or made merry when disaster overtook them,	29
I who allowed my tongue to do no wrong, by cursing them or vowing them to death?	30
The people of my tent, did they not say, 'Is there a man he has not filled with meat?'	31
No stranger ever had to sleep outside, my door was always open to the traveller.	32
Have I ever hidden my sins from men, keeping my iniquity secret in my breast?	33
Have I ever stood so in fear of common gossip, or so dreaded any family's contempt, that I have been reduced to silence, not venturing out of doors?	34
Who can get me a hearing from God? I have had my say, from A to Z; now let Shaddai answer me.	35
When my adversary has drafted his writ against me I shall wear it on my shoulder, and bind it round my head like a royal turban.	36
I will give him an account of every step of my life, and go as boldly as a prince to meet him.	37
End of the words of Job.	40

THE SPEECHES OF ELIHU

JOB 32-37

Elihu joins the discussion

32 These three men said no more to Job, because he was convinced of his 1 innocence. •But another man was infuriated—Elihu son of Barachel the 2 Buzite, of the clan of Ram. He fumed with rage against Job for thinking that he was right and God was wrong; •and he was equally angry with the three 3 friends for giving up the argument and thus admitting that God could be unjust.
While they were speaking, Elihu had held himself back, because they were older 4 than he was; •but when he saw that the three men had not another word to say 5 in answer, his anger burst out. •Thus Elihu son of Barachel the Buzite spoke 6 next. He said:

Prologue

I am still young, and you are old, so I was shy, afraid, to tell you what I know.
I told myself, 'Old age should speak, advancing years will utter wisdom'.	7
But now I know that it is a breath in man, the inspiration of Shaddai, that gives discernment.	8
Great age does not give wisdom, nor longevity sound judgement.	9
And so I ask you for a hearing; now it is my turn to tell what I know.	10
There was a time when I hoped for much from your speeches: I gave your reasonings a ready hearing, and watched you choose your words.	11

- 12 I gave you all my attention, and I can say that no one gave Job the lie,
not one of you disproved his statements.
- 13 So do not dare to say that you have found wisdom,
or that your teaching is from God not man.
- 14 I am not going to follow the same line of argument;
my reply to Job will be couched in different terms.
- 15 They have been nonplussed, baffled for an answer,
words have failed them.
- 16 I have been waiting. Since they are silent, and have abandoned all efforts to reply, 17 now I will have my say,
my turn has come to say what I know.
- 18 For I am filled with words,
choked by the rush of them within me.
- 19 I have a feeling in my heart like new wine seeking a vent,
and bursting a brand-new wineskin.
- 20 Nothing will bring relief but speech,
I will open my mouth and give my answer.
- 21 I shall not show any partiality towards anyone,
nor heap on any fulsome flatteries.
- 22 I have no skill in flattery,
my creator would soon silence me otherwise.

Job's presumption

- 1 33 Now, Job, be kind enough to listen to my words,
and attend to all I have to say.
- 2 Now as I open my mouth,
and my tongue shapes words against my palate,
3 my heart shall utter sayings full of wisdom,
and my lips speak the honest truth.
- 4 Refute me, if you can.
Prepare your ground to oppose me.
- 5 See, I am your fellow man, not a god;
like you, I was fashioned out of clay.
- 6 God's breath it was that made me,
the breathing of Shaddai that gave me life.
- 7 Thus, no fear of me need disturb you,
my hand will not lie heavy over you.
- 8 How could you say in my hearing—
for the sound of your words did not escape me—9 'I am clean, and sinless,
I am pure, free of all fault.
- 10 Yet he is inventing grievances against me,
and imagining me his enemy.
- 11 He puts me in the stocks,
he watches my every step'?
- 12 In saying so, I tell you, you are wrong:
God does not fit man's measure.
- 13 Why do you rail at him
for not replying to you, word for word?
14 God speaks first in one way,
and then in another, but no one notices.
- 15 He speaks by dreams, and visions that come in the night,
when slumber comes on mankind,
and men are all asleep in bed.

Then it is he whispers in the ear of man, 16
     or may frighten him with fearful sights, to turn him away from evil-doing, 17
     and make an end of his pride;
 to save his soul from the pit 18
     and his life from the pathway to Sheol.
 With suffering, too, he corrects man on his sick-bed, 19
     when his bones keep trembling with palsy;
 when his whole self is revolted by food, 20
     and his appetite spurns dainties;
 when his flesh rots as you watch it, 21
     and his bare bones begin to show;
 when his soul is drawing near to the pit, 22
     and his life to the dwelling of the dead.
 Then there is an Angel by his side, 23
     a Mediator, chosen out of thousands,
 to remind a man where his duty lies,
     to take pity on him and to say, 24
 'Release him from descent into the pit,
     for I have found a ransom for his life';
 his flesh recovers the bloom of its youth, 25
     he lives again as he did when he was young.
 He prays to God who has restored him to favour, 26
     and comes, in happiness, to see his face.
 He publishes far and wide the news of his vindication,
     singing before his fellow men this hymn of praise, 27
 'I sinned and left the path of right,
     but God has not punished me as my sin deserved.
 He has spared my soul from going down into the pit, 28
     and is allowing my life to continue in the light.'
 All this God does 29
     again and yet again for man, rescuing his soul from the pit, 30
     and letting the light of life shine bright on him.
 Job, give me your attention, listen well; 31
     keep silence: I have more to say.
 If you have anything to say, refute me, 32
     speak out, for I would gladly recognise your innocence.
 If you have not, then listen: 33
     keep silence, while I teach you wisdom.

The three Sages have failed to justify God

34 Elihu continued his speech. He said: 1
 You men of wisdom, listen to my words: 2
     lend me your ears, you learned men.
 The ear is a judge of speeches, 3
     just as the palate can tell one food from another.
 Let us discover together where justice lies, 4
     and settle among us what is best.
 Now Job has said, 'I am in the right, 5
     and God refuses to grant me justice.
 The judge who judges me is ill-disposed, 6 and though I have not sinned, my wounds are past all cure.'
 Are there many men like Job, 7
     who drink scurrility like water,

8 who keep company with evil-doers,
and march in step with the wicked?
9 Did he not say it was useless
for man to try to please God?

10 Listen then to me, like intelligent men.
So far is God removed from wickedness,
and Shaddai from injustice, 11 that he requites a man for what he does,
treating each one as his way of life deserves.
12 God never does wrong, do not doubt that!
Shaddai does not deflect the course of right.
13 It is not as if someone else had given him the earth in trust,
or confided the whole universe to his care.
14 Were he to recall his breath,
to draw his breathing back into himself, 15 things of flesh would perish all together,
and man would return to dust.
16 If you have any intelligence, listen to this,
and lend your ear to what I have to say.
17 Could an enemy of justice ever govern?
Would you dare condemn the Just One, the Almighty, 18 who can tell kings that they are good for nothing,
and treat noblemen like criminals, 19 who shows no partiality to princes and makes no distinction between the rich and the poor,
all alike being made by his own hands?
20 They die, they are gone in an instant,
great though they are, they perish in the dead of night:
it costs him no effort to remove a tyrant.
21 His eyes, you see, keep watch on all men's ways,
and he observes their every step.
22 Not darkness, nor the deepest shadow,
can hide the wrong-doer.
23 He serves no writ on men
summoning them to appear before God's court:
24 he smashes great men's power without enquiry and sets up others in their places.
25 He knows well enough what they are about,
and one fine night he throws them down for men to trample on.
26 He strikes them down for their wickedness,
and makes them prisoners for all to see.

27 You may say, 'They have so turned from him,
and so ignored his ways,
28 that the poor have cried out to him against them
and the wailing of the humble has assailed his ears, 29 yet he is unmoved, and nothing can touch him;
he hides his face and nobody can see him'.
But nonetheless he does take pity on nations and on men,
30 freeing the godless man from the meshes of distress.
31 If such a man says to God,
'I was led astray, I will sin no more.
32 If I did wrong, tell me about it,
if I have been unjust, I will be so no more'— 33 in such a case, do you think he ought to punish him,
you who reject his decisions?

Since it is you who make this choice, not I,
 let us all share your knowledge!
 But this is what all sensible folk will say, 34
 and any wise man among my hearers,
 'There is no wisdom in Job's speech, 35
 his words lack sense.
 Put him unsparingly to the proof 36
 since his retorts are the same as those that the wicked make.
 For to sin he adds rebellion, 37
 calling justice into question in our midst
 and heaping abuse on God.'

God is not indifferent to what happens on earth

35 Elihu continued his speech. He said: 1
 Do you presume to maintain that you are in the right, 2
 to insist on your innocence before God, even to ask him, 'How does it affect you, 3
 what harm has it done you if I have sinned?'
 Well then, this is how I will answer you, 4
 and your friends as well.
 Look up at the skies, look at them well, 5
 and see how high the clouds are above you.
 If you sin, what do you achieve against him? 6
 If you heap up crimes, what is the injury you do him?
 If you are just, what do you give him, 7
 what benefit does he receive at your hands?
 Your fellow men are the ones to suffer from your crimes, 8 humanity is the gainer if you are good.
 When people groan under the weight of oppression, 9 or cry out under the tyranny of the mighty,
 no one thinks to ask, 'Where is God, my maker, 10
 who makes glad songs ring out at dead of night,
 who makes us cleverer than the earth's wild beasts, 11
 wiser than the birds in the sky?'
 Then they cry aloud, but he does not answer 12
 because of man's base pride.
 How idle to maintain that God is deaf, 13
 that Shaddai notices nothing!
 You even claim, 'He does not see me: 14
 my cause is exposed before him, and yet I wait and wait'.
 Or even, 'His anger never punishes, 15
 he does not seem to know of men's rebellion'.
 Hence when Job opens his mouth, it is for idle talk: 16
 his spate of words comes out of ignorance.

The real meaning of Job's sufferings

36 Elihu went on speaking. He said: 1
 Be patient with me a little longer while I explain, 2
 for I have more to say on God's behalf.
 I will range far afield for my arguments 3
 to prove my Maker just.
 What I say contains no fallacies, I assure you, 4
 you see before you an enlightened man.
 God does not spurn the blameless man 5

6 or let the sinner live on in all his power.
 He accords justice to the poor,
 7 and upholds the good man's rights.
 When he raises kings to thrones,
 if they grow proud of their unending sway,
 8 then he fetters them with chains,
 binding them in the bondage of distress.
 9 He shows them all that they have done,
 and all the sins of pride they have committed.
 10 He whispers a message in their ears,
 urging them to amend themselves.
 11 If they listen and do as he says,
 their days end in happiness,
 and their closing years are full of ease.
 12 If not, then a thunderbolt destroys them,
 and death comes on them unawares.
 13 Yes the stubborn who cherish anger,
 and when he shackles them, do not ask for help:
 14 they die in their youth,
 or lead a life despised by all.
 15 The wretched, however, he saves by their very wretchedness,
 and uses distress to open their eyes.
 16 For you, no less, he plans relief from sorrow.
 Once you lived in luxury unbounded,
 with rich food piled high on your table.
 17 But you did not execute justice on the wicked,
 you cheated orphaned children of their rights.
 18 In future beware of being led astray by riches,
 or corrupted by fat bribes.
 19 Prosecute the rich, not merely the penniless;
 strong-armed men as well as those who are powerless.
 20 Do not trample on those you do not know
 to install your relations in their place.
 21 Avoid any tendency to wrong-doing,
 for such has been the true cause of your trials.

A hymn to God's wisdom and omnipotence

22 Look, by reason of his power God is supreme,
 what teacher can be compared with him?
 23 Who has ever told him which course to take,
 or dared to say to him, 'You have done wrong'?
 24 Turn your mind rather to praising his works,
 a theme that many men have sung:
 25 a sight that everyone can see,
 that man may gaze on from afar.
 26 Yes, the greatness of God exceeds our knowledge,
 the number of his years is past computing.
 27 He it is who keeps the raindrops back,
 dissolving the showers into mist, 28 which otherwise the clouds would spill
 in floods over all mankind.
 31 Thanks to them he nourishes the nations
 with generous gifts of food.
 29 And who can fathom how he spreads the clouds,
 or why such crashes thunder from his tent?
 30 He spreads out the mist, wrapping it about him,

37

and covers the tops of the mountains.
He gathers up the lightning in his hands,	32
choosing the mark it is to reach;
his thunder gives warning of its coming:	33
wrath overtakes iniquity.
At this my own heart quakes,	1
and leaps from its place.
Listen, oh listen, to the blast of his voice	2
and the sound that blares from his mouth.
He hurls his lightning below the span of heaven,	3
it strikes to the very ends of the earth.
After it comes the roar of his voice,	4
the peal of God's majestic thunder.
He does not check his thunderbolts
until his voice resounds no more.
No doubt of it, but God reveals wonders,	5
and does great deeds that we cannot understand.
When he says to the snow, 'Fall on the earth'	6
or tells the rain to pour down in torrents,
he brings all men's strivings to a standstill	7
so that each must acknowledge his hand at work.
All the beasts go back to their dens,	8
taking shelter in their lairs.
The storm wind comes from the Mansion of the South,	9
and the north winds usher in the cold.
God breathes, and the ice is there,	10
the surface of the waters freezes over.
He weighs the clouds down with moisture,	11
and the storm clouds radiate his lightning.
He himself guides their wheeling motion	12
directing all their seasonal changes:
they carry out his orders to the letter
all over his inhabited world.
Whether for punishing earth's peoples	13
or for a work of mercy, he despatches them.
Listen to all this Job: no backsliding now!	14
Meditate on God's wonders.
Can you tell how God controls them	15
or how his clouds make the lightning flash?
Can you tell how he holds the clouds in balance:	16
a miracle of consummate skill?
When your clothes are hot to your body	17
and the earth lies still under the south wind,
can you help him to spread the vault of heaven,	18
or temper that mirror of cast metal?
Tell me what to say to him:	19
. . . . .
Can my words carry weight with him?	20
Do man's commands reach his ears?
There are times when the light vanishes	21
behind darkening clouds;
then comes the wind, sweeping them away,
and brightness spreads from the north.	22
God is clothed in fearful splendour:
he, Shaddai, is far beyond our reach.	23
Supreme in power, in equity,

24           excelling in justice, yet no oppressor—
no wonder that men fear him,
              and thoughtful men hold him in awe.

THE SPEECHES OF YAHWEH

JOB 38:1—42:6

FIRST SPEECH

Job must bow to the creator's wisdom

1 38 Then from the heart of the tempest Yahweh gave Job his answer.
He said:

2           Who is this obscuring my designs
              with his empty-headed words?

3           Brace yourself like a fighter;
              now it is my turn to ask questions and yours to inform me.

4           Where were you when I laid the earth's foundations?
              Tell me, since you are so well-informed!

5           Who decided the dimensions of it, do you know?
              Or who stretched the measuring line across it?

6           What supports its pillars at their bases?
              Who laid its cornerstone

7           when all the stars of the morning were singing with joy, and the Sons of God in chorus were chanting praise?

8           Who pent up the sea behind closed doors
              when it leapt tumultuous out of the womb,

9           when I wrapped it in a robe of mist
              and made black clouds its swaddling bands;

10          when I marked the bounds it was not to cross
              and made it fast with a bolted gate?

11          Come thus far, I said, and no farther:
              here your proud waves shall break.

12          Have you ever in your life given orders to the morning or sent the dawn to its post,

13          telling it to grasp the earth by its edges
              and shake the wicked out of it,

14          when it changes the earth<sup>a</sup> to sealing clay and dyes it as a man dyes clothes;

15          stealing the light from wicked men<sup>b</sup>
              and breaking the arm raised to strike?

16          Have you journeyed all the way to the sources of the sea, or walked where the Abyss is deepest?

17          Have you been shown the gates of Death or met the janitors of Shadowland?

18          Have you an inkling of the extent of the earth?
              Tell me all about it if you have!

19          Which is the way to the home of the light,
              and where does darkness live?

20          You could then show them the way to their proper places, or put them on the path to where they live!

38 a. The 'clay' is red in colour.   b. The light, or natural element, of the wicked, is the darkness of night.

- If you know all this, you must have been born with them,
you must be very old by now! 21
- Have you ever visited the place where the snow is kept,
or seen where the hail is stored up, 22
which I keep for times of stress, for days of battle and war? 23
- From which direction does the lightning fork
when it scatters sparks over the earth? 24
- Who carves a channel for the downpour, and hacks a way for the rolling thunder, 25
so that rain may fall on lands where no one lives,
and the deserts void of human dwelling, 26
giving drink to the lonely wastes 27
and making grass spring where everything was dry?
- Has the rain a father? 28
Who begets the dewdrops?
- What womb brings forth the ice,
and gives birth to the frost of heaven, 29
when the waters grow hard as stone 30
and the surface of the deep congeals?
- Can you fasten the harness of the Pleiades,
or untie Orion's bands? 31
- Can you guide the morning star season by season 32
and show the Bear and its cubs which way to go?
- Have you grasped the celestial laws? 33
Could you make their writ run on the earth?
- Can your voice carry as far as the clouds 34
and make the pent-up waters do your bidding?
- Will lightning flashes come at your command 35
and answer, 'Here we are'?
- Who gave the ibis wisdom 36
and endowed the cock with foreknowledge?'
- Whose skill details every cloud 37 and tilts the flasks of heaven 38
until the soil cakes into a solid mass
and clods of earth cohere together?
- Do you find a prey for the lioness 39
and satisfy the hunger of her whelps
when they crouch in their dens 40
and lurk in their lairs?
- Who makes provision for the raven 41
when his squabs cry out to God
and crane their necks in hunger?
- Do you know how mountain goats give birth, 1
or have you ever watched the hinds in labour?
- How many months do they carry their young? 2
At what time do they give birth?
- They crouch to drop their young, 3
and let their burdens fall in the open desert;
and when the calves have grown and gathered strength 4
they leave them, never to return.
- Who gave the wild donkey his freedom, 5
and untied the rope from his proud neck?
- I have given him the desert as a home, 6

- the salt plains as his own habitat.
 7 He scorns the turmoil of the town:
     there are no shouts from a driver for him to listen for.
 8 The mountains are the pastures that he ranges
     in quest of any type of green blade or leaf.
 9 Is the wild ox willing to serve you or spend a night beside your manger?
 10 If you tie a rope round his neck
     will he harrow the furrows for you?
 11 Can you rely on his massive strength and leave him to do your heavy work?
 12 Can you depend on him to come home carrying your grain to your threshing-floor?
 13 Can the wing of the ostrich be compared with the plumage of the stork or falcon?
 14 She leaves her eggs on the ground with only earth to warm them;
 15 forgetting that a foot may tread on them
     or a wild beast may crush them.
 16 Cruel to her chicks as if they were not hers,
     little she cares if her labour goes for nothing.
 17 God, you see, has made her unwise,
     and given her no share of common sense.
 18 Yet, if she bestirs herself to use her height,
     she can make fools of horse and rider too.
 19 Are you the one who makes the horse so brave and covers his neck with flowing hair?
 20 Do you make him leap like a grasshopper?
     His proud neighing spreads terror far and wide.
 21 Exultantly he paws the soil of the valley,
     and prances eagerly to meet the clash of arms.
 22 He laughs at fear; he is afraid of nothing,
     he recoils before no sword.
 23 On his back the quiver rattles,
     the flashing spear and javelin.
 24 Quivering with impatience, he eats up the miles;
     when the trumpet sounds, there is no holding him.
 25 At each trumpet blast he shouts 'Hurrah!'
     He scents the battle from afar,
     hearing the thundering of chiefs, the shouting.
 26 Does the hawk take flight on your advice
     when he spreads his wings to travel south?
 27 Does the eagle soar at your command to make her eyrie in the heights?
 28 She spends her nights among the crags
     with an unclimbed peak as her redoubt 29 from which she watches for prey, fixing it with her far-ranging eye.
 30 She feeds her young on blood:
     wherever men fall dying, there she is.

38 c. Both birds credited with foresight: the ibis heralds the flooding of the Nile, the cock announces the dawn.

40	Then Yahweh turned to Job, and he said:	1 31
	Is Shaddai's opponent willing to give in?	2
	Has God's critic thought up an answer?	32
	Job replied to Yahweh:	3 33
	My words have been frivolous: what can I reply?	4
	I had better lay my finger on my lips.	34
	I have spoken once . . . I will not speak again;	5
	more than once . . . I will add nothing.	35

SECOND SPEECH

God is master of the forces of evil

	Yahweh gave Job his answer from the heart of the tempest. He said:	6 1
	Brace yourself like a fighter,	7 2
	now it is my turn to ask questions and yours to inform me.	8
	Do you really want to reverse my judgement,	3
	and put me in the wrong to put yourself in the right?	9
	Has your arm the strength of God's,	4
	can your voice thunder as loud?	10
	If so, assume your dignity, your state,	5
	robe yourself in majesty and splendour.	11
	Let the spate of your anger flow free;	12
	humiliate the haughty at a glance!	7
	Cast one look at the proud and bring them low,	13
	strike down the wicked where they stand.	8
	Bury the lot of them in the ground,	14
	shut them, silent-faced, in the dungeon.	9
	I myself will be the first to acknowledge	14
	that your own right hand can assure your triumph.

Behemoth

	Now think of Behemoth;	15 10
	he eats greenstuff like the ox.	16
	But what strength he has in his loins,	11
	what power in his stomach muscles!	17
	His tail is as stiff as a cedar,	12
	the sinews of his thighs are tightly knit.	18
	His vertebrae are bronze tubing,	13
	his bones as hard as hammered iron.	19
	He is the masterpiece of all God's work,	14
	but his Maker threatened him with the sword,	20
	forbidding him the mountain regions	15
	where all the wild beasts have their playground.	21
	So he lies beneath the lotus,	16
	and hides among the reeds in the swamps.	22
	The leaves of the lotus give him shade,	17
	the willows by the stream shelter him.	23
	Should the river overflow on him, why should he worry?	18
	A Jordan could pour down his throat without his caring.	24
	So who is going to catch him by the eyes	19
	or drive a peg through his nostrils?

Leviathan

25 Leviathan, too! Can you catch him with a fish-hook
 20 or run a line round his tongue?
 26 Can you put a ring through his nose
 21 or pierce his jaw with a hook?
 27 Will he plead and plead with you,
 22 will he coax you with smooth words?
 28 Will he strike a bargain with you
 23 to become your slave for life?
 29 Will you make a pet of him, like a bird,
 24 keep him on a lead to amuse your maids?
 30 Is he to be sold by the fishing guild
 25 and then retailed by merchants?
 31 Riddle his hide with darts?
 26 Prod his head with a harpoon?
 32 You have only to lay a finger on him
 27 never to forget the struggle or risk it again!
 1 41 Any hopes you might have would prove vain,
 28 for the mere sight of him would stagger you.
 2 When roused, he grows ferocious,
 1 no one can face him in a fight.
 3 Who can attack him with impunity?
 2 No one beneath all heaven.
 4 Next I will talk of his limbs
 3 and describe his matchless strength.
 5 Who can unloose the front of his coat
 4 or pierce the double armour of his breastplate?
 6 Who dare open the gates of his mouth?
 5 Terror dwells in those rows of teeth!
 7 His back is like rows of shields,
 6 sealed with a seal of stone,
 8 touching each other so close
 7 that not a breath could pass between;
 9 sticking to one another
 8 to make an indivisible whole.
 10 When he sneezes, light leaps forth,
 9 his eyes are like the eyelids of the dawn.
 11 From his mouth come fiery torches,
 10 sparks of fire fly out of it.
 12 His nostrils belch smoke
 11 like a cauldron boiling on the fire.
 13 His breath could kindle coals,
 12 so hot a flame issues from his mouth.
 14 Strength has made a home in his neck,
 13 fear leaps before him as he goes.
 17 When he stands up, the waves themselves take fright,
 16 the billows of the sea retreat.
 15 The folds of his flesh stick together,
 14 firmly set in it, immovable.
 16 His heart is as hard as rock
 15 unyielding as a millstone.
 18 Sword may strike him, but cannot pierce him;
 17 no more can spear, javelin or lance.
 19 Iron means no more to him than straw,
 18 nor bronze than rotten wood.

The arrow does not make him run, sling stones he treats as wisps of hay.	20 19
A club strikes him like a reed, he laughs at the whirring javelin.	21 20
He has sharp potsherds underneath, and moves across the slime like a harrow.	22 21
He churns the depths into a seething cauldron, he makes the sea fume like a scent burner.	23 22
Behind him he leaves a glittering wake— a white fleece seems to float on the deeps.	24 23
He has no equal on earth, being created without fear.	25 24
He looks the haughtiest in the eye; of all the sons of pride he is the king.	26 25

Job's final answer

42 This was the answer Job gave to Yahweh:	1
I know that you are all-powerful: what you conceive, you can perform.	2
I am the man who obscured your designs with my empty-headed words.	3
I have been holding forth on matters I cannot understand, on marvels beyond me and my knowledge.
(Listen, I have more to say, now it is my turn to ask questions and yours to inform me.)	4
I knew you then only by hearsay; but now, having seen you with my own eyes,	5
I retract all I have said, and in dust and ashes I repent.	6

EPILOGUE

JOB 42:7-17

Yahweh rebukes the three Sages

When Yahweh had said all this to Job, he turned to Eliphaz of Teman. 7
 'I burn with anger against you and your two friends' he said 'for not speaking 8 truthfully about me as my servant Job has done. •So now find seven bullocks 8 and seven rams, and take them back with you to my servant Job and offer a 9 holocaust for yourselves, while Job, my servant, offers prayers for you. I will 10 listen to him with favour and excuse your folly in not speaking of me properly 11
 as my servant Job has done.' •Eliphaz of Teman, Bildad of Shuah and Zophar 12 of Naamath went away to do as Yahweh had ordered, and Yahweh listened to 13 Job with favour.

Yahweh restores Job's fortunes

Yahweh restored Job's fortunes, because he had prayed for his friends. 10
 More than that, Yahweh gave him double what he had before. •And all his 11 brothers and all his sisters and all his friends of former times came to see him 12 and sat down at table with him. They showed him every sympathy, and 13 comforted him for all the evils Yahweh had inflicted on him. Each of them gave 14 him a silver coin, and each a gold ring. •Yahweh blessed Job's new fortune 15 even more than his first one. He came to own fourteen thousand sheep, six 16 thousand camels, a thousand yoke of oxen and a thousand she-donkeys. •He had 17

- 14 seven sons and three daughters; •his first daughter he called 'Turtledove', the 15 second 'Cassia' and the third 'Mascara'. •Throughout the land there were no women as beautiful as the daughters of Job. And their father gave them inheritance rights like their brothers.
- 16 After his trials, Job lived on until he was a hundred and forty years old, and 17 saw his children and his children's children up to the fourth generation. •Then Job died, an old man and full of days.

ECCLESIASTES

- <sup>1</sup> 1 The words of Qoheleth<sup>a</sup> son of David, king in Jerusalem. •Vanity of 3 1 vanities, Qoheleth says. Vanity of vanities. All is vanity! •For all his toil, his toil under the sun, what does man gain by it?

PART ONE

Prologue

- 4 A generation goes, a generation comes, yet the earth stands firm for ever.
<sup>5</sup> 5 The sun rises, the sun sets; then to its place it speeds and there it rises. •Southward goes the wind, then turns to the north; it turns and turns again; back then to its 7 circling goes the wind. •Into the sea all the rivers go, and yet the sea is never 8 filled, and still to their goal the rivers go. •All things are wearisome. No man 9 can say that eyes have not had enough of seeing, ears their fill of hearing. •What was will be again; what has been done will be done again; and there is nothing 10 new under the sun. •Take anything of which it may be said, 'Look now, this 11 is new'. Already, long before our time, it existed. •Only no memory remains of earlier times, just as in times to come next year itself will not be remembered.

The career of Solomon

- <sup>12</sup> 12 I, Qoheleth, have reigned in Jerusalem over Israel. •With the help of wisdom
 13 I have been at pains to study all that is done under heaven; oh, what a weary 14 task God has given mankind to labour at! •I have seen everything that is done under the sun, and what vanity it all is, what chasing of the wind!

- 15 What is twisted cannot be straightened,
 what is not there cannot be counted.

- 16 I thought to myself, 'I have acquired a greater stock of wisdom than any of my predecessors in Jerusalem. I have great experience of wisdom and learning.' 17 Wisdom has been my careful study; stupidity, too, and folly. And now I have come to recognise that even this is chasing of the wind.

- 18 Much wisdom, much grief,
 the more knowledge, the more sorrow.

- 1 2 I thought to myself, 'Very well, I will try pleasure and see what enjoyment
 2 has to offer'. And there it was: vanity again! •This laughter, I reflected, is a 3 madness, this pleasure no use at all. •I resolved to have my body cheered with wine, my heart still devoted to wisdom; I resolved to embrace folly to see what made mankind happy, and what men do under heaven in the few days they 4 have to live. •I did great things: built myself palaces, planted vineyards; •made

myself gardens and orchards, planting every kind of fruit tree in them. •I had 6 pools made for watering the plantations; •bought men slaves, women slaves; 7 had home-born slaves as well; herds and flocks I had too, more than anyone in Jerusalem before me. •I amassed silver and gold, the treasures of kings and 8 provinces; acquired singing men and singing women and every human luxury, chest on chest of it. •So I grew great, greater than anyone in Jerusalem before 9 me; nor did my wisdom leave me. •I denied my eyes nothing they desired, 10 refused my heart no pleasure, a heart that found all my hard work a pleasure;
 such was the return I got for all my efforts. •I then reflected on all that my hands 11 had achieved and on all the effort I had put into its achieving. What vanity it all is, and chasing of the wind! There is nothing to be gained under the sun.

My reflections then turned to wisdom, stupidity, folly. For instance, what 12 can the successor of a king do? What has been done already. •More is to be 13 had from wisdom than from folly, as from light than from darkness; this, of course, I see:

The wise man sees ahead, 14
 the fool walks in the dark.

No doubt! But I know, too, that one fate awaits them both. •‘The fool’s fate’ 15
 I thought to myself ‘will be my fate too. Of what use my wisdom, then? This, too,’ I thought ‘is vanity.’ •Since there is no lasting memory for wise man or 16 for fool, and in the days to come both will be forgotten; wise man, alas, no less than fool must die. •Life I have come to hate, for what is done under the 17
 sun disgusts me, since all is vanity and chasing of the wind. •All I have toiled 18 for and now bequeath to my successor I have come to hate; •who knows whether 19 he will be a wise man or a fool? Yet he will be master of all the work into which I have put my efforts and wisdom under the sun. That, too, is vanity. •And 20 hence I have come to despair of all the efforts I have expended under the sun.
 For so it is that a man who has laboured wisely, skilfully and successfully must 21 leave what is his own to someone who has not toiled for it at all. This, too, is vanity and great injustice; •for what does he gain for all the toil and strain 22 that he has undergone under the sun? •What of all his laborious days, his cares 23 of office, his restless nights? This, too, is vanity.

There is no happiness for man but to eat and drink and to be content with 24 his work. This, too, I see as something from God’s hand, •since plenty and 25 penury both come from God; •wisdom, knowledge, joy, he gives to the man 26 who pleases him; on the sinner lays the task of gathering and storing up for another who is pleasing to God. This, too, is vanity and chasing of the wind.

Death

3 There is a season for everything, a time for every occupation under heaven: 1
 A time for giving birth, 2
 a time for dying;
 a time for planting,
 a time for uprooting what has been planted.
 A time for killing, 3
 a time for healing;
 a time for knocking down,
 a time for building.
 A time for tears, 4
 a time for laughter;
 a time for mourning,
 a time for dancing.
 A time for throwing stones away, 5
 a time for gathering them up;
 a time for embracing,

a time to refrain from embracing.

- 6 A time for searching,
a time for losing;
a time for keeping,
a time for throwing away.
- 7 A time for tearing,
a time for sewing;
a time for keeping silent,
a time for speaking.
- 8 A time for loving,
a time for hating;
a time for war,
a time for peace.

9 What does a man gain for the efforts that he makes? •I contemplate the task
10 that God gives mankind to labour at. •All that he does is apt for its time; but 11 though he has permitted man to consider time in its wholeness, man cannot comprehend the work of God from beginning to end.

12 I know there is no happiness for man except in pleasure and enjoyment while 13 he lives. •And when man eats and drinks and finds happiness in his work, this is a gift from God.

14 I know that what God does he does consistently. To this nothing can be 15 added, from this nothing taken away; yet God sees to it that men fear him. •What is, already was; what is to be, has been already; yet God cares for the persecuted.
16 But I still observe that under the sun crime is where law should be, the criminal
17 where the good should be. •'God' I thought to myself 'will judge both virtuous 18 and criminal, because there is a time here for all that is purposed or done.' •I also thought that mankind behaves like this so that God may show them up for what 19 they are, and expose them for the brute beasts they are to each other. •Indeed, the fate of man and beast is identical; one dies, the other too, and both have the selfsame breath; man has no advantage over the beast, for all is vanity.
20 Both go to the same place; both originate from the dust and to the dust both 21 return. •Who knows if the spirit of man mounts upward or if the spirit of the beast goes down to the earth?

22 I see there is no happiness for man but to be happy in his work, for this is the lot assigned him. Who then can bring him to see what is to happen after his time?

Society

1 4 I come again to contemplate all the oppression that is committed under the sun. Take for instance the tears of the oppressed, with no one to protect 2 them; the power their oppressors wield. No one to protect them! •So, rather than the living who still have lives to live, I salute the dead who have already 3 met death; •happier than both of these is he who is yet unborn and has not seen
4 the evil things that are done under the sun. •I see that all effort and all achievement spring from men's mutual jealousy. This, too, is vanity and chasing of the wind.

5 The fool folds his arms
and eats his own flesh away.

6 —Better one handful of repose
than two hands full of effort

7 in chasing the wind. •And I observe another vanity under the sun: •a man
8 is quite alone—no son, no brother; and yet there is no end to his efforts, his eyes can never have their fill of riches. For whom, then, do I work so hard and grudge myself pleasure? This, too, is vanity, a sorry business.

Better two than one by himself, since thus their work is really profitable. 9
 If one should fall, the other helps him up; but woe to the man by himself with 10
 no one to help him up when he falls down. •Again: they keep warm who sleep 11 two together, but how can a man keep warm alone? •Where one alone would be 12 overcome, two will put up resistance; and a threefold cord is not quickly broken.

Better a lad beggarly yet wise, 13
 than a king old yet foolish

who will no longer take advice. •The lad may well step from prison to the throne, 14 or have been born a beggar in the kingdom he now owns. •I observe that all who 15 live and move under the sun side with that lad, the usurper who has succeeded.
 He takes his place at the head of innumerable subjects; sad, if later no one has 16 cause to be glad of him. This too, most certainly, is vanity and chasing of the wind.

When you go to the Temple, be on your guard. Go near so that you can 17 hear; the sacrifice is more valuable than the offering of fools, even if they are unaware of doing wrong.

5 Be in no hurry to speak; do not hastily declare yourself before God; for God 1 is in heaven, you on earth. Be sparing, then, of speech:

Dreaming comes from much worrying, 2
 foolish talk from a multiplicity of words.

If you make a vow to God, discharge it without delay, for God has no love for 3 fools. Discharge your vow. •Better a vow unmade than made and not discharged. 4
 Do not allow your own words to bring guilt on you, nor tell your angel afterwards 5 it was unintentional. Why should a word of yours give God occasion to be angry, and destroy what your hands have worked for?

For every dream, a vanity to match; 6
 too many words, a chasing of the wind.

Therefore, fear God.

If in a province you see the poor oppressed, right and justice violated, do not 7 be surprised. You will be told that officials are under the supervision of superiors, who are supervised in turn; •you will hear talk of 'the common good' and 'the 8 service of the king'.

Money

He who loves money never has money enough, 9
 he who loves wealth never has enough profit;

this, too is vanity.

Where goods abound, 10
 parasites abound;

and what is the good of them to their owner? That he can feast his eyes on them. •The labourer's sleep is sweet, whether he has eaten little or much; but 11
 the rich man's wealth will not let him sleep at all. •There is a great injustice 12 that I observe under the sun: riches stored and turning to loss for their owner.
 One unlucky venture, and those riches are lost; a son is born to him, and he has 13
 nothing to leave him. •Naked from his mother's womb he came, as naked as 14
 he came he will depart again; nothing to take with him after all his efforts. •This 15 is a grievous wrong, that as he came, so must he go; what profit can he show after toiling to earn the wind, •as he spends the rest of his days in darkness, 16 grief, worry, sickness and resentment?

This, then, is my conclusion: the right happiness for man is to eat and drink 17 and be content with all the work he has to do under the sun, during the few days God has given him to live, since this is the lot assigned him. •And whenever 18
 God gives a man riches and property, with the ability to enjoy them and to find

19 contentment in his work, this is a gift from God. •He will not need to brood, at least, over the duration of his life so long as God keeps his heart occupied with joy.

<sup>1</sup> 6 There is an evil I observe under the sun, that weighs men down: •suppose a man has received from God riches, property, honours—nothing at all left him to wish for. Yet God does not give him the chance to enjoy them, but some 3 stranger enjoys them. There is vanity here, and grievous suffering. •Or perhaps a man has had a hundred sons and as many daughters and lived for many years, and then derives no benefit from his estate, not even a tomb to call his own. Why then I say, better the untimely-born than he:

4 In darkness arriving,
 in darkness departing;
 even his name is wrapped in darkness.

5 Never seeing the sun,
 never knowing rest;

6 the one no more than the other. •Even if the man had lived a thousand years twice over, without deriving profit from his estate, do not both alike go to the same place?

7 Man toils but to eat,
 yet his belly is never filled.

8 What advantage has the wise man over the fool? And what about the pauper 9 who keeps up appearances before his fellow men? •Do appearances count more than the condition of the belly? This, too, is vanity and chasing of the wind.
 10 What has been already has a name; and what man is, is known; he cannot 11 dispute with one stronger than himself. •The more words, the greater the vanity of it all; and what does man get from it?

<sup>12</sup> 7 Who knows what is good for man in his lifetime, in those few days he lives so vainly, days that like a shadow he spends? Who can tell a man what will happen under the sun after his time?

PART TWO

Prologue

<sup>1</sup> 7 Better a good name than costly oil,
 the day of death than the day of birth.
 2 Better go to the house of mourning
 3 than to the house of feasting;
 for to this end all men come,
 let the living take this to heart.
 4 Better sadness than laughter,
 a severe face confers some benefit.
 5 The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning,
 the heart of fools in the house of gaiety.
 6 Better attend to a wise man's reprimand
 than listen to a song sung by a fool.
 7 For like the crackling of thorns under the cauldron
 is the laughter of fools:
 this is vanity, too.
 8 For laughter makes a fool of the wise man
 and merriment corrupts the heart.

Sanctions

<sup>8</sup> 9 Better the end of a matter than its beginning,
 better patience than pride.

Do not be hasty with your resentment, for resentment is found in the heart of fools. •Do not ask why earlier days were better than these, for that is not a question prompted by wisdom. •Wisdom is a precious legacy, a boon for those on whom the sun shines. •For as money gives protection, so does wisdom; and the good that knowledge imparts is this: its possessor finds that wisdom keeps him safe.

Consider the work of God; who can set straight what he has made crooked? When times are prosperous, enjoy your happiness; when times are bad, consider this: the one is God's doing, as is the other, in order that man may know nothing of his destiny. •In this fleeting life of mine I have seen so much: the virtuous man perishing for all his virtue, for all his godlessness the godless living on.

Do not be over-virtuous
nor play too much the sage;

why drive yourself too hard?

Do not be wicked to excess,
and do not be a fool;

why die before your time? •The best thing is to hold the one and not let go the other, for both of these will happen to the God-fearing man.

Wisdom lends more strength to the wise than ten rulers in a city. •There is no virtuous man on earth who, doing good, is ever free of sin. •Another thing: pay no attention to telltales; you may hear that your servant has reviled you; •your own heart knows how often you have reviled others.

I have put all this to the test by wisdom, claiming to be wise; but wisdom has been beyond my reach. •Reality lies beyond my grasp; and deep, so deep, who can discover it?

Once again I was at pains to study wisdom and retribution, to see wickedness as folly, and foolishness as madness. •I find woman more bitter than death; she is a snare, her heart a net, her arms are chains;

He who is pleasing to God eludes her,
but the sinner is her captive.

This then you must know, says Qoheleth, is the sum of my investigation, putting this and that together. •I have made other researches too, without result.

One man in a thousand I may find,
but never a woman better than the rest.

This, however, you must know: I find that God made man simple; man's complex problems are of his own devising.

8

Who is like the sage?
Who else can solve a problem?
The wisdom of a man lends brightness to his face;
his face, once grim, is altered.

This I say: Obey the command of the king, for the sake of the oath of God; do not rashly transgress it; do not be stubborn when the cause is not a good one, since he acts as he thinks fit; •for the word of the king is paramount, and who dare say to him, 'Why do that?'

He who obeys the command will come to no harm, and the wise man knows there will be a time of judgement.

For there is a time of judgement for everything; and man runs grave risks, since he does not know what is going to happen; and who can tell him when it will happen? •No man can master the wind so as to hold it back, nor control the day of death. There is no discharge in time of war; no more can wickedness

9 set its author free. •All this I observe as I consider all that is done under the sun, whenever man tyrannises over man to his hurt.

10 And then I see the wicked brought to burial and people come from the Temple to honour them in the city for having been the men they were. This, too, is 11 vanity. •Since the sentence on wrong-doing is not carried out at once, men's inmost
12 hearts are intent on doing wrong. •The sinner who does wrong a hundred times survives even so. I know very well that happiness is reserved for those who fear 13 God, because they fear him; •that there will be no happiness for the wicked man and that he will only eke out his days like a shadow, because he does not fear God.
14 But there is a vanity found on earth; the good, I mean, receive the treatment the wicked deserve; and the wicked the treatment the good deserve. This, too, I say, is vanity.

15 Joy, then, is the object of my praise, since under the sun there is no happiness for man except in eating, drinking and pleasure. This is his standby in his toil through the days of life God has given him under the sun.

Love

16 Wisdom having been my careful study, I came to observe the business that goes on here on earth. And certainly the eyes of man never rest, day and night.
17 And I look at all the work of God: plainly no one can discover what the work is that goes on under the sun or explain why man should toil to seek yet never discover. Not even a sage can discover it, though he may claim to know.
1 9 For I have reflected on all this and come to understand that the virtuous and the wise with all they do are in the hand of God.

Man does not know what love is, or hate, and both of these in his eyes are vanity.

2 Just as one fate comes to all, to virtuous as to wicked, to clean and unclean, to him who sacrifices and him who does not sacrifice, so it is with the good man and the sinner, with him who takes an oath and him who shrinks from it. •This is the evil that inheres in all that is done under the sun: that one fate comes to all; further, that the hearts of men should be full of malice; that they should practise such extravagances towards the living in their lifetime and the dead thereafter.
4 For anyone who is linked with all that live still has some hope, a live dog being
5 better than a dead lion. •The living know at least that they will die, the dead know nothing; no more reward for them; their memory has passed out of mind.
6 Their loves, their hates, their jealousies, these all have perished, nor will they ever again take part in whatever is done under the sun.

7 Go, eat your bread with joy and drink your wine with a glad heart;

for what you do God has approved beforehand.

8 Wear white all the time,
do not stint your head of oil.

9 Spend your life with the woman you love, through all the fleeting days of the life that God has given you under the sun; for this is the lot assigned to you in life
10 and in the efforts you exert under the sun. •Whatever work you propose to do, do it while you can, for there is neither achievement, nor planning, nor knowledge, nor wisdom in Sheol where you are going.

Chance

11 I see this too under the sun: the race does not go to the swift, nor the battle to the strong; there is no bread for the wise, wealth for the intelligent, nor favour
12 for the learned; all are subject to time and mischance. •Man does not know his hour; like fish caught in the treacherous net, like birds taken in the snare, so 13 is man overtaken by misfortune suddenly falling on him.

14 I observe another evil under the sun, to me a grave one. •There was a small town, with only a few inhabitants; a mighty king marched against it, laid siege to it and built great siege-works round it. •But a poverty-stricken sage confronted him and by his wisdom saved the town. No one remembered this poor man afterwards. •Now I say: wisdom is better than strength, but a poor man's wisdom is never valued and his words are disregarded. •The gentle words of the wise are heard above the shouts of a king of fools.

Better wisdom than warlike weapons, but one mistake undoes a deal of good. 10 Dead flies spoil a bowl of perfumed oil; a little folly is stronger than wisdom and honour.

The wise man's heart leads him aright,
the fool's heart leads him astray. 2

A fool has only to walk along the road and, having no sense, he makes plain to all what a fool he is.

With the anger of the ruler mounting against you, do not leave your post; composure avoids many a fault. •There is an evil I observe under the sun, the type of misjudgement to which rulers are prone: •folly promoted to high dignities, rich men taking the lowest place. •Slaves I see on horseback, princes going on foot like slaves.

He who digs a pit may fall into it;
a man saps a wall, the serpent bites him.
He who quarries stones may be hurt by them;
he who chops wood takes a risk. 8

If for want of sharpening the axe is blunt, you have to strike very hard, but the reward given by wisdom is success. •If the snake bites before it is charmed, what is the use of the charmer? 10

Words from a wise man's mouth are pleasing,
but a fool's lips procure his own ruin. 12

Of the words he speaks folly is the beginning, sheer madness the end. •A fool is a great spender of words; man does not know the future; so who can tell him what is to happen after his time? 13

Fools find hard work irksome;
he who does not know the way cannot go to town. 15

A bad outlook for you, country with a lad for king, and where princes feast in the morning. •Happy the country whose king is nobly born, where princes eat at a respectable hour to keep themselves strong, not to make themselves drunk. 17

Owing to neglect the roof-tree gives way;
for want of care the house lets in the rain. 18

—But meals are made for laughter. Wine gives joy to life. Money is the answer to everything. 19

Do not curse the king, even in thought;
do not curse the rich, even in your bedroom,
for a bird of the air will carry the news;
indiscretion sprouts wings. 20

11 Cast your bread on the water; at long last you will find it again. •Share with seven, yes with eight, for you never know what disaster may occur 1/2.

3 on earth. •When clouds are full of rain, they empty it out on the earth. Let the tree fall south or north, where the tree falls there it lies.

4           Keep watching the wind and you will never sow, stare at the clouds and you will never reap.

5 Just as you do not know the way of the wind or the mysteries of a woman with child, no more can you know the work of God who is behind it all.

6           In the morning sow your seed,
do not let your hands lie idle in the evening.

For which will prove successful, this or that, you cannot tell; and it may be that both will turn out well together.

Old age

7<sup>R</sup> Light is sweet; at sight of the sun the eyes are glad. •However great the number of the years a man may live, let him enjoy them all, and yet remember that dark days will be many. All that is to come is vanity.

9           Rejoice in your youth, you who are young;
let your heart give you joy in your young days.
Follow the promptings of your heart
and the desires of your eyes.

But this you must know: for all these things God will bring you to judgement.

10          Cast worry from your heart,
shield your flesh from pain.

11 Yet youth, the age of dark hair, is vanity. 12 And remember your creator in the days of your youth, before evil days come and the years approach when you say, 'These give me no pleasure', •before sun and light and moon and stars grow dark, and the clouds return after the rain;

3           the day when those who keep the house tremble<sup>a</sup> and strong men are bowed;
when the women grind no longer at the mill,
because day is darkening at the windows
and the street doors are shut;
4           when the sound of the mill is faint,
when the voice of the bird is silenced,
and song notes are stilled,
5           when to go uphill is an ordeal
and a walk is something to dread.

Yet the almond tree is in flower,
the grasshopper is heavy with food
and the caper bush bears its fruit,

while man goes to his everlasting home. And the mourners are already walking to and fro in the street

6           before the silver cord has snapped,
or the golden lamp been broken,
or the pitcher shattered at the spring,
or the pulley cracked at the well,

10 a. Probably to be read after v.16, as the answer given by the 'princes'.

12 a. These lines are a picture of old age.

or before the dust returns to the earth as it once came from it, and the breath 7 to God who gave it.

Vanity of vanities, Qoheleth says. All is vanity. 8

Epilogue

Besides being a sage, Qoheleth also taught his knowledge to the people, 9 having weighed, studied and amended a great many proverbs. •Qoheleth tried 10 to write in an attractive style and to set down truthful thoughts in a straightforward manner.

The words of the sages are like goads, like pegs driven deep; a shepherd uses 11
these for the good of his flocks.

One last thing, my son, be warned that writing books involves endless hard 12 work, and that much study wearies the body.

To sum up the whole matter: fear God, and keep his commandments, since 13 this is the whole duty of man. •For God will call all hidden deeds, good or bad, 14 to judgement.

APOCALYPTIC OR PROPHECIES FOR THE FINAL TIMES

Apocalyptic is a product of the last stages of the Old Testament. The usual convention employed in this form of literature is to write it in the name of one or other of the people who figure prominently in the nation's history. The pseudonymous author, living in the distant past, receives a revelation of the future; that future is now the present in which the reader is living, and the apocalyptic writing provides an interpretation of that present which reassures the Hebrew reader that God's will is triumphing in history, no matter how disastrous the contemporary situation may seem to be.

Much of this type of writing is a form of political protest deliberately presented in an obscure form because of the dangers of opposing the ruling secular powers. Vividly imaginary symbols and descriptions are employed, and it is impossible to be sure of their significance without a more thorough and detailed knowledge of the history of the period than we now possess. In any case, the deliberate obscurity makes interpretation very difficult. Possibly the symbols were clear to the readers for whom the books were originally written, who were living in the situations to which the books referred.

The situation is depicted as part of the final period of catastrophe when the forces of evil are exerting all their powers in one last great attempt to triumph over God. God's final decisive victory is also the vindication of the Jewish people against the nations which oppress them, and which are stationing their troops in the Holy Land of Palestine.

Ezekiel 38—39 and Isaiah 24—27 may be seen as the earliest examples of apocalyptic writing to have survived. It is possible that these sections belong to the period of the Exile in Babylon (587—538 B.C.) but it is more probable that they should be dated after the Exile when disillusionment with the post-exilic situation had begun to grow.

Joel is classed as apocalyptic because of the second half of the book which describes the 'Day of Yahweh', in which God's spirit will be given to Israel and the nations will be tried and punished. The fall of Jerusalem, the Exile in Babylon and the occupation of the territory of Judah by neighbouring peoples are all referred to as past events, so the book may be dated near the time of Nehemiah (445-423 B.C.), for the Temple is complete and there are traces of the influences of the prophets of the period immediately after the Exile.

Zechariah 9-14 most probably belongs to the period immediately following the conquests of Alexander the Great (336-323 B.C.) when Palestine came under Greek rule. It describes the restoration of the people to the new land God had promised and culminates in a great battle in which God will establish his personal rule over Jerusalem and make it the secure centre of his people's lives.

Daniel is the clearest example of apocalyptic in the Old Testament. It is set in the period of the Babylonian empire (626-539 B.C.) which brought about the destruction of Jerusalem and the Exile, but the situation described in the book, particularly in chapter 11, fits more convincingly into the years 167-164 B.C. when Judah was under the rule of Antiochus Epiphanes. Antiochus encouraged the Greek way of life in Jerusalem and attempted to impose it by force to the extent of substituting Greek feasts for the traditional worship in the Temple. The erection of an altar to Zeus in the Temple finally provoked the opposition which grew into the Maccabean rebellion. It would seem, therefore, that the book is intended to reassure the people resisting the sacrilegious regime and to encourage them to remain faithful during their trials. They would triumph in the end and the rulers would be forced to accept that God was on their side, for the whole course of history is under the direct control of God and he has already fixed the time when his victory will be complete.

EZEKIEL 38—39

Against Gog, king of Magog<sup>a</sup>

<sup>1</sup> 38 The word of Yahweh was addressed to me as follows, •“Son of man, turn
<sup>3</sup> and Tubal, and prophesy against him. •Say, “The Lord Yahweh says this:
<sup>4</sup> I am against you, Gog, prince of Rosh, Meshech and Tubal. •I will turn you round, fixing hooks in your jaws, and drag you and your troops along, all the horses and well-armoured horsemen, and all that great army carrying shields <sup>5</sup> and bucklers, and wielding swords. •Persia and Cush and Put are with them, all
<sup>7</sup> togarmah and all its troops,<sup>b</sup> and many nations with you. •Be ready, be well prepared, you and all your troops and the others rallying round you, and hold yourself at my service.

<sup>8</sup> Many days will pass before you are given orders; in years to come you will march against this country. Its inhabitants will have been living undisturbed, remote from all other peoples, since they escaped the sword and were gathered <sup>9</sup> in from various nations, here in the long-deserted mountains of Israel. •Like a storm you will come up and onwards, and cover the land like a cloud, you, your army and many nations with you.

<sup>10</sup> The Lord Yahweh says this: On that day, a thought is going to enter your mind <sup>11</sup> and you will work out a wicked plan. •You will say: I will attack this undefended country and march against this peaceful nation living undisturbed.
<sup>12</sup> They all live in towns that have no walls or bars or gates. •To plunder them for loot, I am going to reach out my hand towards the ruins they live in, against this nation gathered out of other nations, these stock-breeders and tradesmen <sup>13</sup> who live at the navel of the earth.<sup>c</sup> •Sheba and Dedan, the traders of Tarshish and all its young lions will ask you: Have you come for plunder? Are you massing your troops with a view to looting? To make off with gold and silver, seize cattle and goods, and come away with unlimited spoil?”

<sup>14</sup> ‘And so, son of man, say in prophecy to Gog, “The Lord Yahweh says this:
Is it not true that you are planning to set out at a time when my people Israel <sup>15</sup> is living undisturbed? •You plan to leave your home in the far north, you and <sup>16</sup> many nations with you, a great army of countless troops all mounted. •You plan to invade Israel, my people. You will be like a cloud covering the earth. I myself am going to bring you in days to come to attack my country, so that the nations may learn what I am, when I have used you, Gog, to display my holiness to them.

<sup>17</sup> The Lord Yahweh says this: It was of you that I spoke in the past through my servants the prophets of Israel, who prophesied and foretold your <sup>18</sup> invasion. •On the day Gog attacks the land of Israel—it is the Lord Yahweh <sup>19</sup> who speaks—I shall grow angry. In my anger, •my jealousy and the heat of my fury I say it: I swear that on that day there will be a fearful quaking in the 38 a. Gog cannot be identified. Among the countries of which he is called ‘the prince’ in v.3, Meshech and Tubal can be recognised as nations from the far N., on the Black Sea borders, and Gog is perhaps a type of the victorious barbarian from the N. b. Probably the Cimmerians. c. Jerusalem.

land of Israel. •At my presence the fish in the sea and the birds of heaven, the 20 wild beasts and all the reptiles that crawl along the ground, and all men on earth, will quake. Mountains will fall, cliffs crumble, walls collapse, and •I will confront 21 him with every sort of terror—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks. His men will turn their swords on each other, •I will punish him with plague and bloodshed 22 and send torrential rain, hailstones, fire and brimstone against him and his hordes and against the many nations with him. •I mean to display my greatness 23 and holiness and to compel the many nations to acknowledge me; this is how they will learn that I am Yahweh.”

39 ‘Son of man, prophesy against Gog. Say, “The Lord Yahweh says this: 1
Now I set myself against you, Gog, prince of Rosh, Meshech and Tubal.
I will turn you round, lead you on, and bring you from the farthest north to 2 attack the mountains of Israel. •I will break the bow in your left hand and dash 3 the arrows out of your right. •You will be killed on the mountains of Israel, you 4 and all your hordes, and the nations with you. I shall make you food for carrion birds and wild beasts. •You will fall in the open countryside. I have spoken—it is 5 the Lord Yahweh who speaks. •I will send fire to Magog and on those living un- 6 disturbed on islands, and they will learn that I am Yahweh. •I am going to see 7 that my holy name is known among my people Israel, and I will no longer allow my holy name to be profaned; the nations shall learn that I am Yahweh, holy in Israel.

All this is going to happen, all this is going to take place—it is the Lord 8
Yahweh who speaks. This is the day I predicted.

The citizens of the towns of Israel will go out and use these arms for 9 firewood: shields and bucklers, bows and arrows, clubs and javelins. For seven years they will feed the fire with them. •Men will stop looking for wood in the 10 countryside or cutting it in the forest; they will be feeding the fire with arms.
They will plunder those who plundered them, and take spoil from those who despoiled them—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks.

On that day, I shall give Gog a famous spot in Israel for his grave—the valley 11 of the Abarim,<sup>4</sup> on the east of the Sea—the valley that turns back the traveller—and there Gog and his whole army will be buried, and it shall be called the Valley of Hamon-gog. •The House of Israel will take seven months to bury them and 12 cleans the country. •All the people of the country will dig their graves, and be honoured for this on the day when I reveal my glory—it is the Lord Yahweh who 13 speaks. •Men will be selected to go continually up and down the country to bury those left on the ground and cleanse it. For seven months they will go 14 searching. •If one of them sees any human bones as they go up and down the country he will put a mark beside them until the gravediggers have buried them 15 in the valley of Hamon-gog—the name of the town is to be Hamonah—and 16 so have cleansed the country.”

‘Son of man, the Lord Yahweh says this. Speak to every kind of bird and 17 to all wild beasts, “Muster, come here, meet from everywhere around for the sacrifice I am making for you, a great sacrifice on the mountains of Israel; you will eat flesh and drink blood. •You will eat the flesh of heroes, you will drink the 18 blood of the princes of the world. They are all rams and lambs, goats and fat bulls of Bashan. •You will feed full on fat, drink yourselves drunk with blood, 19 at this sacrifice I am making for you. •You will glut yourselves at my table on horses and chargers, on heroes and common soldiers—it is the Lord Yahweh 20
who speaks.”

Conclusion

‘That is how I shall display my glory to the nations, and all nations will feel 21 my sentence when I judge, and feel my hand when I strike them. •The House of Israel will know that I am Yahweh their God, from that day forward for ever. 22
And the nations will learn that the House of Israel was exiled for their sin in 23 behaving so treacherously to me that I had to avert my face from them because they had rebelled against me, and to hand them over to their enemies; and they all 24 perished by the sword. •I treated them as their filthy sins deserved and hid my face 25 from them. •And so, thus says the Lord Yahweh: Now I am going to bring back the captives of Jacob, now I am going to take pity on the whole House of Israel and show myself jealous for my holy name.

26 'They will forget the disgrace of having so often betrayed me when they were 27 living safely in their own land, with no one to disturb them. •When I bring them home from the peoples, when I bring them back from the countries of their 28 enemies, when I reveal my holiness in them for many nations to see, •they will know that I am Yahweh their God, when I rescue the captives from the pagans 29 and reunite them in their own country, not leaving a single one behind. •I shall never hide my face from them again, since I shall pour out my spirit on the House of Israel—it is the Lord Yahweh who speaks.'

ISAIAH 24—27

APOCALYPSE

The sentence

1 24 See how Yahweh lays the earth waste, makes it a desert, buckles its surface,
 scatters its inhabitants,
 2 priest and people alike, master and slave,
 mistress and maid, seller and buyer,
 lender and borrower, creditor and debtor.
 3 Ravaged, ravaged the earth,
 despoiled, despoiled,
 as Yahweh has said.
 4 The earth is mourning, withering,
 the world is pining, withering,
 the heavens are pining away with the earth.
 5 The earth is defiled
 under its inhabitants' feet,
 for they have transgressed the law, violated the precept,
 broken the everlasting covenant.
 6 So a curse consumes the earth and its inhabitants suffer the penalty, that is why the inhabitants of the earth are burnt up
 and few men are left.

The city in ruins

7 The wine is mourning, the vine is pining away,
 all glad hearts are sighing.
 8 The merry tambourines are silent,
 the sound of revelling is over,
 the merry lyre is silent.
 9 They no longer sing over their wine,
 the drunkard finds strong drink revolting.
 10 The city of emptiness is in ruins,
 the entrance to every house is shut.
 11 There is lamentation in the streets: no wine,
 joy quite gone,

gladness banished from the country.
 Nothing but rubble in the city, 12
 the gate smashed to pieces;
 and so it will be on earth, 13
 among the peoples,
 as at the beating of the olive trees,
 as at the gleaning of the grapes
 when the grape harvest is over.

They lift up their voices, singing for joy; 14
 they acclaim the majesty of Yahweh from the sea.
 Therefore in the islands they give glory to Yahweh, 15
 in the islands of the sea, to the name of Yahweh, the God of Israel.
 From remotest earth we hear songs, 'Honour to the upright one'. 16

But 'Enough, enough!' I say.
 'Woe to the traitors who betray,
 to the traitors who treacherously betray!'

Terror, the pit, the snare 17
 for you, inhabitants of the earth:
 the man who runs away at the cry of terror 18
 shall fall into the pit,
 and the man who climbs out of the pit
 shall be caught in the snare.

Continuation of the poem on the sentence

Yes, the sluiceways above will open,
 and the foundations of the earth will rock. 19
 The earth will split into fragments,
 the earth will be riven and rent.

The earth will shiver and shake, 20
 the earth will stagger like a drunkard,
 sway like a shanty;
 so heavy will be its sin on it, it will fall
 never to rise again. 21

That day, Yahweh will punish
 above, the armies of the sky,
 below, the kings of the earth;
 they will be herded together, 22
 shut up in a dungeon,
 confined in a prison
 and, after long years, punished.

The moon will hide her face, the sun be ashamed, 23
 for Yahweh Sabaoth will be king
 on Mount Zion, in Jerusalem, and his glory will shine in the presence of his elders.

A prayer of thanksgiving

25 Yahweh, you are my God, 1
 I extol you, I praise your name;
 for you have carried out your excellent design,
 long planned, trustworthy, true.

For you have made the town a heap of stones, 2
 the fortified city a ruin.
 The citadel of the proud is a city no longer,
 it will never be rebuilt.

Hence a mighty people gives you glory, 3

the city of pitiless nations holds you in awe; 4 for you are a refuge for the poor,
 a refuge for the needy in distress,
 a shelter from the storm,
 a shade from the heat;
 while the breath of pitiless men
 is like the winter storm.
 5 Like drought in a dry land
 you will repress the clamour of the proud;
 like heat by the shadow of a cloud
 the singing of the despots will be subdued.

The messianic banquet

6 On this mountain, Yahweh Sabaoth will prepare for all peoples
 a banquet of rich food, a banquet of fine wines,
 of food rich and juicy, of fine strained wines.
 7 On this mountain he will remove the mourning veil covering all peoples,
 and the shroud enwrapping all nations,
 8 he will destroy Death for ever.
 The Lord Yahweh will wipe away
 the tears from every cheek;
 he will take away his people's shame
 everywhere on earth,
 for Yahweh has said so.
 9 That day, it will be said: See, this is our God
 in whom we hoped for salvation;
 Yahweh is the one in whom we hoped.
 We exult and we rejoice
 that he has saved us;
 10 for the hand of Yahweh
 rests on this mountain.
 Moab is trodden down where he stands
 as straw is trodden in the dung pit;
 11 and there he stretches out his hands
 like a swimmer stretching out his hands to swim.
 But Yahweh curbs his pride and whatever his hands attempt.
 12 Your arrogant, lofty walls
 he destroys, he overthrows,
 he flings them in the dust.

Song of victory

1 26 That day, this song will be sung in the land of Judah:
 We have a strong city;
 to guard us he has set
 wall and rampart about us.
 2 Open the gates! Let the upright nation come in,
 she, the faithful one 3 whose mind is steadfast, who keeps the peace,
 because she trusts in you.
 4 Trust in Yahweh for ever,
 for Yahweh is the everlasting Rock;
 5 he has brought low those who lived high up in the steep citadel;

he brings it down, brings it down to the ground,
 flings it down in the dust:
 the feet of the lowly, the footsteps of the poor
 trample on it. 6

A psalm

The path of the upright man is straight, 7
 you smooth the way of the upright.
 Following the path of your judgements, 8
 we hoped in you, Yahweh,
 your name, your memory are all my soul desires.

At night my soul longs for you 9
 and my spirit in me seeks for you;
 when your judgements appear on earth
 the inhabitants of the world learn the meaning of integrity.

If favour is shown to the wicked, 10
 he does not learn the meaning of integrity.
 He does evil in the land of uprightness,
 he fails to see the majesty of Yahweh.

Yahweh, your hand is raised, 11
 but they do not see it.
 Let them see your jealous love for this people and be ashamed,
 let the fire prepared for your enemies consume them.

Yahweh, you are giving us peace, 12
 since you treat us
 as our deeds deserve.

Yahweh our God, 13
 other lords than you have ruled us,
 but we acknowledge no one other than you,
 no other name than yours.

The dead will not come to life, 14
 their ghosts will not rise,
 for you have punished them, annihilated them,
 and wiped out their memory.

Enlarge the nation, Yahweh, enlarge it, 15
 to the nation grant glory,
 extend all the frontiers of the country.

Distressed, we search for you, Yahweh; 16
 the misery of oppression was your punishment for us.

As a woman with child near her time 17
 writhes and cries out in her pangs,
 so are we, Yahweh, in your presence:

we have conceived, we writhe 18
 as if we were giving birth;
 we have not given the spirit of salvation to the earth,
 no more inhabitants of the world are born.

Your dead will come to life, 19
 their corpses will rise;
 awake, exult,
 all you who lie in the dust,
 for your dew is a radiant dew
 and the land of ghosts will give birth.

Oracle

- 20 Go into your rooms, my people,
shut your doors behind you.
Hide yourselves a little while until the wrath has passed.
- 21 For, see, Yahweh will soon come out of his dwelling, to punish all the inhabitants of earth for their crimes.
The earth will reveal its blood
and no longer hide its slain.
- 1 27 That day, Yahweh will punish,
with his hard sword, massive and strong,
Leviathan the fleeing serpent,
Leviathan the twisting serpent:
he will kill the sea-dragon.

The vineyard of Yahweh

- 2 That day,
sing of the delightful vineyard!
3 I, Yahweh, am its keeper;
every moment I water it
for fear its leaves should fall;
night and day I watch over it.
- 4 I am angry no longer.
If thorns and briars come
I will declare war on them,
I will burn them every one.
- 5 Or if they would shelter under my protection,
let them make their peace with me,
let them make their peace with me.

Pardon for Jacob; punishment for the oppressor

- 6 In the days to come, Jacob will put out shoots, Israel will bud and blossom
and fill the whole world with fruit.
- 7 Has he beaten her as he beat those who beat her?
Has he murdered her as he murdered those who murdered her?
- 8 You have punished it with expulsion and exile;
he pursued it with a blast as fierce as the wind from the east.
- 9 Now here is how Jacob's guilt will be atoned for,
here is the ransom for its sin:
he treats all the altar stones
like lumps of chalk that are ground to powder.
- 10 Sacred poles and solar pillars stand no longer,
for the fortified city is abandoned now,
it lies deserted,
forsaken as a wilderness.
There the herd grazes,
there it rests and browses on the branches.
- 11 The boughs are dry and broken,
women come and use them for firewood;
for this is a nation without understanding and so its Maker will have no pity for it,
he that shaped it will show it no favour.

Oracle

That day, Yahweh will start his threshing
 from the course of the River to the wadi of Egypt, and you will be gathered one by one,
 sons of Israel. 12

That day, the great trumpet will be sounded, 13
 and those lost in the land of Assyria will come,
 and those exiled to the land of Egypt,
 and they will worship Yahweh
 on the holy mountain, in Jerusalem.

THE PLAGUE OF LOCUSTS

A LITURGY OF MOURNING AND ENTREATY

Lamentation over the ruin of the country

Listen to this, you elders; 2
 all inhabitants of the country, attend.
 Has anything like this ever happened in your day,
 or in your fathers' days?
 Tell it to your sons, 3
 let your sons tell it to their sons,
 and their sons to a generation after them.

What the gnawer has left, the grown locust has devoured, 4
 what the grown locust has left, the hopper has devoured, what the hopper has left, the shearer has devoured.<sup>a</sup>

Awake, drunkards, and weep! 5
 All you who drink wine, lament
 for that new wine: it has been dashed from your lips.

For a nation has invaded my country, 6 mighty and innumerable;
 its teeth are the teeth of lions,
 it has the fangs of a lioness.
 It has laid waste my vines 7
 and torn my fig trees to pieces;
 it has stripped them clean and cut them down,
 their branches have turned white.

Mourn like a virgin wearing sackcloth 8
 for her young man betrothed to her.
 Oblation and libation<sup>b</sup> have vanished 9
 from the house of Yahweh.
 The priests, the ministers of Yahweh,
 are in mourning.
 Wasted lie the fields, 10
 the fallow is in mourning.

For the corn has been laid waste,
the wine fails,
the fresh oil dries up.

11 Stand dismayed, you farmers,
wail, you vinedressers,
for the wheat, for the barley;
the harvest of the field has been ruined.

12 The vine has withered,
the fig tree wilts away;
pomegranate, and palm, and apple,
every tree in the field is drooping.
Yes, gladness has faded
among the sons of men.

A call to repentance and prayer

13 Priests, put on sackcloth and lament.
Ministers of the altar, wail.
Come, pass the night in sackcloth,
you ministers of my God.
For the house of our God has been deprived of oblation and libation.

14 Order a fast,
proclaim a solemn assembly;
elders, call together
all the inhabitants of the country
to the house of Yahweh your God.
Cry out to Yahweh,

15 'Oh, what a day!
For the day of Yahweh is near,
it comes as a devastation from Shaddai.'<sup>c</sup>

16 Has not the food disappeared
before our eyes?
Have not joy and gladness vanished
from the house of our God?

17 Seeds shrivel
under their clods;
the barns are broken down,
the granaries lie in ruins,
for lack of harvest.

18 What mourning from the beasts!
The herds of cattle wander bewildered
because they have no pasture.
Even the flocks of sheep must bear their punishment.

19 To you, Yahweh, I cry:
fire has devoured the pastures on the heath,
flame has burnt up
every tree in the orchard.

20 Even the wild beasts wait anxiously for you,
for the watercourses have run dry,
and fire has devoured the pastures on the heath.

1 a. The locust invasion has included insects in four distinct stages of growth.
offerings from the produce of the soil: corn, wine and oil, as listed in v.10.
Hebr. pun on the word for 'devastation' and Shaddai (one of the names of God).

c. There is a

The day of Yahweh and the present calamity*The alarm

2        Sound the trumpet in Zion, 1
           give the alarm on my holy mountain!
           Let all the inhabitants of the country tremble,
           for the day of Yahweh is coming,
           yes, it is near.
           Day of darkness and gloom, 2
           day of cloud and blackness.
           Like the dawn there spreads across the mountains
           a vast and mighty host,
           such as has never been before,
           such as will never be again
           to the remotest ages.

The invading army

          In their van the fire devours, 3
           in their rear a flame consumes.
           The country is like a garden of Eden ahead of them
           and a desert waste behind them.
           Nothing escapes them.
           They look like horses, 4
           like chargers they gallop on,
           with a racket like the clatter of chariots 5
           they hurtle over the mountain tops,
           with a crackling like a blazing fire
           devouring the stubble,
           a mighty army in battle array.

           At the sight of them the peoples are appalled 6
           and every face grows pale.
           Like fighting men they press forward, 7
           like warriors scale the walls,
           each marching straight ahead,
           not turning from his path;
           they never jostle each other, 8
           each marches straight ahead:
           arrows fly, they still press forward,
           without breaking ranks.
           They hurl themselves at the city, 9
           they leap on to its walls,
           climb to the housetops,
           and make their way through windows
           like marauders.

A vision of the day of Yahweh

          As they come on, the earth quakes, 10
           the skies tremble,
           sun and moon grow dark,
           the stars lose their brilliance.
           Yahweh makes his voice heard 11
           at the head of his army,
           and indeed his regiments are innumerable,
           all-powerful is the one that carries out his orders,
           for great is the day of Yahweh,
           and very terrible—who can face it?

A call to repentance

- 12 'But now, now—it is Yahweh who speaks—
come back to me with all your heart, fasting, weeping, mourning.'
- 13 Let your hearts be broken, not your garments torn,
turn to Yahweh your God again,
for he is all tenderness and compassion,
slow to anger, rich in graciousness,
and ready to relent.
- 14 Who knows if he will not turn again, will not relent,
will not leave a blessing as he passes,
oblation and libation
for Yahweh your God?
- 15 Sound the trumpet in Zion!
Order a fast,
proclaim a solemn assembly,
call the people together,
summon the community,
assemble the elders,
gather the children,
even the infants at the breast.
Let the bridegroom leave his bedroom and the bride her alcove.
- 17 Between vestibule and altar let the priests,
the ministers of Yahweh, lament.
Let them say,
'Spare your people, Yahweh!
Do not make your heritage a thing of shame,
a byword for the nations.
Why should it be said among the nations,
"Where is their God?"'

THE PRAYER ANSWERED

- 18 Then Yahweh, jealous on behalf of his land,
took pity on his people.

The plague ceases

- 19 Yahweh spoke in answer to his people,
'Now I send you
corn and wine and oil,
until you have enough.
Never again shall I make you
a thing of shame for the nations.
- 20 I will drive the invader from the north far away from you and drive him into an arid, desolate land,
his vanguard to the eastern sea,
his rearguard to the western sea.
He will give off a stench,
give off a foul stink.'
(For he has done great things.)

A vision of plenty

- 21 O soil, do not be afraid;
be glad, rejoice,
for Yahweh has done great things.

Beasts of the field, do not be afraid;
the pastures on the heath are green again,
the trees bear fruit,
vine and fig tree yield abundantly. 21

Sons of Zion, be glad, 23
rejoice in Yahweh your God;
for he has given you
the autumn rain, since he is just,
and has poured the rains down for you,
the autumn and spring rain as before.
The threshing-floors will be full of grain, 24
the vats overflow with wine and oil.

'I will make up to you for the years 25
devoured by grown locust and hopper
by shearer and young locust,
my great army
which I sent to invade you.'

You will eat to your heart's content, will eat your fill, 26 and praise the name of Yahweh your God who has treated you so wonderfully.
(My people will not be disappointed any more.)

And you will know that I am in the midst of Israel, 27 that I am Yahweh your God, with none to equal me.
My people will not be disappointed any more.

THE NEW AGE AND THE DAY OF YAHWEH

THE OUTPOURING OF THE SPIRIT

3 'After this 1
I will pour out my spirit on all mankind. 28
Your sons and daughters shall prophesy,
your old men shall dream dreams,
and your young men see visions.

Even on the slaves, men and women, 2
will I pour out my spirit in those days. 36
I will display portents in heaven and on earth, 3
as blood and fire and columns of smoke.' 30

The sun will be turned into darkness, 4
and the moon into blood, 31
before the day of Yahweh dawns,
that great and terrible day.

All who call on the name of Yahweh will be saved, 5 for, on Mount Zion there will be some who have escaped,<sup>a</sup> 32
as Yahweh has said,
and in Jerusalem some survivors whom Yahweh will call.

THE JUDGEMENT OF THE NATIONS

The judgement announced

4 'For in those days and at that time, 1
when I restore the fortunes of Judah and Jerusalem, 3
I am going to gather all the nations 2

and take them down to the Valley of Jehoshaphat;
 there I intend to put them on trial for all they have done to Israel, my people and my heritage.
 For<sup>a</sup> they have scattered them among the nations and have divided up my land among themselves.
 3 They have cast lots for my people;
 they have bartered the boys for prostitutes,
 have sold the girls for wine and drunk it.'

Charges against the Phoenicians and Philistines

4 'And you, Tyre and Sidon, what do you expect from me?
 You too, regions of Philistia?
 Do you want to take revenge on me?
 If you were to take revenge on me,
 I would make it recoil promptly and swiftly on your own heads.
 5 You who have taken my silver and my gold,
 who have carried off my rich treasures to your temples,
 6 you who have sold to the people of Javan<sup>b</sup>
 the sons of Judah and Jerusalem,
 to remove them far from their own frontiers.
 7 Now I mean to summon them from wherever you have sold them, now I intend to make your crime recoil on your own heads.
 8 I am going to sell your sons and daughters
 into the hands of the sons of Judah, and they will sell them to the Sabaeans,<sup>c</sup>
 to a distant nation;
 Yahweh has spoken!'

A summons to the nations

9 'Proclaim this among the nations.
 "Prepare for war!
 Muster the champions!
 Warriors, advance,
 quick march!
 10 Hammer your ploughshares into swords,
 your sickles into spears,
 let the weakling say, 'I am a fighting man'.
 11 Come quickly,
 all you surrounding nations,
 assemble there!"
 (Yahweh, send down your champions!)
 12 'Let the nations rouse themselves, let them march to the Valley of Jehoshaphat, for I am going to sit in judgement there on all the nations round.
 13 Put the sickle in:
 the harvest is ripe;
 come and tread:
 the winepress is full,
 the vats are overflowing,
 so great is their wickedness!' 14 Host on host
 in the Valley of Decision!

3 a. Ob 17.

4 a. After the siege of Jerusalem in 597, there were deportations to Babylon. There was a further deportation in 586. b. Greece. c. Of S. Arabia.

For the day of Yahweh is near
in the Valley of Decision!

The day of Yahweh

Sun and moon grow dark,
the stars lose their brilliance. 15

Yahweh roars from Zion,
makes his voice heard from Jerusalem;
heaven and earth tremble. 16

But Yahweh will be a shelter for his people,
a stronghold for the sons of Israel.

'You will learn then that I am Yahweh your God, dwelling in Zion, my holy mountain. 17
Jerusalem will be a holy place,
no alien will ever pass through it again.'

THE GLORIOUS FUTURE OF ISRAEL

When that day comes,
the mountains will run with new wine
and the hills flow with milk,
and all the river beds of Judah
will run with water. 18

A fountain will spring from the house of Yahweh
to water the wadi of Acacias.
Egypt will become a desolation,
Edom a desert waste 19

on account of the violence done to the sons of Judah whose innocent blood they shed in their country.
But Judah will be inhabited for ever,
Jerusalem from age to age. 20

'I will avenge their blood and let none go unpunished', and Yahweh shall make his home in Zion. 21

ZECHARIAH 9-14

9 An oracle. 1

The new promised land<sup>a</sup>

Yahweh has passed through the land of Hadrach
and Damascus is his dwelling place;
for the cities of Aram belong to Yahweh
no less than all the tribes of Israel;
Hamath too, which borders on it, 2

(Tyre) and Sidon also, despite her acumen.
Tyre has built herself a rampart,
has heaped up silver like dust
and gold like the dirt of the streets. 3

And now the Lord is going to take possession of her;
he will topple her power into the sea;
she herself will be consumed by fire. 4

Seeing this, Ashkelon will be terrified, and Gaza be seized with trembling, 5
so will Ekron, at the ruin of her prospects;
the king will vanish from Gaza

6 and Ashkelon remain unpeopled,
 but the bastard<sup>b</sup> will live in Ashdod!
 I mean to destroy the arrogance of the Philistine;
 7 I intend to take his blood out of his mouth and his abomination from between his teeth.<sup>c</sup>
 He too will become a remnant for our God
 and be like a family in Judah:
 Ekron shall be like the Jebusite.<sup>d</sup>
 8 Near my house I will take my stand like a watchman on guard against prowlers;
 the tyrant shall pass their way no more,
 because I have now taken notice of its distress.

The Messiah

9 Rejoice heart and soul, daughter of Zion!
 Shout with gladness, daughter of Jerusalem!
 See now, your king comes to you;
 he is victorious, he is triumphant,
 humble and riding on a donkey,
 on a colt, the foal of a donkey.
 He will banish chariots from Ephraim 10 and horses from Jerusalem;
 the bow of war will be banished.
 He will proclaim peace for the nations.
 His empire shall stretch from sea to sea,
 from the River to the ends of the earth.

The restoration of Israel

11 As for you, because of the blood of your covenant
 I am sending back your prisoners from the pit
 (in which there is no water).
 12 To you, daughter of Zion,
 the hopeful captives will return.
 In compensation for your days of banishment
 I will give you back double.
 13 For I bend my bow; it is Judah;
 I make Ephraim its arrow.
 I am going to brandish your children, Zion,
 (against your children, Javan);<sup>e</sup>
 I mean to make you like the sword of a hero.
 14 Yahweh will appear above them
 and his arrow will flash out like lightning.
 (The Lord) Yahweh will sound the trumpet and advance in the storms of the south.
 15 Yahweh (Sabaoth) will protect them!
 They will trample sling stones underfoot,
 they will drink blood like wine,
 they will be soaked in it like the horns of an altar.
 16 Yahweh their God will give them victory
 when that day comes:
 he will pasture his people like a flock

9 a. The new Promised Land is larger than Israel and includes Aramaean, Phoenician and Philistine cities. A victorious campaign against these territories, probably that of Alexander in 333, is seen as the action of Yahweh. b. A population of mixed races. c. Philistines followed the pagan practice of eating meat with the blood in it, and eating the forbidden meats, such as pork. d. I.e., incorporated into Israel. e. This gloss refers to the conquest of the Persian empire ('Javan'—the Greeks) by Alexander.

(like the flashing jewels of a diadem)
 on his land.
 What joy and what beauty shall be theirs! 17
 Corn will make the young men flourish,
 and sweet wine the maidens.

Faithfulness to Yahweh

10 Ask Yahweh for rain 1
 at the time of the spring rains.
 For it is Yahweh who sends the lightning and gives the showers of rain;
 he gives bread to man,
 and grass to the cattle.
 Because the teraphim utter futile words 2
 and the diviners have lying visions<sup>a</sup>
 and publish empty dreams
 and voice misleading nonsense,
 naturally the people stray like sheep;
 they wander because they have no shepherd.

Israel's deliverance and return

'My anger burns against the shepherds, 3
 and I mean to punish the he-goats.'
 Yes, Yahweh (Sabaoth) will take care of his flock
 (the House of Judah),
 he will make it his proud steed (in battle).
 From him will issue Cornerstone and Tent-peg,<sup>b</sup> 4
 from him the Bow of battle,
 from him all the Leaders.
 Together they will be like heroes 5
 trampling the dirt of the streets (in battle);
 they will fight, since Yahweh is with them,
 and the riders of horses will be thrown into confusion.
 And I will make the House of Judah mighty, 6
 and the House of Joseph victorious.
 I am going to restore them, because I have taken pity on them, and they shall be as though I had never cast them off (for I am Yahweh their God and I mean to answer their prayer).
 Ephraim will be like a hero. 7
 Their hearts will be cheered as though by wine.
 Their sons will look on this in gladness,
 their hearts will exult in Yahweh.
 I am going to whistle to them and gather them in 8
 (for I have redeemed them);
 they will be as numerous as they used to be.
 I have scattered them among the peoples 9
 but from far away they will remember me
 (they will teach their sons, and these will return).
 I mean to bring them back from the land of Egypt, 10
 and gather them from Assyria;
 I shall lead them into the land of Gilead (and Lebanon),
 and even that will not be large enough for them.
 They will pass through the sea of Egypt 11
 (and he will strike the waves on the sea);
 all the depths of the Nile will be dried up.

The arrogance of Assyria will be cast down and the sceptre of Egypt be taken away.

- 12 Their strength will be in Yahweh;
in his name they will glory:
it is Yahweh who speaks.
- 1 11 Open your gateways, Lebanon,
and let the fire burn down your cedars.
- 2 (Wail, cypress,
for felled is the cedar,
the mighty ones have been brought low!) Wail, oaks of Bashan,
for the impenetrable forest has been felled!
- 3 The wailing of the shepherds is heard;
their glorious pastures have been ruined.
The roaring of the young lions is heard;
the thickets of the Jordan have been laid waste.

The two shepherds

- 4 This is how Yahweh spoke to me, 'Pasture the sheep bred for slaughter, •whose buyers kill them and go unpunished, whose sellers say of them, "Blessed be Yahweh; now I am rich!" and their shepherds handle<sup>a</sup> them without kindness.
- 6 (For no longer am I going to show kindness to the inhabitants of the world—it is Yahweh who speaks. But instead I mean to hand over every man to the next, and to his king. They shall devastate the world and I will not deliver them 7 from their hands.)' •Then I began to pasture these sheep bred for slaughter for the sheepdealers. I took two staves: one I called Goodwill, the other Union.
- 8 And so I began to pasture the sheep. •I dismissed the three shepherds in one 9 month.<sup>b</sup> But I began to dislike the sheep, and they equally detested me. •I then said, 'I am going to pasture you no longer; let those that wish to die, die; let those that wish to perish, perish; and let those that are left devour each other's 10 flesh!' •I then took my staff, Goodwill, and broke it in half, to break the covenant 11 Yahweh had made with all the peoples.<sup>c</sup> •When it was broken, that day the dealers, who were watching me, realised that this had been a word of Yahweh.
- 12 I then said to them, 'If you think it right, give me my wages; if not, never mind'.
13 And they weighed out my wages: thirty shekels of silver.<sup>d</sup> •But Yahweh told me,
'Throw it into the treasury, this princely sum at which they have valued me'.
Taking the thirty shekels of silver, I threw them into the Temple of Yahweh, 14 into the treasury. •I then broke my second staff, Union, in half, to break the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.<sup>e</sup>
- 15 Next, Yahweh said to me, 'Now take the gear of an incompetent shepherd.
16 For I am now going to raise an incompetent shepherd in this country. He will not bother about the lost; he will not look for the stray; he will not heal the wounded; he will not support the weary; but he will only eat the flesh of the fat beasts and tear off their hoofs.
- 17 'Trouble is coming to the worthless shepherd who deserts the flock!
May the sword strike his arm
and his right eye!
May his arm wither entirely,
may his eye be totally blinded!'

10 a. Teraphim, often the word for a household god, here means instruments of divination.
b. Future leaders who will rise from the people.

11 a. Buyers and sellers are the Jewish ruling classes; the shepherds are the priests.
b. Alluding to a succession of high priests deposed. c. Yahweh no longer undertakes to protect the Jewish nation from its neighbours. d. The price of a slave. e. Probably the schism of the Samaritans, who built a rival temple on Mount Gerizim in 328.

The deliverance and restoration of Jerusalem

12 An oracle. The word of Yahweh about Israel. It is Yahweh who speaks, 1 who spread out the heaven and founded the earth and formed the spirit of man within him:

'Look, I am going to make Jerusalem an intoxicating cup to all the surrounding 2 peoples. . .

'When that day comes, I mean to make Jerusalem a stone to be lifted by all 3 the peoples; all who try to lift it will hurt themselves severely. (And all the nations of the earth will mass against her.) •When that day comes—it is Yahweh 4 who speaks—I intend to strike all the horses with confusion and their riders with madness. (But on the House of Judah I will open my eyes.) And I will strike all the horses of the peoples with blindness. •Then the clans of Judah will say 5 in their hearts, "Strength for the citizens of Jerusalem is in Yahweh Sabaoth their God". •When that day comes I mean to make the clans of Judah like a 6 brazier burning in a pile of wood, like a flaming torch in stubble; and they will consume the peoples round them to right and left. And Jerusalem shall stand firm in her place. •Yahweh will save the tents of Judah first to forestall the 7 arrogance of the House of David and the arrogance of the citizens of Jerusalem from rising to the detriment of Judah. •When that day comes, Yahweh will 8 spread his protection over the citizens of Jerusalem; the one among them who was about to fall will be like David on that day, and the House of David will be like God (like the angel of Yahweh) at their head.

'When that day comes, I shall set myself to destroy all the nations who 9 advance against Jerusalem. •But over the House of David and the citizens of 10 Jerusalem I will pour out a spirit of kindness and prayer. They will look on the one whom they have pierced; they will mourn for him as for an only son, and weep for him as people weep for a first-born child. •When that day comes, there 11 will be great mourning in Judah, like the mourning of Hadad-rimmon in the plain of Megiddo. •And the country will mourn clan by clan; the clan of the 12 House of David apart, with their wives by themselves; •the clan of the House 13 of Nathan apart, with their wives by themselves; the clan of the House of Levi apart, with their wives by themselves; the clan of Shimei apart, with their wives by themselves. •All the clans that remain, clan by clan, with their wives 14
 by themselves. 13 When that day comes, a fountain will be opened for the House of David and the citizens of Jerusalem, for sin and impurity.

'When that day comes—it is Yahweh (Sabaoth) who speaks—I am going to 2 root out the names of the idols from the country, and they shall never be mentioned again; and I will also rid the country of the prophets, and of the 3 spirit of impurity. •If anyone still wants to prophesy, his father and the mother who gave him birth shall say to him, "You have no right to live, since you utter 4 lies in the name of Yahweh". And while he is prophesying, his father and the mother who gave him birth shall run him through. •When that day comes, 4 every prophet shall be ashamed of his prophetic vision; they will no longer put on their hair cloaks to utter their lies, •but they will all say, "I am no prophet. 5
 I am a peasant; the land has been my living ever since I was a boy." •And if 6
 anyone asks him, "Then what are these wounds on your body?" he will reply,
 "These I received in the house of my friends".

Invocation to the sword; the new people

'Awake, sword, against my shepherd 7
 and against the man who is my companion—
 it is Yahweh Sabaoth who speaks.
 I am going to strike the shepherd
 so that the sheep may be scattered,
 and I will turn my hand against the weak.
 And it will happen throughout this territory— 8

it is Yahweh who speaks—
 that two-thirds in it will be cut off ('will be killed')
 and the remaining third will be left.
 9 I will lead that third into the fire,
 and refine them as silver is refined,
 test them as gold is tested.
 They will call on my name
 and I shall listen;
 and I shall say: These are my people;
 and each will say, "Yahweh is my God!"

The eschatological battle; the splendour of Jerusalem

1 14 See, a day is coming for Yahweh when the spoils taken from you will 2 be divided among you. •Yahweh will gather all the nations to Jerusalem for battle. The city will be taken, the houses plundered, the women ravished.
 Half the city will go into captivity, but the remnant of the people will not be 3 cut off from the city. •Then Yahweh will take the field; he will fight against 4 these nations as he fights in the day of battle. •On that day, his feet will rest on the Mount of Olives, which faces Jerusalem from the east. The Mount of Olives will be split in half from east to west, forming a huge gorge; half the Mount 5 will recede northwards, the other half southwards. •And the Vale of Hinnom will be filled up from Goah to Jasol; it will be blocked as it was by the earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah. Yahweh your God will come, and all the holy ones with him.
 6 When that day comes, there will be no more cold, no more frost. •It will
 7 be a day of wonder—Yahweh knows it—with no alternation of day and night;
 8 in the evening it will be light. •When that day comes, running waters will issue from Jerusalem, half of them to the eastern sea, half of them to the western 9 sea; they will flow summer and winter. •And Yahweh will be king of the whole 10 world. When that day comes, Yahweh will be unique and his name unique. •The entire country will be transformed into plain, from Geba to Rimmon in the Negeb. And Jerusalem will be raised higher, though still in the same place; from the Gate of Benjamin to the site of the First Gate, that is to say to the Gate of the Corner and from the Tower of Hananel to the king's winepress, 11 people will make their homes. The ban will be lifted; Jerusalem will be safe to live in.
 12 And this is the plague with which Yahweh will strike all the nations who have fought against Jerusalem; their flesh will moulder while they are still standing on their feet; their eyes will rot in their sockets; their tongues will 15 rot in their mouths. •And such will be the plague on the horses and mules, 13 camels and donkeys, and all the animals to be found in that camp. •When that day comes, a great terror will fall on them from Yahweh; each man will grab 14 his neighbour's hand and they will hit out at each other. •Even Judah will fight against Jerusalem. The wealth of all the surrounding nations will be heaped together: gold, silver, clothing, in vast quantity.
 16 All who survive of all the nations that have marched against Jerusalem will go up year by year to worship the King, Yahweh Sabaoth, and to keep the feast 17 of Tabernacles. •Should one of the races of the world fail to go up to Jerusalem 18 to worship the King, Yahweh Sabaoth, there will be no rain for that one. •Should the race of Egypt fail to go-up and pay its visit, on it will fall the plague which Yahweh will inflict on each one of those nations that fail to go up to keep the 19 feast of Tabernacles. •Such shall be the punishment for Egypt and for all the 20 nations that fail to go up to keep the feast of Tabernacles. •When that day comes, the horse bells will be inscribed with the words, 'Sacred to Yahweh', and in the Temple of Yahweh the very cooking pots will be as fine as the sprinkling 21 bowls at the altar. •And every cooking pot in Jerusalem and in Judah shall become sacred to Yahweh Sabaoth; all who want to offer sacrifice will come and help themselves from them for their cooking; there will be no more traders in the Temple of Yahweh Sabaoth, when that day comes.

DANIEL

THE YOUNG HEBREWS

AT THE COURT OF NEBUCHADNEZZAR

1 In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah, Nebuchadnezzar <sup>1</sup> king of Babylon marched on Jerusalem and besieged it. •The Lord delivered <sup>2</sup> Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hands, with some of the furnishings of the Temple of God. He took them away to the land of Shinar, and stored the sacred vessels in the treasury of his own gods.

The king ordered Ashpenaz, his chief eunuch, to select from the Israelites <sup>3</sup>
a certain number of boys of either royal or noble descent; •they had to be <sup>4</sup> without any physical defect, of good appearance, trained in every kind of wisdom, well-informed, quick at learning, suitable for service in the palace of the king.
Ashpenaz himself was to teach them the language and literature of the Chaldeans.
The king assigned them a daily allowance of food and wine from his own royal <sup>5</sup> table. They were to receive an education lasting for three years, after which they were expected to be fit for the king's society. •Among them were Daniel, <sup>6</sup> Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah, who were Judaeans. •The chief eunuch gave <sup>7</sup> them other names, calling Daniel Belteshazzar, Hananiah Shadrach, Mishael Meshach, and Azariah Abednego. •Daniel, who was most anxious not to defile <sup>8</sup> himself with the food and wine from the royal table, begged the chief eunuch to spare him this defilement; •and by the grace of God Daniel met goodwill and <sup>9</sup> sympathy on the part of the chief eunuch. •But he warned Daniel, 'I am afraid <sup>10</sup> of my lord the king: he has assigned you food and drink, and if he sees you looking thinner in the face than the other boys of your age, my head will be in danger with the king because of you'. •At this Daniel turned to the guard whom the <sup>11</sup> chief eunuch had assigned to Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah. He said,
'Please allow your servants a ten days' trial, during which we are given only <sup>12</sup> vegetables to eat and water to drink. •You can then compare our looks with <sup>13</sup> those of the boys who eat the king's food; go by what you see, and treat your servants accordingly.' •The man agreed to do what they asked and put them on <sup>14</sup> ten days' trial. •When the ten days were over they looked and were in better <sup>15</sup> health than any of the boys who had eaten their allowance from the royal table;
so the guard withdrew their allowance of food and the wine they were to drink, <sup>16</sup> and gave them vegetables. •And God favoured these four boys with knowledge <sup>17</sup> and intelligence in everything connected with literature, and in wisdom; while Daniel had the gift of interpreting every kind of vision and dream. •When the <sup>18</sup> period stipulated by the king for the boys' training was over, the chief eunuch presented them to Nebuchadnezzar. •The king conversed with them, and among <sup>19</sup> all the boys found none to equal Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah. So they became members of the king's court, •and on whatever point of wisdom <sup>20</sup> or information he might question them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and enchanters in his entire kingdom. •Daniel remained there <sup>21</sup> until the first year of King Cyrus.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR'S DREAM: THE COMPOSITE STATUE

The king questions his sages

- 1 2 In the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchadnezzar had a 2 series of dreams; his mind was troubled, sleep deserted him. •The king then had magicians and enchanters, sorcerers and Chaldaeans<sup>a</sup> summoned to tell the king what his dreams meant. They arrived and stood in the king's presence.
 3 The king said to them, 'I have had a dream, and my mind is disturbed by a desire 4 to understand the dream'. •The Chaldaeans answered the king:
 'O king, live for ever! Tell your servants the dream, and we will reveal 5 its meaning for you.' •The king answered the Chaldaeans, 'This is my firm resolve:
 if you cannot tell me what my dream was, and what it means, I will have you 6 torn limb from limb and your houses razed to the ground. •If, on the other hand, you can tell me what I dreamt and what it means, I will give you presents, 7 rewards and high honour. So tell me what I dreamt and what it means.' •A second time they said, 'Let the king tell his dream to his servants, and we will 8 reveal its meaning'. •But the king retorted, 'It is plain to me that you are trying 9 to gain time, knowing my proclaimed and firm resolve. •Your intention is not to interpret my dream, but to make me misleading and tortuous speeches while the time goes by. So tell me what my dream was, and I shall know whether 10 you can interpret it or not.' •The Chaldaeans answered the king, 'Nobody in the world could find out the king's trouble; what is more, no other king, governor or chief would think of putting such a question to any magician, enchanter or 11 Chaldaean. •The question the king asks is difficult, and no one can find the king an answer to it, except the gods, whose dwelling is not with creatures of flesh.' 12 At this the king flew into a rage and ordered all the Babylonian sages to be put 11 to death. •On publication of the decree to have the sages killed, search was made for Daniel and his companions to have them put to death.

Daniel intervenes

- 14 With shrewd and cautious words, however, Daniel approached Arioch, commander of the king's executioners, when he was on his way to kill the Baby-15 lonian sages. •He said to Arioch, the royal marshal, 'Why has the king issued 16 such an urgent decree?' Arioch explained matters to Daniel, •and Daniel went off to ask the king for a stay of execution to give him the opportunity of revealing 17 his interpretation to the king. •Daniel then went home and told his friends 18 Hananiah, Mishael and Azariah what had happened, •urging them to beg the God of heaven to show his mercy in this mysterious affair, so that Daniel and 19 his friends might be spared the fate of the other Babylonian sages. •The mystery was then revealed to Daniel in a night-vision, and Daniel blessed the God of 20 heaven. •This is what Daniel said:
 'May the name of God
 be blessed for ever and ever,
 since wisdom and power are his alone.
 21 His, to control the procession of times and seasons,
 to make and unmake kings,
 to confer wisdom on the wise,
 and knowledge on those with wit to discern;
 22 his, to uncover depths and mysteries, to know what lies in darkness;
 and fight dwells with him.

2 a. I.e., diviners; the art of divination was believed to have originated in Chaldaeae.

To you, God of my fathers, I give thanks and praise 23
 for having given me wisdom and intelligence:
 now you have shown me what we asked you,
 you have revealed the king's trouble to us.'

So Daniel went to see Arioch whom the king had made responsible for putting 24 the Babylonian sages to death. On going in he said, 'Do not put the Babylonian sages to death. Take me into the king's presence and I will reveal the meaning 25 to the king.' •Arioch lost no time in bringing Daniel to the king. 'Among the exiles from Judah,' he said 'I have discovered a man who can reveal the meaning to the king.' •The king said to Daniel (who had been given the name Belteshazzar), 26
 'Can you tell me what my dream was, and what it means?' •Facing the king, 27
 Daniel replied, 'None of the sages, enchanters, magicians or wizards has been able to tell the king the truth of the mystery which the king propounded; •but 28
 there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and who has shown King Nebuchadnezzar what is to take place in the days to come. These, then, are the dream and the visions that passed through your head as you lay in bed:

'O king, on your bed your thoughts turned to what would happen in the 29 future, and the Revealer of Mysteries disclosed to you what is to take place.
 This mystery has been revealed to me, not that I am wiser than any other 30 man, but for this sole purpose: that the king should learn what it means, and that you should understand your inmost thoughts.

'You have had a vision, O king; this is what you saw: a statue, a great statue 31 of extreme brightness, stood before you, terrible to see. •The head of this statue 32 was of fine gold, its chest and arms were of silver, its belly and thighs of bronze, its legs of iron, its feet part iron, part earthenware. •While you were gazing, 33
 a stone broke away, untouched by any hand, and struck the statue, struck its feet 34 of iron and earthenware and shattered them. •And then, iron and earthenware, 35 bronze, silver, gold all broke into small pieces as fine as chaff on the threshing-floor in summer. The wind blew them away, leaving not a trace behind. And the stone that had struck the statue grew into a great mountain, filling the whole earth. •This was the dream; now we will explain to the king what it means. 36
 You, O king, king of kings, to whom the God of heaven has given sovereignty, 37 power, strength and glory—the sons of men, the beasts of the field, the birds 38 of heaven, wherever they live, he has entrusted to your rule, making you king of them all—you are the golden head. •And after you another kingdom will 39 rise, not so great as you, and then a third, of bronze, which will rule the whole world. •There will be a fourth kingdom, hard as iron, as iron that shatters and 40 crushes all. Like iron that breaks everything to pieces, it will crush and break all the earlier kingdoms. •The feet you saw, part earthenware, part iron, are a 41 kingdom which will be split in two, but which will retain something of the strength of iron, just as you saw the iron and the clay of the earthenware mixed together.
 The feet were part iron, part earthenware: the kingdom will be partly strong and 42 partly weak. •And just as you saw the iron and the clay of the earthenware mixed 43 together, so the two will be mixed together in the seed of man;<sup>b</sup> but they will not hold together any more than iron will blend with earthenware. •In the time 44 of these kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed, and this kingdom will not pass into the hands of another race: it will shatter and absorb all the previous kingdoms, and itself last for ever—•just 45
 as you saw the stone untouched by hand break from the mountain and shatter iron, bronze, earthenware, silver and gold. The great God has shown the king what is to take place. The dream is true, the interpretation exact.'

The king's profession of faith

At this, King Nebuchadnezzar fell prostrate before Daniel; he gave orders 46 for Daniel to be offered an oblation and a fragrant sacrifice. •The king said to 47
 Daniel, 'Your god must be the God of gods, the master of kings, and the Revealer

48 of Mysteries, since you have been able to reveal this mystery'. •The king conferred high rank on Daniel and gave him many handsome presents. He also made him governor of the whole province of Babylon and head of all the sages of Babylon.
49 At Daniel's request, however, the king entrusted the affairs of the province of Babylon to Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego; Daniel himself remained at court.

THE ADORATION OF THE GOLDEN STATUE

Nebuchadnezzar erects a golden statue

1 3 King Nebuchadnezzar had a golden statue made, six cubits tall and three cubits wide, which he erected on the plain of Dura, in the province of Babylon.
2 King Nebuchadnezzar then summoned the satraps, prefects, governors, counsellors, treasurers, judges, men of law, and all the provincial authorities to assemble and attend the dedication of the statue erected by King Nebuchadnezzar.
3 Then the satraps, prefects, governors, counsellors, treasurers, judges, men of law and all the provincial authorities assembled for the dedication of the statue erected by King Nebuchadnezzar; and they stood there in front of the statue
4 which King Nebuchadnezzar had erected. •The herald then made this proclamation: 'Men of all peoples, nations, languages! This is required of you:
5 the moment you hear the sound of horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, or any other instrument, you must prostrate yourselves and worship the golden
6 statue erected by King Nebuchadnezzar. •Those who do not prostrate themselves
7 and worship shall immediately be thrown into the burning fiery furnace.' •And so, the instant the people heard the sound of horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe and all the other instruments, the men of all peoples, nations and languages prostrated themselves and worshipped the statue erected by King Nebuchadnezzar.

The denunciation and condemnation of the Jews

8 Some Chaldaeans then came forward and laid information against the Jews.
9 They said to King Nebuchadnezzar, 'O king, live for ever! •You have issued a 10 decree, O king, to the effect that everyone on hearing the sound of horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe or any other instrument is to prostrate himself
11 and worship the golden statue; •and that anyone who does not prostrate himself
12 and worship is to be thrown into the burning fiery furnace. •Now there are certain Jews to whom you have entrusted the affairs of the province of Babylon: Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego; these men have ignored your command, O king; they do not serve your gods, and refuse to worship the golden statue you have erected.'
13 Furious with rage, Nebuchadnezzar sent for Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego.
14 The men were immediately brought before the king. •Nebuchadnezzar addressed them, 'Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, is it true that you do not serve 15 my gods, and that you refuse to worship the golden statue I have erected? •When you hear the sound of horn, pipe, lyre, trigon, harp, bagpipe, or any other instrument, are you prepared to prostrate yourselves and worship the statue I have made? If you refuse to worship it, you must be thrown straight away into the burning fiery furnace; and where is the god who could save you from my power?'
16 Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego replied to King Nebuchadnezzar, 'Your 17 question hardly requires an answer: •if our God, the one we serve, is able to save us from the burning fiery furnace and from your power, O king, he will
18 save us; •and even if he does not, then you must know, O king, that we will not
19 serve your god or worship the statue you have erected'. •These words infuriated King Nebuchadnezzar; his expression was very different now as he looked at Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. He gave orders for the furnace to be made 20 seven times hotter than usual, •and commanded certain stalwarts from his army

2 b. Probably alluding to the intermarriage of Seleucids and Ptolemies.

to bind Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego and throw them into the burning fiery furnace. •They were then bound, fully clothed, cloak, hose and headgear, 21 and thrown into the burning fiery furnace. •The king's command was so urgent 22 and the heat of the furnace was so fierce, that the men carrying Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego were burnt to death by the flames from the fire; •the 23 three men, Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego fell, still bound, into the burning fiery furnace.

The song of Azariah in the furnace

And they walked in the heart of the flames, praising God and blessing the Lord. 24
Azariah stood in the heart of the fire, and he began to pray: 25

'All honour and blessing to you, Lord, God of our ancestors, 26
may your name be held glorious for ever.

In all that you have done your justice is apparent: 27

your promises are always faithfully fulfilled,

your ways never deviate,

your judgements are always true.

You have given a just sentence 28

in all the disasters you have brought down on us and on Jerusalem, the holy city of our ancestors,

since it is for our sins that you have treated us like this,

fairly and as we deserved.

Yes, we have sinned and committed a crime by deserting you, 29

yes, we have sinned gravely;

we have not listened to the precepts of your Law,

we have not observed them, 30

we have not done what we were told to do

for our own good.

Yes, all the disasters you have brought down on us, 31

all that you have done to us,

you have been fully justified in doing.

You have delivered us into the power of our enemies, 32

of a lawless people, the worst of the godless,

of an unjust king, the worst in the whole world;

today we dare not even open our mouths, 33

shame and dishonour are the lot of those who serve and worship you.

Oh! Do not abandon us for ever, 34

for the sake of your name;

do not repudiate your covenant,

do not withdraw your favour from us, 35

for the sake of Abraham, your friend,

of Isaac your servant,

and of Israel your holy one,

to whom you promised descendants as countless as the stars of heaven 36

and as the grains of sand on the seashore.

Lord, now we are the least of all the nations, 37

now we are despised throughout the world, today, because of our sins.

We have at this time no leader, no prophet, no prince, 38

no holocaust, no sacrifice, no oblation, no incense,

no place where we can offer you the first-fruits

and win your favour. 39

But may the contrite soul, the humbled spirit be as acceptable to you

as holocausts of rams and bullocks, 40

as thousands of fattened lambs:

such let our sacrifice be to you today,

and may it be your will that we follow you wholeheartedly,

since those who put their trust in you will not be disappointed.
 41 And now we put our whole heart into following you,
 into fearing you and seeking your face once more.
 42 Do not disappoint us;
 treat us gently, as you yourself are gentle
 and very merciful.
 43 Grant us deliverance worthy of your wonderful deeds,
 let your name win glory, Lord.
 44 Confusion seize those who ill-treat your servants:
 may they be covered with shame,
 deprived of all their power,
 and may their strength be broken.
 45 Let them learn that you alone are God and Lord, glorious over the whole earth.'

46 All this time the servants of the king who had thrown the men into the furnace
 47 had been stoking it with crude oil, pitch, tow and brushwood •until the flames
 48 rose to a height of forty-nine cubits above the furnace •and, leaping out, burnt 49 those Chaldaeans to death who were standing round it. •But the angel of the Lord came down into the furnace beside Azariah and his companions; he drove 50 the flames of the fire outwards, •and fanned in to them, in the heart of the furnace, a coolness such as wind and dew will bring, so that the fire did not even touch them or cause them any pain or distress.

The song of the three young men

51 Then all three in unison began to sing, glorifying and blessing God, there in the furnace, in these words:

52 'May you be blessed, Lord, God of our ancestors,
 be praised and extolled for ever.
 Blessed be your glorious and holy name,
 praised and extolled for ever.

53 May you be blessed in the Temple of your sacred glory,
 exalted and glorified above all else for ever:
 54 blessed on the throne of your kingdom,
 praised and exalted above all else for ever.

55 Blessed, you fathomer of the great depths, enthroned on the cherubs, praised and glorified above all else for ever; 56 blessed in the vault of heaven,
 exalted and glorified above all else for ever.

57 'All things the Lord has made, bless the Lord:
 give glory and eternal praise to him.

58 Angels of the Lord! all bless the Lord:
 give glory and eternal praise to him.

59 Heavens! bless the Lord:
 give glory and eternal praise to him.

60 Waters above the heavens! bless the Lord:
 give glory and eternal praise to him.

61 Powers of the Lord! all bless the Lord:
 give glory and eternal praise to him.

62 Sun and moon! bless the Lord:
 give glory and eternal praise to him.

63 Stars of heaven! bless the Lord:
 give glory and eternal praise to him.

64 Showers and dews! all bless the Lord:
 give glory and eternal praise to him.

65 Winds! all bless the Lord:

give glory and eternal praise to him. Fire and heat! bless the Lord:	66 give glory and eternal praise to him. Cold and heat! bless the Lord:	67 give glory and eternal praise to him. Dews and sleets! bless the Lord:	68 give glory and eternal praise to him. Frost and cold! bless the Lord:	69
give glory and eternal praise to him. Ice and snow! bless the Lord:	70 give glory and eternal praise to him. Nights and days! bless the Lord:	71 give glory and eternal praise to him. Light and darkness! bless the Lord:	72 give glory and eternal praise to him. Lightning and clouds! bless the Lord:	73 give glory and eternal praise to him. Let the earth bless the Lord,	74
give glory and eternal praise to him. Mountains and hills! bless the Lord:	75 give glory and eternal praise to him. Every thing that grows on the earth! bless the Lord:	76
give glory and eternal praise to him. Springs of water! bless the Lord:	77 give glory and eternal praise to him. Seas and rivers! bless the Lord:	78 give glory and eternal praise to him. Sea beasts and everything that lives in water! bless the Lord:	79 give glory and eternal praise to him. Birds of heaven! all bless the Lord:	80
give glory and eternal praise to him. Animals wild and tame! all bless the Lord:	81
give glory and eternal praise to him. Sons of men! bless the Lord:	82 give glory and eternal praise to him. Israel! bless the Lord:	83
give glory and eternal praise to him. Priests! bless the Lord:	84
give glory and eternal praise to him. Servants of the Lord! bless the Lord:	85 give glory and eternal praise to him. Spirits and souls of the virtuous! bless the Lord:	86
give glory and eternal praise to him. Devout and humble-hearted men! bless the Lord:	87
give glory and eternal praise to him. Ananiah, Azariah, Mishael! bless the Lord:	88
give glory and eternal praise to him. For he has snatched us from the underworld, saved us from the hand of death, saved us from the burning fiery furnace, rescued us from the heart of the flame. Give thanks to the Lord, for he is good, for his love is everlasting.	89
All you who worship him, bless the God of gods, praise him and give him thanks, for his love is everlasting.'	90

The king acknowledges the miracle

24 Then King Nebuchadnezzar sprang to his feet in amazement. He said to his 91 advisers, 'Did we not have these three men thrown bound into the fire?' They 25 replied, 'Certainly, O king'. •'But,' he went on 'I can see four men walking about 92 freely in the heart of the fire without coming to any harm. And the fourth looks 26 like a son of the gods.'<sup>a</sup> •Nebuchadnezzar approached the mouth of the burning 93 fiery furnace and shouted, 'Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, servants of the Most High God, come out, come here!' And from the heart of the fire out 27 came Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego. •The satraps, prefects, governors, 94 and advisers of the king crowded round the three men to examine them:
 the fire had had no effect on their bodies: not a hair of their heads had been singed, their cloaks were not scorched, no smell of burning hung about them.
 28 Nebuchadnezzar exclaimed, 'Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach and 95 Abednego: he has sent his angel to rescue his servants who, putting their trust in him, defied the order of the king, and preferred to forfeit their bodies rather 29 than serve or worship any god but their own. •I therefore decree as follows:
 96 Men of all peoples, nations, and languages! Let anyone speak disrespectfully of the God of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, and I will have him torn limb from limb and his house razed to the ground, for there is no other god 30 who can save like this.' •Then the king showered favours on Shadrach, 97 Meshach and Abednego in the province of Babylon.

THE WARNING DREAM AND THE MADNESS OF NEBUCHADNEZZAR

31 Nebuchadnezzar the king, to men of all peoples, nations and languages, 98 throughout the world: 'May peace be always with you. •It is my pleasure to make 32 known the signs and wonders with which the Most High God has favoured me.
 99

33 'How great are his signs,
 100 how mighty his wonders!
 His sovereignty is an eternal sovereignty,
 his empire lasts from age to age.

Nebuchadnezzar describes his dream

1 4 'I, Nebuchadnezzar, was living at ease at home, prosperous in my palace.
 2 I had a dream; it appalled me. Dread assailed me as I lay in bed; the visions
 3 that passed through my head tormented me. •So I decreed that all the sages
 4 of Babylon be summoned to explain to me what the dream meant. •Magicians, enchanters, Chaldaeans and wizards came, and I told them what I had dreamt, 5 but they could not interpret it for me. •Daniel, renamed Belteshazzar after my own god,<sup>a</sup> and in whom the spirit of God Most Holy resides, then came into my presence. I told him my dream:

6 'Belteshazzar, I said, chief of magicians, I know that the spirit of God Most Holy resides in you and that no mystery puts you at a loss. This is the dream
 I have had; tell me what it means.

7 'The visions that passed through my head as I lay in bed were these:

'I saw a tree
 in the middle of the world;
 it was very tall.

8 The tree grew taller and stronger,

3 a. The protecting angel.

4 a. Bel.

until its top reached the sky,
 and it could be seen from the ends of the earth.
 Its foliage was beautiful, its fruit abundant, 9
 in it was food for all.
 For the wild animals it provided shade,
 the birds of heaven nested in its branches,
 all living creatures found their food on it.
 I watched the visions passing through my head as I lay in bed. 10
 Next a watcher, a holy one came down from heaven.
 At the top of his voice he shouted, 11
 "Cut the tree down, lop off its branches, strip off its leaves, throw away its fruit;
 let the animals flee from its shelter
 and the birds from its branches.
 But leave stump and roots in the ground 12
 bound with hoops of iron and bronze
 in the grass of the field.
 Let him be drenched with the dew of heaven,
 let him share the grass of the earth with the animals.
 Let his heart turn from mankind, 13
 let a beast's heart be given him
 and seven times pass over him!
 Such is the sentence proclaimed by the watchers, 14
 the verdict announced by the holy ones,
 that every living thing may learn
 that the Most High rules over the kingship of men,
 he confers it on whom he pleases,
 and raises the lowest of mankind."

'This is the dream I had, I, Nebuchadnezzar the king. Now it is for you, 15 Belteshazzar, to pronounce on its meaning, since not one of the sages in my kingdom has been able to interpret it for me; you, however, will be able to, because the spirit of God Most Holy resides in you.'

Daniel interprets the dream

Daniel, known as Belteshazzar, hesitated for a moment in embarrassment. 16
 The king said, 'Belteshazzar, do not be alarmed at the dream and its meaning'.
 Belteshazzar answered, 'My lord, may the dream apply to your enemies, and its meaning to your foes! •The tree you saw that grew so tall and strong that it 17 reached the sky and could be seen from the ends of the earth, •the tree with 18 beautiful foliage and abundant fruit, with food for all in it, providing shade for the wild animals, with the birds of heaven nesting in its branches, •that tree 19 is yourself, O king, for you have grown tall and strong; your stature is now so great that it reaches the sky, and your rule extends to the ends of the earth.

'And the watcher seen by the king, the holy one coming down from 20 heaven and saying, "Cut the tree down and destroy it, but leave stump and roots in the ground, bound with hoops of iron and bronze in the grass of the field; let him be drenched with the dew of heaven, let him share with the wild animals until seven times have passed over him": •the meaning of this, 21 O king, this decree of the Most High passed on my lord the king, is this:

'You are to be driven from human society, 22
 and live with the wild animals;
 you will feed on grass like the oxen,
 you will be drenched by the dew of heaven;
 seven times will pass over you
 until you have learnt

that the Most High rules over the kingship of men,
and confers it on whom he pleases.

- 23 'And the order, "Leave the stump and roots of the tree", means that your kingdom will be kept for you until you come to understand that heaven 24 rules all. •May it please the king to accept my advice: by virtuous actions break with your sins, break with your crimes by showing mercy to the poor, and so live long and peacefully.'

The dream comes true

- 25 This all happened to King Nebuchadnezzar. •Twelve months later, while 26 strolling on the roof of the royal palace in Babylon, •the king was saying, 27 'Great Babylon! Imperial palace! Was it not built by me alone, by my own 28 might and power to the glory of my majesty?' •The boast was not out of his mouth when a voice came down from heaven:

'King Nebuchadnezzar, these words are for you!
Sovereignty is taken from you,
29 you are to be driven from human society,
and live with the wild animals;
you will feed on grass like oxen,
and seven times will pass over you
until you have learnt
that the Most High rules over the kingship of men,
and confers it on whom he pleases.'

- 30 The words were immediately fulfilled: Nebuchadnezzar was driven from human society and fed on grass like oxen, and was drenched by the dew of heaven; his hair grew as long as eagle's feathers, and his nails became like bird's claws.

- 31 'When the time was over, I, Nebuchadnezzar, lifted up my eyes to heaven:
my reason returned. And I blessed the Most High,

'praising and extolling him who lives for ever,
for his sovereignty is an eternal sovereignty,
his empire lasts from age to age.

- 32 The inhabitants of the earth count for nothing:
he does as he pleases with the array of heaven,
and with the inhabitants of the earth.
No one can arrest his hand or ask him, "What are you doing?"

- 33 'At that moment my reason returned, and, to the glory of my royal state, my majesty and splendour returned too. My counsellors and noblemen acclaimed me; I was restored to my throne, and to my past greatness even 34 more was added. •And now I, Nebuchadnezzar,

'praise and extol and glorify the King of heaven,
his promises are always faithfully fulfilled,
his ways are always just,
and he has power to humble those who walk in pride.'

BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST

- 1 5 King Belshazzar<sup>a</sup> gave a great banquet for his noblemen; a thousand of 2 them attended, and he drank wine in company with this thousand. •As he

5 a. Belshazzar ('May-Bel-protect-the-king') is a Babylonian name, and there was a historical person bearing it; but he was not a son of Nebuchadnezzar, nor was he a king.

sipped his wine, Belshazzar gave orders for the gold and silver vessels to be brought which his father Nebuchadnezzar had looted from the sanctuary in Jerusalem, so that the king, his noblemen, his wives and his singing women could drink out of them. •The gold and silver vessels looted from the sanctuary of the Temple of God in Jerusalem were brought in, and the king, his noblemen, his wives and his singing women drank out of them. •They drank their wine and praised their gods of gold and silver, of bronze and iron, of wood and stone. •Suddenly the fingers of a human hand appeared, and began to write on the plaster of the palace wall, directly behind the lamp-stand; and the king could see the hand as it wrote. •The king turned pale with alarm; his thigh-joints went slack and his knees began to knock. •He shouted for his enchanters, Chaldaeans and wizards. And the king said to the Babylonian sages, 'Anyone who can read this writing and tell me what it means shall be dressed in purple, and have a chain of gold put round his neck, and be third in rank in the kingdom'. The king's sages all crowded forward, but they could neither read the writing nor explain to the king what it meant. •Greatly alarmed, King Belshazzar turned even paler, and his noblemen were equally disturbed. •Then the queen, attracted by the noise made by the king and his noblemen, came into the banqueting hall. 'O king, live for ever!' said the queen. 'Do not be alarmed, do not look so pale. •In your kingdom there is a man in whom lives the spirit of God Most Holy. In your father's days, he was known for having percipience, intelligence and wisdom comparable to that of the gods. King Nebuchadnezzar, your father, made him head of the magicians, enchanters, Chaldaeans and wizards. •Since such a marvellous spirit, and such knowledge and intelligence in interpreting dreams, solving enigmas and unravelling difficult problems, live in this man Daniel, whom the king had renamed Belteshazzar, send for Daniel: he will be able to tell you what this means.'

Daniel was brought into the king's presence; the king said to Daniel, 'Are you the Daniel who was one of the Judaeen exiles brought by my father the king from Judah? •I am told that the spirit of God Most Holy lives in you, and that you are known for your perception, intelligence and marvellous wisdom. The sages and enchanters have already been brought to me to read this writing and tell me what it means, but they have been unable to reveal its meaning. As I am told that you are able to give interpretations and to unravel difficult problems, if you can read the writing and tell me what it means, you shall be dressed in purple, and have a chain of gold put round your neck, and be third in rank in the kingdom.'

Then Daniel spoke up in the presence of the king. 'Keep your gifts for yourself,' he said 'and give your rewards to others. I will read the writing to the king without them, and tell him what it means. •O king, the Most High God gave Nebuchadnezzar your father sovereignty, greatness, glory, majesty. •He made him so great that men of all peoples, nations and languages shook with dread before him: he killed whom he pleased, spared whom he pleased, promoted whom he pleased, degraded whom he pleased. •But because his heart grew swollen with pride, and his spirit stiff with arrogance, he was deposed from his sovereign throne and stripped of his glory. •He was driven from the society of men, his heart grew completely animal; he lived with the wild asses; he fed on grass like the oxen; his body was drenched by the dew of heaven, until he had learnt that the Most High rules over the empire of men and appoints whom he pleases to rule it. •But you, Belshazzar, who are his son, you have not humbled your heart, in spite of knowing all this. •You have defied the Lord of heaven, you have had the vessels from his Temple brought to you, and you, your noblemen, your wives and your singing women have drunk your wine out of them. You have praised gods of gold and silver, of bronze and iron, of wood and stone, which cannot either see, hear or understand; but you have given no glory to the God who holds your breath and all your fortunes in his

- 24 hands. •That is why he has sent the hand which, by itself, has written these 25 words. •The writing reads: Mene, Mene, Tekel and Parsin.<sup>b</sup> •The meaning
 26 of the words is this: Mene: God has measured your sovereignty and put an end
 27 to it; •Tekel: you have been weighed in the balance and found wanting; •Parsin:
 28 your kingdom has been divided and given to the Medes and the Persians.<sup>c</sup>
- 29 At Belshazzar's order Daniel was dressed in purple, a chain of gold was put round his neck and he was proclaimed third in rank in the kingdom.
- 30, 31 That same night, the Chaldaean king Belshazzar was murdered, 6 and Darius the Mede<sup>d</sup> received the kingdom, at the age of sixty-two.

DANIEL IN THE LION PIT

The satraps resent Daniel's promotion

- 2 It pleased Darius to appoint a hundred and twenty satraps over his kingdom
 3 for the various parts of the kingdom, •and over them three presidents—of 4 whom Daniel was one—to whom the satraps were to be responsible. This was to 5 ensure that no harm should come to the king. •This Daniel, by virtue of the marvel-
 6 lous spirit residing in him, was so evidently superior to the presidents and satraps
 7 that the king considered appointing him to rule the whole kingdom. •The 8 presidents and satraps in consequence started hunting for some affair of state
 9 by which they could discredit Daniel; but they could find nothing to his discredit, 10 and no case of negligence; he was so punctilious that they could not find a single 11 instance of maladministration or neglect. •These men then thought, 'We 12 shall never find a way of discrediting Daniel unless we try something to 13 do with the law of his God'. •The presidents and satraps then went in a body to 14 the king. 'King Darius,' they said 'live for ever! •We are all agreed, the presidents
 15 of the kingdom, the prefects, satraps, counsellors and governors, that the king 16 should issue a decree enforcing the following regulation: whoever within the next 17 thirty days prays to anyone, god or man, other than to yourself O king, is to 18 be thrown into the lions' den. •O king, ratify the edict at once by signing 19 this document, making it unalterable, as befits the law of the Medes and the 20 Persians, which cannot be revoked.' •King Darius accordingly signed the 21 document embodying the edict.

Daniel's prayer

- 11 When Daniel heard that the document had been signed, he retired to his 12 house. The windows of his upstairs room faced towards Jerusalem. Three times
 13 each day he continued to fall on his knees, praying and giving praise to God
 14 as he had always done. •These men came along in a body and found Daniel 15 praying and pleading with God. •They then came to the king and said, 'Have 16 you not just signed an edict forbidding any man for the next thirty days to pray
 17 to anyone, god or man, other than to yourself O king, on pain of being thrown 18 into the lions' den?' 'The decision stands,' the king replied 'as befits the law 19 of the Medes and the Persians, which cannot be revoked.' •Then they said to 20 the king, 'O king, this man Daniel, one of the exiles from Judah, disregards both 21 you and the edict which you have signed: he is at his prayers three times each 22 day'. •When the king heard these words he was deeply distressed, and determined 23 to save Daniel; he racked his brains until sunset to find some way out. •But 24 the men came back in a body to the king and said, 'O king, remember that in 25 conformity with the law of the Medes and the Persians, no edict or decree can 26 be altered when once issued by the king'.

<sup>b</sup> The literal meaning of the words is uncertain; possibly they are the names of weights or coins—mina, shekel and para (half a mina) have been suggested.

<sup>c</sup> He is unknown to history.

Daniel is thrown to the lions

The king then ordered Daniel to be fetched and thrown into the lion pit. The king said to Daniel, 'Your God himself, whom you have served so faithfully, will have to save you'. •A stone was then brought and laid over the mouth of the pit; and the king sealed it with his own signet and with that of his noblemen, so that there could be no going back on the original decision about Daniel. The king returned to his palace, spent the night in fasting and refused to receive any of his concubines. Sleep eluded him, •and at the first sign of dawn he was up, and hurried off to the lion pit. •As he approached the pit he shouted in anguished tones, 'Daniel, servant of the living God! Has your God, whom you serve so faithfully, been able to save you from the lions?' •Daniel replied, 'O king, live for ever! •My God sent his angel who sealed the lions' jaws, they did me no harm, since in his sight I am blameless, and I have never done you any wrong either, O king.' •The king was overjoyed, and ordered Daniel to be released from the pit. Daniel was released from the pit, and found to be quite unhurt, because he had trusted in his God. •The king sent for the men who had accused Daniel and had them thrown into the lion pit, they, their wives and their children: and they had not reached the floor of the pit before the lions had seized them and crushed their bones to pieces.

The king's profession of faith

King Darius then wrote to men of all nations, peoples and languages throughout the world, 'May peace be always with you! •I decree: in every kingdom of my empire let all tremble with fear before the God of Daniel:

'He is the living God, he endures for ever,
his sovereignty will never be destroyed
and his kingship never end.
He saves, sets free, and works signs and wonders
in the heavens and on earth;
he has saved Daniel from the power of the lions.'

This Daniel flourished in the reign of Darius and the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

DANIEL'S DREAM: THE FOUR BEASTS*The vision of the beasts

7 In the first year of Belshazzar king of Babylon, Daniel had a dream and 1 visions that passed through his head as he lay in bed. He wrote the dream 2 down, and this is how the narrative began: •Daniel said, 'I have been seeing 3 visions in the night. I saw that the four winds of heaven were stirring up the great 4 sea; •four great beasts emerged from the sea, each different from the other. •The 5 first<sup>a</sup> was like a lion with eagle's wings; and as I looked its wings were torn off, 6 and it was lifted from the ground and set standing on its feet like a man; 7 and it was given a human heart. •The second beast I saw<sup>b</sup> was different, like a 8 bear, raised up on one of its sides, with three ribs in its mouth, between its 9 teeth. "Up!" came the command "Eat quantities of flesh!" •After this I looked, 10 and saw another beast,<sup>c</sup> like a leopard, and with four bird's wings on its flanks; 11
it had four heads, and power was given to it. •Next I saw another vision in the 12 visions of the night: I saw a fourth beast,<sup>d</sup> fearful, terrifying, very strong; it had 13 great iron teeth, and it ate, crushed and trampled underfoot what remained. 14
It was different from the previous beasts and had ten horns.

'While I was looking at these horns, I saw another horn sprouting among 15
them, a little one;• three of the original horns were pulled out by the roots to 16 make way for it; and in this horn I saw eyes like human eyes, and a mouth that 17 was full of boasts. •As I watched: 18

The vision of the 'Ancient of Days' and of the son of man

- 'Thrones were set in place'
 and one of great age took his seat.
 His robe was white as snow,
 the hair of his head as pure as wool.
 His throne was a blaze of flames,
 its wheels were a burning fire.
 10 A stream of fire poured out,
 issuing from his presence.
 A thousand thousand waited on him,
 ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him.
 A court was held
 and the books were opened.
- 11 'The great things the horn was saying were still ringing in my ears, and as I watched, the beast was killed, and its body destroyed and committed to the 12 flames. •The other beasts were deprived of their power, but received a lease of life for a season and a time.
- 13 'I gazed into the visions of the night.
 And I saw, coming on the clouds of heaven,
 one like a son of man.
 He came to the one of great age
 and was led into his presence.
- 14 On him was conferred sovereignty,
 glory and kingship,
 and men of all peoples, nations and languages became his servants.
 His sovereignty is an eternal sovereignty
 which shall never pass away,
 nor will his empire ever be destroyed.

The interpretation of the vision

- 15 'I, Daniel, was deeply disturbed and the visions that passed through my 16 head alarmed me. •So I approached one of those who were standing by and asked him to tell me the truth about all this. And in reply he revealed to me what 17 these things meant. •"These four great beasts are four kings who will rise from 18 the earth. •Those who are granted sovereignty are the saints of the Most High, 19 and the kingdom will be theirs for ever, for ever and ever." •Then I asked to know the truth about the fourth beast, different from all the rest, very terrifying, with iron teeth and bronze claws, eating, crushing and trampling underfoot what 20 remained; •and the truth about the ten horns on its head—and why the other horn sprouted and the three original horns fell, and why this horn had eyes and a mouth that was full of boasts, and why it made a greater show than the other horns.
 21 This was the horn I had watched making war on the saints and proving the 22 stronger, •until the coming of the one of great age who gave judgement in favour of the saints of the Most High, when the time came for the saints to take over the 23 kingdom. •This is what he said:

"The fourth beast
 is to be a fourth kingdom on earth,
 different from all other kingdoms.
 It will devour the whole earth,

7 a. The Babylonian empire. b. The kingdom of the Medes; the author sees the Medes as the immediate successors to the Babylonians. Historically, the Persian Cyrus had already conquered Media before he captured Babylon. c. The Persian empire. d. The empire of Alexander (d.323) and his successors. The ten horns are kings of the Seleucid dynasty. e. Antiochus IV Epiphanes (175-163) who came to power only after getting rid of several rival claimants. f. For judges.

trample it underfoot and crush it.

As for the ten horns: from this kingdom 24
will rise ten kings, and another after them;
this one will be different from the previous ones
and will bring down three kings;
he is going to speak words against the Most High, 25
and harass the saints of the Most High.
He will consider changing seasons and the Law,<sup>c</sup>
and the saints will be put into his power for a time, two times, and half a time.<sup>h</sup>
But a court will be held and his power will be stripped from him, 26 consumed, and utterly destroyed.
And sovereignty and kingship, 27
and the splendours of all the kingdoms under heaven will be given to the people of the saints of the Most High.
His sovereignty is an eternal sovereignty
and every empire will serve and obey him."

'Here the narrative ends. 28

'I, Daniel, was greatly disturbed in mind, and I grew pale; but I kept these things to myself.'

DANIEL'S VISION: THE RAM AND THE HE-GOAT

The vision

8 In the third year of King Belshazzar a vision appeared to me, Daniel, 1 after the one that originally appeared to me. •I gazed at the vision, 2 and as I gazed I found myself in Susa,<sup>a</sup> the citadel in the province of Elam; gazing at the vision I found myself at the Gate of the Ulai. •I raised my eyes 3 to look round me, and I saw a ram standing in front of the river. It had two horns; both were tall, but one taller than the other, and the one that rose the higher was the second. •I saw the ram thrust westwards, northwards and 4 southwards. No animal could stand up to it, nothing could escape it. It did as it pleased and grew very powerful.

This is what I observed: a he-goat came from the west, having covered 5
the entire earth but without touching the ground, and between its eyes the goat had one majestic horn. •It advanced towards the ram with the two horns, 6 which I had seen standing in front of the river, and charged at it with all the fury of its might. •I saw it reach the ram, and it was so enraged with the ram, 7 it knocked it down, breaking both its horns, and the ram had not the strength to resist; it felled it to the ground and trampled it underfoot; no one was there to save the ram. •Then the he-goat grew more powerful than ever, but at the 8 height of its strength the great horn snapped, and in its place sprouted four majestic horns, pointing to the four winds of heaven.

From one of these, the small one, sprang a horn which grew to great size 9 towards south and east and towards the Land of Splendour.<sup>b</sup> •It grew right 10 up to the armies of heaven and flung armies and stars to the ground, and trampled them underfoot. •It even challenged the power of that army's Prince; 11 it abolished the perpetual sacrifice and overthrew the foundation of his sanctuary, and the army too; it put iniquity on the sacrifice and flung truth to the ground; 12
the horn was active and successful.

I heard a holy one speaking, and another who said to the speaker, 'How 13 long is this vision to be—of perpetual sacrifice, disastrous iniquity, of sanctuary and army trampled underfoot?' •The first replied, 'Until two thousand three 14 hundred evenings and mornings have gone by: then the sanctuary shall have its rights restored'.

The angel Gabriel interprets the vision

15 As I, Daniel, gazed at the vision and tried to understand it, I saw someone 16 standing before me who looked like a man. •I heard a man's voice cry over 17 the Ulai, 'Gabriel, tell him the meaning of the vision!' •He approached the place where I was standing; as he approached I was seized with terror, and fell prostrate. 'Son of man,' he said to me 'understand this: the vision shows the 18 time of the End.' •He was still speaking, when I fell senseless to the ground.
 19 He touched me, however, and raised me to my feet. •'Come,' he said 'I will tell you what is going to happen when the wrath comes to an end; this concerns 20 the appointed End. •As for the ram that you saw, its two horns are the 21 kings of Media and of Persia. •The hairy he-goat is the king of Javan, the large 22 horn between its eyes is the first king. •The horn that snapped and the four horns that sprouted in its place are four kingdoms rising from his nation but not having his power.

23 'And at the end of their reign, when the measure of their sins is full,
 a king will arise, a proud-faced, ingenious-minded man.
 24 His power will gather strength—but not through power of his own—
 he will plot incredible schemes,
 he will succeed in what he undertakes,
 he will destroy powerful men
 and the people of the saints.
 25 Such will be his resourcefulness of mind
 that all his treacherous activities will succeed.
 He will grow arrogant of heart,
 take many unawares and destroy them.
 He will challenge the power of the Prince of princes
 but, no hand intervening,<sup>d</sup> shall himself be broken.
 26 This explanation of the vision of the mornings and the evenings is true, but you must keep the vision secret, for there are still many days to go.'

27 At this I, Daniel, lost consciousness; I was ill for several days. Then I got up to discharge my duties in the king's service, keeping the vision a secret, and not understanding what it meant.

THE PROPHECY OF THE SEVENTY WEEKS*Daniel's prayer

1 Q It was the first year of Darius son of Ahasuerus, who was of Median stock
 2 and ruled the kingdom of Chaldaea. •In the first year of his reign I, Daniel, was perusing the scriptures, counting over the number of years—as revealed by Yahweh to the prophet Jeremiah—that were to pass before the successive 3 devastations of Jerusalem would come to an end, namely seventy years. •I turned my face to the Lord God begging for time to pray and to plead with fasting, 4 sackcloth and ashes. •I pleaded with Yahweh my God and made this confession:
 'O Lord, God great and to be feared, you keep the covenant and have kind-5 ness for those who love you and keep your commandments: •we have sinned, we have done wrong, we have acted wickedly, we have betrayed your 6 commandments and your ordinances and turned away from them. •We have not listened to your servants the prophets, who spoke in your name to our kings,

7 g. The hellenising policy of Antiochus Epiphanes included a ban on observance of the sabbath and feastsdays.

h. Three and a half years, the approximate duration of the persecution under Antiochus Epiphanes; but this period of time, also expressed as 42 months, stands for 'a temporary time of persecution with a limit set by God's providence'.

our princes, our ancestors, and to all the people of the land. •Integrity, Lord, is 7
 yours; ours the look of shame we wear today, we, the people of Judah, the citizens of Jerusalem, the whole of Israel, near and far away, in every country to which you have dispersed us because of the treason we have committed against you. •To us, Yahweh, the look of shame belongs, to our kings, our 8 princes, our ancestors, because we have sinned against you. •To the Lord our God 9 mercy and pardon belong, because we have betrayed him, •and have not listened 10 to the voice of Yahweh our God nor followed the laws he has given us through his servants the prophets. •The whole of Israel has flouted your Law and turned 11 away, unwilling to listen to your voice; and the curse and imprecation written in the Law of Moses, the servant of God, have come pouring down on 12 us—because we have sinned against him. •He has carried out the threats which he made against us and against the princes who governed us—that he 13 would bring so great a disaster down on us that the fate of Jerusalem would find no parallel in the whole of the world. •And now all this disaster has 14 happened to us, just as it is written in the Law of Moses; even so, we have not tried to appease Yahweh our God by renouncing our crimes and being guided by 15 your truth. •Yahweh has watched for the right moment to bring disaster on us, 16 since Yahweh our God is just in all his dealings with us, and we have not listened to his voice. •And now, Lord our God, who by your mighty hand 17 brought us out of the land of Egypt—the renown you won then endures to this day—we have sinned, we have done wrong. •Lord, by all your acts of 18 justice turn away your anger and your fury from Jerusalem, your own city, your holy mountain, for as a result of our sins and the crimes of our ancestors, Jerusalem and your own people have become a byword among all around us. •And 19 now, our God, listen to the prayer and pleading of your servant. For your own sake, Lord, let your face smile again on your desolate sanctuary. •Listen 20
 my God, listen to us; open your eyes and look on our plight and on the city that bears your name. We are not relying on our own good works but on your great mercy, to commend our humble plea to you. •Listen, Lord! Lord, forgive! 21 Hear, Lord, and act! For your own sake, my God, do not delay, because they 22 bear your name, this is your city, this is your people.’ 23

The angel Gabriel explains the prophecy

I was still speaking, still at prayer, confessing my own sins and the sins of 20 my people Israel and placing my plea before Yahweh my God for the holy mountain of my God, •still speaking, still at prayer, when Gabriel, the being 21
 I had seen originally in a vision, flew suddenly down to me at the hour of the evening sacrifice. •He said to me, ‘Daniel, you see me; I have come down to 22 teach you how to understand. •When your pleading began, a word was uttered, 23 and I have come to tell you what it is. You are a man specially chosen. Grasp the meaning of the word, understand the vision:

‘Seventy weeks are decreed’ 24
 for your people and your holy city,
 for putting an end to transgression,
 for placing the seals on sin,
 for expiating crime,
 for introducing everlasting integrity,
 for setting the seal on vision and on prophecy,
 for anointing the Holy of Holies.
 ‘Know this, then, and understand: 25
 from the time this message went out:
 “Return and rebuild Jerusalem”
 to the coming of an anointed Prince, seven weeks
 and sixty-two weeks,
 with squares and ramparts restored and rebuilt,

- but in a time of trouble.
 26 And after the sixty-two weeks an anointed one will be cut off—and . . . will not be for him—
 the city and the sanctuary will be destroyed
 by a prince who will come.
 His end will come in catastrophe and, until the end, there will be war
 and all the devastation decreed.
 27 He will make a firm covenant with many<sup>b</sup>
 for the space of a week;
 and for the space of one half-week
 he will put a stop to sacrifice and oblation, and on the wing of the Temple will be the disastrous abomination<sup>c</sup> until the end, until the doom assigned to the devastator.<sup>d</sup>

THE GREAT VISION

THE TIME OF WRATH

The vision of the man dressed in linen

- 1 10 In the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a revelation was made to Daniel known as Belteshazzar, a true revelation of a great conflict. He grasped the meaning of the revelation; what it meant was disclosed to him in a vision.
 2 } At that time, I, Daniel, was doing a three-week penance; •I ate no rich food, touched no meat or wine, and did not anoint myself, until these three 4 weeks were over. •On the twenty-fourth day of the first month, as I stood on 5 the bank of that great river, the Tigris, •I raised my eyes to look about me, and this is what I saw:

- 6 A man dressed in linen, with a girdle of pure gold round his waist;
 his body was like beryl,
 his face shone like lightning,
 his eyes were like fiery torches,
 his arms and his legs had the gleam of burnished bronze,
 the sound of his voice was like the noise of a crowd.

- 7 I, Daniel, alone saw the apparition; the men who were with me did not see the apparition, but so great a trembling overtook them that they fled to hide.
 8 I was left alone, gazing on this great apparition; I was powerless, my appearance altered out of all recognition, what strength I had deserted me.

The apparition of the angel

- 9 I heard him speak, and at the sound of his voice I fell unconscious to the 10 ground. •I felt a hand touching me, setting my knees and my hands trembling.
 11 He said, 'Daniel, you are a man specially chosen; listen carefully to the words that I am going to say; stand up; I have been sent to you and here I am'. He 12 said this, and I stood up trembling. •He said then, 'Daniel, do not be afraid:
 from that first day when you resolved to humble yourself before God, the better to understand, your words have been heard; and your words are the reason why 13 I have come. •The prince of the kingdom of Persia has been resisting me for

9 a. See v.25. The seventy 'weeks of years' are from Jeremiah's prophecy to the rebuilding of Jerusalem.

b. Probably the renegade Jews who renounced their obligations and obeyed Antiochus Epiphanes. c. Or 'the blasphemous idol', here indicating Zeus to whom the Temple was dedicated by Antiochus. The phrasing makes an allusion to the baals denounced by the prophets.

twenty-one days, but Michael,<sup>a</sup> one of the leading princes, came to my assistance. I have left him confronting the kings of Persia and have come to tell you what will happen to your people in the days to come. For here is a new vision about those days.'

When he had said these things to me I prostrated myself on the ground, without saying a word; then someone looking like a son of man came and touched my lips. I opened my mouth to speak, and I said to the person standing in front of me, 'My lord, anguish overcomes me at this vision, and what strength I had deserts me. How can my lord's servant speak to my lord now that I have no strength left and my breath fails me?' Once again the person like a man touched me; he gave me strength. 'Do not be afraid,' he said 'you are a man specially chosen; peace be with you; play the man, be strong!' And as he spoke to me I felt strong again and said, 'Let my lord speak, you have given me strength'.

The prelude to the prophecy

He said then, 'Do you know why I have come to you? It is to tell you what is written in the Book of Truth. I must go back to fight against the prince of Persia: when I have done with him, the prince of Javan will come next. In all this there is no one to lend me support except Michael your prince, 11 on whom I rely to give me support and reinforce me. And now I will tell you the truth about these things.

Early struggles between Seleucids and Ptolemies

'Three more kings are going to rise in Persia; a fourth will come and be richer than all the others, and when, thanks to his wealth, he has grown powerful, he will challenge all the kingdoms of Javan. A mighty king will rise and reign over a vast empire and do whatever he pleases. But once he has come to power his empire will be broken up and parcelled out to the four winds of heaven, though not to his descendants: it will not be ruled as he ruled it, for his sovereignty is going to be uprooted and pass to others than his own.

'The king of the South<sup>a</sup> will grow powerful, but one of his princes<sup>b</sup> will grow more powerful still with an empire greater than that of the former. Some years later, these will form an alliance and, to ratify the agreement, the daughter of the king of the South will go to the king of the North. Her arm will not, however, retain its strength, nor his posterity endure: she will be handed over, she, her escorts and her child, and he who has had authority over her.<sup>c</sup> In due time a sprig from her roots will rise in his place, will march on the defences, force the stronghold of the king of the North, and succeed in overcoming them. He will even carry off all their gods, their statues, their precious gold and silver plate to Egypt. For some years he will leave the king of the North in peace, but the latter will invade the kingdom of the king of the South, then retire to his own country. His sons<sup>d</sup> will next be on the march, mustering a host of powerful forces; and he<sup>e</sup> will advance, deploy, break through and march on his stronghold once again. The king of the South will fly into a rage and set out to give battle to the king of the North who will have an immense army on his side, and this army will be delivered into his hands. The army will be annihilated; he will be triumphant; he will overthrow tens of thousands; yet he will have no strength. The king of the North will come back, having recruited an even larger army than before, and finally, when the time comes, he will advance with a great army and plentiful supplies. In those times many will rebel against the king of the South; men of violence will also rebel from your own people, thus fulfilling the vision; but they will fail. The king of the North will then come and throw up siege-works to capture a strongly fortified city. The forces of the South will not stand their ground, its picked troops will not be strong enough to resist. The invader will treat him as he pleases, no one will be able to resist him: he will take his stand in the Land of Splendour, destruction in his 17 hands. •He will consider conquering his entire kingdom, but will then make a treaty with him and, to overthrow the kingdom, give him a woman's 18 daughter;<sup>f</sup> but this will not last or be to his advantage. •He will next turn to the islands and conquer many of them, but a magistrate will put a stop to his outrages in such a way that he will be unable to repay outrage for outrage.<sup>g</sup> 19 •He will then turn on the strongholds of his own country, but will stumble, 20 fall, and never be seen again. •In his place there will rise a man<sup>h</sup> who will send an extortioner to despoil the royal splendour; in a few days he will be shattered, though neither publicly nor in battle.<sup>i</sup>

Antiochus Epiphanes

21 •In his place there will rise a wretch;<sup>j</sup> he will not be given royal honours, but will insinuate himself into them in his own time and gain possession of the kingdom
 22 by intrigue. •Armies will be utterly routed and crushed by him, the prince 23 of the covenant too.<sup>k</sup> •Still conspiring, he will go from treachery to treachery, ever growing stronger despite the smallness of his following. •In his own time he will invade the richest provinces, acting as his fathers or his fathers' fathers never acted, distributing plunder, spoil and wealth among them, plotting his stratagems against fortresses—for a time.
 25 •He will rouse his strength and his heart against the king of the South with a great army. The king of the South will march to war with a huge and powerful 26 army, but will offer no resistance, since he will be outwitted by trickery. •Those who shared his food will ruin him; his army will be swept away, many will fall in the slaughter.
 27 •The two kings, seated at one table, hearts bent on evil, will tell their lies;
 28 but they will not have their way, for the appointed time is still to come. •He will return greatly enriched to his own country, his heart set against the holy covenant; he will take action, and next return to his own country. •In due 29 time he will make his way southwards again, but this time the outcome will 30 not be as before. •The ships of Kittim<sup>l</sup> will oppose him, and he will be worsted.
 He will retire and take furious action against the holy covenant and, as before,
 will favour those who forsake that holy covenant.
 31 •Forces of his will come and profane the sanctuary citadel; they will abolish the perpetual sacrifice and install the disastrous abomination there.
 32 Those who break the covenant he will corrupt by his flatteries, but the people 33 who know their God will stand firm and take action. •Those of the people who are learned will instruct many; for some days, however, they will be brought 34 down by sword and flame, by captivity and by plundering. •And thus brought down, little help will they receive, though many will be plotting on their side.
 35 Of the learned some will be brought down, as a result of which certain of them will be purged, purified and made white—until the time of the End, for the appointed time is still to come.
 36 •The king will do as he pleases, growing more and more arrogant, considering himself greater than all the gods; he will utter incredible blasphemies against the God of gods, and he will thrive until the wrath reaches bursting point; for 37 what has been decreed will certainly be fulfilled. •Heedless of his fathers' gods,

10 a. Michael ('Who-is-like-God?') is the guardian angel of the people of God.

THE TIME OF THE END

The end of the persecutor

'When the time comes for the End, the king of the South will try conclusions with him; but the king of the North will come storming down on him with chariots, cavalry, and a large fleet. He will invade countries, overrun them and drive on. •He will invade the Land of Splendour, and many will fall; but Edom, Moab, and what remain of the sons of Ammon will escape him.

'He will reach out to attack countries: the land of Egypt will not escape him. The gold and silver treasures and all the valuables of Egypt will lie in his power. Libyans and Cushites<sup>o</sup> will be at his feet: •but reports coming from the East and the North will worry him, and in great fury he will set out to bring ruin and complete destruction to many. •He will pitch the tents of his royal headquarters between the sea and the mountains of the Holy Splendour. Yet he will come to his end—there will be no help for him.

Resurrection and retribution

12 'At that time Michael will stand up, the great prince who mounts guard over your people. There is going to be a time of great distress, unparalleled since nations first came into existence. When that time comes, your own people will be spared, all those whose names are found written in the Book. •Of those who lie sleeping in the dust of the earth many will awake, some to everlasting life, some to shame and everlasting disgrace. •The learned will shine as brightly as the vault of heaven, and those who have instructed many in virtue, as bright as stars for all eternity.

'But you, Daniel, must keep these words secret and the book sealed until the time of the End. Many will wander this way and that, and wickedness will go on increasing.'

The sealed prophecy

Then I, Daniel, looked on and saw two others standing, one on the near bank of the river, one on the other. •One said to the man dressed in linen who was standing further up the stream, 'How long until these wonders take place?' I heard the man speak who was dressed in linen, standing further up the stream: he raised his right hand and his left to heaven and swore by him who lives for ever, 'A time and two times, and half a time; and all these things are going to happen when he who crushes the power of the holy people meets his end'. I listened but did not understand. Then I said, 'My lord, what is to be the outcome?' •'Daniel,' he said 'go away: these words are to remain secret and sealed until the time of the End. •Many will be cleansed, made white and purged; the wicked will go on doing wrong; the wicked will never understand; the learned will understand. •From the moment that the perpetual sacrifice is abolished and the disastrous abomination erected: one thousand two hundred and ninety days. •Blessed is he who stands firm and attains a thousand three hundred and thirty-five days. •But you, go away and rest; and you will rise for your share at the end of time.'

SUSANNA AND THE JUDGEMENT OF DANIEL

1 13 In Babylon there lived a man named Joakim. •He had married Susanna
 2 daughter of Hilkiah, a woman of great beauty; and she was God-fearing,
 3 because her parents were worthy people and had instructed their daughter in 4 the Law of Moses. •Joakim was a very rich man, and had a garden attached
 5 to his house; the Jews would often visit him since he was held in greater respect
 6 than any other man. •Two elderly men had been selected from the people that 7 year to act as judges. Of such the Lord said, 'Wickedness has come to Babylon
 8 through the elders and judges posing as guides to the people'. •These men 9 were often at Joakim's house, and all who were engaged in litigation used to 10 come to them. •At midday, when everyone had gone, Susanna used to take a 11 walk in her husband's garden. •The two elders, who used to watch her every 12 day as she came in to take her walk, gradually began to desire her. •They 13 threw reason aside, making no effort to turn their eyes to heaven, and forgetting 14 its demands of virtue. •Both were inflamed by the same passion, but they hid their 15 desire from each other, •for they were ashamed to admit the longing to sleep
 16 with her, •but they still contrived to see her every day. •One day, having parted
 17 with the words, 'Let us go home, it is time for the midday meal', they went off 18 in different directions, •only to retrace their steps and find themselves face to 19 face again. Obligated then to explain, they admitted their desire and agreed to 20 look for an opportunity of surprising her alone. •So they waited for a favourable
 21 moment; and one day Susanna came as usual, accompanied only by two young 22 maidservants. The day was hot and she wanted to bathe in the garden. •There 23 was no one about except the two elders, spying on her from their hiding place.
 24 She said to the servants, 'Bring me some oil and balsam and shut the garden door
 25 while I bathe'. •They did as they were told, shutting the garden door and going 26 back to the house by a side entrance to fetch what she had asked for;
 27 they knew nothing about the elders, who were hiding.

28 Hardly were the servants gone than the two elders were there after her. 'Look,'
 29 they said 'the garden door is shut, no one can see us. We want to have you, 30 so give in and let us! •Refuse, and we will both give evidence that a young 31 man was with you and that was why you sent your maids away.' •Susanna 32 sighed. 'I am trapped,' she said 'whatever I do. If I agree, that means my death; 33 if I resist, I cannot get away from you. •But I prefer to fall innocent into your 34 power than to sin in the eyes of the Lord.' •Then she cried out as loud as 35 she could. The two elders began shouting too, putting the blame on her, •and 36 one of them ran to open the garden door. •The household, hearing the shouting 37 in the garden, rushed out by the side entrance to see what was happening; •once the elders had told their story the servants were thoroughly taken aback, since nothing of this sort had ever been said of Susanna.

28 Next day a meeting was held at the house of her husband Joakim. The two 29 elders arrived, in their vindictiveness determined to have her put to death. •They 30 addressed the company: 'Summon Susanna daughter of Hilkiah and wife of 31 Joakim'. She was sent for, •and came accompanied by her parents, her children 32 and all her relations. •Susanna was very graceful and beautiful to look at; •she 33 was veiled, so the wretches made her unveil in order to feast their eyes on her 34 beauty. •All her own people were weeping, and so were all the others who saw 35 her. •The two elders stood up, with all the people round them, and laid their 36 hands on the woman's head.<sup>a</sup> •Tearfully she turned her eyes to heaven, her 37 heart confident in God. •The elders then spoke. 'While we were walking by ourselves in the garden, this woman arrived with two servants. She shut the garden door and then dismissed the servants. •A young man who had been hiding went over to her and they lay down together. •From the end of the garden where we were, we saw this crime taking place and hurried towards them. •Though we saw them together we were unable to catch the man: he was too strong for us; he opened the door and took to his heels. •We did, however, catch this woman and ask her who the young man was. •She refused to tell us. That is our evidence.'

Since they were elders of the people, and judges, the assembly took their word: Susanna was condemned to death. •She cried out as loud as she could, 'Eternal God, you know all secrets and everything before it happens; •you know that they have given false evidence against me. And now have I to die, innocent as I am of everything their malice has invented against me?'

The Lord heard her cry •and, as she was being led away to die, he roused the holy spirit residing in a young boy named Daniel •who began to shout, 'I am innocent of this woman's death!' •At which all the people turned to him and asked, 'What do you mean by these words?' •Standing in the middle of the crowd he replied, 'Are you so stupid, sons of Israel, as to condemn a daughter of Israel unheard, and without troubling to find out the truth?' •Go back to the scene of the trial: these men have given false evidence against her.'

All the people hurried back, and the elders said to Daniel, 'Come and sit with us and tell us what you mean, since God has given you the gifts that elders have'. •Daniel said, 'Keep the men well apart from each other for I want to question them'. •When the men had been separated, Daniel had one of them brought to him. 'You have grown old in wickedness,' he said 'and now the sins of your earlier days have overtaken you, •you with your unjust judgements, your condemnation of the innocent, your acquittal of guilty men, when the Lord has said, "You must not put the innocent and the just to death". •Now then, since you saw her so clearly, tell me what tree you saw them lying under?' He replied, 'Under a mastic tree'. •Daniel said, 'True enough! Your lie recoils on your own head: the angel of God has already received your sentence from him and will slash you in half.' •He dismissed the man, ordered the other to be brought and said to him, 'Spawn of Canaan, not of Judah, beauty has seduced you, lust has led your heart astray! •This is how you have been behaving with the daughters of Israel and they were too frightened to resist; but here is a daughter of Judah who could not stomach your wickedness! •Now then, tell me what tree you surprised them under?' He replied, 'Under a holm oak'. Daniel said, 'True enough! Your lie recoils on your own head: the angel of God is waiting, with a sword to drive home and split you, and destroy the pair of you.'

Then the whole assembly shouted, blessing God, the saviour of those who trust in him. •And they turned on the two elders whom Daniel had convicted of false evidence out of their own mouths. •As prescribed in the Law of Moses, they sentenced them to the same punishment as they had intended to inflict on their neighbour. They put them to death; the life of an innocent woman was spared that day. •Hilkiah and his wife gave thanks to God for their daughter Susanna, and so did her husband Joakim and all his relations, because she had been acquitted of anything dishonourable.

From that day onwards Daniel's reputation stood high with the people.

BEL AND THE DRAGON

Daniel and the priests of Bel

14 When King Astyages joined his ancestors, Cyrus of Persia succeeded him. Daniel was very close to the king who thought more of him than of any other of his friends. •Now in Babylon there was an idol called Bel,<sup>a</sup> to which twelve bushels of the finest flour, forty sheep and six measures of wine were

4 offered every day. •The king took part in this cult and used to go and worship
 5 the idol every day. Daniel, however, worshipped his own God. •'Why do you not worship Bel?' the king asked Daniel. 'I do not worship idols made by the hands of men,' Daniel replied 'I worship the living God who made heaven and 6 earth and who has power over all living creatures.' •'You believe, then,' said the king 'that Bel is not a living god? Can you not see how much he eats 7 and drinks every day?' •Daniel laughed. 'My king,' he said 'do not be taken in;
 he is clay inside, and bronze outside, and has never eaten or drunk anything.'
 8 This made the king angry; he summoned his priests, 'Tell me who eats all this food,' he said 'or die. Prove to me that Bel really eats it, and I will have 9 Daniel put to death for blaspheming him.' •Daniel said to the king, 'Let it be as you say'.

There were seventy of these priests, to say nothing of their wives and 10 children. •The king went to the temple of Bel, taking Daniel with him. •The 11 priests of Bel said to him, 'We are now withdrawing, as you can see;
 but we will leave you, O king, to set out food and prepare the wine and leave it there. Then you can shut the door and seal it with your own seal. If, when you return in the morning, you do not find that everything has been eaten by Bel, 12 then let us be put to death; if not, then Daniel, that slanderer!' •They were thinking—hence their confidence—of a secret entrance which they had made under the table, by which they came in daily and took the offerings away.
 13 When the priests had gone and the king had set out the food for Bel, •Daniel 14 made his servants bring ashes and spread them all over the temple floor, with no other witness than the king. Then they left the building, shut the door and, 15 sealing it with the king's seal, went away. •That night, as usual, the priests came with their wives and children; they ate and drank everything.

16 The king was up very early next morning; so was Daniel. •'Daniel,' said
 17 the king 'are the seals intact?' 'They are intact, O king' he replied. •The king then opened the door and taking one look at the table he exclaimed, 'You are 18 great, O Bel! There is no deception in you!' •But Daniel laughed. And restraining the king from going further in, he said, 'Look at the floor and examine these footprints'. •'I can see footprints of men, of women and of children' said the 19 king, •and angrily ordered the priests to be arrested, with their wives and children.
 They showed him then the secret door through which they used to come and 22 remove what was on the table. •The king had them put to death and handed Bel over to Daniel who destroyed both the idol and its temple.

Daniel kills the dragon

23 There was a big dragon in Babylon, and this was worshipped too. •The 24 king said to Daniel, 'You are not going to tell me that this is no more than bronze? Look, it is alive; it eats and drinks; you cannot deny that this is a 25 living god; worship it, then.' •Daniel replied, 'I worship the Lord my God;
 he is the living God. With your permission, O king, without using either sword or 26 club I will kill this serpent.' •'You have my permission' said the king.
 27 Whereupon Daniel took some pitch, some fat and some hair and boiled them up together, rolled the mixture into balls and fed them to the dragon; the dragon swallowed them and burst. Daniel said, 'Now look at the sort of thing 28 you worship!' •The Babylonians were furious when they heard about this and began intriguing against the king. 'The king has turned Jew,' they said 'he has allowed Bel to be overthrown, and the dragon to be killed, and he has put the 29 priests to death.' •So they went to the king and said, 'Hand Daniel over to 30 us or else we will kill you, and your family'. •They pressed him so hard that the king found himself forced to hand Daniel over to them.

Daniel in the lion pit

They threw Daniel into the lion pit, and there he stayed for six days. •In <sup>31</sup> the pit were seven lions, which were given two human bodies and two sheep <sup>32</sup> every day; but for this period they were not given anything, to make sure they would eat Daniel.

Now the prophet Habakkuk was in Judaea: he had been making a stew, <sup>33</sup> and breaking up bread small to put in a basket. He was on his way to the fields, taking this to the harvesters, •when the angel of the Lord spoke to him, 'Take <sup>34</sup>
the meal you are carrying to Babylon and give it to Daniel in the lion pit'.
'Lord,' replied Habakkuk 'I have not even seen Babylon, and know nothing <sup>35</sup> about this pit.' •The angel of the Lord seized his head and carried him off by the <sup>36</sup> hair to Babylon where, with a great thrust of his spirit, he set Habakkuk down on the edge of the pit. •'Daniel, Daniel,' Habakkuk shouted 'take the meal <sup>37</sup> that God has sent you.' •And Daniel said, 'You have kept me in mind, O God; <sup>38</sup> you have not deserted those who love you'. •Rising to his feet he ate the meal, <sup>39</sup> while the angel of God lost no time in returning Habakkuk to his own country.

On the seventh day the king came to lament over Daniel; on reaching the <sup>40</sup> pit he looked inside, and there was Daniel, quite unperturbed. •'You are great, <sup>41</sup> O Lord, God of Daniel,' he exclaimed 'there is no god but you!' •Then he <sup>42</sup> released Daniel from the pit and had the plotters of Daniel's ruin thrown in instead, where they were instantly eaten before his eyes.

THE REVOLT AGAINST THE GREEKS

The period between the visit of Ezra to Jerusalem and the revolt of the Maccabees is unusually complex. No power has ever succeeded in imposing a lasting unity on the countries of the Near East, for the geographical circumstances in which the areas of fertile land are separated by deserts and seas make for political fragmentation.

The Persian empire's two hundred years of comparatively enlightened and gentle rule were brought to an abrupt end by the ruthless and remarkable triumphs of Alexander the Great, who in thirteen years brought the entire Near East under Greek rule, from the Adriatic Sea to the river Indus in India. When Alexander died in 323 B.C. he left new Greek-style cities throughout the area, many of them bearing his name, populated by the veterans of his armies.

There was no clear leader to succeed Alexander. The generals divided the great empire between them, and then fought each other for the supremacy. Palestine, as a border country between the Ptolemies ruling Egypt, and the Seleucids, who gained control of Syria and Macedonia, changed hands five times in the first twenty-two years. The Ptolemies retained an insecure control of Palestine for the next hundred years, and this Egyptian rule had one important result in the growth of the Jewish community in the Egyptian delta port of Alexandria. During this time, the small state of Judea, with Jerusalem at its centre, remained culturally isolated from the growing influence of the Greek way of life in the rest of the Near East. The Jerusalem priestly families set the pattern of the community's life, through the rule of the high priest and the predominantly priestly council of elders.

In 200 B.C. the Seleucid King Antiochus III defeated the ruling Ptolemy and established Syrian rule in Palestine. It was an ominous move for the conservative religious community in Jerusalem. At first there was little change, but when Antiochus IV became king in 175 B.C. he introduced a policy of imposing Greek culture on every part of his kingdom. He believed that he was an incarnation of the Greek god Zeus. A minority in Jerusalem, including some of the leading priestly families, welcomed the chance of liberation from the restrictions of conservative Judaism and obtained permission from Antiochus to build a gymnasium in Jerusalem.

The resulting tension led to riots in Jerusalem. Antiochus suppressed the riots, seized the opportunity of plundering the Temple and set about stamping out the traditional Yahweh worship throughout the country. An altar of Zeus was set up in the Temple and royal officials went through the country enforcing Greek worship and suppressing Yahwism. The growing resistance to this enforced hellenisation finally developed into rebellion under the leadership of the Maccabee family, Mattathias and his five sons. It was twenty-five years from the beginning of the revolt in 167 B.C. before the Jewish state managed to secure its autonomy, but then, with the help of alliances with the growing power of Rome, it remained independent under conservative Jewish rule until the Romans made Syria a Roman province in 64 B.C.

The two books of Maccabees are concerned with the first section of this period, up to the year when Simon Maccabeus died in 134 B.C. It is important to notice that the two books are very different in character, and that 2 Maccabees is not a continuation of 1 Maccabees.

1 Maccabees was originally written in Hebrew, but it has only come down to us in a Greek translation. There is some difference of opinion about the date when it was written, but the most probable time is shortly after 104 B.C. At first sight it appears to have an unusually modern approach to the methods of writing history, for the author quotes extensively from letters which passed between the principal people involved in the revolt. These quotations should be treated with caution, however, for they may have been invented by the author in order to describe the course of events more vividly. Even so, this should not cause doubts, for the accuracy of the geographical and chronological information given supports the authenticity of the account of the events. The author's purpose, apart from describing the course of the revolt and its success, is to emphasise the close connection between loyalty to the Jewish state and the defence of the Jewish religion. If the people cannot establish their political independence they will be unable to practise their religion. Consequently, the most serious enemies are not the Greek foreigners but the Jews who accept the Greek way of life; they are double traitors, both to their nation and to their God.

2 Maccabees is a very different work. It was written in Greek, probably by a Jew of Alexandria. Possible dates for it have been suggested, ranging from about 120 B.C. to the early years of the first century A.D. The author describes his methods, aims, and the trouble he has taken over the book, in a charming passage near the beginning (2 Maccabees 2:23-31); his work is a condensation of five books which have not survived: '... we have aimed at providing diversion for those who merely want something to read, a saving of labour for those who enjoy committing things to memory, and profit for each and all' (2 Maccabees 2:24-25). The book covers some of the same events as 1 Maccabees, but shows particular interest in events connected with two Jewish feasts: the Feast of Dedication, which commemorates the rededication of the Temple in 165 B.C. after its desecration by Antiochus, and the Day of Nicanor, which commemorates the victory in 160 B.C. when Judas Macabbaeus defeated and killed the Syrian general, Nicanor. As would be expected if the author was a Jew who was content to live outside Palestine, there is not the same tendency to equate religion and patriotism in this Second Book of Maccabees. There are passages about personal survival after death, the resurrection of the body and the efficacy of prayers for the dead, which are important as showing the development of religious beliefs at the end of the Old Testament period.

THE FIRST BOOK OF MACCABEES

INTRODUCTION

Alexander and the Diadochoi

1 Alexander of Macedon, son of Philip, had come from the land of Kittim<sup>a</sup> 1 and defeated Darius, king of the Persians and Medes, whom he succeeded 2 as ruler, at first of Hellas. •He undertook many campaigns, gained possession 3 of many fortresses, and put the local kings to death. •So he advanced to the 4 ends of the earth, plundering nation after nation; the earth grew silent before 5 him, and his ambitious heart swelled with pride. •He assembled very powerful 6 forces and subdued provinces, nations and princes, and they became his 7 tributaries. •But the time came when Alexander took to his bed, in the knowledge 8 that he was dying. •He summoned his comrades, noblemen who had been 9 brought up with him from his youth, and divided his kingdom among them 10 while he was still alive. •Alexander had reigned twelve years when he died.<sup>b</sup> 11
Each of his comrades established himself in his own region. •All assumed crowns 12 after his death, they and their heirs after them for many years, bringing increasing 13 evils on the world. 14

Antiochus Epiphanes: Israel infected with hellenism

10 From these there grew a sinful offshoot, Antiochus Epiphanes, son of King 11
Antiochus; once a hostage in Rome,<sup>c</sup> he became king in the one hundred and 12
thirty-seventh year of the kingdom of the Greeks.<sup>d</sup> •It was then that there emerged 13 from Israel a set of renegades who led many people astray. 'Come,' they said 14
'let us reach an understanding with the pagans surrounding us, for since we 15
separated ourselves from them many misfortunes have overtaken us.' •This 16 proposal proved acceptable, •and a number of the people eagerly approached 17
the king, who authorised them to practise the pagan observances. •So they 18 built a gymnasium in Jerusalem, such as the pagans have, •disguised their 19 circumcision, and abandoned the holy covenant, submitting to the heathen rule 20
as willing slaves of impiety. 21

Antiochus Epiphanes despoils the Temple, and persecutes Jews remaining faithful to the Law

16 Once Antiochus had seen his authority established, he determined to make 17 himself king of Egypt, and the ruler of both kingdoms. •He invaded Egypt 18 in massive strength, with chariots and elephants and a great fleet. •He engaged 19 Ptolemy, king of Egypt, in battle, and Ptolemy turned back and fled before his 20 advance, leaving many casualties. •The fortified cities of the land of Egypt 21 were captured, and Antiochus plundered the country. •After his conquest of 22

22 Egypt, in the year one hundred and forty-three, Antiochus turned about and 21 advanced on Israel and Jerusalem in massive strength. •Insolently breaking into 23 the sanctuary, he removed the golden altar and the lamp-stand for the light 22 with all its fittings, •together with the table for the loaves of offering, the libation vessels, the cups, the golden censers, the veil, the crowns, and the golden decora-
 23 tion on the front of the Temple, which he stripped of everything. •He made 24 off with the silver and gold and precious vessels, he discovered the secret treasures
 24 and seized them, •and removing all of these, he went back to his own country, 23 leaving the place a shambles and uttering words of extreme arrogance.

25 Then there was deep mourning for Israel throughout the country:

26 Rulers and elders groaned;
 27 girls and young men wasted away;
 the women's beauty suffered a change;
 27 every bridegroom took up a dirge,
 28 the bride sat grief-stricken on her marriage-bed.
 28 The very land quaked for its inhabitants
 29 and the whole House of Jacob was clothed with shame.

29 The days passed, and after two years the king sent the mysarch<sup>f</sup> through 30 the cities of Judah. He came to Jerusalem with an impressive force, •and 31 addressing them with what appeared to be peaceful words, he gained their 32 confidence; •then suddenly he fell on the city dealing it a terrible blow, and 33 destroying many of the people of Israel. •He pillaged the city and set it on fire, 34 tore down its houses and encircling wall, •took the women and children captive
 33 and commandeered the cattle. •Then they fortified the City of David with a great 35 strong wall and strong towers, and made this their Citadel. •There they installed 34 an army of sinful men, renegades, who fortified themselves inside it, •storing 35 arms and provisions, and depositing there the loot they had collected from 37 Jerusalem; they were to prove a great trouble.

36 It became an ambush for the sanctuary,
 38 an evil adversary for Israel at all times.
 37 They shed innocent blood all round the sanctuary
 39 and defiled the sanctuary itself.
 38 The citizens of Jerusalem fled because of them,
 40 she became a dwelling place of strangers;
 estranged from her own offspring,
 her children forsook her.
 39 Her sanctuary became as deserted as a wilderness, 41 her feasts were turned into mourning,
 her sabbaths into a mockery,
 her honour into reproach.
 40 Her dishonour now fully matched her former glory,
 42 her greatness was turned into grief.

41 Then the king issued a proclamation to his whole kingdom that all were 43 to become a single people, each renouncing his particular customs. •All the pagans 44 conformed to the king's decree, •and many Israelites chose to accept his 43 religion, sacrificing to idols and profaning the sabbath. •The king also sent 44 instructions by messenger to Jerusalem and the towns of Judah directing them 45 to adopt customs foreign to the country, •banning holocausts, sacrifices and 47 libations from the sanctuary, profaning sabbaths and feasts, •defiling the 46 sanctuary and the sacred ministers, •building altars, precincts and shrines for 48, 49

 and prostituting themselves to all kinds of impurity and abomination, •so 51 that they should forget the Law and revoke all observance of it. •Anyone not 49 obeying the king's command was to be put to death. •Writing in such terms to 50 every part of his kingdom, the king appointed inspectors for the whole people, 52 and directed all the towns of Judah to offer sacrifice one after another. 53

Many of the people—that is, every apostate from the Law—rallied to them, 54 and so committed evil in the country, •forcing Israel into hiding in all their 52 places of refuge. •On the fifteenth day of Chislew in the year one hundred and 55 forty-five<sup>1</sup> the king erected the abomination of desolation<sup>2</sup> above the altar; and 53 altars were built in the surrounding towns of Judah •and incense offered at 56
 the doors of houses and in the streets. •Any books of the Law that came to 54 light were torn up and burned. •Whenever anyone was discovered possessing 57
 a copy of the covenant or practising the Law, the king's decree sentenced him 60 to death. •Having might on their side they took action month after month 61 against any offenders they discovered in the towns of Israel. •On the twenty- 59 fifth day of the month sacrifice was offered on the altar erected over the altar 62 of holocaust. •Women who had had their children circumcised were put to 60 death according to the edict •with their babies hung round their necks, and 63
 the members of their household and those who had performed the circumcision 61
 were executed with them. 64

Yet there were many in Israel who stood firm and found the courage to 62 refuse unclean food. •They chose death rather than contamination by such fare 63 or profanation of the holy covenant, and they were executed. •It was a dreadful 66 wrath that visited Israel. 64

MATTATHIAS UNLEASHES THE HOLY WAR

Mattathias and his sons

2 In those days Mattathias son of John, son of Simeon, a priest of the line 1 of Joarib, left Jerusalem and settled in Modein. •He had five sons, John 2 known as Gaddi, •Simon called Thassi, •Judas called Maccabaeus, •Eleazar, 3 called Avaran, and Jonathan called Apphus. •When he saw the blasphemies being 4,5 committed in Judah and Jerusalem, •he said, 'Alas that I should have been 7 born to witness the overthrow of my people, and the overthrow of the Holy 6
 City, and to sit by while she is delivered over to her enemies, and the sanctuary 7 into the hand of foreigners.

'Her Temple has become like a man of no repute, 8
 the vessels that were her glory have been carried off as booty, 9 her babies have been slaughtered in her streets,
 her young men by the enemy's sword.
 Is there a nation that has not claimed a share of her royal prerogatives, 10
 that has not taken some of her spoils?
 All her ornaments have been snatched from her, 11
 her former freedom has become slavery.
 See how our Holy Place, our beauty, our glory, is now laid waste, 12
 profaned by the pagans.
 What have we left to live for?' 13

Mattathias and his sons tore their garments, put on sackcloth, and observed 14 deep mourning.

The ordeal of the sacrifice at Modein

The king's commissioners who were enforcing the apostasy came to the 15 town of Modein to make them sacrifice. •Many Israelites gathered round them, 16

17 but Mattathias and his sons drew apart. •The king's commissioners then 18 addressed Mattathias as follows, 'You are a respected leader, a great man in 19 this town; you have sons and brothers to support you. •Be the first to step 20 forward and conform to the king's decree, as all the nations have done, and 21 the leaders of Judah and the survivors in Jerusalem; you and your sons shall 22 be reckoned among the Friends of the King, you and your sons shall be honoured
 23 with gold and silver and many presents.' •Raising his voice, Mattathias retorted, 24 'Even if every nation living in the king's dominions obeys him, each forsaking
 25 its ancestral religion to conform to his decrees, •I, my sons and my brothers 26 will still follow the covenant of our ancestors. •Heaven preserve us from for-27 saking the Law and its observances. •As for the king's orders, we will not follow 28 them: we will not swerve from our own religion either to right or to left.' •As he finished speaking, a Jew came forward in the sight of all to offer sacrifice on the altar in Modein as the royal edict required. •When Mattathias saw this, he was fired with zeal; stirred to the depth of his being, he gave vent to his legitimate anger, threw himself on the man and slaughtered him on the altar. •At the same time he killed the king's commissioner who was there to enforce the sacrifice, and tore down the altar. •In his zeal for the Law he acted as Phinehas did against Zimri son of Salu. •Then Mattathias went through the town, shouting at the top of his voice, 'Let everyone who has a fervour for the Law and takes his stand on the covenant come out and follow me'. •Then he fled with his sons into the hills, leaving all their possessions behind in the town.

The ordeal of the sabbath in the desert

29 At this many who were concerned for virtue and justice went down to the 30 desert and stayed there, •taking with them their sons, their wives and their 31 cattle, for the burden of their wrongs had become unendurable. •But word was brought to the king's men and the garrison in Jerusalem, in the City of David, that the men who had repudiated the king's edict had gone down to hiding 32 places in the desert. •A strong detachment went after them, and when it came up with them ranged itself against them in battle formation, preparing to attack 33 them on the sabbath day. •But first they challenged them, 'Enough of this!
 34 Come out and do as the king orders and you shall be spared'. •But they an-35 swered, 'We refuse to come out, and we are not going to obey the king's orders 36 and so profane the sabbath day'. •The others at once went into action, •but they offered no opposition; not a stone was thrown, there was no barricading of the 37 hiding places. •They only said, 'Let us all die innocent; let heaven and earth
 38 bear witness that you are massacring us with no pretence of justice'. •The attack was pressed home on the sabbath itself, and they were slaughtered, with their wives and children and cattle, to the number of one thousand persons.

The activity of Mattathias and his associates

39 When the news reached Mattathias and his friends, they mourned bitterly 40 for the victims, •and said to one another, 'If we all do as our brothers have done, and refuse to fight the pagans for our lives and institutions, they 41 will only destroy us the sooner from the earth'. •So then and there they came to this decision, 'If anyone attacks us on the sabbath day, whoever he may be,
 we will resist him; we must not all be killed, as our brothers were in the hiding places'.

42 Soon they were joined by a community of Hasidaeans, stout fighting men 43 of Israel, each one a volunteer on the side of the Law. •All the refugees from 44 the persecution rallied to them, giving them added support. •They organised themselves into an armed force, striking down the sinners in their anger, and the renegades in their fury, and those who escaped them fled to the pagans for safety. •Mattathias and his friends made a tour, overthrowing the altars 45 and forcibly circumcising all the boys they found uncircumcised in the territories 46 of Israel. •They hunted down the upstarts, and managed their campaign to good 47 effect. •They wrested the Law out of the control of the pagans and the 48 kings, and robbed sinful men of their advantage.

The testament and death of Mattathias

As the days of Mattathias were drawing to a close, he said to his sons, 49
'Arrogance and outrage are now in the ascendant; it is a period of turmoil and bitter hatred. •This is the time, my children, for you to have a burning 50 fervour for the Law and to give your lives for the covenant of our ancestors.

'Remember the deeds performed by our ancestors, each 51
in his generation,

and you shall win great honour and everlasting renown. 52
Was not Abraham tried and found faithful,

was that not counted as making him just? 53

Joseph in the time of his distress maintained the Law, and so became lord of Egypt. 54

Phinehas, our father, in return for his burning fervour received a covenant of everlasting priesthood. 55

Joshua, for carrying out his task,
became judge of Israel. 56

Caleb, for his testimony before the assembled people, received an inheritance in the land. 57

David for his generous heart inherited the throne of an everlasting kingdom. 58

Elijah for his consuming fervour for the Law
was caught up to heaven itself. 59

Hananiah, Azariah and Mishael, for their fidelity, were saved from the flame. 60

Daniel for his singleness of heart was rescued from the lion's jaw. 61

Consider, then, how in generation after generation
all who hope in him will not be found to falter. 62

Do not fear the threats of the sinner, all his brave show must come to the dunghill and the worms. 63

Exalted today, tomorrow he is nowhere to be found, for he has returned to the dust he came from 64

and his scheming is brought to nothing.
My children, play the man and be courageous for the Law,
for it will bring you glory. 65

'Here is your brother Simeon, I know he is a man of sound judgement. Listen 65 to him all your lives; let him take your father's place. •Judas Maccabaeus, 66

strong and brave from his youth, let him be your general and conduct the war against the pagans. •The rest of you are to enrol in your ranks all those who 67

keep the Law, and to exact vengeance for your people. •Pay back the pagans 68 to the full, and hold fast to the ordinance of the Law.' •Then he blessed them 69

and was laid with his ancestors. •He died in the year one hundred and forty-six 70 and was buried in his ancestral tomb at Modein, and all Israel mourned him deeply.

JUDAS MACCABAEUS, LEADER OF THE JEWS

(166-160 B.C.)

The eulogy of Judas Maccabaeus

<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> 3 Then his son Judas, called Maccabaeus, took over his command. •All his brothers, and all who had attached themselves to his father, supported him, and they fought for Israel with a will.

<sup>3</sup> He extended the fame of his people.
 He put on the breastplate like a giant
 and girded on his war harness;
 he engaged in battle after battle,
 protecting the ranks with his sword.
<sup>4</sup> He was like a lion in his exploits,
 like a lion's whelp roaring over its prey.
<sup>5</sup> He pursued and tracked down the renegades,
 he consigned those who troubled his people to the flames.
<sup>6</sup> Renegades were abashed for terror of him,
 all evil-doers were utterly confounded,
 and deliverance went forward under his leadership.
<sup>7</sup> He brought bitterness to many a king and rejoicing to Jacob by his deeds,
 his memory is blessed for ever and ever.
<sup>8</sup> He went through the towns of Judah
 and utterly destroyed the infidels in them,
 turning wrath away from Israel.
<sup>9</sup> His name resounded to the ends of the earth and he rallied those who were on the point of perishing.

The first successes of Judas

<sup>11</sup> against Israel. •When Judas learned of it, he went out to meet him and routed <sup>12</sup> and killed him. Many fell wounded, and the survivors took to flight. •Their spoils were seized and the sword of Apollonius was taken by Judas, who used <sup>13</sup> it to fight with throughout his life. •On hearing that Judas had raised a mixed force <sup>14</sup> of believers and seasoned fighters, •Seron, commander of the Syrian troops, said, 'I will make a name for myself and gain honour in the kingdom if I fight Judas and those supporters of his who are so contemptuous of the king's orders'.
<sup>15</sup> He therefore launched another expedition, with a strong army of infidels to <sup>16</sup> support him in taking revenge on the Israelites. •He had nearly reached the descent of Beth-horon when Judas went out to confront him with a handful <sup>17</sup> of men. •But as soon as these saw the force advancing to meet them they said to Judas, 'How can we, few as we are, engage such overwhelming numbers?'
<sup>18</sup> We are exhausted as it is, not having had anything to eat today.' •'It is easy'
 Judas answered 'for a great number to be routed by a few; indeed in the sight <sup>19</sup> of heaven deliverance, whether by many or by few, is all one; •for victory in war does not depend on the size of the fighting force; it is from heaven that <sup>20</sup> strength comes. •They are coming against us in full-blown insolence and law-<sup>21</sup> lessness to destroy us, our wives and our children, and to plunder us; •but we <sup>22</sup> are fighting for our lives and our laws, •and he will crush them before our <sup>23</sup> eyes; do not be afraid of them.' •When he had finished speaking, he made a sudden <sup>24</sup> sally against Seron and his force and overwhelmed them. •Judas pursued him down from Beth-horon as far as the plain. About eight hundred of their men <sup>3</sup> a. 'The mysarch' of 1:29.

fell, and the rest took refuge in the country of the Philistines. •Judas and his 25 brothers began to be feared, and alarm seized the surrounding peoples. •His 26 name even reached the king's ears, and in every nation there was talk of Judas and his battles.

Preparations for expeditions in Persia and Judaea. The regency of Lysias

The news of these events infuriated Antiochus, and he ordered mobilisation 27 of all the forces in his kingdom, a very powerful army. •Opening his treasury, 28 he distributed a year's pay to his troops, telling them to be prepared for any eventuality. •He then found that the money in his coffers had run short and that 29 the tribute of the province had decreased, as a result of the dissension and disaster brought upon the country by his own abrogation of laws that had been in force from antiquity. •He began to fear that, as had happened more than 30 once, he would not have enough to cover the expenses and the lavish bounties
 he had previously been accustomed to make on a larger scale than his predecessors 31 on the throne. •In this grave quandary he resolved to visit Persia, in order to levy tribute on the provinces and so accumulate substantial funds. •Lysias, 32 a nobleman belonging to the royal family, was left in charge of the king's affairs from the river Euphrates to the Egyptian frontier, •and was to be responsible 33 for the education of his son Antiochus until his return. •Antiochus made over 34 to him half his forces, with the elephants, and gave him instructions about all his policies, particularly about the inhabitants of Judaea and Jerusalem, •against 35 whom he was to send a force, to crush and destroy the power of Israel and the remnant of Jerusalem, to wipe out their very memory from the place, •to settle 36
 the sons of foreigners in all parts of their territory and to distribute their land by lot. •The king took with him the remaining half of his forces and set out 37 from Antioch, the capital of his kingdom, in the year one hundred and forty-seven;<sup>b</sup> he crossed the river Euphrates and made his way along the upper provinces.

Gorgias and Nicanor lead the Syrian army into Judaea

Lysias chose Ptolemy son of Dorymenes, with Nicanor and Gorgias, 38 influential men from among the Friends of the King, •and despatched under their 39 command forty thousand foot and seven thousand horse to invade the land of Judah and devastate it, as the king had ordered. •The entire force set out 40 and reached the neighbourhood of Emmaus in the Lowlands, where they pitched camp. •When the merchants of the province heard who they were, they came 41 to the camp, bringing with them a large amount of gold and silver, and fetters as well, proposing to buy the Israelites as slaves; they were accompanied by a contingent from Idumaea and the Philistine country. •Judas and his brothers 42 saw that the situation was going from bad to worse and that armies were camping in their territory; they were also well aware that the king had ordered the people's total destruction. •So they said to each other, 'Let us restore the ruins of our 43 people and fight for our people and our sanctuary.' •They mustered their people 44 to prepare for war, and to offer prayer and implore compassion and mercy.

Jerusalem was left uninhabited like a desert, 45
 there was none left to go in or out, of all her children.
 The sanctuary was trodden underfoot,
 with men of an alien race in the Citadel,
 now a lodging place for pagans.
 There was no more rejoicing for Jacob,
 flute and zither were mute.

The Jews muster at Mizpah

After mustering, they made their way to Mizpah, opposite Jerusalem, since 46
 Mizpah was traditionally a place of prayer for Israel. •That day they fasted 47 and put on sackcloth, covering their heads with ashes and tearing their garments.

 48 For the guidance that the heathen would have sought from the images of their 49 false gods,' they opened the Book of the Law. •They also brought out the priestly vestments, with first-fruits and tithes, and marshalled the nazirites who had 50 completed the period of their vow. •Then, raising their voices to heaven, they cried, 'What shall we do with these people, and where are we to take them?'
 51 Your sacred precincts have been trampled underfoot and defiled, your priests
 52 mourn in their humiliation, •and now the pagans are allied together to destroy 53 us: you know what they have in mind for us. •How can we stand up and face them
 54 if you do not come to our aid?' •Then they sounded the trumpets and made a great outcry.

55 Next Judas appointed leaders for the people, to command a thousand, a 56 hundred, fifty or ten men. •He told those who were building houses, or about to be married, or planting vineyards, or who were simply afraid, to go home 57 every one of them, as the Law allowed. •Then the formation marched off and 58 took up a position south of Emmaus. •'Stand to your arms,' Judas told them
 'acquit yourselves bravely, be ready to fight in the morning against these pagans
 59 massed against us to destroy us and our sanctuary. •Better for us to die in battle 60 than to watch the ruin of our nation and our holy place. •Whatever be the will of heaven, he will perform it.'

The battle of Emmaus

1 4 Gorgias took with him five thousand foot and a thousand picked cavalry, 2 and the force moved off by night •with the object of attacking the Jewish position and dealing them an unexpected blow; the men from the Citadel were 3 there to guide him. •Judas got wind of it and himself moved off with his fighters
 4 to strike at the king's forces in Emmaus, •while their fighting troops had been 5 moved away from the encampment. •And so, when Gorgias reached the camp of Judas, he found nobody and he began to search for the Jews in the mountains, 6 exclaiming, 'They are running away from us'. •First light found Judas in the plain with three thousand men, although these lacked the armour and swords 7 they could have wished. •They could now see the heathen encampment with its strong fortifications and cavalry surrounding it, clearly people who understood warfare.

8 Judas said to his men, 'Do not be afraid of their numbers, and do not flinch at 9 their attack. •Remember how our ancestors were delivered at the Red Sea when 10 Pharaoh was pursuing them in force. •And now let us implore heaven to be kind to us and to remember his covenant with our ancestors and to destroy this army 11 confronting us today; •then all the nations will know for certain that there is one who saves and delivers Israel.'

12 The foreigners looked up and, seeing the Jews advancing against them, 13 came out of the camp to join battle. Judas' men sounded the trumpet •and 14 engaged them. The pagans were routed and fled towards the plain •and all the stragglers fell by the sword. The pursuit continued as far as Gezer and the plains of Idumaea, Azotus and Jamnia, and the enemy lost about three thousand men.

16 Breaking off the pursuit, Judas returned with his men •and said to the people, 17 'Never mind the booty, for we have another battle ahead of us. •Gorgias and his forces are still in the mountains not far from us. First stand up to our enemies 19 and fight them, and then you can collect as much booty as you like.' •The words were hardly out of Judas' mouth when an enemy patrol appeared on the mount-20 ainside. •This patrol, observing that their own troops had been routed and that the camp had been fired, for the smoke, which was clearly visible, told them 21 what had happened, •were panic-stricken at the sight; and when they also saw

3 b. 165 B.C. c. When the time of a vow was completed, the nazirite had to offer sacrifice in the Temple. But now the Temple was desecrated.

the forces of Judas drawn up on the plain in battle formation, •they all fled 22 into Philistine territory. •Judas now turned back to plunder the camp, and 23 they carried off a large sum in gold and silver, with violet and sea-purple stuffs, and many other valuables. •On their return, the Jews chanted praises to heaven, 24
 'For he is good, and his mercy is everlasting'. •That day had seen a remarkable 25
 deliverance in Israel.

The first campaign of Lysias

Those of the foreigners who had escaped came and gave Lysias an account 26 of all that had happened. •The news shocked and dismayed him, for affairs 27 in Israel had not gone as he intended, and the results were very different from the instructions given him by the king. •The next year he mobilised sixty thousand 28 picked troops and five thousand cavalry with the intention of putting the Jews out of action. •They advanced into Idumaea and made their base at Bethzur,<sup>a</sup> 29 where Judas met them with ten thousand men. •When he saw their military 30 strength he offered this prayer, 'Blessed are you, saviour of Israel, who shattered the might of the Philistine champion by the hand of your servant David, and delivered their camp into the hands of Jonathan son of Saul, and his armour- 31 bearer. •Crush this expedition in the same way at the hands of your people 32 Israel; make them ashamed of their forces and their cavalry. •Make cowards of them, undermine their confidence in their own strength, and may they reel at their 33 defeat. •Overthrow them by the sword of those who love you, and all who acknowledge your name will sing your praises.' •The two forces engaged, and five 34 thousand men of Lysias' troops fell in hand-to-hand fighting. •Seeing the 35 rout of his army and the courage of Judas' troops and their readiness to live or die as soldiers should, Lysias withdrew to Antioch, where he recruited mercenaries for a further invasion of Judaea in even greater strength.

The purification of the Temple and its dedication

Then Judas and his brothers said, 'Now that our enemies have been defeated, 36
 let us go up to purify the sanctuary and dedicate it'. •So they marshalled the whole 37 army, and went up to Mount Zion. •There they found the sanctuary a wild- 38 erness, the altar desecrated, the gates burnt down, and vegetation growing in the courts as it might in a wood or on some mountain, while the storerooms were in ruins. •They tore their garments and mourned bitterly, putting dust 39 on their heads. •They prostrated themselves on the ground, and when the 40 trumpets gave the signal they cried aloud to heaven.

Then Judas ordered his men to engage the garrison in the Citadel until he 41 had purified the sanctuary. •Next, he selected priests who were blameless in 42 observance of the Law •to purify the sanctuary and remove the stones of the 43 abomination to an unclean place.

They discussed what should be done about the altar of holocausts which had 44 been profaned, •and very properly decided to pull it down, that it might never 45 become a reproach to them, from its defilement by the pagans. They therefore demolished it •and deposited the stones in a suitable place on the Temple hill 46 to await the appearance of a prophet who should give a ruling about them.
 They took unhewn stones, as the Law prescribed, and built a new altar on the 47 lines of the old one. •They restored the Holy Place and the interior of the house, 48 and purified the courts. •They made new sacred vessels, and brought the lamp- 49 stand, the altar of incense, and the table into the Temple. •They burned incense 50 on the altar and lit the lamps on the lamp-stand, and these shone inside the Temple. •They set out the loaves on the table and hung the curtains and completed 51
 all the tasks they had undertaken.

On the twenty-fifth of the ninth month, Chislew, in the year one hundred and 52
 forty-eight, they rose at dawn •and offered a lawful sacrifice on the new altar 53 of holocausts which they had made. •The altar was dedicated, to the sound of 54

zithers, harps and cymbals, at the same time of year and on the same day on which 55 the pagans had originally profaned it. •The whole people fell prostrate in 56 adoration, praising to the skies him who had made them so successful. •For eight days they celebrated the dedication of the altar, joyfully offering holocausts, 57 communion sacrifices and thanksgivings. •They ornamented the front of the Temple with crowns and bosses of gold, repaired the gates and the storerooms 58 and fitted them with doors. •There was no end to the rejoicing among the people, 59 and the reproach of the pagans was lifted from them. •Judas, with his brothers and the whole assembly of Israel, made it a law that the days of the dedication of the altar should be celebrated yearly at the proper season, for eight days beginning on the twenty-fifth of the month Chislew, with rejoicing and gladness.
 60 They then proceeded to build high walls with strong towers round Mount Zion, to prevent the pagans from coming and riding roughshod over it as in the 61 past. •Judas stationed a garrison there to guard the mount; he also fortified Bethzur, to give the people a fortress against Idumaea.

The expedition against the Idumaeans and Ammonites

1 5 When the surrounding nations heard that the altar had been rebuilt and the 2 sanctuary restored to what it had been before, they became very angry, •and determined to destroy the whole race of Jacob living among them; they began murdering and evicting Jewish citizens.
 3 Judas made war on the sons of Esau in Idumaea,<sup>a</sup> in the region of Akrabattene where they held the Israelites under siege. He inflicted a crushing defeat on 4 them, and plundered them. •He also remembered the wickedness of the sons of Baean who were a menace and a trap for the people with their ambushes 5 on the roads. •Having blockaded them in their towers and besieged them, he vowed them to the ban; then he set fire to their towers and burned them down 6 with everyone inside. •Next, he crossed over to the Ammonites where he found a strong fighting force and a numerous people with Timotheus for their leader.
 7 He engaged them in many encounters, routed them and cut them to pieces.
 8 After capturing Jazer and its outlying villages, he retired to Judaea.

The opening of campaigns in Galilee and Gilead

9 The pagans in Gilead now banded together against the Israelites living on their territory, to destroy them. But they took refuge in the fortress of Dathema, 10 and sent the following letter to Judas and his brothers, 'The pagans round us 11 have banded themselves together against us to wipe us out, •and they are preparing to storm the fortress in which we have taken refuge; Timotheus is in command 12 of their forces. •Come at once and rescue us from their clutches, for we have 13 already suffered great losses. •All our countrymen living among the Tubians have been put to death, their women and children have been taken into captivity, their property has been seized, and a force about a thousand strong has been 14 wiped out there.' •While the letter was being read, other messengers arrived 15 from Galilee with their garments torn bearing similar news, •'The people of Ptolemais,<sup>b</sup> Tyre and Sidon have joined forces with the whole of heathen Galilee 16 to destroy us!' •When Judas and the people heard this, a great assembly was held to decide what should be done for their oppressed countrymen who were 17 under attack from their enemies. •Judas said to his brother Simon, 'Pick your men and go and relieve your countrymen in Galilee, while my brother Jonathan 18 and I make our way into Gilead'. •He left Joseph son of Zechariah and the people's leader Azariah with the remainder of the army in Judaea to guard it, 19 and gave them these orders: 'Take charge of this people, and do not engage the pagans until we return'. •Simon was allotted three thousand men for the expedition into Galilee, Judas eight thousand for Gilead.

The expeditions in Galilee and Gilead

Simon advanced into Galilee, engaged the pagans in several battles and drove them off in disorder; •he pursued them to the gate of Ptolemais, and they lost about three thousand men, whose spoils he collected. •He took away with him the Jews of Galilee and Arbatta, with their wives and children and all their possessions, and brought them into Judaea with great rejoicing.

Meanwhile Judas Maccabaeus and his brother Jonathan crossed the Jordan and made a three days' march through the desert, •where they encountered the Nabataeans,<sup>d</sup> who came to an understanding with them and gave them an account of all that had happened to their brothers in Gilead. •Many of them, they said, were shut up in Bozrah and Bosor, Alema, Chaspho, Maked and Carnaim, all large fortified towns. •Others were blockaded in the other towns of Gilead, and the enemy planned to attack and capture these strongholds the very next day, and wipe out all the people inside them in a single day.

Judas and his army at once turned off by the desert road to Bozrah; having captured the town, he put the entire male population to the sword, plundered the town and set it on fire. •When night came, he left the place, and they continued their march until they reached the fortress. •In the light of dawn they saw an innumerable horde, setting up ladders and engines to capture the fortress; the assault was just beginning. •When Judas saw that the attack had begun and that the war cry was rising to heaven, mingled with trumpet calls and a great clamour, •he said to the men of his army, 'You must fight today, fight for your countrymen'. •Dividing them into three commands, he advanced on the enemy's rear, with trumpets sounding and prayers shouted aloud. •The troops of Timotheus, recognising that this was Maccabaeus, fled before his advance; Maccabaeus dealt them a crushing defeat; about eight thousand of their men fell that day. •Then, wheeling on Alema, he attacked and captured it, put its male population to death, plundered it and burned the place down. •From there he moved on and took Chaspho, Maked, Bosor and the remaining towns of Gilead. •After these events, Timotheus mustered another force and pitched camp opposite Raphon, on the far side of the wadi. •Judas sent men to reconnoitre the camp, and these reported back as follows, 'With him are massed all the pagans surrounding us, making a very numerous army, •with Arab mercenaries as auxiliaries; they are encamped on the far side of the wadi, and ready to launch an attack on you.' Judas then advanced to engage them, •and was approaching his watercourse with his troops when Timotheus told the commanders of his army, 'If he crosses first we shall not be able to resist him, because he will have the advantage of us. •But if he is afraid and camps on the other side of the stream we will cross over to him and the advantage will then be ours.'

As soon as he reached the watercourse Judas posted the scribes of the people along the wadi, giving them this order: 'Do not let anyone pitch his tent; all are to go into battle!' •He was himself the first across to the enemy side, with all the people following. Driven before them, the pagans all tore off their armour and ran for refuge in the sacred precinct of Carnaim. •The Jews first captured the town, and then burned down the precinct with everyone inside. And so Carnaim was overthrown, and the enemy could offer no further resistance to Judas.

Next, Judas assembled all the Israelites living in Gilead, from the least to the greatest, with their wives, children and belongings, an enormous muster, to take them into the land of Judah. •They reached Ephron, a large town straddling the road and strongly fortified. As it was impossible to by-pass it on the right or the left, there was nothing for it but to march straight through. •But the people of the town denied them passage and barricaded the gates with stones.

 48 Judas sent them a conciliatory message in these terms, 'Let us go through your territory to reach our own; no one will do you any harm, we only want to march 49 through'. But they would not open up for him. •So Judas sent an order down 50 the column for everyone to halt where he stood. •The fighting men took up their positions; Judas attacked the town all day and night, and it was delivered 51 into his hands. •He put all the male inhabitants to the sword, razed it to the ground, plundered it and marched through the town over the bodies of the 52 dead. •The Jews now crossed the Jordan into the great plain, opposite Bethshan, 53 Judas all the time rallying the stragglers and encouraging the people the whole 54 way until they reached the land of Judah. •They climbed Mount Zion in joy and gladness, and offered holocausts because they had returned safe and sound without having lost a single man.

A setback at Jamnia

55 While Judas and Jonathan were in the land of Gilead and Simon his brother 56 in Galilee before Ptolemais, •Joseph son of Zechariah, and Azariah, who were in command of the army, heard of their exploits and how well they had done in 57 battle, •and said, 'Let us make a name for ourselves too and go and fight the 58 nations around us'. •So they issued orders to the men of the forces under them
 59 and marched on Jamnia. •But Gorgias came out from the town with his men 60 to engage them. •Joseph and Azariah were routed and pursued as far as the frontiers of Judaea. That day about two thousand Israelites lost their lives.
 61 And so the people met with a great reverse, because they had not listened 62 to Judas and his brothers, but had relied on their own prowess. •These were not of the same mould as those to whom the deliverance of Israel had been entrusted.

Successes in Idumaea and Philistia

63 But that hero Judas and his brothers were held in high honour throughout 64 Israel and among all the nations wherever their name was heard, •and men 65 gathered round them to acclaim them. •Judas marched out with his brothers to fight the Edomites in the country towards the south; he stormed Hebron and its outlying villages, threw down its fortifications and burned its circle of towers.
 66 Leaving there, he made for the country of the Philistines and passed through 67 Marisa.<sup>f</sup> •Among the fallen in that day's fighting were some priests who sought 68 to prove their courage there by joining in the battle, a foolhardy venture. •Judas next turned towards Azotus, a Philistine district; he overthrew their altars, burned down the carved images of their gods, and withdrew to the land of Judah, leaving their towns utterly despoiled.

The last days of Antiochus Epiphanes

1 6 Meanwhile King Antiochus was making his way across the upper provinces;
 he had heard that in Persia there was a city called Elymais, renowned for 2 its riches, its silver and gold, •and its very wealthy temple containing golden armour, breastplates and weapons, left there by Alexander son of Philip, the 3 king of Macedon, the first to reign over the Greeks. •He therefore went and attempted to take the city and pillage it, but without success, since the citizens 4 learnt of his intention, •and offered him a stiff resistance, whereupon he 5 turned about and retreated, disconsolate, in the direction of Babylon. •But while he was still in Persia news reached him that the armies that had invaded 6 the land of Judah had been defeated, •and that Lysias in particular had advanced in massive strength, only to be forced to turn and flee before the Jews; these had been strengthened by the acquisition of arms, supplies and abundant spoils from the armies they had cut to pieces; •they had overthrown the abomination he had erected over the altar in Jerusalem, and had encircled the sanctuary with high walls as in the past, and had fortified Bethzur, one of his cities. •When the king heard this news he was amazed and profoundly shaken; he threw himself on his bed and fell into a lethargy from acute disappointment, because things had not turned out for him as he had planned. •And there he remained for many days, subject to deep and recurrent fits of melancholy, until he understood that he was dying. •Then summoning all his Friends, he said to them, 'Sleep evades my eyes, and my heart is cowed by anxiety. •I have been asking myself how I could have come to such a pitch of distress, so great a flood as that which now engulfs me—I who was so generous and well-loved in my heyday. But now I remember the wrong I did in Jerusalem when I seized all the vessels of silver and gold there, and ordered the extermination of the inhabitants of Judah for no reason at all. •This, I am convinced, is why these misfortunes have overtaken me, and why I am dying of melancholy in a foreign land.'

The accession of Antiochus V

He summoned Philip, one of his Friends, and made him regent of his whole kingdom. •He entrusted him with his diadem, his robe and his signet, on the understanding that he was to educate his son Antiochus and train him for the throne. •Then King Antiochus died, in the year one hundred and forty-nine. Lysias, learning that the king was dead, established his son Antiochus on the throne in succession to him, having brought him up from childhood—and styled him Eupator.

The siege of the Citadel of Jerusalem by Judas Maccabaeus

The men from the Citadel were a threat to Israel in the neighbourhood of the sanctuary, seeking every opportunity of harming them, and proving a strong support to the pagans. •Judas decided that they must be destroyed, and he mobilised the whole people to besiege them. •They assembled, and laid siege to the Citadel in the year one hundred and fifty, building firing platforms and siege-engines. •But some of the besieged broke through the blockade, and to these a number of renegades from Israel attached themselves. •They made their way to the king and said, 'How much longer are you going to wait before you see justice done and avenge our fellows? •We were content to serve your father, to comply with his orders, and to obey his edicts. •As a result our own people will have nothing to do with us; what is more, they have killed all those of us they could catch, and have plundered our heritages. •Nor is it on us alone that their blows have fallen, but on all your dominions. •At this moment they are laying siege to the Citadel of Jerusalem, to capture it, and they have fortified the sanctuary and Bethzur. •Unless you forestall them at once, they will go on to even bigger things, and then you will never be able to control them.'

The expedition of Antiochus V and Lysias. The battle of Bethzechariah

The king was furious when he heard this, and summoned all his Friends, the generals of his forces and the cavalry commanders. •He recruited mercenaries from other kingdoms and the islands of the seas. •His forces numbered a hundred thousand foot soldiers, twenty thousand cavalry and thirty-two elephants with experience of battle conditions. •They advanced through Idumaea and besieged Bethzur, pressing the attack for days on end; they also constructed siege-engines, but the defenders made a sortie and set these on fire, putting up a brave resistance.

At this Judas raised the siege of the Citadel and pitched camp at Bethzechariah<sup>b</sup> opposite the royal encampment. •The king rose at daybreak and marched his army at top speed down the road to Bethzechariah, where his

34 forces took up their battle formations and sounded the trumpets. •The elephants were shown a syrup of grapes and mulberries to prepare them for the battle.
35 They distributed these animals among the phalanxes, allocating to each elephant a thousand men dressed in coats of mail with bronze helmets on their heads; 36 five hundred picked horsemen were also assigned to each beast. •The horsemen anticipated every move their elephant made; wherever it went they went with 37 it, and never separated from it. •On each elephant, to protect it, was a stout wooden tower, kept in position by girths, each with its team fighting from their 38 mounted position, as well as its driver. •The remainder of the cavalry was stationed on one or other of the two flanks of the army, to harass the enemy and cover the phalanxes.

39 When the sun glinted on the bronze and golden shields the mountains caught 40 the glint and gleamed like fiery torches. •One part of the king's army was deployed high up in the mountains and others on the valley floor, all advancing con-41 fidently and in good order. •Everyone trembled at the noise made by this vast multitude, the thunder of the troops on the march and the clanking of their 42 armour, for it was an immense and mighty army. •Judas and his army advanced 43 to give battle, and six hundred of the king's army were killed. •Eleazar, called Avaran, noticing that one of the elephants was royally caparisoned and was also 44 taller than all the others, and supposing that the king was mounted on it, 45 sacrificed himself to save his people and win an imperishable name. •Boldly charging towards the creature through the thick of the phalanx, dealing death to 46 right and left, so that the enemy scattered on either side at his onslaught, •he darted in under the elephant, ran his sword into it and killed it. The beast 47 collapsed on top of him, and he died on the spot. •The Jews saw how strong the king was, and the ferocity of the royal troops, and retired before them.

The capture of Bethzur and siege of Mount Zion by the Syrians

48 The royal army moved up to encounter them before Jerusalem, and the 49 king began to blockade Judaea and Mount Zion. •He granted peace terms to the people of Bethzur, who evacuated the town; it lacked store of provisions 50 to withstand a siege, since the land was enjoying a sabbatical year. •Having 51 occupied Bethzur, the king stationed a garrison there to hold it. •He besieged the sanctuary for a long time, erecting firing platforms and siege-engines, fire-52 throwers and ballistas, scorpions to discharge arrows, and catapults. •The defenders countered these by constructing their own engines, and were thus 53 able to prolong their resistance. •But they had no stocks of provisions, because it was the seventh year, and those who had taken refuge in Judaea from the 54 pagans had eaten up the last of their reserves. •Only a few men were left in the Holy Place, owing to the severity of the famine; the rest had dispersed and gone home.

The king grants the Jews religious freedom

55 Meanwhile Philip, whom King Antiochus before his death had appointed 56 to train his son Antiochus for the throne, •had returned from Persia and Media with the forces that had accompanied the king, and was planning to seize 57 control of affairs. •On hearing this, Lysias at once decided to leave, and said to the king, the generals of the army and the men, 'We are growing weaker every day, we are short of food, and the place we are besieging is well fortified; 58 moreover the affairs of the kingdom demand our attention. •Let us offer the hand of friendship to these men and make peace with them and with their whole 59 nation. •Let us grant them permission to follow their own customs as before, since it is our abolition of these customs that provoked them into acting like 60 this.' •The king and his commanders approved this argument, and he sent 61 the Jews an offer of peace, which they accepted. •The king and the generals ratified the treaty by oath, and the besieged accordingly left the fortress. •The king then entered Mount Zion, but on seeing how impregnable the place was, he broke the oath he had sworn and gave orders for the encircling wall to be demolished. •He then hurriedly struck camp and retired to Antioch, where he found Philip already master of the city. Antiochus fought him and took the city by storm.

Demetrius I becomes king, and sends Bacchides and Alcimus to Judaea

7 In the year one hundred and fifty Demetrius, son of Seleucus, escaped from Rome and arrived with a few men at a town on the coast, where he began to hold court. •As he was entering the crown lands of his ancestors his army arrested Antiochus and Lysias, intending to bring them before him. •But when he heard of this he said, 'Keep them out of my sight'. •So the army killed them and Demetrius ascended the throne of his kingdom. •Then there came to him all the renegades and godless men in Israel, led by Alcimus, whose ambition it was to become high priest. •They denounced the people before the king. 'Judas and his brothers' they said 'have killed all your friends, and he has driven us out of our country. •Send someone now whom you can trust; let him go and see the wholesale ruin Judas has brought on us and on the king's dominions, and let him punish the wretches and all who assist them.'

The king chose Bacchides, one of the Friends of the King, governor of the country beyond the river,<sup>a</sup> a great man in the kingdom and loyal to the king. He sent him with the godless Alcimus, whom he established as high priest, with orders to exact retribution from the Israelites. •So they set out with a large force, and on reaching the land of Judah they sent messengers to Judas and his brothers with treacherous proposals of peace. •But these did not trust them, seeing that they had come with a large force. •Nevertheless a commission of scribes presented themselves before Alcimus and Bacchides, to sue for just terms. •The first among the Israelites to ask them for peace-terms were the Hasidaeans, •who reasoned like this, 'This is a priest of Aaron's line who has come with the armed forces; he will not wrong us'. •He did in fact discuss peace-terms with them and gave them his oath, 'We will not attempt to injure you or your friends'. •They believed him, but he arrested sixty of them and put them to death in one day, fulfilling the words of scripture: •They have scattered the flesh of your devout, and shed their blood all round Jerusalem, and no one to dig a grave! •At this, fear and dread gripped the whole people. 'There is no truth or virtue in them;' they said 'they have broken their agreement and their sworn oath.'

Bacchides then left Jerusalem and encamped at Bethzaith,<sup>b</sup> and from there sent and arrested many of the men who had deserted him, and some of the people, and killed them, throwing them into the great cistern. •Then he put Alcimus in charge of the province, leaving an army with him to support him; Bacchides himself returned to the king. •Alcimus continued his struggle to become high priest, •and all who were disturbing the peace of their own people rallied to him; gaining control of the land of Judah, they worked great havoc in Israel. Seeing that all the wrongs done to the Israelites by Alcimus and his supporters exceeded what the pagans had done, •Judas went right round the whole territory of Judaea to take vengeance on those who had deserted him and prevent their free movement about the country.

When Alcimus saw how strong Judas and his supporters had grown, he realised that he had not the strength to resist them, and returned to the king where he laid criminal charges against them.

Nicanor in Judaea. The battle of Capharsalama

The king sent Nicanor, one of his generals ranking as Illustrious and a bitter enemy of Israel, with orders to exterminate the people. •Reaching Jerusalem with a large force, Nicanor sent envoys to Judas and his brothers with treacherous 28 proposals of peace: 'Let us have no fighting' he said 'between me and you;

 29 I will come with a small escort and meet you face to face in peace.' •And he came to Judas and they greeted each other peaceably enough; however, 30 the enemy had made preparations to abduct Judas. •When Judas became aware of Nicanor's treacherous purpose in coming to see him, he took fright and 31 refused any further meeting. •Nicanor then realised that his plan had been discovered, and went out to meet Judas in battle near Capharsalama.
 32 About five hundred of Nicanor's men fell; the rest took refuge in the City of David.

Threats against the Temple

33 After these events Nicanor went up to Mount Zion. Some of the priests came out from the Holy Place with some elders, to welcome him peacefully 34 and to show him the holocaust that was being offered for the king. •But he mocked them and laughed in their faces, defiled them and used insolent language, 35 swearing in his rage, 'Unless Judas is handed over to me this time with his army, as soon as I am safely back, I promise you, I will burn this building down!'
 36 Then he went off in a fury. •At this the priests went in again, and stood in tears
 37 before the altar and the sanctuary, saying, •'You chose this house to be called 38 by your name, to be a house of prayer and petition for your people. •Take vengeance on this man and on his army, and let them fall by the sword; remember their blasphemies and give them no respite.'

The 'Day of Nicanor' at Adasa

39 Nicanor left Jerusalem and encamped at Beth-horon, where he was joined 40 by an army from Syria. •Meanwhile Judas camped at Adasa with three thousand 41 men, and offered this prayer, •'When the Assyrian king's envoys blasphemed, your angel went out and struck down one hundred and eighty-five thousand 42 of his men. •In the same way let us see you crush this army today, so that the rest may know that this man has spoken blasphemously against your sanctuary:
 judge him according to his wickedness.'

43 The armies met in battle on the thirteenth of the month Adar, and Nicanor's army was crushed, he himself being the first to fall in the battle. •When his troops 45 saw that Nicanor had fallen, they threw down their arms and fled. •The Jews pursued them a day's journey, from Adasa to the approaches of Gezer; they 46 sounded their trumpets in warning as they followed them, •and people came out from all the surrounding villages of Judaea and blocked their flight, so that they turned back on their own men, and all fell by the sword, not one being 47 left alive. •Collecting the spoils and booty, they cut off Nicanor's head and the right hand he had stretched out in a display of insolence; these were taken 48 and displayed within sight of Jerusalem. •The people were overjoyed, and 49 kept that day as a great holiday; •indeed they decided to celebrate it annually
 50 on the thirteenth of Adar. •The land of Judah was at peace for a short time.

A eulogy of the Romans

1 8 Now, Judas had heard of the reputation of the Romans, their military strength and their benevolence towards all who made common cause with them; they 2 wanted to establish friendly relations with anyone who approached them, •because of their military strength. He was told of their wars and of their prowess 3 among the Gauls, whom they had conquered and put under tribute; •and of all they had done in the province of Spain to gain possession of the silver and gold 4 mines there, •making themselves masters of the whole country by their determination and perseverance, despite its great distance from their own; of the kings who came from the ends of the earth to attack them, only to be crushed by them and overwhelmed with disaster, and of others who paid them annual tribute; •Philip, Perseus king of the Kittim, and others who had dared to make war on them, had been defeated and reduced to subjection, •while Antiochus the Great, king of Asia, who had advanced to attack them with a hundred and twenty elephants, cavalry, chariots and a very large army, had also suffered defeat at their hands; •they had taken him alive and imposed on him and his successors the payment of an enormous tribute, the surrender of hostages, and the cession •of the Indian territory, with Media, Lydia, and some of their best provinces, which they took from him and gave to King Eumenes. •Judas was also told how, when the Greeks planned an expedition to destroy them, •the Romans got wind of it and sent against them a single general, fought a campaign in which they inflicted heavy casualties, carried off their women and children into captivity, pillaged their goods, subdued their country, tore down their fortresses and reduced them to a slavery lasting to this very day; •and how all other kingdoms and islands that had ever resisted them were also destroyed and enslaved.

But where their friends and those who relied on them were concerned, they had always stood by their friendship. They had subdued kings far and near, and all who heard their name went in terror of them. •One man, if they determined to help him and advance him to a throne, would certainly occupy it, while another, if they so determined, would find himself deposed; their influence was paramount. •In spite of all this not one of them had assumed a crown or put on the purple for his own aggrandisement. •They had set up a senate, where three hundred and twenty councillors deliberated daily, constantly debating how best to regulate public affairs. •They entrusted their government to one man for a year at a time, with absolute power over their whole empire, and this man was obeyed by all without any envy or jealousy.

The alliance between the Jews and Romans

Having chosen Eupolemus son of John, of the family of Accos, and Jason son of Eleazar, Judas sent them to Rome to make a treaty of friendship and alliance with these people, •who would surely lift the yoke from their shoulders once they understood that the kingdom of the Greeks was reducing Israel to slavery. •The envoys made the lengthy journey to Rome and presented themselves before the Senate with their formal proposal, •Judas Maccabaeus and his brothers, with the Jewish people, have sent us to you to conclude a treaty of alliance and peace with you, and to enrol ourselves as your allies and friends'. The proposal met with the approval of the senators, •and this is a copy of the rescript which they engraved on bronze tablets and sent to Jerusalem to be kept there by the Jews as a record of peace and alliance:

'Good fortune attend the Romans and the Jewish nation by sea and land for ever; may sword or enemy be far from them! •If war comes first to Rome or any of her allies throughout her dominions, •the Jewish nation is to take action as her ally, as occasion may require, and do it wholeheartedly. •They are not to give or supply to the aggressor any grain, arms, money or ships; this is the Roman decision, and they are to honour their obligations without recompense. In the same way, if war comes first to the Jewish nation the Romans are to support them energetically as occasion may offer, •and the aggressor shall not be furnished with grain, arms, money or ships; this is the Roman decision, and they will honour these obligations unreservedly. •These are the terms laid down by the Romans for the Jewish people. •If when they have come into force either party should wish to make any addition or deletion, they shall be free to do so, and any such addition or deletion shall be binding.'

'As regards the wrongs done to them by King Demetrius, we have written to him in these terms: Why have you made your yoke lie heavy on our friends 32 and allies the Jews? •If they appeal against you again we will uphold their rights and make war on you by sea and land.’

The battle of Beerzeth and death of Judas Maccabaeus

1 9 Demetrius heard that Nicanor and his army had fallen in battle, and he sent Bacchides and Alcimus a second time into the land of Judah, and 2 with them the right wing of his army. •They took the road to Galilee and besieged Mesaloth in Arbela,<sup>a</sup> and captured it, putting many people to death.
 3 In the first month of the year one hundred and fifty-two they set up camp
 4 before Jerusalem; •they then moved on, making their way to Beerzeth<sup>b</sup> with 5 twenty thousand foot and two thousand horse. •Judas lay in camp at Elasa, 6 with three thousand picked men. •When they saw the huge size of the enemy forces they were terrified, and many slipped out of the camp, until no more 7 than eight hundred of the force were left. •When Judas saw that his army had melted away and that attack was imminent, he was aghast, for he had no time
 8 to rally them. •Yet, dismayed as he was, he said to those who were left, ‘Up!
 9 Let us face the enemy; we may yet have the strength to fight them.’ •His men tried to dissuade him, declaring, ‘We have no strength for anything but to escape with our lives this time; then we can come back with our brothers to fight them;
 10 by ourselves we are too few’. •‘God forbid’ Judas retorted ‘that I should do such a thing as run away from them! If our time has come, at least let us die like men for our countrymen, and leave nothing to tarnish our reputation.’

11 The enemy forces then marched out of the camp, and the Jews took up their position in readiness to engage them. The cavalry was ordered into two squadrons;
 the slingers and archers marched in the van of the army with the shock-troops, 12 all stout fighters; •Bacchides was on the right wing. The phalanx advanced from between the two squadrons, sounding the trumpets; the men on Judas’ 13 side blew their trumpets also, •and the earth shook with the noise of the armies.
 The engagement lasted from morning until evening.

14 Judas saw that Bacchides and the main strength of his army lay on the right;
 15 all the stout-hearted rallied to him, •and they broke the right wing and pursued 16 them to the furthest foothills of the range. •But when the Syrians on the left wing saw that the right had been broken, they turned and followed hot on the 17 heels of Judas and his men to take them in the rear. •The fight became desperate, 18 and there were many casualties on both sides. •Judas himself fell, and the remnant fled.

The funeral of Judas Maccabaeus

19 Jonathan and Simon took up their brother Judas and buried him in his 20 ancestral tomb at Modein. •All Israel wept and mourned him deeply and for 21 many days they repeated this dirge, •‘What a downfall for the strong man, 22 the man who saved Israel single-handed!’ •The other deeds of Judas, the battles he fought, the exploits he performed, and all his titles to greatness have not been recorded; but they were very many.

23 After the death of Judas the renegades came out of hiding throughout Israel 24 and all the evil-doers reappeared. •At that time there was a severe famine, and the country went over to their side. •Bacchides deliberately chose the enemies 25 of religion and set them up as governors of the country. •These traced and 26 searched out the friends of Judas and brought them before Bacchides, who took revenge on them and humiliated them. •A terrible oppression began in Israel; 27 there had been nothing like it since the disappearance of prophecy among them.

Then all the friends of Judas came together and said to Jonathan, •‘Since 28 your brother Judas died, there has been no one like him to head the resistance 29 to the enemy, Bacchides and those who hate our nation. •Accordingly, we have 30 today chosen you to take his place as our ruler and leader and to fight our campaigns.’ •From that day Jonathan accepted the leadership and took over 31
the command from his brother Judas.

Jonathan in the desert of Tekoa. Bloody encounters round Medeba

Bacchides, when he heard the news, made plans to kill Jonathan. •But this 32 became known to Jonathan, his brother Simon and all his supporters, and they 33 took refuge in the desert of Tekoa, camping by the water of the cistern at Asphar. •(Bacchides came to know of this on the sabbath day, and he too crossed 34
the Jordan with his entire army.)

Jonathan sent his brother, who was in charge of the convoy, to request his 35 friends the Nabataeans to store their considerable baggage for them. •But 36
the sons of Jambri from Medeba<sup>c</sup> raided them, captured John and everything he had and made off with their prize. •After this had happened it was reported 37 to Jonathan and his brother Simon that the sons of Jambri were celebrating a great wedding, and were escorting the bride, a daughter of one of the great 38 notables of Canaan, from Nadabath with a large retinue. •Remembering the bloody end of their brother John, they went up and hid under cover of the 39 mountain. •As they were keeping watch, there came into sight a noisy procession with a great deal of baggage, and the bridegroom, with his groomsmen and 40 his family, came out to meet it with tambourines and a band, and military display.
The Jews rushed down on them from their ambush and killed them, inflicting 41 heavy casualties; the survivors escaped to the mountain, leaving their entire baggage train to be captured. •And so the wedding was turned into mourning 42 and the music of their band into a dirge. •Having in this way avenged in full the blood of their brother they returned to the marshes of the Jordan.

Crossing the Jordan

As soon as Bacchides heard this, he came on the sabbath day with a 43 considerable force to the steep banks of the Jordan. •Jonathan said to his men, 44 ‘Up! Let us fight for our lives, for today is not like yesterday and the day before.
You can see, we shall have to fight on our front and to our rear, we have the 45 waters of the Jordan on one side, the marsh and scrub on the other, and we have no line of withdrawal. •This is the moment to call on heaven for your 46 deliverance from the hand of our enemies.’ •The engagement was begun by 47
Jonathan, who aimed a blow at Bacchides, but the Syrian disengaged himself and withdrew, •whereupon Jonathan and his men leapt into the Jordan and swam 48 to the other bank, but the enemy did not cross the Jordan in pursuit. •That 49 day Bacchides lost about a thousand men.

Bacchides builds fortifications. The death of Alcimus

Bacchides returned to Jerusalem and built strongholds in Judaea, the fortress 50 in Jericho, Emmaus, Beth-horon, Bethel, Timnath, Pharathon and Tephon, with high walls and barred gates, •and stationed a garrison in each of them to 51
harass Israel. •He also fortified the town of Bethzur, Gezer and the Citadel, 52 and placed troops in them with supplies of provisions. •He took the sons of 53
the leading men of the country as hostages, and had them placed under guard in the Citadel of Jerusalem.

54 In the year one hundred and fifty-three, in the second month, Alcimus ordered the demolition of the wall of the inner court of the sanctuary, destroying 55 the work of the prophets.<sup>d</sup> Alcimus had just begun the demolition •when he suffered a stroke, and his work was interrupted. His mouth became obstructed, and his paralysis made him incapable of speaking at all or giving directions
 56 to his household; •it was not long before he died in great agony. •When Bacchides 57 saw that Alcimus was dead he returned to the king; and the land of Judah was left in peace for two years.

The siege of Bethbasi

58 All the renegades then agreed on a plan. 'Now is the time,' they said 'while Jonathan and his supporters are living in peace and are full of confidence, for 59 us to bring back Bacchides; he can arrest them all in one night.' •So they went 60 to him and reached an understanding. •Bacchides at once set out with a large force, and sent secret instructions to all his allies in Judaea to seize Jonathan and his supporters. But they were unable to do this because their plan became 61 known, •and Jonathan and his men arrested some fifty of the men of the country who were ringleaders in the plot, and put them to death.

62 Jonathan and Simon then retired with their partisans into the wilderness 63 to Bethbasi; they rebuilt the ruinous parts of the place and fortified it. •When Bacchides heard this, he mustered his whole force and notified his adherents 64 in Judaea. •He then proceeded to lay siege to Bethbasi, attacking it for many 65 days and constructing siege-engines. •But Jonathan, leaving his brother Simon
 66 in the town, broke out into the countryside with a handful of men. •He attacked Odomera and his brothers, and the sons of Phasiron in their tents; and these 67 went over to the attack, joining forces with him. •Meanwhile Simon and his 68 people made a sortie from the town and set fire to the siege-engines. •Taking the offensive against Bacchides, they routed him. He was greatly disconcerted 69 to find that his plan and his assault had come to nothing, •and vented his anger on those renegades who had induced him to enter the country, putting many 70 of them to death; then he decided to return to his own country. •Discovering this, Jonathan sent envoys to negotiate peace-terms and the release of prisoners 71 with him. •Bacchides agreed to this, accepting his proposals and swearing 72 never to seek occasion to harm him all the days of his life. •After surrendering to Jonathan the prisoners he had earlier taken in the land of Judah, he turned about and withdrew to his own country, and never again came near their frontiers.
 73 The sword no longer hung over Israel, and Jonathan settled in Michmash, where he began to judge the people and to rid Israel of the godless.

Alexander Balas competes for Jonathan's support, and appoints him high priest

1 10 In the year one hundred and sixty Alexander styled Epiphanes, son of Antiochus, landed at Ptolemais and occupied it. He was well received,
 2 and held court there. •On hearing this, King Demetrius assembled a very large
 3 army and marched out to meet him in battle. •Demetrius furthermore sent 4 Jonathan a conciliatory letter designed to enhance his dignity, •for, as he said,
 'We had better move first to come to terms with these people before he makes 5 common cause with Alexander against us; •he will not have forgotten all the 6 wrongs we inflicted on him and his brothers, and on his nation'. •He therefore authorised him to raise an army and manufacture arms, and to describe himself as his ally, and ordered the hostages in the Citadel to be surrendered to him.
 7 Jonathan went straight to Jerusalem and read the letter in the hearing of 8 the whole people and of the men in the Citadel. •Everyone was awestruck when 9 they heard that the king had given him authority to raise an army. •The men in the Citadel surrendered the hostages to Jonathan, who handed them back to their parents. •Jonathan then took up residence in Jerusalem and began the rebuilding and restoration of the city. •He ordered those responsible for the work to build the walls and the defences round Mount Zion in square hewn stones to make them stronger, and this was done. •The foreigners in the fortresses built by Bacchides abandoned them, •one after another leaving his post to go back to his own country. •Only at Bethzur were a few left of those who had forsaken the Law and the commandments, since this served them as a place of refuge.

King Alexander heard of all the promises Demetrius had sent to Jonathan, and he was also given an account of the battles and exploits of this man and his brothers and the trials they had endured. •‘Shall we ever find another man like him?’ he exclaimed. ‘Let us be quick to make a friend and ally of him!’ •He therefore wrote him a letter, addressing him in these terms, •‘King Alexander to his brother Jonathan, greetings. •You have been brought to our notice as a strong man of action, and one disposed to be our friend. •Accordingly we have today appointed you high priest of your nation, with the title of ‘Friend of the King’—he also sent him a purple robe and a golden crown—‘and you are to study our interests and maintain friendly relations with us.’

Jonathan put on the sacred vestments in the seventh month of the year one hundred and sixty, on the feast of Tabernacles; he then set about raising troops and manufacturing arms in quantity.

A letter from Demetrius I to Jonathan

Demetrius was displeased when he heard what had happened. •‘What have we done’ he said ‘that Alexander should have forestalled us in gaining the friendship of the Jews to strengthen his position? •I will address an appeal to them too offering them advancement and riches as an inducement to support me.’ •And he wrote to them as follows:

‘King Demetrius to the Jewish nation, greetings. •We have heard how you have kept your agreement with us and have maintained friendly relations with us and have not gone over to our enemies, and it has given us great satisfaction. If you now continue to keep faith with us, we will make you a handsome return for what you do on our behalf. •We will accord you many exemptions and grant you privileges. •Henceforth I release you and exempt all the Jews from the tribute, the salt dues and the crown levies, •and whereas I am entitled to levy the equivalent of one third of the sowing and one half of the fruit of the trees, I release from this levy, from today and for the future, the land of Judah and the three districts annexed to it from Samaria-Galilee, from this day in perpetuity. •Jerusalem shall be sacred and exempt, with its territory, tithes and dues. •I relinquish control of the Citadel in Jerusalem and make it over to the high priest, so that he may man it with a garrison of his own choosing. •Every Jewish person taken from the land of Judah into captivity in any part of my kingdom I set free without ransom, and decree that all shall be exempt from taxes, even on their livestock. •All festivals, sabbaths, new moons and days of special observance, and the three days before and three days after a festival, shall all be days of exemption and quittance for all the Jews in my kingdom, and no one shall have the right to pursue or molest any of them for any matter whatsoever. •Jews shall be enrolled in the king’s forces to the number of thirty thousand men, and receive maintenance on the same scale as the rest of the king’s forces. •Some of them shall be stationed in the king’s major fortresses, and from among others appointments shall be made to positions of trust in the kingdom. Their officers and commanders shall be appointed from their own number, and shall live under their own laws, as the king has prescribed for the land of Judah. •As regards the three districts annexed to Judaea from the province of Samaria, they shall be integrated into Judaea and considered as coming under one governor, obeying the high priest's authority and no other.

 39 I have made over Ptolemais and its environs as a free gift to the sanctuary in 40 Jerusalem, to meet the necessary expenses of public worship. •And I make a 41 personal grant of fifteen thousand silver shekels annually chargeable to the 42 royal revenue from appropriate places. •And the entire surplus, which has 43 not been paid in by the officials as in previous years, shall henceforth be paid
 44 over by them for work on the Temple. •In addition, the sum of five thousand 45 silver shekels, levied annually on the profits of the sanctuary, as shown in the 46 annual accounts, is also relinquished as the perquisite of the priests who perform 47 the liturgy. •Anyone who takes refuge in the Temple in Jerusalem or any of its 48 precincts, when in debt to the royal exchequer or otherwise, shall be discharged 49 in full possession of all the goods he owns in my kingdom. •As regards the 50 building and restoration of the sanctuary, the expense of the work shall be 51 met from the royal exchequer. •The reconstruction of the walls of Jerusalem 52 and the fortification of the perimeter shall also be a charge on the royal exchequer, 53 and so also the reconstruction of other city walls in Judaea.'

Jonathan rejects Demetrius' offers

46 When Jonathan and the people heard these proposals they put no faith
 47 in them and refused to accept them, because they remembered the great wrongs 48 Demetrius had done in Israel and how cruelly he had oppressed them. •They 49 decided in favour of Alexander, since they regarded him as their outstanding 50 benefactor, and they became his constant allies. •King Alexander now mustered 51 large forces and took up a position confronting Demetrius, •and the two kings 52 met in battle. Alexander's army was routed, and Demetrius pursued him and 53 defeated his troops. •He continued the battle with vigour until sunset, but 54 Demetrius himself was killed that day.

Alexander's marriage with Cleopatra. Jonathan as military commissioner and governor-general

51 Alexander sent ambassadors to Ptolemy king of Egypt, with this message, 52 'Now that I have returned to my kingdom and ascended the throne of my 53 ancestors, and have established my authority by crushing Demetrius, so gaining 54 control of our country—for I fought him and we destroyed both him and his 55 army and now occupy the throne of his kingdom—now, therefore, let us make 56 a treaty of mutual friendship. Give me your daughter in marriage, and I will 57 become your son-in-law and give you, and her, presents which are worthy of you.'

55 King Ptolemy replied as follows, 'Happy the day when you returned to 56 the land of your ancestors and ascended their royal throne! •I will do at once for 57 you what your letter proposes; but meet me at Ptolemais, so that we can see 58 one another, and I will become your father-in-law, as you have asked.'

57 Ptolemy<sup>a</sup> left Egypt with his daughter Cleopatra, and reached Ptolemais 58 in the year one hundred and sixty-two. •King Alexander went to meet him, and 59 Ptolemy gave him the hand of his daughter Cleopatra and celebrated her wedding
 60 in Ptolemais with great magnificence, as kings do. •King Alexander then wrote 61 to Jonathan to come and meet him. •Jonathan made his way in state to Ptolemais, 62 and met the two kings; he gave them and their friends silver and gold, and 63 many gifts, and made a favourable impression on them. •A number of scoundrels 64 from Israel<sup>b</sup> combined to denounce him, but the king paid no attention to 65 them. •In fact the king commanded that Jonathan should be divested of his 66 own garments and clothed in the purple, which was done. •The king then seated 67 him by his side and said to his officers, 'Escort him into the centre of the city 68 and proclaim that no one is to bring charges against him on any count; no one is 69 to molest him for any reason.' •And so, when his accusers saw the honour done him by this proclamation, and Jonathan himself invested in the purple, they all fled. •The king did him the honour of enrolling him among the First Friends, and appointed him military commissioner and governor-general. Jonathan then returned to Jerusalem in peace and gladness.

Demetrius II. Apollonius, governor of Coele-Syria, defeated by Jonathan

In the year one hundred and sixty-five, Demetrius son of Demetrius came from Crete to the land of his ancestors. •When King Alexander heard of it he was plunged in gloom and retired to Antioch. •Demetrius appointed Apollonius as governor of Coele-Syria; the latter assembled a large force, and from his camp at Jamnia sent the following message to Jonathan the high priest:

'You are entirely alone in rising against us, and now I find myself ridiculed and reproached on your account. Why do you use your authority to our disadvantage in the mountains? •If you are so confident in your forces, come down now to meet us on the plain and let us take each other's measure there; on my side I have the strength of the towns. •Ask and learn who I am and who are the others supporting us. Men will tell you that you cannot stand up to us, because your ancestors were twice routed on their own ground,<sup>d</sup> •nor will you now be able to withstand the cavalry or so great an army on the plain, where there is neither stone nor outcrop nor cover of any kind.'

When Jonathan heard the message of Apollonius his spirit was roused; he picked ten thousand men and left Jerusalem, and his brother Simon joined him with reinforcements. •He drew up his forces before Joppa; the citizens had shut him out as Apollonius had a garrison in Joppa. When they began the attack, •the citizens took fright and opened the gates, and Jonathan occupied Joppa. •Hearing this, Apollonius marshalled three thousand cavalry and a large army and made his way to Azotus as though intending to march through, while in fact pressing on into the plain, since he had a great number of cavalry on which he was relying. •Jonathan pursued him as far as Azotus, where the armies joined battle. •Now Apollonius had left a thousand horsemen in concealment behind them. •Jonathan knew of this ambush behind him; the horsemen surrounded his army and shot their arrows into the people from morning till evening. •But the people stood firm, as Jonathan had ordered, while the enemy's horses tired. •So Simon was able to throw in his force and close with the phalanx, which he cut to pieces and routed. •The cavalry scattered over the plain and fled to Azotus, where they entered Beth-dagon, the temple of their idol, to take shelter there. •But Jonathan set fire to Azotus and the surrounding towns, plundered them, and burned down the temple of Dagon, with all the fugitives who had crowded into it. •The enemy losses, counting those who fell by the sword and those burnt to death, totalled about eight thousand men. Then Jonathan left there and encamped opposite Askalon, whose citizens came out to meet him with great ceremony. •Jonathan then returned to Jerusalem with his followers, laden with booty. •In the event, when King Alexander heard what had happened, he awarded Jonathan fresh honours: •he sent him a golden brooch, of the kind customarily presented to the Cousins of the King, and gave him proprietary rights over Ekron with all its lands.

Ptolemy VI supports Demetrius II but dies at the same time as Alexander Balas

1 The king of Egypt then assembled an army as numerous as the sands of the seashore, with many ships, and attempted to take possession of Alexander's kingdom by a ruse and add it to his own kingdom. •He set off for Syria with protestations of peace, and the people of the towns opened their gates to him and came out to meet him, since King Alexander's orders were to welcome him, Ptolemy being his father-in-law. •On entering the towns, however, Ptolemy quartered troops as a garrison in each one. •When he reached Azotus he was shown the burnt-out temple of Dagon, with Azotus and its suburbs

in ruins, corpses scattered here and there, and the charred remains of those whom Jonathan had burnt to death in the battle, piled into heaps along his route. •They explained to the king what Jonathan had done, hoping for his disapproval; but the king said nothing. •Jonathan then went to receive the king in state at Joppa, where they greeted each other and spent the night. Jonathan accompanied the king as far as the river called Eleutherus,<sup>a</sup> and then returned to Jerusalem. •King Ptolemy for his part occupied the coastal towns as far as the maritime quarter of Seleucia,<sup>b</sup> all the while maturing his wicked designs against Alexander. •He sent envoys to King Demetrius, saying, 'Come, let us make a treaty with each other; I will give you my daughter, whom Alexander now has, and you shall rule your father's kingdom. •I regret having given my daughter to that man, who has attempted to kill me.' •He made this accusation because he coveted his kingdom. •Having carried off his daughter and bestowed her on Demetrius, he broke with Alexander, and their enmity became open. Ptolemy next entered Antioch and assumed the crown of Asia; he now wore on his head the two crowns of Egypt and Asia. •Meanwhile, King Alexander was in Cilicia, since the people of those parts had risen in revolt, •but when he heard the news, he advanced on his rival to give battle, while Ptolemy for his part also took the field, met him with a strong force and routed him. •Alexander fled to Arabia for refuge, and King Ptolemy held victory celebrations. •Zabdiel the Arab cut off Alexander's head and sent it to Ptolemy. •Three days later King Ptolemy died, and the Egyptian garrisons in the strongholds were killed by the local inhabitants. •So Demetrius became king in the year one hundred and sixty-seven.

Early relations between Demetrius and Jonathan

At the same time Jonathan mustered the men of Judaea for an assault on the Citadel in Jerusalem, and they constructed many siege-engines for use against it. But some renegades who hated their nation made their way to the king and told him that Jonathan was besieging the Citadel. •The king was angered by the news. No sooner had he been informed than he set out and came to Ptolemais. He wrote to Jonathan, telling him to raise the siege and to meet him for a conference in Ptolemais as soon as possible. •When Jonathan heard this he gave orders for the siege to continue; then he selected a deputation from the elders of Israel and the priests, and took the deliberate risk •of taking silver and gold, clothing and numerous other presents, and going to Ptolemais to face the king, whose favour he succeeded in winning; •and although one or two renegades of his nation brought charges against him, •the king treated him as his predecessors had treated him, and promoted him in the presence of all his friends. •He confirmed him in the high-priesthood and whatever other distinctions he already held, and had him ranked among the First Friends. •Jonathan claimed that the king should exempt Judaea from tribute, with the three Samaritan provinces, promising him three hundred talents in return. •The king consented, and wrote Jonathan a rescript covering the whole matter, in these terms:

A new charter favouring the Jews

'King Demetrius to Jonathan his brother, and to the Jewish nation, greeting. We have written to Lasthenes our cousin concerning you, and now send you this copy of our rescript for your own information: •King Demetrius to his father Lasthenes, greeting. •The nation of the Jews are our friends and fulfil their obligations to us, and in view of their goodwill towards us we have decided to show them our bounty. •We confirm them in their possession of the territory of Judaea and the three districts of Aphairema, Lydda and Ramathaim;<sup>c</sup> these were annexed to Judaea from Samaritan territory, with all their dependencies, in favour of all who offer sacrifice in Jerusalem, instead of the royal dues which the king formerly received from them every year, from the yield of the soil and the fruit crops. •As regards our other rights over the tithes and taxes due to us, 35 over the salt marshes, and the crown taxes due to us, as from today we release them from them all. •No single one of these grants shall be set aside, from 36 today in perpetuity. •It shall be your responsibility to have a copy of this 37 made, to be given to Jonathan and displayed on the holy mountain in a conspicuous place.'

Demetrius II rescued by Jonathan's troops at Antioch

When King Demetrius saw that the country was at peace under his rule and 38 that no resistance was offered him, he dismissed his forces, and sent all the men home, except for the foreign troops that he had recruited in the islands of the 39 nations, thus incurring the enmity of the veterans who had served his ancestors. Now Trypho, one of Alexander's former supporters, seeing that all the troops 39 were muttering against Demetrius, approached Iamleku the Arab, who was bringing up Antiochus, Alexander's young son, •and repeatedly urged him 40 to let him have the boy, so that he might succeed his father as king; he told him of Demetrius' decision and the resentment it had aroused among his troops. He spent a long time there. •Meanwhile Jonathan sent to ask King Demetrius 41 to withdraw the troops in the Citadel from Jerusalem and to remove the garrisons from the strongholds, since they were constantly fighting Israel. •Demetrius 42 sent back word to Jonathan, 'Not only will I do this for you and for your nation, but I will heap honours on you and your nation if I find a favourable opportunity. For the present, you would do well to send me reinforcements, for all my troops 43 have deserted.' •Jonathan sent off three thousand experienced soldiers to him 44 in Antioch; when they reached the king, he was delighted at their arrival. •The 45 citizens crowded together in the centre of the city, to the number of some hundred and twenty thousand, intending to kill the king. •The king took refuge in the 46 palace, while the citizens occupied the thoroughfares of the city and began to attack. •The king then called on the Jews for help; and these all rallied round 47 him in a body, then spread out through the city, and that day killed about a hundred thousand of its inhabitants. •They fired the city, seizing a great deal 48 of plunder at the same time, and secured the king's safety. •When the citizens 49 saw that the Jews had the city at their mercy their courage failed them, and they made an abject appeal to the king. •'Give us the right hand of peace, and 50 let the Jews stop their fight against us and the city'. •They threw down their 51 arms and made peace. The Jews were covered in glory, in the eyes of the king and of everyone else in his kingdom. Having won renown in his kingdom they returned to Jerusalem laden with booty. •King Demetrius continued to occupy the throne 52 of his kingdom, and the country was quiet under his government. •But he gave 53 the lie to all the promises he had made, and fell out with Jonathan, giving nothing in return for the services Jonathan had rendered him, but thwarting him at every turn.

Jonathan opposes Demetrius II. Simon retakes Bethzur. The Hazor affair

After this Trypho came back with the little boy Antiochus,<sup>4</sup> who became 54 king and was crowned. •All the troops that Demetrius had summarily dismissed 55 rallied to Antiochus, and made war on Demetrius, and he turned tail and fled. Trypho captured the elephants and seized Antioch. 56

Young Antiochus then wrote Jonathan the following letter, 'I confirm you 57 in the high-priesthood and set you over the four districts' and appoint you one of the Friends of the King'. •He sent him a service of gold plate, and granted 58 him the right to drink from gold vessels, and to wear the purple and the golden brooch. •He appointed his brother Simon as military commissioner of the 59

60 region from the Ladder of Tyre to the frontiers of Egypt. •Jonathan then set out and made a progress through Transeuphrates and its towns, and the entire Syrian army rallied to his support. He came to Askalon and was received in state by 61 the inhabitants. •From there he proceeded to Gaza, but the people of Gaza shut him out, so he laid siege to it, burning down its suburbs and plundering them.
 62 The people of Gaza then pleaded with Jonathan, and he made peace with them;
 but he took the sons of their chief men as hostages and sent them away to Jerusalem. He then travelled through the country as far as Damascus.
 63 Jonathan now learned that Demetrius' generals had arrived at Kadesh in Galilee with a great army, with the object of diverting him from his mission, •and 64 he went to meet them, leaving his brother Simon inside the country. •Simon laid siege to Bethzur, attacking it day after day, and blockading the inhabitants 65 till they sued for peace, which he granted them, though he expelled them from 66 the town and occupied it, stationing a garrison there. •Meanwhile Jonathan and his army, having pitched camp by the Lake of Gennesaret, rose early, and by 67 morning were already in the plain of Hazor. •The foreigners' army advanced to fight them on the plain, after laying first an ambush for him in the mountains.
 68 While the main body was advancing directly towards the Jews, •the troops in 69 ambush broke cover and attacked first. •All the men with Jonathan fled; no 70 one was left, except Mattathias son of Absalom and Judas son of Chalphi, the 71 generals of his army. •At this Jonathan tore his garments, put dust on his head, 72 and prayed. •Then he returned to the fight and routed the enemy, who fled. •When 73 the fugitives from his own forces saw this they came back to him and joined in the pursuit as far as Kadesh where the enemy encampment was, and there they 74 themselves pitched camp. •About three thousand of the foreign troops fell that day. Jonathan then returned to Jerusalem.

Jonathan's relations with the Spartans

1 12 When Jonathan saw that circumstances were working in his favour he sent a select mission to Rome to confirm and renew his treaty of friendship
 2 with the Romans. •He also sent letters to the same effect to the Spartans and 3 to other places. •The envoys made their way to Rome and entered the Senate, where they made this announcement: 'Jonathan the high priest and the Jewish nation have sent us to renew your treaty of friendship and alliance with them 4 as before'. •The Romans gave them letters to the authorities of each place, to procure their safe conduct to the land of Judah.

5 The following is the copy of the letter Jonathan wrote to the Spartans:
 6 'Jonathan the high priest, the senate of the nation, the priests and the rest
 7 of the Jewish people to the Spartans their brothers, greetings. •In the past, a letter was sent to Onias, the high priest, from Areios, one of your kings, stating 8 that you are indeed our brothers, as the copy subjoined attests. •Onias received the envoy with honour, and accepted the letter, in which a clear reference was 9 made to friendship and alliance. •For our part, though we have no need of 10 these, having the consolation of the holy books in our possession, •we venture to send to renew our fraternal friendship with you, so that we may not become 11 strangers to you, for a long time has elapsed since you sent us the letter.<sup>b</sup> •We may say that constantly on every occasion, at our festivals and on other appointed days, we make a remembrance of you in the sacrifices we offer and in our prayers, 12 as it is right and fitting to remember brothers. •We rejoice in your renown.
 13 As for ourselves, we have been involved in many trials, many battles, and the 14 surrounding kings have fought against us. •We were unwilling to trouble you 15 or our other allies and friends during these wars. •But now, having the support of heaven to help us, we have been delivered from our enemies, and it is they who have been brought low, •and so we have chosen Numenius son of Antiochus, 16 and Antipater son of Jason, and sent them to the Romans to renew our former treaty of friendship and alliance, •and we have ordered them to make their way to 17 you also, to greet you, and deliver to you this letter of ours concerning the renewal of our brotherhood; •we shall be grateful for an answer to it.' 18

The following is the copy of the letter sent to Onias: 19

'Areios king of the Spartans, to Onias the high priest, greetings. •It has 20 been discovered in a document concerning the Spartans and Jews that they 21 are brothers, and of the race of Abraham. •Now that this has come to our 22 knowledge, we shall be obliged if you will send us news of your welfare. •Our 23 own message to you is this: your flocks and your possessions are ours, and ours are yours, and we are instructing our envoys to give you a message to this effect.'

Jonathan in Coele-Syria. Simon in Philistia

Jonathan learned that Demetrius' generals had returned with a larger army 24 than before to make war on him. •For that reason he left Jerusalem and went 25 to face them in the region of Hamath, giving them no respite in which to mount an invasion of his own country. •He sent spies into their camp, who told him 26 on their return that the enemy were taking up positions for a night attack on the Jews. •At sunset Jonathan ordered his men to keep watch with their weapons 27 at hand, in readiness to fight at any time during the night, and posted advance guards all round the camp. •When they knew that Jonathan and his men were 28 ready to fight, the enemy became afraid, and with quaking hearts they kindled fires in their camp. •Jonathan and his men, watching the glow of the fires, were 29 unaware of their withdrawal until morning, •and although Jonathan pursued 30 them, he failed to overtake them, for they had already crossed the river Eleu-therus. •So Jonathan wheeled round on the Arabs called Zabadaeans, defeated 31 them and plundered them; •then, breaking camp, he went to Damascus, and 32 travelled through the whole province. •Meanwhile Simon had also set out and 33 had penetrated as far as Askalon and the neighbouring strongholds. He then turned on Joppa and moved quickly to occupy it, •for he had heard of their 34 intention to hand over this strong point to the supporters of Demetrius; he stationed a garrison there to hold it.

Building work in Jerusalem

On Jonathan's return he called a meeting of the elders of the people and 35 decided with them to build fortresses in Judaea •and to heighten the walls of 36 Jerusalem and erect a high barrier between the Citadel and the city, to separate it from the city and isolate it, to prevent the occupants from buying or selling.
They gathered together to rebuild the city. Part of the wall over the eastern 37 ravine had fallen, and he restored the quarter called Chaphenatha. •Meanwhile 38 Simon rebuilt Adida in the Lowlands, fortifying it, and erecting gates with bolts.

Jonathan falls into the hands of his enemies

Trypho's ambition was to become king of Asia, assume the crown, and 39 overpower King Antiochus. •He was apprehensive that Jonathan might not allow 40 him to do so, and might even make war on him, so he set out and came to Bethshan, in the hopes of finding some pretext for his arrest and execution.

Jonathan went out to intercept him, with forty thousand picked men in 41 battle order, and arrived at Bethshan. •When Trypho saw him there with 42
a large force, he hesitated to make any move against him. •He even received 43 him with honour, commended him to all his friends and presented gifts to him, and told his friends and his troops to obey him as they would himself. •He said 44
to Jonathan, 'Why have you made all these people so tired, when there is no

45 threat of war between us? •Send them back home; pick yourself a few men as your bodyguard, and come with me to Ptolemais. I will hand it over to you, with the other fortresses and the remaining troops and all the officials; then
 I will take the road for home, for that was my purpose in coming here.'
 46 Jonathan trusted him and did as he said; he dismissed his forces, who returned 47 to the land of Judah. •With him he retained three thousand men, of whom 48 he left two thousand in Galilee, while a thousand accompanied him. •But as soon as Jonathan had entered Ptolemais the people of Ptolemais closed the gates, seized him, and put all those who had entered with him to the sword.
 49 Trypho sent troops and cavalry into Galilee and the Great Plain to wipe out all 50 Jonathan's supporters. •These, concluding that he had been taken, and had perished with his companions, encouraged one another, marching with closed 51 ranks and ready to give battle, •and when their pursuers saw that they would 52 fight for their lives, they turned back. •They all reached the land of Judah safe and sound, but lamenting Jonathan and his companions, and in a state of alarm; 53 all Israel was plunged into mourning. •All the surrounding pagans were now looking for ways of destroying them: 'They have no leader,' they said 'no ally;
 we have only to attack them now, and we shall blot out their very memory from mankind'.

SIMON, HIGH PRIEST AND ETHNARCH OF THE JEWS

(142-134 B.C.)

Simon takes command

1 13 Simon heard that Trypho had collected a large army to invade and devastate
 2 the land of Judah, •and when he saw how the people were quaking with 3 fear, he went up to Jerusalem, called the people together, •and exhorted them thus, 'You know yourselves how much I and my brothers and my father's family have done for the laws and the sanctuary; you know what wars and hardships
 4 we have experienced. •That is why my brothers are all dead, for Israel's sake,
 5 and I am the only one left. •Far be it from me, then, to be sparing of my own life in any time of oppression, for I am not worth more than my brothers.
 6 Rather will I avenge my nation and the sanctuary and your wives and children,
 7 now that all the pagans have united in their malice to destroy us.' •The spirit
 8 of the people rekindled as they listened to his words, •and they shouted back at 9 him, 'You are our leader in place of Judas and your brother Jonathan. •Fight
 10 our battles for us, and we will do whatever you tell us.' •So he assembled all the fighting men and hurried on the completion of the walls of Jerusalem, forti-11 fying the whole perimeter. •He sent a considerable force to Joppa under Jonathan, son of Absalom, who drove out the inhabitants and remained there in occupation.

Simon repels Trypho from Judaea

12 Trypho now left Ptolemais with a large army to invade the land of Judah, 13 taking Jonathan with him under guard. •Simon pitched camp in Adida, facing 14 the plain. •When Trypho learned that Simon had stepped into the place of his brother Jonathan, and that he intended to join battle with him, he sent envoys 15 to him with this message, •'Your brother Jonathan was in debt to the royal 16 exchequer for the offices he held; that is why we are detaining him. •If you send a hundred talents of silver and two of his sons as hostages, to make sure 17 that on his release he does not revolt against us, we will release him.' •Although Simon was aware that the message was a ruse, he sent for the money and the 18 boys for fear of incurring great hostility from the people, •who would have said that Jonathan died because Simon did not send Trypho the money and 19 the boys. •He therefore sent both the boys and the hundred talents, but Trypho
 20 broke his word and did not release Jonathan. •Next, Trypho set about the invasion and devastation of the country; he made a detour along the Adora road, but Simon and his army confronted him wherever he attempted to go. •The men in the Citadel kept sending messengers to Trypho, urging him to get through to them by way of the wilderness and send them supplies. •Trypho organised his entire cavalry to go, but that night it snowed so heavily that he could not get through for the snow, so he struck camp and moved off into Gilead. •As he approached Baskama<sup>a</sup> he killed Jonathan, and he was buried there. •Trypho turned back and regained his own country.

Jonathan is buried in the mausoleum built by Simon at Modein

Simon sent and recovered the bones of his brother Jonathan, and buried him in Modein, the town of his ancestors. •All Israel kept solemn mourning for him, bewailing him for many days. •Over the tomb of his father and brothers Simon raised a monument high enough to catch the eye, using dressed stone back and front. •He erected seven pyramids facing each other, for his father and mother and his four brothers, •raising them on plinths and surrounding them with tall columns on which he had trophies of arms carved to their everlasting memory and, beside the armour, sculptured ships to be seen by all who sailed the sea. •Such was the monument he constructed at Modein, and it is still there today.

The favours of Demetrius II to Simon

Trypho treated the young King Antiochus treacherously and put him to death. •He usurped his throne, assuming the crown of Asia, and brought great havoc on the country. •Simon built up the fortresses of Judaea, surrounding them with high towers, great walls and gates with bolts, and stocked these fortresses with food. •He also sent a delegation to King Demetrius to induce him to grant relief to the province, because all that Trypho did was to confiscate. •King Demetrius replied to his request in a letter framed as follows:

'King Demetrius to Simon, high priest and Friend of Kings, and to the elders and nation of the Jews, greetings. •It has pleased us to accept the golden crown and the palm you have sent us, and we are disposed to make a general peace with you, and to write to the officials to grant you remissions. •Everything that we have decreed concerning you remains in force, and the fortresses you have built are to remain in your hands. •We pardon all offences, unwitting or intentional, committed up to this day, as well as the crown tax which you owe, and any other duty that used to be paid in Jerusalem shall no longer be payable. If any of you are suitable for enrolment in our bodyguard, let them be enrolled, and let there be peace between us.' •It was in the year one hundred and seventy, that the rule of the pagans was lifted from Israel, •and the people began to engross their documents and contracts, 'In the year one of Simon, great high priest, military commissioner, and leader of the Jews.'

The capture of Gezer by Simon

At that time Simon went to lay siege to Gezer and surrounded it with his troops. He constructed a mobile tower, brought it up to the city, opened a breach in one of the bastions and took it. •The men in the mobile tower sprang out into the city, where great confusion ensued. •The citizens, accompanied by their wives and children, mounted the ramparts with their garments torn and loudly implored Simon to make peace with them: •'Treat us' they said 'not as our wickedness deserves, but as your mercy prompts you'. •Simon came to terms with them and stopped the fighting; but he expelled them from the city, purified the houses which contained idols, and then made his entry with songs of praise. •He banished all uncleanness from it, settled men in it who observed the Law, and having fortified it, built a residence there for himself.

Simon occupies the Citadel in Jerusalem

49 The men in the Citadel in Jerusalem, prevented as they were from going out into the country and back to buy and sell, were in desperate want of food, and 50 numbers of them were carried off by starvation. •They begged Simon to make peace with them, and he granted this, though he expelled them and purified the 51 Citadel from its pollutions. •The Jews made their entry on the twenty-third day of the second month in the year one hundred and seventy-one, with acclamations and carrying palms, to the sound of harps, cymbals and zithers, chanting hymns and canticles, since a great enemy had been crushed and thrown out of 52 Israel. •Simon made it a day of annual rejoicing. He strengthened the fortifications of the Temple hill by the side of the Citadel, and took up residence there 53 with his men. •Seeing that his son John had come to manhood, Simon appointed him commander of all the forces, with his residence in Gezer.

A eulogy of Simon

1 14 In the year one hundred and seventy-two King Demetrius assembled his forces and marched into Media to muster help, in order to fight Trypho.
 2 When Arsaces<sup>a</sup> king of Persia and Media heard that Demetrius had entered his 3 territory, he sent one of his generals to capture him alive. •The general went and defeated the army of Demetrius, seized him and brought him to Arsaces, 4 who put him in prison. •The country was at peace throughout the days of Simon.

He sought the good of his nation
 and they were well pleased with his authority,
 and his magnificence throughout his life.
 5 And to crown all his magnificence
 he took Joppa and made it his harbour,
 gaining access to the islands of the sea.
 6 He enlarged the frontiers of his nation,
 keeping his mastery over the homeland,
 7 and resettled a host of the captives.
 He conquered Gezer, Bethzur, and the Citadel and cast out the unclean things from it;
 and no one could resist him.
 8 They farmed their land in peace,
 the land gave its produce,
 the trees of the plain their fruit.
 9 The elders sat at ease in the streets,
 all their talk was of their prosperity;
 the young men wore finery and armour.
 10 He kept the towns supplied with provisions and furnished with fortifications,
 until his fame resounded to the ends of the earth.
 11 He established peace in the land,
 and Israel knew great joy.
 12 Each man sat under his own vine and his own fig tree,
 and there was no one to make them afraid.
 13 No enemy was left in the land to fight them,
 and the kings in those days were crushed.
 14 He gave strength to all the humble folk among his people and cleared away every renegade and wicked man.
 15 He strove to observe the Law,
 and gave new splendour to the Temple,
 replenishing it with sacred vessels.

Renewal of the alliances with Sparta and with Rome

When it became known in Rome and later in Sparta that Jonathan was 16 dead, people were deeply grieved. •But as soon as they heard that his brother 17 Simon had succeeded him as high priest and was master of the country and the cities in it, •they wrote to him on bronze tablets to renew the treaty of 18 friendship and alliance which they had made with his brothers, Judas and Jonathan, •and the document was read out before the assembly in Jerusalem. 19

This is the copy of the letter sent by the Spartans: 20

‘The rulers and the city of Sparta to Simon the high priest and to the elders 21 and priests and the rest of the people of the Jews, greetings. •The ambassadors whom you sent to our people informed us of your glory and honour, and we 22 were delighted by their visit. •We recorded their declarations in the minutes of our public assemblies, as follows, “Numenius son of Antiochus, and Antipater 23 son of Jason, ambassadors of the Jews, came to us to renew their friendship with us. •And it was the people’s pleasure to receive these personages with honours 23 and to deposit a copy of their statements in the public archives, so that the people of Sparta may preserve a record of them; they also made a copy for Simon the high priest.”’

After this Simon sent Numenius to Rome as the bearer of a large gold shield 24 weighing a thousand minas, to confirm the alliance with them.

Official honours decreed for Simon

When these events were reported to the people they said, ‘What mark of 25 appreciation shall we give to Simon and his sons? •He stood firm, he and 26 his brothers and his father’s House; he fought off the enemies of Israel and secured its freedom.’ So they recorded an inscription on bronze tablets and set it up on pillars on Mount Zion. •This is a copy of the text: 27

‘On the eighteenth of Elul in the year one hundred and seventy-two, which 28 is the third year of Simon the great high priest, in Asaramel, •in the grand assembly of priests and people, leaders of the nation and elders of the country,
 we were notified as follows:

‘When there was frequent fighting in the country, Simon, son of Mattathias, 29
 a scion of the line of Joarib, and his brothers courted danger and withstood the enemies of their nation to safeguard the integrity of their sanctuary and the Law, and so brought their nation great glory. •Jonathan rallied his nation 30 and became their high priest, and was then gathered to his people. •Their enemies planned to invade their country in order to devastate their territory 31 and lay hands on their sanctuary. •Simon then arose to fight for his nation.
 He spent much of his own wealth on arming the nation’s fighting men and 32 providing their pay; •he fortified the cities of Judaea and Bethzur on the frontier of Judaea, where the enemy arsenal had formerly been, and stationed there 33 a garrison of Jewish soldiers. •He also fortified Joppa on the coast and Gezer 34 on the borders of Azotus, a place formerly inhabited by the enemy; he founded a Jewish settlement there, providing everything they needed to set them on 35 their feet. •The people saw Simon’s faith and the glory he had resolved to win for his nation; they made him their leader and high priest because of all these 36 achievements of his and the justice and faithfulness he had maintained towards his own nation, and because he sought every means to enhance the honour of his people. •In his day and under his guidance they succeeded in rooting 37 out the pagans from their country, including those in the City of David in Jerusalem, who had converted it into a citadel for their own use from which they would sally out to defile the surroundings of the sanctuary and violate 38 its sacred character. •He settled Jewish soldiers in it and fortified it as a protection for the country and city, and heightened the walls of Jerusalem. •In consequence 39 of this, King Demetrius confirmed him in the high-priestly office, •made him one of his Friends and advanced him to high honours; •he had heard that the Romans 40 named the Jews friends, allies and brothers, and that they had given Simon's 41 ambassadors an honourable reception; •and further, that the Jews and the priests had agreed that Simon should be their perpetual leader and high priest until a 42 trustworthy prophet should arise; •he was also to be their commissioner and to be responsible for the sanctuary and for the appointment of officials to supervise the fabric, to administer the country, and to control the arsenal and fortresses; 43 he was to take charge of the sanctuary, and everyone had to obey him; all official documents in the country were to be drawn up in his name; he was to assume 44 the purple and wear golden ornaments. •No member of the public or the priesthood was to be allowed to set aside any one of these articles or contest his decisions, or convene a meeting anywhere in the country without his leave, 45 or assume the purple or wear the golden brooch. •Anyone contravening or 46 rejecting any of these articles was to be liable at law. •All the people consented 47 to grant Simon the right to act on these decisions. •And Simon accepted and consented to assume the high-priestly office and to act as military commissioner and ethnarch<sup>b</sup> of the Jews and their priests, and to preside over all.

 48 They ordered that this decree should be inscribed on bronze tablets and 49 set up in the Temple precinct in a prominent place, •and that copies should be deposited in the treasury, and made available to Simon and his sons.

Antiochus VII recognises Simon's titles, and besieges Trypho in Dor

1 15 Antiochus, son of King Demetrius, addressed a letter from the islands of the sea to Simon, priest and ethnarch of the Jews, and to the whole 2 nation; •this was how it read:

•King Antiochus to Simon, high priest and ethnarch, and to the Jewish 3 nation, greetings. •Whereas certain scoundrels have seized control of the kingdom of our fathers, and I propose to claim back the kingdom so that I may re-establish it as it was before, and whereas I have accordingly recruited very 4 large forces and fitted out warships, •intending to make a landing in the country and deal with the men who have ruined it and laid waste many towns in my 5 kingdom, •now therefore I confirm in your favour all the remissions of tribute that my royal predecessors granted you, with any other concessions that they 6 granted to you. •I hereby authorise you to mint your own coinage as legal tender 7 for your own country. •I declare Jerusalem and the sanctuary exempt; all the arms you have manufactured and the fortresses you have built and now occupy are 8 to remain yours. •All debts to the royal treasury, present or future, shall be 9 cancelled from henceforth in perpetuity. •When we have gained possession of our kingdom we will bestow such great honour on yourself, your nation and the Temple as shall exhibit your glory to the whole world.<sup>c</sup>

10 In the year one hundred and seventy-four Antiochus mounted his expedition against the land of his ancestors, and all the troops rallied to him, so that few 11 remained with Trypho. •Antiochus pursued the usurper, who took refuge 12 in Dor on the coast, •knowing that misfortunes were piling up on him and 13 that his troops had deserted him. •Antiochus pitched camp before Dor with 14 a hundred and twenty thousand fighting men and eight thousand cavalry. •He laid siege to the city while the ships closed in from the sea, so that he had the city under attack from land and sea, and allowed no one to go in or come out.

The ambassadors return from Rome to Judaea; the alliance with Rome proclaimed

15 Meanwhile Numenius and his companions arrived from Rome carrying letters addressed to various kings and states, in the following terms:

16 'Lucius,' consul of the Romans, to King Ptolemy, greetings. •The Jewish 17 ambassadors have come to us as our friends and allies to renew our original

14 b. The recognised head of a racial unit within the empire.

friendship and alliance in the name of the high priest Simon and the Jewish people. •They have brought a gold shield worth a thousand minas. •Accordingly we have decided to write to various kings and states, warning them not to molest them nor to attack them or their towns or their country, nor ally themselves with any such aggressors. •We have decided to accept the shield from them. If then any scoundrels have fled their country to take refuge with you, hand them over to Simon the high priest to be punished by him according to their law.'

The consul sent the same letter to King Demetrius, to Attalus, Ariarathes and Arsaces, •and to all states, including Sampsaes, the Spartans, Delos, Myndos, Sicyon, Caria, Samos, Pamphylia, Lycia, Halicarnassus, Rhodes, Phaselis, Cos, Side, Aradus, Gortyna, Cnidus, Cyprus and Cyrene. •They also drew up a copy for Simon the high priest.

Antiochus VII, besieging Dor, becomes hostile to Simon and sends him a reprimand

Meanwhile Antiochus, from his positions on the outskirts of Dor, was continually throwing detachments against the town. He constructed siege-engines, and blockaded Trypho, preventing movement in or out. •Simon sent him two thousand picked men to support him in the fight, with silver and gold and plenty of equipment. •But Antiochus would not accept them; instead, he repudiated all his previous agreements with Simon, and completely changed his attitude to him. •He sent him Athenobius, one of his friends, for an interview at which he was to say, 'You are now occupying Joppa and Gezer and the Citadel in Jerusalem, which are towns in my kingdom. •You have laid waste their territory and done immense harm to the country; and you have seized many localities belonging to my kingdom. •Now either surrender the towns you have taken, with the revenue from the localities you have seized beyond the limits of Judaea, •or else pay me five hundred talents of silver in compensation for them and for the destruction you have done, and another five hundred talents for the revenues of the towns; otherwise we shall come and make war on you.' •When Athenobius, one of the Friends of the King, reached Jerusalem and saw Simon's magnificence, his cabinet of gold and silver plate, and his large retinue, he was dumbfounded. •He delivered the king's message, •but Simon gave him this answer, 'It is not any foreign land that we have taken, nor any foreign property that we have seized, but the inheritance of our ancestors, for some time unjustly wrested from us by our enemies; •now that we have a favourable opportunity, we are merely recovering the inheritance of our ancestors. •As for Joppa and Gezer, which you claim, these were towns that did great harm to the people and laid waste the countryside; we are prepared to give a hundred talents for them.' Without so much as a word in answer, •the envoy went back to the king in a rage and reported on Simon's answer and his magnificence, and on everything he had seen, at which the king fell into a fury.

Cendeabaeus, governor of the Littoral, harasses Judaea

Trypho now boarded a ship and escaped to Orthosia. •The king appointed Cendeabaeus commander-in-chief of the coastal region and allotted him a force of infantry and cavalry. •He ordered him to deploy his men facing Judaea, and instructed him to strengthen Kedron and fortify its gates, and to make war on the people, while the king himself went in pursuit of Trypho. •Cendeabaeus arrived at Jamnia and began to harry the people forthwith, invading Judaea, imprisoning the people and massacring them. •He strengthened Kedron and stationed cavalry and troops there to make sorties and patrol the roads of Judaea, as the king had instructed him.

The victory of Simon's sons over Cendeabaeus

16 John then went up from Gezer and reported to his father Simon what Cendeabaeus was busy doing. •At this, Simon summoned his two elder sons, Judas and John, and said to them, 'I and my brothers and my father's House have fought the enemies of Israel from our youth until today; the enterprises we directed have been successful, and many a time have we brought Israel deliverance. •But now I am an old man, while you, mercifully, are old enough; take my place and my brother's, go out and fight for our nation, and may the support of heaven be with you.' •Then he selected from the country twenty thousand fighting men and cavalry, and these marched against Cendebaeus, spending the night at Modein. •Making an early start, they marched into the plain, to find a large army opposing them, both infantry and cavalry; there was, however, a wadi in between. •John drew up facing them, he and his people, and seeing that the men were afraid to cross the wadi he crossed over first himself. When his men saw this, they too crossed after him. •He divided his army into two bodies of foot, with the horse in the centre, the enemy's cavalry being very numerous. •The trumpets rang out, and Cendebaeus was routed with his army; many of them fell mortally wounded, and the remainder took refuge in the fortress. •It was then that Judas, John's brother, was wounded, but John pursued them until Cendebaeus reached Kedron, which he had strengthened. •Their flight took them as far as the towers in the countryside of Azotus, and John burnt these down. The enemy losses amounted to ten thousand men; John returned safely to Judaea.

Simon's tragic death at Dok. His son John succeeds him

11 Ptolemy son of Abubus had been appointed military commissioner for the plain of Jericho; he owned much silver and gold, •and was the high priest's son-in-law. •His ambition was fired; he hoped to make himself master of the whole country, and began to plot the ruin of Simon and his sons. •Simon, who was inspecting the towns up and down the country and attending to their administration, had come down to Jericho with his sons Mattathias and Judas, in the year one hundred and seventy-seven, in the eleventh month, the month of Shebat. •The son of Abubus lured them into a small fortress called Dok,<sup>a</sup> which he had built, where he offered them a great banquet, having men concealed about the place. •When Simon and his sons were drunk, Ptolemy leapt to his feet with his men, and, grasping their weapons, they rushed on Simon in the banquetting hall and killed him with his two sons and some of his servants. 17 So he committed a great act of treachery, and rendered evil for good. 18 Ptolemy wrote a report of the affair and sent it to the king, in the expectation of being sent reinforcements and having the cities and the province made over to him. •He sent other men to Gezer to murder John, and sent written orders to the military commanders to come to him so that he could present them with silver and gold and gifts; •he also sent others to take possession of Jerusalem and the Temple hill. •But someone had been too quick for him and had already informed John in Gezer that his father and brothers had perished, adding, 'He is also sending people to kill you too!' •Overcome as he was by the news, John arrested the men who had come to kill him and put them to death, since he already knew their murderous design. •The rest of John's acts, the battles he fought and the exploits he performed, the city walls he built, and all his other achievements, •are to be found recorded in the Annals of his pontificate from the day he succeeded his father as high priest.

LETTERS TO THE JEWS OF EGYPT

FIRST LETTER

1 Greetings to their brothers, the Jews in Egypt, from their brothers, the 2 Jews in Jerusalem and in the country of Judaea, and prosperity and peace.
 3 May God prosper you, remembering his covenant with Abraham, Isaac and 4 Jacob, his faithful servants. •May he give you all a heart to worship him and 5 to do his will with a generous mind and a willing spirit. •May he open your 6 hearts to his Law and his precepts, and give you peace. •May he hear your 7 prayers and be reconciled with you, and not abandon you in time of evil. •Here
 8 we are now praying for you. •When Demetrius was king, in the year one hundred 9 and sixty-nine, we Jews wrote to you as follows, 'In the desperate affliction 10 that has come on us in these years since Jason and his associates betrayed the 11 Holy Land and the kingdom, •they burned the Temple gateway and shed innocent 12 blood. Then we prayed to the Lord and were heard; we offered a sacrifice with 13 wheat-flour, kindled the lamps and set out the loaves'. •And we now recommend 14 you to keep the feast of Tabernacles of the month of Chislev. In the year one 15 hundred and eighty-eight."

SECOND LETTER<sup>a</sup>

Address

The people of Jerusalem and of Judaea, the senate and Judas,<sup>c</sup> to Aristobulus, 10 tutor to King Ptolemy and one of the family of the anointed priests, and to the 11 Jews in Egypt, greetings and good health.

Thanksgiving for the punishment of Antiochus

12 Since we have been rescued by God from great dangers, we give him great 13 thanks for championing our cause against the king, •for it was He who drove out
 14 those who had taken up arms against the Holy City. •For when their leader 15 reached Persia with his seemingly irresistible army, he was cut to pieces in the 16 temple of Nanaea,<sup>d</sup> as the result of a ruse employed by the priests who served that 17 goddess. •On the pretext of making a marriage with Nanaea, Antiochus came 18 to the place with his friends, intending to take its many treasures as a dowry.
 19 The priests of Nanaea had put these on display, and he entered the sacred 20 precincts with a small retinue. As soon as Antiochus was inside they closed the 21 temple, •opened the secret door in the ceiling and struck down the leader and 22 his party by hurling stones like thunderbolts. They then dismembered them, 23 cut off their heads and flung them to those outside. •Blessed in all things be our 24 God, who has given the godless their deserts!

The miraculous preservation of the sacred fire

25 As we shall be celebrating the purification of the Temple on the twenty-fifth 26 of Chislev, we consider it proper to notify you, so that you may celebrate 27 the feast of Tabernacles and of the fire that appeared when Nehemiah, the 28 builder of the Temple and the altar, offered sacrifice. •For when our ancestors

were being deported to Persia the devout priests of the time took some of the fire from the altar and hid it secretly in the hollow of a dry well, where they concealed it in such a way that the place was unknown to anyone. •When some years had elapsed, in God's good time, Nehemiah, commissioned by the king of Persia, sent the descendants of the priests who had hidden the fire to recover it; but they notified us that they had found not fire but a thick liquid. Nehemiah ordered them to draw some out and bring it back. •When the materials for the sacrifice had been set out, Nehemiah ordered the priests to pour the liquid over the wood and what lay on it. •When this had been done, and when in due course the sun, which had previously been clouded over, shone out, a great fire flared up, to the astonishment of all. •While the sacrifice was being burned, the priests and all those present with the priests offered prayer, Jonathan intoning and the rest responding with Nehemiah. •The prayer took this form: 'Lord, Lord God, creator of all things, dreadful, strong, just, merciful, the only king and benefactor, •the only provider, who alone are just, almighty and everlasting, the deliverer of Israel from every evil, who made our fathers your chosen ones and sanctified them, •accept this sacrifice on behalf of all your people Israel, and protect your heritage and consecrate it. •Bring together those of us who are dispersed, set free those in slavery among the heathen, look favourably on those held in contempt or abhorrence, and let the heathen know that you are our God. •Punish those who oppress us and affront us by their insolence, •and plant your people firmly in your Holy Place, as Moses promised.'

<sup>30</sup><sup>31</sup> The priests then chanted hymns. •When the sacrifice was all burned, Nehemiah ordered the remaining liquid to be poured over large stones, •and when this was done a flame flared up, to be absorbed in the corresponding blaze of light from the altar. •When the matter became known and the king of the Persians heard that in the place where the exiled priests had hidden the fire a liquid had appeared, with which Nehemiah and his people had purified the materials of the sacrifice, •the king after verifying the facts, had the place enclosed and pronounced sacred. •The king exchanged many valuable presents with those who enjoyed his favour. •Nehemiah and his people termed this stuff 'nephtar', which means 'purification', but it is generally called 'naphtha'.

Jeremiah conceals the tabernacle, ark and altar

1 2 We find in the archives that the prophet Jeremiah,<sup>a</sup> when he had given the
2 deportees the order to take the fire, as we have described, •in giving them the Law warned the deportees never to forget the Lord's precepts, nor to let their thoughts be tempted by the sight of gold and silver statues or the finery
3 adorning them. •Among other similar admonitions he urged them not to 4 let the Law depart from their hearts. •The document also described how the prophet, warned by an oracle, gave orders for the tabernacle and the ark to go with him when he set out for the mountain which Moses had climbed to survey
5 God's heritage. •On his arrival Jeremiah found a cave-dwelling, into which he brought the tabernacle, the ark and the altar of incense, afterwards blocking 6 up the entrance. •Some of his companions came up to mark out the way, but 7 were unable to find it. •When Jeremiah learned this, he reproached them: 'The place is to remain unknown' he said 'until God gathers his people together
8 again and shows them his mercy. •Then the Lord will bring these things once more to light, and the glory of the Lord will be seen, and so will the cloud, as it

1 a. 124 B.C. The feast in the month Chislev (December) is properly the feast of Dedication. The pattern of this feast is like that of Tabernacles in the month Tishri (October). b. This letter prefacing the book, is in the form of an invitation to the actual dedication of the Temple and implicitly dated 40 years before the letter that appears above it. It comprises the 'Lesson' for the feast of Dedication. c. Judas Maccabaeus. d. A goddess assimilated to the Ephesian Artemis (Diana). This temple was in Elymais.

was revealed in the time of Moses and when Solomon prayed that the Holy Place might be gloriously hallowed.' •It was also recorded how Solomon in his wisdom offered the sacrifice of the dedication and completion of the sanctuary. •As Moses had prayed to the Lord and fire had come down from heaven and burned up the sacrifice, so Solomon also prayed, and the fire from above burned up the holocausts. •Moses had said, 'It is because it had not been eaten that the sin-offering was burned up'. •Solomon kept the feast in the same way for eight days.

Nehemiah's library

In addition to the above, it was also recorded, both in the archives and in the Memoirs of Nehemiah,<sup>9</sup> how he founded a library and made a collection of the books dealing with the kings and the prophets, the writings of David and the letters of the kings on the subject of offerings. •In the same way Judas made a complete collection of the books dispersed in the late war, and these we still have. •If you need any of them, send someone to fetch copies for you.

An invitation to the dedication

To conclude, since we are now about to celebrate the purification of the Temple, we are writing to you requesting you to observe the same days. •God, who has saved his whole people, conferring on all the heritage, kingdom, priesthood and sanctification •as he promised through the Law, will surely, as our hope is in him, be swift to show us mercy and gather us together from everywhere under heaven to the Holy Place, since he has rescued us from great evils and has purified the Temple.

COMPILER'S PREFACE

The story of Judas Maccabaeus and his brothers, the purification of the great Temple, the dedication of the altar, •together with the wars against Antiochus Epiphanes and his son Eupator, •and the manifestations from heaven that came to hearten the brave champions of Judaism, so that, few though they were, they despoiled the whole country, routed the barbarian hordes, •recovered the sanctuary renowned the whole world over, liberated the city and re-established the laws which were all but abolished, the Lord showing his favour by all his gracious help to them — •all this, already related in five books by Jason of Cyrene, we shall attempt to condense into a single digest. •Considering the spate of figures and the difficulty encountered, because of the mass of material, by those who wish to immerse themselves in historical records, •we have aimed at providing diversion for those who merely want something to read, a saving of labour for those who enjoy committing things to memory, and profit for each and all. For us who have undertaken the drudgery of this abridgement, this has been no easy task but a matter of sweat and midnight oil, •comparable to the exacting task of a man organising a banquet, whose aim is to satisfy a variety of tastes; nevertheless, for the sake of rendering a general service we remain glad to endure this drudgery, •leaving accuracy of detail to the historian and concentrating our effort on tracing the outlines in this condensed version. •Just as the architect of a new house is responsible for the construction as a whole, while the man undertaking the ceramic painting is responsible for estimating the decorative requirements, so, I think, it is with us. •To make the subject his own, to explore its by-ways, to be meticulous about details, is the business of the original historian, •but the man making the adaptation must be allowed to aim at conciseness of expression and to forgo any exhaustive treatment of his subject.

So now let us begin our narrative, without adding any more to what has been said above; there would be no sense in expanding the preface to the history and curtailing the history itself.

THE STORY OF HELIODORUS

The arrival of Heliodorus in Jerusalem

1 3 While the Holy City was inhabited in all peace and the laws were observed
 2 as perfectly as possible, through the piety of Onias the high priest and his 3 hatred of wickedness, it came about that the kings themselves honoured the 4 Holy Place and enhanced the glory of the Temple with the most splendid 5 offerings, even to the extent that Seleucus king of Asia defrayed from his own
 6 revenues all the expenses arising out of the sacrificial services. But a certain 7 Simon, of the tribe of Bilgah, on being appointed administrator of the Temple,
 8 came into conflict with the high priest over the regulation of the city markets.
 9 Unable to get the better of Onias, he went off to Apollonius of Tarsus, 10 who at that time was military commissioner for Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, and 11 made out to him that the Treasury in Jerusalem was groaning with untold 12 wealth, that the amount contributed was incalculable and out of all proportion 13 to expenditure on the sacrifice, but that it could all be brought under the control 14 of the king. Apollonius met the king and told him about the wealth that had 15 been disclosed to him; whereupon the king selected Heliodorus, his chancellor, 16 and sent him with instructions to effect the removal of the reported wealth.
 17 Heliodorus lost no time in setting out, ostensibly to inspect the towns of Coele-
 18 Syria and Phoenicia, but in fact to accomplish the king's purpose. On his arrival 19 in Jerusalem, and after a hospitable reception from the high priest and the city, 20 he announced what had been disclosed, thus revealing the reason for his presence, 21 and asked if this was indeed the true situation. The high priest explained that there were funds set aside for widows and orphans, with some belonging to Hircanus son of Tobias, a man occupying a very exalted position, and that the whole sum, in contrast to what the evil Simon had alleged, amounted to four hundred talents of silver and two hundred of gold. He added also that it was entirely out of the question that an injustice should be done to those who had put their trust in the sanctity of the place and the inviolable majesty of a Temple venerated throughout the entire world.

Consternation in Jerusalem

13 But Heliodorus, because of his instructions from the king, peremptorily insisted 14 that the funds must be confiscated for the royal exchequer. Fixing a day for 15 the purpose, he went in to draw up an inventory of the funds. There was 16 consternation throughout the city; the priests in their sacred vestments prostrated
 17 themselves before the altar and called upon heaven, the author of the law 18 governing deposits, to preserve these funds intact for the depositors. The 19 appearance of the high priest was enough to pierce the heart of the beholder, 20 his expression and his altered colour betraying the anguish of his soul; the man
 21 was so overwhelmed by fear and bodily trembling that those who saw him could not possibly mistake the distress he was suffering. People rushed headlong from the houses intent on making public supplication because of the indignity threatening the Holy Place. Women thronged the streets swathed in sackcloth below their breasts; girls secluded indoors ran together, some to the doorways, some to the city walls, while others leaned out of the windows, all stretching out their hands to heaven in entreaty. It was pitiful to see the people crowding together to prostrate themselves and the foreboding of the high priest in his deep anguish. •While they were calling on the all-powerful Lord to 22 preserve the deposits intact for the depositors, in full security, •Heliodorus 23 carried on with his appointed task.

The punishment of Heliodorus

He had already arrived with his bodyguard near the Treasury, when the 24
Sovereign of spirits and of every power caused so great an apparition that all who had dared to accompany Heliodorus were dumbfounded at the power of God, and were reduced to abject terror. •Before their eyes appeared a horse 25 richly caparisoned and carrying a fearsome rider. Rearing violently, it struck at Heliodorus with its forefeet. The rider was seen to be accoutred entirely in gold.
Two other young men of outstanding strength and radiant beauty, magnificently 26 apparelled, appeared to him at the same time, and taking their stand on either side of him flogged him unremittingly, inflicting stroke after stroke. •Suddenly 27 Heliodorus fell to the ground, enveloped in thick darkness. His men came to his rescue and placed him in a litter, •this man who but a moment before had made his way into the Treasury, as we said above, with a great retinue and his whole 28 bodyguard; and as they carried him away, powerless to help himself, they openly acknowledged the sovereign power of God.

While Heliodorus lay prostrate under the divine visitation, speechless and 29 bereft of all hope of deliverance, •the Jews blessed the Lord who had miraculously 30 glorified his own Holy Place. And the Temple, which a little while before had been filled with terror and commotion, now overflowed with joy and gladness at the manifestation of the almighty Lord. •Some of Heliodorus' companions 31 quickly begged Onias to call upon the Most High, to bestow life on a man lying at the very point of death.

The high priest, afraid that the king might suspect the Jews of some foul 32 play concerning Heliodorus, did indeed offer a sacrifice for the man's recovery.
And while the high priest was performing the rite of atonement, the same young 33 men again appeared to Heliodorus wearing the same apparel, and standing beside him said, 'Be very grateful to Onias the high priest, since it is for his sake that the Lord has granted you your life. •As for you, who have been 34 scourged from heaven, you must proclaim to all men the grandeur of God's power.' So saying, they vanished.

The conversion of Heliodorus

Heliodorus offered sacrifice to the Lord and made most solemn vows to the 35 preserver of his life, and then took courteous leave of Onias and marched his forces back to the king. •He openly testified to all men of the works of the supreme God 36 which he had seen with his own eyes. •When the king asked Heliodorus what 37 sort of man would be the right person to send to Jerusalem on a second occasion, he replied, •'If you have some enemy or a rebel against the government, send 38 him there, and you will get him back well flogged, if he survives at all, for there is certainly some peculiar power of God about that place. •He who has his 39 dwelling in heaven watches over the place and defends it, and he strikes down and destroys those who come to harm it.' •This was the outcome of the affair of 40 Heliodorus and the preservation of the Treasury.

HELLENISTIC PROPAGANDA

AND PERSECUTION UNDER ANTIOCHUS EPIPHANES

The misdeeds of Simon, administrator of the Temple

4 The Simon mentioned above as the informer against the funds and his own 1 country began to slander Onias, insinuating that it was the high priest who had treated Heliodorus so harshly and had himself contrived these startling 2 events. •Simon now had the effrontery to name this benefactor of the city, this protector of his compatriots, this zealot for the laws, as an enemy of the public 3 good. •This hostility reached such proportions that murders were actually 4 committed by some of Simon's agents, •and at this point Onias, recognising how mischievous this rivalry was, and aware that Apollonius son of Menestheus, 5 military commissioner for Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, was encouraging Simon in his malice, •went to see the king, not to play the accuser of his fellow citizens, but having the public and private welfare of the entire people at heart.

 6 He saw that without some intervention by the king an orderly administration would no longer be possible, nor would Simon be forced to put a stop to his folly.

Jason, the high priest, introduces hellenism

7 When Seleucus had departed this life and Antiochus styled Epiphanes had succeeded to the kingdom, Jason, brother of Onias,<sup>a</sup> usurped the high-priesthood 8 by underhand methods; •he approached the king with a promise of three hundred and sixty talents of silver, with eighty talents to come from some other 9 source of revenue. •He further committed himself to guarantee another hundred and fifty if he was allowed to use his authority to establish a gymnasium and a 10 youth centre, and to enrol men in Jerusalem as Antiochists. •When the king gave his assent, Jason set about introducing his fellow countrymen to the Greek 11 way of life as soon as he was in power. •He suppressed the existing royal concessions to the Jews, granted at the instance of John, father of that Eupolemus who was later to be sent on the embassy of friendship and alliance with the Romans, and, overthrowing the lawful institutions, introduced new usages 12 contrary to the Law. •He went so far as to plant a gymnasium at the very foot of 13 the Citadel, and to fit out the noblest of his cadets in the petasos.<sup>b</sup> •Godless wretch that he was and no true high priest, Jason set no bounds to his impiety; indeed the 14 hellenising process reached such a pitch •that the priests ceased to show any interest in the services of the altar; scorning the Temple and neglecting the sacrifices, they would hurry to take part in the unlawful exercises on the training 15 ground as soon as the signal was given for the discus. •They disdained all that 16 their ancestors had esteemed, and set the highest value on hellenic honours. •But all this brought its own retribution; the very people whose way of life they envied, whom they sought to resemble in everything, proved to be their enemies and 17 executioners. •It is no small thing to violate the divine laws, as the period that followed will demonstrate.

18 On the occasion of the quinquennial games at Tyre in the presence of the 19 king, •the vile Jason sent some Antiochists from Jerusalem as official spectators; these brought with them three hundred silver drachmae for the sacrifice to Hercules. But even those who brought the money thought it should not be spent on the sacrifice—this would not be right—and decided to reserve it for some other 20 item of expenditure; •and so what the sender had intended for the sacrifice to Hercules was in fact applied, at the suggestion of those who brought it, to the construction of triremes.

Antiochus Epiphanes is acclaimed in Jerusalem

21 Apollonius son of Menestheus had been sent to Egypt to attend the enthronement of King Philometor. Learning that the king had become hostile to his policies, Antiochus began to think of his own safety; and so he left Joppa 22 and moved to Jerusalem. •He was given a magnificent welcome by Jason and the city, and was received with torches and acclamations; following this, he withdrew his army to Phoenicia.

4 a. Joshua, brother of Onias; the change of his name to Jason is evidence of his sympathies with hellenisation. b. The hat of Hermes, worn by athletes.

Menelaus becomes high priest

When three years had passed, Jason sent Menelaus, brother of the Simon 23 mentioned above, to convey the money to the king and get his decisions on various essential matters made effective. •But Menelaus, on being presented to 24 the king, flattered him by his own appearance of authority, and so secured the high-priesthood for himself, outbidding Jason by three hundred talents of silver. He returned with the royal mandate, bringing nothing worthy of the high- 25 priesthood and supported only by the fury of a cruel tyrant and the rage of a savage beast. •Thus Jason, who had supplanted his own brother, was in turn 26 supplanted by a third, and obliged to take refuge in Ammonite territory. •As for 27 Menelaus, he retained his high office, but he defaulted altogether on the sums promised to the king, •although Sostratus, the commandant of the Citadel, 28 whose business it was to collect the revenue, kept demanding payment. The pair of them in consequence were summoned before the king, •Menelaus leaving his 29 brother Lysimachus as deputy high priest, while Sostratus left Crates, the commander of the Cypriots, to act for him.

The murder of Onias

While all this was going on, it happened that the people of Tarsus and Mallus 30 revolted, because their towns had been given as a present to Antiochis, the king's concubine. •The king therefore hurried off to settle the affair, leaving 31 Andronicus, one of his dignitaries, to act as his deputy. •Thinking he had found a favourable opportunity, Menelaus abstracted a number of golden vessels from the Temple and presented them to Andronicus, and managed to sell others to Tyre and the surrounding cities. •On receiving clear evidence to this effect, 33 Onias retired to a place of sanctuary at Daphne near Antioch and then taxed him with it. •Thereupon Menelaus, taking Andronicus aside, urged him to murder 34 Onias. Andronicus sought out Onias and, after deceitfully reassuring him by offering him his right hand on oath, succeeded in persuading him, in spite of his lingering suspicions, to leave the sanctuary; whereupon he immediately put him to death, in defiance of all justice. •The result was that not only the Jews 35 but many of the other nations were appalled and indignant at this impious murder.

On the king's return from the region of Cilicia, the Jews of the capital, and 36 those Greeks who shared their hatred of the crime, appealed to him about the insensate murder of Onias. •Antiochus was profoundly grieved and filled with 37 pity, and he wept for the prudence and great moderation of the dead man. •His 38 indignation was roused, and he immediately stripped Andronicus of the purple, tore his garments off him, and, parading him through the length of the city, rid the world of the assassin on the very spot where he had laid impious hands on Onias, the Lord dealing out to him the punishment he deserved.

Lysimachus killed in an insurrection

Now Lysimachus, with the connivance of Menelaus, had committed many 39 sacrilegious thefts in the city, and when the facts had become widely known, the populace rose against Lysimachus, who had already disposed of many pieces of gold plate. •The infuriated mob was becoming menacing, and 40 Lysimachus armed nearly three thousand men and took aggressive action; the troops were led by a certain Auranus, a man advanced in years and no less in folly. •Recognising this act of aggression as the work of Lysimachus, some 41 snatched up stones, others cudgels, while others scooped up handfuls of ashes lying at hand, and all hurled everything indiscriminately at Lysimachus' men, •to such 42 effect that they wounded many of them, even killing a few, and routed them all; the Temple robber himself they killed outside the treasury.

Menelaus buys his acquittal

As a result of this, legal proceedings were taken against Menelaus. •When 43 44

the king came down to Tyre, the three men sent by the elders maintained the 45 justice of their case in his presence. •Menelaus, seeing he was already defeated, promised a substantial sum to Ptolemy son of Dorymenes if he would 46 influence the king in his favour. •Ptolemy then took the king aside into a colonnade for some fresh air, and persuaded him to change his mind; •the king 47 actually dismissed the charges against Menelaus, the cause of all this evil, while he condemned to death the other poor wretches who, had they pleaded before 48 even Scythians, would have been let off scot-free. •No time was lost in carrying out this unjust punishment on those who had championed the cause of the city, the 49 rural communities and the sacred vessels. •Some Tyrians even were so outraged 50 by the crime that they provided sumptuously for their funeral, •while as a result of the greed of those in high places Menelaus retained his high office, growing in wickedness and establishing himself as the chief enemy of his fellow citizens.

Menelaus and Jason

1 5 About this time Antiochus undertook his second expedition<sup>a</sup> against Egypt.
 2 It then happened that all over the city for nearly forty days there were apparitions of horsemen galloping through the air, in cloth of gold, troops of 3 lancers fully armed, •squadrons of cavalry in order of battle, attacks and charges this way and that, a flourish of shields, a forest of pikes, brandishing of swords, hurling of missiles, a glitter of golden accoutrements and armour of all kinds.
 4 So everyone prayed that this manifestation might prove a good omen.
 5 Then on the strength of a false report that Antiochus was dead, Jason took at least a thousand men and launched an unexpected attack on the city. The troops manning the wall were forced back, and Menelaus, with the city all but 6 captured, took refuge in the Citadel. •Jason, however, was still making a pitiless slaughter of his own fellow citizens, not stopping to consider that success against his own countrymen was the greatest of disasters, but rather picturing himself as setting up trophies won from some enemy, not from his own flesh and blood.
 7 Even so, he did not succeed in seizing power; in the end his conspiracy brought him nothing but disgrace, and once again he took refuge in Ammonite territory.
 8 His career of wickedness was thus brought to a halt. Kept under restraint by Aretas the Arab despot, fleeing from town to town, the quarry of all men, hated as a rebel against the laws, abhorred as the butcher of his country and his 9 countrymen, he drifted to Egypt, •and at last this man, who had exiled so many from their fatherland, himself perished on foreign soil, having travelled to Sparta 10 in the hope that for kinship's sake they might harbour him. •So many carcasses he had thrust out to lie unburied; now he himself had none to mourn him, no funeral rites, no place in the tomb of his ancestors.

Antiochus Epiphanes plunders the Temple

11 When the king came to hear of what had happened, he concluded that Judaea was in revolt. He therefore marched from Egypt, raging like a wild beast, and 12 began by storming the city. •He then ordered his soldiers to cut down without mercy everyone they encountered, and to butcher all who took refuge in their 13 houses. •It was a massacre of young and old, a slaughter of women and children, 14 a butchery of virgins and infants. •There were eighty thousand victims in the course of those three days, forty thousand dying by violence and as many again 15 being sold into slavery. •Not satisfied with this, he had the audacity to enter the holiest Temple in the entire world, Menelaus, that traitor to the laws and to his 16 country, acting as his guide; •with his unclean hands he seized the sacred vessels; and his impious hands swept away what other kings had presented for the 17 advancement, the glory and the honour of the place. •Antiochus, so much above himself, did not realise that the Lord was angry for the moment at the sins of the inhabitants of the city, hence his unconcern for the Holy Place. •Had it not 18 happened that they were entangled in many sins, Antiochus too, like Heliodorus when King Seleucus sent him to inspect the Treasury, would have been flogged

5 a. The author dates this event in 168; but 1 Maccabees should preferably be followed, and this dates the sack of the Temple after the first expedition in 169.

 the moment he arrived and checked in his presumption. •However, the Lord 19 had not chosen the people for the sake of the place, but the place for the sake of the people; •and so the place itself, having shared the disasters that befell the 20 people, in due course also shared their good fortune; forsaken by the Almighty in the time of his anger, it was reinstated in all its glory, once the great Sovereign had been reconciled.

High commissioners in Judaea

Antiochus went off with eighteen hundred talents he had stolen from the 21
 Temple, and hurried back to Antioch; in his arrogance he would have undertaken to make the dry land navigable and the sea passable on foot, so high his ambition soared. •But he left high commissioners to plague the nation: in Jerusalem, 22 Philip, a Phrygian by race,<sup>b</sup> and by nature more barbarous than the man who appointed him; on Mount Gerizim, Andronicus; and besides these Menelaus, 23 who lorded it over his countrymen worse than all the others. In his rooted hostility to the Jews, •the king also sent the mysarch Apollonius at the head of 24 an army twenty-two thousand strong, with orders to put to death all men in their prime and to sell the women and children. •Arriving in Jerusalem and posing as 25 a man of peace, this man waited until the holy day of the sabbath and then, taking advantage of the Jews as they rested from work, ordered his men to parade fully armed; •all those who came out to watch he put to the sword; 26 then, running through the city with his armed troops, he cut down an immense number of people.

Judas called Maccabaeus, however, with about nine others, withdrew into 27
 the wilderness, and lived like wild animals in the hills with his companions, eating nothing but wild plants to avoid contracting defilement.

Pagan cults imposed

6 Shortly afterwards, the king sent an old man from Athens to compel the 1 Jews to abandon their ancestral customs and live no longer by the laws of God; •and to profane the Temple in Jerusalem and dedicate it to Olympian Zeus, 2 and that on Mount Gerizim to Zeus, patron of strangers, as the inhabitants had requested.<sup>a</sup> •The imposition of this evil was oppressive and altogether intolerable. 3
 The Temple was filled with revelling and debauchery by the pagans, who took 4 their pleasure with prostitutes and had intercourse with women in the sacred precincts, introducing other indecencies besides. •The altar of sacrifice was loaded 5 with victims proscribed by the laws as unclean. •A man might neither keep the 6 sabbath nor observe the traditional feasts, nor so much as admit to being a Jew. •People were driven by harsh compulsion to eat the sacrificial entrails at 7
 the monthly celebration of the king's birthday; and when a feast of Dionysus occurred they were forced to wear ivy wreaths and walk in the Dionysiac 8 procession. •A decree was issued at the instance of the people of Ptolemais for the neighbouring Greek cities, enforcing the same conduct on the Jews there, 9 obliging them to share in the sacrificial meals, •and ordering the execution of those who would not voluntarily conform to Greek customs. So it became clear that disaster was imminent.

For example, there were two women charged with having circumcised their 10 children. They were paraded publicly round the town, with their babies hung at their breasts, and then hurled over the city wall. •Other people who had 11 assembled in the caves to keep the seventh day without attracting attention were denounced to Philip and all burned together, since their consciences would not allow them to defend themselves, out of respect for the holiness of the day.

Providential interpretation of the persecution

12 Now I urge anyone who may read this book not to be dismayed at these 13 calamities, but to reflect that such visitations are not intended to destroy our 14 race but to discipline it. •Indeed when evil-doers are not left for long to their 15 own devices but incur swift retribution, it is a sign of great benevolence. •In the 16 case of the other nations the Master waits patiently for them to attain the full 17 measure of their sins before he punishes them, but with us he has decided 18 to deal differently, •rather than have to punish us later, when our sins come to 19 a head. •And so he never entirely withdraws his mercy from us; he may discipline
 20 us by some disaster, but he does not desert his own people. •Let this be said 21 simply by way of reminder; we must return to our story without more ado.

The martyrdom of Eleazar

18 Eleazar, one of the foremost teachers of the Law, a man already advanced 19 in years and of most noble appearance, was being forced to open his mouth 20 wide to swallow pig's flesh. •But he, resolving to die with honour rather than 21 to live disgraced, went to the block of his own accord, •spitting the stuff out, the 22 plain duty of anyone with the courage to reject what it is not lawful to taste, 23 even from a natural tenderness for his own life. •Those in charge of the impious
 24 banquet, because of their long-standing friendship with him, took him aside 25 and privately urged him to have meat brought of a kind he could properly use, 26 prepared by himself, and only pretend to eat the portions of sacrificial meat as 27 prescribed by the king; •this action would enable him to escape death, by availing 28 himself of an act of kindness prompted by their long friendship. •But having 29 taken a noble decision worthy of his years and the dignity of his great age and 30 the well earned distinction of his grey hairs, worthy too of his impeccable conduct 31 from boyhood, and above all of the holy legislation established by God himself, 32 he publicly stated his convictions, telling them to send him at once to Hades.
 33 'Such pretence' he said 'does not square with our time of life; many young 34 people would suppose that Eleazar at the age of ninety had conformed to the 35 foreigners' way of life, •and because I had played this part for the sake of a 36 paltry brief spell of life might themselves be led astray on my account; I should 37 only bring defilement and disgrace on my old age. •Even though for the moment 38 I avoid execution by man, I can never, living or dead, elude the grasp of the 39 Almighty. •Therefore if I am man enough to quit this life here and now I shall 40 prove myself worthy of my old age, •and I shall have left the young a noble 41 example of how to make a good death, eagerly and generously, for the venerable 42 and holy laws.'

29 With these words he went straight to the block. •His escorts, so recently well 30 disposed towards him, turned against him after this declaration, which they 31 regarded as sheer madness. •Just before he died under the blows, he groaned
 32 aloud and said, 'The Lord whose knowledge is holy sees clearly that, though I 33 might have escaped death, whatever agonies of body I now endure under this 34 bludgeoning, in my soul I am glad to suffer, because of the awe which he inspires 35 in me'.

31 This was how he died, leaving his death as an example of nobility and a record of virtue not only for the young but for the great majority of the nation.

The martyrdom of the seven brothers

1 7 There were also seven brothers who were arrested with their mother. The 2 king tried to force them to taste pig's flesh, which the Law forbids, by 3 torturing them with whips and scourges. •One of them, acting as spokesman for 4 the others, said, 'What are you trying to find out from us? We are prepared to 5 die rather than break the laws of our ancestors.' •The king, in a fury,

5 b. 'Philip the Phrygian', not the Philip of I M 6:14.

6 a. 'The inhabitants' are the Samaritans.

ordered pans and cauldrons to be heated over a fire. •As soon as they were 4 red-hot he commanded that this spokesman of theirs should have his tongue cut out, his head scalped and his extremities cut off, while the other brothers and his mother looked on. •When he had been rendered completely helpless, the 5 king gave orders for him to be brought, still breathing, to the fire and fried alive in a pan. As the smoke from the pan drifted about, his mother and the rest encouraged one another to die nobly, with such words as these, •‘The Lord 6
God is watching, and surely he takes pity on us, as in the song in which Moses bore witness against the people to their face, proclaiming that “he will certainly take pity on his servants”’.

When the first had left the world in this way, they led on the second for their 7 brutal amusement. After stripping the skin from his head, hair and all, they asked him, ‘Will you eat, before your body is tortured limb by limb?’ •But he retorted 8 in the language of his ancestors, ‘Never!’ And so he too was put to the torture in his turn. •With his last breath he exclaimed, ‘Inhuman fiend, you may discharge 9 us from this present life, but the King of the world will raise us up, since it is for his laws that we die, to live again for ever’.

After him, they amused themselves with the third, who on being asked for 10 his tongue promptly thrust it out and boldly held out his hands, •with these 11 honourable words, ‘It was heaven that gave me these limbs; for the sake of his laws I disdain them; from him I hope to receive them again’. •The king and his 12 attendants were astounded at the young man’s courage and his utter indifference to suffering.

When this one was dead they subjected the fourth to the same savage torture. 13
When he neared his end he cried, ‘Ours is the better choice, to meet death at 14
men’s hands, yet relying on God’s promise that we shall be raised up by him;
whereas for you there can be no resurrection, no new life’.

Next they brought forward the fifth and began torturing him. •But he looked 15 at the king and said, ‘You have power over men, mortal as you are, and can 16 act as you please. But do not think that our race has been deserted by God.
Only wait, and you shall see in your turn how his mighty power will torment 17
you and your race.’

After him they led out the sixth, and his dying words were these, ‘Do not 18
delude yourself: we are suffering like this through our own fault, having sinned 19 against our own God; the result has been terrible, •but do not think you yourself will go unpunished for attempting to make war on God’.

But the mother was especially admirable and worthy of honourable remem- 20 brance, for she watched the death of seven sons in the course of a single day, and endured it resolutely because of her hopes in the Lord. •Indeed she 21 encouraged each of them in the language of their ancestors; filled with noble conviction, she reinforced her womanly argument with manly courage, saying to them, •‘I do not know how you appeared in my womb; it was not I who 22 endowed you with breath and life, I had not the shaping of your every part.
It is the creator of the world, ordaining the process of man’s birth and presiding 23 over the origin of all things, who in his mercy will most surely give you back both breath and life, seeing that you now despise your own existence for the sake of his laws.’

Antiochus thought he was being ridiculed, suspecting insult in the tone of 24 her voice; and as the youngest was still alive he appealed to him not with mere words but with promises on oath to make him both rich and happy if he would abandon the traditions of his ancestors; he would make him his Friend and entrust him with public office. •The young man took no notice at all, and so the king 25 then appealed to the mother, urging her to advise the youth to save his life.
After a great deal of urging on his part she agreed to try persuasion on her son. 26
Bending over him, she fooled the cruel tyrant with these words, uttered in the 27 language of their ancestors, ‘My son, have pity on me; I carried you nine months in my womb and suckled you three years, fed you and reared you to the age you 28 are now (and cherished you). •I implore you, my child, observe heaven and earth, consider all that is in them, and acknowledge that God made them out 29 of what did not exist, and that mankind comes into being in the same way. •Do not fear this executioner, but prove yourself worthy of your brothers, and make death welcome, so that in the day of mercy I may receive you back in your brothers' company.'

30 She had scarcely ended when the young man said, 'What are you all waiting for? I will not comply with the king's ordinance; I obey the ordinance of the 31 Law given to our ancestors through Moses. •As for you, sir, who have contrived every kind of evil against the Hebrews, you will certainly not escape the hands 32 of God. •We are suffering for our own sins; •and if, to punish and discipline us, 33 our living Lord vents his wrath upon us, he will yet be reconciled with his own 34 servants. •But you, unholy wretch, bloodiest villain of all mankind, do not be carried away with senseless elation, crowing with false confidence as you raise 35 your hand against his servants, •for you have not yet escaped the judgement of 36 God the almighty, the all-seeing. •Our brothers already, after enduring their brief pain, now drink of ever-flowing life, by virtue of God's covenant, while you, by God's judgement, will have to pay the just penalty for your arrogance.
 37 I too, like my brothers, surrender my body and life for the laws of my ancestors, calling on God to show his kindness to our nation and that soon, and by trials and 38 afflictions to bring you to confess that he alone is God, •so that with my brothers and myself there may be an end to the wrath of the Almighty, rightly let loose on our whole nation.'

39 The king fell into a rage and treated this one more cruelly than the others,
 40 for he was himself smarting from the young man's scorn. •And so the last brother 41 met his end undefiled and with perfect trust in the Lord. •The mother was the last to die, after her sons.

42 But let this be sufficient account of the ritual meals and excessive torments.

THE VICTORY OF JUDAISM

THE DEATH OF THE PERSECUTOR AND PURIFICATION OF THE TEMPLE

Judas Maccabaeus and the resistance

1 Judas Maccabaeus and his companions made their way secretly among the villages, rallying their kinsfolk; they recruited those who remained loyal 2 to Judaism, and assembled about six thousand. •They called upon the Lord to have regard for the people oppressed on all sides, to take pity on the Temple 3 profaned by the godless, •to have mercy on the city falling into ruin and nearly levelled to the ground, to hear the blood of the victims that cried aloud to him, 4 to remember the criminal slaughter of innocent babies and to avenge the 5 blasphemies perpetrated against his name. •As soon as Maccabaeus had an organised force he at once proved invincible to the pagans, the Lord's anger 6 having turned into compassion. •Making surprise attacks on towns and villages, he fired them; he captured favourable positions and inflicted a number of reverses 7 on the enemy, •generally availing himself of the cover of night for such enterprises. The fame of his valour spread far and wide.

Early exploits

8 When Philip saw Judas was making steady progress and winning more and more frequent successes, he wrote to Ptolemy, the military commissioner for 7 a. He did not understand Aramaic.

Coele-Syria and Phoenicia, asking for reinforcements in the royal interest. Ptolemy appointed Nicanor son of Patroclus, one of the king's First Friends, 9 and sent him without delay at the head of an international force of at least twenty thousand men, to exterminate the entire Jewish race. As his associate he appointed Gorgias, a professional general of wide military experience. •Nicanor 10 determined to raise the two thousand talents of tribute money owed by the king to the Romans, by the sale of Jewish prisoners of war. •He lost no time in 11 sending the seaboard towns an invitation to come and buy Jewish manpower, promising delivery of ninety head for one talent; but he did not reckon on the judgement from the Almighty that was soon to overtake him.

When news reached Judas of Nicanor's advance, he warned his men of the 12 enemy's approach, •whereupon the fainthearted and those who lacked confidence 13 in the justice of God took to their heels and ran away. •The rest sold all their 14 remaining possessions, at the same time praying the Lord to deliver them from the godless Nicanor, who had sold them even in advance of any encounter—•if 15 not for their own sakes, then at least out of consideration for the covenants made with their ancestors, and because they themselves bore his sacred and majestic name.

Maccabaeus marshalled his men, who numbered about six thousand, and 16 exhorted them not to be dismayed at the enemy or discouraged at the vast horde of pagans wickedly advancing against them, but to fight bravely, •keeping 17 before their eyes the criminal outrage inflicted by these men on the Holy Place, and the agony of the humiliated city, not to mention the destruction of their traditional way of life. •‘They may put their trust in their weapons and their 18 exploits,’ he said ‘but our confidence is in almighty God, who is able with a nod to overthrow both those marching on us and the whole world with them.’ •He 19 reminded them of the occasions on which their forbears had received help: that time when, under Sennacherib, a hundred and eighty-five thousand men had perished; •that time in Babylonia when in the battle with the Galatians 20 the Jewish combatants numbered only eight thousand and four thousand Macedonians, yet when the Macedonians were hard pressed, the eight thousand wiped out a hundred and twenty thousand because of the help they received from heaven, and won incalculable gains.

Having so roused their courage by these words that they were ready to die 21 for the laws and their country, he then divided his army roughly into four, putting his brothers, Simon, Joseph and Jonathan in command of one division 22 each, and assigning them fifteen hundred men apiece. •Next, he ordered Esdras<sup>a</sup> 23 to read the sacred book aloud, and gave them their watchword ‘Help from God’; then he put himself at the head of the first division and joined battle with Nicanor. •With the Almighty for their ally, they slaughtered over nine thousand 24 of the enemy, wounded and crippled the greater part of Nicanor's army and put them all to flight. •The money of their prospective purchasers fell into their 25 hands. After pursuing them for a good while, they turned back, since time was pressing: •it was the eve of the sabbath, and for that reason they did not prolong 26 their pursuit. •They collected the enemy's weapons and stripped them of their 27 spoils, and then celebrated the sabbath with heartfelt praise and thanks to the Lord, who had reserved that day for distilling on them the first dew of his mercy. When the sabbath was over they distributed some of the booty among the victims 28 of the persecution and the widows and orphans; the rest they divided among themselves and their children. •They then joined in public supplication, imploring 29 the merciful Lord to be fully reconciled with his servants.

The defeat of Timotheus and Bacchides

They also challenged the forces of Timotheus and Bacchides and wiped out 30 over twenty thousand of them, gaining possession of several high fortresses. They divided their enormous booty into two equal shares, one for themselves, the other for the victims of the persecution and the orphans and widows, not 31 forgetting the aged. •They carefully collected the enemy's weapons and stored 32 them in convenient places. The rest of the spoils they took to Jerusalem. •They killed the officer commanding Timotheus' bodyguard, an extremely wicked man 33 who had done great harm to the Jews. •In the course of their victory celebrations in Jerusalem they burned the men that had fired the holy gates, who with Callisthenes had taken refuge in one small house; so these received a fitting reward for the sacrilege.

The flight and testimony of Nicanor

34 The triple-dyed scoundrel Nicanor, who had brought the thousand merchants 35 to buy the Jews, •finding himself humbled, with the Lord's help, by men he had himself reckoned as of very little account, stripped off his robes of state, and made his way across country unaccompanied, like a runaway slave, reaching Antioch by a singular stroke of fortune, considering that his army was destroyed.
 36 Thus the man who had promised the Romans to make good their tribute money by selling the prisoners from Jerusalem testified that the Jews had a defender, and that on this account the Jews were invulnerable, because they followed the laws which that defender had ordained.

The last days of Antiochus Epiphanes

1 Q About that time, as it happened, Antiochus had retreated in disorder from 2 the country of Persia. •He had entered the city called Persepolis, planning to rob the temple and occupy the city; but the population at once sprang to arms to defend themselves, with the result that Antiochus was routed by the inhabitants
 3 and forced to beat a humiliating retreat. •On his arrival in Ecbatana he learned 4 what had happened to Nicanor and to Timotheus' forces. •Flying into a passion, he resolved to make the Jews pay for the disgrace inflicted by those who had routed him, and with this in mind he ordered his charioteer to drive without stopping and get the journey over. But the condemnation of heaven travelled with him. He had said in his pride, 'When I reach Jerusalem I will turn it into 5 a mass grave for the Jews'. •But the all-seeing Lord, the God of Israel, struck him with an incurable and unseen complaint. The words were hardly out of his mouth when he was seized with an incurable pain in his bowels and with 6 excruciating internal torture; •and this was only right, since he had inflicted many 7 barbaric tortures on the bowels of others. •Even so he in no way diminished his arrogance; still bursting with pride, breathing fire in his wrath against the Jews, he was in the act of ordering an even keener pace when he suddenly 8 hurtled from his chariot, and the violence of his headlong fall racked every bone in his body. •He who only a little while before had thought in his superhuman boastfulness to command the waves of the sea, he who imagined he could weigh mountain peaks in a balance, found himself flat on the ground, borne in a 9 litter, a visible demonstration to all of the power of God, •in that the very eyes of this godless man teemed with worms and his flesh rotted away while he lingered on in agonising pain, and the stench of his decay sickened the whole 10 army. •A short while beforehand he had thought to grasp the stars of heaven;
 now no one could bring himself to act as his bearer, for the stench was unbearable.

11 In consequence he began there and then, in his shattered state, to shed his excessive pride and to come to his senses under the divine lash, for he was tor-12 mented with pain all the time. •His stench became unendurable even to himself, and he exclaimed, 'It is right to submit to God; no mortal should aspire to 13 equality with the godhead'. •The wretch began to pray to the Master, who would 14 never take pity on him now, declaring •that the Holy City, towards which he had been speeding to raze it to the ground and turn it into a mass grave, should be declared free; •as for the Jews, whom he had considered as not even worth burying, so much carrion to be thrown out with their children for birds and beasts to prey on, he would make them all the equals of the citizens of Athens; the holy Temple which he had once plundered he would now adorn with the finest offerings; he would restore all the sacred vessels many times over; he would defray from his personal revenue the expenses incurred for the sacrifices; and to crown it all he would himself turn Jew and visit every place where men lived, proclaiming the power of God.

Antiochus writes to the Jews

Finding no respite at all from his suffering, because God had punished him with his righteous sentence, he abandoned all hope for himself and wrote the Jews the letter transcribed below, which takes the form of an appeal in these terms:

‘To the excellent Jews his citizens, Antiochus, king and commander-in-chief, sends hearty greetings, wishing them all health and prosperity. •If you and your children are well and your affairs are as you would wish, then I am profoundly thankful. •For my part, though prostrate with sickness, I cherish tender memories of you. On my return from the country of Persia I fell seriously ill, and thought it necessary to make provision for the common security of all. •Not that I despair of my condition, for I have great hope of shaking off the malady, •but considering how my father, whenever he was making an expedition into the uplands, would designate his successor, •so that in case of any unforeseen event or disquieting rumour the people of the provinces might know to whom he had left the conduct of affairs and thus remain undisturbed: •furthermore, being well aware that the princes on our frontiers and neighbours of our realm are watching for opportunities and waiting to see what will happen, I have designated as king my son Antiochus, whom I have more than once entrusted and commended to most of you when I was setting out for the upland satrapies; a transcript of my letter to him is appended hereto. •I therefore urge and require you to remember past favours both public and personal, and to persist, each one of you, in your existing goodwill towards myself and my son. •I am confident that he will pursue my own policy with benevolence and humanity, and will prove accommodating to your interests.’

And so this murderer and blasphemous, having endured the same terrible suffering as he had made others endure, met his pitiable fate, and ended his life among the remote and inhospitable mountains. •His comrade Philip brought back his body, and then, fearing Antiochus’s son, withdrew to Egypt, to the court of Ptolemy Philometor.

The purification of the Temple<sup>a</sup>

10 Maccabaeus and his companions, under the Lord’s guidance, restored the Temple and the city, •and pulled down the altars erected by the foreigners in the market place, as well as the sacred enclosures. •They purified the sanctuary and built another altar; then striking fire from flints and using this fire, they offered the first sacrifice for two years, burning incense, lighting the lamps and setting out the loaves. •When they had done this they threw themselves flat on the ground, and implored the Lord never again to let them fall into such adversity, but if they should ever sin, to correct them with moderation and not to deliver them over to blasphemous and barbarous nations. •This day of the purification of the Temple fell on the very day on which the Temple had been profaned by the foreigners, the twenty-fifth of the same month, Chislew. •They kept eight festal days with rejoicing, in the manner of the feast of Tabernacles, remembering how, not long before at the time of the feast of Tabernacles, they had been living in the mountains and caverns like wild beasts. •Then, carrying branches, leafy boughs and palms, they offered hymns to him who had brought 8 the cleansing of his own Holy Place to a happy outcome. •They also decreed by public edict, ratified by vote, that the whole Jewish nation should celebrate those same days every year.

THE STRUGGLE OF JUDAS AGAINST THE NEIGHBOURING PEOPLES, AND AGAINST LYSIAS, EUPATOR'S HIGH COMMISSIONER

The disgrace of Ptolemy Macron

9 Such were the circumstances attending the death of Antiochus styled
 10 Epiphanes. •Our task now is to unfold the history of Antiochus Eupator, son 11 of that godless man, and relate briefly the evil effects of the wars. •On coming to the throne, this prince put at the head of affairs a certain Lysias, high 12 commissioner for Coele-Syria and Phoenicia. •Now Ptolemy, Macron as he was styled, the first governor to treat the Jews with any justice, had done his best to govern them peacefully to make up for the wrongs inflicted on them in the past.
 13 Denounced to Eupator by the Friends of the King, he heard himself called traitor at every turn for having abandoned Cyprus, which had been entrusted to him by Philometor, and for going over to Antiochus Epiphanes; having shed no lustre on his illustrious office, he committed suicide by poisoning himself.

Gorgias and the Idumaeen fortresses

14 Gorgias now became military commissioner for that region; he maintained
 15 a force of mercenaries and a continual state of war with the Jews. •At the same time the Idumaeans, who controlled important fortresses, were exerting pressure on the Jews, welcoming outlaws from Jerusalem and endeavouring to maintain 16 a state of war. •Maccabaeus and his men, after making public supplication to God, entreating him to support them, hurled themselves against the Idumaeen 17 fortresses. •Vigorously pressing home their attack, they seized possession of these vantage points, beating off all who fought on the ramparts; they slaughtered 18 all who fell into their hands, accounting for not less than twenty thousand. •Nine thousand at least took refuge in two exceptionally strong castles with everything 19 they needed to withstand a siege, •whereupon Maccabaeus left Simon and Joseph, with Zacchaeus and his forces, in sufficient numbers to besiege them, and himself 20 went off to other places demanding his attention. •But Simon's men were greedy for money and allowed themselves to be bribed by some of the men in the castles; accepting seventy thousand drachmae, they let a number of them escape.
 21 When Maccabaeus was told what had happened, he summoned the people's commanders and accused the offenders of having sold their brothers for money 22 by setting free men who were at war with them. •Having executed them as 23 traitors, he at once proceeded to capture both castles. •Successful in all that he undertook by force of arms, in these two fortresses he slaughtered more than twenty thousand men.

Judas defeats Timotheus and captures Gezer

Timotheus, who had been beaten by the Jews once before, now assembled an enormous force of mercenaries, mustering cavalry from Asia in considerable numbers, and appeared in Judaea, expecting to conquer it by force of arms.
 At his approach Maccabaeus and his men made their supplications to God, sprinkling earth on their heads and putting sackcloth round their waists. •Prostrating themselves on the terrace before the altar, they begged him to support them

10 a. This incident took place (December 164) before the death of Antiochus (Spring 163).

and to show himself the enemy of their enemies, the adversary of their adversaries, as the Law clearly states.

After these prayers they armed themselves and advanced a fair distance 27 from the city, halting when they were close to the enemy. •As the first light of 28 dawn began to spread, the two sides joined battle, the one having as their pledge of success and victory not only their own valour but their recourse to the Lord, the other making their own ardour their mainstay in the fight. •When the battle 29 was at its height the enemy saw five magnificent men appear from heaven on horses with golden bridles and put themselves at the head of the Jews; •sur- 30 rounding Maccabaeus and screening him with their own armour, they kept him unscathed, while they rained arrows and thunderbolts on the enemy until, blinded and confused, they scattered in complete disorder. •Twenty thousand five 31 hundred infantry and six hundred cavalry were slaughtered. •Timotheus himself 32 fled to a strongly guarded citadel called Gezer, where Chaereas was in command.
 For four days Maccabaeus and his men eagerly besieged the fortress, •while 33
 the defenders, confident in the security of the place, hurled fearful blasphemies 34 and godless insults at them. •At daybreak on the fifth day, twenty young men of Maccabaeus' forces, fired with indignation at the blasphemies, bravely 35 stormed the wall, and cut down with brutal fury everyone they encountered.
 Others, in a similar scaling operation, took the defenders in the rear, and set 36 fire to the towers, lighting pyres on which they burned the blasphemers alive.
 Others broke down the gates and let in the rest of the army, and were the first to occupy the town. •Timotheus had hidden in a cistern, but they killed him, 37 with his brother Chaereas, and Apollophanes. •When all this was over, they 38 blessed with hymns and thanksgiving the Lord, who had shown such great kindness to Israel and given them the victory.

The first campaign of Lysias

1 Almost immediately afterwards, Lysias, the king's tutor and cousin and 1 his visier, much disturbed at the turn of events, •mustered about eighty 2 thousand foot soldiers and his entire cavalry and advanced against the Jews, intending to make the Holy City a place for Greeks to live in, •to levy a tax on 3 the Temple as was done with other national shrines, and to put the office of high priest up for sale every year; •he took no account at all of the power of 4 God, being sublimely confident in his tens of thousands of infantrymen, his thousands of cavalry, and his eighty elephants.

Invading Judaea, he approached Bethzur, a fortified position about twenty 5 miles from Jerusalem, and began to subject it to strong pressure. •When 6 Maccabaeus and his men learned that Lysias was besieging the fortresses, they and the populace with them begged the Lord with lamentation and tears to send a good angel to save Israel. •Maccabaeus himself was the first to take up 7 his weapons, and he urged the rest to risk their lives with him in support of their brothers; so they sallied out resolutely, as one man. •They were still near 8 Jerusalem when a rider attired in white appeared at their head brandishing golden accoutrements. •With one accord they all blessed the God of mercy, and 9 found themselves filled with such courage that they were ready to lay low not men only but the fiercest beasts and walls of iron. •They advanced in battle order 10 with the aid of their celestial ally, the Lord having had mercy on them. •Charging 11 like lions on the enemy, they laid low eleven thousand of the infantry and 12 sixteen hundred horsemen, and routed all the rest. •Of those, the majority got away, wounded and weaponless. Lysias himself escaped only by ignominious flight.

Lysias makes peace with the Jews. Four letters concerning the treaty

Now Lysias was not lacking in intelligence, and as he reflected on the reverse 13
 he had suffered he realised that the Hebrews were invincible because the mighty God fought for them. He therefore sent to them •suggesting a reconciliation on 14 just terms all round, and promising to induce even the king to become their 15 friend. •Maccabaeus, thinking only of the common good, agreed to all that Lysias proposed, and whatever Maccabaeus submitted to Lysias in writing concerning the Jews was granted by the king.

16 Here is the text of the letter Lysias wrote to the Jews, 'From Lysias to the 17 Jewish people, greetings. •John and Absalom, your envoys, have delivered to me the communication transcribed below, requesting me to approve its provisions.
 18 Anything requiring the king's attention I have put before him; anything coming 19 within my own competence I have granted. •Provided you maintain your good will towards the administration I will do my best in the future to promote 20 your advantage. •As for the details, I have given orders for your envoys and my 21 own officials to discuss these with you. •May you prosper. The year one hundred and forty-eight, the twenty-fourth day of the month of Dioscoros.'

22 The king's letter was as follows, 'King Antiochus to his brother Lysias, 23 greetings. •Now that our father has taken his place among the gods our will is that the subjects of the realm be left undisturbed to attend to their own affairs.
 24 We understand that the Jews do not approve our father's policy, the adoption of Greek customs, but prefer their own way of life and ask to be allowed to 25 observe their own laws. •Accordingly, since we intend this people to be free from vexation like any other, our ruling is that the Temple be restored to them and 26 that they conduct their affairs according to the customs of their ancestors. •It will therefore be your concern to send them a mission of friendship, so that on learning our policy they may have confidence and proceed happily about their own affairs.'

27 The king's letter to the Jewish nation was in these terms, 'King Antiochus 28 to the Jewish senate and the rest of the Jews, greetings. •If you are well, that is 29 as we would wish; we ourselves are in good health. •Menelaus informs us that 30 you wish to return home and attend to your own affairs. •Accordingly, all those who return before the thirtieth day of Xanthicus may rest assured that they have 31 nothing to fear. •The Jews may make use of their own kind of food and their own laws as formerly, and none of them is to be molested in any way for any 32 unwitting offences. •I am in fact sending Menelaus to set your minds at rest.
 33 Farewell. In the hundred and forty-eighth year, the fifteenth of Xanthicus.'

34 The Romans also sent the Jews a letter, which read as follows, 'Quintus Memmius, Titus Manius, ambassadors of the Romans, to the people of the Jews, 35 greetings. •Whatever Lysias, the king's cousin, has granted you we also approve.
 36 As for the matters he decided to refer to the king, consider them carefully and send someone without delay, if we are to interpret them to your advantage, 37 because we are leaving for Antioch. •Lose no time, therefore, in sending us 38 those who can tell us what your intentions are. •Farewell. In the hundred and forty-eighth year, the fifteenth of Xanthicus.'

Incidents at Joppa and Jamnia

1 12 After these agreements had been concluded Lysias returned to the king
 2 while the Jews went back to their farming. •Among the local military commissioners, Timotheus and Apollonius son of Gennaues, as also Hieronymus and Demophon, and Nicanor the Cypriarch as well, would not allow the Jews to live in peace and quiet.

3 The people of Joppa went so far as to perpetrate the following outrage: they invited the Jews living among them to go aboard some boats they had lying ready, taking their wives and children. There was no hint of any intention to 4 harm them; •there had been a public vote by the citizens, and the Jews accepted, as well they might, being peaceable people with no reason to suspect anything.
 But once out in the open sea they were all sent to the bottom, a company of at least two hundred.

5 When Judas heard of the cruel fate of his countrymen, he issued his orders to his men •and after invoking God, the just judge, he attacked his brothers' 6 murderers. Under cover of dark he set fire to the harbour, burned the boats and put to the sword everyone who had taken refuge there. •As the town gates were 7 closed, he withdrew, intending to come back and wipe out the whole community of Joppa. •But hearing that the people of Jamnia were planning to treat their 8 resident Jews in the same way, •he made a night attack on the Jamnites and 9 fired the harbour with its fleet; the glow of the flames was seen as far off as Jerusalem, thirty miles away.

The expedition in Gilead

When they had left the town over a mile behind them in their advance on 10
Timotheus, Judas was attacked by an Arab force of at least five thousand foot soldiers, with five hundred cavalry. •A fierce engagement followed, and with 11 God's help Judas' men won the day; the defeated nomads begged Judas to offer them the right hand of friendship, and promised to surrender their herds and make themselves generally useful to him. •Realising that they might indeed 12 prove valuable in many ways, Judas consented to make peace with them and after an exchange of pledges the Arabs withdrew to their tents.

Judas also attacked a certain fortified town, enclosed by ramparts and 13 inhabited by a medley of races; its name was Caspin. •Confident in the strength 14 of their walls and their stock of provisions, the besieged adopted an insolent attitude to Judas and his men, reinforcing their insults with blasphemies and profanity. •But Judas and his men invoked the great Sovereign of the world 15 who without battering-ram or siege-engine overthrew Jericho in the days of Joshua; they then made a furious assault on the wall. •Capturing the city by the 16 will of God, they made such indescribable slaughter that the nearby lake, two furlongs across, seemed filled to overflowing with blood.

The battle of Carnaim

Ninety-five miles further on from there, they reached the Charax, in the 17 country of Jews known as Tubians. •They did not find Timotheus himself in 18 that neighbourhood; he had already left the district, having achieved nothing apart from leaving a very strong garrison at one point. •Dositheus and Sosipater, 19
two of the Maccabaeen generals, marched out and destroyed the force Timotheus had left behind in the fortress, amounting to more than ten thousand men.
Maccabaeus himself divided his army into cohorts to which he assigned com- 20 manders, and then hurried in pursuit of Timotheus, whose troops numbered one hundred and twenty thousand infantry and two thousand five hundred cavalry. •Timotheus's first move on learning of Judas' advance was to send 21 away the women and children and the rest of the baggage train to the place called Carnaim, since it was an impregnable position, difficult of access owing to the narrowness of all the approaches. •When the first of Judas' cohorts came into 22 sight, the enemy were seized with fright; panic-stricken at this manifestation of the All-seeing, they fled headlong in all directions, so that they were often wounded by their own men, running on the points of one another's swords.
Judas pursued them with a will, cutting the sinners to pieces and killing something 23
like thirty thousand men. •Timotheus himself, having fallen into the hands of 24 Dositheus and Sosipater and their men, very craftily pleaded with them to let him go with his life, on the grounds that he had the parents of most and the brothers of some in his power, and that these could otherwise expect short shrift.
When at long last he convinced them that he would honour his promise and return 25 these people safe and sound, they let him go for the sake of saving their brothers.

Reaching Carnaim and the Atargateion,<sup>a</sup> Judas slaughtered twenty-five 26 thousand men.

The return by way of Ephron and Scythopolis

- 27 After the rout of these enemies he led his army against Ephron, a fortified town, where Lysias was living. Stalwart young men drawn up outside the walls offered vigorous resistance, while inside there were quantities of war-engines and missiles in reserve. •But the Jews, invoking the Sovereign who by his power shatters enemies' defences, gained control of the city, and cut down nearly 28 twenty-five thousand of the people inside. •Moving off from there, they pressed 29 on to Scythopolis,<sup>b</sup> seventy-five miles from Jerusalem. •But as the Jews who had settled there assured Judas that the people of Scythopolis had always treated them well and had been particularly kind to them when times had been at their 30 worst, •he and his men thanked them and urged them to extend the same friendship to his race in the future.

They reached Jerusalem shortly before the feast of Weeks.

The campaign against Gorgias

- 32 After Pentecost, as it is called, they marched against Gorgias, the military 33 commissioner for Idumaea. •He came out at the head of three thousand infantry 34 and four hundred cavalry; •in the course of the ensuing battle a few Jews lost their lives.
- 35 A man called Dositheus, one of the Tubians, who was on horseback and a powerful man, grasped Gorgias, taking him by the cloak, and was forcibly dragging him along, intending to take the accursed man alive, but one of the Thracian cavalry, hurling himself on Dositheus, slashed his shoulder, and 36 Gorgias escaped to Marisa. •Meanwhile since Esdrias and his men had been fighting for a long time and were exhausted, Judas called on the Lord to show them he was their ally and leader in battle.
- 37 Then, chanting the battle cry and other hymns at the top of his voice in the language of his ancestors, he routed Gorgias' troops.

The sacrifice for the fallen

- 38 Judas then rallied his army and moved on to the town of Adullam, and since the seventh day of the week had arrived they purified themselves according to custom and kept the sabbath in that place. •The next day they came to Judas (since the necessity was by now urgent) to have the bodies of the fallen taken up 39 and laid to rest among their relatives in their ancestral tombs. •But when they found on each of the dead men, under their tunics, amulets of the idols taken from Jamnia, which the Law prohibits to Jews, it became clear to everyone that 40 this was why these men had lost their lives. •All then blessed the ways of the 41 Lord, the just judge who brings hidden things to light, •and gave themselves to prayer, begging that the sin committed might be fully blotted out. Next, the valiant Judas urged the people to keep themselves free from all sin, having 42 seen with their own eyes the effects of the sin of those who had fallen; •after this he took a collection from them individually, amounting to nearly two thousand drachmae, and sent it to Jerusalem to have a sacrifice for sin offered, 43 an altogether fine and noble action, in which he took full account of the resurrection. •For if he had not expected the fallen to rise again it would have been 44 superfluous and foolish to pray for the dead, •whereas if he had in view the splendid recompense reserved for those who make a pious end, the thought was 45 holy and devout. This was why he had this atonement sacrifice offered for the dead, so that they might be released from their sin.

Antiochus V and Lysias. The fate of Menelaus

13 In the year one hundred and forty-nine Judas and his men discovered <sup>1</sup> that Antiochus Eupator was advancing in force against Judaea, <sup>2</sup> and with him Lysias his tutor and vizir; he had moreover a Greek force of one hundred and ten thousand infantry, five thousand three hundred cavalry, twenty-two elephants, and three hundred chariots fitted with scythes.

Menelaus sided with them, and with great duplicity kept encouraging <sup>3</sup> Antiochus, not for the welfare of his own country but in the hope of being confirmed in office. <sup>4</sup> But the King of kings stirred up the anger of Antiochus against the guilty wretch, and when Lysias made it clear to the king that Menelaus was the cause of all the troubles, Antiochus gave orders for him to be taken to Beroea and there put to death by the local method of execution. <sup>5</sup> In that place there is a tower fifty cubits high, filled with ash, with a circular construction sloping steeply down from all sides towards the ashes. <sup>6</sup> If anyone is convicted of sacrilegious theft or notoriously guilty of certain other crimes, they take him up to the top and thrust him down to perish. <sup>7</sup> In such a manner was the renegade fated to die; Menelaus had not even the privilege of burial. <sup>8</sup> Deserved justice, this; since he had committed many sins against the altar whose fire, whose very ashes were holy, it was in ashes that he met his death.

The prayers and success of the Jews near Modein

The king, then, was advancing, his mind filled with barbarous designs, to <sup>9</sup> give the Jews a demonstration of far worse things than anything that had happened under his father. <sup>10</sup> When Judas heard of this he ordered the people to call day and night upon the Lord, now if ever, for this once at least, to come to the help <sup>11</sup> of those who were in peril of being deprived of the Law, their fatherland and the holy Temple, and not to allow the people, just when they were beginning to breathe again, to fall into the power of the blaspheming pagans. <sup>12</sup> When they had all, as one man, obeyed his instructions and had made their petitions to the merciful Lord, weeping, fasting and prostrating themselves for three days continuously, Judas spoke words of encouragement and told them to keep close to him. <sup>13</sup> After separate consultation with the elders he resolved not to wait for the king's army to invade Judaea and take possession of the city, but to march out and bring the whole matter to a decision with the help of God.

Leaving the outcome to the creator of the world, and exhorting his soldiers <sup>14</sup> to fight bravely to the death for the laws, the Temple, the city, their country and their way of life, he halted his army near Modein. <sup>15</sup> Leaving his men with the watchword 'Victory from God', he made a night attack on the king's pavilion with a picked band of the bravest young men. Inside the camp he destroyed about two thousand, and his men cut down the largest of the elephants with its driver; <sup>16</sup> in the end they filled the whole camp with terror and confusion before withdrawing in triumph. <sup>17</sup> Dawn was just breaking as this was brought to an end, through the protection of the Lord watching over Judas.

Antiochus in treaty with the Jews

The king, having had a taste of Jewish daring, now tried to attack their <sup>18</sup> positions strategically. <sup>19</sup> He advanced on Bethzur, a strong fortress of the Jews, but was repulsed, and so checked and worsted.

Judas sent in to the garrison what they needed, <sup>20</sup> but Rhodocus, of the Jewish army, supplied the enemy with secret information; the man was identified, <sup>21</sup> arrested, and dealt with. <sup>22</sup> For the second time the king parleyed with the garrison of Bethzur; he offered and accepted pledges of amity, retired, then attacked Judas and his men, but came off worst. <sup>23</sup> He was then told that Philip, left in charge of affairs at Antioch, had made a desperate move. He was stunned by this, opened negotiations with the Jews, capitulated, and swore to abide by all reasonable conditions. He reached an agreement, offered sacrifice, honoured the Temple, and made generous gifts to the Holy Place.

24 He received Maccabaeus kindly, then left Hegemonides behind as military com-25 missioner from Ptolemais to the territory of the Gerrenians, and went to Ptolemais. The inhabitants of the place disapproved of the treaty; they voiced 26 their resentment and wanted to annul its articles. Lysias mounted the rostrum and made a persuasive defence of the articles which convinced and calmed them, and so won their good will. He then withdrew to Antioch.

So much for the episode of the king's offensive and retreat.

THE CONFLICT WITH NICANOR, GENERAL OF DEMETRIUS I. THE DAY OF NICANOR

Alcimus the high priest intervenes

1 14 Three years after this, Judas and his men learned that Demetrius son of Seleucus had landed at the port of Tripolis with a strong army and 2 a fleet, and that he had occupied the country and had killed Antiochus and 3 his tutor Lysias. A certain Alcimus, a former high priest, had wilfully incurred defilement at the time of the insurrection; realising that whichever way he turned 4 there was no security for him, nor any further access to the holy altar, he went to King Demetrius in about the year one hundred and fifty-one and presented him with a golden crown and a palm, together with the traditional olive branches from the Temple; there, for that day, he let the matter rest.

5 Presently he found an opportunity that suited his perverse purpose. When Demetrius called him into his council and questioned him about the dispositions 6 and intentions of the Jews, he replied, 'Those Jews called Hasidaeans, who are led by Judas Maccabaeus, are warmongers and rebels who are preventing 7 the kingdom from finding stability. That is why, after being deprived of my 8 hereditary dignity, I mean the high-priesthood, I have come here now, first, out of genuine concern for the king's interests, and secondly, out of a regard for our own fellow citizens, because the irresponsible behaviour of those I have 9 mentioned has brought great degradation on our entire race. When your majesty has taken note of all these points, may it please you to make provision for the welfare of our country and our oppressed nation, as befits the gracious 10 benevolence you extend to all; for as long as Judas remains alive the state will never enjoy peace.'

11 When Alcimus had finished this speech, the rest of the Friends of the King, who hated Judas, seized the occasion to arouse Demetrius' anger against him.
 12 He at once selected Nicanor, who had been commander of the elephants, 13 promoted him military commissioner for Judaea and despatched him with instructions to dispose of Judas, disperse his followers and instal Alcimus as high 14 priest of the greatest of temples. The pagans in Judaea, who had fled before Judas, flocked to join Nicanor, thinking that the misfortunes and troubles of the Jews would be to their own advantage.

Nicanor comes to terms with Judas

15 When the Jews heard that Nicanor was coming and that the pagans were about to attack, they sprinkled dust over themselves and made supplication to him who had established his people for ever and had never failed to support his 16 own heritage by his direct intervention. On their leader's orders they at once left the place where they were and came upon the enemy at the village of 17 Dessau.<sup>a</sup> Simon, brother of Judas, had engaged Nicanor, but because of the 14 a. Adasa. Compare the very similar incident at Capharsalama (which is nearby) in 1 M 7.

unexpected arrival of his adversaries had suffered a slight check. •However, 18 Nicanor had heard how brave Judas and his men were and how resolutely they always fought for their country, and he did not dare allow bloodshed to decide the issue. •And so he sent Posidonius, Theodotus and Mattathias to offer the Jews 19 pledges of friendship and to accept theirs.

After careful consideration of his terms, the leader communicated them to 20 his troops, and since they were all clearly of one mind they agreed to the treaty.
A day was fixed on which the respective leaders were to meet privately on 21 neutral ground: a litter came out from either side and seats were set up. •Judas 22 had posted armed men on the alert in advantageous positions in case of a sudden treacherous move by the enemy. The leaders held their conference and reached agreement. •Nicanor took up residence in Jerusalem and did nothing out of 23 place there; he even sent away the crowds that had flocked to join him. •He kept 24
Judas constantly with him, becoming deeply attached to him •and he encouraged 25 him to marry and have children. Judas married, settled down and led a normal life.

Alcimus renews hostilities, and Nicanor threatens the Temple

When Alcimus saw how friendly the two men had become, he went to 26
Demetrius with a copy of the treaty they had signed and told him that Nicanor was holding ideas against the interests of the state, and was planning that Judas, an enemy of the realm, should fill the next vacancy among the Friends of the King.

The king flew into a rage; roused by the calumnies of this arch-villain, he 27 wrote to Nicanor, telling him of his strong displeasure at the treaty and ordering him to send Maccabaeus to Antioch in chains immediately.

When the letter reached Nicanor he was very much upset, for it went against 28
the grain with him to break his agreement with a man who had done nothing wrong. •However, there was no question of opposing the king, so he waited 29 for an opportunity to carry out the order by a stratagem. •Maccabaeus began 30 to notice that Nicanor was treating him more sharply and that his manner of speaking to him was more abrupt than it had been, and he concluded that such severity could have no very good motive. He therefore collected a considerable number of his followers and withdrew from Nicanor. •The latter, realising 31 that the man had well and truly outmanoeuvred him, went to the great and holy Temple at a time when the priests were offering the customary sacrifices, and ordered them to surrender Judas. •When they protested on oath that 32
they did not know where the wanted man could be, •he stretched out his right 33 hand towards the Temple and swore this oath, 'If you do not hand Judas over to me as prisoner, I will raze this sanctuary of God to the ground, I will demolish
the altar, and on this very spot I will erect a splendid temple to Dionysus'.
With these words he left them. The priests stretched out their hands to heaven, 34 calling on him who has at all times done battle for our nation; this was their prayer: •'O Lord, you who stand in need of nothing at all, it has pleased you that 35
there should be in our midst a Temple for your dwelling place. •Now therefore, 36 holy Lord of all holiness, preserve for ever from all profanation this house, so newly purified.'

The death of Razis

Now, a certain Razis, one of the elders of Jerusalem, was denounced to 37 Nicanor. He was a man who loved his countrymen and stood high in their esteem, and he was known as the father of the Jews because of his kindness.
In the earlier days of the insurrection he had been convicted of Judaism, and he 38 had risked both body and life for Judaism with the utmost zeal. •By way of 39 demonstrating the enmity he had for the Jews, Nicanor sent over five hundred soldiers to arrest him, •reckoning that if he eliminated this man he would be 40

41 dealing them a severe blow. •When the troops were on the point of capturing the tower and were forcing the courtyard gate and calling for fire to set the doors alight, Razis, finding himself completely surrounded, fell on his own sword, nobly resolving to die rather than fall into the clutches of these villains and suffer outrages unworthy of his noble birth. •But in the heat of conflict he missed his thrust, and while the troops swarmed in through the doorways, he ran up with alacrity on to the wall and bravely threw himself down among the troops. •But as they instantly drew back some distance, he fell into the middle of the empty space. •Still breathing, and blazing with anger, he struggled to his feet, blood spurting in all directions, and despite his terrible wounds ran right through the crowd; then, taking his stand on a steep rock, •although he had now lost every drop of blood, he tore out his entrails and taking them in both hands flung them among the troops, calling on the Master of his life and spirit to give them back to him one day. Such was the manner of his passing.

Nicanor's blasphemies

1 15 Nicanor heard that Judas and his men were in the neighbourhood of Samaria, so he decided to attack them, at no risk to himself, on the day of rest. •Those Jews who had been compelled to follow him said, 'You must not massacre them in such a savage, barbarous way, but give its proper honour to the day on which the All-seeing has conferred a special holiness'. •At this the triple-dyed scoundrel asked if there was in heaven a sovereign who had ordered the keeping of the sabbath day. •When they answered, 'It is the living Lord himself, the heavenly sovereign, who has ordered the observance of the seventh day', he retorted, 'And it is I myself as sovereign on earth who order you to take up arms and carry through this business of the king'. For all that, he never managed to carry through his savage plan.

Judas harangues his men. His dream

6 While Nicanor, in his unlimited boastfulness and pride, was planning to erect a public trophy with the spoils taken from Judas and his men, •Maccabaeus remained firm in his confident conviction that the Lord would stand by him. •He urged his men not to be dismayed by the attacks of the pagans but, keeping in mind the help that had come to them from heaven in the past, to be confident that this time also victory would be theirs with the help of the Almighty. •He put fresh heart into them, citing the Law and the Prophets, and by stirring up memories of the battles they had already won he filled them with new enthusiasm. •Having thoroughly roused their courage, he ended his speech by detailing the treachery of the heathen and their violation of their oaths.

11 Having armed each one of them not so much with the safety given by shield and lance as with that confidence that springs from noble language, he encouraged them all by describing to them a convincing dream—a vision, as it were. •What he had seen was this: Onias, the former high priest, that paragon of men, modest of bearing and gentle of manners, suitably eloquent and trained from boyhood in the practice of every virtue—Onias was stretching out his hands and praying for the whole nation of the Jews. •Next there appeared a man equally remarkable for his great age and dignity and invested with a marvellous and impressive air of majesty. •Onias began to speak: 'This is a man' he said 'who loves his brothers and prays much for the people and the Holy City—Jeremiah, the prophet of God'. •Jeremiah then stretched out his right hand and presented Judas with a golden sword, saying as he gave it, •'Take this holy sword as a gift from God; with it you shall strike down enemies'.

The disposition of the combatants

17 Encouraged by the noble words of Judas, which had the power to inspire valour and give the young the spirit of grown men, they decided not to pitch camp but to make a spirited attack and settle the matter fighting hand to hand with all their courage, since the city, their holy religion and the Temple were in danger. •Their concern for their wives and children, their brothers and relatives, had shrunk to minute importance; their chief and greatest fear was for the consecrated Temple. •Those left behind in the city felt a similar anxiety, alarmed as they were about the forthcoming encounter in the open country. •Everyone now awaited the coming issue. The enemy had already concentrated their forces and stood formed up in order of battle, with the elephants drawn up in a strategic position and the cavalry disposed on the wings. Maccabaeus took note of these masses confronting him, the glittering array of armour and the fierce aspect of the elephants; then, raising his hands to heaven, he called on the Lord who works miracles, in the knowledge that it is not by force of arms, but as he sees fit to decide, that victory is granted by him to such as deserve it. •His prayer was worded thus: 'You, Master, sent your angel in the days of Hezekiah king of Judaea, and destroyed no less than one hundred and eighty-five thousand of Sennacherib's army; •now once again, Sovereign of heaven, send a good angel before us to spread terror and dismay. •May these men be struck down by the might of your arm, since they have come with blasphemy on their lips to attack your holy people.' With this, he brought his prayer to an end.

The defeat and death of Nicanor

Nicanor and his men advanced to the sound of trumpets and war songs, but the men of Judas closed with the enemy uttering invocations and prayers. Fighting with their hands and praying to God in their hearts, they cut down at least thirty-five thousand men and were greatly cheered by this divine manifestation. •When the engagement was ended and they were withdrawing in triumph they recognised Nicanor, lying dead in full armour.

With shouting and confusion all around, they blessed the sovereign Master in the language of their ancestors. •The man who had devoted himself entirely, body and soul, to the service of his countrymen, and had always preserved the love he had felt even in youth for those of his own race, gave orders for Nicanor's head to be cut off, together with his arm and shoulder, and taken to Jerusalem. When he arrived there himself, he called together his countrymen and the priests; then standing in front of the altar he sent for the people from the Citadel. •He showed them the head of the infamous Nicanor, and the hand which the blasphemer had stretched out so insolently against the holy house of the Almighty. •Then, cutting out the tongue of the godless Nicanor, he gave orders for it to be fed piecemeal to the birds, and for the reward of his folly to be hung up in sight of the Temple. •At this everyone sent blessings heavenward to the glorious Lord, saying, 'Blessings on him who has preserved his own dwelling from pollution!'

He hung Nicanor's head from the Citadel, a clear and evident sign to all of the help of the Lord. •They all passed a decree by unanimous vote never to let that day go by unobserved, but to celebrate the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, called Adar in Aramaic, the eve of the day of Mordecai.<sup>15</sup>

Compiler's epilogue

So ends the episode of Nicanor, and as, since then, the city has remained in the possession of the Hebrews, I shall bring my own work to an end here too. If it is well composed and to the point, that is just what I wanted. If it is trashy and mediocre, that is all I could manage. •Just as it is injurious to drink wine by itself, or again water, whereas wine mixed with water is pleasant and produces a delightful sense of well-being, so skill in presenting the incidents is what delights the understanding of those who read the story. On that note I will close.

<sup>15</sup> a. This is an anachronism; the Citadel was still in the hands of the Syrians at this date.
b. Called the Day of Nicanor, 1 M 7:48. The Day of Mordecai is the Purim of Est 9:20.

HISTORICAL STORIES

This section consists of a number of short books written during the post-exilic period as comments on the contemporary situation. They are all set in other periods or places than those for which they were written, and in this sense they are all fictitious. In modern terms they can be seen as short historical novels, and although some of them may seem of doubtful value to a modern reader, they should be read with an awareness of the needs of the Jewish communities of the time, both in Jerusalem and in various cities of the Near East.

Ruth is set in the period of the Judges (c. 1200–1050 B.C.). It is the story of a Moabite woman who accepted the Hebrew religion and married into a Hebrew family. When her husband died she elected to return to Bethlehem with her mother-in-law and there married another Hebrew. She was the great-grandmother of King David. The more obvious teaching of the story is God's generosity towards non-Hebrews and his protection of widows, but it is possible that the story was also intended to criticise the more extreme post-exilic legislation against marriages with foreigners. This was a foreign marriage which within three generations produced the most outstanding king the nation was ever to know.

Jonah is set in the northern kingdom, Israel, at the time of Jereboam II (783–743 B.C.). It states that the prophet Jonah (mentioned in 2 Kings 14:25) was commanded by God to go and preach to the people of the Assyrian capital, Nineveh. Jonah considers the task a hopeless one and tries to flee from it. Despite all his misgivings, and to his indignation, Nineveh accepts Jonah's preaching when he finally reaches it, and the people are converted to the worship of Yahweh. This points the importance of remaining faithful to the missionary responsibilities which the prophets had emphasized and which were an essential part of the messianic fulfilment. The increasingly exclusive post-exilic Jewish community in Jerusalem was in danger of forgetting this responsibility.

The remaining four books are all concerned with God's providential care for his people in their different circumstances and dangers.

Esther is set in Persia in the reign of King Xerxes I (486–465 B.C.). It tells how a pogrom of the Jews was averted and the Jews granted two days in which they were allowed to kill their enemies. The successive events through which God works to save his people all occur through the normal working of human ambition and greed, and perhaps are intended to show that God is able to work his will through everyday motives and events.

Judith is set in the Babylonian period of King Nebuchadnezzar (605–562 B.C.) before the destruction of Jerusalem in 587 B.C. She saves her city by beheading the general of a besieging Babylonian army while preparing to seduce him.

Tobit is set in the period of Shalmaneser, the Assyrian king who reigned from 727 to 722 B.C. It is the story of a righteous man who is saved from his afflictions by the intervention of God through the archangel Raphael. It is close to the spirit of the book of Job, and, like Job, Tobit is rewarded for his patient suffering.

Baruch is attributed to the secretary who served Jeremiah and the book is set in the year 587 B.C., five years after the destruction of Jerusalem by the Babylonians. It shows the Jews in exile in Babylon sending money to Jerusalem to pay for sin offerings in the ruined Temple. The book is probably directed towards the scattered communities of Jews who found it hard to accept that the post-exilic Jerusalem and the community of Jews centred on it could be the restoration and glory promised by the prophets. Baruch teaches that there is a new and glorious Jerusalem which has yet to come. It uses the well-known events leading up to the destruction of Jerusalem and the Exile to remind the Jews of the sins which had caused their present troubles, and to reassure them that God would still be faithful to his promise of salvation.

THE BOOK OF RUTH

RUTH AND NAOMI

- 1 In the days of the Judges famine came to the land and a certain man from 2 of Moab. •The man was called Elimelech, his wife Naomi and his two sons,
3 Mahlon and Chilion;<sup>a</sup> they were Ephrathites from Bethlehem of Judah. They came 4 to the country of Moab and settled there. •Elimelech, Naomi's husband, died, 5 and she and her two sons were left. •These married Moabite women: one was 6 named Orpah and the other Ruth. They lived there about ten years. •Then
7 both Mahlon and Chilion also died and the woman was bereft of her two sons
8 and her husband. •So she and her daughters-in-law prepared to return from 9 the country of Moab, for she had heard that Yahweh had visited his people and 10 given them food. •So, with her daughters-in-law, she came away from the place
11 where she was living and they took the road back to the land of Judah.
12 Naomi said to her two daughters-in-law, 'Go back, each of you to her mother's 13 house. May Yahweh be kind to you as you have been to those who have died
14 and to me. •Yahweh grant that you find rest, each of you, in the house of a 15 husband.' And she kissed them. But they wept aloud •and said to her, 'No, we 16 will go back with you to your people'. •And Naomi said, 'You must return, my daughters; why come with me? Have I any more sons in my womb to make husbands for you?' •Return my daughters, go, for I am too old now to marry again.
Even if I said there is still hope for me, even if I were to have a husband this very night and bear sons, •would you be prepared to wait until they were grown up?
Would you refuse to marry for this? No, my daughters, I should then be deeply grieved for you, for the hand of Yahweh has been raised against me.' •And once more they started to weep aloud. Then Orpah kissed her mother-in-law and went back to her people. But Ruth clung to her.
Naomi said to her, 'Look, your sister-in-law has gone back to her people and to her god. You must return too; follow your sister-in-law.'
But Ruth said, 'Do not press me to leave you and to turn back from your company, for

'wherever you go, I will go,
wherever you live, I will live.
Your people shall be my people,
and your God, my God.

I a. The names may be fictitious and chosen for their meaning: Mahlon is 'sickness', Chilion 'pining away', Orpah 'she who turns away', Ruth 'the beloved', Naomi 'my fair one' and Elimelech 'my God is king'. b. In accordance with levirate law the husband's brother takes the widow as his own wife. Dt 25.

Wherever you die, I will die
and there I will be buried.
May Yahweh do this thing to me
and more also,<sup>c</sup>
if even death should come between us!<sup>d</sup>

Seeing that she was determined to go with her, Naomi said no more. 18
The two of them went on until they came to Bethlehem. Their arrival there 19 set the whole town astir, and the women said, "Can this be Naomi?" •But she 20 said to them, "Do not call me Naomi, call me Mara,<sup>d</sup> for Shaddai has marred me bitterly.

'Filled full I departed,
Yahweh brings me back empty.
Why call me Naomi, then,
since Yahweh has given witness against me
and Shaddai has afflicted me?'

This was how Naomi, she who returned from the country of Moab, came 22 back with Ruth the Moabitess her daughter-in-law. And they came to Bethlehem at the beginning of the barley harvest.

RUTH IN THE FIELDS OF BOAZ

2 Now Naomi had a kinsman on her husband's side, well-to-do and of 1 Elimelech's clan. His name was Boaz.

Ruth the Moabitess said to Naomi, "Let me go into the fields and glean 2 among the ears of corn" in the footsteps of some man who will look on me with favour". And she said to her, "Go, my daughter". •So she set out and went to 3 glean in the fields after the reapers. And it chanced that she came to that part of the fields which belonged to Boaz of Elimelech's clan. •Now Boaz, as it 4 happened, had just come from Bethlehem. "Yahweh be with you!" he said to the reapers. "Yahweh bless you!" they replied. •Boaz said to a servant of his who 5 was in charge of the reapers, "To whom does this young woman belong?" •And 6
the servant in charge of the reapers replied, "The girl is the Moabitess, the one who came back with Naomi from the country of Moab, •and she said, "Please 7 let me glean and gather the ears of corn after the reapers". So she came and has been on her feet from morning till now.'

Boaz said to Ruth, "Listen, my daughter, and understand this. You are not 8 to glean in any other field, do not leave here but stay with my servants. •Keep 9 your eyes on whatever part of the field they are reaping and follow behind.
I have ordered my servants not to molest you. And if you are thirsty, go to the pitchers and drink what the servants have drawn.'" •Then she fell on her face, 10 bowing to the ground. And she said to him, "How have I so earned your favour that you take notice of me, even though I am a foreigner?" •And Boaz answered her, 11
'I have been told all you have done for your mother-in-law since your husband's death, and how you left your own father and mother and the land where you were born to come among a people whom you knew nothing about before you came here. •May Yahweh reward you for what you have done! May rich 12 recompense be made to you by Yahweh, the God of Israel, to whom you have come, to find shelter beneath his wings.' •Then she said, "May I find favour in 13 your eyes, my lord, since you have given me courage and spoken kindly to your maidservant, though indeed I am not the equal of one maidservant of yours'.

When it was time to eat Boaz said to her, "Come, eat some of this bread and 14 dip your piece in the wine". Ruth sat with the reapers and Boaz made a heap of roasted grain for her and she ate till her hunger was satisfied, and she had some left over. •Then she got up to glean and Boaz gave orders to his servants, "Let her 15

- 16 glean among the sheaves themselves,' he said 'and do not check her. •And see you pull a few ears of corn from the bundles and let them fall. Let her glean them, 17 and do not scold her.' •So she gleaned in the field till evening. Then she beat out what she had gleaned and it came to about an ephah of barley.
- 18 And taking it with her, she went into the town. She showed her mother-in-law what she had gleaned and also showed her the food she had set aside after 19 satisfying her hunger, and gave it to her. •And her mother-in-law said to her,
 'Where did you glean today? Where have you been working? Blessed be the man who took notice of you!' Then Ruth told her mother-in-law in whose field she had worked, 'The name of the man with whom I have been working today' 20 she said 'is Boaz'. •Then Naomi said to her daughter-in-law, 'May he be blessed by Yahweh who does not withhold his kindness from living or dead! This man' Naomi added 'is a relative of ours. He is one of those who has the right of 21 redemption over us.' •Then Ruth said to her mother-in-law, 'He also said to me, 22 "Stay with my servants until they have gathered in all my harvest"'. •And Naomi said to Ruth, her daughter-in-law, 'It is better for you, my daughter, to go with his servants than to go to some other field where you might be molested'.
 23 So Ruth stayed with the servants of Boaz and gleaned until the barley and wheat harvests were done. And she went on living with her mother-in-law.

BOAZ SLEEPS

- 1 3 Then Naomi, her mother-in-law, said to her, 'My daughter, is it not my duty
 2 to see you happily settled? •And is not Boaz, with whose servants you were, our kinsman? Now tonight he is winnowing the barley at the threshing-floor.
 3 Come, wash and anoint and dress yourself. Then go down to the threshing-floor.
 Do not make yourself known to him before he has finished eating and drinking.
 4 But when he settles down to sleep, take careful note of the place where he lies, then go and turn back the covering at his feet and lie there yourself. He will tell 5 you what to do.' •And Ruth said to her, 'I will do all you say'.
- 6 So she went down to the threshing-floor and did all that her mother-in-law 7 had told her. •When Boaz had eaten and drunk, he was in a happy mood and went to lie down by the heap of barley. Then she came quietly and turned back 8 the covering at his feet and lay there. •In the middle of the night the man started 9 up and looked about him; and there lying at his feet was a woman. •'Who are you?' he said; and she replied, 'I am Ruth, your maidservant. Spread the skirt of your cloak over your servant for you have right of redemption over me.' 10 'May Yahweh bless you, my daughter,' said Boaz 'for this last act of kindness of yours is greater than the first, since you have not gone after young men, poor 11 or rich. •Have no fear then, my daughter, I will do whatever you ask, for the 12 people of Bethlehem all know your worth. •But, though it is true I have right of 13 redemption over you, you have a kinsman closer than myself. •Stay here for tonight, and in the morning if he wishes to exercise his right over you, very well, let him redeem you. But if he does not wish to do so, then as Yahweh lives, I will 14 redeem you. Lie here till morning.' •So she lay at his feet till morning. Boaz rose before the hour when one man can recognise another, 'For' said he 'it 15 must not be known that this woman came to the threshing-floor'. •Then he said to her, 'Bring the cloak you are wearing and hold it out'. She held it out while he put six measures of barley into it and then gave it to her to carry. And she went into the town.

1 c. This formula is used to avoid repeating the actual words of the oath and thus incurring the danger of calling it down. d. 'Bitter'.

2 a. The Law gave this right to the poor, but its exercise depended on the landowner's goodwill.
3 a. This is asking Boaz to take her as his wife. Because it is her purpose to have a son who will be the legal descendant of her father-in-law Elimelech, this request is called 'an act of kindness' or filial piety.

When Ruth came back, her mother-in-law asked her, 'How did things go with you, my daughter?' Then she told her all that the man had done for her. 'He gave me these six measures of barley,' she added 'and he said to me, "You must not go back to your mother-in-law empty-handed".' 'Naomi replied, 'Wait, my daughter, and see how things will go, for he will not rest until it is settled, and settled today'.

BOAZ MARRIES RUTH

4 Meanwhile Boaz had gone up to the gate of the town and sat down, and the relative of whom he had spoken chanced to come past. Boaz said to him, 'Come here, man, and sit down'; and he came and sat down. 'Then Boaz picked out ten of the town's elders and said to them, 'Sit down here', and they sat down. Then Boaz said to the man who had right of redemption, 'Naomi, who has come back from the country of Moab, is selling the piece of land that belonged to our brother, Elimelech. 'I thought I should tell you about this and say: Buy it in the presence of the men who are sitting here and in the presence of the elders of my people. If you want to use your right of redemption, redeem it; if you do not, tell me so and I shall know, for there is no one but you to redeem it except me, though I come after you, myself.' And he said, 'I am willing to redeem it'. 'But Boaz continued, 'On the day you purchase the land from Naomi, you purchase Ruth the Moabitess also, the wife of the dead man,' and so restore his name to his inheritance'. 'And the man with right of redemption said, 'Then I cannot use my right of redemption, without jeopardising my own inheritance. As I cannot use my right of redemption, exercise the right yourself.' 'Now in former times it was the custom in Israel, in matters of redemption or exchange, to confirm the transaction by one of the parties removing his sandal and giving it to the other. In Israel this was the form of ratification in the presence of witnesses. So when the man with right of redemption said to Boaz, 'Purchase it for yourself', he took off his sandal.

Then Boaz said to the elders and all the people, 'You are witnesses this day that I buy from Naomi all that belonged to Elimelech, to Chilion and to Mahlon. 'You are witnesses too that I buy Ruth the Moabitess, Mahlon's widow, to be my wife, to keep the name of the dead man in his inheritance, so that the dead man's name may not die out among his brothers and at the gate of his town.' 'All the people at the gate said, 'We are witnesses'; and the elders said, 'May Yahweh make the woman who is to enter your House like Rachel and Leah who together built up the House of Israel.

'Grow mighty in Ephrathah,
be renowned in Bethlehem.

And through the children Yahweh will give you by this young woman, may your House become like the House of Perez whom Tamar bore to Judah.'

So Boaz took Ruth and she became his wife. And when they came together, Yahweh made her conceive and she bore a son. 'And the women said to Naomi, 'Blessed be Yahweh who has not left the dead man without next of kin this day to perpetuate his name in Israel. 'The child will be a comfort to you and the prop of your old age, for your daughter-in-law who loves you and is more to you than seven sons has given him birth.' 'And Naomi took the child to her own bosom and she became his nurse.'

And the women of the neighbourhood gave him a name. 'A son has been born for Naomi' they said; and they named him Obed. This was the father of David's father, Jesse.

JONAH

Jonah rebels against his mission

<sup>3</sup> 'Go to Nineveh, the great city, and inform them that their wickedness has <sup>4</sup> become known to me.' •Jonah decided to run away from Yahweh, and to go to <sup>5</sup> Tarshish.<sup>a</sup> He went down to Joppa and found a ship bound for Tarshish; he <sup>6</sup> paid his fare and went aboard, to go with them to Tarshish, to get away from <sup>7</sup> Yahweh. •But Yahweh unleashed a violent wind on the sea, and there was such <sup>8</sup> a great storm at sea that the ship threatened to break up. •The sailors took <sup>9</sup> fright, and each of them called on his own god, and to lighten the ship they <sup>10</sup> threw the cargo overboard. Jonah, however, had gone below and lain down in <sup>11</sup> the hold and fallen fast asleep. •The boatswain came upon him and said, 'What <sup>12</sup> do you mean by sleeping? Get up! Call on your god! Perhaps he will spare us <sup>13</sup> a thought, and not leave us to die.' •Then they said to each other, 'Come on,
<sup>14</sup> let us draw lots to find out who is responsible for bringing this evil on us'.
<sup>15</sup> So they cast lots, and the lot fell to Jonah. •Then they said to him, 'Tell us, <sup>16</sup> what is your business? Where do you come from? What is your country? What <sup>17</sup> is your nationality?' •He replied, 'I am a Hebrew, and I worship Yahweh, the <sup>18</sup> God of heaven, who made the sea and the land'. •The sailors were seized with <sup>19</sup> terror at this and said, 'What have you done?' They knew that he was trying to <sup>20</sup> escape from Yahweh, because he had told them so. •They then said, 'What are <sup>21</sup> we to do with you, to make the sea grow calm for us?' For the sea was growing <sup>22</sup> rougher and rougher. •He replied, 'Take me and throw me into the sea, and <sup>23</sup> then it will grow calm for you. For I can see it is my fault this violent storm has <sup>24</sup> happened to you.' •The sailors rowed hard in an effort to reach the shore, but <sup>25</sup> in vain, since the sea grew still rougher for them. •They then called on Yahweh
<sup>26</sup> and said, 'O Yahweh, do not let us perish for taking this man's life; do not hold
<sup>27</sup> us guilty of innocent blood; for you, Yahweh, have acted as you have thought <sup>28</sup> right'. •And taking hold of Jonah they threw him into the sea; and the sea grew <sup>29</sup> calm again. •At this the men were seized with dread of Yahweh; they offered <sup>30</sup> a sacrifice to Yahweh and made vows.

Jonah is saved

<sup>3</sup> and Jonah remained in the belly of the fish for three days and three nights.
<sup>4</sup> From the belly of the fish he prayed to Yahweh, his God; he said:
<sup>5</sup> 'Out of my distress I cried to Yahweh
<sup>6</sup> and he answered me;
<sup>8</sup> and you have heard my voice.'

<sup>4</sup> a. Elimelech, the head of the family. Though Ruth is actually the widow of Mahlon, she ranks in this matter as Elimelech's widow. b. Naomi is the child's legal mother and Elimelech his legal father. c. This genealogy cannot be the work of the same author, since the whole point of the story is that Elimelech's name is perpetuated; but here Boaz is named as the father of Obed.

You cast me into the abyss, into the heart of the sea,
 and the flood surrounded me. 4
 All your waves, your billows,
 washed over me.
 And I said: I am cast out 5
 from your sight.
 How shall I ever look again
 on your holy Temple?
 The waters surrounded me right to my throat, 6
 the abyss was all around me.
 The seaweed was wrapped round my head
 at the roots of the mountains. 7
 I went down into the countries underneath the earth,
 to the peoples of the past.
 But you lifted my life from the pit,
 Yahweh, my God.
 While my soul was fainting within me, 8
 I remembered Yahweh,
 and my prayer came before you
 into your holy Temple.
 Those who serve worthless idols 9 forfeit the grace that was theirs.
 'But I, with a song of praise,
 will sacrifice to you. 10
 The vow I have made, I will fulfil.
 Salvation comes from Yahweh.'

Yahweh spoke to the fish, which then vomited Jonah on to the shore. 11

The conversion of Nineveh and God's pardon

3 The word of Yahweh was addressed a second time to Jonah: •'Up!' he said 1/2
 'Go to Nineveh, the great city, and preach to them as I told you to.' •Jonah 3 set out and went to Nineveh in obedience to the word of Yahweh. Now Nineveh was a city great beyond compare: it took three days to cross it. •Jonah went 4 on into the city, making a day's journey. He preached in these words, 'Only forty days more and Nineveh is going to be destroyed'. •And the people of 5 Nineveh believed in God; they proclaimed a fast and put on sackcloth, from the greatest to the least. •The news reached the king of Nineveh, who rose from his 6 throne, took off his robe, put on sackcloth and sat down in ashes. •A procla- 7 mation was then promulgated throughout Nineveh, by decree of the king and his ministers, as follows: 'Men and beasts, herds and flocks, are to taste nothing;
 they must not eat, they must not drink water. •All are to put on sackcloth and 8
 call on God with all their might; and let everyone renounce his evil behaviour and the wicked things he has done. •Who knows if God will not change his 9 mind and relent, if he will not renounce his burning wrath, so that we do not perish?' •God saw their efforts to renounce their evil behaviour. And God relented: 10 he did not inflict on them the disaster which he had threatened.

The grievance of the prophet and God's answer

4 Jonah was very indignant at this; he fell into a rage. •He prayed to Yahweh 1/2 and said, 'Ah! Yahweh, is not this just as I said would happen when I was 2 still at home? That was why I went and fled to Tarshish: I knew that you were a God of tenderness and compassion, slow to anger, rich in graciousness, relenting from evil. •So now Yahweh, please take away my life, for I might as well be dead 3 as go on living.' •Yahweh replied, 'Are you right to be angry?' •Jonah then 4/5 went out of the city and sat down to the east of the city. There he made himself a shelter and sat under it in the shade, to see what would happen to the city.

 6 Then Yahweh God arranged that a castor-oil plant should grow up over Jonah to give shade for his head and soothe his ill-humour; Jonah was delighted with 7 the castor-oil plant. •But at dawn the next day, God arranged that a worm
 8 should attack the castor-oil plant—and it withered. •Next, when the sun rose, God arranged that there should be a scorching east wind; the sun beat down so hard on Jonah's head that he was overcome and begged for death, saying, 9 'I might as well be dead as go on living'. •God said to Jonah, 'Are you right to be angry about the castor-oil plant?' He replied, 'I have every right to be 10 angry, to the point of death'. •Yahweh replied, 'You are only upset about a castor-oil plant which cost you no labour, which you did not make grow, 11 which sprouted in a night and has perished in a night. •And am I not to feel sorry for Nineveh, the great city, in which there are more than a hundred and twenty thousand people who cannot tell their right hand from their left, to say nothing of all the animals?'

INTRODUCTORY

Mordecai's dream<sup>a</sup>

<sup>11:2</sup> of Nisan, a dream came to Mordecai son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, <sup>1b</sup> of the tribe of Benjamin, •a Jew living at Susa and holding high office at the royal

<sup>1d</sup> This was his dream. There were cries and noise, thunder and earthquakes, and <sup>1e</sup> disorder over the whole earth. •Then two great dragons came forward, each ready
<sup>6</sup> for the fray, and set up a great roar. •At the sound of them every nation made ready
<sup>1h</sup> thrown into consternation at the fear of the evils awaiting them, and prepared for <sup>9</sup> death, crying out to God. •Then from their cry, as from a little spring, there grew
<sup>1i</sup> a great river, a flood of water. •Light came as the sun rose, and the humble
<sup>12</sup> deeply on the matter, trying his best all day to discover what its meaning might be.

A plot against the king

<sup>1n</sup> plot. Learning that they were preparing to assassinate King Ahasuerus, he warned
<sup>1p</sup> they confessed and were executed. •The king then had these events recorded in his <sup>1q</sup> Chronicles, while Mordecai himself also wrote an account of them. •The king then determined to injure Mordecai in revenge for the king's two eunuchs.

1 a. Passages found in the Greek text but not contained in the Hebrew are printed in italic. In places where the verse numbering differs from the Vulgate Latin text, the Vulgate verse numbers are added in italic. b. 'Ahasuerus' is the Hebrew transliteration of the Persian name which in Greek is rendered Xerxes. c. The chronological details cannot be harmonised: Mordecai is a courtier of Ahasuerus (about 480) and was exiled in the reign of Jeconiah (about 598).

AHASUERUS AND VASHTI

Ahasuerus' banquet

1 It was in the days of Ahasuerus, the Ahasuerus whose empire stretched from 2 India to Ethiopia and comprised one hundred and twenty-seven provinces.
 3 In those days, when King Ahasuerus was sitting on his royal throne in the 4 citadel of Susa, •in the third year of his reign, he gave a banquet at his court
 5 for all his administrators and ministers, chiefs of the army of Persia and Media,
 6 nobles and governors of provinces. •Thus he displayed the riches and splendour
 7 of his empire and the pomp and glory of his majesty; the festivities went on for 8 a long time, a hundred and eighty days.

9 When this period was over, for seven days the king gave a banquet for all
 10 the people living in the citadel of Susa, to high and low alike, in the enclosure 11 adjoining the king's palace. •There were white and violet hangings fastened with 12 cords of fine linen and purple thread to silver rings on marble columns, couches 13 of gold and silver on a pavement of porphyry, marble, mother-of-pearl and 14 precious stones. •For drinking there were golden cups of various design and 15 the royal wine in plenty according to the king's bounty. •By royal command, 16 however, drinking was not obligatory, the king having instructed the officials 17 of his household to treat each guest according to his own wishes.

The affair of Vashti

18 Queen Vashti,<sup>d</sup> too, had given a banquet for the women in the royal palace
 19 of King Ahasuerus. •On the seventh day, when the king was merry with wine, 20 he commanded Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagtha, Zethar and 21 Carkas, the seven eunuchs in attendance on the person of King Ahasuerus, 22 to bring Queen Vashti before the king crowned with her royal diadem, in order 23 to display her beauty to the people and the administrators, for she was very 24 beautiful. •But Queen Vashti refused to come at the king's command delivered 25 by the eunuchs. The king was very angry at this and his rage grew hot. •He then 26 consulted the wise men who were versed in the law, since it was the practice
 27 to refer matters affecting the king to expert lawyers and jurists. •He summoned 28 Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena and Memucan, the 29 seven administrators of Persia and Media who had privileged access to the royal 30 presence and occupied the leading positions in the kingdom. •'According to 31 law,' he said 'what is to be done to Queen Vashti for not obeying the command 32 of King Ahasuerus delivered by the eunuchs?' •In the presence of the king and 33 of the administrators Memucan answered, 'Vashti has wronged not only the king, 34 but also all the administrators and nations inhabiting the provinces of King 35 Ahasuerus. •The queen's conduct will soon become known to all the women 36 and encourage them in a contemptuous attitude towards their husbands, since 37 they will say, "King Ahasuerus ordered Queen Vashti to appear before him and 38 she did not come". •The wives of all the Persian and Median administrators 39 will hear of the queen's answer before the day is out, and will start talking to 40 the king's administrators in the same way; that will mean contempt and anger
 41 all round. •If it is the king's pleasure, let him issue a royal edict, to be irrevocably
 42 incorporated into the laws of the Persians and Medes, to the effect that Vashti
 43 is never to appear again before King Ahasuerus, and let the king confer her royal 44 dignity on a worthier woman. •Let this edict issued by the king be proclaimed 45 throughout the length and breadth of his realm, and all the women will henceforth 46 bow to the authority of their husbands, both high and low alike.'

47 This speech pleased the king and the administrators and the king did as 48 Memucan advised. •He sent letters to all the provinces of the kingdom, to each 49 province in its own script and to each nation in its own language, ensuring that 50 every husband should be master in his own house.

MORDECAI AND ESTHER

Esther becomes queen

- 1 2 Some time after this, when the king's wrath had abated, Ahasuerus remembered Vashti, how she had behaved, and the measures taken against her.
- 2 The king's courtiers-in-waiting said, 'Let beautiful girls be selected for the king.
- 3 Let the king appoint commissioners throughout the provinces of his realm to bring all these beautiful young virgins to the citadel of Susa, to the harem under the authority of Hegai the king's eunuch, custodian of the women. Let him
- 4 provide them with what they need for their adornment, •and let the girl who pleases the king take Vashti's place as queen.' This advice pleased the king and he acted on it.
- 5 Now in the citadel of Susa there lived a Jew called Mordecai son of Jair, son
- 6 of Shimei, son of Kish, of the tribe of Benjamin, •who had been deported from Jerusalem among the captives taken away with Jeconiah king of Judah by
- 7 Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon. •He had brought up Hadassah, otherwise called Esther,<sup>d</sup> his uncle's daughter, who had lost both father and mother; the girl had a good figure and a beautiful face, and on the death of her parents Mordecai had adopted her as his daughter.
- 8 Following the promulgation of the king's edict, a great number of girls were brought to the citadel of Susa where they were entrusted to Hegai. Esther also was taken to the king's palace and entrusted to Hegai, the custodian of the
- 9 women. •The girl pleased him and won his favour. Not only did he quickly provide her with all she needed for her dressing room and her meals, but he gave her seven special maids from the king's household and transferred her and
- 10 her maids to the best part of the harem. •Esther did not reveal her race or
- 11 kindred, since Mordecai had forbidden her to do so. •Mordecai walked up and down in front of the courtyard of the harem every day, to learn how Esther was and how she was being treated.
- 12 Each girl had to appear in turn before King Ahasuerus, after a delay of twelve months fixed by the regulations for the women; this preparatory period was occupied as follows: six months with oil of myrrh, and six months with
- 13 spices and lotions commonly used for feminine beauty treatment. •Before going into the king, each girl was allowed to take with her from the harem to the king's
- 14 palace whatever she chose. •She went there in the evening, and the following morning returned to another harem entrusted to the care of Shaashgaz, the king's eunuch, custodian of the concubines. She did not go to the king any more, unless he was particularly pleased with her and had her summoned by name.
- 15 But when it was the turn of Esther, the daughter of Abihail whose nephew Mordecai had adopted her as his own daughter, to go into the king's presence, she did not ask for anything beyond what had been assigned her by Hegai, the
- 16 king's eunuch, custodian of the women. And Esther soon won the admiration of all who saw her. •She was brought to King Ahasuerus in his royal palace in the
- 17 tenth month, which is called Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign; •and the king liked Esther better than any of the other women; none of the other girls found so much favour and approval with him. So he set the royal diadem on her head and proclaimed her queen instead of Vashti.
- 18 Then the king gave a great banquet, Esther's banquet, for all his administrators and ministers, decreed a holiday for all the provinces and distributed largesse with royal prodigality.

1 d. She is unknown to history.

2 a. Probably a Babylonian name (Ishtar), like Mordecai (Marduk).

Mordecai and Haman

When Esther, like the other girls, had been transferred to the second harem, 19 she had not revealed her kindred or race, in obedience to the orders of Mordecai, 20 whose instructions she continued to follow as when she had been under his care. At this time Mordecai was attached to the Chancellery and two malcontents, 21 Bigthan and Teresh, king's eunuchs belonging to the Guardians of the Threshold, plotted to assassinate King Ahasuerus. •Mordecai came to hear of this and 22 informed Queen Esther, who in turn, on Mordecai's authority, told the king. The matter was investigated and proved to be true. The two conspirators were 23 sent to the gallows, and the incident was recorded in the Book of the Chronicles in the presence of the king.

3 Shortly afterwards, King Ahasuerus singled out Haman son of Hammedatha, 1 from the land of Agag,<sup>a</sup> for promotion. He raised him in rank and precedence above all his colleagues, the other officers of state, •and gave orders that all the 2 officials employed at the Chancellery were to bow down and prostrate themselves before Haman. Mordecai refused either to bow or prostrate himself. •'Why do 3 you flout the royal command?' the officials of the Chancellery asked Mordecai. They asked him this day after day, but he took no notice of them. In the end 4 they reported the matter to Haman, wishing to see whether Mordecai would persist in his attitude, since he had told them he was a Jew. •When Haman had 5 seen for himself that Mordecai did not bow or prostrate himself before him, he was seized with fury. •Having been told what race Mordecai belonged to, he 6 could not be content with murdering Mordecai but made up his mind to wipe out all the members of Mordecai's race, the Jews, throughout the empire of Ahasuerus.

THE JEWS IN PERIL

The decree of extermination against the Jews

In the first month, that is the month of Nisan, of the twelfth year of King 7 Ahasuerus, they cast the pur (that is, the lot) before Haman for the day and the month. The lot falling on the twelfth month, which is Adar, •Haman said 8 to King Ahasuerus, 'There is a certain unassimilated nation scattered among the other nations throughout the provinces of your realm; their laws are different from those of all the other nations and they ignore the royal edicts; hence it is not in the king's interests to tolerate them. •If it please the king to decree 9 their destruction, I am prepared to pay ten thousand talents of silver to the king's receivers, to be credited to the royal treasury.'

The king then took his signet ring off his hand and gave it to Haman son of 10 Hammedatha, the Agagite, the persecutor of the Jews. •'Keep the money,' he 11 said 'and you can have the people too; do what you like with them.'

Then on the thirteenth day of the first month the royal scribes were summoned, 12 and copies were made of the orders addressed by Haman to the king's satraps, to the governors ruling each province and to the principal officials of each people, to each province in its own script and to each people in its own language. The edict was signed in the name of King Ahasuerus and sealed with his ring, 13 and letters were sent by runners to every province of the realm ordering the destruction, slaughter and annihilation of all Jews, young and old, women and children, on the one day, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is Adar, and the seizing of their possessions.

The text of the letter was as follows:

'The great King, Ahasuerus, to the governors of the hundred and twenty-seven 13 provinces stretching from India to Ethiopia, and to their subordinate district commissioners.'

- <sup>13b</sup><sub>2</sub> 'Being placed in authority over many nations and ruling the whole world, I have resolved never to be carried away by the insolence of power, but always to rule with moderation and clemency, so as to assure for my subjects a life ever free from storms and, offering my kingdom the benefits of civilisation and free transit from end to end, to restore that peace which all men desire. •In consultation with our advisers as to how this aim is to be effected, we have been informed by one of them, eminent among us for prudence and well proved for his unflinching devotion and unshakeable trustworthiness, and in rank second only to our majesty, Haman by name, •that there is, mingled among all the tribes of the earth a certain ill-disposed people, opposed by its laws to every other nation and continually defying the royal ordinances, in such a way as to obstruct that form of government assured by us to the general good.
- <sup>13c</sup><sub>3</sub> 'Considering therefore that this people, unique of its kind, is in complete opposition to all mankind from which it differs by its outlandish system of laws, that it is hostile to our interests and that it commits the most heinous crimes, to the point of endangering the stability of the realm:
- <sup>13d</sup><sub>4</sub> 'We command that the people designated to you in the letters written by Haman, appointed to watch over our interests and a second father to us, are all, including women and children, to be destroyed root and branch by the swords of their enemies, without any pity or mercy, on the fourteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, of the present year, •so that, these past and present malcontents being in one day forcibly thrown down to Hades, our government may henceforward enjoy perpetual stability and peace.'

The text of this decree, to be promulgated as law in each province, was published to the various peoples, so that each might be ready for the day aforementioned. •At the king's command, the runners set out with all speed; the decree was first promulgated in the citadel of Susa.

While the king and Haman gave themselves up to feasting and drinking, consternation reigned in the city of Susa.

Mordecai and Esther try to avert the danger

- <sup>1</sup> 4 When Mordecai learned what had happened, he tore his garments and put on sackcloth and ashes. Then he went right through the city, wailing loud and bitterly, •until he arrived in front of the Chancellery, which no one clothed in sackcloth was allowed to enter. •And in every province, no sooner had the royal edict been read than among the Jews there was great mourning, fasting, weeping and wailing, and many lay on sackcloth and ashes.
- <sup>4</sup> When Queen Esther's maids and eunuchs came and told her, she was overcome with grief. She sent clothes for Mordecai to put on instead of his sackcloth, but he refused them. •Then Esther summoned Hathach, a eunuch whom the king had appointed to wait on her, and ordered him to go to Mordecai and enquire what was the matter and why he was acting in this way.
- <sup>6</sup> Hathach went out to Mordecai, who was still in the city square in front of the Chancellery, •and Mordecai told him what had happened to him personally, and also about the sum of money which Haman had offered to pay into the royal treasury as compensation for the destruction of the Jews. •He also gave him a copy of the edict of extermination published in Susa for him to show Esther for her information, with the message that she was to go to the king and implore his favour and plead with him for her people. •'Remember your humbler circumstances,' he said 'when you were fed by my hand. Since Haman, the second person in the realm, has petitioned the king for our deaths, •invoke the Lord, speak to the king for us and save us from death!'
- <sup>8b</sup><sub>3</sub> Hathach came back and told Esther what Mordecai had said; •and she replied with the following message for Mordecai, •'All the king's servants and the people of his provinces know that for a man or woman who approaches the king in the inner court without being summoned there is one penalty: death, unless, by pointing his golden sceptre towards him, the king grants him his life. And I have not been summoned to the king for the last thirty days.'

3 a. Country not known; the name is that of an Amalekite king conquered by Saul.

These words of Esther were reported to Mordecai, 'who sent back the following reply, 'Do not suppose that, because you are in the king's palace, you are going to be the one Jew to escape. 'No; if you persist in remaining silent at such a time, relief and deliverance will come to the Jews from another place,' but both you and the House of your father will perish. Who knows? Perhaps you have come to the throne for just such a time as this.'

Whereupon Esther sent this reply to Mordecai, 'Go and assemble all the Jews now in Susa and fast for me. Do not eat or drink day or night for three days. For my part, I and my maids will keep the same fast, after which I shall go to the king in spite of the law; and if I perish, I perish.' Mordecai went away and carried out Esther's instructions.

Mordecai's prayer

Then calling to mind all the wonderful works of the Lord, he offered this prayer:

*'Lord, Lord, King and Master of all things, everything is subject to your power,
and there is no one who can withstand you
in your will to save Israel.*

*'Yes, you have made heaven and earth,
and all the marvels that are under heaven.
You are the Lord of all,
and there is none who can resist you, Lord.*

*'You know all things;
you know, Lord, you know,
that no insolence, arrogance, vainglory prompted me to this,
to this refusal to bow down
before proud Haman.
I would readily have kissed his feet
for the safety of Israel.*

*'But what I did, I did rather than place the glory of a man
above the glory of God;
and I will not bow down to any
but to you, Lord;
in so refusing I will not act in pride.*

*'And now, Lord God, King, God of Abraham,
spare your people!
For men are seeking our ruin
and plan to destroy your ancient heritage.
Do not overlook your inheritance,
which you redeemed for your own out of the land of Egypt.
Hear my supplication,
have mercy on your heritage,
and turn our grief into rejoicing,
that we may live to hymn your name, Lord.
Do not suffer the mouths
of those who praise you to perish.'*

<sup>17i</sup> <sup>18</sup> And all Israel cried out with all their might, for they were faced with death.

Esther's prayer

<sup>17k</sup> <sup>14:1</sup> Queen Esther also took refuge with the Lord in the mortal peril which had overtaken her. She took off her sumptuous robes and put on sorrowful mourning. Instead of expensive perfumes she covered her head with ashes and dung. She humbled her body severely, and the former scenes of her happiness and elegance were now littered with tresses torn from her hair. She besought the Lord God of Israel in these words:

<sup>17l</sup> *'My Lord, our King, the only one,
come to my help, for I am alone
and have no helper but you
and am about to take my life in my hands.*

<sup>4</sup>
<sup>17m</sup> <sup>5</sup> *'I have been taught from my earliest years, in the bosom of my family, that you, Lord, chose Israel out of all the nations and our ancestors out of all the people of old times
to be your heritage for ever;
and that you have treated them as you promised.*

<sup>17n</sup> <sup>6</sup> *'But then we sinned against you,
and you handed us over to our enemies
for paying honour to their gods.
Lord, you are just.*

<sup>17o</sup> <sup>8</sup> *'But even now they are not satisfied with the bitterness of our slavery:
they have put their hands in the hands of their idols<sup>b</sup>
to abolish the decree that your own lips have uttered,
to blot out your heritage,
to stop the mouths of those who praise you,
to quench your altar and the glory of your House,
and instead to open the mouths of the heathen,
to sing the praise of worthless idols
and forever to idolise a king of flesh.*

<sup>17p</sup> <sup>10</sup>
<sup>17q</sup> <sup>11</sup> *'Do not yield your sceptre, Lord,
to non-existent beings.
Never let men mock at our ruin.
Turn their designs against themselves,
and make an example of him who leads the attack on us.
Remember, Lord; reveal yourself
in the time of our distress.*

<sup>17r</sup> <sup>12</sup>
<sup>17s</sup> <sup>13</sup> *'As for me, give me courage,
King of gods and master of all power.
Put persuasive words into my mouth
when I face the lion;
change his feeling into hatred for our enemy,
that the latter and all like him may be brought to their end.*

<sup>17t</sup> <sup>14</sup> *'As for ourselves, save us by your hand, and come to my help, for I am alone
and have no one but you, Lord.*

4 a. The author of the Hebrew text avoids using the name of God. b. Gesture of taking an oath.

You have knowledge of all things, 17u
and you know that I hate honours from the godless, 15
that I loathe the bed of the uncircumcised, of any foreigner whatever.
You know I am under constraint, 17w
that I loathe the symbol of my high position 16
bound round my brow when I appear at court;
I loathe it as if it were a filthy rag
and do not wear it on my days of leisure.
Your handmaid has not eaten at Haman's table,
nor taken pleasure in the royal banquets,
nor drunk the wine of libations.
Nor has your handmaid found pleasure 17y
from the day of her promotion until now 18
except in you, Lord, God of Abraham.
O God, whose strength prevails over all, 17z

save us from the hand of the wicked,
and free me from my fear.'

Esther presents herself at the palace

5 On the third day, when she had finished praying, she took off her suppliant's <sup>1a</sup> mourning attire and dressed herself in her full splendour. Radiant as she <sup>15, 4</sup> then appeared, she invoked God who watches over all men and saves them. Then <sup>5</sup> she took two maids with her. With a delicate air she leaned on one, while the other <sup>6</sup> accompanied her carrying her train. She leaned on the maid's arm as though languidly, but in fact because her body was too weak to support her; the other <sup>7</sup> maid followed her mistress, lifting her robes which swept the ground. •Rosy with <sup>8</sup>
the full flush of her beauty, her face radiated joy and love; but her heart shrank <sup>b</sup> with fear. •Having passed through door after door, she found herself in the <sup>9</sup> presence of the king. He was seated on the royal throne, dressed in all his robes <sup>c</sup> of state, glittering with gold and precious stones—a formidable sight. •Raising <sup>1d</sup> his face, afire with majesty, he looked on her, blazing with anger. The queen sank <sup>10</sup> down. She grew faint and the colour drained from her face, and she leaned her <sup>e</sup> head against the maid who accompanied her. •But God changed the king's heart, <sup>11</sup> inducing a milder spirit. He sprang from his throne in alarm and took her in his <sup>f</sup> arms until she recovered, comforting her with soothing words. •'What is the matter, <sup>12</sup> Esther?' he said 'I am your brother. Take heart; you will not die; our order only <sup>13</sup> applies to ordinary people. Come to me.' •And raising his golden sceptre he laid <sup>2</sup> it on her neck, embraced her and said, 'Speak to me'. •'My lord,' she said 'you <sup>14, 15</sup> looked to me like an angel of God, and my heart was moved with fear of your <sup>16</sup> majesty. For you are a figure of wonder, my lord, and your face is full of <sup>17</sup> graciousness.' •But as she spoke she fell down in a faint. The king was distressed, <sup>2b</sup> and all his attendants tried their best to revive her. •'What is the matter, Queen <sup>18, 19</sup>
Esther?' the king said. 'Tell me what you desire; even if it is half my kingdom, <sup>3</sup>
I grant it you.' •'Would the king be pleased' Esther replied 'to come with Haman <sup>4</sup> today to the banquet I have prepared for him?' •The king said, 'Tell Haman <sup>5</sup> to come at once, so that Esther may have her wish'.

So the king and Haman came to the banquet that Esther had prepared. •As <sup>6</sup>
they drank their wine, the king again said to Esther, 'Tell me what you request; <sup>7</sup>
I grant it to you. Tell me what you desire; even if it is half my kingdom, it is yours <sup>8</sup> for the asking.' •'What do I desire, what do I request?' Esther replied. •'If I have <sup>8</sup> found favour in the king's eyes, and if it is his pleasure to grant what I ask and <sup>7</sup> to agree to my request, let the king and Haman come to the other banquet I <sup>8</sup> intend to give them tomorrow, and then I will do as the king says.'

Haman left full of joy and high spirits that day; but when he saw Mordecai <sup>9</sup>

at the Chancellery, neither standing up nor stirring at his approach, he felt 10 a gust of anger. •He restrained himself, however. Returning home, he sent for 11 his friends and Zeresh his wife •and held forth to them about his dazzling wealth, his many children, how the king had raised him to a position of honour and 12 promoted him over the heads of the king's administrators and ministers. •'What is more,' he added 'Queen Esther just invited me and the king—no one else except me—to a banquet she was giving, and better still she has invited me and 13 the king again tomorrow. •But what do I care about all this when all the while 14 I see Mordecai the Jew sitting there at the Chancellery?' •'Have a fifty-cubit gallows run up,' Zeresh his wife and all his friends said 'and in the morning ask the king to have Mordecai hanged on it. Then accompany the king to the feast without a care in the world!' Delighted with this advice, Haman had the gallows erected.

THE JEWS' REVENGE

The discomfiture of Haman

1 6 That night, the king could not sleep; he called for the Record Book, the 2 Chronicles, to be brought and read to him. •They contained an account of how Mordecai had denounced Bigthan and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs serving as Guardians of the Threshold, who had plotted to assassinate king 3 Ahasuerus. •'And what honour and dignity' the king asked 'was conferred on Mordecai for this?' 'Nothing has been done for him' the courtiers in attendance 4 replied. •Then the king said, 'Who is on duty in the antechamber?' Haman had at that moment entered the outer antechamber of the king's palace to ask the king to have Mordecai hanged on the gallows which he had just put up for the 5 purpose. •So the king's courtiers replied, 'Haman is waiting in the antechamber'.
 6 'Bring him in' the king said, •and went on to ask as soon as Haman had entered,
 'What is the right way to treat a man whom the king wishes to honour?' 'Whom'
 7 thought Haman 'would the king wish to honour, if not me?' •So he replied, 'If 8 the king wishes to honour someone, •have royal robes brought, which the king has worn, and a horse which the king has ridden, with a royal diadem on 9 its head. •The robes and horse should be handed to one of the noblest of the king's officers, and he should array the man whom the king wishes to honour and lead him on horseback through the city square, proclaiming before him:
 10 "This is the way to treat a man whom the king wishes to honour".' •'Hurry,' the king said to Haman 'take the robes and the horse, and do everything you have just said to Mordecai the Jew, who works at the Chancellery. On no account leave anything out that you have mentioned.'

11 So taking the robes and the horse, Haman arrayed Mordecai and led him on horseback through the city square, proclaiming before him: 'This is the way to 12 treat a man whom the king wishes to honour'. •After this Mordecai returned to the Chancellery, while Haman went hurrying home dejected, covering his 13 face. •He told his wife Zeresh and all his friends what had just happened. His wife Zeresh and his friends said, 'Thanks to Mordecai, you have just had a fall;
 if he happens to belong to the Jewish race, you will never recover the upper hand again. Far from it; once having begun, thanks to him you will fall and fall again.'

Haman at Esther's banquet

14 While they were still talking, the king's eunuchs arrived in a hurry to escort
 1 Haman to the banquet that Esther had prepared. 7 When the king and Haman
 2 were seated at the banquet with Queen Esther •this second day, the king again said to Esther as they drank their wine, 'Tell me what you request, Queen Esther?
 I grant it to you. Tell me what you desire; even if it is half my kingdom, it is yours
 3 for the asking.' •'If I have found favour in your eyes, O king,' Queen Esther replied 'and if it please your majesty, grant me my life—that is what I request; and the lives of my people—that is what I desire. •For we are doomed, I and my people, to destruction, slaughter and annihilation; if we had merely been condemned to become slaves and servant-girls, I would have said nothing; but as things are, it will be beyond the means of the persecutor to make good the loss that the king is about to sustain.' •King Ahasuerus interrupted Queen Esther, 'Who is this man?' he exclaimed. 'Where is he, the schemer of such an outrage?' •Esther replied, 'The persecutor, the enemy? Why, this wretch Haman!' Haman quaked with terror in the presence of the king and queen. •In a rage the king rose and left the banquet to go into the palace garden; while Haman, realising that the king was determined on his ruin, stayed behind to beg Queen Esther for his life.

When the king returned from the palace garden into the banqueting hall, he found Haman huddled across the couch where Esther was reclining. 'What!' the king exclaimed. 'Is he going to rape the queen before my eyes in my own palace?' The words were scarcely out of his mouth than a veil was thrown over Haman's face. •Harbona, one of the eunuchs attending the king, was present. He said, 'How convenient! There is that fifty-cubit gallows which Haman ran up for Mordecai, whose report saved the king's life. It is all ready at his house.' 'Hang him on it' said the king. •So Haman was hanged on the gallows which he had erected for Mordecai, and the king's wrath subsided.

The royal favour passes to the Jews

8 That same day King Ahasuerus gave Queen Esther the house of Haman, the persecutor of the Jews. Mordecai was presented to the king, Esther having revealed their mutual relationship. •The king, who had recovered his signet ring from Haman, took it off and gave it to Mordecai, while Esther gave Mordecai charge of Haman's house.

Esther again went to speak to the king. She fell at his feet, weeping and imploring his favour, to frustrate the wicked scheme devised by Haman the Agagite and his plot against the Jews. •The king held out the golden sceptre to her, whereupon Esther rose and stood face to face with him. •'If such is the king's good pleasure,' she said 'and if I have found favour before him, if my petition seems proper to him and if I myself am pleasing to his eyes, may he be pleased to issue a written revocation of the letters which Haman son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, contrived to have written to procure the destruction of the Jews in every province of the realm. •For how can I look on, while my people suffer what is in store for them? How can I bear to witness the extermination of my race?'

King Ahasuerus said to Queen Esther and to Mordecai the Jew, 'I for my part have given Esther Haman's house, and have had him hanged on the gallows for planning to destroy the Jews. •You are free now to write to them as you judge best, in the king's name, and seal what you write with the king's signet; for an order written in the king's name and sealed with his signet is irrevocable.' The royal scribes summoned at once—it was the third month, the month of Sivan, on the twenty-third day—and at Mordecai's dictation an order was written to the Jews, the satraps, governors and administrators of the provinces stretching from India to Ethiopia, a hundred and twenty-seven provinces, to each province in its own script, and to each people in its own language, and to the Jews in their own script and language. •These letters, written in the name of King Ahasuerus and sealed with the king's signet, were carried by couriers mounted on horses from the king's own stud-farms. •In them the king granted the Jews, in whatever city they lived, the right to assemble in self-defence, with permission to destroy, slaughter and annihilate any armed force of any people or province that might attack them, together with their women and children, and to plunder their possessions, •with effect from the same day throughout the provinces of King Ahasuerus—the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is Adar.

set out in great haste and urgency at the king's command. The edict was also published in the citadel of Susa. •Mordecai left the royal presence in a princely gown of violet and white, with a great golden crown and a cloak of fine linen and purple. The city of Susa shouted for joy. •For the Jews there was light and gladness, joy and honour. •In every province and in every city, wherever the king's command and decree arrived, there was joy and gladness among the Jews, with feasting and holiday-making. Of the country's population many became Jews, since now the Jews were feared.

The great day of Purim

9 The king's command and decree came into force on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, and the day on which the enemies of the Jews had hoped to crush them produced the very opposite effect: the Jews it was who crushed their enemies. •In their towns throughout the provinces of King Ahasuerus, the Jews assembled to strike at those who had planned to injure them. No one resisted them, since the various peoples were now all afraid of them. •Provincial administrators, satraps, governors and officers of the king, all supported the Jews for fear of Mordecai. •And indeed Mordecai was a power in the palace, and his fame was spreading through all the provinces; Mordecai was steadily growing more powerful.

So the Jews struck down all their enemies with the sword, with resulting slaughter and destruction, and worked their will on their opponents. •In the citadel of Susa alone the Jews put five hundred men to death, •notably Parshandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha, •Poratha, Adalia, Aridatha, •Parmashta, Arisai, Aridai and Jezatha, •the ten sons of Haman son of Hammedatha, the persecutor of the Jews. But they took no plunder.

The number of those killed in the citadel of Susa was reported the same day to the king, •who said to Queen Esther, 'In the citadel of Susa the Jews have killed five hundred men and also the ten sons of Haman. What must they have done in the other provinces of the realm? Tell me what you request; I grant it to you. Tell me what else you desire; it is yours for the asking.' •'If such is the king's pleasure,' Esther replied 'let the Jews of Susa be allowed to enforce today's decree tomorrow as well. And as for the ten sons of Haman, let their bodies be hanged on the gallows.' •Whereupon the king ordered this to be done; the edict was issued in Susa and the ten sons of Haman were hanged. •Thus the Jews of Susa reassembled on the fourteenth day of the month of Adar and killed three hundred men in the city. But they took no plunder.

The other Jews who lived in the king's provinces also assembled to defend their lives and rid themselves of their enemies. They slaughtered seventy-five thousand of their opponents. But they took no plunder. •This was on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar. On the fourteenth day they rested and made it a day of feasting and gladness. •But for the Jews of Susa, who had assembled on the thirteenth and fourteenth days, the fifteenth was the day they rested, making that a day of feasting and gladness. •This is why Jewish country people, those who live in undefended villages, keep the fourteenth day of the month of Adar as a day of gladness, feasting and holiday-making, and exchange portions with one another, •whereas for those who live in cities the day of rejoicing and exchanging portions with their neighbours is the fifteenth day of Adar.

THE FEAST OF PURIM

The official institution of the feast of Purim

Mordecai committed these events to writing. Then he sent letters to all the Jews throughout the provinces of King Ahasuerus, both near and far, •enjoining them to celebrate the fourteenth and fifteenth days of the month of Adar every 22 year, •as the days on which the Jews had rid themselves of their enemies, and the month in which their sorrow had been turned into gladness, and mourning into a holiday. He therefore told them to keep these as days of festivity and gladness when they were to exchange portions and make gifts to the poor.

23 Once having begun to observe them, the Jews undertook to continue these 24 practices about which Mordecai had written these words to them, •‘Haman son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, the persecutor of all the Jews, had plotted their 25 destruction and had cast the pur, that is, the lot, for their overthrow and ruin.
 But when he went again to the king to ask him to order the hanging of Mordecai, the wicked scheme which he had devised against the Jews recoiled on his own 26 head, and both he and his sons were hanged on the gallows. •That is why these days were called Purim, from the word pur.’ And so, because of what was written in this letter, because of what they had seen for themselves and because of what 27 had happened to them, •the Jews vowed and took on themselves and their descendants and on all who should join them, to celebrate these two days without fail, in the manner prescribed and at the time appointed, year after year.
 28 Thus commemorated and celebrated from generation to generation, in each family, each province and each city, these days of Purim shall never be abrogated among the Jews, nor shall their memory die out among their race.

29 Queen Esther, the daughter of Abihail, wrote with full authority to ratify 30 this second letter, •and sent letters to all the Jews of the hundred and twenty-seven provinces of the realm of Ahasuerus in terms of kindness and friendship 31 enjoining them to observe these days of Purim at the appointed time, as Mordecai the Jew had recommended, and in the manner prescribed for themselves and 32 their descendants, with additional ordinances for fasts and lamentations. •The ordinance of Esther fixed this observance of Purim and it was recorded in writing.

Praise of Mordecai

1 10 King Ahasuerus levied tribute from the continent and the islands of the 2 sea. •All his mighty acts of power and the account of the high honour to which he raised Mordecai, is not all this recorded in the Book of the Annals 3 of the Kings of Media and Persia? •How ‘Mordecai the Jew was next in rank to King Ahasuerus. He was a man held in respect among the Jews, esteemed by thousands of his brothers, a man who sought the good of his people and cared for the welfare of his entire race.’

<sup>3a</sup> And Mordecai said, ‘All this is God’s doing. •I remember the dream I had about <sup>10:4,5</sup> these matters, nothing of which has failed to come true: •the little spring that <sup>6</sup> became a river, the light that shone, the sun, the flood of water. Esther is <sup>3d</sup> the river—she whom the king married and made queen. •The two dragons are <sup>3e</sup> Haman and myself. •The nations are those that banded together to blot out the <sup>3f</sup> name of Jew. •The single nation, mine, is Israel, those who cried out to God and <sup>9</sup> were saved. Yes, the Lord has saved his people, the Lord has delivered us from all these evils, God has worked such signs and great wonders as have never happened
among the nations.

<sup>10</sup> large. •And these two destinies were worked out at the hour and time and day laid
<sup>3h</sup> down by God involving all the nations. •In this way God has remembered his people
<sup>3i</sup> and vindicated his heritage; •and for them these days, the fourteenth and fifteenth
<sup>3k</sup> of the month of Adar, are to be days of assembly, of joy and of gladness before

THE CAMPAIGN OF HOLOFERNES

Nebuchadnezzar and Arphaxad<sup>a</sup>

1 It was the twelfth year of Nebuchadnezzar<sup>b</sup> who reigned over the Assyrians 1 in the great city of Nineveh. Arphaxad was then reigning over the Medes at 2 Ecbatana. •He surrounded this city with walls of dressed stones three cubits 2 thick and six cubits long, making the rampart seventy cubits high and fifty 3 cubits wide. •At the gates he placed towers one hundred cubits high and, at the 3
foundations, sixty cubits wide, •the gates themselves being seventy cubits high 4 and forty wide to allow his forces to march out in a body and his infantry to 4 parade freely.

Now at this time King Nebuchadnezzar gave battle to King Arphaxad in the 5 great plain lying in the territory of Ragae. •Supporting him were all the peoples 6 from the highlands, all from the Euphrates and Tigris and Hydaspes, and 6
those from the plains who were subject to Arioch, king of the Elymaeans.
Thus many nations had mustered to take part in the battle of the sons of 7
Cheleoud.<sup>c</sup>

Nebuchadnezzar king of the Assyrians sent a message to all the inhabitants 7 of Persia, to all the inhabitants of the western countries, Cilicia, Damascus, 8
Lebanon, Anti-Lebanon, to all those along the coast, •to the peoples of Carmel, 8
Gilead, Upper Galilee, the great plain of Esdraelon, •to the men of Samaria 9 and its outlying towns, to those beyond Jordan, as far away as Jerusalem, 9
Bethany, Chelous, Kadesh, the river of Egypt, Tahpanhes, Rameses and the 10 whole territory of Goshen, •beyond Tanis, too, and Memphis, and to all the 10 inhabitants of Egypt as far as the frontiers of Ethiopia. •But the inhabitants 11 of these countries ignored the summons of Nebuchadnezzar king of the Assyrians and did not rally to him to make war. They were not afraid of him, since in their 11 view he appeared isolated. Hence they sent his ambassadors back with nothing achieved and in disgrace. •Nebuchadnezzar was furious with all these countries. 12
He swore by his throne and kingdom to take revenge on all the territories of 12
Cilicia, Damascene and Syria, of the Moabites and of the Ammonites, of Judaea and Egypt as far as the limits of the two seas, and to ravage them with the sword.

The campaign against Arphaxad

In the seventeenth year he and his forces gave battle to King Arphaxad and 13 in this battle defeated him. He routed Arphaxad's entire army and all his cavalry 13 and chariots; •he occupied his towns and advanced on Ecbatana; he seized its 14
towers and plundered its market places, reducing its former magnificence to a 14
mockery. •He later captured Arphaxad in the mountains of Ragae and, thrusting 15 him through with his spears, destroyed him once and for all.

He then retired with his troops and all who had joined forces with him: 16
a vast horde of armed men. Then, carefree, he and his army gave themselves up 16 to feasting for a hundred and twenty days.

The campaign in the west

1 2 In the eighteenth year,<sup>a</sup> on the twenty-second day of the first month, a rumour
 2 ran through the palace that Nebuchadnezzar king of the Assyrians was to 3 have his revenge on the whole world, as he had threatened. •Summoning his 4 general staff and senior officers he held a secret conference with them, and 5 with his own lips pronounced utter destruction on all these countries. •It was 6 then decreed that everyone should be put to death who had not answered the 7 king's appeal.

8 When the council was over, Nebuchadnezzar king of the Assyrians sent for 9 Holofernes,<sup>b</sup> general-in-chief of his armies and subordinate only to himself.
 10 He said to him, •'Thus speaks the Great King, lord of the whole world:<sup>c</sup>
 11 "Be on your way; take men of proved valour, about a hundred and twenty 12 thousand foot soldiers and a strong contingent of horse with twelve thousand 13 cavalrymen; •then advance against the western lands, since these people have 14 disregarded my call. •Bid them have earth and water ready, because in my rage I 15 am about to march on them; the feet of my soldiers will cover the whole face of the 16 earth, and I will plunder it. •Their wounded will fill the valleys and the torrents
 17 and rivers, blocked with their dead, will overflow. •I will lead them captive
 18 to the ends of the earth. •Now go! Begin by conquering this whole region for me.
 19 If they surrender to you, hold them for me until the time comes to punish them.
 20 But if they resist, look on no one with clemency. Hand them over to slaughter 21 and plunder throughout the territory entrusted to you. •For by my life and 22 by the living power of my kingdom, I have spoken. All this I will do indeed.
 23 And you, neglect none of your master's commands, act strictly according to my 24 orders without further delay."'

25 Leaving the presence of his sovereign, Holofernes immediately summoned 26 all the marshals, generals and officers of the Assyrian army •and detailed the 27 picked troops as his master had ordered, about a hundred and twenty thousand 28 men and a further twelve thousand mounted bowmen. •He organised these in the 29 normal battle formation. •He then secured vast numbers of camels, donkeys 30 and mules to carry the baggage, and innumerable sheep, oxen and goats for 31 food supplies. •Every man received full rations and a generous sum of gold 32 and silver from the king's purse.

33 He then set out for the campaign with his whole army, in advance of King 34 Nebuchadnezzar, to overwhelm the whole western region with his chariots, his 35 horsemen and his picked body of foot. •A composite corps brought up the rear, 36 as numerous as locusts or the grains of sand on the ground; there was no 37 counting their multitude.

The stages of Holofernes' advance

38 Thus they set out from Nineveh and marched for three days towards the plain 39 of Bectileth. From Bectileth they went on to pitch camp near the mountains 40 that lie to the north of Upper Cilicia. •From there Holofernes advanced into 41 the highlands with his whole army, infantry, horsemen, chariots. •He cut his 42 way through Put and Lud, stripped all the sons of Rassis and sons of Ishmael 43 living on the verge of the desert south of Cheleon, •marched along the Euphrates, 44 crossed Mesopotamia, razed all the fortified towns controlling the wadi Abron
 45 and reached the sea. •Next he attacked the territories of Cilicia, butchering
 46 all who offered him resistance, advanced on the southern frontiers of Japheth, 47 facing Arabia, •completely encircled the Midianites, burned their tents and plundered their sheep-runs, •made his way down to the Damascus plain in the time of the wheat harvest, set fire to the fields, destroyed the flocks and herds, sacked the towns, laid the countryside waste and put all the young men to the sword. •Fear and trembling seized all the coastal peoples. The populations of Sidon and Tyre, of Sur, Ocina, Jamnia, Azotus, Ascalon, were panic-stricken.

3 They therefore sent envoys to him to sue for peace and say, •‘We are servants of the great King Nebuchadnezzar and we lie prone before you. Treat us as you think fit. •Our cattle farms, all our land, all our wheat fields, our flocks and herds, all the sheep-runs in our encampments are at your disposal. Do with them as you please. •Our towns and their inhabitants, too, are at your service; go and advance against them if such is your good pleasure.’ •These men came to Holofernes and delivered the message as above.

He then made his way down to the coast with his army and stationed garrisons in all the fortified towns, levying outstanding men there as auxiliaries. The people of these cities and of all the other towns in the neighbourhood welcomed him, wearing garlands and dancing to the sound of tambourines. Notwithstanding this, he demolished their shrines and cut down their sacred trees, carrying out his commission to destroy all local gods and to force the nations to worship Nebuchadnezzar alone and to compel men of every language and nationality to hail him as a god.<sup>a</sup>

Thus he reached the edge of Esdraelon, in the neighbourhood of Dothan, a village facing the great ridge of Judaea. •He pitched camp between Geba and Scythopolis and stayed there a full month to replenish his supplies.

Judaea on the alert

4 When the Israelites living in Judaea heard how Holofernes, general-in-chief of Nebuchadnezzar king of the Assyrians, had treated the various nations, first plundering their temples and then destroying them, •they were thoroughly alarmed at his approach and trembled for Jerusalem and the Temple of the Lord their God. •They had returned from captivity only a short time before, and the resettlement of the people in Judaea and the reconsecration of the sacred furnishings, of the altar, and of the Temple, which had been profaned, were of recent date.<sup>a</sup>

They therefore alerted the whole of Samaria, Kona, Beth-horon, Belmain, Jericho, Choba, Aesora and the Salem valley. •They occupied the summits of the highest mountains and fortified the villages on them; they laid in supplies for the coming war, as the fields had just been harvested. •Joakim the high priest, resident in Jerusalem at the time, wrote to the inhabitants of Bethulia and of Betomesthaim, two towns facing Esdraelon, towards the plain of Dothan. •He ordered them to occupy the mountain passes, the only means of access to Judaea, for there it would be easy for them to halt an attacking force, the narrowness of the approach not allowing men to advance more than two abreast. •The Israelites carried out the orders of Joakim the high priest and of the people’s Council of Elders in session at Jerusalem.

A nation at prayer

All the men of Israel cried most fervently to God and humbled themselves before him. •They, their wives, their children, their cattle, all their resident aliens, hired or slave, wrapped sackcloth round their loins. •All the Israelites in Jerusalem, including the women and children, lay prone in front of the Temple, and with ashes on their heads stretched out their hands before the Lord. •They draped the very altar in sackcloth and fervently joined together in begging the God of Israel not to let their little ones be massacred, their wives carried off, the towns of their heritage destroyed, the Temple profaned and desecrated for the heathen to gloat over it. •The Lord heard them and looked kindly on their distress.

The people fasted for many days throughout Judaea as well as in Jerusalem 14 before the sanctuary of the Lord Almighty. •Joakim the high priest and all who stood before the Lord, the Lord's priests and ministers, wore sackcloth round their loins as they offered the perpetual holocaust and the votive and 15 voluntary offerings of the people. •With ashes on their turbans they earnestly called on the Lord to look kindly on the House of Israel.

A council of war in Holofernes' camp

1 S Holofernes, general-in-chief of the Assyrian army, received the intelligence that the sons of Israel were preparing for war; that they had closed the mountain passes, fortified the high peaks and laid obstructions in the plains.
 2 Holofernes was furious. He summoned all the princes of Moab, all the generals
 3 of Ammon and all the satraps of the coastal regions. •'Men of Canaan,' he said 'tell me: what people is this that occupies the highlands? What towns does it inhabit? How large is its army? What are the sources of its power and strength?
 4 Who is the king who rules it and commands its army? •Why have these not condescended to wait on me, as all the western peoples have done?'
 5 Achior,<sup>a</sup> leader of all the Ammonites, replied, 'May my lord please listen to what your servant is going to say. I will give you the facts about these mountain folk whose home lies close to you. You will hear no lie from the 6 mouth of your servant. •These people are descended from the Chaldaeans.
 7 They once came to live in Mesopotamia, because they did not want to follow 8 the gods of their ancestors who lived in Chaldea. •They abandoned the way of their ancestors to worship the God of heaven, the God they had learnt to acknowledge. Banished from the presence of their own gods, they fled to 9 Mesopotamia where they lived for a long time. •When God told them to leave their home and set out for Canaan, they settled there and accumulated gold and 10 silver and great herds of cattle. •Next, famine having overwhelmed the land of 9 Canaan, they went down to Egypt where they stayed as long as food could be found there. There they became a great multitude, a race beyond counting.
 11 But the king of Egypt turned against them and exploited them by forcing them 12 to make bricks; he degraded them, reducing them to slavery. •They cried to their God, who struck the entire land of Egypt with incurable plagues, and the 13,14 Egyptians expelled them. •God dried up the Red Sea before them •and led 12 them forward by way of Sinai and Kadesh-barnea. Having driven off all the 15 inhabitants of the desert, •they settled in the land of the Amorites and, such was their strength, exterminated the inhabitants of Heshbon. Then, having 16 crossed the Jordan, they took possession of all the highlands, •driving out the 20 Canaanites before them and the Perizzites, Jebusites, Shechemites and all the 17 Girgashites, and lived there for many years. •All the while they did not sin before their God, prosperity was theirs, for they have a God who hates 18 wickedness. •But when they turned from the path he had marked out for them, 22 some were exterminated in a succession of battles, others taken captive to a foreign land. The Temple of their God was razed to the ground and their towns 19 were seized by their enemies. •Then having turned once again to their God, 23 they came back from the places to which they had been dispersed and scattered, regained possession of Jerusalem, where they have their Temple, and reoccupied 20 the highlands which had been left deserted. •So now, master and lord, if this 24 people has committed any fault, if they have sinned against their God, let us first make sure that they have offended in this way, and then let us advance and 21 attack them. •But if their nation is guiltless, my lord would do better to abstain,

3 a. Neither Assyrian nor Babylonian kings claimed divine honours.

4 a. Historically, the return from Exile and the repopulation of Jerusalem were in 539-400. Nebuchadnezzar had died in 562.

5 a. Possibly modelled on Ahikar, the virtuous pagan sage mentioned in Tb 1:21.

for fear that their Lord and God should protect them; we should then become the laughing-stock of the whole world.'

When Achior had ended this speech, all the people crowding round the tent began protesting. Holofernes' own senior officers, as well as all the coastal peoples and the Moabites, threatened to tear him limb from limb. •'Why should we be afraid of the Israelites? They are a weak and powerless people, quite unable to stand a stiff attack. •Forward! Advance! Your army, Holofernes our master, will swallow them in one mouthful!'

Achior handed over to the Israelites

6 When the uproar of those crowding round the council had subsided, 1 Holofernes, general-in-chief of the Assyrian army, reprimanded Achior in 2 front of the whole crowd of foreigners and Ammonites. •'Achior, who do you 3 think you are, you and the Ammonite mercenaries, playing the prophet like 4 this with us today, and trying to dissuade us from making war on the people 5 of Israel? You claim their God will protect them. And who is their God if not 6 Nebuchadnezzar? He himself will display his power and wipe them off the face 7 of the earth, and their God will certainly not save them. •But we, his servants, 8 shall destroy them as easily as a single individual. They can never resist the 9 strength of our cavalry. •We shall burn them all. Their mountains will be drunk 10 with their blood and their plains filled with their corpses. Far from being able 11 to resist us, every one of them will die; thus says King Nebuchadnezzar, lord 12 of the whole world. For he has spoken, and his words will not prove empty. 13
As for you, Achior, you Ammonite mercenary, who in a rash moment said 14
these words, you shall not see my face again until the day when I have taken 15
my revenge on this brood of fugitives from Egypt. •And then the swords of my 16 soldiers and the spears of my officers will pierce your sides. You will fall 17 among the wounded, the moment I turn on Israel. •My servants will now take 18
you into the highlands and leave you near one of the towns in the passes; •you 19 will not die, until you share their ruin. •No need to look so sad if you cherish 20 the secret hope that they will not be captured! I have spoken; none of my words 21 will prove idle.'

Holofernes having commanded his tent-orderlies to seize Achior, to take him 22 to Bethulia and to hand him over to the Israelites, •the orderlies took him, 23 escorted him out of the camp and across the plain, and then, making for the 24 highlands, reached the springs below Bethulia. •As soon as the men of the 25 town sighted them, they snatched up their weapons, left the town and made 26 for the mountain tops, while all the slingers pelted them with stones to prevent 27 them from coming up. •However, they managed to take cover at the foot of 28
the slope, where they bound Achior and left him lying at the bottom of the 29 mountain and returned to their master.

The Israelites then came down from their town, stopped by him, unbound 30 him and took him to Bethulia, where they brought him before the chief men 31 of the town, •who at that time were Uzziah son of Micah of the tribe of Simeon, 32 Chabris son of Gothoniel and Charmis son of Melchiel. •These summoned all 33
the elders of the town. The young men and the women also hurried to the 34 assembly. Achior was made to stand with all the people surrounding him and 35 Uzziah questioned him about what had happened. •He answered by telling them 36
what had been said at Holofernes' council, and what he himself had said in the 37 presence of the Assyrian leaders, and how Holofernes had bragged of what he 38 would do to the House of Israel. •At this the people fell to the ground and 39 worshipped God. •'Lord God of heaven,' they cried 'take notice of their 40 arrogance and have pity on the humiliation of our race. Look kindly today on 41 those who are consecrated to you.' •They then spokè reassuringly to Achior 42 and praised him warmly. •After the assembly Uzziah took him home and gave 43
a banquet for the elders; all that night they called on the God of Israel for help.

BETHULIA UNDER SIEGE

The campaign against Israel

1 7 The following day Holofernes issued orders to his whole army and to the whole host of auxiliaries who had joined him to break camp and march on Bethulia, to occupy the mountain passes and so open the campaign against the 2 Israelites. •The troops broke camp that same day. The actual fighting force numbered one hundred and twenty thousand infantry and twelve thousand cavalry, not to mention the baggage train with the vast number of men on foot 3 concerned with that. •They penetrated the valley in the neighbourhood of Bethulia, near the spring, and deployed on a wide front from Dothan to Balbaim 4 and, in depth, from Bethulia to Cyamon, which faces on Esdraelon. •When the Israelites saw this horde, they were all appalled and said to each other, 'Now they will lick the whole country clean. Not even the loftiest peaks, the gorges 5 or the hills will be able to stand the weight of them.' •Each man snatched up his arms; they lit beacons on their towers and spent the whole night on watch.

6 On the second day Holofernes deployed his entire cavalry in sight of the 7 Israelites in Bethulia. •He reconnoitred the slopes leading up to the town, located the water-points, seized them and posted pickets over them and returned to the 8 main body. •The chiefs of the sons of Esau, the leaders of the Moabites<sup>a</sup> and 9 the generals of the coastal district then came to him and said, •'If our master 10 will please listen to us, his forces will not sustain a single wound. •The Israelites do not rely so much on their spears as on the height of the mountains where they live. And admittedly it is not at all easy to scale these heights 11 of theirs.

12 'This being the case, master, do not engage them in a pitched battle, and then 9 you will not lose a single man. •Stay in camp, keep all your troops there too, 13 while your servants seize the spring which rises at the foot of the mountain, since that is what provides the population of Bethulia with their water supply.
 Thirst will then force them to surrender their town. Meanwhile, we and our men will climb the nearest mountain tops and form advance posts there to 14 prevent anyone from leaving the town. •Hunger will waste them with their wives and children, and before the sword can reach them they will already be 15 lying in the streets outside their houses. •And you will make them pay dearly for their defiance and their refusal to meet you peaceably.'

16 Their words pleased Holofernes as well as all his officers and he decided to 17 do as they suggested. •Accordingly a troop of Moabites moved forward with a further five thousand Assyrians. They penetrated the valley and seized the 18 Israelites' waterpoints and springs. •Meanwhile the Edomites and Ammonites went and took up positions in the highlands opposite Dothan, sending some of their men to the south-east opposite Egrebel, near Chous on the wadi Mochmur.
 The rest of the Assyrian army took up positions in the plain, covering every inch of the earth; their tents and equipment made an immense encampment, so vast were their numbers.

19 The Israelites called on the Lord their God, dispirited because the enemy
 20 had surrounded them and cut all line of retreat. •For thirty-four days the Assyrian 17 army, infantry, chariots, cavalymen, had them surrounded. Every water jar the 21 inhabitants of Bethulia had was empty, •their wells were drying up; on no day 22 could a man quench his thirst, since their water was rationed. •Their little children pined away, the women and young men grew weak with thirst; they collapsed in the streets and gateways of the town; they had no strength left.

23 Young men, women, children, the whole people thronged clamouring round 12

7 a. 'The sons of Esau' are the Edomites; they and the Moabites are traditional enemies of Israel.

Uzziah and the chief men of the town, shouting in the presence of the assembled elders, •‘May God be judge between you and us! For you have done us great harm, by not suing for peace with the Assyrians. •And now there is no one to help us. God has delivered us into their hands to be prostrated before them in thirst and utter helplessness. •Call them in at once; hand the whole town over to be sacked by Holofernes’ men and all his army. •After all, we should be much better off as their booty than we are now; no doubt we shall be enslaved, but at least we shall be alive and not see our little ones dying before our eyes or our wives and children perishing. •By heaven and earth and by our God, the Lord of our fathers who is punishing us for our sins and the sins of our ancestors, we implore you to take this course now, today.’ •Bitter lamentations rose from the whole assembly, and they all cried loudly to the Lord God.

Then Uzziah spoke to them, ‘Take heart, brothers! Let us hold out five days more. By then the Lord our God will take pity on us, for he will not desert us altogether. •At the end of this time, if there is no help forthcoming, I will do as you have said.’ •With that he dismissed the people to their various quarters.
 The men went to man the walls and towers of the town, sending the women and children home. The town was full of despondency.

JUDITH

A portrait of Judith

8 Judith<sup>a</sup> was informed at the time of what had happened. She was the daughter 8 of Merari son of Ox, son of Joseph, son of Oziel, son of Elkiah, son of Ananias, son of Gideon, son of Raphaim, son of Ahitub, son of Elijah, son of Hilkiah, son of Eliab, son of Nathanael, son of Salamiel, son of Sarasadai, son of Israel.
 Her husband Manasseh, of her own tribe and family, had died at the time of 2 barley harvest. •He was supervising the men as they bound up the sheaves in 3 the field when he caught sunstroke and had to take to his bed. He died in Bethulia, his home town, and was buried with his ancestors in the field that lies between Dothan and Balamon. •As a widow, Judith stayed inside her home for three 4 years and four months. •She had had an upper room built for herself on the 5 roof. She wore sackcloth round her waist and dressed in widow’s weeds. •She 6 fasted every day of her widowhood except for the sabbath eve, the sabbath itself, the eve of New Moon, the feast of New Moon and the festival days of the House of Israel. •Now, she was very beautiful, charming to see. Her husband Manasseh 7 had left her gold and silver, menservants and maidservants, cattle and lands;
 and she lived among all her possessions •without anyone finding a word to say 8 against her, so devoutly did she fear God.

Judith and the elders

Hearing how the water shortage had demoralised the people and how they 9 had complained bitterly to the headman of the town, and being also told what Uzziah had said to them and how he had given them his oath to surrender the town to the Assyrians in five days’ time, •Judith immediately sent her woman 10 of affairs who managed her property to summon Chabris and Charmis, two elders of the town. •When these came in she said:

‘Listen to me, leaders of the people of Bethulia. You were wrong to speak to the people as you did today and to bind yourself by oath, in defiance of God, to surrender the town to our enemies if the Lord did not come to your help within a set number of days. •Who are you, to put God to the test today, you, out 12 of all mankind, to set yourselves above him? •You of all people to put the Lord
 13 Almighty to the test! You do not understand anything, and never will. •If you 14 cannot sound the depths of the heart of man or unravel the arguments of his mind, how can you fathom the God who made all things, or sound his mind or unravel his purposes? No, brothers, do not provoke the anger of the Lord 15 our God. •Although it may not be his will to help us within the next five days, he has the power to protect us for as many days as he pleases, just as he has the 16 power to destroy us before our enemies. •But you have no right to demand
